Chapter 401 Has Jeffery Gone Mad?

“Unless Jeffrey opens his mouth, I'm afraid this is no easy matter to deal with.”

Boyce was very clear about this. Since Jeffery had decided to do this, he would have expected that Matthew would get extremely angry.

Since he had reached this point, it would be impossible for him to stop halfway. Otherwise, his previous arrangements would be in vain.

Unless Matthew agreed to his request.

All that he had done was to force Matthew to give in.

Boyce felt very anxious. With Dolores's current condition, if Matthew really left her because of this matter, what could she do?

He knew that Matthew would definitely not compromise. But, even if it were temporary, Dolores would still get hurt by it.

Armand and Boyce went back to the ward. Officer Sharp sent someone to guard at the hospital entrance, and he was there as well, sitting on the row chair.

The moment Armand saw Officer Sharp, he got angry. Boyce quickly stopped him, "Don't get impulsive."

Officer Sharp was not the key point. The key point was Jeffery.

He was just the person who carried out the plan, not the mastermind.

Boyce pulled Armand into the house.

It was very quiet and clean inside the house. Dolores was still unconscious, and Matthew saw beside her, holding her palm in his hand. Her cold palms had already been warmed by his hands.

Boyce and Armand stood by the bed.

"What do you plan to do?"

Boyce spoke in a soft voice, afraid that he might disturb Dolores.

The light rays that came in from outside the window shone on half of Matthew's face. His thick eyelashes slightly fluttered, held Dolores's hands, and his thumb slowly caressed through Dolores's delicate arm.

"Boyce, do you still have anyone else that you can use?"

His voice was deep, without showing any emotions.

Boyce replied, "Yes."

And it was his most trusted men.

"Let them keep an eye on the Chamber's family house. Seize Chloe once she appears."

There was no way out of this. Dolores's charges could never be cleared unless Jeffery opens his mouth.

However, it was obvious that Jeffery would not open his mouth since he wanted Matthew to marry Chloe. But what if Chloe was captured by him?

'Can he threaten them with this?'

'Jeffrey wants him to marry Chloe?'

Boyce and Armand looked at each other. Why was this related to the Chamber's family?

Why would Matthew want to capture Chloe?

Matthew told them frankly, "They wanted me to marry her."

Armand was too angry and spoke recklessly, "Has Jeffery gone mad?"

Matthew glanced askance at him. Armand quickly covered his mouth. He was too agitated just now, so he accidentally raised his voice.

"You may all leave first."

Now, he just wanted to accompany her alone.

"I'll go personally."

Boyce was clear of Matthew's purpose. Capturing Chloe was the most important thing now, and it's the only turning point for this incident.

Armand was unable to provide any assistance at the moment, "If you need me, you can call me anytime."

Boyce replied to him, "Okay."

The two of them went out of the door together.

Officer Sharp was still at the door, seemingly guarding it personally as if he was afraid that Matthew might move Dolores somewhere else.

Matthew would not do that.

Hiding Dolores would not solve the root problem. If a warrant was issued, Dolores would be officially convicted.

As soon as the door was closed, the room returned to its previous silence once again. Matthew lay down beside the bed and put Dolores's head in on top of his arms. At this moment, the phone in his pocket started vibrating.

He frowned as if he was a little displeased that someone was calling him right now. As soon as the call was connected, Simona's soft and sweet voice came through, "Daddy."

Matthew spoke softly, "Yes."

"Have you eaten dinner?"

The little girl asked caringly.

Matthew gently replied to his daughter, "I've eaten."

At the Nelson Mansion, Simona was holding the phone while surrounded by Samuel and Sean. At this moment, Sean was mouthing words to Simona, signaling her to ask Matthew what time he and Dolores would come back home.

Because of the TV show from before, Sean wanted to look for Dolores. And tomorrow morning would be the 24th hour after the game, they would need to open handcuffs in front of the audience.

That was why he came here today. On the one hand, he wanted to see the two children, and secondly, he needed to discuss with Dolores regarding this matter. However, it was so late already, and they hadn't come back yet.

Therefore, he asked Simona to call Matthew.

The little girl instantly understood his gestures and said to the phone, "Daddy, what time are you and mommy coming back home?"

Sean immediately gave Simona a thumbs up. She's so clever.

Matthew lowered his eyes and looked at Dolores who was still deeply asleep, and said in a low voice, "I and your mummy have some other things to do, so we are not going back tonight."

The little girl frowned, why weren't they coming back?

"Are you two playing something fun, deliberately not bring me and brother?"

The little girl said aggrievedly.

Sean was stunned. Why were they not coming back?

Then where could he go find Dolores?

He took the phone from Simona, "Let me talk to your dad."

"Matthew, why are you two not coming back? I'm waiting for you guys at home."

Hearing that it was Sean, Matthew's voice became even deeper, "Sean, stay at my place for the next few days."

Sean was a trustable person. He was worried about the two children at home. Since Sean was Simona's previous teacher, and he was also familiar with the two children, he could put his mind at ease if Sean stayed at his house.

Sean blinked his eyes. He had always wanted to stay at Matthew's villa, but last time he didn't agree to let him stay here, thinking that he would make trouble.

But what happened today?

This wasn't like Matthew at all.

"Matthew, is something wrong? Do you need my help?"

Chapter 402 All Over The Place

"Help me take good care of the two of them."

This was his only request.

Sean nodded sternly, "Don't you worry."

"Ugh--" At this time, Matthew's talking sound seemed to have awoken Dolores up. Following a gentle squeal, her body started to move as well. Matthew hung up the phone, held her in his arms, and tapped her back, "Hey, it's fine, go back to sleep."

It wasn't sure if Dolores was awake or not. She stopped moving after she heard Matthew's words and nestled in his arms.

Matthew looked down and touched her face with his broad and thick palm. Her face was cold and tiny. His quivering eyelids were hidden under the dim lights. He was hesitant with his touch, and his motions were affectionate and gentle as if afraid that he might hurt her if he touched her.

This woman was making him lose control and making his blood boil.

Matthew stayed beside Dolores the whole night. At dawn break, Matthew received a text from Boyce asking him to watch the news.

The case of a murder in the bar was reported on all media platforms.

It became the headlines. The rumours and speculations were all over the place.

A one-minute video circulated the internet. The video was about Dolores holding a gun and fire a gunshot at Sampson.

The comments section was almost unanimous. Everyone was saying that the murderer must pay with her life, while some others were ridiculously saying that it was a love killing, that the man had betrayed the woman, and so the woman killed him with a gun.

All kinds of rumours began to fly all over the place.

If the rumours continued to develop, things would become more and more serious.

Matthew made a call back home and requested for Coral to come to the hospital to take care of Dolores. Then, he called Abbott and ordered him to transfer the security guards from the office to the hospital as well. He was afraid that the news reporter might know that Dolores is in the hospital right now, and they would harass her.

Before he got his hands on Chloe, he must control the current situation first, and he definitely would not allow these harmful rumours of Dolores to continue to spread like this.

Otherwise, it would be even harder to wind up all these matters in the end.

He got back to the company and ordered the public relations department to pursue the responsibility for the released video. For now, the police department had yet released a public statement, therefore this video would be categorized as unconfirmed news. Since they had widespread this unproven news, they could sue them for rumour spreading, pursue their civil liability as their actions had already caused defamation and bodily harm towards Dolores.

Everyone in the company knew about Dolores. When this news broke out, everyone was cautious in case they accidentally anger Matthew.

Since he came into the company in the morning, Matthew had been non-stop giving orders.

No one in the company dared to discuss this matter. They didn't even dare to watch the news.

The news was so big; therefore, Sean already knew about it even if he didn't step out of the house. He confiscated all of Samuel's internet browsing tools, afraid that he might see the news on the internet.

Now he finally understood why Matthew didn't come back home last night, and why did he ask him to stay at his home.

Sean was thinking of a way to go out. Then, he saw Victoria and Jayden was trying to go out. He stopped them, and said, "Did you two see the news?"

Victoria nodded. They were preparing to go meet Matthews and ask him what all this was about.

"You two stay home and take care of Simona and Samuel. Let me go find Matthew. You won't be able to help him too if you go find him, so you can do him a favour by taking care of these two children. I have some knowledge of the internet so I should be able to help him. Let me go find him first."

Victoria gave it a thought and felt that Sean had a point. If she really went to find Matthews, she might not be able to provide any help, and no one would be taking care of the kids if Sean leaves the house.

She looked at Jayden, "Why don't you go with Sean? I'll stay behind and look after the two children."

Jayden nodded and said, "Call me if there's anything."

Victoria replied to him, "Okay."

Sean took out the car keys, "I'll drive."

"What's the matter with you people?"

Samuel could tell that there's something wrong with everyone's expression.

Victoria went over to coax him, "Something is going on at your daddy's company which is causing some conflicts. They are just going over to see the situation. Don't worry, have faith in your daddy. He will be able to handle it."

Victoria purposely told him that it was about Matthew's company. Samuel was not as easy to coax compared to Simona. This child was more sensible, so he would probably not believe her if she told her that nothing had happened.

"Then why is mommy not back yet?"

Simona asked.

Samuel sat on the side and lowered his eyes. If this was really about Matthew's company, then why did Sean need to take away his tablet?

Victoria held Simona in her arms, "Your daddy has to stay at the company to handle those matters, so your mummy is accompanying him."

"Then how can I and my brother help daddy and mommy?"

The little girl looked at Victoria and asked naively.

Victoria touched her little face, "You two can help them by just staying at home and not create any trouble for them."

The little girl nodded, cuddled inside Victoria's arms, and said, "I will not make any trouble for daddy and mommy. I'll be obedient."

Victoria hugged her and caressed her hair, "Simona is a good girl."

Samuel was not in a good mood, "Grandma, I'll go back to my room first."

"Samuel..." "I'm fine. I accidentally knocked down my secret base in my room and they've scattered all over the place. I'm going back to fix them up."

Victoria held Simona, "Then let me and Simona help you."

"No, no need."

Samuel quickly shook his hands, "I can just do it myself."

After saying that, he quickly ran into his room and locked the door behind me. He was afraid that Victoria might follow him in because his secret base was not knocked down at all.

He stood behind the door and looked at his cell phone beside his pillow. He quickly picked it up and dialed Dolores's number. Dolores's cell phone was confiscated for inspection at the police station, and they already returned it to her after that.

After she finished her surgery, the nurse had left it on the table beside her bed in the ward.

The cell phone on the table rang as Samuel called her. Dolores, who was still deeply asleep, got awakened by the ringing cell phone.

Coral was afraid that this might disturb Dolores's rest. Before she could walk over and take the cell phone away, Dolores turned her head over, "Hand me my phone."

Coral looked at the caller ID. Seeing that it was Samuel, she handed the phone to Dolores.

Dolores moved her body, trying to sit up. Coral came over, helped her, and put a pillow on her back, "You shouldn't move around now."

Dolores remained silent and answered the call.

"Mommy."

Samuel was a little thrilled.

He thought the call wouldn't go through.

Dolores was still feeling a little weak, so she tried to speak as calmly as possible, "Samuel."

"Where are you right now? Are you at daddy's company? Grandma said that something is going on in his company. You are accompanying him, right?"

Samuel directly asked a series of questions.

Dolores's hand touched the other side of the bed. She didn't feel any warmth on it, so Matthew must have left earlier on.

"Yes. So, you must listen to your grandma. Stay at home and don't go anywhere, okay?"

She wasn't sure if Victoria knew about it or not. But since she tried to coax Samuel like this, she probably had already known about this matter.

If not, she wouldn't have told Samuel that Dolores was in the company, accompanying Matthew.

"Mommy, then when are you coming back? I miss you."

Samuel laid against the headboard. For some reason, he suddenly felt very uncomfortable, wanting to see her.

Dolores held the phone and spoke in a hoarse voice, "Samuel, be a good boy, okay? Mummy will be back very soon

Chapter 403 Executing Someone as a Warning to Others

"Don't worry mommy, I'll be obedient and waiting for you to come back. But please remember to tell me if you have any problems, don't let me worry of you."

Listening to the sensible words from her son, Dolores Flores felt so sad, not sure whether it was because of her weak body, it seemed like her mind also became not firm anymore.

She was so afraid, afraid of her son knowing her situation, and afraid of this matter couldn't be resolved.

She was grabbing one of her fists and trying hard to restrain herself, so that her voice sounded normal, "Samuel, mommy still has something to do, I'll hang up the phone first."

"Okay..."

Dolores was not sure about whether Samuel Flores had finished his words or not, but she had already hung up the phone.

Coral served some dishes there, "Are you hungry already?"

Dolores had no appetite at all, there was a stone pressing on her heart, it was so heavy that made her heart pain.

She looked at Coral, "I'm not hungry..."

"How can it be if you don't eat? Some more, your body is so weak." Dolores hadn't finished her words, but Coral already interrupted.

She was holding the bowl, sitting beside the bed and looking at Dolores seriously, "The young master had told me that I must take good care of you when he left, this is the food that young master had let someone send here. This is good for your health, you're not alone now, even if you don't think about yourself, don't you have to think about the child in your belly?"

Coral didn't know about the current situation of Dolores, she only knew that she was bedridden because she was pregnant and she had the symptoms of threatened miscarriage.

From her perspective, Dolores should be nursed nicely.

Nothing was more important than eating. She was thin already, what should the child in her belly feed on if she still didn't want to eat?

"Worrying that you'll have no appetite, all of the foods that young master let someone send here have light taste, you can have a try." Coral pushed the bowl forward.

"I heard that the bird's nests of this shop are all supplied directly from Malaysia. The domestically produced bird's nests are heavily coated and bleached, they have no quality at all. Do you want to have some for the sake of yourself and the child in your belly?"

Hearing of Coral talking about bird's nest, she thought of the word 'saliva'. She had seen about the formation of bird's nest, which was the saliva of swiftlet.

"Ugh..."

She covered her nose and mouth, her stomach was having heavy reflexes, she removed the blanket and wanted to get up from the bed. Coral was shocked, she put down the bowl and stopped her, "Wait me a second, I'll go take a basin, you can't get up from bed."

Coral rushed to the washroom and took a plastic basin.

Dolores threw up some acidic water, there was nothing inside her stomach but she felt so disgusted, the feeling only improved after vomiting.

Coral gave her a pat on the back, her heart ached so much, "How can it be if you are like this."

Dolores straightened her back, "Give me a cup of water."

"Sure." Coral put down the basin, but then she worried that Dolores might be disgusted again seeing it, so Coral took the basin away. After washing her hands, she poured a cup of water for her.

"I want to rinse my mouth," Dolores said while looking at Coral who was busy doing things.

Coral went to the washroom to rinse the basin, then she took it out again.

Dolores rinsed her mouth, her breath became fresher now and the feeling of disgust was reduced.

Coral stood beside the bed and said worriedly, "What shall we do since you can't eat anything?"

At this moment, the ward's door was pushed open, the doctor walked inside with the nurse and assistant. It was the time for ward round, the doctor walked beside the bed and asked about Dolores's condition, "Do you experience symptom of stomachache?"

"No," Dolores said.

The doctor looked at the medical record, "Do you know about your health condition?"

Dolores nodded. When she gave birth to Samuel Flores and Simona Flores, the doctor had told her that she couldn't have baby anymore.

This time, she was also... quite surprised.

"Your body is weaker than normal, some more your last pregnancy had caused damage to your uterus, so the inner wall of your uterus is thinner which is easy to cause miscarriage. If you want to keep this baby, you must be bedridden for the first three months to let the fetal position be stable. We'll then plan about the later treatment based on the situation."

The doctor explained about the situation to her.

Dolores said, "I know, I want to keep the baby."

Even if the baby didn't come at the right time, but she still wanted it.

"Alright, you shall stay in the hospital for observations during this week. If you don't experience any stomachache or bleeding problem, then you can go back home and rest, just that you must come to the hospital for regular checkup."

"I think that your body is too thin and weak, you must eat more and keep yourself in good health, this will help to stabilize the fetal position."

"She throws up heavily and doesn't feel like eating." Coral immediately interrupted, "Is there any antiemetic for her to let her eat some?"

Many pregnant ladies would suffer from morning sickness, in some severe cases, they would be given some vitamin pills to stop the vomits. But in the case of Dolores, he didn't suggest her to have pills, "Have frequent small meals and eat those foods with light taste. I'll let my assistant send a recipe for you later, you can prepare according to the recipe, it may help to reduce the symptom of vomiting."

Coral pointed at the bird's nest on the table, "This is quite light-tasted, but she still can't eat."

The doctor glanced at it and told Dolores, "You can eat some, the taste is quite light and it is easy to be absorbed. Some more, the bird's nest consists of sialic acid which will benefit the development of nervous system in the fetus..."

"Ughh..."

Dolores felt disgusted once she heard of eating the saliva.

She couldn't control herself.

Coral immediately took the basin there, this time Dolores just retched, she didn't really throw up.

The doctor looked at Dolores's situation, "I'll give you the parenteral nutrition."

She was retching, which obviously meant that her stomach was empty.

"Okay," Coral said, it couldn't be if she continued not having foods.

"Get more rest." The doctor advised.

Dolores said okay.

Not long after the doctor left, there was a nurse coming to give Dolores the intravenous infusion solution. The doctor had given her the one-day dosed solution, she should still mainly rely on eating.

At the WY Group.

Sean Lee and Jayden Nelson arrived at the company, they directly went into Matthew Nelson's office without knocking the door.

But there was nobody inside, he was at the Public Relations Department. Armand Bernie was guiding people to make draft of the indictment.

The news was spread overnight, it was obvious that somebody had done it purposely.

Obviously, Jeffery Harris was the one who was putting pressure on him.

“There were water armies.” They were posting and commenting everywhere, their words were so offensive. All of them were saying that Dolores had murdered someone and telling that she had a gun with her which had disturbed the public security, shooting someone which was unforgivable and so on...

Just dealing with the media couldn't settle the problem, these keyboard warriors were also the culprits which had caused the news to spread so fast.

Matthew also thought that this thing should be settled faster, executing someone as a warning to others, so that those internet users who believed on the rumors easily could be deterred!

“Find some of them who are more remarkable, then check their IDs and sue them.”

“Checking the IDs require professional.” This involved others' privacies, so it required a technician.

At this time, the closed door was pushed open by someone suddenly, Sean stood at the door, “Let me find those people.”

He not only had a nice-looking face, he didn't waste his time staying at AC too.

He walked inside and pulled a chair, he took a laptop from the person beside him and started his play.

He had first targeted the three more active accounts...Convenient Marriage: Mr. Nelson's Love Trap

Chapter 404 Lure a Snake Out of a Hole

They had divided their tasks orderly, everything was running smoothly according to the plan.

“Come out with me, I have something to tell you.” Jayden Nelson turned and walked outside after saying this, he walked into the reception room. The spacious room was shone brightly by the light leaking into the room through the window, Jayden Nelson stood beside the window with his hands behind.

“What is going on?” He turned his head and looked at his son, “Have you offended someone?”

This was obviously not the thing that would happen under normal condition.

Unless it was due to someone’s attempt.

Jayden Nelson was also a powerful character in the past, just that he had now retired, but it didn’t mean that his IQ had dropped.

Matthew was standing in front of the French window, facing the light. He was still wearing the wrinkled shirt that he wore yesterday, the sleeves were rolled on the arms and both of his hands put in the pockets, he stood very straight.

His eyes didn’t show any emotion, the cold but solid facial features were gorgeous but serious, the coldness from his core let people can’t help retreating.

Jayden knew that the gap between them in Matthew’s mind was still not closed, he lowered his voice and said, “Do you need my help?”

It had involved other’s life, it was not a trivial matter.

Jayden didn't care of Matthew's coldness, it was more important to settle this matter now.

"No," Matthew said coldly, "You shall go back first."

He turned and walked away after saying this, Jayden stopped him, "Do you know who have done this?"

Matthew stopped walking, but he didn't answer at the end, "Please help me to take good care of Samuel and Simona."

He continued walking again after saying, but Jayden called him again, "Don't worry of the two children. There are many things that you can't see only from the surface, I have something to tell you after this thing comes to an end."

Matthew could roughly get what Jayden wanted to tell him, the thorn between them, wasn't it just Victoria Forbis.

"We'll see."

Matthew left the reception room, the reason Jayden had chosen this place just now was because this place was quiet. When Matthew just walked into the workspace of Public Relations Department, the phone in his pocket rang, Boyce Shawn was calling him.

"Chloe Chambers doesn't go out at all, we must find a way to lure her out," Boyce said.

Chloe Chambers had heard from Eddie Chambers during that day, that she should avoid going outside if she had nothing to do, so she had kept it in mind. It was very sensitive during this period of time, she didn't want to create new problems anymore. She didn't go out usually, even if she did, she only went down to the park in the residential area.

Boyce couldn't find a chance to catch her, he was staying at the same residential area as Jeffery Harris and the security there was very good. If Chloe didn't leave the residential area, then he couldn't catch her.

"Maybe you can ask her out for a meeting?" Boyce suggested. He knew that it was not a right time to let Matthew meet Chloe, but this was a key point. If he couldn't catch Chloe to threaten Jeffery and Eddie, they would keep on using Dolores to force Matthew to marry Chloe.

"Settled, I will pass the rest to you." Sean successfully got the IDs of those active people at the time and passed the rest to Armand.

Armand was working on the laws, so he knew the most about which crimes to be charged with these people.

Matthew lifted his eyes and his eyes fell on Sean who was talking just now. Dolores's health condition was bad now, some more she was pregnant.

About the matter of luring Chloe out, he couldn't go by himself.

But Sean could, Jeffery Harris and Eddie Chambers had joined the armed forces together, then they were married and had children around the same time, Chloe was just one year younger than Sean. The relationship between the two families were good, in addition to the relationship between Jeffery and Eddie, Sean also knew Chloe well.

Sean could handle this task completely.

"Noah." Matthew called him, "Follow me to my office for a while."

Sean didn't have any objection for sure, he wanted to ask Matthew about something also, why would this kind of thing happen?

Who had done it?

Sean followed Matthew to his office, Sean couldn't wait to ask about it even if the door was still not closed, "Who have framed my sister-in-law?"

Matthew's back was facing him, he wouldn't answer this question.

Letting him know would only put him in a dilemma.

"Help me to do one thing."

Sean felt it incumbent on him, "You can just tell me, I will help if I can."

Matthew turned and looked at Sean, "You're familiar with Chloe."

Sean nodded undoubtedly, was this related to Chloe?

Why was this thing so complicated?

“Is this related to the Chambers family?” Sean couldn’t help asking.

“You don’t have to know this, you just have to help me to lure Chloe out.”

By telling him the role played by Chloe, Sean would definitely know the ins and outs of this matter.

Sean could feel that Matthew didn’t want to let him know, he looked at Matthew for a few seconds, then he turned and left, “I’ll go lure her out.”

Since Matthew didn’t want to let him know, then he wouldn’t ask.

Just completing the thing that Matthew had told him was enough.

He took the escalator to the basement parking, he pressed on the unlock key, then pulled the car’s door open and got into the car. His phone rang at the time, it was Tommy Huff who was looking for him.

He had to go to the shopping mall now, this game hadn’t ended.

Tommy let him go together with Dolores.

“I have no time.” Sean hit on the hands-free button, then threw his phone onto the front passenger seat.

He reversed his car out of the garage.

“You can’t be absent.” Even if this was a game, but it was contract-bound, penalty for the contract was needed if they didn’t complete it.

“You must come, and...”

“I’ve said that I have no time, do you understand?” Sean grabbed his phone and hung up the phone.

The phone rang again when he just put it down, he grabbed the phone and hit on the answer button, he yelled, “You settle by yourself!”

Sean switched off his phone after telling this, he worried that Tommy would continue calling him.

He drove very fast to the house of Chambers family.

The two families lived close to each other and he had gone to the same school as Chloe, Chloe had always followed behind him, calling him brother when they were young.

He stopped the car by the roadside, walked there and knocked the door, only Chloe Chambers and Mrs. Chambers were staying at home while Eddie Chambers was not. It was Mrs Chambers who had opened the door for him.

“Noah, starting when you’re back?” Mrs. Chambers asked warmly when she saw that it was Sean.

Sean smiled, “I just came back not long before.”

“Faster come in.” Mrs. Chambers stepped aside to let Sean come in, Mrs. Chambers then followed after closing the door, “You’re just too stubborn to get angry with your father, after all you’re still his son, you shall come back more often when you’re free to visit him.”

The two families were familiar with each other, so the way they talked was direct and not beating the bush.

“Can I have some water?”

Sean didn't want to listen to these, he was already an adult and he knew what he was doing.

Mrs. Chambers patted her thigh, “I just focus on talking with you, I've forgotten to ask you if you're thirsty, what drink do you want?”

“Plain water is okay.” Sean sat on the sofa and glanced at the second floor, it was the time to come to the topic, he asked tentatively, “Why I don't see Chloe, is she at home? I feel like it's been a long time since I saw her.”

Mrs. Chambers was pouring the water, “Chloe is upstairs, she is quite in earnest these two days that she doesn't hang out with her friends at all.”

“Oh.” Sean raised his eyebrow subconsciously, it was good that she was at home, so that he had the confidence to fool her going out.

“Drink some water.” Mrs. Chambers gave him a cup of water.

Sean took the water, “What is she doing at home every day? Don't she feel bored?” Convenient Marriage: Mr. Nelson's Love Trap

“Who knows, this child...” Mrs. Chambers noticed quite soon that Sean seemed to want to see Chloe, he and Chloe were about the same age, they have known each other since their childhood, they were basically made for each other, and they knew each other very well, in Mrs. Chambers eyes, they were perfect for each other.

She had watched Sean grow up.

When she noticed that Sean wanted to see Chloe, she changed the topic just as she wanted to say something, "I will get her, you guys should catch up."

Sean smiled, of course he liked that.

He was here to see Chloe anyways.

Mrs. Chambers went upstairs, Chloe was sitting in front of her mirror checking Matthews' news of these years, most of them were about finances.

Squeak--

Mrs. Chambers opened the door and went inside, "Chloe..."

Chloe closed her laptop and looked at her mother, "Mom, why didn't you knock?"

"I forgot." Mrs. Chamber looked at the laptop she just closed, "What were you looking at?"

"Nothing." Chloe put her laptop in the drawer, "Can I help you?"

"Noah is here." Mrs. Chamber said.

Chloe was a little surprised, "He is back?"

Mrs. Chambers nodded, "I heard he just got back, he came looking for you, Chloe..."

"Mom." Chloe gestured a "no" to her mother.

She knew what she wanted to say.

It could be nothing except for her to be with Sean, she thought Sean and her were a good couple.

Mrs. Chambers didn't know about Eddie wanting her to marry Matthew.

Chloe got up and went towards the door.

Mrs. Chambers didn't give up and continued, "Chloe, our family and the Harris family are perfect..."

"Mom." Chloe interrupted her mother, she was quite impatient, "I don't like him, don't tell me that we are made for each other, stop getting us together, okay?"

Mrs. Chambers didn't understand, Sean was handsome, his family background was great, why didn't she like him?

"Chloe, doesn't a girl need a man she understood well, with a good family, our family and Harris family are a good match, why don't you think about it?"

Chloe didn't want to listen to her mother anymore, she looked at her and said, "Mom, I like someone else."

"Who is it?" Mrs. Chambers was surprised, Chloe had very high expectations, she had rejected many men, now that she liked someone, Mrs. Chambers was very curious.

Chloe didn't answer her directly, "You'll know."

Then, she went downstairs in her slippers.

"When did you get back?" Chloe asked Sean who was sitting on the couch downstairs.

Sean looked up at her, "Not long ago."

Chloe sat down on the couch and took an apple from the fruit plate, "Why are you here visiting me?"

"We haven't met in a while, have we?"

Chloe thought for a while, he seemed to be right, "It's been two years, last time when I met you was new years, you haven't been back the past two years."

"Time flies so fast, you have grown into a woman, do you have a boyfriend?"

When Sean asked about her having a boyfriend, she saw Matthew's face in her mind, the apple she was chewing on suddenly got more sweet, she smiled, "I do."

"Wow, you have high expectations, who can live up to that?" Chloe was very picky, Marina told him once that she had been on blind dates before and would just leave them, she would be too straight forward and just say that the person was too ugly.

Actually he wasn't ugly, he was just normal looking, had a good family background, but she wouldn't give him a chance at all.

Chloe looked at Sean for a few seconds, "You know him."

"I know him? Who is it?" Sean was quite curious, he didn't have a lot of friends, and he didn't know a lot of people, as far as he remembered, there was nobody who was close to her age.

Mrs. Chambers was listening, she also wanted to hear who he was.

"I won't tell you right now, you will know when the time is ready, then..." She didn't say the rest of the sentence.

If she really wanted to marry Matthew. Sean would have to call her sister in law.

And not her calling Sean brother.

This would change.

"Why so secretive?" Sean asked, even though he was very curious about her boyfriend, but he didn't forget about why he was there, "Do you have time now? Let's go have some fun."

Chloe looked at him in disdain, "I always have time, but you, can you go out? Are you not afraid people will recognize you? You are a star now."

Sean looked at her, "And stars aren't human? They don't need to eat and sleep? If I want to have fun I won't be afraid to be recognized."

Chloe smiled, "Alright, wait for me, I will get changed."

Sean said, "Okay, I will wait here."

Chloe went upstairs, after a little more than ten minutes, she came downstairs in a beautiful outfit.

Sean got up, "Let's go."

"Where are we going?" Chloe asked.

Sean looked at her, in his eyes a strange look passed by, "You'll see when we get there."

"Are you trying to surprise me?" Chloe asked laughing.

Sean looked at her and squinted his eyes, "Kind of." Convenient Marriage: Mr. Nelson's Love Trap

Chloe was very curious about what the surprise was that Sean was talking about, but she didn't ask anymore, since it was a surprise, it must be something she couldn't think of.

The two of them left the Harris house, this moment a Jeep pulled up, Eddie got out of the car and raised his brows when he saw Sean, "Noah, you are back?"

Sean smiled and nodded.

"You two are going out?" Eddie asked them.

Chloe nodded, "We haven't met in such a long time, he is taking me out for some fun."

Normally he wouldn't interfere with Chloe and Sean, but this time he couldn't leave it.

He had asked people to spread the news about Dolores killing someone, now it was going viral out there, it was the time for Jeffery to put pressure on Matthew, he came back to pick up Chloe to go to the Harris family.

"You cannot go with Noah today, Jeffery and I have already made an appointment to go to his house."

"To my house?" Sean was a little nervous, he almost got Chloe out successfully, now it seemed that it was going to change.

No, he had to get Chloe out.

"You adults are meeting, Chloe and I are not going to join that, Chloe, let's go out." As he said so, Sean put his arm around Chloe's shoulder and was going to lead her away.

Chloe had been in the house for a few days and she really wanted to go out.

So she kept quiet.

"Chloe." Eddie called her, "Didn't you hear what I said?"

Chloe stopped, she turned around and looked at him, "Dad."

"Mrs. Chambers, Chloe and I haven't seen each other in a long time, we are just going out for a little, when we are back... I will bring her home safely." When he said that, Sean had an idea.

Could he bring her back safely?

Why would Matthew ask him to bring Chloe out?

In this moment, Sean suddenly knew that this didn't only have something to do with the Chambers family, maybe his father even knew.

"Since you are telling me that this is not a good time, then let's cancel it, I have decided to go home, why don't we go together." Sean pretended not to know anything.

Eddie was quiet for a while, then he said, "Okay, let's go together."

He didn't care if Sean knew about this, this was Jeffery's business.

The Chambers family and the Harris family were living in the same area, they didn't need a car, they just had to cross a park to get there.

Eddie was walking in front, Sean and Chloe were in the back, walking close to each other, he pulled Chloe for her to walk slower, "What are you doing?"

Sean put his hand on her lips, "Shh!"

Chloe blinked her eyes, as if trying to ask him what he was doing.

Sean looked at Eddie, he didn't notice anything.

He leaned towards her ear and said in a voice that only the two of them could hear, "Tell me the truth, are your father and my father involved in something?"

Chloe turned to look at him, "Did your Dad not tell you?"

"Tell me what?"

"What are you guys whispering about?" At some point Eddie stopped walking, he stood there and looked at the two of them.

Sean quickly answered, "Nothing!"

Eddie looked at them, since the moment he stopped Chloe to talk to her, he already knew, he just didn't let them know, but because of the question Sean asked Chloe he knew that Sean didn't know about the secret between him and Jeffery. If Jeffery didn't say anything, he would have his reasons, he heard Jeffery talk about the good relationship between Sean and Matthew not only once.

He must be afraid that Sean would get in between them if he knew.

That was why he interrupted them now, Chloe thought that Sean was a close friend, she would have told him.

This way, it might ruin their plans, up until now it had been quite smooth.

"Hurry up." Eddie waved to his daughter, "Come here, I want to talk to you."

Chloe noticed that her father didn't want her to tell Sean, so she jogged towards her father, "Dad."

"You are an adult, why are you still so immature?"

Chloe hooked her arm into his and smiled, "I was just walking a little faster, what's immature about that?"

Eddie looked at her, since Sean was there too, he didn't say anything.

In that moment, they arrived at the Harris family.

Sean went over to open the door, nobody was home, Jeffery and Marina were at the study, since the news were spreading wildly, Jeffery already knew.

“Who did this?” Marina asked angrily.

She knew what Jeffery was thinking about, he just wanted Matthew and Dolores to break up, he didn't want breaking the death in.

Now the whole situation was much worse, if Matthew thought that it was Jeffery, this would become a huge misunderstanding.

Jeffery was not stupid either, it must have been either the Chambers family, or the Herbert family.

He and Eddie were close to each other, so his suspicion was on the Herbert family.

“Are you going to think this matter again seriously?” Marina hadn't slept well these days, she was worried about this.

Jeffery sighed, “As soon as we do something, there is no going back, I cannot allow a woman who is not on Matthew's side to be with him.”

A man had always failed at the beauty pass, clearly Matthew was bewildered by Dolores.

Just like Jayden was bewildered by Victoria back then. _____ Convenient Marriage: Mr. Nelson's Love Trap

Chapter 407 They Were Like Enemies

Jeffery thought that Jayden had betrayed Jolene, so he could not let Matthew do so.

He could not allow Jolene's son to get close to Victoria.

Marina sighed. She knew what Jeffery was thinking. She was worried that the situation would become more serious and would destroy the close relationship between Jeffery and Matthew.

“Do you want to ask Eddie whether he revealed the information?” Marina asked.

They should find out the truth of the matter, otherwise Matthew might misunderstand Jeffery and it will form a grudge between them.

Jeffery pressed his eyebrows with fingers, “You make a call to Eddie and tell him that I want to meet him.”

Jeffery intended to ask Eddie some questions. This matter hurt Dolores a lot after all. Fortunately, Matthew and Dolores kept their marriage secret, so fewer people knew that they had married. Dolores's matter did not affect him much. Otherwise, the situation could get out of his hand.

Marina walked to the door and opened it. At the same time, Sean stood in front of the door and wanted to knock on the door. Both of them met each other coincidentally, “Mom.”

“Didn't you say you wouldn't come back in the next few days?” Marina asked.

Sean said with a smile, "I've changed my mind. By the way, Eddie is here."

Marina took a glance at Sean's shoulder and saw Eddie and Chloe behind him. She was going to call Eddie, but Eddie was here, so she did not have to make a call. Marina took Sean by his hand and walked out of the room, and looked at Eddie, "Jeffery is in the study. He has something to say to you, and he asks you to go into the study now."

Eddie nodded, and he immediately knew what Jeffery wanted to say to him. Eddie had prepared the countermeasure when he disclosed the information at the time.

"Chloe, you should be mature and steady," Eddie looked stern, and he admonished Chloe not to speak carelessly in front of Sean.

Chloe understood Eddie's intentions, and she nodded, "I understand."

Then, Eddie walked into the study at ease and closed the door. Jeffery got up and pulled a chair for Eddie. Both of them sat in front of the window.

"I'm sure you've seen the news on the Internet, right?" Eddie spoke first.

Jeffery nodded honestly.

"I came to you for this matter," Eddie said, and he looked at Jeffery with his face clear, "It is my fault for not doing well in this matter."

Jeffery was stunned because he thought that it was the Herbert family who did it. How could it be Eddie?

“Well, I knew the Herbert family is eager to revenge Dolores. I shouldn't suggest you use Sampson to deal with Dolores at the time. I heard that Sampson was very fond of Dolores and the Herbert family felt resentment against Dolores. So they gave wide publicity of this matter, and I knew it was the Herbert family who did it. I didn't care about it when Landon said this at the time. I thought it was just a big talk, and I didn't expect that he dared to do it,” Eddie felt guilty and said.

Soon he changed his subject and said, “You and I enlisted the armed forces at the same time. Our friendship is a forget-the-age relationship now. I don't hide my mind from you. Now the matter played out like this, and we can only push the boat with the current.”

Eddie made a clean breast of everything. Jeffery could not say anything more, but he started to feel hatred against the Herbert family.

Jeffery looked at Eddie, “Do you mean...”

Eddie nodded, “It's time to put pressure on Matthew now.”

Jeffery hesitated. He would not hesitate to put pressure on Matthew if Dolores was not pregnant. However, Dolores had conceived Matthew's baby, and Jeffery was afraid that it was difficult for Matthew to compromise with him.

“Why, are you embarrassing now?” Eddie noticed that Jeffery felt embarrassed, and he persuaded, “Do we still have a way to escape? I've handed over my beloved and only daughter.”

Jeffery understood that there was no way back to go.

He could not disappoint Eddie as well.

“I'll go meet him later,” Jeffery clenched his hands into fists.

“Does Noah know about this?” Eddie thought it was something fishy when Sean suddenly went back home. Sean seldom went back home when he grew up. He suddenly went back home at this time, and Eddie felt something wrong with it.

That was why Eddie asked Jeffery about it.

Jeffery shook his head, “I didn't tell him. He has a good relationship with Matthew. Matthew helped Noah a lot when Noah didn't return home. That's why he can live leisurely outside. He is closer to Matthew than me.”

He did not dare to let Sean know about it.

Jeffery understood and was glad that Sean returned home in time. Fortunately, Chloe did not go out with Sean. Jeffery did not know whether Chloe could come back to them if she went out with Sean.

Eddie asked, “You didn't tell Noah. What about Matthew? Will he tell this to Noah?”

It was no harm to Matthew if Sean knew this matter after all. Matthew could also take advantage of Sean to support his side.

Jeffery answered confidently, “Matthew will not tell him.”

He expected that Matthew would not place Sean in a difficult position to tell Sean what he had done.

Eddie nodded and felt at ease if Matthew did not tell Sean about this matter since it was good that fewer people knew about this. Eddie did not want to create another obstacle. He stood up, "I'll go back first."

Jeffery said, "Let me send you out."

Both of them walked out of the study together. Marina had cut the fruit and placed it on the coffee table in the living room. She saw them walked out of the study and said, "Please stay for lunch."

"I'm sorry to turn you down. My wife should already prepare for lunch in the house," Eddie looked at Chloe and said, "Chloe, we should go now."

Chloe got up and followed behind Eddie to leave.

Sean could not help but be curious about the subject they had discussed. He asked indifferently with a demanding tone, "What are you guys plotting?"

Sean tried to get words out of Chloe in the living room when Eddie and Jeffery were in the study. However, Chloe was not as simple as in Eddie's house at the time. She did not say anything to answer his questions. It proved that they had something to hide from him.

Jeffery was unhappy, "Who do you think you are talking to?"

"I have a good attitude. What are you and Eddie doing furtively and in an underhand way?" Sean had a guess, but he did not want to admit it. Dolores's matter had made a lot of noise. Ordinary people could not do it. They also had to consider the Nelson family and the Harris family, even if they wanted to do so.

However, now...

Matthew asked him to lure Chloe to go out of the house. Eddie and Jeffery talked secretly. The matter seemed to be complicated, but it was simple. It was Eddie and Jeffery who did this. The reason why Matthew asked him to lure Chloe was to threaten Eddie and Jeffrey.

However, he did not know why Eddie and Jeffery wanted to do it.

Jeffery frowned and was disgusted by Sean's words. He thought, "Doing something furtively?"

"You bastard! We were talking about business matters. So am I still have to inform you? You're not a kid anymore. Don't you know how to respect people? China is known as the nation of etiquette. Look at yourself. Do you even know what etiquette is? Humph, a star? A star is only an entertainer in ancient times. You're still delighted about it. You're such a low fellow!"

Sean listened to his words until the blue veins popped out on his forehead, and he clenched his hands into fists.

Marina listened to them by the side, and it made her shudder. She held Sean back and said, "Noah, don't be angry about it. Your father is always short-tempered."

Sean sneered and pointed at Jeffery, "When did he ever take a fancy on me? Did he ever like the things I did? Just an entertainer? Well, I'm going to be the most popular entertainer in China. I'll see how does he get with me!"

"Noah, how can you talk to your father like that," Marina pulled him back, "He is your father. Don't be so stubborn. You guys always quarreled every time met. You guys don't look like a father and a son."

Marina's eyes were swimming with tears. She was sad about them. Sean and Eddie were like enemies rather than like a father and a son. Convenient Marriage: Mr. Nelson's Love Trap

Chapter 408 Who Are You?

"If I could choose, I wouldn't choose to be his son!" Sean shook off Marina's hands and ran out of the house.

Marina sat on the sofa and cried. She also had complaints against Jeffery, "Our son has grown up, and you still talked so harshly. If it were me, I was also angry about it. You were always busy since he was born. The days you stayed in the army were more than that you stayed at home. When he was a child, he was like a fatherless child. As he grew up, you asked him to enlist in the armed force for only a word, and you even beat him when he was not willing to join the army. How could he listen to you? Did you do what a father does? You always say that he has rebelled. Why don't you think about why he rebelled so much against you?"

As she talked, she got more and more aggrieved. Marina also felt aggrieved as she had to take care of the household all by herself. Since her husband was a headstrong man, he would not be gentle with her. To make things worse, her husband and her only son would quarrel with each other whenever they met. Of course, this home did not feel like home.

Marina cried sadly, and the tears rolled down her cheeks.

Jeffery complained, "You're not a kid anymore. Why are you still crying? What an embarrassment if others see you crying!"

Marina suddenly stood up and said, "I wanna cry, and I'll cry in this neighborhood. I want to let all the neighbors know it to lose your face."

"You're irrational!" Jeffery was angry and turned around to leave.

Marina stopped him, "Jeffery, I tell you. I'll divorce you if you quarrel with Noah again in the future."

Jeffery was stunned. Marina had been managing household affairs diligently and never disobeyed him after marrying him. She even did not say that she wanted to divorce in these years.

"Are you mad?"

"Yes, I'm mad! I'm driven mad because of you. Did I ever ask anything of you after I married you? What I want is we can get along like a family. I always support you regardless of what you do, and I never say no to you. But have you ever been tolerant of me? Have you ever consider my feelings?" Marina talked about her grievances over the years with her face covered in tears, "How many days you were by my side when I was pregnant? When I was pregnant, I went to the hospital for body checkups alone. During the later stage of my pregnancy, my legs cramped, and I couldn't even sleep at night. Where were you at that time, my husband, the father of my son? You never care about me!"

Jeffery stood rooted to the ground. It was the first time Marina lost herself and talked so much in front of him.

No matter how hard-hearted he was, he still had feelings.

He admitted that he had been busy with his career during the young times, and he paid less attention to his family.

However, he would not admit his mistake.

It was his character. Jeffery could not bow to coax his wife and say sorry to her, even if he realized he was wrong.

Jeffery walked over to Marina and took a tissue to wipe her tears, "Don't get angry, okay?"

Marina turned around and did not speak.

Jeffery sighed, "We are at this old age. Do you still want me to coax you?"

Marina cried more loudly.

Jeffery was a straight man and did not know how to be gentle to his wife. Marina never doubted his love, and she also believed that Jeffery would not cheat.

Marina knew his temper well after living with him for most of her life. She could not help but sigh. It was impossible to ask Jeffery to say sorry to her. Marina said to divorce him was to scare him. They would not divorce for real.

However, she felt aggrieved in her heart.

No woman did not desire to be loved.

Marina was an ordinary woman who also wanted to be loved.

She pushed Jeffery away and turned around, and went into the room.

Jeffery stood in the living room, and he was in a fix.

He did not know what to do.

It was the first time he had no idea what to do next in his life.

He sat on the sofa and gave a deep sigh.

He did not go to Matthew.

Sean walked out of the house. He went to Armand instead of Matthew.

Armand had drafted the indictment at this time. Sean stopped him when he was about to go to the court.

“Armand, can I talk to you for a few minutes?”

“I'm not free now,” Armand decisively refused to talk to Sean. He was busy, and he was not free to bullshit with Sean.

Sean did not care about what Armand wanted to do. He pulled Armand to somewhere with nobody. Armand glared at him, “Knock it off. I'm busy now.”

Sean continued to walk forward while said, “I have no-nonsense.”

Armand followed him when he looked at Sean's anxious face.

They walked over to a tranquil place that was next to the tree, and they stopped there. Sean looked at Armand with a serious face, "You tell me, who framed Dolores?"

Armand frowned and asked him in return, "Don't you know?"

He thought that Sean should not be unaware of what Jeffery did as he was Jeffery's son.

Sean narrowed his eyes, "Is my dad?"

Sean was not sure about it and asked in a hesitating tone. He wished that this matter would have nothing to do with Jeffery for sure.

However, Armand gave him a head-on blow with his answer, "Why are you still asking me since you've known about it?"

Sean did not come back to his senses for a few seconds. He thought, "How could it relate to Jeffery?"

"Why would Jeffery do this?" He pondered.

"Hey, are you okay?" Armand patted Sean on his shoulder, "I have to go now. I still have a business to do," Armand turned around to leave, but he seemed to have thought of something. He turned around again and looked at Sean, "If you have time, you go and persuade your father. They can discuss peacefully without hurting feelings."

Sean snorted, "He always behaves egoistically. He won't listen to other's words. Nobody can convince him."

Armand looked at him and knew that Sean could not do anything about it. He put his palm on Sean's shoulder, "Take care yourself."

Armand knew Sean must be in a difficult position between his father and Matthew.

"Armand, do you know where is Dolores now?" Sean wanted to see Dolores, and he wondered how she was.

Armand was about to tell him the actual place where Dolores stayed but then hurriedly said, "I don't know."

It was better for Dolores if nobody disturbed her at this time as her physical condition was weak. Matthew also wished they would not disturb Dolores to rest.

It was apparent that Armand knew where Dolores was. Sean stopped him, "I won't let you go if you don't tell me."

Armand looked at him, "Why are you so childish?"

Sean ignored him. In a word, Sean would not let Armand go if Armand did not tell him.

Armand could not do anything with Sean, "I'll tell you, but you don't tell Matthew that it's me who tells you where Dolores is."

Sean said, "Alright."

Armand finally told him the hospital that Dolores stayed, and then Sean let him go.

Sean parted way with Armand and went straight to the hospital that Dolores stayed.

Sean parked his car and walked into the hospital. He found that Matthew had sealed off the floor where Dolores stayed.

Nobody was able to go to the floor at all.

There were police officers and Matthew's men, and they guarded all of the entrances and exits.

"I'm Ms. Flores's friend. Could you pass a message to her that I'm here? She will see me for sure," Charles sat in the wheelchair. He knew Dolores's matter since the Herbert family had made a lot of noise of it. He took some time to find out where Dolores was.

Sean saw the person far off, who guarded at the entrance, stopped someone there. He walked over to Charles and looked at him. Sean did not know him at all, "Who are you?" _____

Charles looked up, he stayed calm and concealed all his emotions when he saw Sean.

When he investigated Jeffery, Jeffery had a son who was a popular celebrity... He was very surprised at that time, he didn't expect that Jeffery's son became a celebrity.

"I'm Ms. Flores' friend." Charles said that indifferently.

Sean nodded, it turned out that he knew Dolores, he definitely saw the news and specially came to visit her, right?

That way, they were all acquaintances.

“Charles.”

The man guarding the door didn't go to inform and didn't let them in either.

“What do you mean?” Sean looked very unhappy.

“Order from higher ups not to let anyone in.”

Sean was speechless.

Actually he didn't want to let Matthew know that he came to visit Dolores, but he couldn't go inside anyway if he didn't call him.

He was at a loss.

Charles definitely couldn't go inside, but because Sean was there, he would have a chance to enter together with Sean, he looked up at Sean, “You can't go inside, too?”

Sean didn't say anything.

Not that Sean couldn't go inside, he didn't know how to tell Matthew that he didn't succeed in doing what Matthew told him to do to, and he even came to the hospital without telling him, Matthew would definitely be unhappy.

“You're already here, what a pity if you don't try?” Charles instigated Sean to call Matthew and strive to get the chance to go inside.

Sean thought so too, he was already at the hospital, seemed like he was quite unwilling to just leave like that.

Thus, he took his cellphone out and walked to the side to call Matthew.

The line was busy, Sean frowned as he had to hung up, planning to call again later.

However, before he could make a call, he got a call from Matthew, just now he was in a call with Boyce, talking about how Sean didn't lead Chloe out.

The call was connected, Sean immediately called, “Matthew...”

“What happened?”

Sean opened his mouth, wanting to say that he was at the hospital, but then he swallowed it back.

“I was going to succeed, I met Eddie and he brought Chloe back again.” Sean simply said that.

He didn't say that he knew that Jeffery was involved in that matter.

Matthew was standing in the highest floor of the tower at that time, he stood still by the French window for a long time, looking down at the bustling city.

“Sorry...” Sean felt quite bad at heart, he didn't know what he should do, help Matthew deal with Jeffery or help Jeffery deal with Matthew.

He wasn't willing to help any of them.

But Jeffery and Matthew were dealing with each other.

He didn't know how did he get to such a condition.

He didn't know how to solve it.

He had mixed feelings and felt very helpless.

He was also very flustered.

Matthew's face was tensed.

Eddie pondered, it was normal for Sean not to bring Chloe out, but he didn't have something to bargain with because of that, he could only be the passive one for Dolores' matter.

Not like there were no chances at all, but...

He slowly closed his eyes and concealed all his mixed feelings.

“Matthew, I'm in the hospital now, I want to see Dolores... Can I?” Sean asked so cautiously.

Matthew was surprised, how could he go to the hospital?

“I won't disturb her, I'll just take a look at her in place of Samuel.” Sean reacted quickly, using Samuel as his excuse, otherwise he was afraid that Matthew would get angry... After all, he went to the hospital without Matthew's permission.

“Not for long, she's not in a good condition.” Matthew reminded him again.

Sean said, “I get it, I'll just take a look and leave.”

Sean handed his phone to the man guarding the door and heard him say 'I understand' before returning the cellphone to Sean, the phone screen showed that the call had ended.

“Go inside.” that man gave him the way.

Charles followed Sean inside but he was held off again.

“You can't go inside.”

Charles calmly said, “We're together, should I call Matthew to get in?”

The man guarding the door hesitated, that guy unexpectedly dared to call Matthew's name directly.

Sean turned his head and glanced at Charles , “You really know Dolores?”

“Otherwise, what did I come here for? Furthermore, with my legs like these, can I harm her?” Charles acted like he was so wronged and angry

“Let him go inside with me, we'll leave quickly.” Sean said that as he looked at the man guarding the door.

That man hesitated but sighted in the end, “Go inside.”

Charles secretly sighed in relief.

He turned the wheelchair and followed Sean.

They passed through the corridor, the whole floor was booked that it was so quiet with no one coming in or out, they soon found Dolores' ward in the innermost position.

Dolores was still laying on the bed with a nutrition injection on her hand from the doctor, Coral just looked at her, afraid that something would happen to her once she didn't pay attention.

Dolores said several times that Coral didn't need to be so cautious, but she just wouldn't listen, she even said something like, "You're not alone now, Young Master told me to come and take care of you because he trusts me, I can't let anything happen to you."

Dolores couldn't change her mind so she had to let her keep staring at her like a child.

Knock, knock...

Someone knocked the room's door at that time, Coral suddenly guessed and looked at Dolores, "Did Young Master come?"

Dolores was also quite nervous, she was in a daze last night so she didn't have time to see his expression clearly.

She hoped to be pregnant and hoped that Matthew could come and see their child's birth for himself, let him experience it to make up for what he had lost in Samuel and Simona.

The hand that she put under the blanket was tightly squeezing the bedsheets as she stared at the door.

Coral opened the door, right when she was going to speak, she saw a man sitting on a wheelchair beside Sean... She knew Sean, but who was the one on the wheelchair?

"Where's Dolores?" Sean spoke first.

Coral hesitated for a moment, "This is..."

"I'm Dolores' friend, I especially came to see her." Sean said that.

Charles saw the room through the gap, the ward was very large, there was a French window on one side of the room which allowed the room to get enough sunlight, he could only see the edge of a bed but not Dolores.

"All right." they were all let in so they should know each other, Coral turned sideways to let them in.

Dolores heard the sound at the door, knowing that it wasn't Matthew, she was disappointed as she sighed in relief.

She had yet to figure out what her mood should be when facing Matthew.

"Dolores." Sean called her seriously.

Dolores forced a smile out, "Come inside and take a seat."

Sean pulled a chair and sat beside he bed, he was silent for so long like he was thinking of something.

"No matter how, I will stand by your side." he couldn't let Jeffery to run wild, no matter for what reason, framing Dolores as a murderer was too cruel.

In case she got trapped and stained for her whole life, people would point their fingers at Samuel and Simona, saying that they had a mother who was a murderer.

Dolores was shocked for a while, and she soon realized what he was referring to. It was out of her expectation that he knew it so fast. After all Jeffery was his father. He wouldn't have told him based on Matthew's character.

"This is none of your business. You don't have to worry." Dolores didn't really expect that he supported which side. He could absolutely stay neutral, not helping anyone.

Even if he was on Jeffery's side, she wouldn't complain, because that was his dad.

Sean stood up to walk to the window. Dolores knew that he could be in dilemma because of this. But Jeffery would not be worried. He never thought of others.

His father...

Sean didn't want to think of Jeffery, because he could only bring disappointments.

"Tell my brother, that if he needs me anytime, just come over." Sean turned over and seemingly wanted to say something. He paused and looked at Dolores, "Are you feeling any better now?"

Dolores smiled and replied, "It's got much better, no worries."

"Good, or I don't know how to let my brother and Samuel relieve". It was because of Jeffery that Dolores was suffering. Even though he and Jeffery had a bad term, but Jeffery was his father, this was the fact.

Dolores sighed. Why the grudge from the past generation brought the suffers to this generation?

She had nothing to comfort Sean. The only thing that she could do was to let him calm down, "If you think it is boring in the country, you could spend some time abroad."

In this way he could avoid the issues, and he would not be worried because of this issue.

Sean smiled, "I won't go."

He couldn't go at this time.

He looked at Charles. He didn't talk at all since he entered the room, besides only sitting in the wheelchair, looking at Dolores. Sean asked, "He is your friend?"

Dolores nodded.

Sean was relieved. It was good that Dolores knew him. If he brought someone who had no relationship, they might disturb Dolores.

"I'm leaving." Sean wondered if there was anyway that could solve this issue peacefully.

He didn't want to see that Jeffery and Matthew becoming enemies.

“Mhmm.” Dolores replied slightly.

After Sean left, Charles moved his wheelchair and got closer to her.

Her face was pale. And Charles showed up worries, “Why didn’t you even tell me when such big issue happened?”

Dolores didn’t want to discuss this with Charles, so she changed the topic, “Why aren’t you leaving?”

“It’s Jeffrey that wronged you, correct?”

Charles didn’t want to stop, “Dolores, is this a small issue?”

“No mater how serious this issue is, it’s not your business. Please do not interfere and go back to your White City. This is a complicated issue. Once you got involved, it is hard to get out from this boat.”
Dolores persuaded.

Jeffrey wanted Mathew to marry the woman from the Chambers Family. And the Chambers Family was not ordinary family. They of course had their own intention since they had accepted the offer. This was not the White City, nor Charles’ territory. Why bother if it was the place only to be bullied?

The way that Charles looked at her was more and more serious, “Are you caring about me now?”

Dolores looked into his eyes, responded straightforwardly, “I am grateful since you have saved my life. There was something happened in the White City. And I knew, you didn’t initiate this. Also, I don’t think you could help with my own issue.”

Charles laughed, “How do you know that I couldn’t help?”, his laughter intensified, “Don’t you think it is a good time to cooperate with Matthew and take Jeffery down?”

Dolores smiled, "You still couldn't give this up."

"You are right, I can't give it up. It is my dream to revenge for my adopted father." Each word reflected the determination of Charles.

Last time he was about to leave after hearing what Dolores had said. But after this happened, he thought it would be an opportunity. He couldn't take Jeffery down by himself. But it might not be impossible with the help of Matthew.

After all, Matthew and Jeffery were in rivalry.

And they were on the same boat.

Dolores didn't think she could persuade him, "I'm tired."

She didn't want to discuss this with him. She really felt tired.

Charles wanted to hold her hands. At this moment, the door of the ward opened. Charles took back his hand after pausing for two seconds in the air.

The nurse came and ended the injection for Dolores. She asked Dolores to press the hygiene button for a while. "Press it for a while."

She took the medicine away and handed the recipe from the doctor to Coral. "Do as the recipes suggest every day. This will reduce the symptoms of vomiting for the pregnant woman."

Coral nodded, "Sure, thank you."

Coral sent the nurse out.

"This is what we are supposed to do." The leaders had told them. And there were only experts who diagnosed Dolores. Matthew talked to the director by himself.

Charles was super surprised hearing this, pregnant woman, stop vomiting?

Was Dolores pregnant?

He wanted to talk but his lip was frozen.

He felt so bad that he couldn't talk.

She and Matthew had two kids. They surely were in good terms. But when knowing she was pregnant again, he was still shocked, and this was hard for him to accept.

He asked with a dry voice, "For how long?"

Dolores had nothing to hide, "One month or so."

Charles held his straight face, "Congratulations."

“Thanks.”

Coral took the recipe and studied it hardly. She talked to herself sometimes, “Broccolis are much better.”

Broccolis were higher in vitamins. She always thought they were all the same.

There were more green vegetables in the recipe. Since green foods contained high folic acid, there was no need to supplement folic acid. Dietary supplements were easier to be absorbed and healthy. They were available every meal. In addition to the fruit and vegetable mix, every meal had supplements that were high in protein elements, such as shrimp and meat.

“I can’t go back. I have to call home. I will ask them to make some and deliver here.” Coral was doing everything she could to take care of Dolores.

She was afraid that Dolores couldn’t eat and she threw up.

Dolores was accustomed to the care that was from Coral.

Charles felt uncomfortable, “I get going, take care.”

Dolores replied, “Help yourself.”

Charles smiled, “Take care, I can go back home without you sending me.”

Charles went out from the hospital feeling confused. He thought that this was all in a sudden.

Tom followed him, “Aren’t you going back?”

He waved. Now he needed to calm down. Tom had to push him walking along the road, without a destination.

There were a lot of shops near the hospital, eateries, groceries, and flower boutiques.

He looked into the flower shops, and the beautiful flowers. They seemed to be gorgeous even it was reflected from the window. Charles let Tom stop, "Buy me a bunch of... roses." Convenient Marriage: Mr. Nelson's Love Trap

Chapter 411 When Did He Leave In The Morning

Tom was stunned for a moment. Who were these roses bought for?

Everyone knew that roses represented love. Soon, he seemed to think of something else, and he felt unworthy for Charles, "Ms. Flores is already married, why do you have to be so obsessed?"

Charles looked up with an unhappy face, "Since when do you get to judge my personal affairs?"

Tom bowed his head, "I'm sorry."

Charles didn't want to look into it, he just didn't like others to interfere with his affairs, "I'll buy it myself. You push me over."

"Yes." Tom lowered his head.

Tom pushed Charles across the street and went into a flower shop. The unique fragrance of the flowers blew against his face. There were many flowers in the shop. The various scents mixed together which created another special smell.

The florist came over to greet them, "May I help you?"

Charles ignored her but rolled his wheelchair toward the location where the roses were placed. The roses were red as the fire, they were also like the sunset glow, they were amazingly beautiful.

The florist quickly realized that what flowers he wanted to buy. She quickly approached him, "May I know how many roses you need?"

Charles said lightly, "Five roses, please."

The florist froze for a while, and then she smiled and said, "Okay, please wait a moment."

As she said, she chose five dainty, blooming roses. She filled in the gaps with white pearls. The white pearls set off the red roses, making them look even more beautiful. The florist selected a light-colored wrapping paper to wrap these roses. She had good wrapping skills, and the roses were wrapped beautifully.

"Here you go." She handed the bouquet to Charles with both hands.

Charles took it and placed it on his laps. He looked down, lightly stroked the petals, and instructed faintly, "Tom, pay for it."

“A total of 380 Yuan.” The florist said.

Tom gave her 400 Yuan and told her to keep the change. Then, he pushed Charles’s wheelchair, and they left the flower shop.

“Are we still going to the hospital?” Tom asked.

‘Did he buy the flowers just for himself?’

Charles answered lightly.

Tom sighed inwardly. Except for Charles’s inability to walk, everything else about Charles was perfect in Tom’s eyes.

How would a man like that like a married woman?

He could get any kind of woman if he wanted. But why did he focus a married woman?

Tom didn’t understand, and he couldn’t understand.

However, he dared not to say it. He could only think about it silently in his heart.

He felt unworthy for Charles.

When they went back to the hospital, the guards at the door looked at him strangely. 'He had left, hadn't he? Why is he back again?'

"I'll leave after I hand her the flowers," Charles said.

The guards were a little embarrassed.

Their boss instructed them not to just let anyone get in or out of the ward, and he had already been in there once earlier.

Meanwhile, Coral came out to throw the trash. She walked over when she saw Charles who was blocked in the doorway. She seemed to be wondering why Charles had left and then returned.

So, she came over and asked, "Is there anything else?"

Charles handed Coral the bouquet, "Please pass this to her for me."

Coral was quite happy, and she took it over. These flowers were so beautiful, and they brought people in a good mood when looked at them. If these flowers were placed in the ward, they would make the ward vibrant. Dolores couldn't get out of the bed now, so maybe she would be happy to see these beautiful flowers. Coral smiled and said, "I thank you on behalf of Missus. Her health isn't good right now, so I won't invite you in. The doctor told her to rest more."

Charles said he understood, "Please take care of her."

Then, he asked Tom to hand Coral a business card, "If you need any help, please let me know."

Coral hesitated for a moment. It seemed rude if she didn't take the business card that he handed over. Besides, it seemed that he was well acquainted with Dolores. So, Coral took the business card, "Well, I'll go back first. She can't be alone in the ward."

Charles nodded his head.

Coral returned to the ward with the flowers. Dolores was drowsy as she was lying in the bed. She seemed to see Coral come in, holding something in her hands. She opened her eyes and saw Coral holding a bouquet of roses. She was stunned for a moment, then she asked, "Where did you get the flowers?"

'Could it be that Matthew bought them?'

"The man in the wheelchair just gave them to you." Coral found a glass and prepared to put the roses in it.

Dolores slept on the side and her eyelashes fluttered. Of course, Matthew wasn't someone who would do such a thing.

She smiled bitterly, laughing at the fact that she was abnormal today.

She thought of him inexplicably.

A bouquet of red roses added new color to the ward, which also brought new life to the cold ward.

Coral smiled and wanted to talk to Coral She turned around and found out that Dolores had closed her eyes. Coral didn't know if Dolores was asleep, and she dared not to disturb her.

In the evening, the maids of the mansion brought the meals. Coral had dialed the number of the mansion and Victoria picked up the phone. Victoria thought it was Jayden, but it turned out to be Coral. Coral had been taking care of Matthew and was deeply trusted by him. When Coral called, she simply asked for someone to bring some meals to the hospital. She didn't say anything else.

It was up to Matthew to decide whether to let Victoria know about Dolores' pregnancy.

Coral knew Matthew's attitude towards Victoria.

Therefore, she did not say anything.

Victoria asked why the meals needed to be delivered and the reason for cooking them on request. Coral just explained that Dolores wasn't feeling well, and she wanted to have some light meals.

Victoria stopped asking. After all, in Dolores' current condition, it was normal for her to have no appetite.

She was just a little worried. However, when she thought of Jayden going to find Matthew to solve this matter, she put her mind at ease and didn't continue to ask.

The food was made according to Coral's request. It was nutritionally balanced, good-looking, and tasty. Dolores ate some, but not much. Coral was happy, "As long as you can eat something."

Dolores's appetite would slowly improve afterward.

Dolores looked at the time. It was already seven o'clock in the evening, and Matthew hadn't come back yet.

Coral cleaned up the dishes. Dolores leaned against the headboard of her bed, and she glanced inadvertently at the bouquet of roses placed in front of the window. The roses were blooming beautifully. She squinted her eyes and stared blankly at it.

After Coral finished cleaning up the dishes, she walked in and saw Dolores staring. Then she asked, "Isn't it beautiful?"

Dolores looked at Coral, and she smiled but didn't say anything.

"Coral, do you know what kind of flowers it is?" Dolores suddenly asked.

Coral shook her head. She just knew that these flowers were beautiful, but she didn't know what they were.

Dolores said lightly, "It's called rose."

Coral didn't understand it either, she just thought it was a pretty good name.

"The man in the wheelchair has quite a good taste," Coral said.

Dolores found Coral's comment was quite interesting.

Roses represented love, and she was sure that Charles knew it. He knew that she was pregnant, but he still sent her roses...

She sighed slightly...

"What's wrong? Is it wrong to send roses?" Coral wondered why Dolores sighed.

Dolores said, “Nothing.” She deliberately changed the topic and asked, “When did he leave in the morning?” _Convenient Marriage: Mr. Nelson's Love Trap

Chapter 412 I Like All the Ones You Give Birth to Coral thought for a moment, “Around six o’clock.”

She didn’t look at the time back then. It was five o’clock when Matthew called her to come over, and it took her about half an hour to pack up and come to the hospital. Matthew had then explained some things to her and sat at Dolores’s bedside for a while before leaving.

Dolores looked out the window. She couldn’t go out in this condition, and Matthew hadn’t shown up for a day, so it must be that the matter was difficult to handle.

She was feeling a little scared inside actually, after all, this was a situation that seemed practically unsolvable.

“What are you thinking about? Why do you look unhappy?” Coral asked worriedly, and then added, “You can’t exhaust your mind with your current physical condition.”

Dolores knew about her own condition. No matter how worried she was, she wasn’t of any help, so the only thing that she could do was to not cause trouble for Matthew.

She closed her eyes, “Coral, turn off the light. I’m taking a nap.”

The light was too bright, she couldn't calm down.

Coral said okay then turned off the lights, and soon the lighting in the room dimmed.

Coral sat on a chair beside, "You go ahead and sleep. Call me if you don't feel well. I'll be here watching you."

"I'm fine, Coral. You go take a rest."

They got this floor to themselves. The room next door could be used for resting.

Coral didn't feel comfortable for Dolores to be alone, "No, you just sleep, don't worry about me. I'll take a nap on the sofa when I'm sleepy."

Coral was doing that out of concern and Dolores knew that she did it for her own good, so she didn't say anything more and closed her eyes to sleep.

She wasn't sleepy actually. She had already slept for a little while during the day, so she had little sleepiness. But then probably because she had been lying down for quite some time, she fell asleep unconsciously.

By the time Matthew came back, it was already close to twelve o'clock. The room was dark, and he turned on the light next to the door. Coral slept light, so she woke up when she heard the movement.

She stood up, "You're back?"

Matthew gave out a light humph and walked straight to the bedside. Dolores was sleeping deeply and didn't wake up.

He unbuttoned his collar, his gaze was looking at Dolores, but his words were asking Coral, "How does she feel today?"

"She vomited badly and didn't eat much. The doctor gave a nutritional drip and also set up a meal plan. She was feeling better at night, more or less ate a little and didn't vomit." Coral said.

Matthew nodded. He reached out to caress her cheek, a goose-egg like small face, white and delicate. Perhaps she was tickled by Matthew's touch, Dolores moved a little and her eyelashes trembled slightly. She then slowly opened her eyes, and in a haze, she saw Matthew standing by the bed. She moved her body wanting to sit up, and Matthew wrapped his arm around her to help her and stuffed a pillow behind her, then softly asked, "Did I wake you?"

Dolores shook her head, "I'm a little thirsty."

Matthew gently placed her against the bedhead, "I'll get some water for you."

He walked to the table and his gaze inadvertently fell onto the flowers placed on the windowsill. He glanced at them and handed the water to Dolores, "Who sent you the flowers?"

He was just asking casually. Sean was the only one that came over today. No one else besides him.

It was just that why there were roses...

Dolores's movement of drinking water froze. Before she had time to say anything, Coral spoke up first, "It was from a gentleman in a wheelchair who had sent it over specially. It was quite thoughtful of him."

Coral didn't know about the relationship between Charles and Dolores, so she had no qualms when speaking about it.

Dolores held onto the cup and looked at Matthew.

Matthew lowered his eyes, the tone of his voice unknown, "He came today?"

Dolores told the truth. Even if she wanted to cover it up, she couldn't anyways, "Yes."

Matthew had always been very mindful of Charles. Dolores knew he would definitely be upset, and wanted to explain, but then found herself unable to say anything. After all, there wasn't anything that happened between her and Charles that was unspeakable.

Dolores clutched the cup.

"Want more?" Matthew asked while looking at the cup in her hand.

Dolores nodded and said, "All good."

He took the cup and placed it on the table, Coral stood beside and didn't dare to say anything. She realized that the atmosphere wasn't feeling right, but she didn't know what went wrong.

"Go and take a rest, Coral."

Coral looked at Dolores, who nodded to her, and only then did she turn around and left the room.

The door of the room closed, and the room was quiet instantly.

Dolores looked at him, "Are you angry?"

Matthew didn't answer her question, "Do you like these flowers?"

'What was on her mind for her to put up the flowers?'

He pulled out a rose and looked at it carefully. Matthew's face clearly looked gentle, but Dolores was feeling anxious inside when looking at him.

She hadn't done anything wrong to him, so why should he be angry?

Dolores deliberately said, "There isn't a woman who doesn't like flowers, I also like it. I saw that they looked beautiful, so I asked Coral to put it up."

Matthew was speechless.

He looked at Dolores with raised eyebrows, was he angry?

"You like them?"

"Yes!"

Bang! Matthew threw the flowers that were on the windowsill into the trash.

Dolores was speechless.

'This guy...'

"You..."

"I'll send you one if you like it." Matthew walked over and hugged her, then said with a warm voice, "Sleep with me for a while."

As they were closer, Dolores only then saw the weariness under his eyes. She moved inward a little, clearing out a spot for him to sleep. Matthew held her sideways, his broad palm was caressing her back, slowly and softly...

Dolores looked at him, "Did it come at the wrong time?"

With her being pregnant at this time would definitely add pressure to him.

This matter was already very tricky.

Matthew abruptly opened his eyes and fixed his gaze on her, "What did you say?"

Dolores said in a croaked voice, "It's not the right time to get pregnant..."

"What nonsense is that?" Dolores's words were interrupted before she could finish. Matthew lowered his head and kissed her mouth, then bit her lips as if it was a way of punishing her. Dolores sucked in cold air in pain. He was still on her lips, and said with a muffled voice, "Still dare to talk nonsense?"

Her lips were clearly in pain from the bite, but her heart was feeling warm. Dolores wrapped her arms around his head, and Matthew's face was buried in her chest.

"I was also surprised myself. I thought that I really couldn't have child anymore, and when I knew, I was so happy. Are you happy?" Dolores's voice trembled a little as she spoke.

For her, this was an accident.

An accident that she hadn't expected.

But then, it was such a beautiful accident.

Matthew didn't answer her. He took her hand and put it on his heart instead, his fingers pressing on her hand, "It still hasn't been calm until now."

His chest was firm and warm, and his strong heartbeat was beating against her palm.

Dolores smiled, as if all the dilemmas they were having didn't exist. Now, it was just her and him.

A world where no one could disturb.

"Do you like boys or girls?" Dolores slowly ask.

Without thinking, Matthew said, "I like all the ones you give birth to." _____

Chapter 413 Do You Want Me to Take It Off for You

“If you had to choose between a boy and a girl, what will be your choice?” Dolores Flores ruminated for a moment.

Matthew Nelson looked up and gazed at her, “If I had to choose, I’d prefer you give birth to another baby girl.”

Having Samuel Flores as the only son was enough.

Their daughter was closer to them, he adored how attached Simona Flores was to him.

Compared to the daughter, their relationship with their son became less intimate.

Dolores found a comfortable position and relaxed herself in his arms, “I like boys, and I hope it’s a boy this time.”

Girls were delicate, they got hurt easily be it in relationships or in life, whereas guys were different.

Matthew understood why she had this mindset, she was speaking from experience. He hugged Dolores and kissed her forehead, “No one is going to hurt our daughter.”

Dolores never second guessed his words.

This topic seemed a little distant, Dolores questioned, “Why did you tell Sean about what happened?”

“Hmm?” Matthew frowned slightly, what did she mean?

What exactly did he tell Sean?

“About what Jeffery Harris did,” Dolores explained.

“He knew about it?”

“You didn’t tell him...” Dolores felt something wasn’t right, Matthew would’ve admitted it if he was the one who told Sean.

Only a few people were aware about this, Boyce, Armand, even Charles, it could be anyone of them.

“Don’t think too much about it.” Matthew patted her back, “Go to sleep.”

There wasn’t a need to worry if Sean had heard about the inside story, he was unwilling to let Sean know about this matter either.

Even if he were able to keep it from him, there was no telling if it would stay a secret in the future. This wasn’t a small matter to begin with.

He did not want Dolores to lose sleep over such affairs.

“All you have to do is take care of yourself and safely bring our baby girl into this world, I will handle the rest.”

Dolores lowered her eyes and thought, 'how is he so sure that it's a girl?'

She joked, "What if it's a boy?"

"It won't be," said Matthew confidently. "If our baby turns out to be a boy, you'll have to get pregnant again," he continued.

If Dolores gave birth to this child, there was no doubt she could give birth to another, he thought to himself.

Dolores was speechless.

"There, there, don't think about it anymore. Get some rest." Matthew placed her head into his embrace, holding her close.

Dolores lifted her head up, taking in the sight of his firm chin and fair complexion with visible stubble. He hadn't gotten enough rest for the past two days, she figured.

There she silently laid in his embrace.

A few moments later, Matthew exhaled steady breaths. Dolores knew he was tired, she kissed his chin and slumped back into his arms.

It did not take long for Dolores to drift off to sleep, perhaps she was tired due to her pregnancy.

The night was unusually still and calm, as if the chaos in broad daylight never existed.

At 5 a.m., Matthew awoke to the sound of his phone ringing. He gently got off the bed, careful enough not to wake Dolores up, and went to the balcony to take the call.

“What’s the matter?”

Abbott Baron’s voice could be heard over the line, “Jessica Lennon’s results are out.”

How were the test results released so soon? It wasn’t even time yet.

He clenched his jaw tight as he recalled what Abbott had mentioned the last time, “Go ahead,” he prompted.

Over the phone, Abbott was hesitant to speak, he turned to face the doctor while he held the results in his hands, “Are you sure about this?” he asked once more.

“Yes,” the doctor replied with no hesitation.

It had reached the late stage.

The test results would not have been mistaken.

After all, this hospital was known to be the most authoritative in the country.

Abbott had no choice but to be plain honest with him, "The doctor confirmed that she's in the late stage."

This was bad news, with Dolores in such a condition, if she found out about Jessica's...

He couldn't imagine any further.

"This news cannot be leaked." he ordered while pressing his eyebrows.

Abbott followed, "Understood."

Only the doctor was aware of the incident, as long as the hospital did not keep the news in, it would be impossible for Dolores to learn about this.

He couldn't bring himself to feign ignorance of Jessica's health status, especially because she was Dolores' mother. It took him some moments before he contacted Boyce and told him to take Jessica out for treatment, no matter if she was in the early stage or in the late stage. He wanted to do all he could to help.

With Jessica sick, they had to register a time and date for her treatment, Boyce knew what had to be done and said, "I will settle this."

Boyce felt overwhelmingly heavy now that the issue with Jessica surfaced at such a crucial time.

It was as if Chloe Chambers knew that people were out to get her, there wasn't a single sight of her to be seen. He had no choice left but to let his subordinates take over in keeping an eye out for Chloe, while he ran his errands.

Back in the bedroom, Dolores moved her body ever so slightly, she realized the bed next to her was empty. Her eyelashes tremored as she gradually opened her eyes, no one was next to her. She laid in bed for a while before needing to use the bathroom, as she sat up, Dolores noticed Matthew standing at the balcony.

He wore a white crumpled shirt, his tall and slender legs stood straight. Even though the clothes he had clad on weren't the most decent, nothing could have hidden his upright posture.

Matthew ended the call and paused for a moment before he made his way back into the bedroom. When he caught sight of Dolores already awake and staring at him, he froze for a second but quickly recovered. He walked towards her, and softly asked, "You're awake?"

Dolores nodded, "Who were you talking to over the phone?"

When Dolores awoke, Matthew already hung up the call, she had no clue who Matthew was having a conversation with.

"It was just some matters with the company," said Matthew casually.

He stroked her messy bed hair, "Are you hungry?"

Dolores shook her head. Company calls were rare at this hour, it must've been about her, she figured.

She knew Matthew wasn't telling the truth, what she didn't know was that the call had nothing to do with her, it was actually something related to Jessica.

"Call Coral here for me," spoke Dolores.

She needed to use the bathroom but felt embarrassed with Matthew in front of her.

Matthew thought she was feeling under the weather, "I'll call the doctor."

"No," Dolores blurted out, "I'm fine."

"Hmm?" Matthew scrunched his eyebrows, why did she even need Coral if everything was alright.

What was it that she couldn't tell him?

If she wasn't hungry, perhaps she was thirsty?

"I'll pour you a glass of water." Matthew assumed it was water she needed. Her desire to use the bathroom grew even stronger when she heard the word 'water'.

"I'm not thirsty." Dolores blushed as she held her breath in. Matthew who stood by the table side observed her manner, she seemed embarrassed to speak up again.

Matthew appeared to have figured it out, he walked over and carried her, "You need the bathroom?"

Dolores pursed her lips, not saying a word.

Matthew chuckled, "That's natural, and I wouldn't mind if it was you. Besides, which part of your body have I not seen before?"

Whether Dolores was embarrassed or in distress, she was burning bright red, even her neck glowed a shade of pink.

"Put me down." Dolores bit her lip.

“I’ll carry you in.” Matthew paid no attention to her rejection, and proceeded to place her on top of the lavatory, “Do you want me to take it off for you?” _____ Convenient Marriage: Mr. Nelson's Love Trap

Chapter 414 Did You See Anything?

Dolores reached her limit!

“You get out!”

Matthew tilted his head to look at her, “Are you angry?”

Dolores glared at him.

He smiled, “You help me to take off and I also want to use the bathroom.”

Dolores was speechless.

How could he be so shameless?

Dolores deliberately clutched her belly, “You’re driving me crazy on purpose, right?”

Matthew immediately changed his unruly attitude and asked seriously, “Are you uncomfortable?”

Dolores dropped her voice and looked weak and uncomfortable, “Well, I’m not feeling well. It’s all your fault. If you continue to do this, I’ll be really angry.”

Knowing that she was thin-skinned, Matthew didn’t continue to flirt with her. He went out of the bathroom and closed the door. He said uneasily, “I will wait for you at the door. You can call me when you need.”

Dolores nodded.

After Matthew closed the door, the relax on his face disappeared. In front of Dolores, his mood was hidden perfectly for that he just didn’t want her to think too much.

Then he took out his mobile phone to send a message to Boyce. He asked Boyce to take Jessica to hospital. Therefore, it was convenient for him to visit and take care of Jessica. Now Dolores could not get out of bed, and also wouldn’t run into her.

He was sure that Dolores would not know.

What was more, this was the best hospital in the country. If Jessica was sent to other hospitals, he wouldn’t be at ease.

Soon the message was replied. Boyce sent the word, “OK”.

After Dolores washed her hands, she moved to the door and opened it, just to see Matthew checking his mobile phone.

“What are you looking at?” Dolores set her eyes on his phone.

Matthew put away his phone and said calmly, "Read the news."

Dolores said suspiciously, "Really?"

Matthew handed the phone to her and smiled, "Or you check to see if there is any beauty in it?"

Dolores stared at him, "Do whatever you want."

Knowing that she would not look, Matthew deliberately held the phone out to her, "Really? There might be some pretty girls in it. The doctor said we can't have sex for three months. I'm afraid I can't help it."

Dolores was speechless.

"If you get a woman, I'll get a man..."

"How dare you!"

Before Dolores finished her words, she was cut off by Matthew's cold voice.

Matthew picked her up and pretended to be fierce, "If you dare to find a man, I will break your leg."

Dolores mumbled, "It is you who want to find a woman first."

Her voice was not clear to Matthew. When he put her on the bed, he asked, "What did you say?"

Dolores immediately changed her mind, "I said that I dare not."

Matthew smiled and kissed her cheek, "That's a lovely girl. You are pregnant. Where can you find a man? Besides, where can you find a good man like me?"

Dolores rolled her eyes to herself. She thought that this man was so domineering and had a double standard.

Matthew glanced at the time. It was nearly six o'clock, "Are you hungry?"

Dolores lay on the bed and moved, looking for a comfortable posture, "Are you eating here?"

Matthew thought for a moment, "Hmm."

"Yes, I am," Dolores said. She was afraid that Matthew would leave later and that he would go out without eating. In the morning, he would either answer the phone or read messages, which showed how busy he was.

Matthew turned to open the door and was about to call Coral. When he opened the door, Coral took the lunch box and was about to knock on the door.

She got up at three o'clock in the morning and went back to prepare and deliver the food.

"I've brought you some food and clothes."

Coral smiled, carrying a lunch box in one hand and a paper bag of clothes in another hand.

The clothes Matthew wore yesterday were the same as the day before yesterday, and he had not changed them. When did he wear such wrinkled clothes before?

"There is hot water in the bathroom. Take a bath," Dolores said. She also realized that Matthew didn't rest well in the past two days, or even didn't get cleaned up properly.

Matthew leaned over to let Coral in. He took the bag of clothes in Coral's hand and turned to go into the bathroom. Suddenly, he stopped and looked at Dolores, "You eat first. Don't wait for me."

Dolores had said that she was hungry, and he was afraid of that she suffered from hunger.

"I know." Dolores waved her hand.

Coral put the food on the table and asked Dolores, "Would you like to eat now?"

Dolores shook her head, "Wait for him together."

Coral smiled, and thought that they were becoming more and more like a couple, and that they both considered for each other. She excused herself by saying, "I'm going to find out when the doctor will make rounds."

Then she walked out of the room, leaving the space for Matthew and Dolores.

Dolores looked at the closed door and chuckled. The doctor had a set time to make rounds. Therefore, there was no need to check. Obviously, it was an excuse for Coral to go out. She knew that Coral was intend to leave time for her and Matthew.

The ward was very big, and there was a shower in the bathroom, sofa in the window, wardrobe and table by the wall. Life was very convenient, but there was a strong smell of disinfectant.

Fortunately, the smell did not repulse her.

After taking a bath, Matthew came out with a white towel on his body. Naked the upper body, he was wiping his hair while walking over.

Dolores looked at him, "Why don't you wear clothes?"

You just came out. This was a hospital, not a home.

Matthew heard that Coral had gone out, so he didn't dress himself properly inside. Moreover, this was not home, and the bathroom was separated from the wet and dry. The bathroom here was too small to be convenient.

Matthew went to lock the door and glanced at her, "Did you see anything?"

Dolores knew he was going to talk dirty again and glared at him, "Cheeky."

Matthew smiled lightly, mixed with a little hoarse, "If I had a sense of shame, how can you be pregnant?"

Dolores was speechless.

“You’ve already seen it.” Matthew pulled the bath towel in front of her and put on clothes in front of Dolores without any shyness.

Dolores knew she could never win and kept in silence, with her face buried in her hands.

A few minutes later, Matthew, buttoning his suit and said, “Don’t cover it. Put it on.”

Dolores unclosed her hands, and he did not cheat her.

Matthew took out the food from Coral and put it on the table on the bed.

There was shrimp porridge and vegetable dumplings, fried eggs and broccoli, and a few side dishes.

They were very light, without seasoning, and just keeping the flavor of the food itself.

They suited Dolores’s taste, especially the porridge, which was delicious.

She quickly finished a bowl of porridge. Matthew handed her his, “Have some more.”

Coral did not prepare food for Matthew alone. She just copied Dolores’ recipe to do another one. Last night he came back so late, and he would certainly eat breakfast with Dolores in the morning, so she prepared two meals as Dolores’ recipe.

Dolores looked up at him and said, “It's delicious. Would you like to have?”

"I don't like it." He stuffed a mouthful of broccoli into his mouth.

Dolores smiled. After eating half of the porridge that Matthew had passed over to her, she could only eat so much. No matter how delicious, she could not eat two bowls.

She pushed the rest to Matthew, "I can't finish it."

Matthew looked at the porridge she had eaten in the bowl, his eyebrows slightly raised.

"Don't you like me?" _____ Convenient Marriage: Mr. Nelson's Love Trap

Chapter 415 I'm Fine, Don't Worry

Matthew looked up at her. As if he was try to prove that he didn't dislike her, he took the bowl and the spoon that she used, then took a spoon of soup in his mouth. His tongue flicked across the spoon, then he looked at Dolores in ambiguity, "Can this prove that I didn't dislike you?"

Dolores lowered her head, then put the egg in her mouth. The place where his tongue flicked was the place she licked when she had the soup.

She kept her head low, yet she ate too fast that she was suddenly choked by the yolk.

Matthew saw this, poured a cup of water for her, and patted her back, "Are you alright?"

Dolores shook her head, drank several mouthfuls of water, then she felt much better.

Matthew stroked her hair, "Easy, I won't compete with you, why are you in such a hurry?"

Dolores almost blurted out that it was all his fault, yet before she could say this, the egg taste that she just suppressed rushed to her again, she felt nauseated in her stomach.

"Ew..."

Dolores covered her mouth, she was afraid that she would vomit if she couldn't stop it.

Matthew was nervous at first, then he quickly carried her to the washroom, and let her lean on the washbasin.

Asking Matthew to put her down, Dolores stood by the basin. She really wanted to vomit, but she didn't want Matthew to see the dirty things, so she pushed him, "You can leave now."

Matthew frowned, "You..."

Before he could say anything, Dolores already shut the door, Matthew didn't dare to touch her, so he had to get out.

"Click."

The door was closed, then there came the vomiting sound of Dolores.

She threw up all the porridge she had just now.

Matthew stood at the door, he was quite nervous, yet he didn't dare to open the door, since it might disturb her.

He had to keep all the worry and care inside his heart.

After a while, he heard the water flow inside, it should be Dolores washing the dirty things away and gargling.

Inside the door, Dolores stood by the basin, she waited a while until there was no sign of vomiting again, then she turned to open the door.

At the door, she saw Matthew was standing there, looking at her worriedly.

Dolores gave a smile, "I'm fine, don't worry. I don't want you to be inside, because I don't want you to see those dirty things..."

Before she could finish her words, she was pulled suddenly by Matthew to his chest, then he hugged her thin body tightly. He kissed her hair caringly, then he said with a hoarse voice, "We won't give birth any more."

Dolores was leaning on his chest, she could feel his uneasiness clearly. In the past when she was pregnant before giving birth to Samuel and Simona, no matter how sad she was, she could only find a place to cry alone and dare not to tell others.

She didn't dare to tell Jessica, because she didn't want her to worry about her. She could only keep telling herself to stay strong and brave.

However, now there was such a person who cared so much about her, she felt all the hardships she experienced before were nothing to her anymore, she even thought it was worth. Dolores reached out her arms and hugged his waist, then he sniffed and suppressed the sour feelings, “look at you, it’s not a big deal, every pregnant woman will experience this, don’t fuss about it.”

Matthew didn’t answer her but just hugged her tightly. He didn’t give her any support or care when she was pregnant before giving birth to Samuel and Simona, he even disgusted her.

She was alone and gave birth to two babies, and it was in quite another country, it must be very hard for her back then.

The more Dolores Flores tried to be strong in front of Matthew Nelson, the more Matthew felt heartache.

Matthew was hugging her too tightly, Dolores felt that she was almost suffocated, so she pushed him, “Are you trying to suffocate me?”

Matthew’s arms relaxed a bit, but he didn’t let go of her.

His strong arms bent, the two fingers passed across her neck and pinched her cheeks, her face was squeezed and crumpled together. Matthew looked at her from the left and the right, there was affection in his eyes which was hard to be explained, “You look so ugly, some more you like to pretend.”

She had always pretended that she was fine, not scared of anything, and as if she could bear everything.

Dolores was speechless.

Dolores pretended that she was angry, "Since I look ugly, then why you still like me?"

Matthew put her in the bed, "I'm blind."

Dolores was speechless again.

Looking at him, Dolores initially wanted to ask about how that thing was going, was there any solution for it, but she didn't ask it at the end although it was already on the tip of her tongue.

Buzz

The phone in Matthew's pocket rang at the time, he took out the phone and had a look at it, the screen was displaying Boyce Shawn's number.

However, he didn't answer the call and had directly hung up the phone.

Dolores lay down, "I'll let you go, I'm tired and I want to sleep for a while."

In fact, she didn't feel sleepy, she just didn't want Matthew not being able to deal with the matters because of worrying her.

Matthew knew what she was thinking, but he didn't expose her, he lowered his head and kissed her on the forehead, "Don't think of anything, I'll always be there, have a good rest."

Dolores hummed.

Matthew left the ward, he saw that Coral was chatting with the nurse at the nurse station, he walked there.

Coral saw that he had come out, she asked, "Have you had your breakfast?"

Matthew hummed and said, "You shall spend more time with her when you're free."

Coral said that she knew it, Dolores couldn't get out from the bed now, so for sure there must be somebody staying beside her.

"Don't worry," Coral said.

Matthew trusted Coral so much, he looked back at the two men who were guarding at the door when he walked out.

The men immediately stood straight, "Mr. Nelson."

Matthew lowered his voice, "Don't let anyone have access to the room without my permission, except for Coral, understand?"

The two men said with one voice, "Yes."

“Who had let the man who was sitting on the wheelchair enter yesterday?” He had already told them before that they couldn’t let anyone enter this room, how did Charles White enter?

The two men looked at each other, one of them answered, “We didn’t let him enter when he came, we still didn’t approve him even though he coaxed relentlessly in front of the door. After that Sean Lee had come and he gave you a call, we had let Sean enter after you agreed with it. He then wanted to follow Sean to go inside, we didn’t let him enter, but Sean said that they all knew each other, so...”

Matthew’s face looked serious, no wonder, Charles had taken advantage from Sean to enter.

“If there is a next time, both of you can leave the job,” Matthew said sternly.

He had purposely mentioned about Charles White, so that these people could bear it in mind.

The two men were sweating on the forehead, “We can’t let anyone enter?”

Matthew glanced at them, “Yes.”

The two men stood straight and promised, “Yes, sir. We won’t make the mistake like yesterday anymore.”

Matthew nodded with satisfaction, he turned and walked into the lift. At the same time, he took out his phone and gave Boyce a call, asking him about his location.

Boyce said, “At the inpatient department of building no.2.”

There was a total of three inpatient buildings in this hospital, Dolores was staying at building no.3. The building no.3 was newly built, so the facilities were more well-equipped than the other two buildings, but Boyce didn’t arrange Jessica Lennon to stay in building no.3 because he worried that Jessica might accidentally meet Dolores.

Although the facilities here were not as good as in building no.3, but the doctor who was in charge of treating Jessica, was the top one.

Matthew noted and hung up the phone, he was satisfied with Boyce's arrangement, after all if they were staying in the same building, then the chance of Jessica meeting Dolores would be greater. Even though Dolores couldn't get out from the bed now and there were people guarding her, but just in case of it, so arranging them to be further apart would be better.

He walked to the ward mentioned by Boyce, Boyce was staying inside alone.

"Where's she?" He walked into the ward.

The ward was a single room, the environment and facilities were nice, Jessica could stay comfortably here.

Boyce said, "She was brought to have body checkup."

Matthew nodded slightly, Boyce glanced at outside and said after confirming that there was nobody around, "Maybe Eddie Chambers is wary of us, Chloe Chambers doesn't even go out from the residential area."

Boyce asked dignifiedly, "What shall we do?"

This matter was obviously reaching a dead end, they could only achieve a breakthrough from Chloe.

Matthew turned and looked outside the window, "No choice but to agree."

Boyce was panicked, "Agree? Then how about Dolores, she is pregnant now, some more Jessica is... If she knows, can she stand it?"

Matthew slowly turned and looked at Boyce who was panicked, he said slowly, "If there is no bride during the wedding, can this wedding still be done?"

Boyce looked at Matthew's deep eyes, he seemed to understand something, he then asked tentatively, "What you mean is, during the day of wedding, we'll make Chloe..."

When Eddie Chambers was wary of them, they could only come into contact with Chloe Chambers during the wedding, at that time... If the bride was absent, what else Jeffery Harris could do. Convenient Marriage: Mr. Nelson's Love Trap

Chapter 417 Stay With Her For A Few More Years

"That is also a good idea." There was no other way in this situation.

Jeffery and Eddie had joined forces to be completely ruthless. Even if Dolores was pregnant, they could still get her in.

At this moment, Jessica walked in supported by medical staff.

Matthew looked at the doctor who followed her and asked, "How is she now?"

"All of the tests are done. We will not be able to make a treatment plan until the results come out." The doctor said. He wanted to say more but hesitated, as if he was worried about Jessica, and then said, "Let's discuss this outside."

Jessica sat on the bed without speaking. She knew her condition.

Matthew followed the doctor outside. After making certain that Jessica couldn't hear them at all, the doctor said, "The patient's condition is not optimistic. If she has a strong desire to survive, there are some medicines that can be used as treatment even right now. It might take long, but it won't harm her body that much. It should be no problem for her to live for a few years, if she... but I think her attitude is comparatively negative."

The doctor was not afraid of the patient's illness, but he feared that the patient was going to give up and not have the will to survive.

"Thank you. I understand. Then I will leave her treatment in your hands." Matthew said slowly. He was afraid that Jessica had this attitude because seeing Randolph die had made her let go the hatred in her heart and she didn't have much desire left to live.

This doctor was quite young and had studied abroad for many years. He specialized in terminal illnesses. He looked young but was very capable. He pushed his glasses up the bridge of his nose, "Of course, this is what a doctor should do. The director is also taking special care for this matter. We will definitely do our best."

He paused and then said, "I have other patients to see, so I will take my leave first."

Matthew nodded. After the doctor left, he stood in the corridor not returning to the ward. Instead, he bowed his head and pinched between his eyebrows. Jessica's attitude made him very uneasy.

Her son died and she avenged him by killing Randolph. But had she ever thought about Dolores?

Dolores was also her daughter. She followed her through so many hardships, now that she was relieved of her pain, had she ever thought about what was going to happen to Dolores?

Matthew thought that Jessica was too selfish and thought only about herself, not about her daughter.

He let out a heavy sigh, then turned and walked into the ward.

Jessica's complexion seemed sick, her figure was skinny, her eyes were sunken, looking dim and lifeless.

Seeing Matthew walk in, she pulled a smile on her face, "Thank you for not letting Dolores know."

Matthew looked at her, "Do you still care about her?"

Jessica was stunned for a moment, as if she didn't expect Matthew to suddenly say such a thing, "She... is my daughter. Of course, I care about her."

Although, Matthew was dissatisfied with Jessica's behavior, he still couldn't disrespect her because she was Dolores's mother. "If you still care about her then cooperate with the doctor for treatment and stay with her for a few more years. Don't make her sad."

"She is living quite well now" ...

"If her mother dies, would she still be able to live well?" Matthew interrupted her and asked.

Jessica opened her mouth but then swallowed whatever words she was about to blurt out.

"I hope you can live well for her." After saying that, Matthew turned and left the ward.

Boyce looked at Matthew's back, probably knowing what the doctors had said to him. He comforted Jessica, "He has been busy lately and has a lot of things to do. Don't take offense. However, he is right. For your daughter, you must actively cooperate with the treatment and spend more years with her. I think you also think the same way, right?"

Jessica said nothing. Indeed, she felt that it didn't matter if she was alive or dying. She had already avenged her son.

As for Dolores, who had suffered a lot in her past, Matthew treated her very well now. Dolores was definitely going to have a good time in the future, so she had no regrets.

"I am tired." Jessica didn't want to talk anymore.

Boyce naturally knew that this was her way of telling him to leave. He was an outsider and had no choice but to leave first.

There was a nurse for her there. Jessica had someone to take care of her, so Boyce just left.

Matthew left the hospital and went to the company. After parking the car, he received a call from Armand.

The video that was circulating online of Dolores killing had been controlled already. Several media outlets who had posted the video had been held accountable. For a matter that the police hadn't even released any evidence for, they came to the conclusion by themselves which constituted civil liability for spreading rumors. Also, several people who specifically attacked Dolores with hate comments were also taken to court.

“The results will be out today.” Armand vowed solemnly.

Matthew was very satisfied with this speed. He stepped into the lobby, “They must be asked to apologize publicly and issue a statement.”

“I know. The court session will start soon, I will hang up the call first.” Armand’s voice came over.

Matthew lowered his phone and Abbott hurried over.

Matthew didn’t seem to be surprised. His steps remained steady as he walked into the elevator. Abbott followed him into the elevator and stood besides him, “They are in the reception room right now, will you meet them?”

Matthew curled his lips and asked with a cold smile, “Why won’t I meet them?”

Chapter 418 Prove Her Innocence

Abbott said carefully, “If they are coming here, they must be trying to force you.”

They didn’t catch Chloe, did they have a way out seeing them?

Matthew didn't explain himself, he only said lightly, "Do your work."

Abbott stopped, then he turned around and went towards the office area, clearly he couldn't help in this matter, so he would go and do the work he was good at.

Matthew opened the door to the meeting room, the moment he opened that door, the sun shone through the window at him, who was wearing a black suit.

Jeffery and Eddie were sitting and chatting on the black genuine leather couch, when they heard the door open, they turned to look, Matthew was lit up by the sunlight, they couldn't see his face expression clearly, but they could see that this tall figure must be Matthew.

The two of them went quiet.

Matthew stepped towards them.

Jeffery spoke, "Have you thought about it?"

The reason he was there was because Eddie went to fetch him, he said that since this was already done, they needed to solve it soon.

It was obvious that he mentioned first for Chloe to marry Matthew.

Eddie had agreed, if he backed out now, it wouldn't be fair to his friend.

And just like Eddie said, they didn't have a way out anymore.

Eddie just received a call, he knew that Matthew had sued the media that were spreading the news about Dolores being a murderer, he didn't dare to interfere anymore, he was afraid that Jeffery might get a clue, so he could only ask Jeffery to talk to Matthew.

It wasn't really talking to Matthew, but more like pushing him.

Matthew sat down on the sofa, he crossed his legs elegantly, his calm eyes were on Jeffery, without any emotions.

When Jeffery met Matthew's eyes, he stunned, this kind of distanced and calm look made him uncomfortable, he had said that uncountable times already, but he was going to repeated once more, "This is for your own good, why is she acting in collusion with Victoria? You are her husband, if she thought about you, she wouldn't have put you in this tough spot, don't you think?"

Matthew listened to him quietly.

Jeffery thought that Matthew finally thought about his words, so he continued harder, "You know how I have treated you all these years, half of the blood in your veins is from the Harris family, why would I hurt you? Chloe is only a little younger than Noah, she is still young, and she is pretty too, I don't need to introduce her family again, you know them, you are made for each other..."

"Dolores." Suddenly Matthew interrupted Jeffery, he leaned towards him, his hands were casually on his knees, his eyes were deep while staring at Jeffery, "My wife, Dolores, she is pregnant, did you know?"

Jeffery was speechless for a moment, he knew.

That day Officer Sharp called him.

At that time he was very shocked, he had no idea that Dolores would be pregnant right now, first he was very worried, because children were important to their parents.

Even though him and Sean were always breaking a fight, but he still loved him.

Eddie reminded him that Dolores being pregnant now was too much of a coincidence, why would she get pregnant now?

Could it be that she was looking for a way to run from the law? Or, she and Victoria were planning something, just to trip Matthew?

Dolores and Victoria had been close to one another, Eddie was also heating it up, he believed most of it and also thought that Dolores being pregnant was only a lie.

Jeffery swallowed, "I know, but don't you think it is too much of a coincidence? Right at the time when I want you to marry Chloe, she suddenly gets pregnant?"

Eddie wasn't in the place to talk, so he sat on the side without speaking, he only watched those two silently.

Matthew looked at Jeffery for a long time, slowly he leaned back in the sofa, he sat there in an extremely relaxed position, recklessly and displayful, he looked at Eddie once and laughed, "Thank you."

Eddie didn't want him as his enemy, so he smiled and answered, "This has nothing to do with me, it's your uncle who started it."

It really was Jeffery that mentioned it first.

Matthew smiled but didn't speak, if he didn't have any other ideas on his mind, would he really want his daughter to be caught in this mess?

Jeffery was afraid Matthew would hate Eddie, so he explained, "This really was my idea, he only agreed because of me."

Matthew leaned his head back on the couch, then licked his teeth, "Since you want it so much, if I don't agree, it's me being the bad person. They will call me stupid if I don't accept a gift like that."

Eddie's face didn't look so well anymore.

Jeffery's expression also changed slightly, clearly Matthew's words weren't meant nicely, he was suggesting that Chloe was a free gift.

Jeffery said in a lowered voice, "Chloe is from the Chambers family, I have watched her grow up, her manners and perspective are not comparable to an usual woman..."

Matthew didn't want to listen to that, his expression darkened, "I agree to marry Chloe, but..."

His expression looked deep, he stared at Jeffery, his voice was sharp, "I want this to be cleaned up, as if it never happened."

Jeffery never thought that Matthew would agree, he was still thinking about what he could say to convince him, this was great, he laughed and said, “Of course, as soon as you married Chloe, the police will publicly say that this matter has nothing to do with Dolores, they will show evidence that she hasn’t murdered anyone.”

Chapter 419 Not Just You Have Tricks

They had planned everything, they even prepared evidence to prove that Dolores was guilty, but at the same time they also prepared those to prove that she wasn't.

When it happened, there were people in the back who recorded it all on camera, when Dolores shot at Sampson, it was in the situation when she panicked and wanted to protect herself, it didn't take Sampson's life, it was actually Sampson who grabbed Dolores's hand and shot at himself that led to his death.

The videos that went viral on the internet, were the ones showing that Dolores shot Sampson, it was edited. The first half showed how Dolores took the shot, the fight between Sampson and Dolores was cut out, the next scene that was seen was Sampson lying on the ground in his own blood bath.

This made people believe that Dolores had killed him with her shot.

The complete video was in Jeffery's hands, Eddie had copied it secretly from Jeffery's computer, and he asked someone to edit the video and release it.

If the complete video was released, they could prove that Dolores didn't kill anybody, she only tried to protect herself.

Matthew was not satisfied with this answer, he laughed, "You framed a woman for murder, and now you want to erase this with simply one sentence, don't you think this is unfair?"

Jeffery frowned, he didn't expect that he wouldn't be satisfied, "What do you want?"

Matthew leaned back, and said without any emotions, "I don't have high expectations, I just want every single person who was involved to apologize to her."

Jeffery immediately got angry, this was his doing, if they had to apologize he would be on top of the list, he never thought that Matthew would ask that of him.

Apologize to Dolores?

Jeffery couldn't do that.

He had never bent in front of anybody in his life.

"No way!" Jeffery turned him down.

Eddie also didn't think that Matthew would want Jeffery to apologize to Dolores.

This was ridiculous!

"Your uncle is your elderly..."

"To be right or wrong has nothing to do with age, or does the law only care about the younger generation? If the elderly do wrong, should they stay unpunished?" Matthew interrupted Eddie, he laughed, "Officials, especially people like you, can do whatever you want?"

Eddie shut his mouth, he was still in position, he couldn't allow himself to say anything in front of Matthew.

Anybody who had gotten as far as him knew that they had to watch their every word and step.

Jeffery's face was filled with anger, he had always been a traditional person, he never agreed that men and women should be equal. Now Matthew wanted him to apologize to Dolores?

"Matthew, you want me to apologize because of a woman?" Jeffery's eyes showed wrinkles that grew deeper by the minute.

Matthew was still smiling, but that smile had no emotions at all, "I don't think you have a choice."

Jeffery and Eddie both changed the color of their faces, Jeffery's face looked even worse, "Matthew, what do you mean?"

Matthew stood up, and patted his shirt, then he said with significance, "You are not the only one who can play dirty tricks, if I am being serious, I do not think you can win me."

Being an official was honorable, they had benefits, but they also had weak points.

Any small things could be investigated.

If Matthew really wanted to take it on with them, they would get quite entangled.

Eddie didn't dare to speak, even though Matthew was younger than him, but his aura was not weaker than Jeffery's. He admired that kind of cold and calm, he was a big person, and he could be this successful to this stage, he must have his one way.

Jeffery was trembling all over, he couldn't tell if it was out of worry or anger, but this was definitely not normal.

He stared at Matthew's shadow, his hands clenched.

Suddenly, Matthew stopped at the door, he stood there tall, but didn't turn around, nobody saw his face, "I forgot to tell you, this meeting room has cameras."

Eddie and Jeffery both stiffened, their eyes widened, this meant that their conversation was recorded?

Eddie felt okay, he didn't say anything that was out of the ordinary, but the conversation between Jeffery and Matthew had a lot of information, for example that Dolores was not guilty, and where this was coming from.

Was Jeffery using his forces to find a way out for Dolores?

To bend the law for personal gain was also a weak point for them, if anybody knew about this, there would be a lot of rumors, everyone knew the consequences.

What Eddie could think of, Jeffery already knew.

"Don't worry, I won't let it get out." Matthew slowly turned around and looked at Jeffery, his face showed no expression whatsoever, "This is the last affection between you and me."

These years Jeffery had treated him well, he was a human, he was made of flesh and blood, especially after he was with Dolores, he treasured every person by his side.

Jeffery was still his uncle, if he didn't think about Jolene, he still had to think about their relationship of the past years.

This was his last mercy to Jeffery.

This was also the last connection between the two of them.

Jeffery understood what Matthew meant.

Was he drawing a line between them?

Was he cutting him out?

Jeffery's eyes blurred, he couldn't even see Matthew clearly anymore, he only wanted the best for him.

After Jolene passed away, he had always treated him as his own family, but he...

The anger that he couldn't release made him sick, Jeffery's sight suddenly became blurred.

"Jeffery..." Eddie caught him and asked him worried, "What is wrong?"

Jeffery blacked out.

Eddie was nervous, he quickly got out his phone and said, "Hang in there, I will call someone."

Matthew stood in the door and watched the scene with cold eyes, he didn't help, instead he turned around to leave.

"Matthew, that is your uncle, are you going to watch him die?"

Chapter 420 Do You Still Wear Pampers?

Eddie shouted at Matthew.

Matthew did not stop walking, he left quickly. He knew that their relationship would be canceled once Jeffery decided to do so.

It was an unavoidable result.

He could not tolerate his uncle who always wanted to spoil the relationship between him and Dolores.

Even though he minded the relationship between Dolores and Victoria, as Dolores said, Victoria had done something wrong but she was not a bad woman. He was still reluctant to accept Victoria, he would not accept Victoria forever. He could just reject her and did not get closer to her. He would remain the same attitude as what he portrayed before.

He did not want to upset Jolene who was already dead.

When Matthew walked into the office, the door of the elevator opened. A few medical workers rushed out, "Where is the patient?"

Eddie heard their voice and shouted, "Here, the patient is here."

The door of the office was shut, the sound from outside was no longer heard.

Jeffery was carried off on a stretcher by the medical workers. Eddie followed them.

The ambulance parked in front of the building.

Meanwhile, Sean stood at the door of the villa of the Harris family. He kept recalling Samuel's tender face and bright eyes. During the first time he met Samuel, Samuel was still a kid but acting like an adult. Samuel was bold and asked, "You're a student here too?"

Sean felt strange that why there was such a young kid on the campus.

It was a university, not a kindergarten.

Sean felt that Samuel was funny, he squatted down and looked at Samuel, "You talk like you're a student here."

He lowered his head and looked at Samuel's crotch, "Do you still wear pampers?"

Samuel was outraged, "You're the one wearing pampers."

Samuel roared at him.

He puffed his face, he was angry.

After that, Sean knew that Samuel was specially enrolled in the university. He would not attend the class like other students but the dean allowed him to enter the campus as he was talented.

Sean was curious about Samuel's parents as they had such a smart son. After that, he knew that Samuel came from a single-parent family, he had a younger sister. There were only two women in his home, one took care of them while another worked to earn a living.

He was amazed after knowing that, he did not expect that Samuel came from a single-parent family. Samuel was clever, obedient and lovable. He took pity on Samuel, it was a pity that Samuel did not have a father...

He admired Dolores after understanding Samuel's family background. She could be the breadwinner yet educated the children well.

He was curious about the family yet he took pity on them. So, he treated Samuel well. The longer the time they got along, the more familiar they were. They even had a close relationship.

However, he never expected that Samuel was indeed Matthew's son.

The world was so big yet so small.

He stopped meditating. He had made up his mind to stop Jeffery from doing the irrational act. No matter how, he should not spoil the family.

It was not easy for the family to be completed.

He knocked on the door. After a while, Marina opened the door.

Marina hugged her son once she saw Sean, "You simply leave and never contact me. I'm so worried."

Marina wanted to cry when she saw her son.

Her voice was coarse, "You quarrel with your father, then why do you abandon me?"

Marina was suffered.

Sean hugged her and patted her back, "You're my mother. Even if I have to abandon my wife, I will not abandon you."

Marina cried while smiling, she slapped her son, "What are you talking about? Do you have a girlfriend?"

Sean changed his expression, then he changed back. He smiled and said, "I have someone I love but I don't know whether she will like me."

"Who? Do I know her?" Marina was excited. It was the first time Sean mentioned his girlfriend in front of her.

Every parent was concerned about their children's marriage.

Marina too.

Sean kept it suspense purposely, "Don't you allow me to enter the house? Just think of your daughter-in-law? In addition, I like her but she might not like me."

Marina stared at him. Her son was an idol, he had so many female fans, he was the young ladies 'dream love, "My son is so handsome, who will not like you?"

In every parent's opinion, their children were the best. Marina thought in that way at the moment.

She felt that Sean was the most handsome man in the world.

He could match with any woman he liked.

Sean held Marina and entered the house. He took a glance at the surrounding. Marina knew who was he searching for, she said, "Don't worry, he is not here. Eddie had come to meet him, they left after staying in the study room for half an hour."

"Where do they go?" Sean asked.

"I don't know, I never ask him," she did not want to talk to Jeffery after they quarrelled on that day.

She knew Jeffery go out but she did not ask more.

But she knew that he went out with Eddie, then it must be related to Matthew.

There was only one thing that Jeffery was concerned about.

She could not intercept Jeffery's decision but Sean was her son, she could comment something about his girlfriend, "Tell me honestly, who do you like?"

Marina saw him dawdling, then the woman must not be a good one. Or else, he would not hesitate in his words. Marina warned him once she thought of his occupation, "You already disobey your father and be a star but your girlfriend must not involve in the entertainment circle anymore."

Nowadays, the female stars always wore sexy clothes to attract others' attention, they even said that their boobs catered for their career...

Let alone Jeffery's objection, she could not accept such a woman to be her daughter-in-law. Her body had been seen by people from all over the world.

She felt embarrassed about that.

According to their background, Sean should seek a woman whose family background was matched with theirs. Although this kind of woman would not have outstanding status, at least she was better than those sexy female stars.

Sean looked at Marina who was agitated, he said slowly, "She is not a star, she does not involve in the entertainment circle. She has a good family background."

Marina was cheerful instantly, she forced him to answer, "Who is she? Faster tell me, share your happiness with me." Convenient Marriage: Mr. Nelson's Love Trap

Chapter 421 Sean's Plan

Sean acted like he was too embarrassed to speak and silently sat on the sofa.

As if kept in suspense, Marina became anxious.

"Why are you not speaking?" Marina was close to yelling at him.

Sean pulled her close to him and put his arms around her shoulder, "Mum, do you know why I haven't found a girlfriend until now?"

"Why?" Marina rebuked in her heart. She wouldn't need to ask him if she had known the reason.

Sean pretended to be shy, "Forget it."

"Forget it?" Marina was so angry that she almost stood up. She looked at her son and said, "Why are you being so shy? Don't act sissy like a woman. Are you still my son?"

Sean blinked his eyes, thinking why her tone sounded like Jeffery's.

Was it true that a couple would act alike after spending a long time together?

"Hurry up and tell me. Who is it?" Marina was a little impatient.

She's really annoyed with Sean.

Sean did not continue being mysterious. He didn't want to make Marina even angrier, which wasn't worth it. He lowered his head, rubbed his nose, and said, "It's not anyone else, it's someone you know too. Our families are close, and she's slightly younger than me..."

Marina filtered through all this information in her mind and the only person who's matching was Chloe from the Chambers family. Someone she knew, whose family was close to theirs, and slightly younger than Sean...

She widened her eyes and looked at her son in panic and shock, "Are you referring to Chloe?"

After all, Jeffery was fixated on getting Chloe to marry Matthew.

How could she not be anxious?

Sean looked at Marina's stunned expression, "Can't I like her?"

Marina turned her head away, not daring to look at her son, "It's not that you can't."

"Then what's it about?" Sean intentionally put on a cold face and asked as if he was hurt by Marina's reaction. "We grew up together and have been close since young. Our families are close as well. What's more, she's someone who could meet your requirements, not to mention her family background which is similar to ours. You've watched Chloe grow up, isn't it perfect if I get to marry her?"

Sean had already thought about it before he came back; he must stop Jeffery from separating Matthew and Dolores.

He reckoned that it would be impossible to persuade Jeffery, but he had faith that he could convince Marina, hoping that she would argue with Jeffery for his happiness...

Then, there's still hope for this matter.

Even though it might not be the best solution, but this was what he could do.

Marina had never expected that the reason that Sean didn't get a girlfriend all this while was because of Chloe.

"Why didn't you tell me earlier?" Marina asked helplessly.

"Is it too late to tell you now?" Sean acted like he was unaware of Marina's concern and deliberately asked, "Do you think that we're not suitable for each other?"

Marina quickly explained, "No."

"Then what is it?" I've already confirmed that Chloe doesn't have a boyfriend, so it's a good time for me to confess to her. Mum, are you not willing to help me?" Sean pretended as if he was disappointed.

Of course, Marina didn't want to stop her son from being together with someone he was fond of. It's just that Eddie and Jeffery were bent on getting Chloe to marry Matthew.

Now that Sean suddenly told her about his feelings for Chloe, what should she do?

"Noah, things are a little complicated. Chloe has already been arranged to be with another person." Marina didn't feel good either as she thought that her son's happiness mattered the most.

She had to think of something right away to stop Jeffery and Eddie so that her son could get together with Chloe.

Sean's eye darkened. Chloe was arranged to be with someone else?

Eddie and Jeffery wanted to separate Matthew and Dolores so that they could arrange Chloe into marrying Matthew.

Deep down, Sean sneered and felt a great disdain for such behavior.

This was not something a rightful man would do.

Sean acted like he was sad in front of Marina. He lowered his head and covered it with both his hands. Speaking through the gaps of his fingers with a muffled voice, "I've already checked and made sure that she doesn't have a boyfriend. How could this happen? And obviously, I was the one who met her first..."

Sean was an actor, and he starred in a lot of dramas before this. Therefore, he could easily bluff Marina with his acting skills.

Marina quickly placated her son, "I'll figure something out."

Sean abruptly raised her head and looked at Marina, "Who was she arranged to? How come I've never heard of anything?"

Marina lowered her eyes and answered, "I don't know. I only heard it from Mrs. Chambers."

Marina was aware of Sean's relationship with Matthew.

Sean would be shocked if she told him about this. She actually had her own selfish motives too. If Sean knew that Jeffery was trying to marry Chloe to Matthew, she was worried that Sean would give her up for Matthew.

Judging from their close relationship, Marina was sure that Sean would really do that. But Marina didn't want her son to be unhappy.

Sean fixed his gaze at Marina. Actually, he wanted to know Marina's opinion regarding Jeffery's arrangement about getting Chloe to marry Matthew. He wondered if she would be frank with him, but alas, Marina didn't say anything.

He was more or less a little upset. Ever since young, Marina and Jeffery had been telling him that Matthew and he were brothers even though they were not related and that they were all family.

This mindset was deeply rooted in his mind. However, the people who had told him the same thing had changed.

Were they still a family?_Convenient Marriage: Mr. Nelson's Love Trap

Chapter 422How Confident Are You Towards Courting Her?

Sean kept his head low in disappointment.

Marina thought that he was frustrated because of Chloe.

She hugged her son and comforted him, "Even though things are a little complicated, I'll try and help you will all my effort."

Sean turned his head and looked at Marina with gloomy eyes, but in the end, he didn't say anything.

Marina thought hard about it. She was clear with how stubborn Jeffery was and how much he cared for his sister who had passed away, so it would be impossible for him to let go of this thing. She could only try and persuade Mrs. Chambers and Chloe instead.

After giving it a thought, Marina looked at her son seriously and asked, "If you were to meet Chloe, how confident are you towards courting her?"

How confident?

He had no interest in her, okay?

Why did he need to be confident?

If he were really interested, he would have done it a long time ago. Why would he wait until now?

But he couldn't tell Marina the truth. He pretended to be hesitant as if he had no confidence, "I think it's about fifty percent chance."

Marina made up her mind immediately, "Fifty percent is more than enough. I'll go to the Chambers family and bring Chloe here."

In this way, Sean would get a chance to express his feelings to Chloe.

If Sean could be with Chloe, Jeffery would never be able to force Matthew to marry Chloe anymore. She understood better than Jeffery, Matthew would never marry Chloe. Even if he did it for Dolores's sake, they would not have a good ending.

Actually, Marina didn't want to hide this from her son, but she had her concerns as well. In the end, she didn't say anything. She got up, went to get changed, then went out.

As a mother, she was selfish.

Since they were all staying in the same neighbourhood, it only took Marina a while to get to the Chambers family's house. As she was about to knock on the door, her mobile phone rang.

She took out her phone and answered the call.

Eddie's anxious voice came from the other side of the call, "Is this Marina?"

Marina could recognize Eddie's voice, and replied, "Yes."

"Hurry up and come to No. 2 People's Hospital. Jeffery has passed out. He's sent in to the emergency room now..."

Marina's mind went into a blank. Jeffery had passed out? He was sent into the emergency room?

She was so panicked that she didn't know if she should step forward or backward. The mobile phone in her hands was still connected to the call.

"Marina, are you listening?"

Marina regained her senses and replied, "Yes, I heard you. I'm coming over right now."

After getting married for so many years, she still had feelings for Jeffery. Other than being stubborn, as well as not being not gentle nor romantic, Jeffery was considered a good husband as he was sincere and loyal to her.

He came from a military background and had a tough physique. He would have his medical check-up twice a year and had remained healthy. Why did he suddenly pass out and ended up in the hospital?

Marina hailed a taxi at the entrance of the neighbourhood. She had totally forgotten about her promise to Sean.

Now, all she could think about was Jeffery.

She was afraid that something might happen to him. After all, he had been physically fit. It was just too sudden for him to be admitted to the hospital.

The taxi arrived at the hospital after a while. Marina opened the door in a panic and got off. The driver shouted at her, "Hey, you haven't pay yet."

Only then did Marina remember. She turned around and passed a hundred yuan to the driver and apologized, "I'm sorry, I forgot as I was in a rush."

The friendly taxi driver replied, "Don't worry, I understand."

Nothing good must have happened for someone who had to rush to the hospital.

The taxi driver handed the change through the window. Marina said, "Keep the change." Then, she immediately walked into the hospital.

The taxi driver smiled and happily put the money back into his wallet, then left the hospital.

When Marina reached the emergency room, Jeffery was still not out yet. Eddie was sitting on the bench waiting by himself.

Marina walked to him in a hurry. Before she even reached Eddie, her voice reached him first. "What's wrong? He has always been healthy, so why did he suddenly pass out?"

Eddie stood up from the bench and comforted Marina, who appeared to be extremely worried, "Don't be anxious first."

"How can I not be anxious?" Marina couldn't control her emotions. Jeffery was sent to the emergency room, so how could she not be worried?

"Tell me. Why did he pass out? He has always been healthy."

It was a matter of time before Marina would know the truth, so Eddie didn't plan to hide from her, "Today, Jeffery and I met Matthew. We wanted to discuss his marriage with Chloe. Matthew agreed, but he wanted to draw a line with the Harris family. Jeffery got too agitated and that's why he passed out."

Marina knew that Jeffery really cared about Matthew, so she could understand that it was hard for Jeffery to accept the fact that Matthew wanted to draw a line with the Harris family. But... Matthew had agreed to marry Chloe?

Now only she recalled her promise to Sean.

What should she do now?

She took out her phone and called her son. As Sean was reluctant to contact his family, Marina didn't have his mobile phone number, so she could only dial the home landline number.

The phone rang for a long while, but no one picked up the phone.

Sean went to the Chambers family house directly after he waited for Marina for a long time. But he didn't find Marina there as well.

"Your mother didn't come over, why don't you give her a call?" Mrs. Chambers told him honestly.

Sean smiled and said, "Actually, it's nothing urgent. By the way, is Chloe home?"

Mrs. Chambers answered, "Yes, she is."

She stepped aside to let Sean enter the house. Mrs. Chambers actually liked Sean, knowing that he was almost the same age as Chloe and that they had similar family backgrounds. Since they grew up together, they were familiar with each other.

Mrs. Chambers looked at him and said, "Sean, are you fond of Chloe?"

He had been visiting pretty frequently lately, and always looked for Chloe. Today, he claimed to come here to look for Marina but ended up asking about Chloe. For Mrs. Chambers, he was just using the excuse to get close to Chloe.

Sean was stunned for a moment. He didn't expect Mrs. Chambers to ask him this question. Convenient Marriage: Mr. Nelson's Love Trap

Chapter 423 My Heart Belonged To Another Person

"I apologize for the abruptness." After asking, Mrs. Chambers also felt that she was being too blunt, "Did I scared you?"

Sean shook his head and looked at Mrs. Chambers seriously, "Was it that obvious?"

For a moment, Mrs. Chambers didn't know what he meant. She paused for a second and said, "You, do you really like my daughter Chloe?"

Sean scratched his head and acted like he's embarrassed, "Is it very ridiculous?"

Mrs. Chambers quickly waved her hand and said, "No, no. I'm not that old-fashioned. At this kind of age, you and Chloe should be having a relationship already by now."

Sean had been single. As for Chloe, she was too picky, therefore she never had a boyfriend before too.

Mrs. Chambers didn't feel abrupt about Sean suddenly expressed his feelings today. Instead, she felt that this was fate for the two of them.

Sean didn't expect that Mrs. Chambers would be so supportive of him and Chloe to be together.

Did she not know that Eddie wanted Chloe to marry Matthew?

Mrs. Chambers smiled, "Chloe is upstairs. You can go find her yourself, you already knew where her room is anyway."

Eddie didn't tell his wife regarding this because he felt that she didn't have to know about it. However, Mrs. Chambers was aware of this matter.

Eddie didn't tell her, and neither did Chloe. She actually heard it when Chloe was talking about it to Eddie.

But she didn't want Chloe to marry Matthew.

Eddie proclaimed that marrying Chloe to Matthew was for the good of the Chambers family, but Mrs. Chambers knew that he had something else in his mind.

Eddie had hidden this secret deep in his heart.

However, she had been in a relationship with him for so many years, so how could she not notice what was on her husband's mind?

Sean was dazed. He didn't expect that Mrs. Chambers would be so open-minded and voluntarily let him go and find Chloe in her room.

"I" ...

Sean was not sure if Mrs. Chambers was probing him, or if she was being sincere about it.

"Look at you. I've been watching you grow up since you were a child, how could I not believe in you?" Mrs. Chambers smiled and spoke.

Sean nodded, "Then I'm going to find Chloe."

Mrs. Chambers waved her hand. She watched Sean as he went upstairs, and a slight flicker flashed through her eyes. She's not going to let Eddie entrust her daughter to Matthew.

She was thinking of a way to stop Eddie, and Sean appeared at the right time.

As Sean walked to the second floor, he inadvertently glimpsed at Mrs. Chambers. Their families had good relationships, and they often visit each other. In his impression, Mrs. Chambers was a virtuous wife. However, she and Eddie didn't look like they were very close, but they were at least courteous to each other.

Mrs. Chambers would never refuse Eddie's request. Therefore, since she voluntarily allowed him to get in touch with Chloe, she mustn't have known that Eddie actually wanted Chloe to marry Matthew.

After all, this matter was not a done deal yet. Eddie and Jeffery probably wouldn't go around and let everyone know about this.

Perhaps Eddie wanted to wait until things were finalized before tell her about it.

But it was fortunate for him that Mrs. Chambers didn't know about it. Otherwise, it would be hard for him to get a chance to approach Chloe.

Sean knocked on the door as he reached Chloe's bedroom door.

Because Eddie didn't allow her to go out, Chloe was still in her bed wearing pajamas. She didn't move and laid on the bed, while her slender and fair legs were folded against each other.

Her nightgown only reached the root of her thighs, which was just enough to cover her private areas.

She swayed her legs in the air, while she rested her head at the side of the bed, letting her long and straight hair slid down from the bed.

Usually, Mrs. Chambers would send her fruits at this timing, and there were no outsiders in the house, so she acted casually. While looking at her mobile phone, she said, "Come in."

Creak...

The door was slightly pushed open. Chloe still didn't look at the person who opened the door, and her gaze was fixed on her phone screen, "Mum, do we still have any pineapples at home?"

She suddenly wanted to eat something sweet and sour. The weather was getting warm, and it would be even nicer if the pineapples were iced.

Sean stood by the door, didn't say anything, and watched her swaying legs. He just leaned by the door in silence while watching her.

The two of them grew up together, and they were familiar with each other. Therefore, when the two of them grew up, he had never attentively observed her before.

Even though he couldn't see her face clearly, but Sean knew that she was not the same little girl who used to follow him around anymore.

After a long while, Chloe didn't get her mum's reply. She frowned and asked, "Mum?"

And as she asked, she tilted her head and looked towards her bedroom door.

Her head was rested at the edge of the bed. Therefore, when she tilted her head and looked towards the door, she found that it was not her mother. Even though Sean's figure was upside down in her vision, she quickly reacted, hurriedly rolled over, and covered her thighs with her nightgown. She said in a panic, "You, why are you here?"

Sean leaned against the door, smiled, and said, "Isn't it too late to cover your thighs now? I've been watching you for half a day..."

Before he could finish his sentence, Chloe threw a pillow at him, "Go away!"

Sean didn't dodge. He caught the pillow and continued watching her, "I didn't realize it before, but you are actually quite pretty."

Naturally, Chloe was very happy when she was complimented for her beauty. There would be no women who did not like to be complimented by men.

She held her head high up, "You only found out now?"

Sean held the pillow and looked at her delicate face carefully, thought for a while, then softly replied to her with a hum.

Chloe combed her long hair and tidied up her pajamas. She wore a piece of pinkish-grey-colored pajamas with slings inside. On the outside, she wore another long sleeve silk robe, and because she didn't tighten her sash, the robe was loosely draped on her shoulders, exposing her naked neck and collarbones.

As Sean cast her gaze over to her neck, Chloe hurriedly tightened her robe and tied her sash on her waist, "Why are you looking at me like this. Are you having some improper thoughts now?"

She came down from the bed and walked in front of Sean. She seemed like she was in a good mood, smiled, and said, "But too bad, my heart belongs to another person."_Convenient Marriage: Mr. Nelson's Love Trap

Chapter 424Who Are You Calling Self-Centered

Sean looked at her smiling eyes and shifted his gaze down.

She stepped on the carpet with her bare feet, exposing half of her calves. Feeling uncomfortable, Chloe couldn't help but draw her legs back and asked in a fierce tone, "What are you looking at?"

Sean didn't get angry, but instead withdrew his gaze and looked at her. He said ponderingly, "Your heart belongs to someone else? I know you are a picky person, so who's the lucky guy?"

Sean asked knowingly.

Chloe turned around, walked to her bed, put on her slippers, and pretended to not hear what he just said.

Eddie told her that she couldn't reveal this to anyone yet.

That's why she couldn't answer Sean.

Sean came in and closed the door behind him.

Chloe glimpsed at him but didn't find it awkward for the two of them to be in the same room. When they were teenagers going to high school, they even drank from the same bottle of water.

She sat in front of her dressing table and combed her hair. Looking at herself in the mirror, she asked Sean, "Why are you are? Is something wrong?"

"Can't I look for you even if there's nothing wrong?" Sean sat at the corner of the dressing table, placed his arms around his chest, and looked at Chloe. "Who's the guy that you are fancying over?"

Sean continued asking.

Chloe glanced at him, "Why do you want to know?"

Suddenly, she warily narrowed her eyes and looked at Sean, "What do you know?"

If he didn't know about anything, why did he keep asking her this question?

"What do I need to know? Why are you asking this?" Sean smiled and asked.

Chloe looked at him from top to bottom, and from the bottom back to the top. "You don't look like the kind of person who would get to the bottom."

Sean stared at her affectionately, "You know me so well? You've fallen for me, haven't you?"

Even though she was familiar with Sean, he had never looked at her this affectionately before. Chloe froze for a second before she turned her head and said disdainfully, "Tsk, are you still dreaming? It's broad daylight on the outside. Have I fallen for you? Are you kidding me? You're not even my type."

Sean smiled and said teasingly, "You haven't tried it before, how do you know I'm not your type."

Even though Chloe was still inexperienced, she knew what he meant. She instantly blushed. No matter how thick-skinned she was, she was unable to compete with a man.

"I'm tired, and I'm going to sleep. You can leave now." Chloe tried to chase him away. She rolled to her bed and hid under the blanket.

Sean didn't leave but instead stood beside the bed. When he was filming with the crew, he had a habit of brewing emotions before he could enter a specific role.

Then, he would only let the director start shooting once he felt that he's ready for the role.

No matter how good his acting skills were, at least it was proven before. Otherwise, he wouldn't be famous right now.

When he felt that he was ready, he sat on the side of the bed and spoke in a deep voice, which contained some imperceptible feelings, "Do you know why I haven't been looking for a girlfriend?"

It was pitch black in front of Chloe. She could hear Sean, but she remained silent.

Even though she felt stuffy, she didn't lift her blanket.

Sean spoke in a volume that Chloe could hear.

He continued brewing his emotions. And maybe the room was quiet, unlike filming in the crew where everyone was watching, he felt very relaxed, and he was able to throw his emotions into his act easily, "I always liked a girl, and that's why I didn't get a girlfriend."

Chloe, who was still covered under her blanket, held her breath as though she wanted to hear clearly who this girl he was talking about.

"She was slightly younger than me, we went to the same school, and we have seen each other's embarrassing moments..." He sounded more and more melancholy and depressed as if he had no place to express his endless feelings. "After all these years, I've thought of expressing my thoughts to her. But, because we had become too familiar with each other, it was hard for me to say it out."

Chloe, who was hiding under the blanket, felt as if she was going out of breath. She didn't know why, but her heart was pounding wildly as if it was because she had heard what Sean had said.

Sean glanced at the undulating blanket and continued saying, "She was actually quite beautiful..."

Chloe held her breath once again and listened carefully to Sean. She realized that she had met all the criteria that Sean had mentioned...

Sean had been fond of her?

"However, she didn't have a good temper, and she's a little self-centred. And probably because of her wealthy family, she's always arrogant and scornful towards ordinary people. On that point, I..."

"Sean!"

Suddenly, Chloe lifted the blanket, sat on the bed, and pointed at Sean angrily, "Who are you calling self-centred!"

Sean looked at her and curled the corner of his lips, "I said I liked the self-centered girl. I'm not talking about you. Why did you assume that it's you? And why are you so agitated?"

...

Chloe was speechless.

Her face blushed like a cooked prawn.

The air froze for a few seconds before Chloe started yelling at him, "Noah Harris, leave here right now! Ugh..."

Her lips were suddenly blocked.

Chloe was a proud woman, and she was picky as well. That's why until now, she had not yet found a boyfriend, and she had never kissed any man before.

This was her first kiss...

Her pupils shrank uncontrollably, and she quickly realized what Sean was doing.

She tried to push him away, but Sean grabbed her hand as soon as she moved her hands.

Then, Sean thrust his other hand into her messy and slightly sweaty hair, clasped the back of her head tightly, and kissed her even deeper.

Chapter 425 You're Only Mine

Chloe was dumbfounded and didn't move at all. The look on her face was unsure whether she was numb or stunned.

Soon Sean's kiss left her lips and slid to her ear, gently opening his lips, and his hot breath spreading on the skin around her ear, "I heard my father say that you want to marry Matthew?"

Boom!

Chloe turned her head stiffly to look at him, "You knew about it?"

Sean tenderly stroked her cheek, "What's so good about him? An old man in his thirties. As far as I know, he has a rotten personality and is not gentle with women. What do you see in him after picking for so long?"

"He doesn't seem like what you say. He's quite nice to Dolores" ...

"Do you know him better than me? I've been his close friend for so many years. Do I still not know him? On account of his good looks, he acts like a human being outside, but in fact, in private he is very perverted and even abuses women."

"Abuse women?" Chloe was dumbstruck.

Sean continued to smear Matthew unforgivingly. This was an excellent opportunity to do Matthew a favour by bad-mouthing him. Sean could now say anything, which he didn't dare to speak normally, to his heart's content, "What do you think? Can he not be under pressure to manage such a big company? People tend to get distorted inside when being depressed for a long time."

Chloe blinked, and it seemed to make so much sense.

"But" ...

Would someone like him really be mentally abnormal? Then why would Dolores still be good with him?

Sean saw what she was thinking and deliberately pinched her cheeks, "How can you be so stupid? Do you think he's being nice to Dolores? Why didn't he reveal her identity? Dolores would have run away if it wasn't for her giving birth to two of his children. She had no choice to stay by his side because of the children. And again" ...

His fingers moved down Chloe's cheek, pinching her chin and making her look at him, "Am I not younger and better looking than him?"

As he was so close to her, Chloe was able to clearly see his delicate skin, which was even more detailed than a woman. As a famous male celebrity, he had well-preserved skin and not looking worse than any other woman.

She had to admit that he wasn't ugly.

Soon Chloe reacted, "You have said so much just because you don't want me to marry Matthew, right? Do you think I'm stupid?"

...

Sean was speechless.

Hadn't she bewitched by this yet? After all, he had offered his mouth up before. He was so uptight for his first kiss scene and thought it was too much of a loss to provide a kiss to an actress a few years older than him when he didn't have a girlfriend yet.

He was working with a well-known director in the country, who had well-received for every film that he directed. It was rumored that he was a very unpredictable director who would do anything to make a good film.

It was said that the director once filmed a scene in which the female lead had to dance a passionate Paso Double. The lead actress didn't know how to dance, so the director got a teacher. The odd thing was that he learnt to do it himself and that he even learnt it better than the lead actress in that scene.

Later, the film won an award. The host mentioned the scene and asked, "How come you learn it even though you were not the one to dance?"

The director was very calm, "How do I direct her without knowing it?"

There was a round of applause from the audience. Success was no accident, but all the hard work behind the scenes.

The director even danced for a while to liven up the atmosphere. A man of only 1.6metres tall and a bit chubby, he danced it elegantly and passionately.

It was mainly because he had mastered that demeanour so that he looked so natural.

It was funny and surprising.

At that time, the director disliked Sean for being indecisive and said, "Putting your mouth to other's mouth is just like putting your lips to a piece of meat." The director even demonstrated by taking his own mouth and kissing the photographer's mouth, then looked at Sean and asked, "What's the big deal? Isn't it just flesh and flesh together? Just close your eyes and gnaw on it. Then you're done."

The photographer was dumbfounded at that moment.

Sean was also dumbfounded, touching his lips and thinking in his mind. They were just two pieces of meat, right?

Not sure if he was brainwashed, Sean thought the director's description was very appropriate, that these were just two pieces of meat. So when he kissed Chloe, all he could think about was the director's remark. Just closed his eyes and kissed her.

Just like doing a kissing scene.

In fact, he didn't know that after shooting that scene, the director hid and washed his mouth with mineral water and also said to the cameraman, "Don't eat too much onions next time. It smells so bad and so disgusting."

The cameraman was speechless.

He was wronged.

Sean continued to build up his emotions. He didn't expect her to react so quickly without even using his honey traps yet.

Countless female fans screamed for his handsomeness. He wouldn't believe that he couldn't take Chloe down.

"Yes!" His eyes were red, "I don't want you to marry anyone. You're only mine!"

At this moment, Sean thought of himself was now acting out a scene of a bossy president.

He pulled Chloe into his arms, gazing deeply into her eyes, "After all I've said, don't you still understand my feelings?"
