

Chapter 77

Rex went silent for a long time before a question popped up in his mind.

“Mother, did any children survive then? The white wolf from the second prophecy, did she survive?” He questioned and his mother nodded her head in a positive response.

“I am guessing very much that she is the little girl the beta picked up when the dark wolf pack was taking over the white wolf pack. The beta’s mate gave birth that night but unfortunately she died and the baby died too. He kept it a secret and took the child from the white wolf pack as his child. Even the Alpha does not know about this but as a witch, there is little that I did not know”

“So... Hazel is the one in the prophecy” Rex mumbled.

Now he could understand why his father was doing anything and everything to get Hazel killed. He had definitely found out that Hazel was the child the prophecy was talking about and still not wanting his Axel’s rule to be tampered with ever, he wants to get rid of her.

He could feel his anger building up inside of him as he came to the realization that his father had locked his mother in here, had killed the other witches, had killed so many other people and all of that was never for him, it was all for Axel.

He could feel his anger and hatred for Axel increasing by the seconds.

“I want to be the Alpha. I will make everything father has done go useless. I will be the Alpha of this pack. I would rise in power and in strength!” He growled in his anger.

“As long as a true Alpha exists in this pack, it would be equal to death for you to try to rise up to the position of the Alpha. It will only lead to your death, Rex”

“As long as he lives, I will not be able to rise up to become the Alpha of this pack?”

“You are right” his mother sighed, a little bit tired from the talking that she had been doing.

“But there is still a way for you to gather immense power and energy to be able to become the Alpha”

“I will go whatever way it is. I will do anything as long as I can make father see that he made a mistake by thinking less of me.” His teeth gritted as he spoke while his eyes blazed.

“What way is it, mother? Tell me about it.”

“That white wolf, that chosen white wolf. All you need is her bd.”

“By her bd, you mean that i have to kill her?” He questioned.

“Yes, Rex. You have to kill her. I would make use of her bd for you and with her bd, you can be sure to be as strong as a true Alpha. And then you will be able to lead the pack like you want to”

Rex looked into the dark, blank space, with vengeance and bd lt in his eyes. He did not care about the life of Hazel anyways. She was someone that he would be willing to get rid of just to make Axel sad and now that it came with a juicy, rewarding benefit for him, he was more than willing to get rid of her as fast as possible.

“I’ll do it, mother. I will get rid of her if that is what I need to do.”

“You have to leak out her bd and bring it back to me once you get rid of her”

“I will do just as you have said, mother.”

“That’s right, mother. I will get you something to eat first and after that, I will leave but I promise that I will be back for you, mother. Once I get her bd, I will come back to you and then, once I become the true Alpha, I will get you out of here and give you the life that you truly deserve, mother.”

Alpha Donald walked into his room with a frustrated look on his face. He had been searching the entire pack but his search had been absolutely futile.

Axel too was completely unyielding to him about the whereabouts of Hazel. Every evening of fruitless search frustrated him and Axel frustrated him more.

He was doing all of this for him but he did not seem to be appreciating it at all!

Just at that moment, the door opened and Axel walked into the room. Without a second of hesitation, he lunged at his son, grabbing him by the collar as soon as he could.

Axel remained calm as his father glared and gritted his teeth at him with an angry growl.

“Where is she? I am sure that you do know where she is. Tell me now! Where is she?!” He demanded to know.

“I have told you a thousand times, father. I do not know where she is. Ever since she left home, I have not seen her or Sana” he replied, his voice as calm as ever as he confident that no one would find out about the old cabin. Hazel and Sana was safe as long as he was careful whenever he went to see them in the middle of the night.

“I would be damned to believe you!” His father let go of his collars, giving him a hard, rough shove.

Axel regained his balance and soothed his collars.

“I do not know where she is and I am still searching for her too” he added.

“And you caused this, father. You are the reason she ran away and left me behind. She left because you were threatening her life and till now you still are.”

“And I will until I kill her and save you from the disaster you are pushing yourself into.”

“If this is still the reason why you called for me, then I would take my leave now, father” Axel responded and turned to exit the room.

The Alpha shook his head as his son walked out of the room.

Axel bumped into Rex as he stepped out of the room.

The two brothers have each other a glare before walking on.

Rex looked at Axel and smirked.

“Since Hazel can’t be found anywhere, she would definitely be found at the place you think is a secret to you only” he chuckled.
