Chapter 421 - Trinity - Meeting With Glory- Day One Of The Light Magic Celebration (VOLUME 3)

Trinity

Thankfully, there was nothing else that seemed to go wrong for the rest of the banquet. There was a live band that consisted of Fae-styled instruments. There were discussions and the squeals of excitement about the upcoming festivals. During all of that, we ate the delicious food that had been prepared. And then, thankfully, the night ended without incident.

Athair mór walked with us back to the residence we were staying in for the time being. Roisin greeted us outside with a smile.

"Welcome back home, my lady. I hope you enjoyed the banquet." I had forgotten to ask Aunt Glory about her, I would have to do that later.

"Yes, Roisin, we all quite enjoyed it, thank you."

"It is my pleasure, my lady." She opened the door for us to enter the home, and Athair mór waved goodbye to us before we walked it. "My lady, I have already prepared the beds for the evening. The cribs have been warmed to help the children sleep, and water is warming in the kitchen to prepare a bottle if need be."

"Thank you, but I don't think that will be necessary, they're already asleep. We will prep one in the night if need be."

Since the babies were all asleep we just put them to bed and then went to sleep ourselves. There was no need for us to stay up and delay our rest. We had a busy schedule ahead of us in the coming weeks, plus we were somewhere other than home so we would be a little less than comfortable no matter what the surroundings were.

Over the next several days and weeks, I would be having meetings with Aunt Glory and taking part in the festivities. The order of the magic celebrations that were coming were done in the order that the corresponding Fae was born. Apparently, Gloriana, Sorrel, and Valerian were triplets, but Gloriana was born first, and Valerian was born last. So that made the order of the festivals go light, nature, and then water. That told me which type of magic I was going to see first.

First thing the next morning, we all sat down to eat a breakfast that Roisin made, and Waverly tested for poison just like he did at the banquet last night. So far, no one had tried to poison anything, and that was comforting. The food that Roisin made was delicious, and I had no complaints about the way that she was handling things so far.

The first event in the light celebration for the Yule time events was a display of shadow puppetry for the kids to see during the day, and some displays at night for the older Fae. There were also concerts, special food stalls, and random performances that would apparently break out when people were feeling inspired.

Mom, Lila, Nikki, Emmalee, and Lotus, Acacia's mom, were taking the kids to see the puppets while Reece and the other guys learned the different ways that the Fae used light to fight. During that time, I was going to have a conversation with just Aunt Glory.

After seeing that the kids were all settled in, I was escorted to Aunt Glory's private study once again. She was waiting for me in a chair next to the fireplace with a cup of cocoa in her hands.

"Would you like some, Trinity? It is an ancient Fae recipe."

"Really? I didn't think hot cocoa had been around that long." I tilted my head to the side as I sat across from her.

"It wasn't, but it's fun to tease the younger folk about it. Some of them are so gullible that they believe it every time. This is actually just my favorite brand that I send someone into town to get me a few times a year. It's my private stock."

"Sounds good. I think I will have some."

With a wave of her hand, the shining silver pitcher rose into the air, and a cup followed it. The steaming hot cocoa poured itself and flew over to me. I had to be careful when I took the cup; I didn't want to burn myself if it spilled accidentally.

"Before I forget, Aunt Glory, what do you think of Roisin? She is managing the house that we are staying in right now."

"Ah, so you've noticed that she is quite taken with the Shifter Queen? She is a good person, she was in awe of you without ever meeting you. I think she would do anything for you. And you don't have to worry, she is as honest as they come. She cannot hide her emotions, it is the only drawback to being her." Well that was good. I guess I didn't have to worry about her at all.

"So, Aunt Glory, what was it you wanted to talk to me about?" I had been curious since she invited me to come see her.

"This conversation is going to go back to one we started having when you were here last year. I heard from Reece that you still do not have your kingdom set up."

"Well, that is true, yes. It's just, I don't really know what to do about it. And will they even accept it? I mean, I am literally coming in and changing the way things have been done for the last couple millenia. This isn't the easiest thing for someone to accomplish. I have a feeling that a lot of people are going to push back with it. I don't want to alienate my people."

"You need to go about this carefully, Trinity. You have not one, but two kingdoms. That is two sets of people to rule. You need to think about whether or not you want to rule them as one entity or two."

I thought about her words, what it would mean for me to do this as one group and two groups. Either way it was going to be hard. And I just didn't know how to go about fixing it.

"Aunt Glory?" I looked at her with eyes that were filled with nerves and worry.

"Yes, Trinity?"

"Will you help me figure all of this out?"

"Trinity, dear, why do you think you're here."

The smile that Aunt Glory was giving me said that she was both proud that I asked for help, and that I should have known better before I even asked. The two feelings I got from it were completely contradictory with each other. Still, I was happy that she was going to help me out.

"We will work on it today and as many times as we have to before you leave. We can even get Val in to help us." She knew that Athair mór would really want to help if he could. "He is a good strategist. Just so you know."

"I think it would be good to have him help us then. I want to make sure that I don't mess this up at all."

After that, Aunt Glory summoned Athair mór so that he could help. She made sure to tell him that I was there so he rushed to get to the study. I giggled a little at his enthusiasm. I was really glad that he was so happy right now, but I worried what he would be like when we went home.

"I am here gariníon [1]. I am here to help you with whatever you need." Athair mór was out of breath when he came through the door; it looked as if he had run here when he got Aunt Glory's summons.

"Thank you. I was hoping that you could help me plan out how to structure my kingdoms. I have yet to do anything with them, and I know that I really need to do something about that before I lose out on my chance to make a difference."

"Ah, my dear sweet gariníon is such a sweet person. You think about your people and try to make sure that nothing bad can happen to them. You are such a good Queen already."

OK, now I know he was looking at me with rose colored glasses or something. I don't think there was anything that I could do to make him see me in a negative light. That was funny, but could get to where it was annoying later.

"OK, Trinity, what we need to do is first figure out an approximation of how many people are in your two kingdoms, and then which method would be best for you to implement. Obviously, you do not want to completely copy the Fae way of running a kingdom because we have been doing this for millenia. You will be starting a whole new kingdom that is a Matriarchy. There is a lot that needs to go into planning this out, but we will manage it."

Athair mór really did know what he was talking about. We had to start with estimating the number of shifters in the world, as well as the number of witches, warlocks, gypsies, witch doctors, djinn, genies, and any other type of magic user that I now ruled over. The number was not small, and I was certain that I was low balling that number way too much.

After that we talked about the different ways to get my people involved. I knew that Fae had a noble system, and I wanted to do something like that as well. The problem was that I would end up with a hell of a lot of nobles. The current plan was to make all Alphas nobles. That would be Alphas of every species. I needed to include magical nobles as well though, so in that respect I would make those that ran their own covens nobles as well as those that were high ranking within the Aerie Convento.

The nobility would be ranked on two factors. The amount of help or aid they provide and the size of their packs. The same would go for the magic users. There were fewer of them so the ranking system would be different.

The goal was to unite the two worlds that I ruled into one. It would be best if we could get them to form a counsel of trusted advisors that would represent the ideas of their specific race. They would not have authority over anyone except their own pack or coven, but they will be asked for input and will need to visit the estate on a quarterly basis.

For the little bit of time that we had spent on this so far, we had figured out a lot of the base structure. I would run it by Reece at a later date and see if there was anything that he wanted me to change about it, but for the time being it was coming together nicely. Once we got back home, we would slowly start contacting the new nobles and giving them a run down of the new rules system.

The main thing that they needed to understand, according to Athair mór and Aunt Glory, was that I was the highest authority for them aside from the Gods and Goddesses. That meant that defying me could prove dangerous. However, it was not like I was just going to rule them by fear; I needed to get them all to trust me as well.

This was going to be a long process. I just knew it. And right as I was about to lament the struggles that I was in for Athair mór cheerfully declared something that I didn't expect.

"I've decided, I am coming back with you. I will help you set this up so you will not be alone. Plus, I will see where my family lives." He was so sure of that idea that I literally couldn't say anything to oppose his offer.

Well, I guess my great great great grandfather was going back to Colorado Springs with me. That could be fun. But, why did I get the feeling that something was bound to go wrong? Has he even been to the modern world or has he been locked away here in the Fae Compound for most of the last few centuries?

The planning sessions continued every day during the light festivals. I took part in the fun as much as I could, but I was also trying to fit in official duties as well. I was just glad that all of my family was here so that I didn't miss them too much while I was gone.

Tonight was the last night of the Light Magic Celebration, which meant that tomorrow was what was known as Gloriana Day for which there would be a banquet and then the day after that there would be a formal ball. There were gifts that were to be given to Gloriana on her day as well as a drama that was to be performed by various light magic Fae about the life of Queen Gloriana.

I was truly looking forward to it, but before that, I was looking forward to the light show that was Aunt Glory's contribution to the festivities. Aunt Glory was capable of using all types of magic, but she excelled in light magic, she was much like me in that respect. The both of us had an affinity for all elements of magic like that.

"Hey, you're actually here." Reece joked with me as I went to leave with them to see the light show that I was looking forward to.

"What do you mean?" I didn't get what he was saying.

"Oh, you know, Queen Trinity has just been busily planning her new realm; it's like you haven't been here with us at all." Carter answered me for him.

"I'm so sorry. I didn't mean to leave you all alone for so long. I've missed everything too. I'm so sorry."

"He's just yanking your chain, Trinity. No one is upset that you have been busy. You have responsibilities to see to. We have all been able to literally stop work for this time, but you are not someone who can do that easily. Actually, being here is more work for you than being home." Noah was the voice of reason that I needed right now.

"I'm sorry, Little Bunny. I didn't mean for my joke to cause an issue. I have missed you, that is all."

"Mama."

"Mama."

Right as Reece said that he missed me my babies called out to me showing me that they have missed me as well.

"Reagan, Rika, come here my babies. Mommy loves you." I scooped them into my arms and held them close to me. "I am sorry that I have been so busy. I am going to spend the next few days with you guys. I promise."

After my tearful apology we all left to go outside to the amphitheater for the light show. It was dark early, thankfully. That was a benefit for the Yule celebration being right around and during the winter solstice.

Being the new 'unofficial' guests of honor for the Yule celebration we had been given a special viewing deck that was outfitted with comfortable seating for all of us. Reece and I were sitting on a very comfortable loveseat with Reagan and Rika on our laps when the show started.

The sky started to light up with explosions almost like fireworks but it wasn't sparks that appeared. The lights we saw were rainbows, the aurora borealis, and differently shaped animals and plants that flew through the sky.

Mama, Mama, Mama." Rika was pulling on my arm pointing at the lights.

"Daddy, Daddy, Daddy.' Reagan was doing the same to Reece."

"Dada, Dada."

"Daddy, Mommy, look." CJ and then Elias followed suit and yelled at the lights. They were followed by the others as well.

"Dada, Papa, Dada, Papa."

"Papa, Dada."

"Daddy, Papa."

"Papa, Papa, Daddy, Daddy." All four of Shawn and Dietrich's babies liked the lights as well, and they were calling out for their dads.

Their excitement soon turned to laughter as the images danced around and several of them came really close to the deck we were sitting on.

"Haha, Mama see." Rika pointed at a butterfly light that fluttered past her. "Mama buttfwy."

"That's right Rika, it's a pretty butterfly. Watch the butterfly go." Her giggles were so sweet and worth every second of this light show. All four of the little ones were having a really good time. I know that it was melting all of our hearts.

After a little while there were words that began to form in the lights. It was light Aunt Glory was sending a message to someone.

'WELCOME'

The words were coming one at a time, but they were moving quick enough that you didn't feel like it was taking too long to read the whole message.

'TO' 'THE' 'FAMILY'

Was this a message for us? It certainly seemed like it, and the next words confirmed it.

'SAMUEL' 'LILA' WESLEY' 'EVE' 'NOAH' 'NIKKI' 'ELIAS' 'CARTER' EMMALEE' 'CJ' 'REECE' 'TRINITY' REAGAN' RIKA'

Well, there were all of our names, but was that all? Nope, here come more words.

'WE' 'ARE' 'HAPPY' 'YOU' 'ARE' 'HERE' 'WITH' 'US' 'LOVE' 'GLORIANA' 'AND' 'VALERIAN'

After the words there was a group picture of all of us. All fourteen of us were in the shining image in the sky.

"You know, she loves showing off her light skills." Dietrich leaned forward and whispered in my ear.

"What?" I jumped and turned toward him.

"When I was here before, she did light shows all the time. She is really good at it though, isn't she?"

"Yeah, she is." I smiled at the nostalgic look in his eyes.

"As I told Shawn, I do not regret my time with her, but I do not wish to repeat it. The Fae nobility have a lot of crazy ideals."

Those words of his left me with an awkward feeling. I didn't know what it was that he was calling crazy, but I was betting that at some point in my future I would find out. I just hoped it wouldn't be detrimental to me or my family. I wouldn't want to cause strife between me and the Fae, especially since I was one now.

It had felt like I had barely spent any time with my wife since we had gotten here. She had been very busy with her great great great great aunt and great great great grandfather, that was a lot of greatness in one family. See what I did there, I made a joke about her family. Yeah, Noah didn't think it was funny either.

Still, we had been doing our best to be part of the festivities, and we had met quite a few very nice people in the process. We had further gotten to know Breon through Juliet. We had learned that Roisin wasn't much appreciated by most of the Fae, but the Queen loved her.

We had met and had a good time with Acacia's family and Star's family, some of them even became friends as well. We had met some of the royal guards and learned some new ways of fighting from them. It had been a very fruitful trip for us, except for Trinity who was working constantly.

Tonight though, there was the ball. I was going on a date with my wife. Mom and Samuel were going to skip the ball and hang out with Acacia's and Star's families. They were all going to take care of the babies, all eight of them. I wasn't worried that they could manage it, there were enough of them plus Lotus and Ash knew how to take care of multiples. No, I was just glad that some of us were finally going to get to spend some time with their mate. I mean, I don't want to sound clingy or anything, but I missed her.

I dressed away from her so that I didn't ruin the surprise of what she was wearing. I wore the new dark green suit that she had gotten me for Christmas and paired it with mostly black accents. The resulting look was actually quite stylish. My hair was in place, the suit was perfect and I was good to go when I smelled my mate coming down that stairs.

When I turned, I was entranced by what I saw. Trinity was walking toward me with a very sexy formal dress. It was a dark forest green that almost perfectly matched my suit, but it was made of what looked like silk chiffon and the sheerness of the fabric lightened it up a bit. The top of the dress, or bodice, was pleated and went over only her left shoulder. As the fabric got to the shoulder though it started to thin out and twist, almost like it was braided. I couldn't see the back of the dress yet, but I just knew from what I saw that it was going to be interesting.

The skirt of the dress was floor length, going all the way down despite the black heels that my sexy little mate was wearing. The A-line skirt also had a slit up each side so I could see flashes of those gorgeous legs every time that Trinity took a step.

When she got right in front of me she spun in a slow circle, and I finally saw the back of the dress. Those twisted and braided looking pieces went over the shoulder and formed the back of the dress. They connected at different places where they partially wrapped back around to the bodice. The dress showed so much of her marks that were usually hidden from people, the humans at least because they would not understand them.

"So what do you think?" She smiled at me when she looked up at me.

"I think that if we stay here much longer we will just be going to the bedroom." I smirked at her.

"Perv." She rolled her eyes at me, and we both laughed. She knew what I was and loved it, I didn't care if she called me out on it.

"You look lovely. Eve cooed when she saw the dress.

"I love it." Emmalee squealed.

"Yup, Trinity is the new fashion queen."

"Oh hush." She blushed at their words, and I could see the red stain all the way down to the top of her right breast that was just barely hidden by the dress. It really was a sexy gown, and I couldn't wait to get it off of her.

We all left and went to the ball after that. The guards were all going as well, though Shawn and Dietrich were pretending to be guests at the ball and would be able to see more than just the bodyguards that stood out too much.

Valerian and Gloriana were at the ball as well, as we knew they would be. Aside from them though, there were a lot less people than I expected there to be. This event was much smaller than the others that we had been to so far.

There were maybe a hundred people here and that was pushing it. I had a feeling that a lot of people used the ball as an excuse to schmooze with the Queen and so it was only attended by the high ranked Fae. I wonder what rank Trinity and her family would have. Trinity would probably rank high, but I don't know about the others.

I didn't let that bother me at all. I was here to dance with my wife, and that was just what I was going to do.

I led her out onto the dance floor, and we both put our formal dance lessons to good use. I spun her around the floor, a move that made her long, slit skirt to twirl out around her. I could tell that several men in the room had their eyes on her. That pissed me off, but it also made me feel good. She was mine, and they couldn't touch her.

Or so I thought.

As soon as the song ended, a man tapped my mate's shoulder and began to speak.

"Queen Trinity, might I have the next dance." I saw a line of men behind him that were going to ask if he was turned down. I was about to shut him up with a firm now when my Little Bunny pulled me toward her.

"I do not want to start a feud right now. I will dance with a few and you can dance with a few of those women eyeballing you. After that we will tell them we are done dancing with the other guests and choose to be with each other."

I did not just hear what I thought I did. She did not just tell me that I should dance with other women so that she could dance with other men. Did she not know that something like that would make me murderously angry? I was more likely to kill every man here than to let them touch her. What the hell was she thinking?

"It will be fine Reece. I will dance with four or five of them while you do the same with the women. It's diplomatic, and what we should be doing." She whispered into my ear again.

"Except we're supposed to be on vacation and not working." I growled back to her in a whisper.

"I don't think that a royal could ever truly be on vacation. I am sorry Reece, please bear with it for just a little bit."

She leaned up and kissed my cheek quickly before turning back to the man who had asked her to dance.

"I would love to, thank you."

As I watched, another man just danced away with my mate. He spun and twirled away with her like he was trying to reenact some stupid scene from a movie; only to him that was how they really danced here. This was bullshit.

"Hello there, King Reece. Might I have this dance since you are free." A woman asked me, and I said yes without even looking at her. I glanced at her from time to time, that was about it. Other than what was necessary to make sure I followed the steps I didn't even look at the woman I was dancing with. I saw that she had bubblegum pink hair and her dress was the color of cotton candy, that was it. I didn't notice anything else aside from that.

When that dance was over, I watched as that asshole who danced with my wife took her hand and kissed the back of it like he was a suitor vying for her hand. I was going to kill him. But she was immediately being courted by another dipshit, and I had to watch to make sure he didn't try anything with her.

The next woman that danced with me had hair so bright orange that I thought it was made from a construction worker's vest or something. That was all that I saw of her. I didn't notice the color of her dress; hell I wouldn't have even noticed if she was fucking naked! I was too pissed off about the men trying to steal my mate from me.

This happened again, and again, and again until she had danced five songs with five different desperate assholes. Finally, it was the time when I could tell the bimbo squad that was following me around that I was done with them.

"I apologize ladies, but I am going to have a seat with my wife." There were no groans that came from them; there was just a low sigh.

"Yeah, we know. We were just happy that we could get a few dances in. You are a devoted husband, we know that. However, you are a catch so we just wanted to be able to brag that we danced with you." That had been the bubblegum girl. I think I danced with her twice. "Have fun with your mate." She called out and giggled as she and the others hurried away.

I caught Trinity around the waist and pulled her against me. I was desperate to show them all that she was mine, and no one else was going to touch her again. I might even need to remind her of that later too.

"Reece." She squealed in surprise and delight. "What are you doing?"

"I'm showing them that you're mine."

"They already know that." She laughed.

"Really? Does that fuck face that kissed your hand know that? Just let me keep holding you, because if I let you go, I will end up going to kill him. And like you said, we don't want a feud. You can, however, wash his residue off of your hand. Let me find a strong drink at the bar, and I will disinfect it for you."

I started to drag her with me to the bar, and I heard her laughing as I did so.

"Reece, stop this."

"Excuse me Sir, I need a glass of your strongest alcohol please."

"Right away."

"Reece?" She was still laughing at me as the man behind the bar handed me the drink.

"Thank you, can I get a glass of just ice and a napkin as well."

"Certainly."

Once I had everything I spilled just a little of the liquor over the back of her hand and let it drip away. After that I took the ice and rubbed it over the area that I had cleaned; it was heated from my touch and her body heat so it melted and started to wash away the disinfecting liquid right away. After I dried it with the napkin, I pulled her hand to my lips and kissed the place where the asshat's germs had nearly infected her.

"There, all better. I can't have someone else's kiss on you now, can I?"

"You can be an idiot at times." She shook her head and laughed, but she leaned forward at the same time and cupped my cheek as she placed a gentle kiss on my lips. "I love you."

"Careful there, Little Bunny, I might just lose control if you keep flirting with me." After I winked and smirked suggestively, she slapped me on the shoulder with a laugh. I guess she didn't find it as funny as I did.

Following that incident, we talked with Glory and Valerian for a bit, danced, talked among our friends and family, who all thought the scene with me cleaning her hand, and the way that I acted like a lost dog when she danced with other men, were just the funniest things ever.

I was in a hurry to end the night though. I wasn't lying to myself or her when I said that I was going to lose control. I think we will just leave Reagan and Rika with the others for tonight. It was time for Mommy and Daddy to have another night of peace.

When Trinity wanted to head straight to get the babies from where they were, I had to pull her away and remind her that they were likely sleeping. They would be fine until morning, and we can get them then.

I, for one, had something else that I wanted to do tonight. And so far, I was pretty sure that Trinity hadn't figured it out yet. I wonder how easy it is to get her out of that dress? If it's too difficult I could rip it and I didn't want that to happen, I really liked the way that it looked on her and would like to see her wear it again.

When we made it to the room I watched as Trinity started to take out her earrings and head toward our private bathroom. However, as soon as her earrings were out and set aside, I pulled her toward me.

"Hah? Ree-?" I didn't give her a chance to even finish my name. I swallowed the rest of it down with her gasp of shock when I pressed my lips against hers.

"Goddess, I have wanted you all night." I growled the words against her lips when I broke the kiss.

"Reece? What are you doing?" Her voice was breathy and soft, but I could hear the desire in it as well. That thrum of arousal that flowed through her.

"Can't you tell, Little Bunny? I want you. I have been holding myself back for too long, and tonight has pushed me too far. I need you." I kissed her neck softly with feather light touches of my lips. "Not to mention, I need to prove to you that no other man should ever touch you the way you let those men handle you." This time I bit down firmly, yet gently, on her mate mark.

"Ah! Ahh!" She cried out, and her knees almost buckled under her. That happened the most when she was truly aroused and full of need.

"I can see that you want me too, Trinity, so don't fight me on this." I lifted her off the floor and held her to me as I carried her over and sat her on top of the table. I needed to have her closer to me, but I also needed to get us out of our clothes.

"Reece, should we be doing this?" She was panting with need and desire already.

"I don't see a reason not to. We're alone on this floor, and it's not like we'll get into trouble." I chuckled with my mouth pressed to her and the resulting rumble made her shiver and moan.

"Goddess Reece, don't do that." She was clinging to my jacket as she spoke, clearly unable to control herself either.

"Really? I think you want me to do it even more." I shifted my mouth so that it was a little lower and did it again, vibrating my mouth against her neck and chest.

"Ah!" She cried out with desire.

"Do you want me to stop now?" I lifted my mouth from her and purred the words into her ear.

"N..no." She was shaking her head from side to side as she tried to talk. "Don't stop."

"Good, 'cause I didn't plan to."

I fumbled over her chest and back, looking for a way to get her out of the dress. I literally had to pull myself away from her and look for the clasp that held the dress to her shoulder. When I finally found it and unbuttoned the dress it literally just fell down her chest to pool at her waist. The sight made me growl with satisfaction. She wasn't wearing a bra and the uninterrupted view was breathtaking.

I wanted to place my mouth against her body. I wanted to lick everything that I could and taste the desire as it built up inside of her. So that was exactly what I was going to do, after I stripped myself first.

It was probably a land speed record or something, that was how fast I moved to get out of my suit and everything else that I was wearing. And when I wrapped my arms around my wife and lifted her off the table the dress that was no longer being held up slid from her body and fell to the floor. It was fine right there for now. I wasn't going to stop and pick it up, at least I didn't rip it.

I threw her on the bed, literally. She landed in the middle, and I was already climbing up after her before she stopped bouncing. I quite enjoyed the way her breasts bounced up and down as she moved; my eyes were following the motion with rapt attention.

I did stop to take the time to pull off her black panties and the strappy heels that she was wearing. I figured she would complain if I didn't. After that though, I just set my mouth against her body and started to taste what I could.

I started with her legs. I wanted to make my way up her body today. I never usually did that, so why not?

I teased and licked her legs, tickling and arousing her at the same time. When I finally made it to her core I wanted to skip past it and finish tasting her body first, but I couldn't drag myself away. That sweet, dessert-like scent of hers was driving me insane. I needed to devour that sweet, yummy goodness right now.

She probably expected me to take longer as well, so when I lapped my tongue up her core, slowly, she screamed in surprise and delight. That was enough to tell me to keep going. I was happy that she wanted this as much as I did.

I licked again. A long slow line up her core. After that I hooked her knees and lifted them so that I could spread her open for me. Once her dusky folds were revealed, I proceeded to lap up every single drop of her arousal and devour her center until she was screaming for me.

"Ah! R..R..Reece!" My body tightened when she screamed my name like that, with my dick hardening and anticipating her warm embrace.

I didn't want to aid this orgasm with anything; I wanted to make her come screaming my name as she flooded my mouth with her arousal, and I wanted to do it with just my tongue. I've done it before, but not often. I usually assisted the end of the climax with my fingers.

She must have been more aroused than I thought. I had thought that this would take longer than usual, but she was panting and moaning at the precipice much sooner than I expected. She needed me as much as I needed her.

Several more hard, long strokes of my tongue later, and she did just what I wanted. She screamed and her entire body tensed. I thrust my tongue inside of her and swallowed down the cream that was flowing from her.

"Reece!" She screamed my name again as the waves of her orgasm continued into a second, immediate orgasm.

"R..R..R..Reece." She was panting and her eyes were clouded over. "D..d..d..don't s..s..s..stop. P..p..p..please don't stop, I..I..I need you, I want you."

"Did you really think that I was going to stop right now, Trinity? Goddess, I couldn't stop now even if I wanted to. I need you too badly for that." I felt the control slipping away from me. My wolf wanted out, he wanted to take her. He wanted to mate with her for the first time in forever.

"I wanted you right now, Reece." The husky, needy note in her voice lessened my control and hardened me even more.

"I want you too, baby, I really do. But so does my wolf. He wants out. He wants to take you."

"Let him. I don't mind. We can both shift." She grinned, a little bit of the light coming back to her eyes as the fog faded.

"There will be no more foreplay if we shift." I had to make sure she knew that.

"I thought the foreplay was over now anyway." She grinned and chuckled at me.

"Don't say I didn't warn you." I laughed as well.

My beast was not going to be gentle, and he was not going to take his time. I knew that. I could hear him screaming inside my head for me to release him. He was an uncontrollable savage beast right now.

I waited for my sexy little mate to shift first. Her beautiful white, black, and blue wolf grinned at me as she turned around and wagged her tail in my face. She was taunting me. She knew that my wolf wanted her badly; she was asking for him to be more brutal than he could have ever been.

"Don't worry about holding back, Reece. Just let go." She had just given my wolf reason to not listen to me. Dammit, he was going to hurt her if he wasn't careful. "Come on." She wagged enticingly again. My control snapped, and I no longer controlled my body.

I was in my wolf form and prowling toward her before I knew it. I could tell that all my thoughts were now that of an animal instead of a man. They were more simple and single minded.

When Trinity saw that the wolf was ready for her she lowered the front of her body until she was sticking her tail right up my nose. I didn't expect what my wolf did when he got to her. Instead of mounting her immediately, his tongue lapped slowly over her swollen clit. He was actually repeating what I had done.

"NGHOOO!" Trinity moaned, and it turned into a howl with the pleasure she was feeling.

My wolf lapped at her again and again. He was devouring her the way that he had seen me do it before, and I could tell that it was working for her. She was panting and whining, now in a more animalistic manner than before, but still filled with arousal.

After a few moments, her whole body shook as she came panting once again. My beast had just made her come for a third time before we had even entered her.

My wolf wasn't about to wait to enter her though. I could hear his thoughts. He, thankfully, wasn't making them known to her, but I was privy to them.

'Need her. Must fuck her. Need. Need. Need. My mate. My mate. My mate.'

This stream of thoughts were pouring through the wolf's mind as he moved to mount the female wolf before him. I couldn't control his actions, I couldn't make him be gentle, and I knew he wasn't going to be.

Sure enough the moment he was in position, he slid into her fast and hard causing her to howl.

"Awooooo!" Before the sound of her howl had even stopped, he placed his upper body in position and bit down on the back of her neck to keep her in place. Now that he was holding her in place he started to pull out of her and ram back into her body.

Trinity's wolf was whining and crying out, but it was with pleasure. Nothing sounded like it was pain at least. My beast was still growling obscene thoughts in his head as he drove into her over and over again.

I felt my wolf's claws digging into the bed. I felt his teeth break through and taste the blood of my mate as it washed over the wolf's tongue. He had hurt her, but still, she didn't try to stop him. They were both too far gone. It had been a long time since we had had a mating like this. I think they both needed it as much as our human selves did.

It wasn't long until both of the wolves were on the brink of climax. And when it hit, the waves of pleasure pulled my wolf into the undertow, taking him and dragging him to the back of my mind once again.

I fell to the bed panting as I pulled from Trinity's body and shifted back to human form. She shifted at the same time, and we were laying there, me on top of her, skin pressed to skin. The mark on her neck was already healing from where my wolf had bitten her.

"Reece?" She called out to me as I licked the droplet of blood from her neck.

"I am sorry he was so rough with you, baby." I kissed the mark where it was still just a little red.

"Reece, I don't want it to be done yet. Please. I need more of you." My body was still hard before she spoke, and after hearing those words, it had hardened even more. I didn't want the night to be over, but I would have thought that she had had enough.

"Are you sure?" I asked her just to be sure.

"Yes Reece, please. I need more of you. I want you."

Who was I to deny my wife what she was begging me for? If she wanted more, then I would give it to her. That's what a good husband should do, right?

I sat up on my knees then, propping myself above her as I flipped her over. Once she was looking at me, I pressed my lips to hers and kissed her with everything I had. I tangled my tongue with hers and kissed until I heard her moan.

I had wanted the distraction for her as I fitted myself against her entrance. Without breaking the kiss, I slid inside of her. She was wet, but swollen from the multiple orgasms, so she was tight.

"Ngh!" She moaned as she pulled her mouth from mine and pressed her head into the pillow beneath her.

I slid to the hilt slowly, not wanting to hurt her. The tight sheath of her body on my dick was enough to make me want to scream with pleasure and delight. I needed this. I needed her, and not as my wolf. I needed her as me.

I pulled back slowly, revelling in the feel of her body moving around me. As soon as just my tip was left inside her, I slammed forward. I wasn't able to be any gentler than my wolf had been, apparently.

I pulled out and drove into her repeatedly. I slammed our bodies together over and over again. I drove into her so hard that I knew it must have been hurting her, but she seemed to me in nothing but pleasure with her head back and neck exposed. Goddess, I needed to taste her right there right now.

I dove forward and lapped at the place where her pulse thudded in her throat. It was hot and filled with her scent.

Just when I was about to lock my teeth around the thudding, I felt her claws rake down my back. Just her fingers must have shifted and scratched at me. The pain turned into pleasure as I continued driving into her.

We were both being so primal with each other. It was like one of the first times that we had ever had sex with each other, bestial and full of animalistic tendencies.

Everytime I thrust forward to slam my body into hers, Trinity would shift her hips to meet me halfway, intensifying the pleasure that we were both feeling. I could hear the slap, slap, slap of our bodies making a primal song with each other.

Before long I was on the verge of my climax, but not until I felt hers take her. When she squeezed me, when her waves of orgasm took her, it pulled me down with it.

"Ngh! Reece!" She called my name as she tumbled into the oblivion.

"Trinity!" I growled hers in response.

This time when we collapsed, we were spent. I could only move enough to slide out of her body. Trinity on the other hand didn't seem capable of moving at all. She was lying limply in my arms and panting as she drifted off to sleep.

"I love you, Reece." She sighed as she just laid there with me.

"I love you too, Little Bunny."

I did my best to slide the blanket over the both of us before I drifted off to sleep. It was hard. I could barely get my arms to respond to the commands of my brain. I did it though, finally. After several minutes, I was able to pull the blanket out from under us and pull it over us.

I was ready to just close my eyes and drift off to sleep, but fate didn't have that in the cards for me, not yet anyway.

"Reece, do you see how pretty it is?" Trinity must have been dreaming as she whispered to me. I was about to laugh, but she started to talk again. "I'm so tired, but I am being called for a meeting. I wish you could come with me. It's so pretty, and I could use you there at my side."

"Trinity?" I was instantly worried about her. There had been times when she had appeared comatose after having one of her meetings that she was going to. I wish I could go with her too. "Trinity, stay with me baby." I pleaded with her.

"I can't, I am being pulled away. Come with me Reece. Please come with me. I want you to see how pretty it is. I want you to see what I see. Tell me if it is as gorgeous in your eyes as it is in mine."

In a way, she wasn't making sense. I couldn't go with her, could I? She was on her way to visit with the Gods and Goddesses. What were they going to say to her? What did they want from her right now? Why would they pull her to them after what we had just done?

I had a moment to wonder if the sex we just had might have been the trigger for this meeting. If that was the case, then I don't think this was a meeting with one of the Gods or Goddesses that she has been with before.

"Come back to me baby. Don't go. Stay with me." I was begging her, nearly frantic now.

"I told you I can't. Come with me Reece? Please come see it." Her voice kept getting further and further away.

"How, baby? How do I go with you?"

"Kiss me. Just a soft little kiss. Please kiss me."

There wasn't much that I could do at the moment, but I could kiss her. I could give her that request, at least.

My lips covered hers, and I felt the heat inside her stir for a second. Then, it was like I felt myself being lifted from the bed and hurled through the sky. It felt like I was falling, but I was moving up. What in the actual fucking hell was this?

I had been falling. I knew that I had been falling. So why then was I opening my eyes like I was just waking up from a very unrestful sleep? And where the hell was I?

I had somehow ended up on a rocky cliff that overlooked the sea. But this rocky cliff was right next to a field of wildflowers, and the sun was shining down beautifully on the entire scene. It was making me think of the Fae, that was for sure. The whole nature, water, and light magic stuff.

As I looked around, I saw that Trinity had landed in the flowers as if she had been embraced by them as they cushioned her fall. Considering that I could feel the rocky surface poking into me as I got up, I knew that nothing had cushioned my fall.

Maybe the scenery didn't help me because it didn't expect me. Or maybe it was mad at me for hijacking the ride it was giving my wife. Oh well, I didn't care if it liked it or not. It shouldn't go around and kidnap my wife like that."

"Reece?" My Little Bunny stood up then, and I saw that she was indeed naked. So was I. Well, that made sense, we were both rather naked when we left our bodies. I wished we had something to get covered up with though. I didn't want anyone or anything to see my wife's body as it was right now.

As soon as the thought went through my head there were two long cloaks that appeared before us. I could tell which was which based on the size of them when they magically appeared in front of us. We put the robes on, wanting to cover ourselves so that if someone were to come into view we wouldn't be exposed. My robe was obviously a lot bigger than Trinity's, but other than that they were identical, pure white robes.

"Trinity, baby, where are we?" I asked her once we were both covered.

"I don't know. I have never seen this place before. Usually, I see the meeting stone back home. It has strong ties to Nehalennia."

"Huh, I never knew that. So where do you think we are now?" We both turned around, trying to find out where we were.

As I looked closer, I saw that there were green rolling hills in the distance. The sea looked unforgiving, but still beautiful in a way. And the sunshine was comforting as it gently caressed my skin.

"I can feel magic here." I heard my Little Bunny whisper as she moved in her small circle. "Do you think this is a place inside the Fae compound?"

"Not in the compound, no."

That last part was spoken by a mysterious voice that caused both me and Trinity to spin toward the meadow filled with flowers. There were three people standing there, two of them were shrouded in cloaks while the other, a beautiful woman, looked at us with a kind expression.

The woman looked nothing like how I would expect a Goddess to look, but I knew right away that's what she was. She had an unearthly air about her, and her beauty had more to do with the elements than anything else. Her hair was long, flowing, and green; it looked like it was made of vines, leaves, and flowers all at the same time. Her dress covered her from her shoulders down in a long flowing design with a train that trailed the ground behind her. Her arms were bare as was a small dip of flesh just below her neck. Her skin looked like it was made of sunshine, she was radiant and beautiful. And her eyes were three rings of color: blue, green, then gold.

"Hello children, I am delighted to meet you." Her voice was breezy and sounded like the music in the wind.

"H..h..hello." I stuttered nervously, not sure what to do in this situation.

"You're Danu, aren't you? The Fae Mother Goddess." Little Bunny was smiling as she looked at the woman.

"I am indeed, child. I am surprised you figured it out so quickly. You have been paying attention to your lore." Danu smiled and nodded at her. "I am sorry to pull you here so suddenly, and to leave you in such a state when you arrived. The magic in the room with you was my opening, and I admit that I did not want to pass up the opportunity."

So there had been magic in the room with us when we mated. I guess that explains why our wolves went haywire. Most of these things that have to do with the Fae compound were still confusing to me.

"I have been to see other Gods and Goddesses, this is not that new to me." My mate smiled at the Goddess who stood before her.

"It's new to me." I laughed uncomfortably.

"I do apologize about that. Initially I was not summoning you, but I am glad that you are here as well Rí [1] Reece. You and Ríon [2] Trinity are connected, the both of you move through your path in life together. It is best to bring you here as well so you can be privy to secrets.

"What kind of secrets?" I had to wonder, why would the Mother Goddess of the Fae bring us here? What was going on that constituted this sort of drastic measure?

"I fear that my children may be in danger at some point in the very near future. I do not wish for them to be harmed, and I ask that you help them please. From a mother to a mother, please do not let my children come to any harm."

"What could I do that you wouldn't be able to?" I could hear the disbelief and shock in my Little Bunny's voice as she asked the Goddess that question. "Wouldn't you, a Goddess, be more capable than me?"

"While that might be true in most circumstances, we celestials are technically not allowed to interfere too directly with the lives of our children. We can bless someone and give them the ability to do something. We can give them wisdom and guidance. We can help them in many ways. However, we cannot act directly for or against a non-celestial being."

I could see the sorrow in the Goddess's eyes as she thought about the lack of true power that she possessed. If she couldn't step in and help someone then, what kind of power would she feel like she wielded? I know that if the only thing I could do to save my children was to tell them what to do, I would feel helpless. It would not be possible to just stand by and watch something happen to them. I couldn't do it.

"Alright, I will do what I can. If I can help, then I will." My wife just agreed to it without even talking to me about it first. I stiffened next to her, shock flowing through me. What was she thinking?

"Trinity? You don't even know what you need to do." I could hear the terror filling my voice. "What if she asks for you to give you li.. to give your li..?-" I hesitated and stuttered a little at the end, and then still I wasn't able to finish the question.

"I said, if I could help I would, Reece. Giving my life for theirs wouldn't be helping, that would only leave Aunt Glory and Athair mór grief stricken. They will not want that, and so I will not do it."

She had a point, they wouldn't ask her to do that for them. In truth, Valerian would most likely give his life for her instead. That did help to alleviate my concern, just a little bit. When I looked back at Danu, I noticed that she was nodding as if my Little Bunny had been right.

"I will not ask for you to give your life, Ríon Trinity. You are a child of mine as well. Every person descended from the original three is a child of mine. Thanks to the Dryads in the family line, that has become a lot more than I ever expected. I have lost enough children over the years, and I do not want to see more perish because of someone's feelings of jealousy or inadequacy."

"Jealousy? Inadequacy?" I was shocked by those words. "Who is it that poses a threat because of just that?"

"Don't ever let yourself become complacent in what you have, Rí Reece. When you have something that someone else covets, they will come to want it even more. Their hatred for you and longing for their desire will both grow in equal measure. Given enough time, that hatred can become a power for them to wield." Danu, while young in appearance, spoke like a wise old woman who had lived through many hardships.

"Alright, but who is the threat that we must defend Gloriana and Valerian against?"

"That, I do not know. I have just seen the fight coming to them soon." She seemed like she was filled with regret, probably because she couldn't give us much information at the moment.

"How soon is soon?" Trinity's question cut to the next major point.

"I cannot give an exact time, but I believe it will be within the next year, two at most. The angry emotions have long since turned to hatred, and I feel that evil is growing. This is a type of evil we have not felt since the Fae of the dark lands have been sealed away in the old lands of home. This evil though, it has never resided in the dark. This hatred comes from one that used to be a creature of the light."

So we have an unknown enemy who has turned evil that will attack at an unknown time. That doesn't sound difficult at all.

"I know this is a lot to ask. I will not send you into this alone. I have gifts for you, for the both of you."

Danu walked forward and it was like I was frozen in place. Neither Trinity nor I moved at all. When Danu put her hands against our cheeks, my right and Trinity's left, there was a bright flash of light. It was more like three flashes; one gold, one green, and one blue.

When the light faded Danu smiled and looked down at my robes. I followed her eyes and felt my eyes pop open, and then I turned to look at my Little Bunny. Both of our robes had changed colors.

My robes were now glowing a soft golden color, solid and vibrant. Trinity's robes, however, had turned to the same color of blue as Danu's dress, and there were swirls of gold and green through them. The swirls formed different patterns and shapes, but they seemed to be moving and shifting as if they were fluid and not solid.

Before I could reach out and touch my Little Bunny's mesmerizing robes, Danu spoke again.

"Rí Reece, you have already been touched by the light. That was evident by the golden color of your eyes as well as the affinity for fire that you possessed. I have given you my blessing of the light as well. I will send guidance when I can to help you learn how to discover your abilities."

I felt pride swell inside of me. Trinity had been blessed before, but I hadn't. This was kind of cool.

"Ríon Trinity, you have been blessed by all of the elements, but none so much as water. Your lineage speaks volumes there. My son, and his son, and all the way down through the generations, the blood has run true. You are truly an Undine. I grant you every element, but again, the water takes to you the most. I will guide you as well, one way or the other, on helping you to learn what you are now capable of."
