

Come back to me

Chapter: 261

The Reunion Of The Siblings

As soon as Michelle got off the plane, she saw her name flashing in the distance. Upon seeing Nina, she immediately trotted over.

"Nini, Nini, I'm back! I'm back!"

Michelle was running very fast, and in no time at all, she was throwing herself at her friend. Fortunately, Nina had good balance and great strength.

She held the other girl steady.

"Nini, I missed you so much." Michelle clung to Nina's neck and laughed merrily.

"I miss you too." Nina joined in with the laughter, smiling from ear to ear.

Their embrace drew some attention from the passersby, but neither girl noticed.

Amy and Lena pulled their sunglasses down in a synchronous motion, revealing two pairs of burning eyes.

"They look so weird locked in that position," Amy commented.

"That's how Mr. Shi always hugs Mrs. Shi," Lena replied dryly.

Both women's lips twitched. Did John just get cuckolded by a girl?

After all, they were tasked to protect not only Nina, but John's position and reputation as well.

"Mrs. Shi, this is the airport. Please calm down."

"Yes, Mrs. Shi, Miss He. Please pay attention to your manners."

Amy and Lena reached out to try and pull the girls apart, but Michelle only held Nina more tightly and kept la ni's brother. No doubt about it, they look exactly the same. They are both so beautiful."

Michelle was calm,

while Amy and Lena were going crazy.

It didn't matter if that stranger was Nina's brother. He was a man!

How could they just stand by and let a man hug Nina?

John had told them that no man was allowed to get close to Nina, regardless of who he was, or whether he was aged ninety-nine or was just learning to walk.

Even Michelle was walking a tightrope in that department, despite being a woman.

Now came this other person who was said to be Nina's brother, clutching her with obvious adoration. He was a man!

Something bad was going to happen if John found out!

John wouldn't blame his wife, of course, he could never. This meant that the two bodyguards would be the ones facing the consequences.

Amy whipped off her sunglasses again and put them into her pocket. "What are you looking at? Separate the two of them!"

"Yes, right away." Amy and Lena hurriedly ran to the siblings.

They stood in front of Nina and Leon, both of them giving off an aggressive energy.

"Mrs. Shi, we apologize, but we need to remind you that you are married."

'Please don't get close to another man,' they thought.

Chapter: 262

You re So Good looking

Seeing Amy and Lena, the smile on Leon's face faded. He patted Nina's back, put her down, and pulled her behind him.

Wynn stepped forward and asked, "So what? Even if she's married, she's still Leon's sister."

Nina was filled with joy when she saw her brother and paid no attention to what anyone else said. Leon took the opportunity to lead her away.

"Nini! I have a lot to tell you! Why don't we hang out today?"

"Sounds good." Nina also had a lot to say to her brother. When she turned to leave, she thought of Michelle. "Wait, I'll ask Mimi to come with us."

Leon took a look at the black Maybach and saw a lovely girl standing outside of it. She blinked her eyes, looking very cute.

Michelle seemed to sense that Leon was looking at her. She flashed him a bright smile.

Leon thought Michelle was an uncomplicated and lovely girl.

Imagining that she and Nina were good friends, he nodded slightly and smiled.

Leon's smile was quite attractive.

Michelle blinked her eyes and thought, 'He's as good-looking as Nini.

Forget that. He's more good-looking

He touched Michelle's head and said, "Thank you. Um...would you mind calling me Brother again?"

Sitting in the passenger seat, Wynn opened a bottle of water and sipped it, listening to the exchange.

He almost spit out his water when he heard Leon.

As it was, he was startled. His hand jerked and water spilled on him, leaving dark spots on his clothing.

'Did he really say that?' he thought.

Michelle smiled and couldn't help saying, "Brother, I love your voice. It's so deep and masculine."

And it was no lie. A smile crept over her features. Leon smiled too. He rubbed Michelle's head a little harder and said nothing.

Nina didn't think anything was wrong with this. Her friends were her family, so her brother was Michelle's brother too.

Besides, Nina agreed with her friend. Her brother was handsome, and she liked his voice too.

Nina remembered what happened when she first met Michelle. Michelle couldn't stop looking at Nina and was stunned by her beauty.

'So both Mimi and I really like beautiful people and beautiful things,' Nina thought.

Chapter: 263

The Princess Of C Island

John was currently in Time Group.

After getting off from work, he was going to the dinner party arranged by Nina to welcome Michelle.

However, the moment he was about to head for the door, Amy and Lena came in.

Nina wasn't with them.

"Please punish us, Mr. Shi. We failed to stop Mrs. Shi from leaving." Amy and Lena bowed their heads and apologized.

"Where did she go?" John asked. Since they weren't able to stop her, it meant that Nina left on her own accord.

She wasn't kidnapped, so it wasn't supposed to be a big deal.

John frowned at the thought. What if something happened when no one followed her?

He glanced at the two women who still had their heads bowed down. "Why didn't you follow her?"

Amy bit her lip. "Mrs. Shi left with a man. He didn't allow us to..."

"A man?" The atmosphere suddenly became tense as John's eyes narrowed.

"It's not like that," Lena said. "Mrs. Shi left with her brother, Mr. Lu. We tried to follow them but we were stopped by his man."

John blinked a few times while he tried to process the new piece of information. "Who?" His eyes gradually softened and understanding dawned upon him. He recalled Nina mentioning her brother in her sleep.

So, it was true that Nina did have a brother.

Why did her brother suddenly appear now?

"Mr. Lu looks exactly like Mrs. Shi. She told us that she wouldn't be coming back tonight and de, however, Henry thought that John definitely had good taste. After all, he married the princess of C Island.

John's brows furrowed at Henry's reaction.

Seeing how Henry hesitated, he couldn't help but become suspicious.

Was his wife still human?

John leaned comfortably against his soft chair and lazily flipped the pages of the documents with his slender hand.

His eyes darted back and forth the contents of the document, and after a while, his eyes narrowed.

John tried to process the words that he was reading. "Nina Lu, the princess of C Island..."

As soon as realization hit him, John tensed up. He stared with wide eyes at the photo of Nina in the carriage from what Henry had seen earlier.

John blinked for a couple of times and never took his eyes off the paper in his hand.

He kept on replaying the words he had read. Nina was the princess of C Island.

John was at a loss for words.

Perhaps the chair had been so slippery that John slipped from his chair and fell to the floor.

He landed on his butt with a loud thud.

The recent piece of information had blown him away.

"Mr. Shi!" Henry tried to reach out but he failed to catch him on time.

Even Richard wasn't able to help John.

He looked petrified and couldn't even move a muscle.

Richard had seen the information as well and it left him shocked.

Nina was the princess of C Island.

Chapter: 264

Stay Up All Night

Standing from a distance, Amy and Lena weren't able to even take a peek at the document.

But judging from John's reaction, they guessed that his wife might actually be someone of great importance.

Why else would John wear such a stunned and frightened expression?

It was also the first time they had seen him fall on his butt, and all the way to the floor no less. In a way, it was kind of funny.

The two women exchanged subtle glances and bit their lips to keep from laughing.

They could never laugh at their employer, of course. They would never dare.

Meanwhile, John was struggling to catch his breath. When he first heard the Lu family wouldn't admit that he was Nina's husband, he wanted to laugh.

No one had ever dared to humiliate him.

Now, it turned out that the Lu family was not just some big shot in Spring City, but the actual royal family of C Island.

Swan feather...

It finally dawned on him why he could never find any useful information on the swan feather. Its significance was something that lay within the bosom of C Island's royal family.

And his little girl was the princess of C Island. This fact effectively wiped out any lingering doubts and misunderstandings from before.

It took less than half a minute for John to fully embrace the idea.

He slowly picked himself up from the cold floor and plopped into his chair. Then he calmly tidied the documents he was clutching.

When he was satisfied, he placed them in one of his desk drawers with the intent to read them carefully and pore over the details when he had the time.

His t

ying with him here temporarily. Please do not make any more disturbances, or she will be going away with him tomorrow."

John narrowed his eyes at the man who stood just outside his car. "Was it my wife who said that, or her brother?"

He was certain his little girl would never say such a thing.

To his credit, Wynn maintained an air of neutrality. He wasn't aggressive, but he didn't humble himself either. "Mr. Lu can represent his sister."

"No."

No one could decide for Nina except for herself.

John's face became unreadable. None of the others could tell if he was angry or something else. He stubbed out the cigarette he was smoking and blew out his last huff.

After a short moment of consideration, he decided to retreat for the sake of advancing. "My wife said she won't be coming home tonight. That's fine then. I will come and get her tomorrow at the crack of dawn."

Then he nodded to his men. Henry hurriedly went back inside the car and Richard drove them away without another word.

Wynn was left standing in the driveway, perplexed as he watched the car disappear.

What he didn't know was that the black Maybach didn't go far. It went out into the main street before making a sharp turn at the first alley. From this spot, they had a perfect view of the hotel gate.

Henry was confused. "Mr. Shi, what are we doing, exactly?"

"Staying put until dawn." John lit another cigarette.

He would stay here and stand guard tonight. He wouldn't allow Leon to take his wife away.

Even if the prince did just that, John would definitely get Nina back.

Chapter: 265

Eager To See You

Nina and her brother hadn't seen each other for two years, so they really did have a lot to talk about.

They sat on the sofa, chatting and playing video games happily. Every once in a while, one would one-up the other in a video game, which resulted in a pillow fight.

Michelle didn't disturb them and ate at the table.

While eating, she glanced at Leon and Nina from time to time. She also stared at Wynn sometimes.

Why did he look so familiar?

He looked a lot like her master.

But Wynn was pretty clean. Michelle thought he couldn't be her master. The guy she was thinking of was messy.

Afraid of being found out, Wynn went back to his room.

Nina was enjoying time spent with her brother and had already forgotten John.

Meanwhile, John sat in the car, the wind finding its way in and stealing the warmth of the occupants.

Henry and Richard were also there.

Henry had dozed off several times.

It was one o'clock in the morning, and Nina was starting to fade. She leaned on her brother's shoulder and closed her eyes.

With Nina's head resting on his shoulder

John understood what he meant and smiled.

"Did you come for me last night?"

"You already know." John pinched her face and pulled her into his arms.

He breathed in her scent and it was heaven. She was so soft in his arms.

'It's my little girl.

She's back,' John thought.

Feeling his love, Nina put her arms around his neck, jumped up, and clung to his body like a koala.

"I'm coming back. Don't worry." Nina gently kissed the corner of his mouth and inhaled the scent of tobacco.

"Did you stay up all night and wait for me here?" Nina rubbed his face and felt sorry for him.

He thought it was worth it to see the concern on Nina's face and in her voice.

It would be better if he could sleep next to her.

"Honey, I'm sleepy." His low voice sounded a little put upon.

Nina pursed her lips and smiled. "Are you trying to say you can't sleep without me?"

"Honey, let's head to bed," John said straightforwardly.

Of course he didn't need to hide his feelings in front of his wife.

Then John left with Nina in his arms.

Before they even left the park, Leon arrived.

Chapter: 266

Bantering

It was still early. There were few people in the park.

The air floated in a thin layer of mist, and in that mist loomed Leon. He walked steadily, like a man on a heaven-mandated mission.

When Leon saw his sister in John's arms, his face darkened. His cold eyes drifted to John, and when his eyes fell on Nina, the expression on his face softened.

"Come here, Nini."

It was impolite for Nina to cling onto John in front of her brother.

She moved her body and prepared to get off John.

However, John held her even tighter and said, "Don't move."

His voice was neither loud nor low, just enough for Leon to hear.

It was as if to declare that Nina was his.

The two men's eyes met, like two armies in a standoff.

Nina was afraid that they would fight right then and there.

A quiet and weird vibe hung over them like a cloud during their entire trip to the restaurant.

Their table was like a border separating two opposing powers, keeping them from ripping each other's throats.

Nina sat beside her brother and ate the breakfast that the waiter just brought.

From time to time, she would glance at John and Leon, the two m rward slightly, put her elbow on the table, and rested her chin on her left palm. She tapped her fingers on her cheek to the beat of her heart. A mischievous smile slowly spread across her pretty face.

"And if you dare let another woman take shelter under you, I will cut you down." Nina smiled, but she did not seem to be joking.

John felt relieved. He leaned back, his eyes soft, and his voice took on a unique laziness. "I'll even hand you the ax myself."

"Then we're on the same page." Nina smiled wider and winked at her husband once again.

For others, it was just a gentle, innocent smile, but John found it quite charming.

He saw the same smile every morning when he woke up with his little girl in his arms. That smile could really kill him.

"Ahem..." Leon cleared his throat loudly, his eyes darting back and forth between the two.

He was still here. Could they be more impolite?

Leon thought that he was not that important to his sister now, so he threw some cold water on her.

"Nini, you got the marriage licenses with John listed as a resident of Spring City, but don't forget that you're the princess of C Island."

Chapter: 267

What An Interesting Girl

Leon's words made the smile on Nina's face gradually disappear.

She turned to look at her brother and said sadly, "What a bummer!"

Hearing her whining, Leon's heart softened. He touched her head and said, "Sorry, Nini. But I'm not wrong, and you know it. Our family has some criteria for selecting your husband. He should be..." Leon found himself silenced.

Nina covered his mouth to stop him from speaking.

"Honey, I have something important to discuss with my brother. You go home first. I'll see you at North yard, okay?" Nina said to John. Then, she stared at her brother and said, "We need to talk, Leon. Now."

Nina dragged Leon and left. Leon could not say anything and could only go back to his suite.

As soon as they entered the suite, Nina loosened her grip on him and lowered her head, looking a little sad.

The frown on his sister's face softened his heart. Leon called softly, "Nini?"

"Leon..." After a pause, Nina looked up at her brother and shook his arm. "Please don't tell him about the criteria. He cares about his face so much and is eager to excel."

Nina knew that John would definitely try his best to fulfill the three conditions if he knew about them.

But h foot, Leon could not help frowning.

He stood up, took a pair of slippers, and followed her to the bathroom. He walked in on her while she was brushing her teeth. She saw him come in through the mirror and turned her head at him.

"Brother?" she mumbled with a mouth full of bubbling toothpaste.

"You're barefoot," Leon pointed out.

"Really?" Michelle lowered her head and moved her feet. "Oh. I didn't realize I forgot to put on slippers."

Leon smiled, stooped down, and set the slippers in front of her. "Here. Put these on."

"Thank you." Michelle put on the slippers and looked down at him.

When he stood up again, he towered over her. He was 1.85 meters tall while she stood 1.6 meters. She looked up and stared at him longingly.

"What's wrong?" Leon asked when he noticed her staring.

Michelle smiled and said simply, "You are not only good-looking but also kind."

Leon chuckled. He reached out his hand and patted her head. "Brush your teeth quickly. I'll take you to get some strawberry cake."

"Okay." Michelle nodded with a smile and continued to brush her teeth.

Before heading out of the bathroom, Leon looked back at her.

He thought, 'What an interesting girl.'

Chapter: 268

Take Leon Away

Leon took Michelle and Nina to eat strawberry cake.

There were two presidential suites on the top floor of LC Hotel. When they passed by the door of the other suite, the door cracked open.

Nina stopped in front of the door, letting Leon and Michelle continue to walk on ahead.

Through the slit in the doorway, Nina saw a familiar figure.

The man seemed to have seen her, too, but he just looked at her calmly for a second and then turned around.

There was a meaningful smile on the man's face.

Nina was stunned.

It was her husband standing behind the door.

John did not go back home to North Yard but got the suite next to Leon's.

Nina wondered how long he had been standing there, waiting for her to pass by.

"Nini, what's wrong?" Leon turned around and found Nina standing in front of the other presidential suite.

She stopped and snickered, which was strange.

When she heard his voice, she became serious again. "Nothing. I'm coming."

While they were eating cake, Nina's mind seemed to be someplace else.

"Where do you want to go after this?" Leon asked her deliberately.

"What? I don't want to go anywhere," Nina answered quickly, which just proved that she was thinkin na really did not sleep well the previous night.

She was already used to sleeping with John by her side.

Hearing what Michelle said, Leon looked at his sister.

She really looked tired.

Nina had been alone since she was a child. It was only natural that when she met someone she could rely on, she would quickly develop a desire to stay with that person all the time. Leon could understand that Nina might not be feeling well when she was apart from her husband.

"Fine. Have a good rest, Nini. Be a good girl, okay?" Leon implied that he did not want her sneaking around with John.

Nina simply nodded and smiled.

After finishing their strawberry cake, Leon and Michelle accompanied Nina back to the suite. Then, they left for the amusement park.

Half an hour after Leon and Michelle left, Nina jumped up from the sofa and went to knock on the door of the other presidential suite.

The door was not locked.

Nina turned the doorknob and opened the door slowly.

Before she could say anything, a pair of big hands wrapped around her waist, swept her off her feet, lifted her up, and carried her into the room.

Soft, familiar lips crashed into hers.

She was unable to say anything.

Chapter: 269

A Loose Woman

John lifted Nina up with one hand around her waist, pressed her against the wall, and leaned in to kiss her.

"Wait... John..." Patting him on the shoulder, Nina looked at the open door and said, "Close...the door..."

She felt way too anxious leaving it open.

She snuck out and didn't tell her brother that she was coming here.

John pulled away from Nina's lips, put his head against her forehead, and said in a hoarse voice, "Honey, we're a married couple."

Why was she making it seem like it was an affair?

Then he took out the marriage license and shook it in front of Nina. "Honey, look."

"Ha-ha." Nina couldn't help laughing. She was so bemused by the fact that John carried the marriage license with him all the time.

She stretched out her hand and was about to grab it when John lifted it high above his head. "I keep it with me so that I know it's safe."

"Is it really though? Aren't you afraid of losing it?" Nina didn't believe his nonsense. John just didn't want her to see the photo on it.

He frantically

.

All Vivian's nerves instantly dissipated when she saw the photo.

The man looked nothing like Nina so he definitely wasn't related to her.

She heard Nina was an orphan, but she could have some relatives nevertheless.

If Nina and the man had nothing to do with each other, what were they doing at the hotel? They had to have some sort of underlying relationship.

Someone approached and whispered something in the manager's ear. The manager nodded and dismissed him. He turned to Vivian and reported, "Mr. Luo has just come back into the hotel."

"What about Nina? Is she in the hotel?"

"She came back an hour ago. She hasn't come down since then."

Vivian smiled, "Very good.

Don't tell anyone about this."

As a hotel manager, he had seen this countless times.

He knew what Vivian was up to, so he nodded.

"Get back to work." Vivian stood up and patted him on the shoulder. She looked at him admiringly and thought, 'Smart man.'

She looked away with a menacing smile.

'Nina, you can't escape this time.'

Chapter: 270

Catch Nina Cheating

Vivian was about to go downstairs when her phone rang. She looked at the screen and saw that Jessica was calling. "Vivi, where are you? I remember LC Hotel being owned by the Ye Group. Would you be able to check which room they are in? I need to teach them a lesson."

Jessica tried her best to control her anger as she talked through gritted teeth.

Vivian smirked. It was exactly what she wanted to happen. "Don't worry. I've already asked someone to look into this matter. Hold on, I'll come to you."

After hanging up, she made her way towards the lobby.

Jessica raised her hand and waved at Vivian's direction the moment she saw her appear.

"Jessica," Vivian greeted. Her eyes were flashed with concern as she held onto Jessica's arm. "Don't worry. Perhaps that person just looks similar to Nina."

Jessica frowned. "How many people look like Nina? The person who looks a lot like her is now travelling around the world with her husband." She wasn't aware of Kristina's death since Noah and John had managed to conceal this news to the public. Only Nina and the members of the Ye and Song families knew about the truth.

Vivian narrowed her eyes.

Kristina, who resem nsive presidential suite in Lexingport City. It will cost at least millions to stay here for that long.

It looks like Nina is very capable. She even found a rich man." Her frown deepened. She said this through gritted teeth without even bothering to conceal her hatred.

How could her brother fall in love with such a shameless woman?

Vivian looked at Jessica with concern. "Jessica, I don't think we should let Brother John know about this or else it might break his heart."

Jessica nodded and agreed. She held Vivian's hand and let out a deep sigh. "Nina has deceived my brother. He made a mistake by choosing someone like her. I'm sorry."

Vivian pretended to smile bitterly before looking up to Jessica with gentle eyes. "I want Brother John to be happy. He likes Nina, so..."

Her grieving expression effectively made Jessica feel sorry for her.

"Don't worry, Vivi. John will definitely see Nina's true colors one day. When your chance comes, I will be helping you." Jessica made a promise and flashed a gentle smile at Vivian.

Although Vivian seemed satisfied with this, she tried to hide it. Instead, she led Jessica to the room.

Vivian rang the doorbell.