

The Billionaire Alpha's Contract Lover by Caesar Erickson

Chapter 1021

Chapter 1021

When Herb saw Griffon walking towards him with an expressionless face, Herb hesitated for two seconds before immediately turning the motorcycle around and driving towards the mountain road.

When he suddenly turned around, Taya, who was sitting behind him, almost got thrown out. She held onto his clothes tightly to regain her balance.

"Herb, can't you even face the punishment?"

Taya's angry voice, accompanied by the howling wind, swept past his ears.

"I lost because you interfered with the competition."

Herb, even angrier than Taya, turned around and gave her a fierce glare.

"If you hadn't strangled me and tickled me, I would have been the winner!"

Taya was speechless for a moment, then gritted her teeth and retorted.

"It was you who asked me to sit behind you."

Herb's face turned livid with anger and he was speechless for a

But he had to admit she was right. He shouldn't have let her sit behind him.

But Griffon won the game by relying on his wife's interference in the competition, which was not very fair.

Herb was not satisfied with the result of the competition.

He looked through the rearview mirror and saw Griffon, who had restarted his motorcycle, catching up with him.

If Griffon could catch up to him, then Herb was willing to take those two slaps without complaint, but if not, Herb would never admit defeat.

Herb followed the original track, accelerated, and drove forward as if he was determined to compete with Griffon again.

Taya turned around and glanced at Griffon who was following closely behind them.

The distance was too far for her to see Griffon's expression, but she could tell he was chasing them frantically.

He was probably afraid that Herb would kidnap her.

B

Chapter 1022

Taya was afraid that Griffon would have an accident if he continued chasing, so she reached out and grabbed Herb's collar again.

"Herb, stop now, or I'll strangle you!"

"Just strangle me. I won't stop even if I die!"

He'd rather die than be slapped twice by his opponent afterosing to him.

Herb was really going all out this time, accelerating with all his might without stopping.

He felt that if he was not disturbed and showed his true skills, Griffon would definitely not be able to win against him.

However, he underestimated Griffon.

The man who misunderstood that his wife had been kidnapped went crazy and chased after them at an extremely fast speed.

The black motorcycle, speeding like lightning, swiftly overtook the white motorcycle and then quickly turned and drifted.

The tires left a deep are on the ground as the motorcycle turned toward them.

walked quickly towards the white motorcycle that was forced to stop.

After walking over, he didn't even glance at 11erb.

Griffon just immediately picked up Taya, who was sitting in the back seat, in his arms.

Taya, who threw herself into his arms, could hear his heart thumping at an incredibly fast rate as if it was about to jump out of his chest.

She couldn't help but look up at Griffon and saw his face turning pale. She knew he was worried about her.

"Honey, I'm fine. Don't worry."

Taya quickly soothed him with a soft voice.

Griffon didn't say anything, he just lifted his slightly trembling finger and touched her ice cheek that had been blown by the wind.

After he ran his fingertips over her skin several times, his eyes were filled with anger.

Herb, who had just taken off his helmet, instinctively swallowed when he saw the murderous look in Griffon' eyes.

"Alpha Knight, you caught up with me, so you won. But could you please not slap me with the rivet gloves?"

Before Herb could finish his words, a gust of wind blew over him, and he was slapped hard, falling to the ground.

Chapter 1023

With full might, Griffon slapped Herb's fair and tender face, leaving a hand mark on it immediately.

Herb fell to the ground and after a few seconds of being stunned, he looked up at Griffon, who was tall, strong, and powerful, with a swollen red face.

Herb thought, "Da mn it! I got beaten up for the first time. Besides, my enemy did it. It wasn't a mutual fight, but rather I was slapped by a man."

Herb didn't know how to describe this feeling. It was like being lectured by his own brother or father, which was really annoying.

Herb felt extremely embarra*sed. He turned his head and looked around to see if anyone had seen him.

Before he could even see clearly, he got another hard slap.

Without giving Herb a chance to catch his breath, Griffon slapped Herb twice in a row, causing Herb to feel dizzy.

"Why do you only hit my right cheek? It caused me burning pain," thought Herb.

While Herb was complaining inwardly, Griffon raised his palm and swiftly and accurately slapped Herb hard on the left side of his face.

Then, Griffon followed up with another slap. As he slapped Herb, Griffon looked at Herb as if he was saying, "Then I'll do it as you wish."

Griffon promised to only slap him twice if he won, but for no reason, he slapped Herb two more times. This made Herb extremely angry!

Herb clenched his fist and got up, wanting to fight against Griffon.

Before Herb could even stand up, he was kicked hard by Griffon and fell back to the ground. Herb struggled to get up again, but he was restrained and couldn't move at all.

Griffon stepped hard on Herb's chest, propped his elbow above his knee, leaned forward slightly, and gave Herb a cold stare.

"With the first slap, I taught you a lesson on behalf of Taya."

"I gave you the second slap because I don't like the way you behave."

Herb felt both angry and embarra*sed.

"I admit defeat and accept the first two slaps. But what gave you the right to give me another two slaps?"

Chapter 1024

Griffon chuckled, a faint smile spreading across his face. But at that moment, a chill flickered in his eyes.

"Without my permission, you took my wife away. Of course, you deserve a beating!"

Griffon reached out his hand and gently patted Herb, whose face was swollen from being slapped four times.

"You should consider yourself lucky that I took off my rivet gloves because I was anxious to catch up with you. Otherwise, your face would have been bloody now."

After saying these words, Griffon kicked Herb aside with one foot and turned around to face Taya, who was standing there in a daze. He reached out his hand towards her.

"Honey, let's go home."

Taya gave a causal response and extended her hand to him. After Griffon took her hand and led her a few steps away, she turned her head to look back.

The twenty-year-old young man who cared about his dignity a lot got up from the ground and looked around, although he was in great pain.

Realizing that no one saw him getting beaten up, he breathed a gritted his teeth, glaring at Griffon.

As he turned around, Herb found Taya looking at him, and they stared at each other for a moment.

Taya burst out laughing when she saw his face swollen like a pig's head.

Herb stood still in a daze upon seeing her smile.

This smile looked so familiar as if he had seen it somewhere before.

Herb thought carefully but couldn't recall it.

He only remembered seeing a photo in his father's drawer when he was a pup.

He could no longer remember if the person in the photo smiled like Taya.

He only remembered his father telling him that the person in that photo was his aunt.

Herb wasn't sure if Taya resembled his aunt, but he really felt familiar.

Unfortunately, all of the photos of her aunt were destroyed by her grandparents. Otherwise, Herb could compare Taya and his aunt.

Herb looked at Taya for a moment and suddenly remembered that Johnny was looking for the daughter of his aunt.

Taya looked familiar like Herb's aunt in the photo. He thought maybe she was the daughter of his aunt.

Chapter 1025

As soon as this thought came to Herb, he immediately took out his phone, found Johnny's number, and quickly dialed it.

Johnny, who was on his way to Harper's nightclub, answered Herb's call with annoyance written all over his face.

"What's the matter?"

"Johnny, you're looking for Rosalie, aren't you? Do you have a photo of her? Can you send it to me?"

"Why do you want her photo?"

Herb looked at the figure obediently following her husband and leaving.

"I met someone who looked very familiar. I don't know if it's the person you're looking for."

Upon hearing this statement, Johnny immediately hung up the phone, found a picture of Rosalie, and quickly sent it to Herb.

After receiving the photo, Herb carefully enlarged it and took a closer look. Rosalie in the photo did bear some resemblance to Taya.

But it was just a resemblance. Taya was not Rosalie, which meant Taya was not the daughter of his aunt, nor the person

Johnny was looking for.

However, Herb's father once mentioned that when Herb's aunt came to seek help, she brought along two pups – Rosalie, who was five years old, and a little baby.

It was just that the little baby had already died of a wolf spirit attack when Rosalie was carrying her around and Herb's aunt was starving to death on the street.

Rosalie personally told the Carmines about this matter. The Carmines believed that a five-year-old pup would not lie, so they did not investigate.

Herb thought, "Taya looks like Rosalie so much. Could she be that baby?"

Just as he was lost in thought, Johnny called him.

"Do you think the person who looks familiar to you is the one I'm looking for?"

BChapter 1026

Johnny, who was used to being efficient, didn't have much patience for waiting and called to ask Herb.

"She's not the person you're looking for, but is it possible that she is the other daughter of my aunt?"

"So, what you're saying is that the baby came back to life and then came to you?"

"It's quite possible."

Upon hearing these absurd words, Johnny became extremely angry and began to curse loudly while tightly gripping his phone.

"Herb, you only know how to eat, drink, gamble, and visit brothels all day long. If you take over the Carmine pack, it will surely be ruined sooner or later!"

Noticing Johnny's angry tone, Herb immediately stopped talking, afraid that if he continued, Johnny would be mad at him.

Herb suppressed his anger and waited for Johnny to finish his barrage of insults before silently hanging up the phone. Then, Herb turned to look at Taya again with a frown.

His father must still remember what his aunt looked like. Herb everything would become clear.

When the time came, Herb believed that Johnny, who scolded him for fooling around all day long, would surely kneel before him and say, "I'm sorry, Herb. I was wrong."

The man who was "fantasized to kneel down" by Herb was extremely irritable. He threw his phone away and turned his sharp gaze toward the driver.

"Have we arrived?"

The driver waiting at the traffic light turned around nervously.

"Sir, we're almost there. Just around the corner. Please wait a minute."

Johnny had wasted such a long time in the Pacific, and he was always holding onto a grudge with nowhere to vent it.

He had planned to go back to the country to settle accounts with Griffon but was informed that Griffon had gone on a honeymoon with his she-wolf.

Johnny couldn't understand how someone as cold-blooded as Griffon could still manage to get mated.

However, Johnny's anger dissipated somewhat upon learning that the woman Griffon had mated was an orphan with no significant background.

Johnny thought, "He got mated before me, but so what? He still ended up mating a hooker. He can't compare to me at all."

Johnny sneered and urged the driver to go faster, not wanting to arrive after Heaven and Earth had closed their doors.

He couldn't find Griffon for the time being, let alone Rosalie, so he had to continue asking Harper.

But little did Johnny know that Harper was receiving Jayden and his colleagues at the nightclub.

"Everyone, please eat, drink, and have fun. If you need anything, just let me know."

After Harper had several boxes of drinks delivered by the waiter and invited everyone to have fun.

Jayden, who was sitting on the sofa, noticed that she had been busy and hadn't sat down yet, so he quickly got up and walked toward her.

"Harper, why don't you sit down and play with us for a while?"

When Harper was about to wave her hand to refuse, a few enthusiastic female doctors immediately approached and pulled her to sit on the sofa.

"Ms. Duke, Dr. Sherwood rarely comes to places like this, but he made an exception for you. You should have fun with him."

Harper thought that it might be inappropriate for her to participate in the department's team-building activities since she was an outsider.

But she couldn't refuse them since they were enthusiastic, so she played a few rounds of card games with them.

Chapter 1027

After a few rounds of games, Harper realized that Jayden truly had not been to entertainment venues much and didn't even know how to play cards.

She couldn't help but take a few more glances at Jayden and asked, "Do you not smoke, drink, or like to have fun?"

Jayden, who had gotten good cards but didn't know how to play them, pursed his lips and smiled. "Yes, I don't smoke, drink, or fool around."

He was completely different from Preston and had no bad habits, a very good choice to be a boyfriend.

But it seemed unfair for a good man like him to become Harper's boyfriend just because he was angry with Preston.

Jayden noticed her staring at him in a daze, and a gentle smile appeared on his face. "What are you thinking about?" he asked.

Harper shook her head and lowered her gaze to the cards in her hands. As she looked down, her hair fell forward over her forehead, obscuring her view.

Just as she was about to reach out and brush it away, a hand reached over and swept the hair that was blocking her vision from her forehead, tucking it behind her ear.

As Jayden traced his fingertips across her cheek and then brushed her hair behind her ear, Harper was stunned. She couldn't quite put her finger on the feeling, but she sensed that things were moving a bit too quickly between them.

But at the blind date banquet yesterday, she did say that she wanted Jayden to be her boyfriend. Now that they were boyfriend and girlfriend, just let it be.

Harper got shy and said to Jayden, "Thank you!"

Jayden smiled and said softly, "I am your boyfriend now. You don't have to say thank you to me all the time."

Harper nodded slightly but didn't dare to look up at Jayden. Her shy demeanor was evident to someone outside the door.

After rejecting Andre, Preston had a few drinks and tried to get himself drunk, thinking that this would help him fight the urge to go to the nightclub.

But he overestimated himself. After he got drunk, his mind was filled with thoughts about Harper, and he couldn't get her out of his head no matter what.

He missed her so much that he couldn't control himself. He grabbed a bottle of alcohol and stumbled his way to the nightclub.

He wanted to take the chance of getting drunk to ask Harper why he missed her so much and if she had put a spell on him.

arriving at the nightclub, however, Preston saw Harper and her new boyfriend, sitting together and playing card games. sweetly and happily.

When Harper used to have S** with Preston before, her hair in front would always fall down, and every time Preston would lift his hand to help her tuck it behind her ear.

Now...

Preston leaned weakly against the door, watching Harper chatting and laughing with Jayden. From now on, Preston wouldn't be the one who helped her tuck her hair behind her ear or lay beneath her.

Chapter 1028

At that thought, Preston's eyes suddenly turned red, followed by a cold sneer.

He thought, "It's just a woman. It's not a big deal. If I don't see her for ten days or two weeks, I'll forget about her."

After giving Harper one last glance, Preston turned around to leave with heavy steps.

After playing with Jayden and his colleagues for a while, Harper was called out by her manager who informed her that a big shot had arrived.

She said goodbye to Jayden and immediately got up to go downstairs. However, when she got out of the elevator, she saw Preston leaving the nightclub.

He seemed to have gotten hammered, swaying on his feet as he walked away, relying on the door and walls for support.

When Preston walked onto the road, he was almost hit by a speeding car. Harper was so worried that she rushed out.

"Pre..."

Before Harper could call out his name, Elsie, disregarding the danger, rushed into the traffic and helped Preston up.

The woman with a clean and fair complexion helped him to the side of the street. She was very nervous and worried and cried as she threw herself into his arms.

Preston didn't reach out to hug Elsie. Instead, he turned around and looked at Harper who was standing in the nightclub hall.

He thought, "This woman is really ruthless. She didn't even come to check on him when she saw that I almost got hit by a car."

Preston sneered and then, in front of Harper, wrapped his arm around Elsie's waist and turned to leave while holding her.

Harper lowered her gaze and felt she gradually calmed down from nervousness. Then, she turned around.

When she looked up, she suddenly met Johnny's beautiful face and his pair of eyes filled with hostility.

Those eyes scared Harper so much that her heart, which had just calmed down, started pounding again.

"M-Mr. Brook..."

Harper was surprised to see Johnny showing up again, and she took a step back in fear.

Johnny, however, took a step forward and approached her. His sharp and handsome eyebrows were slightly raised as he looked at her.

"It's been long. Ms. Duke.

Chapter 1029

“Mr. Brook, what can I do for you?” asked Harper.

Johnny was quite good-looking, but he had a bit of a bad temper.

The last time he came here to book the whole nightclub and asked about Rosalie’s whereabouts, Harper was so scared that she couldn’t even breathe.

Harper was terrified at the time, but still lied to Johnny to protect Taya, claiming that Rosalie had gone to Aronland.

After such a long time, Johnny came to Harper again. It was likely that he found out she had deceived him, and now he was back to seek revenge.

As Harper quickly analyzed why Johnny had come to see her, she pretended to look at him with a smile as if nothing had happened.

When dealing with someone who had a bad temper, one had to be gentle and try to appease them.

“The question. Where is Rosalie?”

same

Johnny stood in front of Harper with one hand in his pocket, towering over her by a head’s length, and had to tilt his neck down to look at her.

Fortunately, helped to suppress his irritation. Otherwise, he would have definitely lost his temper at the moment.

He was, after all, the head of the Brook pack. This nightclub owner should not have made him stand while speaking. Johnny thought Harper really didn’t know how to do business.

Harper was afraid of him, so she forgot to invite him to sit in the private room. It wasn’t because she didn’t know how to do business.

If it were someone else, they would have been invited in and treated well long ago.

It was just because Harper had deceived him before that she felt guilty and didn’t dare to do it again.

Seeing that Johnny didn’t cause any trouble for her but only asked about Rosalie’s whereabouts, Harper breathed a sigh of relief.

It seemed that Johnny, just as she had thought, has a quick temper and lacked the patience to verify Rosalie’s flight information, and thus believed her words.

If he believed her words, he wouldn’t come to hold her accountable, which was actually quite good.

“But how can I explain Rosalie’s situation to him?” wondered Harper.

She thought for a moment and decided to continue deceiving him.

Anyway, Johnny doesn’t look very smart.

“Well.”

After coughing, Harper covered her mouth and showed a sad expression.

“Rosalie has passed away. She was just buried recently. If you had come earlier, you could have seen her ashes for the last time.”

“What?!”

Chapter 1030

Johnny's eyes, filled with anger, stared at Harper as if he had been struck by lightning. "Say it again!"

Harper placed her hand on her lower back and pinched herself hard while desperately trying to shed tears.

"Mr. Brook, Rosalie has passed away and the funeral has already taken place."

Johnny felt very suffocated, but it wasn't Rosalie's death that made him feel sad.

He was sad because the person he had been searching for so long just died inexplicably.

"Where is she buried?"

Johnny was skeptical because the information he received indicated that Rosalie was still alive.

Her company was still operating normally. Why would she suddenly die?

What he didn't know was that Amon had already altered Rosalie's recent information, including news of her death, in order to prevent the Carmines from finding her.

And Grillon changed all the info from investigating Rosalie and discovering that Taya had impersonated Rosalie.

In other words, the information that Johnny had found and obtained about Rosalie's recent situation was mostly fake.

The only piece of truthful information was that "Rosalie," who had returned from Aronland a year ago, did meet Harper as soon as she came back.

Apart from this, Johnny knew nothing.

So if he wanted to get any information, he could only turn to Harper for help.

But Harper said that Rosalie was dead. What else could Johnny ask?

Johnny had been neglecting the Brook pack lately in his search for Rosalie. He had been investing a lot of manpower and financial resources just to locate Rosalie.

The person Johnny spent so much time looking for ended up dead, which made him extremely angry. He was so irritated that even medication couldn't help control him.

He was so angry that his face turned red. He took a step forward, grabbed Harper by the neck, and pressed her against the wall, lifting her up.

Tell me! Where

Chapter 1031

Harper trembled with fear as she saw Johnny's bloodshot eyes.

She wondered, "Why is this guy so moody? We were just talking normally. Why does he suddenly grab me by the neck?"

"She was buried in Aronland, at the Yardley pack's cemetery."

Harper was afraid that he would find out that Rosalie had been dead for a long time with the clue of the Yardley pack's cemetery.

But she thought Johnny probably didn't have the patience to look up when Rosalie actually died. He asked where Rosalie was buried, just to confirm whether she was really dead or not. When Rosalie died was not important, as she was already deceased.

So as long as Johnny wouldn't investigate when Rosalie died, he wouldn't suspect Taya of impersonating Rosalie.

Since he couldn't find Taya, telling Johnny where Rosalie was buried would make it sound more truthful.

And this way, Johnny would know that Rosalie was dead and he wouldn't come to Harper anymore.

he Yardley

If Rosalie was buried in the Yardley pack cemetery, then Harper's words sounded trustworthy. Johnny's mother had told Johnny that Rosalie had grown up with the help of Amon and that it was normal for them to have been in a relationship and for her to be buried in the Yardley pack. But now that Rosalie was dead, what should his mother do?

"Mr. Brook, I've told you everything I know. Please let me go now."

If Johnny didn't let her go right now, Harper wouldn't even be able to catch her breath.

Johnny glanced at her and then put her down.

After Harper stood firmly on the ground, she touched her red neck that had been pinched, but her eyes were fixed on the moody Johnny.

"Mr. Brook, would you like to come in and have a seat?"

Johnny, who was pulling his phone out, heard this sentence and immediately became angry. Harper could see the anger in his eyes as he tried to suppress his emotions.

"Do you think I'm still in the mood to go in and have a seat?"

Chapter 1032

Harper noticed his gritted teeth and immediately became silent, but she couldn't help but sneak a glance at him out of curiosity.

"Mr. Brook... May I ask, why did you go through all this trouble to look for Rosalie?"

Johnny was the head of the Brook pack and one of the most prominent figures in the financial magazine.

But he fell for Griffon's trick and went to the Pacific Ocean, just to patiently search for Rosalie. Johnny must be doing that for something important, but Harper didn't know whether it was a good thing.

Harper felt that Johnny wouldn't tell her, but she still bravely asked him anyway.

If she could get some information from Johnny and inform Taya and Griffon, they could prepare early for any potential threats.

However, Johnny gave her a cold glance without saying a word and left the nightclub with a group of bodyguards.

After Johnny got into the car, he quickly took out his phone and made a call.

The call was quickly answered and before Johnny could speak, the person on the other end anxiously her?"

Johnny paused for two seconds and said coldly, "I just received the news. She is dead."

The person on the other end was stunned and asked in a worried tone, "Rosalie is dead? Then what should our mother do?"

Johnny furrowed his eyebrows and grew impatient, saying, "She is buried in the Yardley pack cemetery. Send someone to inquire and verify if it's true."

The other person replied with "okay" and then hung up the phone.

Johnny put down his phone and looked out the car window. He felt like everything had happened too suddenly and it didn't seem quite real.

This made him doubt if Harper was deceiving him, but half an hour later, he received a call.

The person who talked with him earlier said, "Johnny, she's really dead and was buried in the Yardley pack cemetery a while ago. She was buried together with Amon."

Chapter 1033

Johnny's furrowed brow deepened even further as he asked, "Why didn't anyone tell me that Amon was buried with someone else after he pa*sed away?"

The news of Amon's and Casare's deaths had spread among the upper-cla*s circle, but the cause of their deaths remained unknown.

This matter involved royal secrets, and the news had long been blocked. No one knew the specific reasons, nor that Amon was buried with someone else.

The person on the phone explained, "I just found it out too. The Yardley pack had kept their information very confidential and hadn't leaked any news before.""

Johnny asked, "The Yardleys didn't allow Rosalie to mate

Amon, did they? How come they agreed to a joint burial after their death?"

The

person on the other end of the line said, "I guess they want to find a wife for Amon since he never got mated during his lifetime."

Johnny had a vague feeling that the Yardley pack's agreement to the joint burial was not as simple as it seemed, but he couldn't quite put his finger on what was not simple about it.

In addition, there was one more thing that left Johnny feeling puzzled. "How did Rosalie die? And when did she die?"

The person on the other end of the phone calmly replied, "I'm not sure about Rosalie's recent situation. It seems like her information has been tampered with and I can't find anything."

Could it be that someone knew the purpose of their search for Rosalie and blocked her true information?

Johnny always felt that something was off, but since all the known information was related, he never suspected that someone was sabotaging it.

Now, however, he felt that most of the information he had received might be false. He wondered who could have tampered with Rosalie's information.

Could it be Griffon who tricked him to go all over the world?

But why did Griffon alter Rosalie's information? Did they have any relationship?

Johnny couldn't figure it out. The more he thought about it, the more frustrated he became. He decided to stop thinking about it and coldly instructed the person on the other end of the phone.

"Since she has already passed away, there is no point in continuing the investigation. Find an appropriate time to inform our mother."

"That Johnny, what should our mother do?"

"I'll try to think of a solution."

After finishing the call, Johnny hung up directly. His eyes, filled with anger, coldly swept across outside the car window.

Chapter 1033

Johnny's furrowed brow deepened even further as he asked, "Why didn't anyone tell me that Amon was buried with someone else after he passed away?"

The news of Amon's and Casare's deaths had spread among the upper-class circle, but the cause of their deaths remained unknown.

This matter involved royal secrets, and the news had long been blocked. No one knew the specific reasons, nor that Amon was buried with someone else.

The person on the phone explained, "I just found it out too. The Yardley pack had kept their information very confidential and hadn't leaked any news before."

Johnny asked, "The Yardleys didn't allow Rosalie to mate Amon, did they? How come they agreed to a joint burial after their death?"

The person on the other end of the line said, "I guess they want to find a wife for Amon since he never got mated during his lifetime."

Johnny had a vague feeling that the Yardley pack's agreement to the joint burial was not as simple as it seemed, but he couldn't quite put his finger on what was not simple about it.

In addition, there was one more thing that left Johnny feeling puzzled. "How did Rosalie die? And when did she die?"

The person on the other end of the phone calmly replied, "I'm not sure about Rosalie's recent situation. It seems like her information has been tampered with and I can't find anything."

Could it be that someone knew the purpose of their search for Rosalie and blocked her true information?

Johnny always felt that something was off, but since all the known information was related, he never suspected that someone was sabotaging it.

Now, however, he felt that most of the information he had received might be false. He wondered who could have tampered with Rosalie's information.

Could it be Griffon who tricked him to go all over the world?

But why did Griffon alter Rosalie's information? Did they have any relationship?

Johnny couldn't figure it out. The more he thought about it, the more frustrated he became. He decided to stop thinking about it and coldly instructed the person on the other end of the phone.

"Since she has already passed away, there is no point in continuing the investigation. Find an appropriate time to inform our mother."

"That Johnny, what should our mother do?"

"I'll try to think of a solution."

After finishing the call, Johnny hung up directly. His eyes, filled with anger, coldly swept across outside the car window.

Chapter 1034

As soon as Johnny left the nightclub, Harper returned to the office and made a video call to Taya.

“Taya, Johnny just came to ask about Rosalie’s whereabouts again. I told him that Rosalie has pa*sed away and was buried in the Yardley pack cemetery. I don’t know if he believed me or not.”

After Harper finished speaking, she glanced at Taya who was wearing a black mask covering half of her face in the video.

“You caught a cold, huh? Why are you wearing a mask now?”

asked Harper.

“I’m not having a cold.”

Taya let out a deep sigh.

“There’s a person named Herb who keeps taking pictures of me with his phone, and I don’t know why. To protect myself, I have to wear a mask.”

Herb was quite weird. Not only did he try to secretly take pictures of Taya, but he also follows her and Griffon around.

Wherever they went, Herb followed. If they tried to reason with him, he’d say that it wasn’t not their road and he could go wherever he wanted.

Griffon said that if it weren’t for Herb jumping into the sea to save her before, he would have given Herb a beating and broken his arms and legs.

“Let’s not talk about Herb. Let’s talk about Johnny. What exactly does he want to do to Rosalie?”

“I don’t know. I asked him, but he didn’t tell me. Since he went through so much trouble to look for my sister, it’s probably not something good.”

Taya nodded in approval.

“That’s right. He won’t visit anyone if there’s nothing important. He must be up to something.”

“Anyway, I just call to remind you. Be careful! Don’t let him find out the truth.”

After giving a few instructions, Harper ended the call as Jayden and his friends were about to go home. Harper had to go and see them off, so she hung up the phone.

Taya put down her phone and looked at Griffon who was lost in thought. “What’s wrong with you?” she asked.

Harper, Griffon kept frowning as if he was thinking about something unpleasant.

Chapter 1035

Griffon snapped back to his sense and patted her little head. “It’s okay. You go ahead and have your meal at the restaurant. I’ll go find Zack.”

Taya thought the organization had something to discuss with Griffon, so she nodded and said, “Then I’ll go first.”

Griffon made a sound of agreement and as she got up to leave, he knocked on the window. Zack immediately came in.

“Alpha, do you have any orders?”

“Johnny has been looking for Rosalie. Can you send someone to investigate why he’s trying to find her?”

Johnny’s mother, Alice, was Sumasa’s older sister, which meant Johnny was Rosalie and Taya’s cousin.

Since Johnny traveled far and wide to look for Rosalie, he must be aware that she was his cousin and that the Carmines had mistreated Sumasa and her two daughters in the past.

Since he had gone to such great lengths to look Rosalie, he must want to use her for something.

Griffon didn't believe that the Brooks approached Rosalie to reunite with her.

Otherwise, they wouldn't have sent someone to chase after Rosalie and Taya, who was still a baby, back then.

So, Griffon had to figure out why Johnny had to look for Rosalie.

Rosalie had already passed away, and the only person left alive was Taya.

If the Brooks wanted to use Sumasa, then Taya would be in great danger.

Although Johnny had erased all information about Taya, making it difficult to find her, it didn't mean that she could never be found.

The paper could never wrap fire. It was important to thoroughly investigate Johnny's intentions and then find ways to fight against him.

However, there was one thing that made Griffon feel a bit surprised.

Sumasa came to seek help with Rosalie and Taya.

The Carmines and the Brooks should be aware of Taya's

But Johnny only looked for Rosalie, not Taya

Did the Carmines and Brooke both think that Taya was lost and cannot be found, so they had given up searching for her?

But if they wanted to find Sumasa's daughters to use them, then they should search for both of them together.

Chapter 1036

Griffon thought about it and realized that there was only one reason why the Brooks didn't look for Taya.

And that was, they all believed that Taya was no longer alive.

After Griffon figured it out, he took his hand away from his chin and waved at Zack.

"Check it quickly."

Before Johnny could realize that Taya was still alive, Griffon must know the purpose of their search for her.

The reason why the Carmines and the Brooks mistakenly believed that Taya had passed away didn't matter. Griffon would just let them continue to misunderstand.

"Yes!"

Zack turned around and as he was leaving the room, his phone rang.

He took it out and found that it was a message sent by someone from Organization S.

"Alpha."

Zack returned and reported on the situation.

“Last time you asked me to find out which domestic packs and companies rapidly emerged 30 years ago. Organization S has found the answer. I’ll forward the information to you.”

Griffon received a message from Zack on the phone he used to communicate with Organization S.

Griffon’s fingers tapped the screen, swiftly unlocking it, and he scrolled through the dozen or so pages of messages.

“Thirty years ago, there were many rapidly rising companies in a short period of time, making it difficult to pinpoint due to the wide range.”

Griffon nodded silently, his cold eyes quickly scanning past the list of company names as his finger slid across the screen.

When Griffon saw the words “the Thorin pack, Midwest Packs Corporation on the first line of the third page, he was stunned for a moment.

“The Thorin pack is a prestigious pack for generations, isn’t it? Why is it also listed in there?”

“Alpha, since you have never paid attention to Midwest Packs Corporation, you probably don’t know that the Thorin pack went downhill thirty years ago.”

Zack took a step forward and explained,

“At that time, the Thorin pack was on the verge of bankruptcy.

If it weren’t for a large injection of funds, the Thorin pack would not have been able to make a comeback. That's probably why Organization S included the Thorin pack in the list."

The Thorin pack had made a comeback with a large injection of funding.

And when Sumasa got mated, she brought along a large sum of inheritance with her.

Tara and Taya did look somewhat alike.

Could it be that coincidental?

Chapter 1037

"Alpha, are you suspecting that Elder is the father of your wife?" asked Zack.

Griffon nodded slightly, but Zack looked a bit confused and scratched the back of his head.

"If Elder is Mrs. Knight's father, how could he not know about it even if she had been working at his company for so long?"

Griffon put down his phone, leaned back on the sofa, and looked up at Zack.

"Didn't the information you found last time say that Sumasa returned to the country after undergoing plastic surgery?"

Sumasa probably underwent plastic surgery to change her appearance and identity before meeting Elder, after having her face disfigured.

And Sumasa changed her identity because she didn't want to mention her painful past anymore, and she would definitely not tell Elder about it.

Elder had never seen Sumasa's previous appearance and nor did he know about Sumasa's past, so he naturally couldn't recognize Taya, who was considered an orphan.

After Griffon pointed it out, Zack also understood.

"So, does that mean Tara is Taya's older sister?"

Griffon's fingers froze on the sofa.

Was Tara Taya's sister?

Impossible.

Tara's mother, Eliza, had passed away in a car accident ten years ago.

However, Sumasa went to the Carmine pack for help with her two pups almost thirty years ago.

The mismatch in timing indicated that Eliza was not Sumasa.

There must be something else that they didn't know.

"Ask Peter to immediately find out when Elder mated Eliza within five minutes. I need the information as soon as possible."

Zack replied with a "yes" and went to call Peter.

Peter had just fallen asleep when he received a phone call. He had to immediately get up and check.

Five minutes later, the information was sent to Zack's phone, and Zack forwarded it to Griffon.

B

Chapter 1038

Griffon picked up his phone again and lowered his cold gaze as he silently checked the timeline.

The time when Elder mated Eliza happened to be the same time when Sumasa went to Aronland to seek help from the Carmine pack.

The timing of Elder's mating was so coincidental that it could be said to be seamlessly connected. What's even more incredible was...

Before Elder mated Eliza, Tara was born. She was only four years younger than Rosalie.

Based on this timeline, it could be inferred that Elder had already cheated before he kicked out Sumasa and her daughters.

If this was really the truth of the matter, then Elder was a despicable person who was ungrateful and abandoned his she-wolf and pups.

"Sir, Peter has sent another message saying that Elder had a secret wife before mating Eliza. His secret wife's name is Sarah Sinclair. She helped fund the Thorin pack after it fell or hard times.”

Sumasa was actually a secretly mated wife. No wonder nobody knew about her.

Based on Peter’s latest update, it seemed that Griffon’s a*sumption was likely correct.

Sumasa mated into a wealthy pack and also helped to invest in the Thorin pack.

Four years later, Elder cheated on Sumasa with Eliza.

Then Griffon could understand why the Carmines would say that Sumasa was deceived and lost all her a*sets.

Tara and Taya looked alike.

And they did resemble Elder.

Half-siblings with some resemblance to their father’s facial features and expressions were quite normal.

After untangling the complex relationships, Griffon suddenly felt a bit depressed.

Taya’s background was not very good. Both her maternal and paternal packs were not good people.

How painful would it be for her to know that her mother was abandoned by her pack and then by her husband?

There was no need to recognize or even know the existence of such pack members.

Anyway, for the rest of their lives, Griffon would protect Taya, take care of her, and wouldn’t let anyone bully her.

He would just let these miscellaneous people remain in the records forever.

Griffon put down his phone and stared coldly up at Zack.

“Don’t let Taya know about these, and don’t let anyone else find it out. Plus, find out Johnny’s purpose for looking for Rosalie as soon as possible!”

If Griffon found that Johnny was trying to harm Rosalie and Taya, he wouldn’t let Johnny go and give him a strike first.

Chapter 1039

Zack was efficient. He came to see Griffon the next day. However, the outcome was somewhat disappointing.

“Alpha, I only found out that Johnny’s mother is very ill, which is why she asked Johnny to look for Sumasa’s daughter. Only Johnny, his mother, and his sister know the specific reasons. Even the Carmines don’t know about it.”

The Brook pack was considered the most prominent pack overseas, surpa*sing packs such as the Carmine and Sherwood packs in terms of social status.

Before being diagnosed with bipolar disorder, Johnny, the head of the Brook pack, was just influential as Griffon.

Even though the Brook pack lost the business battle against the Knight pack back then, under Johnny’s leadership, they quickly made a comeback.

After Johnny fell ill, he often couldn’t think clearly and would become extremely agitated if he dwelled on things too much.

Johnny often lamented about his poor physical condition and bad luck, which was why he repeatedly lost to Griffon.

If Johnny had not fallen ill, he would have been a formidable opponent for Griffon.

So, information about the Brook pack was hard to come by unless intentionally disclosed, as their secrets were buried deep within their hearts.

Griffon understood this naturally and did not blame Zack. He simply instructed Zack to continue investigating and find it out no matter what.

Zack thought for a moment and realized that if he wanted to investigate, he would need to create a fake identity to get close to Johnny's sister in order to possibly gather information.

As for Johnny's dying mother, she was being cared for in a strictly guarded hospital and Zack cannot even enter. Therefore, Zack can only target Johnny's sister.

"Sir, I'll ask Stefan to protect you and Mrs. Knight on your honeymoon. I will go and investigate Johnny's motives first."

"Okay."

Griffon cleared his throat and responded without parting his lips.

Chapter 1040

Zack turned around and walked out, but then he seemed to remember something. He stopped in his tracks and turned back to Griffon.

"Oh, by the way, sir, last time you asked what Master Davies' first love looked like, didn't you? Peter happened to be back at headquarters last night, so I asked him to take a sneak peek at the photo that Master Davies had hidden. He took a picture of it and sent it to me. Do you want to see it?"

As Griffon was about to get up to look for Taya, he heard Zack and sat back down again.

Then he lifted his fingers and beckoned to Zack.

"Show me!"

Zack immediately held up his phone and handed it to Griffon.

The photo had turned yellow, but it had been well-preserved and was not damaged.

The woman in the photo stood under a magnolia tree, facing the dappled sunlight, with a serene smile on her face.

face that appeared slightly immature at the age of 18. One could still see that she was an extremely beautiful woman.

When Master Davies first saw Taya, he was shocked and called out to her.

At that time, Griffon mistakenly thought that Master Davies became so excited upon seeing Taya because Taya looked exactly like Ashley.

But now, the woman in the photo with the name Ashley written on it looked completely different from Taya. They had two completely different faces.

Jocelyn had said that Taya had a striking resemblance to Sumasa's before her disfigurement.

If Master Davies' first love was Taya's mother, Master Davies would definitely approach Taya and introduce himself upon meeting Taya.

But at that moment, Master Davies only got excited for a moment before quickly regaining his composure. He didn't go to Taya or even say a word.

It suggested that Master Davies probably only knew Sumasa before she was disfigured, and their meeting was likely a reunion of old friends.

Griffon thought for a moment and realized that Ashley probably just shared the same last name as Sumasa, and they didn't have anything to do with each other.

Who was this woman named Ashley then?

"Sir..."

Zack swallowed and pointed at the photo, bravely saying,

"I feel like...this woman named Ashley looks somewhat like you!"

Her and Griffon's facial features all had a striking resemblance.

Upon hearing this, Griffon's fingers froze on the photo, his gaze turning cold as he stared intensely at the person in the picture.

He did resemble her a bit, but so what? It was not like Master Davies' first love had anything to do with him, right?

After Griffon resolved his previous doubts, he became impatient and raised his finger, waving it towards Zack.

"Tell Peter to be careful and not let Master Davies know that he took the photo without permission."

When it comes to Master Davies' first love, it was always dangerous. It was best to be cautious and avoid harming innocent people.

"Yes."

Zack didn't say anything more but just quickly nodded his head when he found that Griffon didn't take his words seriously.

When Zack turned around, he wanted to tell Griffon that he had been intermittently investigating the truth about his elder brother's death.

But now there were so many things going on. Zack found it was better not to bother Griffon with this kind of thing and decided to investigate it by himself when he had time.

The top priority right now was to find out Johnny's purpose. Everything else could be put on hold for the time being.