

Deep affection honey come back to me

Chapter: 381

I Want To Make A Bet With You

Sitting on the reef, Vivian was enjoying the sea breeze. When she heard the footsteps behind her, she smiled sinisterly.

"Nina, do you miss home?" Vivian asked in a soft voice, staring ahead with burning eyes. "If your family comes to pick you up, will you go back?"

Nina felt that Vivian's behavior was very strange. She seemed to be talking with friends. She was not affected, as if she really cared about Nina.

"No, I won't." Nina said firmly, "I will be where he is."

"Yes, wherever John is, you're with him, but now you are here and he hasn't come with you." With a gentle smile, Vivian stood up and looked at Nina.

After staying in the dark for a long time, they would gradually adapt to the darkness. Both of them could vaguely see each other's outline and face.

Even in the dark night, Nina's special temperament still could not be ignored and the jealousy in Vivian's heart was even greater.

She only blamed herself for not having a life as good as Nina's. She wasn't born in a good family, didn't have a beautiful face and wasn't rich.

She didn't have so is phone call that made Nina's hesitation disappear. How could she doubt John?

Nina shook off Vivian's hand and answered the phone.

"Honey, it's raining." The man's deep voice came through the phone. John was anxiously looking for Nina.

"Find a place to hide from the rain. Don't be afraid. I'll come to you right away." Nina was also nervous. She was afraid that John would be afraid.

Seeing that her plan was about to fail, Vivian had no other choice. She held Nina in her arms and fell into the sea together.

"Ah!" Nina let out a cry. Her voice passed through the phone and reached the ears of John.

"What's wrong?" John looked up nervously, only to find that it was dark everywhere.

Then he heard the sound of falling into the water on the phone.

The sound was like a space tunnel, bringing him back to his ten-year-old birthday. Fear immediately spread through his limbs. His body gradually stiffened and his slightly white lips opened, but he did not shout out the words that he wanted to say.

With a shake of his hand, John's phone fell to the ground.

Chapter: 382

He Didn't Save Her. He Lied To Her.

play_arrow

stop

Vivian and Nina fell into the sea together.

Vivian was mentally prepared and smoothly surfaced. However, Nina was forced to drink two mouthfuls of sea water before she popped out her head and coughed several times on the sea.

Suddenly, it began to rain cats and dogs. The rain fell on their faces, making them feel a little painful, and the wind blew even colder.

The rain was getting heavier and heavier on the sea, causing waves one after another. According to this, there would be big waves later.

They had to swim back to the shore as soon as possible.

Without even taking a look at Vivian, Nina swam straight to the shore. After Nina swam a little, she was blocked by Vivian.

"Nina, you are here now. Don't you want to have a try? I promise that John won't come to save you. "

The sound of the rain was so loud that Nina didn't hear clearly what Vivian was saying. Vivian turned around and shouted for help towards the shore.

"Help! Help! Someone fell into the sea!"

Vivian's voice was so soft that it was not so penetrating as to resist the sound of the torrential rain, and then reached the ears of John.

It was true that Vivia tonight's wind was cold, and the rain was bone piercing. She took out her cell phone, but it had been soaked in the sea and could not be turned on.

"Use mine." Vivian took out her phone and even found the phone number of James, "I know you don't believe me. Then you can verify it yourself. Is John lying to you?"

After hesitating for a while, Nina finally took her phone.

"Who is it? Why do you call me at night? It's disturbing! " James roared angrily.

Nina said calmly, "Me."

"Aunt Nina?" James immediately became obedient and asked, "Aunt Nina, what can I do for you?"

"I..." Nina's voice paused. "Is John afraid of rain?"

"He is not afraid. He is a man. Why is he afraid of rain?" Patting his chest, James promised, "Uncle John is not afraid of rain. Ah, Aunt Nina, my father called me. If there is nothing else, I will hang up first. It's the first time that my father called me. There must be something urgent. Bye, Aunt Nina. "

James was in a hurry to hang up the phone.

The beep in Nina's ear didn't bring her thoughts back. The words from James kept hovering in her mind.

'John is not afraid of rain.

He lied to me.'

Chapter: 383

Nina Is Pregnant

play_arrow

stop

The clothes soaked in rain and sea water were very cold, and a gust of wind blew, making Nina teeth tremble.

"Nina, are you Okay?" Vivian asked indifferently.

There was only endless darkness in front of Nina. It was so dark that she couldn't breathe. Her eyes darkened and she fainted.

Vivian took half a step back, and Nina missed her body and fell to the ground. The rain ruthlessly patted her pale face and wet body.

"Are you fainting now? It's really useless. " Vivian cast a disdainful glance at Nina and dialed a number.

"Hello, are you arriving at the wharf of Spring City? Someone saw Nina fainting nearby. Come and save her as soon as possible. " Vivian used a voice changer so that it was impossible to tell whether Vivian's voice was a man or a woman.

As soon as she finished speaking, Vivian threw her phone into the sea, turned around and left proudly.

Vivian also had to go back to Lexingport City that night. Sending Nina away was only half of the plan, and there was still half waiting for her to deal with.

"Anne, that person called us again and said that the little princess fainted near the dock of Sp ve a rest. I'll stay here with Nina myself."

"Your Majesty, go to bed. I'll take care of the little princess."

"No, I can take care of her by myself." Anne waved her hand to refuse, indicating them to leave the room first.

"Queen Anne," the doctor hesitated for a moment before handing the examination report to her.

"What's wrong?" Anne took it over in confusion and opened it. She was stunned by the content on the report.

The doctor lowered her eyes and said, "The little princess is pregnant."

Anne's hand trembled, and the examination report fell to the ground. Her eyes flashed with astonishment and unknown complexity.

"Is Nina pregnant?"

"Yes, the little princess has been pregnant for six weeks."

"Six weeks..." Anne's voice also trembled. "More than a month. Nina has been pregnant for more than a month."

The doctor and Rebecca didn't say anything. They just kept silent, and so did Anne.

After a while, Anne recovered from the shock and ordered coldly, "Except the three of us, no one is allowed to know about it, including the little princess. Do you hear me?"

"Yes." The two said in unison.

Chapter: 384

Sam Is In Critical Condition

play_arrow

stop

In Lexingport City.

The operation light in Kanner Hospital was still on.

At present, in Lexingport City, there were only Daniel and his wife, Jessica, and Dora and Chester of Shi family.

Daniel was standing at the door of the operating room with Angela in his arms, staring at the red light of the operating room.

Jessica sat on a cold chair and lowered her head remorsefully. Tears fell down from her eyes and she sobbed silently.

It had been more than an hour since the operation, but Sam hadn't come out of the operating room safely.

"Dora, will Grandpa be Okay?" Chester sat on the chair and touched his knees uneasily.

Dora sat next to Chester, with her soft hand on the back of Chester's cold hand, and comforted, "Grandpa will come out soon. It's Okay."

Dora's eyes were as red as rabbit's. she comforted her brother, but she cried, "Waah... Waah I don't know if Grandpa will be okay. The doctor said that Grandpa couldn't bear the stimulation at his old age... It's all aunt's fault. Grandpa fell from such a high place. "

Julie was ready. After hanging up the phone, she rushed to Kanner Hospital.

Vivian called back and promised Jessica.

Within ten minutes, Julie arrived at the hospital.

Jessica held her hand and said, "Mrs. Julie, you must save my father. Now only you can save my father."

Julie unhurriedly raised her hand to tuck her hair behind her ear. Now that Jessica had something to ask for, just call her Mrs. Julie. Jessica had never been nice to her before.

"I am also very sad about Sam's accident. Because you are so good to Vivi, I would definitely save Sam, but..." Julie's eyes flashed with shrewdness. "I have a condition. If you agree, I will go in and transfuse blood to Sam."

"As long as you are willing to save my father, I will promise you anything." At this moment, Jessica was burning with anxiety. She pushed Julie towards the operating room.

Julie said slowly, "You haven't heard my conditions yet."

"Go ahead." Daniel was the one who could make the decision here.

Julie said unhurriedly, "Let my daughter marry John."

Chapter: 386

Plan To Divorce

play_arrow

stop

At twelve o'clock in the evening, the red light of the operating room turned off.

Everyone stood up. They had been waiting for the result for several hours.

Sam was rescued successfully.

However, one of his legs was broken and he could only live in a wheelchair in the future.

Such a result was already a blessing in the misfortune for Shi family. It was better than losing his life.

Sam was sent to the ICU. Julie came out of the operating room weakly, and the color on her face obviously faded a lot.

"Mrs. Julie, are you Okay?" Jessica immediately went to hold Julie and said, "Thank you so much tonight."

Julie shook her head and said, "You're welcome. As long as John doesn't forget to marry my daughter, I hope John can fulfill his promise this morning."

Everyone's eyes fell on John. They all knew that there was nothing that John couldn't do with his words.

But people who knew him well knew that he had broken many of his original shackles for Nina. No one knew whether he would go back on his word when it came to Nina.

Even if John broke his promise, no one in Lexing snorted and didn't shake off his daughter's hand.

Knowing that she was in the wrong, Jessica loosened her grip and said nothing.

"Grandpa, you are fine. That's great." Dora pouted and held Sam in her arms, tears welling up again.

"Dora, Grandpa is fine. Don't worry." Sam smiled and looked up at his grandsons, telling them not to worry.

Seeing Sam's smile, the others heaved a sigh of relief.

Seeing the whole family and his future granddaughter-in-law here, Sam felt much better.

When people were old, they would only ask for a full house of children and grandchildren.

But there was no Jason.

He looked around and found that there was one person missing. His daughter-in-law, Nina, was not here.

But John was here. Didn't he go to Spring City to make some romantic proposal?

Why did John come back alone?

"Little bastard, how was your proposal last night?" Sam didn't pay much attention to his own health. Anyway, he would always be sick when he was old.

It was just that he should pay more attention to the emotional life of his children while he was still alive.

Chapter: 387

Being Too Ashamed To Face Nina

play_arrow

stop

The other people's expressions changed, but only James didn't know what happened last night, he jumped out excitedly and said, "Oh, Uncle John, you can play romance now? Tell me. Was Aunt Nina moved to tears last night? "

James glanced at the people here, but didn't see Nina.

"Why isn't Aunt Nina here?" As soon as James asked, he felt that the air was getting cold. His mother glared at him and winked at him.

"Didn't Uncle John tell Aunt Nina that something happened to Grandpa?" Asked James, confused.

"Yes." Finally, John spoke. With an unusual expression on his face, he said, "She didn't come... I don't want her to worry. "

John wanted to say that he didn't have time, but finally changed his words.

The moment someone told John that his little girl had fallen into the sea, the seed in his heart that he wanted to save her had taken root and sprouted. The shadow of the past was like a huge iron chain, tying him to the spot.

He tried his best to break free, but he couldn't.

However, bad news came from Lexingport City. Richard dragged him onto the plane, leaving only Amy looking for Ni

"Well, aunt, he is out of breath," said Emma sadly.

"What?" Angela came over and took a look at her son. Seeing that his face was flushed with anger, she loosened her hand and said, "An accident."

James took a deep breath and thought, 'What a mother! She just got away with saying it was an accident.'

"Dad, don't worry. The boy is strong and doesn't need a lot of tonics. But I will ask the kitchen to prepare some tonics for him to eat." Angela immediately explained to Sam. She was afraid that Sam would have a psychological burden if he knew what happened last night, so they could only hide it from him.

Sam was too old to be in good health. If he had a knot in his heart again, he would be depressed.

"Well, he should eat more nutritious food." Sam smiled and looked much better.

As expected, people were in high spirits at happy events.

"By the way, Grandpa, I told Jason about your surgery. He is on his way back. He will arrive this afternoon." Suddenly, it occurred to James and he mentioned it casually.

The expression on Jessica's face suddenly changed.

'Jason is coming back?'

Chapter: 387

Being Too Ashamed To Face Nina

play_arrow

stop

The other people's expressions changed, but only James didn't know what happened last night, he jumped out excitedly and said, "Oh, Uncle John, you can play romance now? Tell me. Was Aunt Nina moved to tears last night? "

James glanced at the people here, but didn't see Nina.

"Why isn't Aunt Nina here?" As soon as James asked, he felt that the air was getting cold. His mother glared at him and winked at him.

"Didn't Uncle John tell Aunt Nina that something happened to Grandpa?" Asked James, confused.

"Yes." Finally, John spoke. With an unusual expression on his face, he said, "She didn't come... I don't want her to worry. "

John wanted to say that he didn't have time, but finally changed his words.

The moment someone told John that his little girl had fallen into the sea, the seed in his heart that he wanted to save her had taken root and sprouted. The shadow of the past was like a huge iron chain, tying him to the spot.

He tried his best to break free, but he couldn't.

However, bad news came from Lexingport City. Richard dragged him onto the plane, leaving only Amy looking for Ni

"Well, aunt, he is out of breath," said Emma sadly.

"What?" Angela came over and took a look at her son. Seeing that his face was flushed with anger, she loosened her hand and said, "An accident."

James took a deep breath and thought, 'What a mother! She just got away with saying it was an accident.'

"Dad, don't worry. The boy is strong and doesn't need a lot of tonics. But I will ask the kitchen to prepare some tonics for him to eat." Angela immediately explained to Sam. She was afraid that Sam would have a psychological burden if he knew what happened last night, so they could only hide it from him.

Sam was too old to be in good health. If he had a knot in his heart again, he would be depressed.

"Well, he should eat more nutritious food." Sam smiled and looked much better.

As expected, people were in high spirits at happy events.

"By the way, Grandpa, I told Jason about your surgery. He is on his way back. He will arrive this afternoon." Suddenly, it occurred to James and he mentioned it casually.

The expression on Jessica's face suddenly changed.

'Jason is coming back?'

Chapter: 389

The Death Certificate

play_arrow

stop

As expected, Maya stopped and took a timid look at Jessica. She clearly saw jealousy and indignation in Jessica's eyes.

"I..." Maya turned to look at Jason, as if she was asking for help, "Mr. Jason..."

"Maya, it's Okay. You can go out now." Jason smiled gently, giving Maya enough courage to push the door open.

When Maya pushed the door open, she happened to meet Richard who had brought the chessboard. She moved aside and made way for him.

At this moment, Jessica grabbed Maya's wrist and pressed it down hard. The pain made Maya's face turn pale. "I have something to talk to you. Come out with me."

"What?" Maya looked at her in fear.

John said, "Richard, send Ms. Jessica back to Stone Road."

John's tone was deep and strong, and there was even an unknown depression in it, making people dare not to say anything against him.

Jessica opened her mouth, but in the end, she was escorted back to Stone Road by Richard.

Sam was playing chess with Jason in a wheelchair, while Jason was obviously absent-minded, so he lost the game for no reason.

"What are you thinking about?" Sam knew what was on Jason's mind, but he still asked.

Jason replied, "Nothing. Sa

mless, with a cold light.

His little girl was so bold now that she even dared to make such a joke.

John didn't say anything, Nina was afraid that Mr. John would be hit hard. She endured the pain in her heart for Mrs. Nina's death and comforted him with tears in her eyes.

"Mr. John, I'm sorry for your loss."

"She won't die." With a calm expression in his eyes, John tore up all the documents and threw them into the trash can.

How could his little girl be easily drown to death?

There was only one possibility that she had left. As for where she would go, he couldn't tell.

No matter where she went, he would find her even if he searched the whole world.

After a thorough investigation, John found that Nina had cancelled her residence and disappeared without a trace.

At the same time, according to the investigation, a luxury cruise ship appeared on the sea of Spring City last night and left not long after it was ashore.

The cruise ship was headed for C Island, which was marked by the royal family of C Island.

John heaved a sigh of relief. His little girl was fine, but her family took her away.

But...

How could he find her across the vast sea?

Chapter: 390

Things Are Not That Simple

When John was worrying about how to look for someone across the coast, a tsunami appeared on the Internet.

The news that Nina was dead was on the top search.

God was jealous of Nina so that Nina drowned to death.

The person who posted this micro-blog message was an unknown beauty blogger, whose location was in Spring City.

In just a few minutes, some media dug deeper into this matter, and soon exposed and confirmed it.

When John looked at the top search, he frowned and his face was as gloomy as ink. Amy quickly said, "I'll contact Richard immediately and remove the top search."

When she connected the phone, John's eyes flashed and he said to stop her.

"No need."

"?" Confused, Amy hung up the phone and let the news spread on the Internet.

John tapped his fingers gently on the table. A series of things had happened too closely recently, and he needed to sort out his thoughts.

The wine incident at the engagement party, the news that his father suddenly knew his sister and Jason divorced, and the news that his little girl drowned to death was on the top search...

Things happened one by one. It seemed that there was no certain con ter?" John frowned.

"Miss Michelle broke the porcelain and scolded you. She asked you to give Mrs. Nina back to her." Helen lowered her head.

Miss Michelle usually looked like a delicate girl, but she threw things without mercy, and cursed without mercy.

What's more, Michelle cried and cursed, which scared Nine to find a place to hide. Mr. James and Mr. Chester didn't dare to get close to her.

Fortunately, the sound insulation effect upstairs was good. If John heard what Miss Michelle said, he would probably want to poison Miss Michelle to mute.

The rabbit was fiercer when the rabbit anxious than a dog who was biting people.

Helen was worried that John really wanted to poison Miss Michelle to mute, so she pleaded for Michelle on purpose, "Miss Michelle said something outrageous just because she couldn't accept Mrs. Nina's matter. I hope you won't punish her."

"It doesn't matter." John wouldn't do anything to Michelle.

She was his wife's best friend.

After lunch, John had left North Yard, and the two people on the sofa were still sleeping soundly.

Instead of going to the company, John went to a psychological counseling room.