

Cinderella And Her Beautiful Octuplets

Chapter 141

Chapter 141

Meanwhile, Hannah had gotten to the company. She parked her car at the underground parking lot before climbing out of the car.

She walked inside the company and went straight to her office. Immediately she entered her office, she switched on her computer and began work immediately.

It wasn't quite long when a call came in on the landline. She answered the phone and a man's voice rang from the other side of the phone.

"The board meeting is starting in the next three minutes, I want you to be there now" Brandon stated and the call ended.

Hannah paused for some seconds, she didn't know there would be a board meeting. There weren't supposed to be any meetings today, so why the hell is Brandon holding a meeting? Hannah wondered as she stood up, picked up her phone, and walked towards the board room.

Immediately she entered, there were just two people inside the room. The head of the financial team, Mrs Smith, and the head of the committee, Mr Brown.

Immediately Mrs Smith saw Hannah, she rolled her eyes. She didn't like Hannah and she never for once hid it, she always showed it.

Mrs Smith has never liked Hannah from the day Brandon announced her as the company's COO and his wife. She felt Hannah was an outsider who just came and took over the position without working for it. She's been in the company for years now and she wasn't considered for the position.

"Welcome Mrs Colby" Mr Smith who was on his phone, dropped his phone and turned to Hannah who smiled at him.

Just then Mrs Linda walked in, and there was a broad smile on her lips.

"Mrs Colby," Mrs Linda, who was all over her, greeted Hannah, and Hannah just smiled at her.

She then walked to her seat and rolled her eyes. She didn't like Hannah, but she wouldn't show it because she wanted to be on the good side of Hannah, but Hannah who was smart knew most people in the company didn't like her. It wasn't quite long, other people walked in and sat on their respective chairs, while talking to each other.

But just then the door to the board room flung open and Brandon walked in and everyone in the room went silent, like a ghost had passed by.

Brandon sat at the head of the table while staring at everyone with a straight face.

He gave out an air of dominance seen in a leader and under the illumination of the projector lamp, he gave out the feeling of a strong CEO.

The people in attendance today were all the upper management team of the Colby Co.

And each one of them was the head and assistant of various departments in Colby Co.

They had to report back to Brandon on the progress of their projects daily and there was no room for any mistakes or misconception.

The Colby Co. was involved in various financial schemes both in the country and outside the country., so the company was, in fact, much more than just a leading business in the country.

After Brandon's Father had left the company, Brandon was appointed as the president of the company.

Just a heads up: is the only place to read the complete version of this book for free. Don't miss out on the next chapter-visit us now and continue your journey!

He had kept close control of the development of the company. He ended up leading Colby Co. toward a much brighter future than ever.

"We all know why this meeting was held, I need reports on what you all have been working on," Brandon said as he maintained a straight look on his face.

"The machines that are gonna be used at the Colby's Co field, have been signed off by Mrs. Colby, so work would proceed immediately, " Mrs. Linda said and Mr Smith raised his eyebrows.

"What? Those machines are faulty, they are yet to be fixed. They cannot be used" Mr Smith said and everyone then turned to Hannah.

She remembered Mrs Linda bringing her the papers to sign off that the machine had been fixed. She says they needed to start work immediately in the field, So, she lied.

"So, Mrs Colby, what do you have to say about that?" Brandon asked and Hannah sighed.

"I was told the machine has been fixed, that's why I signed them off. After this meeting, I will call the engineers on the field," Hannah said as she stared at Brandon who stared at her in return with no expression on his face. To her surprise, Brandon nodded and didn't say a word.

Everyone was surprised as they expected Brandon to react badly but he did. Brandon on the other hand wanted to yell at Hannah, but they were in public, he didn't want rumors going around that the CEO yelled at his COO as people are good at spreading news quickly.

"Let's move on to the next topic," Brandon said and just then the assistant head of the financial team, Nuella, stood up.

"Some of our clients abroad reached out to me and have been so confident with Mrs Colby being the new COO.

Especially the Tabriz groups, our oil fields provide their refineries with a steady supply.

Just a heads up: is the only place to read the complete version of this book for free. Don't miss out on the next chapter-visit us now and continue your journey!

Sales exceeded 100 million last year. This year hasn't even come to an end and we already exceeded 500 million.

All thanks to Mrs Colby" Grace said with a smile on her face and Brandon hummed while he stared at Hannah.

The meeting went on and suddenly it came to an end. Everyone left the board room including Hannah, she proceeded to her office, and just then the door to her office burst open revealing Brandon, he looked so infuriated. "You should knock before barging into my office," Hannah said as she sat down and Brandon frowned.

"Why wouldn't you do proper research to know if the machine has been fixed before signing them off?

What if the engineer had used it and it had led to them getting injured in any way" Brandon said looking so angry and Hannah stared at him speechlessly.

"And how would I know if it has been fixed or not? I asked the engineer and they said it has been fixed and I signed it.

Do you expect me to go under the machines and start checking if they've truly been fixed?" Hannah said and Brandon sighed softly. He took a deep breath and calmed himself down.

He was overreacting, probably because he was feeling angry.

"Hannah I....."

"Don't you dare call my name? You know what? I quit, and I can no longer be your COO. I'm out of here" Hannah said as she picked up her phone and bag looking so angry and was about to leave when Brandon grabbed her hands. TBC

Chapter 142

Chapter 142

Brandon grabbed her hands at once.

She paused and then turned to him before looking away.

"Let go of me," Hannah said and Brandon sighed and walked towards her standing in front of her.

"I didn't mean to blame you or raise my voice at you. It wasn't your fault.

I only reacted the way I did because something similar had happened in the past.

I signed off some of those machines to the field not knowing it was having fault, then it blew up and killed everyone on the field, including my brother, Lucas" Brandon said and Hannah opened her mouth slightly. "You had a brother" Hannah asked and Brandon nodded in response, trying his best not to look emotional.

"I didn't know you had a brother, no one has spoken about him before," Hannah who was surprised said out loud.

"No one talked about him because of the way he died," Brandon said and Hannah sighed softly, while she moved away from him.

"I'll make some calls and....."

"It's fine, I already asked them to take the machines to the warehouse, so whatever work is gonna be done on the field needs to hold on for the time being till the machine is fixed," Brandon said and Hannah nodded in response. She dropped her bag and was about to move to her seat when Brandon called out her name making her pause.

"Hannah" He called and she turned to him, he moved towards her, while staring deep down into her eyes.

He rubbed her face with his thumb and then moved his thumb to her lips.

"What are you doing Brandon, you should leave" Hannah breathed out as her heart was already pounding so fast.

Brandon then placed his lips on hers and kissed her softly. Hannah then pushed him away and wiped her lips with her hands,

"Everyone already thinks I slept my way to the COO position, I don't want rumors spreading that we are making out in the office when it's you who's taking advantage of me all the time," Hannah said and Brandon rolled his eyes. "We are married, Hannah. How many times do I have to remind you of that? So it's normal for couples to make out in their offices" Brandon said Hannah opened her mouth trying to speak but words weren't coming out as she stared at the pervert in front of her.

"You pervert!" Hannah finally managed to speak and Brandon chuckled.

"I will be in my office whenever you need me," Brandon said with a smile on his face before walking out of the office.

Hannah placed her hands on her chest as she breathed out in relief.

Truth is, she didn't want to quit the COO job, she would never quit. She just wanted Brandon to apologize to her which he did.

Just a heads up: is the only place to read the complete version of this book for free. Don't miss out on the next chapter-visit us now and continue your journey!

She found herself smiling as she thought of Brandon. She frowned the moment she realized she was thinking about Brandon and smiling.

"Oh shit! What the hell is wrong with me?!" She asked no one in particular as she quickly shook the thoughts of Brandon out of her head and decided to focus on work, maybe it would stop her from thinking about him, she thought.

It was evening and Hannah had received a call from Arianna, that she wouldn't be able to pick up the kids from school, that she had gone on an emergency business trip, and that she would be coming back a day after tomorrow, so Hannah should go pick them up from school.

Hannah packed up her belongings and decided to leave the office to go pick up the kids from school when she heard her phone ring. It was a call from Brandon.

"Meet me at the underground parking lot," Brandon said and Hannah wondered why. She was leaving anyway, so she would surely meet him there as her car was there already.

She ended the call and walked out of the office. She got to the parking lot and saw Brandon standing beside his car.

"Mom called and said she would not be able to pick the kids up from school, so we should go together," Brandon said and Hannah stared at him looking confused.

"And since when did you care about picking up the kids from school?" Hannah asked

"I have always wanted to, I just have been having a tight schedule lately. But now I made sure I cleared all my schedule, so I will be spending so much time with my kids from now on," Brandon said and Hannah scoffed. "You should go back inside the company because you ain't coming to pick up my kids with me," Hannah said as she walked towards her car but Brandon blocked her way.

"They are my kids too, Our kids," Brandon said and Hannah laughed.

Just a heads up: is the only place to read the complete version of this book for free. Don't miss out on the next chapter-visit us now and continue your journey!

"Your kids? You must be kidding me. Just get out of my way already" Hannah said as she pushed Brandon out of her way and walked to her car.

She entered the car and tried switching on the ignition, but it wasn't working. She turned and stared at Brandon who had already entered his car, ignited the engine, and zoomed off leaving her all alone.

It was there Hannah realized Brandon had tampered with her car. That asshole, she voiced out as she tightened her fist on the car steering.

She climbed out of the car and called the mechanic to come to fix her car. It took about 20 minutes for the mechanic to arrive, by the time he was done fixing the car, 40 minutes were gone.

Hannah quickly paid the mechanic and then drove out of the company, she was already late from picking up her kids from school.

They would be so worried by now, this is all Brandon's fault, she thought. When she got to the school premises, she climbed out of the car and rushed to the classroom to get her kids but they were nowhere to be found. "You are the octuplets mother right?" A teacher asked and Hannah nodded.

"Oh, their father came to pick them up just now," the teacher said and Hannah bit her lips.

She quickly brought out her phone to call Brandon but he wasn't answering his phone calls.

I am going to kill you, Brandon.

TBC

Chapter 143

Chapter 143

"I am going to kill you Brandon" she grunted as she walked out of the school, trying to contact Brandon but he wasn't Responding to his phone calls and then his phone went straight to voicemail. She sighed and then stood for some seconds, just then she saw David sitting at the corner of the school, looking sad.

She walked towards him.

"David" Hannah called and the little boy raised his head and stared at Hannah in surprise.

"Hello, ma'am. Are you looking for the octuplets because their daddy came to pick them up just now" David said and Hannah smiled at her.

"I know. Why are you sitting here all alone?" Hannah asked as she sat beside him.

"I am waiting for my grandma to come to pick me up," David said and Hannah nodded as she stared at the kids. The kid didn't look happy at all.

Just then Hannah saw Rosa's car drive inside the school compound.

She then brought out a card that had her number written on it and gave it to David.

"Anytime you need my help or someone to talk to, you can call me alright" Hannah said and David stared at the card for some seconds before staring back at Hannah and nodded in response. "David" Rosa muttered and David quickly hid the card in his hands.

He then put it in his pocket, he knew if his grandmother saw it, she would tear the paper.

David walked towards his grandma and hugged her.

"Go to the car and wait for me," Rosa said as she stared at Hannah with anger in her eyes.

David nodded and Obediently went to the car.

"What were you doing with my son? You've killed his mother and now you want to go after my son?" Rosa muttered as she walked towards Hannah who stood up.

"Coming from someone who killed an innocent baby. I didn't kill Rhoda, not everyone is a killer like you" Hannah said with a frown on her face as she remembered the day Rosa had said she killed all her babies in the past. Rosa swallowed hard, not knowing what to say but then she finally spoke.

"Stay the hell away from my grandson," Rosa said and was about to walk away but pursued when Hannah spoke.

"Your Grandson that you do not care about? Common Rosa, David is still a kid, why feed him lies when we both know you are the devil here?

That kid is sad. Do not make the same mistake you made with Jeff while bringing him up, because Jeff wasn't loved when he was little that's why he's so stupid now he's grown.

Take care of your Grandson, Bitch" Hannah said and walked closer to Rosa then pushed her to the ground, before walking away.

"You bitch!!!" Rosa grunted as she stood up and straightened her clothes while staring at Hannah who had now entered her car and zoomed off.

"Argh!!" She yelled and then walked to her car angrily.

Just a heads up: is the only place to read the complete version of this book for free. Don't miss out on the next chapter-visit us now and continue your journey!

"What did that woman tell you? Did she give you something to eat? David, you have to stay away from her, she's evil" Rosa said, breathing so heavily. Whatever hatred she felt for Hannah was so deep, it was more than just hatred, it was loathing.

How dare she question her training towards Jeff and how dare she tell her how to train her grandson. All Rosa could feel was anger running through her veins.

"Grandma, let's go home, I'm hungry," David said, shunning what Rosa was saying.

"Of course honey. I prepared your favorite" Rosa said as she switched on the ignition and drove off.

Immediately she got home, she and David alighted the car. They both walked inside the house.

"Go wait for me in your room, David. I will ask the maid to heat your food so it will be hot" Rosa said and David nodded in response before walking away.

The moment he got to his room, he brought out the card Hannah had given to him, it was a business card with her name on it and her phone number.

David sighed and decided to hide the card in his wardrobe, he didn't want his father or grandmother to see it.

David then walked out of his room to go meet his daddy. He planted a soft knock on his study room but there was no answer. He opened the door and walked in but he wasn't in the room.

He went downstairs to check, and there he met his daddy walking past Rosa, with a look of anger on his face.

Jeff had not been talking to Rosa since he found out she lied about his biological father. They live under the same roof but don't speak to each other.

However, David on the other hand had noticed that his grandma and his dad were not on talking terms, and he wondered why. He couldn't ask because no one would tell him the truth. "Daddy" David called as he walked towards Jeff.

"Yes David," Jeff responded without staring at the little man.

"Daddy, tomorrow is the event at our school, I hope you will attend it with me, all my friends will be attending with their parents," David asked.

"No, I told you before I have a tight schedule, your grandma should go with you," Jeff said as he picked up his phone ready to leave the house. "But daddy...."

"I said I am busy David" Jeff yelled and David flinched. Jeff then walked out of the house and David burst into tears.

Rosa, who stood there all this while witnessing the scene between the father and son, couldn't interfere because of how Jeff would react now he was angry with her.

Immediately, Jeff left, she walked towards David and hugged him.

"You don't have to cry, honey. I'm going to attend...." Rosa said, consoling the little boy.

"No, but I want Daddy to attend," David said crying.

"I will convince your daddy to attend alright, just stop crying," Rosa said knowing fully well that she would never be able to convince Jeff to attend the party for his son as he didn't care about him. TBC

Chapter 144

Chapter 144

Hannah had just gotten home thinking Brandon was at home with the kids but to her surprise, they weren't at home.

She wondered where Brandon had taken them. She brought out her phone and dialed Brandon's number but he didn't pick up.

On second thought, she wasn't worried. She knew the kids were safe with Brandon, probably because she trusted him.

Why would I even trust him? Hannah!! You need not trust anybody!! She thought and just then the front door burst open.

Hannah thought it was Brandon and the kids but it wasn't them. It was Jessica instead. She looked so sad as she walked inside the house. "Hey, are you alright?" Hannah asked and Jessica sighed and went to sit on the couch, beside Hannah.

"Yeah," she said as she stared into nothing and Hannah nodded. They were both quiet as no one spoke.

"She said it was an accident, she slipped and fell on the fireplace," Jessica said, breaking the silence between them.

"Oh, I hope she's okay now?" Hannah asked

"I believe she will," Jessica said and they went silent again.

"I know my grandma has been an asshole all this time, plotting evil against you and Brandon.

She just doesn't know the importance of family yet, if she does, she will surely change her ways" Jessica said breaking the silence.

"I hope so," Hannah said and Jessica stood up staring around.

"Where is mom?" She asked

"She went on a business trip. She would be back by tomorrow or next" Hannah said and Jessica nodded before walking to her room.

She took her bath and decided to take a short rest.

Meanwhile, Hannah is still in the sitting room waiting for Brandon and the kids and suddenly she hears her phone ring, it is a call from Brandon. She quickly answered the phone call.

"I am going to kill you Brandon" Hannah yelled and Brandon scoffed at the other end of the phone.

"I and the kids would be eating in a fancy restaurant, do not wait for us; you should eat all by yourself," Brandon said and ended the call on her.

Hannah paused for a few seconds and then sighed. So, he took my kids to a restaurant without me. Wow, she muttered as she stood up and walked to the kitchen to get something to eat.

She was gonna do Brandon a payback, she thought as she dished out the food the maid prepared and ate.

After she was done eating, she went to take her bath and changed into her casual wear. She then went back downstairs to wait for the kids.

It wasn't like she was worried about her kids but she could not go to bed knowing her kids hadn't arrived yet even though she knew they were safe with Brandon.

Just then the front door flung open revealing Brandon and the kids. Each of them held two shopping bags in their hands while Brandon held six shopping bags in his hands. Three on each hand. "Mommy," the kids yelled happily as Hannah stood up and walked towards them.

Just a heads up: is the only place to read the complete version of this book for free. Don't miss out on the next chapter-visit us now and continue your journey!

"Mommy, Daddy took us to a fancy restaurant to eat and then he took us shopping and brought us different toys," Jayden said and Hannah stared at the kids who nodded in agreement.

Hannah smiled not knowing what to say and asked the kids to go inside. The kids walked to the sitting room and started unboxing the toys.

Hannah felt it was too much and the toys were god damn expensive and Brandon bought a lot of the expensive toys.

"Isn't this too much for the kids? He's going to spoil them" Hannah thought with a worried look on her face, but on second thought, the kids looked so happy, and the toys were also educational toys that would help them study too. Hannah sighed as she gave Brandon a side eye. She then walked to the kids.

"Honey, it's bedtime. Common let's go. You guys can play with the toys tomorrow" Hannah said and the kids pouted.

"But Mommy, we should play a bit, please," Audrey said

"No, you have school tomorrow, so you guys need to go to bed in time," Hannah said and the kids frowned, they didn't look so happy.

"Kids, it's bedtime. We will all play with the toys tomorrow and have so much fun together" Brandon stepped in and the kids yelled happily and quickly dropped the toys and rushed to their room.

Hannah turned to Brandon.

"What the hell did you do to my kids? If I tell them to go to bed, they do obey without any grumble, and just today they went out with you, everything changed" Hannah said with a frown on her face and Brandon shrugged. "Maybe they like me more than they like you," Brandon said with an innocent look on his face and Hannah bit her lips.

She was about to speak when she heard two of her kids' voices, she turned and saw Allison and Addison.

Just a heads up: is the only place to read the complete version of this book for free. Don't miss out on the next chapter-visit us now and continue your journey!

"Mommy, can daddy pick us up from school every day?" Allison asked and Hannah smiled at them.

"Honey, Daddy is a very busy man. He runs one of the biggest corporations in the country, so he can't. Besides I will be the one picking you guys up from school. Right, Brandon?" Hannah said with a smile on her face as she turned to Brandon, waiting for him to agree with her.

"Honey, I promise to clear all my schedule, from today hence, I will be picking you guys up from school and we will go out and have lots of fun," Brandon said and both kids hugged Brandon happily.

Hannah frowned and tightened her fist, looking so angry, but then she quickly replaced the frown on her face with a smile.

"Sweethearts, you guys should wait for me in your room, I will be there in a bit," Hannah said and the kids nodded, before going back to their room.

Hannah turned to Brandon angrily.

"What do you want from me?" She asked

"What are you talking about? I am only performing my duty as a father" Brandon said looking confused and Hannah laughed.

"We both know that's not true, you are trying to steal my kids from me" Hannah yelled angrily.

"And why would I steal my kids from their mother? They are our kids, hannah" Brandon said and Hannah frowned.

"Point of correction My kids not Our kids. I gave birth to them, so they are my kids" Hannah yelled angrily, and with that, she walked away.

TBC

Chapter 145

Chapter 145

Hannah walked inside the children's room and helped them take their baths, after which she helped them put on their nightwear and tucked them in their beds. "Mommy, we had so much fun today, you can come with us when next we go out," Audrey said and Hannah nodded.

Just then the door to the door opened and Brandon walked in. Hannah turned to him and wondered what he was doing in their room.

"Mommy, the school event is tomorrow," Aubrey said and Hannah bit her lips as she had already forgotten. She didn't even get the matching clothes, for her and Brandon. "Oh, sure honey but is it compulsory I and your daddy wear matching clothes, because I didn't get any clothes for us" Hannah said

"Daddy already got it when we went shopping," Jamie said and Hannah nodded in response.

"Ok now go to sleep," Hannah said as she stood up from where she was sitting.

"Hey sweethearts, sweet dreams," Brandon said as he kissed the kids on their forehead. And it didn't take long, they closed their eyes and drifted to sleep.

Hannah switched off the light in the room as they both walked out of the room.

She turned to Brandon immediately.

"I didn't tell you to get the matching clothes and what made you think I would wear the same clothes with you tomorrow?" Hannah whispered and Brandon pointed at the kid's door. "You're gonna wake them up," Brandon said and Hannah tightened her fist. She felt like punching Brandon so hard, till he cried.

She was gonna do a pay back for everything he's been doing.

She walked away from him angrily and went downstairs to tidy up the toys the kids had left on the ground.

She picked them up staring at them one after the other. These toys cost $6000 per one and Brandon bought so many of them for the kids, Hannah sighed and packed the toys and arranged them properly, before taking them into the children's room.

She switched on the light and dropped the toys. She stood for some seconds staring at the kids who were fast asleep.

She could see the look in their eyes today, they looked so happy with Brandon. She'd never seen her kids this happy before.

Maybe it was a good thing Brandon was in their life, they actually needed a father in their life, and he would help in bringing them up and teaching them a lot of kids and they would end up becoming smart like him, Hannah thought but then quickly touched her head.

What am I thinking? Brandon cannot help me raise my kids, I can raise my kids myself, she said to herself and then sighed.

Why am I even thinking about him? she thought. She quickly shook off the thoughts of Brandon from her mind and walked out of the kid's room.

She yawned tiredly, it was a long day and she needed rest.

She walked past Brandon's study room which was slightly opened. She wanted to go check if Brandon was inside but she quickly shook off the thoughts.

If she goes inside, Brandon would start thinking dirty. She quickly waved the thought and went to her room.

She locked the door to her room and lay tiredly on the bed. She closed her eyes and tried to sleep but she wasn't able to sleep as the thoughts of Brandon kept flooding her mind.

Just a heads up: is the only place to read the complete version of this book for free. Don't miss out on the next chapter-visit us now and continue your journey!

She decided to go take her bath, she stood up from the bed and removed her clothes while she put on her towel.

She opened the bathroom door and walked inside and to her greatest surprise she saw a man standing naked under the shower, taking his bath.

Luckily, it was his back Hannah had seen.

"Jesus Christ! Brandon!!!" She muttered as she quickly rushed out of the bathroom and put on her clothes.

Immediately, she put on her clothes. Brandon walked out of the bathroom with a towel tied around his waist, with water dripping from his wet hair, down to his well-built body. Hannah swallowed into nothing as she stared at the handsome man who had just come out of the bathroom.

"You can come to touch it," Brandon said and was about to remove his towel when Hannah swiftly turned away from him.

"Brandon, have some shame and put on your clothes," Hannah said as she felt her heart begin running a marathon race. She looked so nervous.

"Sure, anything my wife wants," Brandon said with an evil smile as he took his clothes from the wardrobe and put them on.

"I'm done, you can turn around," Brandon said as he buttoned his shirt, leaving the first three buttons of his shirt unbuttoned.

"I don't trust you. You know what!!! You can have the room to yourself, I will sleep somewhere else" Hannah said and was about to open the door to the room when Brandon moved towards her and placed his hands on the door. He touched her hair and Hannah closed her eyes, shortly she opened them and turned to him.

"Brandon, please, I....." Hannah paused as she stared at the man who was so close to her. He left no breathing space between them, she could feel his breath on her face.

Just a heads up: is the only place to read the complete version of this book for free. Don't miss out on the next chapter-visit us now and continue your journey!

Brandon stared at the petite woman who was looking so nervous while staring at him with an innocent look on her face. She looks uncomfortable.

He decided to let her go, he moved away from her immediately.

"I will sleep in the study room, you can stay here," Brandon said and Hannah nodded and moved away from the door.

Hannah wondered why Brandon was so good today, he didn't try to kiss her or anything, he let her go. What am I even thinking? Was I expecting him to kiss me, Hannah thought as she stared at Brandon who opened the door and walked out of the room.

Hannah wanted to lock the door when Brandon asked her to bring his phone that was on the bed. Hannah sighed, and picked up the phone, and moved towards the door, she reached out to hand the phone to him.

Suddenly, Brandon stretched his arm, then she was dragged out of the doorway by him.

Instantly after that, she was engulfed by a man's scent as a strapping figure approached her.

At that moment, she could feel her body stiffen significantly.

Hannah lifted her head, and her eyes met Brandon's blazing look.

The aggressiveness in his eyes was quite obvious too.

Right after that, he leaned forward and pressed a steamy, hot kiss on her lips, and he didn't give her a chance to reject him at all as he pushed on aggressively.

For a moment, Hannah was quite breathless and slightly stunned from his prolonged aggressive kiss

After she had come back to her senses, she tried to push him aside but at that point, Brandon placed his head against her forehead and his warm breath hit her cheek as he panted slightly. "Now I can have a good night's sleep". TBC

Chapter 146

Chapter 146

"Now I can have a good night sleep," Brandon said with a smile on his face.

Meanwhile, Hannah angrily lifted her head to glare at him. "This man derives so much pleasure in taking advantage of me," Hannah thought wondering what Brandon was always thinking because he seems to always have dirty thoughts on his mind.

"Just leave!" She shoved him hard and turned around to walk into her room. Thereafter, she slammed the door shut after her.

At that moment, her heart started beating uncontrollably and she could still taste him on her lips.

However, she couldn't understand her feelings. What's going on with me?! I don't seem to despise it and surprisingly it feels totally enjoyable?!

Hannah seemed to be in a trance and she quickly forced herself to eliminate the thoughts in her mind. After that, she removed her clothes and went to take a shower.

While she was in the shower, all she could think about was Brandon.

"Oh god! What is wrong with me" she thought to herself. When she was done showering, she went to her room, put on a simple night dress, and lay on the bed.

That night, Hannah had trouble sleeping as she lay on her bed and her thoughts kept going to the kiss she had with Brandon by the door.

At the same time, she realized that he was indeed a crafty person. When she thought he would not take advantage of her he had purposely left his phone on the bed just now to force her to bring it out for him.

As such, he took advantage of the situation afterward. How annoying! Undeniably though, he's good at being provoking.

One would find such a man hard to resist if the person didn't have a firm heart. However, Hannah trusted that she could resist the seduction and she wouldn't be affected by what he does at all.

It was morning and Hannah had woken up so late. She checked her time and it was almost 9 am.

"Oh my goodness!" she mumbled as she jumped off the bed. She had slept so late because she kept thinking about Brandon.

She rushed to the bathroom, brushed her teeth and took her bath, then went to her kid's room, to help them get ready for school but to her utmost surprise, the kids weren't in bed and their beds were properly arranged like no one had slept on them last night.

She wondered where the kids had gone or if Brandon had taken them away already. No, she thought to herself as she decided to check downstairs.

She gave out a breath of relief as she saw them in the dining room eating breakfast.

For a second she was scared, now seeing them in the dining room eating, she was relieved.

"Mommy" the kids called out as Hannah walked towards them.

"Hey sweethearts" Hannah muttered and paused when she noticed the kids were already dressed for school.

"Did you guys get dressed for school?" Hannah asked with a confused expression on her face.

If Arianna was at home, she would say she was the one who helped them get dressed, but she wasn't home, which means it's either the maids or.... She paused.

Just a heads up: is the only place to read the complete version of this book for free. Don't miss out on the next chapter-visit us now and continue your journey!

"I did" Brandon interrupted and Hannah turned only to see him walking out of the kitchen, with an apron on and a plate of food in his hands.

Hannah was surprised at first.

"Did you help the kids get dressed and also cook for them?" Hannah asked, looking around wondering where the maids were.

"Yeah," he smirked as he put the food on the table and then turned to Hannah.

"I only helped them get dressed, although the maids assisted me and I wasn't the one who cooked, the maids did," Brandon said as he moved towards Hannah and placed his hands on her shoulder.

"I didn't want to stress you about anything, anymore. I knew you were tired last night after we....."

"Brandon!!!" Hannah called as she stared at the kids who were focused on their food. He smirked.

"Come eat breakfast, I served yours already," Brandon, who was trying to be romantic, enunciated as he pulled out a chair for Hannah.

"No, I'm fine, I'm not hungry," Hannah replied.

"Mommy, please join us. Daddy asked the maid to prepare your favorite food" Jayden chipped in and Hannah raised her eyebrows confused.

"And how the hell did you know my favorite food?" Hannah questioned as she stared at Brandon who chuckled.

Hannah stared at her kids who gave her innocent looks.

They told Brandon. She wondered what else the kids had told Brandon about her. She couldn't scold the kids. She didn't have any choice but to join them for breakfast.

She sat in the chair Brandon had earlier told her to sit on and Brandon then took a seat beside her.

They started eating in silence. Hannah hummed as she took a spoon full of her favorite, rice and pepper sauce. It was delicious. She would have missed this meal if she had left just now.

Brandon on the other hand kept taking side glances at Hannah as she ate, his lips curled into a smile. He was surely gonna learn how to prepare Hannah's favorite and surprise her with it in the future, he thought as he kept staring at her. However, it wasn't long and they were all done eating. Hannah took a glass of juice on the table and drank from it before dropping the glass on the table.

"Mommy, did you enjoy the meal?" the kids asked at once and Hannah nodded with a smile on her face. Brandon laughed and Hannah turned to him wondering what was funny and why he was laughing.

She shot Brandon a deadly glare.

"There's something on your mouth," Brandon said and Hannah wiped her mouth wondering what was in it.

She gave Brandon a side eye.

"Are you pranking me?" she asked as she frowned, Brandon sighed and used his thumb to clean off the little sauce that was sitting at the side of her pretty lips, and then licked it.

"Brandon, what are you doing? The kids are watching!" Hannah muttered as they both turned and saw eight little innocent eyes staring at them.

TBC

Chapter 147

Chapter 147

Hannah and Brandon turned only to see eight little cute innocent eyes staring at them.

Hannah felt her cheeks flush in embarrassment.

"Mommy and I will go get dressed, so we can all go to the school party together," Brandon said with a smile on his face. Hannah then stood up and walked upstairs to her room. Immediately, she left, Brandon had asked the maid to clear the table while he went to give Hannah the clothes he bought for her yesterday.

Hannah, who had entered her room, closed the door and put her hands on her chest. She felt her cheeks turn red immediately at the thought of what Brandon had just done. While the children were watching them, she wondered what the kids were thinking while staring at them as she didn't want to give them the wrong impression. She wondered why Brandon was acting this way towards her and always teasing her.

Can't he just let me be? She thought as she sat on the bed and just then the door opened revealing Brandon, he held a shopping bag in his hands, the one from yesterday. Hannah turned to him with a frown on her face.

"Here, you should hurry up and put it on. It's almost time for the school event to start" Brandon said he dropped the bag on the bed beside Hannah.

Hannah nodded and looked away from him.

"Are you alright?" Brandon asked as he tried touching her face but then She slapped his hands away.

"Can you stop taking advantage of me anytime you like? What do you want from me?" Hannah, who was looking so furious, asked. Brandon wondered why she was angry all of a sudden. "Hannah, you are my wife," Brandon said and Hannah laughed.

"Whatever holds us together, is just the contract. I am not your wife, Brandon. Can you please just stay away from me?"

Why are you always in my room, trying to kiss me all the time? trying to seduce me at every opportunity you get! Is this how you men act all the time?" Hannah asked, memories of how Jeff had cheated on her with her best friend came running inside her head.

He remembered how Jeff will act so sweet with her but in the end, he broke her and because of him, she ended up getting raped by the man standing in front of her.

She would not let herself get deceived again for the second time.

Memories of how Brandon had forced himself on her came running into her head. She hated men because of what she had encountered in the past, those memories had traumatized her.

"You are rich, You can afford any woman you want, just stay away from me please," Hannah said and Brandon's face fell in sadness as he stared at the woman.

"Hannah I...."

"Just leave alright," Hannah said and Brandon nodded and turned to leave. He opened the door and to his surprise, he saw the kids by the door.

He wondered when they had gotten here if they listened to every one of their conversations.

Hannah opened her mouth in shock as she saw the kids. She wondered if they had been listening to all the conversation.

"Oh good lord!" she thought to herself.

"Come on kids, let's go wait for mommy downstairs, she's about to get dressed," Brandon said and the kids nodded in response.

He walked out of the room and took one glance at Hannah before locking the door.

Hannah sighed in relief. She took the shopping bag and brought out the cloth that was in it. It was a black long gown with heels and a handbag too.

It looked so beautiful. Hannah wondered if Brandon was the one who picked the outfit himself or if a female chose it for him.

How is that my concern, she thought as she stared at the dress.

She was only wearing these clothes because of her kids and nothing else. Those children are her life and she would do anything, just anything to make sure they are happy.

Meanwhile, Brandon is seen downstairs, sitting pretty on the couch, with his outfit on.

"Daddy, is everything alright?" Jayden called as he noticed the looks on Brandon's face.

"Of course big man," Brandon said as he ruffled his hair and Jayden smiled.

"I heard mommy shouting at you, earlier," Jayden said and Brandon raised his eyebrows as he stared at the little man and then at his other sibling, he was sitting together, just opposite Brandon and Jayden and discussing the school event "Did you guys hear anything?" Brandon asked, wanting to be sure they didn't overhear anything Hannah had said.

"Not really, we only heard the part where she asked you to leave," Jayden said and Brandon gave out a breath of relief.

"I know my mommy, that's how she gets angry most times when she starts overthinking things, only Grandma understands mommy completely," Jayden said and Brandon smiled.

"So, what do you suggest I do now that she's angry?" Brandon asked curiously

"Maybe you should buy her a flower. Her favorite flowers" Jayden said and Brandon hummed as he stared at the little man who was a carbon copy of him.

Jayden and the rest of his siblings reminded him of when he was still young.

However, Hannah, who was all dressed, stood by the stairs and watched Brandon and the kids bond. They hadn't seen her yet.

They looked so cute together, father and children, for some moment she felt like she had a complete family. She sighed. She wondered what Jayden was telling Brandon as he was smiling nonstop.

Just then Brandon caught a glimpse of Hannah, who was looking so pretty in the outfit she was wearing.

She looked so charming and elegant as she walked down the stairs, Hannah was the most beautiful woman he's ever been attracted to. Women rarely capture his attention, but this woman, there was just something about her that drove him wild.

"Wow," the kids muttered at once as they saw Hannah who had this beautiful smile on her face,

Brandon stood up and walked towards Hannah, it was there Hannah had noticed what the man was wearing.

He was putting on black pants and a black sleeved that was well ironed and tucked in. He looked so tall and slender, and the clothes he was wearing looked so good on him.

He looked so handsome and elegant in his clothes. It would be so hard for any woman to resist this handsome young man.

He looks like a model but he beats most models with his looks and body. He was a demi-god.

Hannah climbed down the stairs and stood beside Brandon.

The woman was petite as Brandon was taller than her. They both looked so perfect and were giving the power couples vibe. TBC

Chapter 148

Chapter 148

"Mommy, Daddy, you both look so perfect" The kid's lips curled into a wide smile. They were so happy.

If there was anything Hannah needed in this world it was for her kids to be happy.

"Let's go, you don't want to be late," Hannah said and the kids nodded in response before rushing outside to the car.

Hannah then turned to Brandon who kept staring at her.

"I'm only doing this for my kids," Hannah said and with that, she walked away from him.

After they had gotten to the school, there were a lot of parents and children in the school. The kids rushed out of the car and went to their classes. Hannah and Brandon alighted the car. The moment they came out of the car, all eyes were on them.

"Oh my god! Is that the octuplet's parents?" One of the teachers asked.

"They look so cute together. No wonder the octuplets are so fine" Another teacher said

"They look so much like a power couple," another teacher said while smiling.

"Of course, they are a power couple, they are so rich. That is the CEO of Colby co and his wife" A lady who was putting on a blue gown said.

Hannah felt like entering the ground at that moment in time as all eyes were on them. People even started taking pictures of them.

"Welcome sir, welcome ma, this way" The principal who had seen them walked in, came to them, and showed them the road to the hall where the event was to be held.

They were both given a seat in the front row. Even while In the hall, lots of attention was on them. If there was anything Hannah hated so much was the attention she was attracting now but Brandon on the other hand seemed to love it. She sighed. It wasn't long before the event started. Some students came out and sang, while some came out and danced. And then it was the octuplet's turn, they came out and sang too.

Hannah kept clapping while her children sang, while Brandon brought out his phone and took a picture of them.

After all the classes and children had performed. They called out the result and the octuplets came out first and they were awarded.

They were so happy. The principal called out both Hannah and Brandon to come to take a picture with the octuplets on stage which they did. After which they went back to their seats. Now, it was time for parents to dance. Hannah didn't want to dance but Brandon pulled her up and made her dance.

They both stood while facing each other and Brandon placed his hands on Hannah's waist while he held her other hand and forced her to dance.

Hannah gritted her teeth angrily, she turned and saw her kids staring at her with a smile on their faces. She smiled at them and looked away.

"Can you please dance properly?" Brandon said as Hannah stepped on his shoes.

"I don't know how to dance" Hannah whispered and stepped on his shoes again making him wince in pain.

Hannah had this evil smile on her lips as she kept stepping on Brandon and pretending it was a mistake.

After they were done dancing, they both went back to their seats. Hannah just couldn't wait for the party to be over so she could go home and be free of the man sitting beside her.

The principal decided to call the winner of the dance, and to their surprise, Brandon and Hannah won. The crowd cheered as they clapped for them.

Hannah on the other hand wondered how they had won because she clearly danced off point.

Hannah and Brandon went upstage and took the award. Brandon held her hands and pulled her into a hug and then when he pulled away he kissed her on her lips and the crowd cheered the more.

"Oh Jesus, I'm so going to kill this man" Hannah gritted her teeth and then forced herself to smile as the principal kept staring at them with a smile on her face.

Meanwhile, Rosa was sitting in the back row while watching the whole scenario. She started imagining Jeff being the one by Hannah's side. She felt so jealous and angry at the same time as she stared at Hannah who kept smiling. She looked so happy and it vexed Rosa so much.

Her family wasn't happy, and Hannah was happy, and it made her irritated and hate Hannah the most.

She was gonna ruin her happiness.

The party was finally over, and they all decided to go home. Hannah asked them to wait for her in the car while she went to use the restroom.

She went to the restroom, and after she was done, she washed her hands and wiped it. She opened the door and was about to walk out of the restroom when she mistakenly collided with Rosa.

"Are you blind? Watch where you are going" Rosa said and Hannah rolled her eyes. She wasn't in the mood to exchange words with the woman standing in front of her, staring at her with pure hatred in her eyes. Hannah moved from her front and tried to walk past her when Rosa pulled her hair.

Hannah winced In pain and turned to Rosa angrily.

"You Bitch" she muttered and gave her a sounding slap on her face. The slap was so loud and hot that everyone turned to them.

Hannah hadn't had the chance to deal with her for what she did to her. Rosa had the gut to look in her face and tell her she killed her babies.

Just a heads up: is the only place to read the complete version of this book for free. Don't miss out on the next chapter-visit us now and continue your journey!

Now, she had the chance, she was gonna make sure she pounced on this woman till she bleeds.

"How dare you hit me" Rosa yelled and tried to hit Hannah but she was quick to hold her hands and then pushed her to the ground, then came up on her and started punching her on her face. Memories of the babies she had lost in the past came running into her head. She fucking killed all her babies and also tried to kill her.

Meanwhile, Brandon who was in the car heard Hannah had gotten into a fight by the restroom. He asked the kids to stay in the car while he went to check out.

He went there in a rush and saw Hannah on top of a lady punching her so hard.

"Hannah" he muttered as he pulled her away from Rosa who was already on the ground, with a bleeding nose and mouth.

"Let go of me" Hannah muttered as she tried to pull away from Brandon's grip. He was so strong but she kept struggling.

"Can't you see she's bleeding? You're gonna kill her" Brandon said and Hannah scoffed.

"She deserves to die!" Hannah said still struggling and asked Brandon to let go of her.

"Bitch, you are going to pay for this" Rosa who was on the ground voiced out. Hannah felt so angry.

"That is for killing my babies and trying to kill me, you whore" Hannah yelled and Brandon sighed.

"Hannah, that's enough," Brandon said but the woman wasn't paying attention to him.

Brandon on the other hand knew this woman wouldn't want to leave here willingly, so he had to do this, he thought as he swept Hannah's feet off the floor and put her on his shoulder before walking away. TBC

Chapter 149

Chapter 149

A Black car came to a stop in front of the Colby's Mansion. The kids alighted the car, same as Hannah and Brandon. Throughout the ride, Hannah didn't say a word.

It was only Brandon and the kids who kept talking about the event. They all walked inside the house and Brandon asked the kids to go to their room.

They nodded obediently and went to their room.

Hannah was about to leave and Brandon turned to her.

"We need to talk," he said and Hannah turned to him, staring at him with anger written all over her face. She hated the fact that Brandon had stopped her from killing Rosa.

"Why would you do that? Why would you get into a fight?" Brandon asked and Hannah scoffed and was about walking away when Brandon spoke.

"Don't you dare walk out on me" he said and Hannah rolled her eyes and turned to him.

"What are you gonna do if I walk away?" Hannah asked and Brandon stared at the petite woman. She was challenging him.

"Try me and see," Brandon said and Hannah walked away from him and went to her room. Brandon sighed softly, this woman was one of the most stubborn people he'd encountered in his entire life. Brandon turned and saw Alex staring at him.

Since Alex started working for Brandon, no one has ever challenged him the way Hannah did. Brandon must have a soft spot for this woman, Alex thought.

"What are you staring at?" Brandon asked and Alex quickly walked away.

Brandon climbed upstairs and went to Hannah's room. He pushed the door open and saw Hannah standing by her dressing table.

"What do you want?" She asked as she turned to him.

"Why would you get into a fight in the kid's school?" Brandon asked and Hannah sighed.

"She came at me first. I just can't stand and watch her humiliate me. She got what she deserved, " Hannah said and Brandon paused, staring at her.

"That was the kid's school for goodness sake, what do you think people will say to them when they get to school?

Can't you put them first, what sort of mother are you?" Brandon said and Hannah scoffed.

"Don't you dare ask me such a question again? I have always put my kids first in everything I do. They've always come first, don't you ever dare ask me what sort of mother I am, not like you are a good father to them" Hannah said as tears gathered in her eyes.

"Hannah...."

"Get out!! I said, get out!!!" She yelled and he nodded before walking out of the room.

Hannah burst into tears as she sat on the bed. She's been through a lot, it was all because of Rosa and his son.

They ruined her life and had almost killed her, she thought as she lay on the bed, and closed her eyes, just then she drifted to sleep.

Meanwhile, Brandon had gone to Hannah's room to check on her only to find out she was fast asleep.

He sighed as he stared at the woman. One would look at her and not believe she was the one fighting today, Brandon smiled as he stared at her innocent-looking face.

He didn't know why but there was something about this woman that drove him completely crazy.

He glanced at her for a few more seconds before walking out of the room.

He decided to go check on the kids too, they were also asleep. They were obviously tired from the event of the day.

He walked out of their room, went downstairs, and sat on the couch while going through his phone.

Just then he saw Jessica climbing down the stairs.

Just a heads up: is the only place to read the complete version of this book for free. Don't miss out on the next chapter-visit us now and continue your journey!

"I didn't know you were at home," Brandon said and Jessica sighed.

"I have been in my room" Jessica said in response.

"We will be holding a party here in a week or two, I need you to arrange with Hannah," Brandon said and Jessica hummed.

Brandon knew Jessica loves parties, it was one of her hobbies, so she knew how to plan one.

"And what is the purpose of the party?" Jessica asked.

"We are celebrating 500 million sales of the company. A lot of clients of mine would be attending, so I want everything to be top-notch" Brandon said and Jessica nodded. Just then a message popped on Brandon's phone. "Have you seen the news?" the message stated and he picked up the remote and switched on the TV.

The headline of the news stated.

"Wife of a CEO Brandon Colby in a fight with a woman who is recognized to be Jeff Mikealson's mother. Rumor says The Wife of the CEO Hannah is the Ex-wife of Jeff Mikealson and she cheated on him with CEO Brandon Colby" A picture of when Brandon had carried Hannah on his shoulder was on the TV too.

Brandon sighed softly and switched off the TV.

"When did this happen? And how the hell did Jeff and Hannah's past relationship get to the press" Jessica asked

"Someone might have released it to the press to tarnish the company's image," Brandon said, a different thought going through his mind. Just then different messages and calls were popping on his phone.

"This is going to affect your reputation as you are a public figure and the company too," Jessica said and Brandon stood up at once.

"Where are you off to?" Hannah asked as Brandon dialed a number and put the phone in his ear.

Just a heads up: is the only place to read the complete version of this book for free. Don't miss out on the next chapter-visit us now and continue your journey!

"I need to make some calls," Brandon said and Jessica hummed before walking to the kitchen to get something to eat.

Hannah was woken up by the sound of her phone.

She opened her eyes, picked up the phone and opened it and then saw the news of when she and Rosa had gotten into a fight. It was also stated she was the ex-wife of Jeff and that she had cheated on Jeff with Brandon. "What?" She muttered as she stared at her phone. She knew it was Rosa who had said these things to the press and she even lied. She was trying to get back at her for beating her today.

That bitch, she thought angrily. Just then the room to her door opened revealing Jessica.

"Hey" Hannah muttered

"You saw the news?" Jessica asked and Hannah nodded in response.

"What are we going to do?" Hannah asked

"You need to clear your name and release a statement, give the press the full story. Since they wanna gaslight you, you gaslight them in return" Jessica said and Hannah sighed. "What about Brandon? What does he think about this idea?" Hannah asked

"It's your choice to make, do you wanna do it?" A voice sounded and they turned to see Brandon standing by the door.

"Yes, I will do it," Hannah said in response and just then Alex walked inside the room.

"Sir, the press is outside our gate, what should we do?" Alex asked

"Let them in"

TBC

Chapter 150

Chapter 150

Rosa is seen in her sitting room watching the news while she nurses her swollen face. She had a smile on her face. Now the press are after Hannah, she would see how she would survive or even leave the house, Rosa thought as she smiled. She had humiliated her today, this is what she gets in return for messing up with her.

Meanwhile, Jeff's car had screeched to a halt in front of the hospital. He had heard what had happened to Elizabeth and decided to pay her a visit.

Elizabeth was the key to everything, she was the key to finding out who his biological father was.

He walked inside the hospital and went to her ward. There he met her lying on the bed with her face bandaged. It was just her in the room and no one else was with her.

"Elizabeth" he called and She turned in his direction.

"Oh my goodness! What happened to you" Jeff asked as he sat beside her. He didn't know it was this serious.

"Oh my god! I can arrange for a better hospital and a doctor, so you can go abroad and receive treatment" Jeff said pretending to care. He didn't care, all he wanted was for her to tell him who his father was.

"She's fine, I can take care of her," A voice said from behind and Jeff turned only to see a man standing by the door.

He wondered who he was.

"I'm Robert, you must be Jeff," Robert said as he brought his hands forth for a handshake. "Yeah," Jeff stood up and took the handshake. He wondered how Robert knew his name. "Elizabeth told me about you, I'm his son," Robert said like he had read Jeff's mind.

Jeff raised his eyebrows and stared at Elizabeth who was staring at them but couldn't say a word.

"It's nice meeting you," Jeff said as he turned to Robert.

"Anyways, I was just leaving," Jeff said and was about to leave when Robert called his name, making him pause.

"I know the reason why you are here," Robert said and Jeff turned to him.

"Excuse me," he said and Robert smiled.

"I know you are curious about who your Biological father is. Well, there's no need to hide it anymore" Robert paused and moved towards Jeff.

"Wilson Colby is your father," Robert said and Jeff stared at him confused and then smiled.

"You are kidding right?" Jeff asked

"No, Wilson is your father. Which means You and Brandon are blood Brothers" Robert said and Jeff became numbed immediately. When he had regained himself, he blinked twice and then turned to Elizabeth. He then turned to Robert and stared at him for a few seconds before walking out of the ward and out of the hospital.

"No no, this cannot be true," he muttered as he walked towards his car but then he saw paparazzi rush towards him. "Sir, is it true Mrs. Hannah Colby is your ex-wife and she cheated on you?"

"Sir, is it true? What do you have to say about your ex-wife beating your mom?" They kept asking questions nonstop.

Jeff wondered what was going on and what they meant by Hannah beating his mom. He walked past them without saying a word and entered his car.

He ignited the engine and zoomed off.

Meanwhile, At the Colby's mansion. Hannah and Brandon walked out of the house and the press rushed towards them.

"Ma'am, is it true you were Jeff's Ex wife?" one of the press asked.

"Yes, we were married in the past but we got divorced" Hannah replied.

"What was the reason for the divorce?" another asked

"The reason is personal and I believe you all should respect my decision," Hannah said in response.

"I heard you cheated on him," another said and just then a message popped in on one of the press phone. She stared at the message and then stared at Brandon before moving towards them to ask her question. "I also heard, Brandon and Jeff are blood brothers," she asked and Hannah turned to Brandon who looked confused.

"Let's go inside," Brandon said as he held Hannah.

"Is it true? Are they both of your brothers?" Hannah asked as they entered the house.

"What happened? What's going on out there? I thought you were going to say the whole truth to the press?" Jessica asked as they walked in and locked the door.

"Is it true? Are Brandon and Jeff Brothers?" Hannah asked and Jessica stared at her confused.

"What are you talking about? He isn't our brother, he's a Mikealson and not a Colby" Jessica said as he stared at Brandon, who didn't say a word.

"Brandon....." Jessica called as they both stared at him, waiting for him to say something.

"I don't know. I recently found out dad used to have an affair with Jeff's mom in the past. I don't know if it's true" Brandon said and Jessica touched her forehead and bit her lips.

Just a heads up: is the only place to read the complete version of this book for free. Don't miss out on the next chapter-visit us now and continue your journey! "Don't tell me all those times I have been sleeping with my brother..." Jessica said with the look of irritation on her face, as they all stared at each other.

Meanwhile, Jeff had just gotten to the house and then he saw Rosa sitting in the sitting room nursing her wound.

"What happened? Did you and Hannah get into a fight and did you release that news to the press?" Jeff asked and Rosa rolled her eyes.

"She came at me at David's school, she got what she deserved"

"We both know that is not true, Hannah would never have been involved in any fight with you if you didn't go after her," Jeff said and Rosa rolled his eyes at him. "Defending her all over again, I wonder what that woman has done to you that you always defend her," Rosa said and stood up about to leave when Jeff spoke.

"I know the truth. I know who my father is" Jeff said and Rosa turned at once.

"What are you talking about?" She asked

"I know my father is Wilson Colby. I know I am a Colby " Jeff said and Rosa felt numb immediately.

"You knew?" Rosa asked, shivering in fear and Jeff scoffed.

"I wasn't sure before but now I am sure," Jeff said and Rosa tried moving towards him but he raised his hands signifying her to stop and not dare come closer to him. "Jeff please," Rosa said as tears slipped down her cheeks.

"You lied to me. You know what? I want you out of my house for good"

"Jeff please don't do this to me, I am still your mother"

TBC