

Deep affection honey come back to me

Chapter: 431

Loving A Person To The Extreme Was A Sin

Vivian was speechless and aggrieved.

"The wedding dress I picked is not good?" John turned a deaf ear to her grievance.

"It's good." How dare Vivian say no? "Very good, very beautiful. Then I will wear this wedding dress you like on our wedding day."

She agreed reluctantly mainly because he liked the wedding dress.

"Since the wedding dress is picked. Let's talk about something else." John raised his chin to the opposite seat, indicating her to sit down there.

It was rare for Brother John to sit face to face with her in a peaceful manner. Even before Nina appeared, he only occasionally responded with one or two words.

Sitting and chatting peacefully like this was the happiness that she didn't dare to own but had imagined for countless times.

Although Brother John looked a little strange, she was really flattered.

He could treat her well before they got married. Would he treat her better after getting married?

Vivian was excited. She couldn't wait to get married and hoped that January 23 would arrive soon.

"Okay." Vivian sat opposite him gracefully, staring at the person she had been thinking about day and night tenderly, to the wedding which will never be forgotten." John put one hand into his trouser pocket, turned around and left.

Lisa also walked the two men out. The other shop assistants were busy with their own work, leaving Vivian frozen in place.

Look forward?

She didn't dare to look forward to it.

Her whole body was trembling. The fear in her heart finally opened the door and rushed out, occupying her whole body.

When Vivian returned home, she was still wearing a black wedding dress. She was as cold as an ice stick.

She forgot how she went back. All she remembered was that someone pulled her into the car with one hand, pulled her out of the car, and another person to pull her home.

"Vivi? Why did you come back in your wedding dress? Where is your coat?" As soon as Julie touched her daughter's bare arm, she felt the coldness and withdrew her hand. Then she took off her coat and put it on her daughter. "Why are you so cold?"

Vivian was as dull as a walking corpse. All she could think about was the words of John before she left, "look forward to the wedding which will never be forgotten."

It was like a curse that lingered on her.

What's Wrong With You Vivian

Since her daughter didn't say anything, Julie had to turn around and ask the person who sent her back, "What's wrong with you? Why did my daughter end up like this after trying on her wedding dresses? "

"Well..." Lisa looked back and didn't come up with a proper excuse in a short time.

Julie glared at Lisa. "If anything happens to my daughter, can you take responsibility? She will marry Mr. John in a few days. If anything happens to the bride, John will kill you. "

Hearing what she said, Lisa could only think of a lame but reasonable excuse. "Miss Vivian must be very happy. Mr. John picked the wedding dress for Miss Vivian himself and promised to give Miss Vivian an unforgettable wedding that day. So Miss Vivian was so excited that she came back in the wedding dress."

"Really?" This statement really won Julie's favor. She said arrogantly, "That's more like it. You can go now."

"Okay." Lisa couldn't wait to leave.

Along the way, she suspected that Miss Vivian was so scared by Mr. John's play that her soul was out of her body.

Julie took her daughter all the way back to her room. The heating was on. The green plants and flowers were blooming just in time, aside and laughed at me."

"I...I..." It was the first time that Julie had been frightened by her daughter's appearance, as if the girl in front of her was not her gentle and lovely daughter, but a devil who came to ask for her debt.

Julie's heart skipped a beat.

The strength on Julie's shoulder was getting heavier and heavier, and she finally woke up from the pain. She pushed her daughter away and asked, "Vivian, what's wrong with you?"

Julie stood up and felt a pain in her shoulder.

"I'm not crazy. No, I'm going crazy. John is going to take revenge on me." Terrified, Vivian grabbed her mother's hand and said, "Mom, John will definitely take revenge on me. He must have known everything."

"What on earth does he know?" As a mother, Julie sat down and comforted her daughter, "Don't panic. Tell me what he knows first. Who knows what?"

Trembling with fear, Vivian said, "John has known what we have done. Today, I met two people when I went to try on the wedding dress. They were found by John himself. The two people were also panda blood like you. He specially asked them to come in order to test me. "

Julie was shocked, what Vivian said numbed her soul.

A Frightened Bird

Julie was also stunned for a while. She was so nervous that she kept patting on the back of her daughter's hand. She didn't know if she should comfort her daughter or persuade herself to calm down first.

Julie was 20 years older than her daughter and had much more life experience than her daughter.

She quickly became rational.

"Don't panic. Don't panic. Tell me what happened this afternoon from the beginning to the end. Tell me everything that John said to you." Julie calmed down.

Holding her mother's hand tightly, Vivian told her everything she remembered in detail.

"Before John left, he said that he would give me an unforgettable wedding. Mom, there is a hidden meaning in his words. The wedding will not be smooth." Vivian said emotionally.

"Vivi, calm down first." Hearing Vivian's words, Julie was not as nervous as before. She smoothed her daughter's hair and said, "Trust me. In fact, John hasn't found anything."

"No! He knows it." Vivian said, "He asked those two people to come and act in front of me deliberately. This means tha only had some jewelry.

"I'm going to sell my jewelry." Vivian's face darkened. It would be disgraceful if others knew that she had to sell her jewelry to get money.

Julie's thoughts coincided with Vivian's. "Don't sell it. Those who are discerning will know that's your jewelry. Don't do anything to lose face at this moment. If you really do that, you'll lose not only the face of our family, but also John's face."

"Wait a minute." Julie turned around and went out. When she came back, there was a card in her hand. She gave the card to her daughter and said, "This is all the money that I have. It's enough to pay for a necklace."

Vivian took the card and felt it was warm. She looked at her mother gratefully and said, "Mom, thank you."

"You're welcome. I'll bask in the reflected glory of your marriage with John. At that time, many people will get in touch with me because of John and money will come." Julie waved her hand and didn't care her money much.

'If Vivi marries John, I will get rich and money won't be a problem.' Julie thought.

What I Was Worried About Finally Happened

As soon as Vivian took her mother's card, she asked her friend to find the designer.

Coincidentally, the new product was just designed by the designer. Before it was sold, Vivian bought it at two times the price without blinking her eyes.

The second day after Vivian got the necklace, she had an afternoon tea with Jessica.

Jessica appeared in front of Vivian in a lady's dress, but she didn't look as happy as before. After all, Julie had to force John to marry Vivian before Julie was willing to save Sam. Jessica was both grateful and angry.

"Is there anything? It's so cold for me to go out in winter. "

Jessica's lukewarm attitude made Vivian feel uncomfortable, but she still greeted Jessica with a smile.

"Jessica, the designer you like has released new products. They are not on sale yet." Vivian took out a square box from her bag and pushed it in front of Jessica. "But I bought it in advance and I wanted to give it to you."

"Really?" As Jessica spoke, she reached out her hand to open the box. As soon as she saw that it was a real necklace, she couldn't help but love it. Her attitude changed at one hundred and eighty degrees. "It's really his design. Vivi, you're too considerate."

"I just think this necklace matches you very well. Let me put it o ry him. Even if I know that he only loves Nina, I am willing to stay with him, take care of him, and take good care of him all my life."

Jessica had always known how much she loved him. Hearing such touching words, her heart softened.

"Everyone has his or her own selfish motive when facing a relationship. You have to remember what you said today. Take good care of John. He has lost a lot of weight in the past six months. "

"I went to try on the wedding dress two days ago and found that. I was learning to cook from my cook recently. I want to give John some nourishment." Vivian said with concern.

"Did you cook?" Jessica was surprised and moved. "Your hands are used to play the piano. How can you cook?"

"It's okay. I can wear gloves. And it's a happy thing to cook the meal for the person I like." Vivian said happily.

"Well, that's true. You'd better pay more attention to it."

"Okay."

The two of them sat down and chatted for a while. Then Jessica left.

Vivian watched her leave with a smile. The moment Jessica stepped out of the shop, the smile on Vivian's face immediately disappeared, and her face gradually darkened.

Vivian took out her phone and dialed a number. "As usual, help me check the flight from Capital City to Lexingport City."

James Doesn't Want His Sister Anymore

play\_arrow

Before the wedding.

Lexingport City ushered in the second snow, covering the streets and eaves of the whole city.

The snow was heavier than before, and the weather forecast had warned of heavy snow. Affected by the cold air, the temperature in Lexingport City continued to fall from tonight. It was expected to usher in the coldest day of this winter tomorrow.

The temperature was so low that no one wanted to get out. Tomorrow afternoon, the famous Mr. John and Miss Vivian of Ye family would get married on the open-air lawn of The Mist Water Park.

God was unfair.

Worried about the delay of the wedding, Vivian asked the media to inquire about it. After getting the answer that the wedding would be held as scheduled, she breathed a sigh of relief.

Vivian sat in her room, smiling shyly and tearfully, looking forward to tomorrow's arrival.

This time, John was also looking forward to tomorrow's arrival.

The cold and expressionless man for half a year finally showed a gentle smile, very shallow, but it was still noticed by Shi family who had been caring about John.

James angrily put the bowl and chopsticks on the table and asked in a clear voice, "Uncle John, are you happy to marry Vivian? What d way.

James sighed, "It's all my fault. Others are full of confidence when they are rich, but I am lack of confidence, although I am rich. Emma's parents worry that I will have a mistress outside to let their daughter down.

Maybe there are too few rich good men nowadays.

Can I be that kind of person? If I were that kind of rich man, I would have learned to be bad when I was a child." James was defending himself.

Dora said in a low voice, "In fact, you are rich only when you are famous. Before you became famous, your parents and Uncle John all deducted your money. You are so poor."

James was speechless...

Dora always spoke the truth, he didn't want his sister anymore!

James shook off his sister's hand and strode forward angrily. In the heavy snow, Dora doubled up with laughter. She didn't catch up with him until she had laughed enough.

After walking less than ten meters, James stopped there waiting for her.

After the meal, Sam asked John to go to the study.

Sam looked at his tall and straight son and said, "I know everything."

"Okay." It was not surprising to John.

"Have you made up your mind?" Tears welled up in Sam's eyes.

What Are You Doing Behind Our Back

play\_arrow

With a determined look in his eyes, John said, "Yes, I've made up my mind."

"In that case, just do as you said. I will go to The Mist Water Park tomorrow. I can preside over the overall situation when the situation is chaotic." Sam sighed slightly, and the wrinkles on his face deepened.

Sam turned his wheelchair back to his son and looked at the snow outside the window. "It will be very cold tomorrow. You must take care of yourself."

"I've been working out for the past six months. I'm in good health." The reason why John looked thinner was that his flesh was stronger.

John let Richard and others train him for half a year. If John was not strong enough, he would feel sorry for Richard and others.

"I know. I also know that you went to see a psychologist, but I still feel that taking the waterway is too dangerous." Sam had always been shrewd. It was possible for John to hide his actions from others, but how could John hide his action from Sam?

With a faint smile, John said, "In this way, there will be less flaws. If we use the explosion, you will have to find a corpse."

"All right." Sam didn't want to hear any more.

he two of them seriously and said, "And Chester, after you pick up Leon, go to a hotel in the west of the city to pick up Chester. Don't let others know that Chester is back."

"When did Chester come back? I heard from James that he was going to pick up Chester at the airport tomorrow. Why didn't Chester tell others that he came back ahead of time? " Adrian suddenly realized that tomorrow's wedding was not as simple as he thought. His face became serious. "What are you doing behind our backs?"

"Nothing." Since John didn't want Adrian to know, the play would be less realistic if more people knew about it. "No matter what happens tomorrow, you must protect Chester well. He knows what to do next."

"Okay." Henry seldom asked about anything that John didn't want to say, but Adrian was different. The more Adrian heard it, the more strange he felt. "Chester is a ten year old child. You..."

Henry said, "Don't underestimate Chester. He is more powerful than you."

"You..." Adrian couldn't even refute, "Okay."

The three people's eyes met in the air for a moment. Adrian tentatively asked, "What are you going to do tomorrow?"

Something More Important Than His Life

play\_arrow

"What are you two going to do?" The topic shifted to Henry and Adrian, John was avoiding the question just now.

It was so obvious that Adrian could see it as long as he was not stupid. He changed the topic, "it's good for us two now, isn't it?"

He elbowed at Henry's arm and looked at Henry sideways.

"Well, we are good now." "But my mother has known it," said Henry.

"What?" Adrian sat up straight in an instant, "When did our mother know? When did you say that? "

"You call her mother now. Of course she should know why she had another son all of a sudden." Looking at his nervous face, Henry wanted to laugh. "She asked me if I liked someone on the video call, and I told her the truth. Why are you so excited? "

"I am just excited!" Adrian's heart was pounding in his throat. He rubbed his legs with both hands, sweating.

He paused for a moment and said, "Didn't your mother come out from the screen and beat you? Pointing at your nose and cursing that you are an unfilial son? "

If Adrian's parents knew it, Song family would turn upside down.

"Is it not your mother now?" A hint of danger flared a bad feeling and his face darkened.

"It's not convenient to take it with me tomorrow." John said.

Adrian breathed a sigh of relief, "You are going to get married but you made it like that you are going to die, and your words were like last words."

"Really?" John asked in a low voice.

The two nodded at the same time.

Adrian clicked his tongue, "A little."

"Let's go." John whistled at Nine and Nine immediately followed John out.

"Are you going to take Nine to get married?" Looking at the docile Tibetan mastiff, Adrian couldn't help but want to play with it.

John's eyes were deep. "Nine is good at swimming."

"Swimming?" Adrian's back froze. He knew how John afraid of water. "I suddenly remember something. Will we be in The Mist Water Park tomorrow? Why did you choose that place? "

"It's convenient."

"For what? It's convenient for you to learn from my sister-in-law about how to drown. "

"Yes." John's eyes flickered.

Adrian thought John was just joking, "You are getting more and more humorous now. I don't know whom you learned it from."

Maybe with John's little girl.

Mimi Was So Cool

play\_arrow

January 23rd.

It was the wedding day of John and Vivian.

Last night, it snowed all night. The whole Lexingport City was covered with white snow, and the roof and streets were white.

It should be a quiet and peaceful morning, but today was the wedding day of Mr. John's second marriage. Many onlookers were waiting to see the bragged wedding of century.

No one knew who revealed that today's wedding was very grand, making people who had nothing to do look forward to it.

As for those who had business contact with Shi family, they didn't receive the invitation but they didn't get angry. Instead, they were observing how things would develop from the other side.

It was a hot topic outside, but there was no big news inside. There must be something wrong.

For a moment, the wedding attracted much attention.

Vivian also felt that something was wrong. She felt uneasy again when she saw the blessings and expectations all over the Internet.

The make-up artist was helping her with her make-up and put on her wedding dress. During the respect to her. "Mimi, you're cool. You've learned a lot of the cool style from Aunt Nina."

Emma didn't expect that the cute rabbit would turn into a cool girl. She was stunned for a while and said, "Mimi, are you going to snatch the bridegroom for Nina?"

"Of course not." Michelle's angry voice didn't match her dress, and her tall figure shrank by a large part in an instant.

She bent down and took out a toy pistol from her pocket. She loaded the toy pistol with a swish twice. She was very skilled.

"I'm going to blow up their wedding place to vent Nini's anger."

"You are so familiar with it. Do you often play with toy guns?"

"I usually hit the balloons precisely. Every time I hit the balloons, they exploded and I got a lot of awards back." Michelle's posture was indeed very standard. She looked around.

"Don't aim at me. It can disfigure my face." The corners of James's mouth twitched. "Are you going to blow up the wedding just with this? You are having a dream."

Emma smiled, "Mimi, you must have other tricks, right?"

Perish Together

"You know me, cousin. It's a waste of time to make a friend with my brother-in-law. I'm so angry." Michelle glared at James fiercely.

Even though she had put on makeup, her stare was still not destructive.

James was amused and said, "If you don't speak and don't show any expression, you really look like Aunt Nina. But your cool image couldn't be maintained as soon as you speak."

"It's none of your business." Michelle rolled her eyes, bent over and took out firecrackers from another big pocket of her trousers. She showed them to everyone, "I'll use this to blow it up. I promise it'll blow it up."

"Are these firecrackers?" James walked over and picked up a firecracker for observation. "Why isn't there any lead? How can you ignite it without the lead?"

"Don't say anything if you don't understand." Michelle snatched it over and turned aside angrily. "This is the most powerful rubbing cracker. It needs to be rubbed and ignited with a piece of phosphorus paper. All firecrackers I bring are this kind"

With a curious look on his face

not look."

"If we share more common characters, we will have husband-wife looks. Quantitative change leads to qualitative change."

"Dear, you've grown up." Emma praised him with a teasing tone.

As long as someone praised him, James would be so happy and proud. He didn't forget to flatter her, "You have taught me well."

"Glib-tongued." Emma replied with a smile.

James said complacently, "I have no choice. Handsome men always have some shortcomings, or others can't live."

Michelle complained, "Shame on you."

Emma smiled.

She was much more lively than before.

At the same time, James was much calmer than before in some aspects, but he still kept the boy's passion.

The two of them had been affecting each other, helping each other become better.

The three of them found a place to change clothes. Dressed in the same style, they walked valiantly on the road, heading for The Mist Water Park.

When the three of them came to The Mist Water Park, they were shocked by the scene in front of them.

How could this be?

Chapter: 440

A Black Wedding

Seeing that everything was black in The Mist Water Park, they were surprised and didn't dare to walk.

"Is this really a wedding?" Emma was flabbergasted. She turned around and looked at the two people next to her, who were also shocked.

Footsteps and discussions came from behind. James took Emma's hand and Emma immediately took Michelle's hand. The three of them sneaked away like thieves.

It was already half past two in the afternoon. People who attended the wedding came one after another. Almost all of them were the relatives and friends of the Ye family, without business partners.

Among so many people there, James only knew Howard and Julie. James thought that Vivian might be in the wedding car behind.

"I think it's a weird wedding. Uncle John didn't go to the Ye family to pick up Vivian and she came here by her own car." James said as he poked his head out.

The three of them hid themselves behind a wall of the public toilet and pinched their noses at the same time.

In fact, the smell of the toilet was not that strong, but when they thought that it was a public toilet, they felt there was a strong smell.

Michelle pinched her nose with one hand and took out the lighter from her pocket with the support of Howard, Julie also tried to stir up the trouble. "These are arranged by the people of the Shi family. If anything goes wrong, they should be responsible. They should give us an explanation. Honey, we can't let our daughter be wronged. They're humiliating our family."

She turned to comfort her daughter, "Don't worry. Your father will get justice for you. How can they decorate the wedding like this? They just want to embarrass our family."

"Why haven't the people of the Shi family come yet?" Howard asked angrily.

His roar was so loud that even James heard it when he was hiding. He rolled up his sleeves and wanted to go out, but was stopped by Emma.

"Here comes the people of the Shi family."

It was Chester. His face was as cold as John's.

"What can Chester do? He's still a child. What if he is bullied later?" James still wanted to go out.

Emma held his hand and said, "Richard is next to Chester. Richard always represents Uncle John. Don't worry. Uncle John must have arranged a lot of things. We don't have the chance to make trouble in the wedding."

"Mimi, let's go." Emma reached out her hand to pull Michelle, but failed.

She didn't know when Michelle slipped away.
