

Epilogue - Part 1

Xavier

I spoke to Draco and he told me about the previous war the supernatural had been through.

By the time Liley came out of the hospital he already had this perfect wooden two storey house ready for them to move into.

I appreciate his expertise and ask him for a lot of advice. We spoke about the possibility of maybe splitting the pack up and each of us ruling the supernatural world from different locations, but in the end we agreed that we are all stronger together and that we need each other, so we stayed together.

Why mess with perfection.

Keeping the pack together, we knew there might be some struggles in the future when it comes to leading, since the kids are just getting more and more and they might not all be able to lead together.

But that is a problem we will face when we get there. Nothing is stopping them from splitting the pack in the future, or going out and making their own pack.

But we will be sure to always teach them the importance of family and teamwork.

I was pulled out of my thoughts when my son spoke "Daddy are you sure that is a girl?" he says disgusted from his place on the ground "She looks wrinkly and ugly" he says making Cole in my arms nod in agreement.

"Boys, that is your baby sister you are talking about, you were excited to have a baby sister why are you mean? She was just born she is going to get prettier" I tell them mentally adding 'I hope'

I really can't remember the boys looking like little aliens when they were born.

"Sissy?" Cole asks innocently and I nod kissing his cheek.

"Yes buddy that is your sissy, Violet. Are you going to protect her?" I ask tickling his belly.

He laughs nodding his head rapidly. "I'm strong, I can protect her too daddy" Ethan says lifting his arms wanting to be picked up as well.

"Yes you can protect her too" I say picking him up holding him in my arms as we silently look at the newest member of our family.

Man, I really hope she doesn't look like an alien for the rest of her life.

Malia

I was scared at the beginning, of what it might mean to have a hybrid baby. But I learned that it doesn't matter as long as he is healthy.

He grew normal except for his crazy teeth.

I was babysitting them today, Nick, Lena and Cole, or the triplets, as we call them.

Sometimes they act more like siblings than cousins.

Lena, the crazy, wild, spontaneous one. Cole, the rational one. And my baby, the little momma bear, always making sure everyone is safe and happy.

I feel arms wrap around my waist from behind as I'm pulled into a solid chest as Seth places a kiss on my head.

"I think it's time for another one" he whispers making me turn around in his arms wrapping my arms around his neck.

"I know it's not like we are getting old or anything, but I was an only child, I don't want Nicky to be one as well." he says with desperation in his eyes, trying to convince me.

I pull him down and place a soft kiss on his lips whispering "okay".

He pulls away quickly looking shocked "really?"

I laugh softly "Why so surprised? You are my handsome mate, of course I want more kids with you if you want more kids" I say genuinely.

He looks irritated "Stupid Ace. It's just something he said during practice" he grumbles causing me to laugh.

Ace, Xay, Draco, Seth and Noah practice together every morning. And the conversation topics they come up with, can make a comedian rich.

But one thing I've learned is, unless Ace is giving fighting advice, do not take his advice too seriously. Seth has done it more than once and it has ended bad for him every time.

"I swear, I am never listening to a word he says again. I've been wanting to bring this conversation up for days, but I keep thinking of what he said and then I second guess myself" he grumbles, clearly upset.

"If he wasn't such a good fighter and gave such good fighting advice, I would have kicked his ass tomorrow" he says angrily walking away before I can ask what Ace's terrible advice was.

Thinking back, I can't even imagine that there was a time where I used to cry myself to sleep feeling lonely.

Now I have a handsome mate, a beautiful son and a loving family.

Vote & Comment

Only one chapter to go. I hope you enjoy!

Continue reading next part