Chapter: 731

She Thinks Valerie Is A Kind And Beautiful Girl

"You look better." After saying that, Bryant took a look at the backstage. Valerie had already come out elegantly, and her makeup had not been removed yet.

As soon as Valerie came out, she saw only one side of Michelle, but the suit jacket on her was too eye-catching.

Pretending not to see it, she went straight to the two people beside her and called, "Bryant, Leon."

"Why don't you change your clothes before coming out?" Bryant looked her up and down from head to toe. She only changed her dancing shoes, and her makeup and hair were still the same as on the stage.

"I'll change it later. I'm in a hurry to see Michelle." Valerie looked at Michelle and said friendly, "Hello."

Michelle had already known who Valerie was, but she didn't know how to face her, so she didn't look at her when she heard the voice just now.

Now that Valerie took the initiative to greet her, she had no choice but to turn sideways and politely smile at her. "Hello."

When Valerie saw her face, she exclaimed, "Oh, it's you. You are Michelle."

"Yes." Michelle nodded shyly, "I forgot to tell you my name before."

"What a coincidence!" Surprised and pleased, Valerie walked to the side of Michelle, separated Michelle and Leon.

She explained wit and why Valerie was looking at her with an unreadable look, as if the story had something to do with her.

The two eyes met in the air. Valerie avoided the pair of clear eyes and continued.

"The love story of the aristocratic count playboy Abelard and the poor girl Giselle. Abelard fell in love with Giselle at first sight, but he already has a fiancée.

From the very beginning, the count has deceived Giselle about his identity and family background, and the fact that he has a fiancée. Poor Giselle died. It's a tragedy. They are from different social class. They shouldn't have been together from the very beginning." Valerie sighed.

Michelle frowned, "But I don't think family background is a problem."

"What an innocent child!" Valerie sighed in a tone of adult to child.

Such an innocent child couldn't shoulder the heavy responsibility of ruling the C Island together with Leon.

"I'm not a child." Michelle said stubbornly.

Looking at her up and down, Valerie continued, "In our eyes, you are just a child. Leon says you are cute, but he only praises children cute."

"Oh." Murmured Michelle, her heart sinking.

'No wonder Leon always said I was cute, not beautiful.

It turned out that he treated me as a child.'

After removing the make-up, Valerie picked up the makeup brush and reapplied a light make-up for herself.

She said in a flat tone, "Well, I remember that I seemed to have told you about Leon's identity. Can you continue to pretend that you don't know? Leon had no choice but to conceal his identity."

When Michelle heard from Valerie that Leon had his own difficulties so he hide his identity, she finally solved the tangled matter.

'I knew Leon didn't mean it.'

Michelle chuckled.

Michelle kept her head down, but Valerie didn't notice her joy at all. Immersed in her perfect performance, Valerie continued, "Alas, don't be angry with him. He treats you as..."

"Oh, no, no. I'm not angry." Michelle looked at her with a smile. Michelle's eyes were clean and bright under the light.

Valerie, who was interrupted halfway, was stunned and looked at Michelle as if Michelle was a monster.

'Leon lied to her. How could she not be angry?'

Valerie couldn't help but snort in her heart. 'How could there be such a hypocritical person?'

Grinding her teeth, Valerie forced a kind and friendly smile and said, "It doesn't matter. If you are angry, just say it. Don't hold it in your heart. When Leon wants to confess his identity to you, I'll ask him to apologize to you."

"Thank you, but he doesn't have to apologize. I'm really not angry." Afraid that she wouldn't believe it, Michelle explained seriously, "Leon has his own difficulties in pretending to be poor, so I won't be angry. I was angry at the beginning, but now hearing what you said, I'm not angry."

Unknowingly, Valeri

dn't love me, but loved his sister more. I didn't want to be jealous of his sister. I just felt that I was ignored."

Of course, this was not the real reason. It was because she didn't want to be restricted her freedom, and she was even afraid of the paranoid Leon at that time.

Moreover, Leon really put Princess Nina first in everything, so she didn't make up stories.

Michelle frowned and didn't understand why Valerie was jealous of Nini. 'Shouldn't she be good to Nini with Leon?

In that case, Nini would also be nice to her.

Isn't it the best of both sides? How could it be so complicated?'

"But I've been away for four years, and Leon has been looking for me for four years. Then I realized that he actually cares about me. I don't want to separate with him because of this. Do you understand what I mean, Michelle?" Valerie asked seriously.

Michelle wanted to make it clear, but when she saw the pleading eyes of Valerie, she suddenly didn't understand.

'Why did she tell me?'

She seemed to have an answer in her heart, but it was blocked in her throat.

Michelle's throat tightened and asked, "What do you mean?"

"You have influenced our life. It would be fine if you are the biological sister of Leon, but you are not related by blood after all. I can't stand him mentioning other women's names in front of me." Valerie said sadly.

The answer that it was ready to come out in Michelle's throat came out of Valerie's mouth.

The coffee in front of Michelle was still on the table. Before she drank it, she had tasted the bitterness of the coffee without sugar.

After coming out of the coffee shop, Michelle's soul seemed to have been drained. Her eyes were empty, and she stared blankly at the ceiling at night.

She thought for a long time, at least she felt that time had passed. On the day when she recovered, she went to ask the manager about the termination of the contract and the compensation. The manager looked regretful.

As for liquidated damages, the manager told her not to worry.

It was not a formality. Michelle terminated the contract easily without paying compensation.

In the early winter, Michelle came to her parents with a document in her hands and told them sincerely, "Dad, mom, I want to go abroad and study photography."

Her parents, Adams and Elaine, were stunned on the spot. They didn't agree at the beginning and kept asking if she was stimulated or encountered something. Their daughter liked electronic sports the most.

Michelle had been thinking about it for a long time. She asked her experienced friends how to deceive her parents. The most effective way was to tell them the half-truth.

So when Michelle was under the scrutiny of her parents, she said with a smile, "I will retire from the electronic sports club sooner or later. And I can't play games all m oor worriedly, wondering if she should go out to have a look.

She was struggling in her heart, but her body was honest. She had already taken a step forward and carefully followed out, but she still had no time to grab a corner of Leon's clothes.

Michelle tossed and turned all night.

On the second day morning, she got up and went to the dining room. She looked around for Leon, but she didn't see him.

At last, except for John and Nina didn't come to have breakfast, everyone arrived. Everyone arrived, including Van and Don, who ran back in the morning and changed into clean clothes.

Michelle didn't dare to ask. The elders were still there.

Don, who also noticed Leon was absent, asked, "Where's Uncle Leon? Doesn't he have breakfast?"

Van was always the first one to answer his brother, "Maybe uncle was too tired yesterday and was still sleeping."

"Okay." Don didn't ask any more.

Van's words made Michelle even more worried. Leon said last night that he had no place to sleep.

Seeing that no one cared about this topic anymore, Michelle was not in the mood to have breakfast. When she was about to stand up, she heard Helen saying, "Mr. Leon has caught a cold. He has just taken his medicine and fell asleep."

Hearing the news that Leon was sick, Michelle became anxious.

"Helen, how is Leon? Is he okay? Did he go to the hospital?"

A series of questions made everyone nervous. Bruce answered uncertain, "It shouldn't be serious."

"He seldom gets sick. Maybe he stayed up late last night." Anne ate breakfast calmly. "Just sleep in the quilt. And he will be fine. Van, Don, have breakfast. Your uncle will be fine."

Van and Don answered obediently, "Okay, Grandma."

Everyone continued to have breakfast, but Michelle still looked worried.

Sitting next to Michelle, Berry noticed her difference and whispered, "Are you worried? If you are worried, you can go to see him in person after breakfast."

Michelle shook her head gently, "I dare not."

"Why?" Berry was surprised. "Aren't you his friend? I find that Leon treats you very well."

"Leon is very kind to me." Michelle couldn't deny this, but he was only nice to her as a sister. She continued, "I don't dare to stay alone with Leon."

Berry asked thoughtfully, "Are you afraid that he will ask you why you went abroad again?"

"Yes." Michelle answered vaguely.

'Yes, not really.'

On the one hand, she was afraid that Leon would ask her the reason why she went s brother, "Let's go secretly to have a look. Uncle will not find us."

"As you said, just one look. Don't let Uncle know. I won't go to see him." Don raised his chin proudly.

Van chuckled and said, "Yes."

"Let's go." Don stood up and walked in the front.

Van followed him up. In fact, his brother cared about their uncle the most.

"Didn't you take a look secretly? Why are you walking in the front?" Michelle was also worried about Leon, so she quickly followed them.

Berry relentlessly exposed Don, "He is just stubborn."

When they arrived at the door of Leon's room, Don raised his hand and knocked on the door. After that, he ran to hide behind Van, only revealing half of his head.

After about ten seconds, no one opened the door.

Michelle frowned and went to knock on the door in person.

"Leon, are you okay?"

Still no one opened the door. Berry was a little worried. "Is he seriously ill?"

Hearing her words, Michelle was so worried that her eyes were faintly red. "Leon, please make a sound!"

The sound of knocking on the door became more and more urgent!

The next second, the door opened.

Michelle's hand, which was about to slap the door, missed and she fell into the arms of Leon.

Leon's head was in a daze. After taking the cold medicine, he felt sleepy. At first, he heard the knock on the door, but he didn't intend to get up. He even felt annoyed and it disturbed his rest.

But he vaguely heard the voice of Michelle, so he stood up to open the door.

However, as soon as the door was opened, she threw herself at him.

The frown on Leon's face smoothed. He opened his sleepy eyes and looked at the woman in his arms. Her face was really against his chest, and he naturally reached out to hug her.

Before his hand could touch her waist, Michelle had already left him in panic.

A hint of disappointment flashed through Leon's eyes, but it was a pity that he didn't hold her.

Michelle felt her face burning. She lowered her head and asked in a low voice, "Leon, are you okay?"

"Uncle, do you still have a headache?" Van raised his head and asked with concern.

Don hid behind his brother and listened carefully.

"Le..." As soon as Berry opened her mouth, she wanted to call him Leon, but now she was a woman at present, Leon didn't know about it. So she quickly adjusted herself and stopped calling him.

"I heard from Helen that you are sick, so Mimi and the children specially come to

Her caring eyes made Leon's head sink. He reached out and pinched his nose. Half asleep, he said, "I heard that they two are the best partners in the eyes of their classmates and teachers, and also widely recognized couples. They didn't refute."

Michelle was a little stunned, "What do you mean by not refuting?"

Leon paused for a moment. "Maybe they are together."

"Wow!" Michelle was so excited that she almost scalded herself with the water in the glass. "Really? Is Lydia with Austin? Huan and Aron, Austin and Lydia, there are two pairs of couples in my class!"

Leon sensed that something was wrong.

"Don't you feel bad?"

"I don't feel bad." Michelle smiled happily.

Seeing this, Leon gradually came to his senses. "You only treat Austin as a good friend, right?"

"Austin is my good friend."

Leon was speechless.

'So I made a mistake.

Did she fall in love with Colby?'

"Colby is just your good friend, right?" Leon said calmly.

Michelle nodded, "Yes! Leon, take the medicine. It's not hot."

"Okay." Leon took the cup, stared at the dark brown medicine and asked casually, "You don't have a boyfriend abroad, do you?"

When the topic suddenly came to this matter, Michelle was stunned and said obediently, "No."

Leon didn't look at her. He raised the corners of his mouth and said in a gentle voice with a hint of joy.

"It seems that you haven't forgotten my words. Good girl. How should I reward you?"

Leon pressed his lips against the edge of the glass and took a big sip of the medicine.

Since Leon couldn't give her what she wanted, Michelle shook her head and refused, "I don't want any reward. As long as you will recover soon."

"Why do you care so much about me?" Leon raised his head with a faint smile and stared at Michelle's face for a long time.

She still had a childish baby face. It was hard to tell that she was twenty-four years old, but she was a little grown up than three years ago. There was something hidden in her clean and pure eyes.

Just like Children who grew up at home began to have more and more secrets.

Leon had been absent her growing for three years, which made him feel bad.

The only thing that comforted him was that Michelle was obedient and didn't have a boyfriend.

Leon paused for less than a second and returned to the topic. "Don't you really want the reward? I want to introduce you a boyfriend."

Michelle's face turned pale and refused in a hurry, "No!"

smaid, but unfortunately, I was too busy to do that. Fortunately, you came back and helped me do it. Otherwise, she wouldn't have lost one of her original two bridesmaids. Thank you."

Michelle was stunned.

She was a little confused.

"Nini said that she chose the bridesmaid. Only Berry and I were chosen. Is there another person? Is it you?"

Valerie didn't know who the "Nini" Michelle referred to was, but thought it was a worker who did something. She didn't know that Nina ran away from home, let alone what happened after that.

She raised her chin slightly and said in a low voice, "The bridesmaid should be ordered by Princess Nina, but all her friends are in the C Island, so she doesn't have many friends here. The bridesmaid was ordered by Leon, and it was me before."

"The bridesmaid was indeed ordered by Nini. It's not ordered by Leon, but Nini." Michelle was confused. She said seriously.

"Who is Nini? Of course the bridesmaid of Princess Nina is chosen by Leon." Valerie said in a disdainful tone and looked very calm.

"Nini is Nini."

"I don't want to talk about it anymore, but I still have to thank you for this." Valerie smiled.

Michelle pouted and said, "Okay."

'When Nini wakes up, I have to ask her clearly. I didn't believe that Nini didn't really invite me to be the bridesmaid.

We are good friends!

Super good!

In order to attend the wedding of Nina, Michelle asked for two days' leave. She didn't have to go to work today and stayed in the North Yard.

Valerie also found an excuse to stay.

After sending the children back to the car, Berry saw Valerie. She frowned and asked, "Why are you in the North Yard?"

Valerie knew Vicente, but she didn't know Berry.

Her tone sounded familiar and hostile. Valerie didn't remember offending the stranger in front of her.

Valerie recognized her as one of the bridesmaids last night. She thought Berry was a close friend of Princess Nina, so she didn't dare to offend Berry. Even though she was unhappy with Berry's tone, she still smiled and said, "Hello."

"Eh." Berry answered perfunctorily and went to pull Michelle up with a smile. "Let's go to the North Yard for a walk. I heard from Helen that there is a rose garden behind. I also want to go to the banyan tree to see fireflies."

"Fireflies won't light up until night. They are insects that can fly during the day." Michelle looked at her and said.

"What? Insects. I'd better not see them." Berry was not afraid of insects, but she felt that there was something wrong with looking at insects in the daytime. "Go to the rose garden and see if the roses planted by John are a s a gust of wind when she walked out of the door.

Berry walked around the rose garden and found that the roses in the North Yard were much more beautiful than those in her house. She was absent-minded for a moment.

She didn't know when Michelle had disappeared. She talked to herself for a long time. When she came to her senses and looked for her, she finally saw Michelle running away.

"Mimi, Mimi! Where are you going?" Berry followed her out.

Michelle had run away, and only the sound of wind could be heard.

The North Yard was so big that Michelle began to gasp for breath after running for a while, so she could only trot.

She lowered her head and ran back. At the corner, she bumped into Nina.

Although Nina's body was not as strong as before, she was still very powerful compared to Michelle's small body. Nina didn't see clearly who hit her, so she tried to defend herself and pushed Michelle with her elbow.

Nina's body just swayed back, and Valerie quickly supported her with her hands.

Michelle was so pitiful that she fell to the ground and screamed, "It hurts so much."

When Nina steadied herself, Valerie let go of her hand and smiled gloatingly at Michelle falling down.

'You will be in trouble after bumping into Princess Nina.'

"Michelle, are you okay?" The smile on Valerie's face disappeared. With a worried look, she reminded Michelle, "You bumped into someone."

Michelle rubbed her forehead with one hand and touched her buttocks with the other. She got up with pain and said vaguely, "I'm sorry."

Her appearance was so funny that Nina couldn't help chuckling and bent down to help her.

"Come on, get up. Does your buttock hurt?"

"No..." Michelle insisted that it didn't hurt. After all, it was Michelle who bumped into her first. As soon as she raised her head and found it was Nina, she immediately felt aggrieved. "It hurts! It hurts!"

Taking a step forward, Valerie said in a gentle and soft voice, "Michelle, you almost knocked down Princess Nina just now. Apologize now."

"It doesn't matter." Nina patted the dust on Michelle's body.

Valerie frowned at Nina's concern. It was said that Princess Nina had always been cold and arrogant and seldom made friends. She wondered why Princess Nina was very friendly to Michelle.

'She was just the bridesmaid last night.

Maybe it's because of Leon.' After thinking for a while, Valerie thought this reason was the most reasonable.

Looking at the panting Michelle, Nina asked, "Why are you in such a hurry?"

"Something urgent! I'll see you later!" Thin to her and reached for the orange on the table.

Turning her head to look at her, Nina asked straightforwardly, "Do you have a grudge against Valerie?"

"No." Michelle had already peeled the orange and divided it into half into Nina's hands. Her eyes lit up after eating it. "It's so sweet!"

Nina also put a piece into her mouth and swallowed it before commenting, "Yes, it's sweet. Valerie is targeting you. You'd better avoid her in the future."

Michelle said indifferently, "She is a good person and won't aim at me. Maybe she just feels that..."

In the middle of her words, Michelle stopped.

"What?" Nina asked.

Michelle put a piece of orange into her mouth and chewed it for a few times before she decided to answer truthfully, "She thinks Leon is good to me and affects them to fall in love."

"Fall in love?" There was a minute when Nina suspected that there was something wrong with her ears. She frowned and said, "Leon has broken up with her a long time ago. She doesn't like him."

"What?" Michelle blinked.

For a moment, she chuckled to herself that Leon was single now.

Then she felt sad for Leon.

'After four years of separation, they finally reunited, but they broke up again.

How could Leon's life be so miserable?' Michelle pursed her lips and sighed.

Michelle felt sorry for Leon from the bottom of her heart. The orange in her hand was sweet, so she secretly put several oranges into the pocket of her clothes.

Seeing that, Nina didn't say anything. Nina just reminded her again, "Do you remember what I just said? If you see Valerie, you can take a detour and keep silent if possible."

"Oh, I see." Michelle nodded, but her attention was on the orange. It was obvious that she just agreed casually.

Nina stretched out her hand to grab the orange that Michelle had peeled and said seriously, "Be serious. I'm afraid that you will be bullied."

Although Valerie was gentle and weak, she was actually a person who hid a murderous intent in her smile and knew how to speak properly. She didn't get into trouble with just a few words, and at the same time, she could achieve her own goal.

What Valerie said just now implied that Michelle had replaced Nina's position in her brother's heart.

No one was willing to be replaced, especially the position in her brother's heart, which was incomparably important to her.

If Valerie didn't refer to Mimi, Valerie would start to be jealous, just like a child hoped t

"Leon, the orange is sweet and not cold. I put them in my pocket to warm them up." Michelle reached out her hand in front of him and said, "I've also searched online. You can eat oranges when you catch a cold."

The round orange was put in Michelle's white and tender hand. Leon reached out to take it. It was not cold at all. It was warm.

The warmth slowly spread from his fingertips to every part of his body.

Leon slowly peeled the orange skin. The skin was warm, and the orange flesh inside was still cold, but he didn't feel cold at all. This was the warm orange that she personally warmed for him.

The orange was sweet and juicy, and it tasted sweet when it was chewed. When it was swallowed, it moistened his dry and hoarse throat.

The smile at the corners of his mouth deepened.

"Leon, is it sweet?" Michelle asked in a low voice. All the sick people liked to be quiet, and the loud voices would make people's heads ache.

Leon looked at her and said, "It's sweet. Michelle, you are so good to me. Do you have any attempt?"

"What? Attempt?" Michelle thought that she had been seen through, so she stammered and dared not look at him.

Where Is Aunt

Michelle was like a frightened rabbit, looking very pitiful. Leon couldn't help approaching her.

Michelle subconsciously stepped back, with her back against the cold wall. In front of her was a hot body wall that looked thin, but filled with man strong male aura.

She stood still and raised her head in a daze.

"Michelle, do you have it or not?" Leon couldn't help teasing her. He peeled an orange and put it in front of her mouth. "Open your mouth and try if the orange I peeled is sweeter."

There was a fist distance between the two. As soon as Leon spoke, Michelle felt a heat wave sweeping across her face, like the wind blowing her hair, a little lustful.

Even so, Michelle opened her mouth obediently. Half of the orange was in her mouth, and a small part was exposed outside.

"Why don't you eat? Do you want to leave half for me?" Leon's tone was a little frivolous. With a fox like eyes and a beautiful face, he was as attractive as a temptress.

Michelle couldn't resist such a seducement. Her face suddenly flushed.

She swallowed the orange quickly, lowered her head shyly and put the remaining three oranges into his arms.

ng next to him called the name of the Little Tail. The Little Tail immediately ran over, and did not forget to say to them, "My aunt is coming to pick me up. I'm leaving. Bye."

Van and Don also said "Bye".

They looked at her aunt holding the Little Tail and left. Strong suddenly said, "The Little Tail has aunt, but I don't."

"Neither do we. Why don't you have an aunt?" Don tilted his head and asked Strong.

Strong scratched his head and giggled, "I don't have a maternal uncle."

Van glanced at Strong and was speechless.

"Why don't I have an aunt?" Don was seriously thinking about this question. After thinking for a long time, he still couldn't figure it out. "Van, why don't we have aunt?"

Although Van had read a lot of books, he couldn't answer this question. He could only say, "You can ask Uncle, and he will know."

"Okay!" Don trotted over, rushed in front of Leon and held his leg. He raised his head and asked, "Uncle Leon, why don't I have an aunt? The Little Tail have aunt, but my brother and I don't."

"Uncle Leon, where is aunt?" Before Leon could catch his breath, Don added.
