Chapter 1661

Chapter 1661

Preston left, and Kate leaned back on the sofa. With her arms crossed and her legs straightened under her high slit dress, she lazily crossed her legs and stared coldly at Elsie.

“Slap her three times.”

The bodyguard obediently raised his hand and slapped Elsie's fair face three times, hard.

Elsie, who had been slapped three times, brushed off the messy hair stuck to her eyes and glared at Kate, gritting her teeth.

“What gives you the right to slap me?”

“You framed my son, so why can't I slap you?”

Kate, who knew the whole story and had seen the surveillance footage, couldn't help but notice that Elsie had staged this whole act just to provoke Harper.

“I didn't frame him. He got drunk and slept with me on his own.”

“Break her ribs and then snap her fingers.”

Chapter 1661

Ignoring Elsie's shouts and resistance, Kate continued to command the bodyguard.

“Yes.”

2/5

The expressionless bodyguard pulled out a small hammer and aimed it at Kate’s ribs, then struck hard.

Elsie was in so much pain that she couldn’t speak, she could only lie on the ground, staring at Kate with her bloodshot eyes.

The elegant and luxurious lady on the sofa casually picked up her coffee and took a sip.

“If you honestly tell the truth, you won’t have to endure this torture anymore. Otherwise, I’ll have them continue to torment you.”

Elsie, who had a voice recorder in her pocket, didn’t care at all. She smirked and laughed like a maniac.

“Kate, you forced me to break up with Preston back then using the same methods. I didn’t expect that even after so many years, you still only know how to use these tactics. Don’t you have any other way?”

Kate’s hand holding the coffee suddenly paused. She slowly raised her eyelashes and coldly stared at Elsie.

Chapter 1661

“You dare to bring up the past?”

“What’s wrong with me mentioning it?”

Elsie endured the pain, propped herself up on the ground, and slowly stood up.

“If it weren’t for you forcing me to break up with Preston, I would have mated him a long time ago.”

3/5

Hearing Elsie say this, Kate couldn't help but find it extremely ridiculous.

She was about to reprimand Elsie for seducing Griffon when she was interrupted by Elsie's angry roar.

"Even if you kill me today, I won't do things that hurt Preston. and leave him in pain like I did in thepast!"

"You.."

"You just look down on my background, don't you?"

Elsie didn't give Kate a chance to speak. Like a madwoman, she continued to roar.

"But just because my background isn't good enough, does that mean I don't deserve to have love?"

Chapter 1661

4/5

After uttering these words, Elsie suddenly had red eyes and cried softly.

"It's all my fault for being too young back then. Even if I was humiliated by you in every way, I still endured it. But what did I gain from that?"

"Besides saying things that hurt Preston and being forced to leave him, I didn't gain anything. Now that I finally came back and had a chance to reunite with him, you sent people to beat me and forced me to say that he never slept with me."

“Kate, don’t you think you’re a failure as a mother? You’re willing to do anything to cover up your son’s crimes. Do you know that by spoiling him like this, he will never take responsibility?”

With these words, Elsie not only used Kate’s coercion and temptation to confirm Preston’s wrongdoing, but also turned it into Kate’s fault for spoiling her son.

Kate hadn’t expected that the girl who had used every means to mate into the Knight pack back then had now become a woman who was deep-thinking, logical, and good at turning.

the fables.

If it weren’t for knowing what kind of dirty thoughts Elsie had inside, Kate might have believed her words and doubted her own son’s actions.

Chapter 1661

5/5

Other parents might have given up in such a situation, but Kate, who had experienced storms, remained as steady as a rock in the face of such tricks.

“There’s no one else here, so you don’t have to act anymore.

No one will see.”

Upon hearing this, tears suddenly welled up in Elsie’s bloodshot eyes.

“I’m not acting. That night, Preston and I really slept together.”

As she cried and accused, Elsie looked at Kate with an incredibly sincere gaze.

“For a woman, it’s not something to be proud of to lie about sleeping with a man. I have no reason to lie.”

“Besides, if I were to lie about something like this, there must be a purpose behind it. I didn’t threaten Preston to make me afterwards, nor did I expose it to the media to tarnish Preston’s reputation. I just quietly left. Is that also wrong?”

Chapter 1662

Her talent for eloquence is really impressive.

“You’re doing this just to anger Harper.”

Facing Kate’s revelation, Elsie remained composed, furrowing her brows and pretending to look confused.

“What does this have to do with Harper?”

Kate put down her cup and stared coldly at Elsie.

“You went to Preston’s apartment right after Ms. Duke arrived. You must have known she was coming and staged a performance for her.”

Elsie pretended to understand, pondered for a moment, then raised her head and looked straight into Kate’s eyes.

“I bumped into Preston on the way and gave him a ride home. I had no idea Ms. Duke was coming.”

Kate remembered that she went to Preston’s apartment after talking to Harper that night.

Her timely visit to Preston indicated that she went to break up with him as she said.

Chapter 1662

So, Harper seeing Preston and Elsie 'sleeping together' was because of her.

2/5

As Kate realized this, she couldn't come up with any other arguments and remained silent.

"If I didn't even know if she was coming, why would I be angry at her?"

"And even if I wanted to use this incident to anger Ms. Duke afterwards, it would definitely leave a trace of me contacting her."

"You can go ask Ms. Duke if I contacted her."

"If I didn't, then you're purposely framing me for trying to find evidence like this."

Kate's face darkened at her words.

"I can't figure out what your real intentions are, but I know I won't let you off easily for smearing Preston."

Seeing Kate raising her chin at the bodyguard again, Elsie grew fearful and shouted.

"I didn't smear Preston. He really slept with me, please don't force me to confess!”

Chapter 1662

3/5

Kate ignored her, the coldness in her eyes directly shifting to the bodyguard.

“Keep going until she confesses!”

“Yes!”

Then followed a series of punches and kicks, leaving Elsie battered and bruised, but she still refused to admit it.

“I didn’t smear Preston. He really slept with me. Why won’t you. believe it?”

Seeing this, Kate ordered the bodyguard to continue beating her.

Soon, Elsie was left barely conscious, but still didn’t change her story.

“Are you forcing me like this because Ms. Duke found out about Preston and me, and you want to help Preston win her back, so you’re trying to make me say he didn’t do it?”

Lying on the ground, Elsie, with a face covered in blood, stared. back at Kate defiantly,

Kate, shaken by Elsie’s unexpected response, couldn’t quite tell

Chapter 1662

the truth from the lie.

4/5

However, Kate remained unmoved, giving a cold glance at Elsie, who was curled up in pain.

“My son said he didn’t sleep with you, so he definitely didn’t!”

Hearing this, Elsie sneered inwardly but put on an innocent face, crying out:

“Just because Preston said he didn’t sleep with me, does that mean it’s the truth?”

Her rhetorical question momentarily startled Kate, and Elsie seized the opportunity to continue:

“Is it possible that Preston simply doesn’t remember, or he remembers but is afraid of losing Ms. Duke after she found out, so he’s saying he didn’t sleep with me?”

After contemplating for a moment, Kate stood up from the couch.

She walked step by step towards Elsie, gracefully crouched down, and then extended her pristine white fingers to lift Elsie’s repulsive face.

Their eyes locked onto each other, and suddenly, a touch of wickedness flashed in Kate’s eyes.

5/5

Chapter 1662

“As long as you admit that you didn’t have any relationship with Preston, then your parents can enjoy their old age peacefully. But if you don’t admit it, I’m afraid they won’t

Chapter 1663

1/6

Elsie had been manipulating Kate all along, but now that her goal was achieved, she couldn’t help but laugh coldly.

“Aunt, aren’t you afraid that Ms. Duke will find out about your threats and refuse to mate Preston?”

“Whether she mates Preston or not is none of my concern. I did all of this just to help my son.”

These words only deepened the smile on Elsie’s lips.

“You calculated that I couldn’t compete with a wealthy pack like yours, so you dared to threaten me.”

“Now that you know your place, do as I say—”

After taking a deep breath, Elsie bravely raised her chin as if facing death.

“Fine, if you want to hear me say that he never slept with me, then he never slept with me.”

Satisfied with the result, Kate let go of Elsie’s chin and patted her face.

Chapter 1663

“Leave that line for Ms. Duke to hear.”

2/6

Kate stood up, gracefully accepting the handkerchief handed to her by the bodyguard, and elegantly wiped her fingers.

“Lock her up for now, clean up her face wounds, and when she’s better, take her to see Ms. Duke.”

“Yes,”

Preston, who had timed his return, entered the living room.

“Mom, where’s Elsie?”

Kate, with her back to Preston, discreetly threw the blood-stained handkerchief into the trash can.

“I’ve taken care of it. In three days, she’ll go with us to see Ms. Duke and clear up the truth.”

Upon hearing this, Preston, who had been on edge, suddenly relaxed.

He knew that even if he got drunk, he would never do something like that.

Thank goodness he hadn’t slept with Elsie, or he would never forgive himself.

Chapter 1663

3/6

Three days later, Elsie was escorted onto a private plane and appeared in front of Harper.

Harper, who was still taking care of Silas, stared blankly at Elsie, who was crying incessantly.

“Harper, that night, after I dropped Preston off at home, I saw you come looking for him. Out of jealousy, I deliberately staged a scene. In reality... Preston had fallen asleep and knew nothing.”

“When I heard you come in, I quickly used the blanket to block your view. When you didn’t leave and I was afraid you would come over, I intentionally pinched Preston’s waist. That’s when he screamed in pain...”

After revealing the truth, Elsie raised her tearful eyes and looked at Harper with envy.

“I always thought I was Preston’s first love, and I wanted to start again with him using that identity. But I didn’t expect that his heart only belonged to you. Seeing him suffer because of the misunderstanding I deliberately created, I realized he would never love me again...”

Her words added another layer of authenticity to her explanation.

Feeling confused, Harper glanced at Elsie, who seemed to have an epiphany, and then at Preston, who looked innocent.

The memory of that night came rushing back, still vivid, but Elsie’s explanation matched the details. For a moment, Harper couldn’t tell if what she saw was real or if Elsie’s words were true.

As she remained silent, Preston walked up to her, lifted his hands, and grabbed her shoulders.

When he touched her, Harper instinctively pushed his hands away.

It seemed that the shadow from that night hadn't been erased by Elsie's explanation.

Preston withdrew his hand, frozen in mid-air, and kept a suitable distance from her.

"Harper, believe me, I really didn't have a relationship with her."

"Preston, I've already said what needed to be said. I'll leave now. I wish you both happiness."

After saying this, Elsie left, but before getting into the car, she turned around and glanced at the two of them.

In the quiet corridor, Preston stared at Harper for a long time before suddenly pulling out a diamond ring and kneeling in front of her.

5/6

Chapter 1663

"Harper, I haven't slept with Elsie, and my mother has agreed to us being together. Will you accept my proposal?"

Still dressed in her nurse's uniform, Harper felt a bit overwhelmed by Preston's proposal in this setting.

"Don't do this in the hospital..."

She wanted to help Preston up, but he grabbed her hand and forcefully placed the egg-sized diamond ring on her finger.

“I promise you, aside from work-related obligations, from now on, I won't attend any social events involving alcohol. Even if it's a company party, I won't touch a drop of alcohol.”

After giving his assurance, Preston took out his phone and in front of Harper, left the chat group formed by his playboy friends, one by one deleting them and even blocking their phone numbers.

After completing all of this, he looked up again at Harper, who was still in disbelief.

“I promise you, I will leave my previous social circle and have no contact with any women.”

6/6

Chapter 1663

Having said that, Preston held Harper's hand tightly and sincerely asked once more.

“Mate me, please?”

Chapter 1664

The sudden proposal left Harper feeling a bit confused and helpless. She asked Preston for some time to think it over.

Preston glanced at the diamond ring on Harper's hand and noticed that she hadn't taken it off and given it back to him. It indicated that she was leaning towards him. So, he didn't push her further.

"How long do you need to think?" he asked.

"Silas will be discharged from the hospital tomorrow. Let me settle him back home, and then I'll give you a definite answer," Harper replied.

Seeing that Harper was still perplexed, Preston guessed that she hadn't sorted out her thoughts yet.

"Okay, I'll go back to my country and wait for your answer!"

Harper nodded. Preston stared at her for a while and suddenly reached out and hugged her.

Initially, Harper wanted to push him away, but she hesitated when he embraced her with all his strength.

Chapter 1664

2/5

Feeling that she didn't instinctively push him away like before, Preston felt a warm current flowing into his heart, making him feel sweet and content.

"I hope your answer won't be a rejection," Preston said, then let go of her and smiled as he walked away.

Watching his relaxed and carefree figure, Harper suddenly felt bewildered.

She raised her hand and looked at the diamond ring...

Was Elsie telling the truth?

Should she trust Preston again?

After Preston got into the car, he hugged Kate.

"Mom, if it weren't for you, I would probably remain single for the rest of my life."

Seeing her son so happy, Kate knew that the misunderstanding had been cleared up, and she couldn't help but smile knowingly.

Kate was still not very satisfied with Harper, but compared to Elsie, she mated Preston, not Harper.

"After you two get mated, live your own lives. Don't bring

Chapter 1664

Harper around me."

3/5

"If you can speak up for me in front of Edith and bring her to me, that's fine too."

Preston, who was resting his chin on his hand, turned his head. and smiled nonchalantly as he glanced at Kate.

"So, you're helping me for Edith, huh..."

"Otherwise?" Kate raised an eyebrow.

“With a son like you, what’s worth helping?” Preston smirked.

“Mom, you always say one thing and mean another.”

Kate raised her hand and pinched his ear.

“You have to compensate for the collectibles your dad lost.”

Preston, feeling a bit guilty, immediately put on a smiley face.

“Mom, on the day of my mating ceremony, I will definitely bring Edith home.”

Hearing him say that, Kate released her grip on his ear and crossed her arms.

“That’s more like it...”

Chapter 1664

4/5

After the extended Lincoln car left the hospital, a red car suddenly turned back.

Harper in the ward was absent-minded. Silas noticed and put down the book in his hand.

“Harper, do you have something on your mind lately?”

Harper has been feeling down recently, and even her smiles. seem forced.

Although today wasn’t as gloomy as before, there was still a trace of worry in her eyes.

Silas had depression and had undergone a major surgery. He had to endure the immense pain caused by the nerves in his legs every day. He was already going through a tough time, and Harper didn’t want to bring negative energy to him.

“I’m fine. It’s just that someone younger than me proposed to me, and I don’t know if I should accept him.”

Silas was always smart, and he immediately thought of Preston. In his impression, Preston was quite a ladies’ man, known for being a playboy. But after being with Harper, he seemed to have fewer scandals.

“If you love him, then accept. If not, then reject,” Silas said.

5/5

Chapter 1664

Since Harper didn’t want to say who it was, Silas naturally pretended not to know. He was just analyzing from the perspective of a brother, hoping that she would mate the person she loved.

“L...”

Harper wanted to say that she didn’t love Preston, but she liked him. However, as she started to speak, she hesitated. If she didn’t love him, why did she care so much about him being with other women? She used to not care about these things.

Seeing that Harper herself didn’t even realize whether she loved him or not, Silas’s eyes softened with a hint of a smile.

“Sometimes when it comes to relationships, don’t be too afraid. If you have feelings for each other, be brave once again.”

Harper used to be the type of person who would love fearlessly, but after experiencing her ex-husband’s betrayal and encountering the unreliable Preston, she became hesitant in matters of the heart.

But in Silas’s eyes, any relationship that is worth both parties’ efforts is worth being brave for. If it were him, he wouldn’t have any reservations and would start anew. However...

He didn’t have the chance to start anew.

Chapter 1665

Harper, who didn’t realize what Silas was thinking, tightly clenched her fists and for the first time, opened up about her feelings in front of someone else.

“I have been brave before, but when I took that step, I discovered that he did something to hurt me. I retreated, became afraid, and decided to never interact with him again. But today, he tells me that what I saw was all staged and he even brought that woman to explain it to me. I don’t know if I should continue to trust him.”

Silas understood.

“What he did in the past made you feel insecure, so you lack trust in him.”

Actually, it doesn't matter what the situation is. The crucial point is the label that Preston carries, which makes Harper, who has stumbled in mating before, unwilling to give her a ll.

The reason she is like this is because she loves Preston. If it were someone else, like Jayden, Harper wouldn't care if Jayden had been with other women and wouldn't be bothered by it.

"Yes, what he did in the past really makes it hard for me to believe him..."

After thinking for a moment, Silas looked at Harper, who had no sense of security.

Chapter 1665

"Has he changed for you?"

3/5

Harper carefully thought about it, Preston's changes, from being a smooth playboy to a jealous rich young man. He not only made her jealous by seeing other women, but he also occasionally insulted her with his words. The only ot her change was that he seemed to have fallen in love with her, but it must be said that he had matured quite a bit after her accident...

"If he is willing to change for you, then give him another chance to prove it. If you find out that he's not worth it, then. give up. But the prerequisite is that you have to try to know the result, right?"

Seeing Harper silent, Silas shared his perspective.

Harper, who took in Silas's words, looked down at the ring on her hand with lowered eyebrows.

"Maybe you're right."

Upon hearing this, Silas knew that she had made up her mind. He smiled and picked up the book that he had never turned a page in, lowering his head to read.

Seeing Silas reading the book again, Harper knew that he was being controlled by depression.

Chapter 1665

She stopped peeling the apple in her hand, stood up, and patted Silas's shoulder.

4/5

"Silas, when you can stand up again, there will definitely be a group of girls chasing after you."

Silas shifted his gaze away from the book and, with a faint smile, looked at Harper.

"At my age, I shouldn't cause trouble for those girls."

He said it cheerfully, but in his deep eyes, there was only despair.

"Even if you're older, you deserve to be liked by someone else."

These heartwarming words made Silas feel the power of companionship, but he still wanted to be alone.

"Harper, I feel like having pumpkin congee today. Can you do me a favor and make some for me?"

Only then did Harper raise her wrist and check the time on her watch.

“Look at me, I almost forgot about it.”

Chapter 1665

She put on her jacket while instructing Silas.

“Just wait a moment, I’ll be right back.”

Chapter 1666

Harper stepped out of the elevator and turned the corner into the lobby, where she bumped into Elsie, causing her to slow down her steps. Elsie saw her, took off her sunglasses, and approached Harper step by step.

“Ms. Duke, there are some truths that I think you should know. Let’s find a place, and I’ll tell you.” Elsie said, facing Harper after just finishing her explanation and now revealing more truths. Harper couldn’t help but feel skeptical about Elsie’s credibility.

“I don’t have time, and I don’t want to hear your so-called truths.” She tried to pass by Elsie and leave, but Elsie stopped her.

“Harper, if you want to mate Preston in confusion, then it’s up to you.” Elsie said, taking out a voicerecorder.

“But I don’t want to see you deceived.” She handed the voice recorder to Harper.

“This is the evidence of what Kate forced me to explain after I broke up with Preston.” When the cold voice recorder fell into Harper’s hand, it sent a chill through her body.

Chapter 1666

2/5

“Are you saying that your explanation just now was forced by his mother?” Harper asked.

“Yes.” Elsie nodded without changing her expression.

“If I didn’t say this, I would be killed, and my parents would suffer as well.” To ensure its authenticity, Elsie rolled up her clothes, grabbed Harper’s hand, and placed it on her ribs.

“Feel it for yourself, several of them are broken, and also...” Elsie extended her soft and limp ring finger under Harper’s eyelid.

“My finger is permanently fractured.” She then opened her high-collared shirt, revealing a patchwork of scars to Harper.

“All these places were where Kate’s bodyguards beat me.” Elsie said with a resentful expression in her eyes and a mocking smile on her lips.

"I only had a relationship with her son, and she went this far."

she continued.

"And the reason she did this was to help her son win your back..."

"Harper, in this game, you won, and I lost..." Elsie said.

"I don't believe it." Harper said, although her hand holding the voice recorder tightened instinctively.

Chapter 1666

"Listen to it first." Elsie's eyes showed pity for Harper.

3/5

Harper stared into her eyes for a few seconds, then returned the voice recorder to her.

"Recordings can be faked. Who knows if you're trying to deceive me?"

"If you think the recordings are fake, you can confront Kate." Elsie said fearlessly and confidently.

Facing Elsie's fearlessness and assurance, Harper, who was already confused, became even more disoriented.

Elsie, seeing Harper's confusion, couldn't help but sneer inwardly. But on the surface, she raised her hand and pushed the voice recorder back to Harper.

"I brought the voice recorder in advance before they came to kidnap me because I had a real relationship with Preston. I suspected they would come to settle the score with me

, so I thought it wouldn't hurt to be cautious. I didn't expect it to come in handy..." Elsie said lightly.

Upon hearing the words "I had a real relationship with Preston," Harper's heart skipped a beat and then sank.

Chapter 1666

4/5

After standing still for a while, holding the voice recorder,

Harper turned and quickly walked out of the hospital ward...

She sat down on a garden bench outside, and opened the voice recorder...

The sound of Kate ordering the beating, Elsie begging for mercy, and the bodyguards' rough actions... All these sounds.

came out of the voice recorder, sending shivers down Harper's spine.

So... the so-called explanations, truths, and honesty were all driven by a mother's love for her son.

And Preston...

"Preston probably doesn't remember due to being drunk and thinks he didn't do anything wrong. That's why he kidnapped me, hoping to extract the truth, but what I said was the truth. He just didn't believe it..." Elsie said, sitting down beside Harper, who had been following her.

"He doesn't believe it, and naturally, his mother doesn't either.

Only under duress did I confess..." Elsie calmly explained.

"I did not agree to Kate coming to explain things to you unless it was for the sake of my parents." Harper, clutching the voice recorder, looked at the woman beside her.

Chapter 1666

5/5

"If it was for your parents, why did you come to me? Aren't you afraid that I would give the voice recorder to Mrs. Knight?" Harper asked, trying to maintain a facade of calmness..

"Because I don't want you to mate Preston." Elsie looked at Harper with a sense of resentment in her eyes.

"I love him very much, and I thought that as his first love, I could win him back. But I didn't realize that he had already started to have feelings for you, and he had forgotten about me, his first love. But..." Elsie paused, her eyes gradually turning red.

"Why is it that you, someone who came later, can win Preston's affection, while I, his first love, was forced to leave by his mother? I can't accept it. So even if it means my parents will suffer because of it, I don't want you to mate him!" She didn't even try to hide her jealousy towards Harper; instead, she exposed all of her resentment in front of her.

"At the same time, I'm betting on your kindness, that you won't expose me in front of them with the voice recorder."

Chapter 1667

1/5

Harper didn't know what to say when she looked at Elsie like this. She lowered her long eyelashes and stared blankly at the voice recorder in her hand.

They all said that Preston loved her, even Elsie said so, so it must be true... She believed that Preston loved her too, but...

"Did you and Preston actually have a relationship that night?" For Harper, it didn't matter what Kate, as a mother, did for her son. She only cared about Preston.

Elsie couldn't help but laugh at her words. "Ms. Duke, do you still have a trace of hope for Preston?" "Yes." Harper laughed along too, the warm sun shining on her face, making it bright. "I hope all of this is just fake, so..."

After pausing for a moment, Harper took a deep breath. "Can you give me a reasonable explanation like earlier?"

Elsie

saw that Harper's eyes were red when she said this sentence, and she could imagine how upset she must be right now.

If Elsie had a kind heart, she would surely sympathize with her, but unfortunately, she didn't.

Chapter 1667

As a woman like her, she didn't have sympathy, she only destroyed things she couldn't have at all costs.

2/5

"Think about it. What can a drunk man and a woman deeply in love with him do when they stay together for so long?"

Harper's face, bathed in sunlight, gradually turned pale, and even the hand holding the voice recorder tightened.

"Preston was never a faithful person, he..."

"He said he will be faithful to me in the future." Elsie was interrupted firmly by Harper, and she curled her lips, sneering.

"Is that so?"

She looked mocking, as if she had heard a joke. "If he were faithful, he wouldn't have had a relationship with me, and he wouldn't have his mother solve the problem with me..."

After speaking, Elsie looked back at Harper, who was tightly holding the voice recorder. "If you're willing to forgive Preston for betraying you, then believe that he will be faithful to you in the future." Elsie left these words behind, put on her sunglasses again, and walked away.

Looking at her retreating figure, Harper's eyelashes slowly lowered...

She didn't know how long she had been sitting on the bench until Camille walked over, and she finally reacted. "Harper, you don't look good, is something wrong?"

Harper shook her head, and seeing this, Camille understood that she was feeling down and didn't ask any further.

"Camille, I need to make something for Silas, can you take me back."

first?”

Although the hospital was close to their residence, she didn't have the strength to walk now.

“Sure, I'll go get the car.”

Harper nodded, and when Camille. drove the car to the hospital entrance, Harper bent down and got into the car.

She returned to her residence, made pumpkin porridge, had

Camille take her back, and sat down on the sofa herself.

She curled up, bent her legs, held her knees tightly with her hands, and rested her weak chin on her knees.

That's how she sat on the sofa, dazed, all night.

The next day, when she got up, she suddenly felt dizzy. She thought it was because she had been overworked recently and didn't pay attention to the subtle changes in her body.

Supporting her tired body, she washed up as usual, made some breakfast, and carried it to the hospital.

Silas had breakfast, Camille went to handle the discharge. procedures, and Harper was busy packing up things in the hospital room.

She took out clothes from the cabinet, squatted to put them in the suitcase, quickly stood up, and grabbed the second piece.

But as she reached out, she suddenly felt dizzy, followed by darkness in front of her, her body went limp, and she fainted. to the ground, unconscious.

Silas, who had just finished breakfast, heard a dull sound and suddenly turned around, only to see Harper fainting.

He turned pale with fright and quickly pressed the nearby emergency button. Doctors and nurses rushed in quickly.

When Harper opened her eyes, she saw Silas sitting in front of the hospital bed, staring at her with an indescribable look in his eyes.

“Silas, what happened to me?”

If she didn’t remember wrongly, she should have collapsed from exhaustion due to not sleeping all night. But it was just a moment of dizziness, Silas didn’t need to look at her like that, right?

Chapter 1667

Silas stared at Harper for a long time, hesitating, before calmly speaking. “Harper, you’re pregnant.” “What?”

Harper, shocked like thunder out of a clear sky, suddenly sat up from the bed.

Chapter 1668

Harper couldn't believe she was pregnant. She went to the doctor for another check-up, and the results confirmed that she was indeed pregnant.

Sitting on the hospital bed, Harper held the report and examined it repeatedly, slowly accepting the reality of her pregnancy...

That night, they didn't use protection. The next day, when Harper woke up, she was caught by Taya, and then called away by Kate.

She hadn't taken emergency contraception within 72 hours, so it was no surprise that she was pregnant.

But this pup came at the wrong time...

Seeing Harper's sad and anxious expression, Silas furrowed his brows slightly.

"Harper, is the pup Preston's?" he asked.

Harper felt embarrassed when he figured it out, but she didn't deny it and nodded directly at Silas.

Chapter 1668

"Then why aren't you happy?" he asked.

2/6

Wasn't she ready to accept Preston's proposal? Why was she still so troubled?

Harper raised her hand and touched her belly. She couldn't feel the rhythm of life yet, but it still weighed heavily on her.

"I don't know..." she said, tears rolling down her cheeks as she looked at Silas.

"Maybe I've become more sensitive after getting pregnant."

She wiped away her tears and smiled at Silas.

"Silas, you go back to your place first. I'll calm down here and then come find you, okay?"

Silas stared at her, unsure if it was due to pregnancy sensitivity or emotional distress.

He felt that Harper had a lot on her mind, but didn't know how to express it, so he chose to keep quiet.

He took out a square handkerchief and wiped away the tears that kept falling from her face.

"I'll wait for you at home, but please don't cry."

Chapter 1668

3/6

A gentle smile appeared on Silas's warm face, like the winter sun, always able to warm people's hearts.

"Okay, I won't cry anymore."

Seeing her obediently nod, Silas put away the handkerchief, pushed the wheelchair, and left the hospital room, leaving Harper alone.

Watching his receding figure in the wheelchair, Harper thought about Silas and Taya's missed opportunity, as well as Eric and Stella's fate.

She wondered, did it really matter whether Preston slept with.

Elsie or not?

Harper, maybe it's better for you to be a little confused and pretend that nothing happened, as long as he is willing to change for you in the future.

Startled by her own thoughts, Harper was suddenly shocked.

Did she like Preston that much?

Was she really considering being with him in this confused manner?

But wasn't this the root of all her problems?

Whether Elsie's words were true or false, she didn't care at all.

4/6

The only thing she cared about was whether or not to let go of everything and unconditionally trust that Preston would never do such a thing again.

Just like his promise during the proposal, from now on, no more drinking, and no more contact with any other women.

As long as he could do these two things, whether Preston had a relationship with Elsie or not, she was willing to forget about that night.

www

Just... consider it as him being drunk and unconsciously making a mistake.

After figuring out what mattered most to her, Harper lifted the covers, got out of bed, and stood up.

Just as Silas said, if she failed, she could start over. What was there to be afraid of?

Moreover, she was already pregnant with his baby, the arrival of a new life, and the arrival of the pack she longed for.

Filled with hope, Harper returned to her place, helped Camille pack up, and then accompanied Silas on the flight back to

Arcadia,

After the plane landed in Wolverly Capital and Silas was settled, Harper expressed her desire to return to Arcadia.

Chapter 1668

5/6

Silas suggested that she rest for a few days before leaving, but Harper refused, saying, "I need to go back and take care of some things."

She was in a hurry to see Preston, which made Silas smile knowingly. "What about your pregnancy..."

Harper pulled the handle of her suitcase, revealing a determined smile, and smiled at Silas. "I'll tell him myself."

Silas nodded and waved goodbye to her. After they bid farewell, Harper hurriedly returned to Arcadia, while Silas took out Edith's business card.

He stared at the name on it, hesitated for a few seconds, then asked Camille to bring him his phone and saved the number from the card, then sent a text message.

[Miss Knight, I have completed the surgery and need rehabilitation treatment. When are you available?]

Edith, who was conducting a meeting in Wolverly Capital, saw v the message and slowly curved her lips, then lowered her head to type.

[Pay the treatment fee of $500,000 in advance.]

Chapter 1668

When Silas saw the bank account numbers in the message,

he didn't think too much and directly gave them to Camille to make the payment.

Upon receiving the bank account notification, Edith thought

Silas was quite good, obediently doing what she asked, like a well-behaved pup.

[Tomorrow, I'll visit your clinic for treatment.]

After sending the message, Edith added another condition.

[You'll cover all meals except breakfast.]

Silas read it and simply replied 'okay', then threw his phone. aside and took out the book, continuing to stare at the words.

Chapter 1669

Harper hurriedly returned to Arcadia and saw Preston at the airport, holding a bouquet of flowers and handing it to a beautiful and well-built woman. Her footsteps slowly came to a halt as the bustling airport faded from her sight, leaving only the two of them.

She saw the woman, after receiving the bouquet of flowers, suddenly tiptoe and kiss Preston on the cheek, then cover her mouth and quickly run away. Meanwhile, Preston stood still for two seconds, then turned around and walked away quickly.

As the two figures disappeared from her sight, Harper's world was left in darkness. She realized that even without Elsie, Preston would still have other women in his life. The barrier between them was never Elsie, but the sense of security he couldn't provide and the trust that would always be hindered. Harper wanted to give her pup a home where the father was faithful and the mother could trust. But it seemed that both she and Preston couldn't do that. She returned home in a daze, sat blankly for a while, then picked up her phone and.

called the obstetrician she had known before.

Mandy had just come in with milk when she heard the news that Harper was going to have an abortion. She was so shocked that her hand trembled, almost spilling the milk from the tray.

Chapter 1669

After hanging up the phone, Harper noticed that Mandy had heard and frowned slightly, "Mandy, don't tell anyone..."

Mandy was confused, "Harper, if you're pregnant, why would you want to have an abortion?"

Harper didn't answer Mandy, she just lifted the covers and fell onto the bed, physically and mentally exhausted, feeling very tired.

Seeing her exhaustion, Mandy suppressed her many questions and left quietly, putting down what she was holding and walking out of the room.

Preston had been waiting at the airport for a long time but didn't see Harper. He quickly called Mandy, "Mandy, you said Harper booked an 11 o'clock flight, why didn't you see her?"

Mandy, who had just left the room, realized she forgot to tell Preston, "Harper has already come back and she's at home."

Harper still had Preston blocked on her phone. Preston could only get her itinerary information from Mandy. Now that he heard she had already returned, his worried heart relaxed and he quickly turned around and ran outside the airport.

Chapter 1669

3/5

By the time he arrived, Harper was already asleep. She must have been too tired because she was sleeping deeply. He sat in the room for a long time and she didn't wake up.

Preston thought it was okay, he wanted her to rest peacefully and give her answer tomorrow. He got up, quietly left the room, and as soon as he walked out, he saw Mandy pacing anxiously outside the door.

"Mandy, what's wrong?"

Mandy stopped and looked at Preston, struggling to speak. "Mandy, just tell me."

"I... I was just worried about Harper, so I stayed outside the door..."

Mandy had been hired by Harper as a nanny during her difficult many years. Mandy took care of her and their relationship grew closer. Harper often treated her like a mother, and Mandy saw Harper as her own pup.

"Don't worry, she's just tired. She'll be fine after a good sleep."

Preston reassured Mandy and occasionally went in to check on Harper before going downstairs. There was something urgent at the company that he had to deal with.

Chapter 1669

4/5

Watching his tall figure leave, Mandy felt troubled. The next morning, Harper left early and didn't give Mandy a chance to persuade her.

Holding her phone, Mandy was torn between whether or not to call Preston,

Harper arrived at the hospital and cooperated with the doctor. for all the preoperative examinations before lying on the operating table.

Before the surgery, Harper lifted her hand and touched her flat belly again...

Forgive me, my pup. I don't want you to be born as a pup without a father. She had experienced the pain of not having parents, and even though her pup would still have a mother, without a father, there would be a crucial love missing in their life.

"Ms. Duke, we're going to administer anesthesia..."

The doctor's words reached Harper's ears, and she slowly lowered her hand from her belly...

As the anesthesia was about to enter her body, the door of the operating room was kicked open—

Preston entered with a cold expression, quickly grabbing the anesthetist's hand and forcefully pushing him away.

"Sir, this is the operating room, please leave!"

"Get lost—"

Chapter 1670

The entire operating room soon only had Preston, exuding a cold aura, and Harper lying on the operating table.

"Why?" The man standing next to them didn't say anything extra, he just asked this one question.

Harper glanced at Mandy standing outside the operating room, frowned deeply, and then looked at Preston, who had a furious expression on his face.

"There's no why..."

She knew that Preston had come and the surgery couldn't proceed. She immediately got up from the operating table, but Preston grabbed her wrist tightly.

His grip was strong, so strong that his fingers deeply indented into her skin. Harper winced in pain, her face turning pale, but she bit her lip and didn't make a sound...

Her silence and refusal to look at him made Preston suddenly angry.

"Harper, is this your answer to me?"

Chapter 1670

They had agreed that she would give him an answer after returning home, but her answer turned out to be secretly aborting their pup.

2/6

When Preston received Mandy's phone call, his heart, which had been filled with anticipation to mate Harper, suddenly turned cold.

He had chased after her so desperately, but his efforts were shattered by Harper's repeated rejections.

"Tell me why. After I have the answer, I will never come to find you again."

Harper lowered her gaze and slowly raised her eyelashes, looking at Preston, who was filled with despair.

There needed to be closure between them, and they needed to have a clear conversation...

"I don't believe that you and Elsie didn't have a relationship."

Preston, who was staring at her intently, darkened his face.

"She explained it very clearly, it was her own manipulation. Why don't you believe her?"

“Because she gave me a recording pen afterward. Her ~~so~~—called explanation was just a forced confession from your mother.”

Chapter 1670

3/6

“Harper, I don’t know about my mother’s forced confession, and I don’t know about Elsie’s recording. I only know that I haven’t slept with her.”

He raised his hands and grabbed Harper’s shoulders, staring into her eyes with utmost seriousness.

“I’m saying that I haven’t done it. Do you believe me?”

Harper shook her head.

“No, I don’t believe you.”

Preston understood, he lost because she didn’t believe him.

“I’ve been entangled with you for many years. In these many years, I’ve only cared about you. Can’t you see that?”

As he spoke, his eyes turned dark red at the corners.

“Why do you believe others instead of me?!”

Harper lifted her chin, looking directly into Preston’s eyes, filled with grievances.

“I want to believe you too, but Preston, what sense of security have you given me?”

Chapter 1670

“After we broke up, you either verbally attacked me or brought other women to humiliate me.”

“In my eyes, I only saw women surrounding you, nothing else.”

“You know that I never had a home since I was young and I’ve been betrayed by my husband. I’m afraid of these things.”

“But what about you? You’re either with Khloe, Elsie, or other women. What can I use to trust you?”

Harper’s emotional outburst made Preston slightly stunned in place, but then he forcefully pulled her into his embrace.

“I didn’t know that I had fallen in love with you before, that’s why I was childish and used this method to provoke you. I’m sorry, I haven’t given you enough sense of security.”

This time, Harper, nestled in his embrace, didn’t resist, but, rather weakly leaned against his chest.

It was like saying goodbye, speaking softly.

“Preston, I don’t believe you, not just before, but also now.”

Preston, holding her, also felt powerless.

“Even if I promise to never have any contact with other women in the future, would you still choose to believe me?”

Chapter 1670

Harper curled her lips and smiled helplessly.

“How do you know I haven’t?”

“When I found out that I was pregnant, I thought it didn’t matter whether you had been with Elsie or not, as long as your would be devoted to me in the future. But...”

5/6

Harper’s tears uncontrollably rolled down her face.

“I saw you at the airport giving flowers to another woman.

That’s when I realized that it wasn’t because of Elsie between us, but because of you. You can’t change...”

Preston’s body stiffened, as if he had realized something. He let go of Harper, then grabbed her shoulders again, lowering his head to look at her.

“Harper, that woman’s name is Camilla. She has been pursuing me, but I’ve been rejecting her. Yesterday, we happened to meet at the airport. She insisted on buying flowers and gave them to me.

I told her that I was getting mated, and after she wished me happiness, she quickly kissed me and ran away.”

At that moment, he was too busy rushing to the restroom to wash his face and didn’t notice that Harper had left the airport at that time. If he had known, he would’ve chased after her to explain.

6/6

Chapter 1670

Chapter 1671

1/5

“Believe me, whether it’s Elsie, Khloe, Camilla, or any other woman, I’ve cut ties with all of them. This kind of situation will never happen again.” He promised that even if other women pursued him, he would stay far away and even wear a mask when he goes out.

Harper shook her head as she looked at Preston’s sincere explanation and solemn promise. “But I don’t believe you.”

She always felt defeated by the women around Preston when it came to building trust.

Currently, she only received Preston’s assurances but didn’t feel completely safe. It was hard for her to trust him and she didn’t want to repeatedly choose to believe, only to experience disappointment again and again.

Preston, stunned in place by her lack of trust, looked at Harper for a while before speaking coldly. “So, are you still going to have an abortion?”

Harper lowered her eyelashes and didn’t answer, but her silence was taken as consent by Preston.

“Harper, I really want to open up your heart and see what’s

Even if the misunderstanding was resolved, she was still so heartless, which meant she didn’t really love him.

Thinking about this, it was painful for Preston to even breathe. The pain gripping his heart made him slowly release Harper.

“Even if I die, I won’t look at you again.” After saying this, he took a step back, his eyes bloodshot, staring at Harper before turning and leaving.

His figure disappeared behind the operating room, and Harper, leaning on the nearby surgical table, slowly squatted down.

Mandy, outside the ward, saw Preston leave in anger and quickly pushed open the door and walked in. “Harper.” Mandy crouched down and put her hand on Harper’s shoulder.

“After all, it’s a life. Don’t have an abortion just because you’re in conflict with Preston.”

Harper hugged her knees tightly, burying her head in her arms, her endless exhaustion and pain tightly enveloping her. “Mandy, am I not brave enough?”

Mandy looked at Harper, who was curled up in front of her, opened her arms, and hugged her. “Actually, compared to other heirs, Preston is already good enough. It’s just that your experiences have made you unable to trust him completely.”

Chapter 1671

3/5

Mandy gently patted her back. “I understand you, but Harper, life is only a few decades and it passes by in the blink of an eye.”

She had her own opinions about Preston at first too. Since he and Harper were dating, he should have announced their relationship seriously, but he never dared to admit it at the time. Just from this, Mandy didn't think highly of Preston.

However, after the incident with Jayden, Mandy realized that appearances can be deceiving and what's inside is more important.

Although Preston was a playboy, he had a good heart. He was just young, and his way of doing things wasn't as mature and stable, but people will always grow.

"Harper, give Preston some time to change, and give yourself some time to build trust. During this period, don't be irrational and have an abortion, so you won't regret it later."

While Harper was still hesitating, Preston suddenly rushed in.

He didn't care about their reactions and directly bent down to pick up Harper.

After carrying her out of the hospital and putting her in the car, he took out an agreement and handed it to her. "Mate

Chapter 1671

4/5

1. me. If you're willing to keep the pup after it's born, then stay. If not, you can leave anytime. The deadline is one year."

The meaning behind his words was that he only wanted the pup. Because of a few words from Mandy and Harper's wavering, Preston became determined.

"I won't give birth to this pup."

Preston squeezed the hand holding the agreement, exerting force suddenly. "I'm the pup's father, and I have half the right to decide its fate."

After forcefully saying this, he grabbed Harper's hand and forced her to sign. "Now, whether to give birth or not is not up to you."

Preston put away the agreement and quickly started the car.

Harper, sitting in the passenger seat, turned her head to angrily stare at him. "Preston, can't you respect me?"

"I have already respected you enough, but what did I get in return?" Preston, equally resentful, glanced at Harper. "The pup in your belly is mine. Why do you think you can just decide to have an abortion?" He should have been happy about having a pup, but he didn't feel any joy of becoming a father. He was just filled with anger.

Chapter 1671

5/5

"Let me tell you, Harper, whether you like it or not, I will make sure this pup is born healthy!" The firm emotion in his eyes left Harper stunned. She had never seen him like this before and didn't know how to respond.

Preston quickly drove to Harper's home, parked the car, and directly opened the passenger door.

He bent down to pick her up and brought her into her master bedroom. "Let's get mated now."

B

Chapter 1672

Harper was stunned, looking at him in disbelief.

“You’re forcing me,” she said.

“Yeah,” Preston shrugged indifferently.

“I am forcing you, so what?” he said, acting like a rogue, leaving Harper speechless.

She tried to walk past the unreasonable Preston, but he pulled her back.

“If you don’t want me to rummage through your room, then come with me and get mated ,” he said.

Harper frowned at his words.

“I disagree.”

Preston squeezed her shoulder, leaned down, and looked at her.

“I beg you.”

Those words struck Harper’s heart, causing a slight pain. She looked up at him, his handsome face overlapping with the image etched in her memory.

Chapter 1672

In that moment, she deeply felt her love for him. Maybe the 50% of her love had already unconsciously risen to 70%.

She knew that once her love reached 100%, it would be difficult for her to let go of Preston for the rest of her life. Faced with this clear realization, should she choose him.

again?

2/5

“Forget it, what use is your plea,” she hesitated to respond, causing Preston to suddenly release his grip on her shoulder and walk towards the dressing table. He opened a drawer and quickly pulled out a stack of documents.

Harper watched Preston’s tall figure as he searched for his ID, feeling a complex mix of emotions rushing through her. She didn’t know what to do.

She was well aware that choosing him meant enduring the constant presence of other women in his life, whether they were pursuers or others. Unless he truly cut ties with women, but Preston was different from Griffon, he seemed unable to maintain boundaries with women.

Preston himself was unaware of this, which gave women like Khloe, Elsie, and Camilla the opportunity to harm her.

Chapter 1672

She feared that she would lower her own bottom line and tolerate Preston’s infidelity. She couldn’t imagine herself becoming so helpless.

3/5

With these thoughts, Harper took a step forward and quickly stopped Preston.

“Stop looking, I won’t give you my ID.”

Preston's already dark face turned even darker, as if ink was dripping from it.

He threw the documents in his hand, without looking at Harper, and turned to search the bedside table.

Seeing his determination, Harper followed to stop him, but an angry Preston pushed her away.

Harper staggered a few steps, her body swaying, and then fell to the side...

Her lower abdomen hit the wooden sofa handle, causing some pain.

She had thought that what was inside her belly was just an undeveloped mass, and it wouldn't create any emotional attachment, but now....

When the pain came, a sense of fear and panic suddenly overwhelmed her, causing her to instinctively touch her stomach.

Chapter 1672

4/5

She couldn't help but develop emotional attachment to this pup, just as she couldn't help but fall in love with Preston, even if she desperately tried to restrain her feelings.

Harper forced a bitter smile, propped herself up on the sofa, stood up straight, and looked at Preston standing beside her with anger on his face, his hand reaching out to her and then awkwardly retracting it.

“Do you really want to get mated?” she asked.

Preston clenched his fist, stared at Harper, and spoke coldly.

“A pup can’t be without a mother.”

“Just because of the pup?”

“What do you think?” he replied.

Harper didn’t answer, she just looked at him. Preston sighed helplessly.

“Harper, if I only wanted the pup, I wouldn’t even think about mating you!”

The Billionaire Alpha’s Contract Lover

Chapter 1673

Harper approached the answer with determination, turning around and walking to the desk. She opened the drawer and took out her ID, handing it to Preston.

“I’m giving you one more chance. If the final result disappoints me, I will follow the agreement we signed and leave directly.”

Preston lowered his gaze, looking at the ID and then at Harper, who had a determined look on her face.

He didn’t say anything, just took the ID, held her hand, and went straight to the office of the city clerk.

When they arrived at the entrance, Preston didn’t unlock the car. Instead, he sat inside, looking ahead.

“What’s wrong? Do you regret it?”

Harper thought he was acting impulsively and now regretted it. She immediately felt that she had trusted him wrongly again. But then he suddenly turned his head, looking at her with intense seriousness.

“In the future, I will make you trust me.”

Chapter 1673

2/5

It was because he didn't keep his distance from women that she misunderstood.

If he could be like Griffon and deal with scheming women. decisively, Harper wouldn't feel so insecure.

He used to be carefree and didn't pay much attention to these things, but from today onwards, he would give Harper complete security.

If he provided her with a sense of security, Harper would develop trust in him. He believed he could do it.

This was the most reassuring promise Preston had made to Harper, and even her anxious heart finally relaxed.

Preston held onto Harper and they went to the office of the city clerk. The process went quickly, filling out forms, medical examinations, and getting the mating certificate... It didn't take long.

When Preston received the mating certificate, his eyes started to turn red.

No matter how difficult the process was, he finally mated the woman he wanted to mate.

Looking at Preston, who was holding the certificate and lost in thought, Harper also lowered hereyelashes.

Chapter 1673

After many years of twists and turns, she thought she could stay clear-headed, but in the end, she mated him without much thought.

3/5

Just moments ago they were arguing, and now they were getting mated. It would be absurd to say it wasn't ridiculous.

She thought that perhaps living in a daze would make life better. After all, life is rarely clear-cut...

Preston held the mating certificate in one hand and held Harper's hand in the other, walking confidently out of the office of the city clerk.

After they got into the car, Preston handed one of the mating certificates to Harper.

"What kind of mating ceremony do you want?"

Harper took the mating certificate and briefly looked at it. It stated that she and Preston were mated, which meant they were now mated wolf and she-wolf.

"Let's talk about it in a year."

What she meant was that she was giving him a one-year trial period. If within a year he didn't change his ways, she would leave, so there was no need to go through the trouble of planning a mating ceremony.

Chapter 1673

As Preston held onto the mating certificate, he felt uncomfortable and also a bit regretful .

“I’ve been mated before. If we have a mating ceremony, everyone will know, and they will make fun of you.”

“Who dares to make fun of me?”

4/5

After a cold laugh, he started the car and drove towards his own home.

Halfway there, Harper noticed that they were going the wrong way and spoke up.

“Where are you taking me?”

“Home.”

“This isn’t the way to my house.”

Preston slowed down the car and pulled over to the side.

“Harper, take a look at what you’re holding.”

Following his gaze, Harper looked at the mating certificate.

“Since we have the mating certificate, of course, you’re coming home with me.”

Chapter 1673

5/5

Meaning, from now on, she would live with him.

Harper raised her eyes and looked at Preston, who was being serious.

“I didn’t bring any clothes to change into...”

“You don’t have to worry about those things.”

Preston picked up his phone and made a call. Soon, someone arrived at the door and moved all of Harper’s things to Preston’s villa.

B

Chapter 1674

Preston asked the butler to clear out the dressing room next to the master bedroom for Harper. He saw Harper standing in the living room looking uneasy.

Thinking that she might be remembering how he had previously prevented her from staying here, he quickly rushed downstairs and walked up to her, grabbing her hand.

“This will be your home from now on. You can manage it however you want,” he said, looking down at Harper’s belly. “It’s getting late, you should rest.”

Realizing that Preston was concerned about her, Harper nodded gently. However, she couldn’t help but wonder if she would have to sleep in the same room as Preston after taking a shower.

With these anxious thoughts, Harper finished showering and blow-drying her hair, only to see Preston already sitting on the bed.

He was wearing silk pajamas and had a notebook on his legs, tapping his long fingers on the keyboard. When he saw her coming out, Preston stopped typing and raised his long hand, lightly patting the bed next to him.

Chapter 1674

“Come here.”

2/4

Harper walked over with a heavy heart and lifted the thin blanket, lying down at the edge of the bed. Feeling that their hasty mating was a bit absurd and awkward, she quickly turned to her side and avoided looking at him.

Preston couldn't help but curl his lips when he saw her lying there. After watching Harper for a while, he closed his computer, turned off the light, and lay down.

To Harper's surprise, her waist suddenly sank as a big hand touched her. Then, her back was pressed against the man's firm chest, with only a layer of pajamas separating their warm bodies.

What's worse, Preston's chin was against the back of her head, and his familiar breath slowly enveloped her from behind. Both of their hearts were pounding uncontrollably.

Harper didn't even know where to put her hand that was clutching the blanket.

Seeing that she didn't push him away, Preston lowered his head and gently kissed the back of her neck. This startled Harper.

“What are you trying to do?” she asked, lifting her hand to push Preston away. But in her excitement, her elbow accidentally bumped into his chin.

Chapter 1674

“Ouch!” Preston winced in pain, covering his chin. He then looked at Harper with a furrowed brow.

“You know you’re strong, but you don’t know your own strength.”

3/4

Harper’s strength was well-known. She used to carry two buckets of water upstairs without any problem. But being old.

that she was strong by Preston felt a bit embarrassing.

“Who told you to steal a kiss from me?”

“Can’t I kiss my own wife?”

With those words, Preston abruptly silenced Harper by kissing her. Unable to say anything, she quickly turned her body again, facing the window, and ignored him.

Sensing her anger, Preston thought for a moment and then moved closer, hugging her from behind and burying his chin in the back of her neck.

“Although you’re strong, it’s not always a bad thing. From now on, you can help me with things I can’t lift.”

Harper rolled her eyes.

Chapter 1674

4/4

“If you can’t say something nice, then don’t say anything. Let’s just go to sleep.”

She pulled the blanket over her head and curled up into a ball. Preston, who didn't even have a corner of the blanket, couldn't help but laugh.

"I was just joking. I've never disliked your strength."

Ignoring him, Harper closed her eyes and fell into a deep sleep, perhaps due to the exhaustion of pregnancy.

Hearing her even breaths, Preston leaned forward slightly. Seeing that she was truly asleep, he lifted the blanket and placed his hand on her small belly.

Having his pup here felt so good.

His lips curved up involuntarily once again.

He knew he lacked integrity, never following through on his promises and often going back on them. But only he knew. that in that moment of holding her, his heart filled with anger, confusion, and restlessness suddenly calmed down.

He understood that he loved Harper even more, so he was destined to endure more grievances than Harper. However, as a man, he didn't mind being a little mistreated as long as he around her like a giant snake.

Preston held Harper tightly and slept peacefully, even in his dreams they were a happy family of three. Harper was awakened by the pressure, as Preston's sleeping position wasn't very comfortable. His hands and feet were entangled.

She opened her eyes and struggled a bit, but he didn't let go. Harper suppressed her irritation and gently poked the man

"Stop making noise, I'm so sleepy..." A hoarse voice, tinged with a childish tone, came.

Chapter 1675

2/6

Harper slowly withdrew her hand, exerted some effort to turn her body, and looked at Preston with closed eyes.

The sunlight outside the French windows streamed in through the white curtains, creating scattered spots of light that fell on his handsome face, making him look somewhat attractive.

Harper stared at Preston like this for a while, then raised her hand and patted his face. "Preston, if you keep pressing me like this, you'll crush our baby in my belly."

Preston, who was awakened by the pat, grabbed her hand and pulled her into his embrace. Resting his chin above her head, he let out a hoarse voice from his throat. "Don't talk nonsense; our baby will definitely be born safe and sound."

These words flowed into Harper's heart like a warm spring, making her feel warm...

Preston wasn't someone who liked to sleep in. After holding Harper for a while, he gradually woke up.

He lowered his head and looked at Harper in his arms. He had seen her wake up many times before, but never had he felt as delighted as he did at this moment. "My dear."

The ambiguous word and the passionate look made Harper a bit defenseless.

Chapter 1675

She lowered her eyelashes, wanting to avoid it, but Preston grabbed her chin.

With her head forced up, she hadn't even had a chance to meet his gaze when Preston kissed her. Their lips lightly touched, accompanied by heavy breathing, gradually turning into a bold deep kiss.

3/6

Lost in the kiss, Preston flipped Harper over and pressed her beneath him. His roaming hand gradually moved from her lower abdomen towards her thighs...

Feeling that something was off, Harper immediately pushed him away. "I'm pregnant, don't mess around..."

Preston had no choice but to retract his hand and instead wrap his arms around her waist. "How long do I have to wait before I can mess around?"

Harper, who was being embraced by him, looked at the impatient Preston and said, "As long as the agreement lasts, you have to wait as long."

Preston's attempt to lightly kiss her neck suddenly stopped. "A whole year?!"

In reality, it could be after three months, as long as they were cautious, but Harper didn't want to, so she deliberately deceived Preston. "What do you think?"

Chapter 1675

4/6

Three years younger and lacking experience, Preston could only grit his teeth and endure it. "Then I won't touch you, anymore to avoid hurting the baby." Harper nodded quickly. "Okay, good boy."

Preston didn't like Harper treating him like a little brother. He grabbed her plump cheeks and forcefully corrected her, "I'm your mated wolf, don't talk to me like that."

Husband... Harper repeatedly chewed on this title in her mind, a faint smile gradually appearing on her face. "It's already eight o'clock, you should go to work."

Preston lowered his head and kissed her forehead. "I'm not going to the company today; I have something else to take care of. I'll be back soon, just wait for me at home."

Without waiting for Harper to ask, Preston uncovered the blanket, got out of bed, and headed straight to the bathroom.

Soon, the sound of a car leaving the estate could be heard from downstairs.

Watching him leave, Harper also got up to freshen up. She had planned to handle work at the nightclub, but the butler wouldn't allow it, saying it was Preston's instructions for her to rest at home.

Chapter 1675

5/6

Harper hadn't returned to her home country for a month, and the nightclub manager had contacted her many times, urging her to come back. Now that she had finally returned, she wasn't allowed to go out.

She became a little anxious and sat down in the living room.

The butler noticed her unease and quickly brought over some nourishing food for pregnant women and placed it on the table. "Madam, the young master asked me to buy these specifically for you. Give them a try!"

Harper said, "Thank you," and picked up a few bites. There was no fishy taste, so she couldn't help but eat a few more bites.

Seeing her enjoying it, the butler, Hans, finally smiled.

"Madam, you're pregnant. Preston doesn't want you to work outside for the sake of you and the baby. Don't be angry with him."

Harper understood this reasoning. "I'm not angry, Hans, you don't have to worry."

She had been with Preston for many years, occasionally coming and going from this place, and Hans had always been good to her.

6/6

Seeing that Harper wasn't angry, Hans chatted with her for a few more moments before turning to attend to his own tasks.

Chapter 1676

Harper took out her phone, intending to tell Taya that she had returned to her home country, when she heard a car outside the door.

She followed the sound and saw Preston opening the passenger door and pulling Elsie out. Seeing Preston bringing Elsie home, Harper's heart sank. It seemed that the sweetness of the morning had vanished in an instant.

She felt her heart bleeding, but didn't know what to do.

She could only sit there, staring blankly at the two of them.

entering. After Preston brought Elsie in, he let go of her hand and pushed her in front of Harper.

Harper, somewhat puzzled, lifted her chin and looked at Preston, who had a cold expression on his face. When he met her gaze, he gave her a reassuring look, then turned his attention back to Elsie with a cold stare.

“Pin her down on the table!”

The bodyguards who entered behind him immediately stepped forward. One on each side, they grabbed Elsie's shoulders and pressed her onto the glass table.

Chapter 1676

2/5

After restraining her, Preston finally squatted down in front of

Elsie.

“Tell me, in front of my wife, did I sleep with you?”

Harper thought that once they agreed to get mated, it meant the end of this matter. But she didn't expect that with Preston, not knowing the truth meant it would never be over.

He gave her a reassuring look when his gaze met hers, and then withdrew his eyes, coldly staring at Elsie.

“Before the police arrive, you better tell the truth. I might consider letting you off the hook.”

Seeing that he really called the police, Elsie, feeling a bit guilty, naturally became fearful. However, she quickly calmed down.

“Aren't you afraid that I'll accuse you of forcing me?”

Preston sneered.

“No matter how you try to accuse and defend yourself, I will fight this lawsuit against you until the end. Get ready to go to jail!”

Preston had never used such strong tactics before. This was the first time, and Elsie suddenly became afraid. She could accuse Preston of rape, but it was all a lie. Besides, how could she compete with the powerful Knight pack?

Chapter 1676

3/5

Elsie raised her eyes and looked up at Preston, who was towering above her.

This man had always been the one she wanted to hold onto, but she could never catch him. Now they had become enemies.

“Did you ever love me when we were dating?”

Preston, who had long forgotten their young memories, stared at Elsie and spoke coldly.

“I was young and foolish. I thought you liked me, so I liked you too. But as for love...”

Preston’s expressionless face uttered a single word – “Never.”

Elsie suddenly laughed.

“No wonder your pack disapproved. You just gave up on me directly.”

“The reason I gave up on you was because while we were dating, you intentionally flirted with Griffon. We both know this, yet you shamelessly blame my parents.”

Chapter 1676

4/5

Preston's resolute words reached Harper, who was sitting on the sofa, and she was slightly taken aback.

In the recording, Elsie claimed that Kate had forced her, but she never expected that there was another hidden story behind it. Harper used to think that Elsie was just playing a few tricks because she liked Preston, but she didn't expect that she had already been acting improperly at a young age.

Being completely exposed in front of Harper, Elsie no longer cared about these things.

They became a couple, and no matter how much Elsie resented it, it was useless. She could only grit her teeth and bear it.

"Since you never loved me when we were young, let that thorn forever separate us."

Elsie, who had given up hope on Preston, took on an indifferent attitude.

Preston wanted to strangle her. But before he could do anything, Harper spoke first.

"Elsie, that thorn was removed from my perception of you when I realized that you were filled with lies."

Hearing this voice, Elsie thought Harper was being hypocritical. She ignored Harper and looked at Preston, who only had eyes for his she-wolf.

Chapter 1676

5/5

“Have you forgotten that I saved your life in Africa?”

Bringing up that incident made Preston furious.

“I only found out today that the danger I encountered back then was instigated by you!”

Elsie had only set a trap to get close to him, and if it weren't for a friend telling him the truth, he would still be in the dark.

B

Chapter 1677

1/4

To Elsie's surprise, Preston knew the truth about this matter. Elsie felt a sudden weakness and her body slumped. But she refused to give up, and after a moment, she straightened her back and tried to grab Preston's pants. However, the bodyguard behind her held her down tightly.

Even though Elsie was extremely unwilling, she reached out to Preston and said, “Preston, can't you give me another chance because of my love for you?”

Preston rolled his eyes and replied, “You don't truly love me.

You only love my wealthy background. You've never treated me sincerely since our first love.”

Even though Preston exposed her intentions without mercy,

Elsie remained defiant. She pointed her finger at Harper and said, "I don't love you, Harper. Do you truly love him when you keep doubting him over and over again?"

Harper looked at Preston and could see a hint of grievance in his eyes, which made her feel guilty. Preston, however, disregarded it and said, "Of course, my wife loves me. It's because she loves me that she can't trust someone like me."

I've always promised her to be faithful in the future, but I've never kept my distance from other women. It's my own lack of boundaries that led to her disbelief..."

Chapter 1677

2/4

After speaking, Preston lifted his affectionate gaze and looked at the uneasy Harper. "From now on, I will only be faithful to her."

Hearing such words from a playboy like Preston, Elsie could hardly believe it. "Preston, you..."

w

Before she could finish her words, Preston interrupted her coldly, "Elsie, tell the truth. Maybe you still have a chance to mate Luca. Otherwise, I will ruin your reputation in this circle, and you won't get anything."

Luca was Preston's friend who Elsie seduced into bed using some tricks. Elsie thought it was a discreet affair, but she didn't expect Preston to know about it. It terrified Elsie. "How did you find out?" she asked.

Preston remained indifferent and said, "I know what kind of person you are."

In other words, he could predict her next move based on her actions. Elsie suddenly understood that Preston would never have acted with her if it wasn't to provoke Harper.

Feeling completely defeated, Elsie closed her eyes and asked, "If I confess, can I still be with Luca?"

Chapter 1677

Preston glanced at her indifferently and said, "That's your" business, it has nothing to do with me."

3/4

In other words, Preston wouldn't tell Luca what kind of person Elsie really was. If he didn't, she still had a chance to mate into a wealthy pack. Otherwise, she would have nothing.

Preston had a firm grip on the thing Elsie cared about the most her interests. This forced Elsie to consider her options....

Elsie, who only cared about her interests and not true emotions, opened her eyes again and looked towards Harper.

"On that night, Preston didn't touch me. It was all a performance orchestrated by me, including the things I said to you later to frame him."

When Harper heard this, she instinctively looked at Preston and saw that his eyes were red. She suddenly felt a deep sense of pity...

He had been trying so hard to prove his innocence just to reassure her, but she had never trusted him. If she had believed him from the beginning when he said there was nothing, they wouldn't have had so many misunderstandings. He wouldn't have had to suffer so much.

After proving his innocence, Preston took out a recording pen from his pocket, placed it next to Elsie's ear, and pressed the Chapter 1677 play button...

4/4

Immediately, Elsie heard her own voice admitting to framing.

him. Confused, she looked at Preston and asked, "What do you mean?"

Preston smirked and gave a meaningful smile. "I'm just following Griffon's example and giving you a taste of your own medicine."

Elsie quickly understood his meaning. "Didn't you just promise to let me be with Luca?"

Preston nodded with a smile. "I promised to let you be with Luca, but you have to serve your time in prison first."

Then, with a chilling tone, he added, "If he's willing to wait for you to be released, you can still be together."

Chapter 1678

As soon as Preston finished speaking, he heard a series of sirens outside. He quickly looked out the window and saw the security guard opening the gate to let the police into the mansion...

1/5

Preston quickly signaled to the bodyguard, who immediately released Elsie. Elsie, still caught up in Preston's manipulation, didn't react until several police officers approached her and arrested her.

Elsie couldn't believe the outcome and suddenly erupted in anger, shouting, "I just lied once, why are you arresting me?"

The police coldly replied, "Preston accused you of molesting him. Come with us to the police station for investigation."

She thought she would be accused of slander, but she never expected that Preston would accuse her of molestation. Elsie was in disbelief, saying, "I never touched you!"

Preston sneered, "You touched me all over when I was drunk.

What else do you call it if not molestation?"

Ignoring Elsie, Preston handed the recording pen to the police, saying, "I will charge her with molestation, defamation, and false accusation."

Chapter 1678

2/5

The police took the recording pen and said, “We’ll take her back for further verification. If you want to sue, get yourself a good lawyer.”

After thanking the police, Preston looked at Elsie and said, “You know, my lawyer is Anthony.”

Elsie’s face turned dark, but she couldn’t accept it. She cursed at Preston in unbearable words as the police car drove away and disappeared into the estate.

After dealing with Elsie, Preston didn’t wait for Harper to apologize and immediately took out his phone to call Camilla, asking her to explain what happened at the airport.

Luckily, Camilla wasn’t like Elsie. After hearing Preston’s explanation, she couldn’t help but laugh and then openly resolved the conflict caused by “that kiss.”

“Sorry, I kissed little Mr. Knight as a way of saying goodbye. It didn’t mean anything more. Don’t misunderstand.”

Harper blushed upon hearing this and saw her embarrassment. Preston quickly took the phone and said to Camilla, “Miss Hill, to put my wife’s mind at ease, after this call, I will delete your contact information. In the future, if there are any work-related matters, please contact my assistant

www

Chapter 1678 directly.”

3/5

“In consideration of how much you love your wife, do as you please.”

With the other party’s consent, Preston quickly hung up the phone. But when he tried to delete Camilla’s contact information, Harper held down the screen.

“Don’t delete your business partner’s contact.”

“It’s okay, let her contact my assistant directly for work matters.”

Harper lowered her lashes and spoke apologetically, “You make me seem petty.”

She was tactfully pointing out her own flaw, but Preston simply nodded.

“Although you can be petty, I don’t mind.”

Seeing Preston’s smiling face, Harper released her grip on the phone.

At that moment, Griffon suddenly called Preston.

Seeing Preston get up to answer the call, Harper could sense that he had relieved himself of a burden, which made him.

Chapter 1678

appear relaxed even from behind.

And she, isn’t she the same?

Harper raised her hand and gently touched her small belly.

If it wasn’t for this pup, they might have already gone their separate ways.

4/5

After finishing the call, Preston put on his jacket and said to Harper, “Griffon has something urgent to discuss with me. I’ll go to the company first. You stay home and rest.”

This time, Harper didn't resist. She obediently nodded and said, "Remember to come back early."

Just as Preston reached the doorway, he suddenly turned back, bent down, and embraced Harper, passionately kissing her red lips.

Harper patted his chest, and only then did he release her. With the joy of a pup who got candy, he turned and smiled.

His Rolls—

Royce had just arrived at the entrance of the Knight' company when he saw Griffon, tall and strong, open the car door and step out of the extended Lincoln.

Feeling extremely pleased, Preston quickly walked toward Griffon. "Griffon, I have two pieces of good news to tell you.

www

Chapter 1678

Which one do you want to hear first?"

Chapter 1679

Griffon glanced at him indifferently as he walked towards the company, coldly saying, "I'm not interested in your good news."

Preston, accustomed to this, caught up with his pace and said nonchalantly, "Guess what I did yesterday?"

The man exuding a cold aura climbed the stairs and replied, "I don't know, but I do know that you didn't even care about the company in order to win back Ms. Duke."

Preston, feeling somewhat guilty for not having come to the company during this time, reassured him, "Griffon, I promise. to come to the company on time from now on, never absent."

After making his promise, Preston leaned closer to Griffon and whispered in his ear, "Do you know why?"

Feeling annoyed by his chatter, Griffon replied coldly, "Did you win Ms. Duke back?"

Preston's face lit up with joy, "Not only did I win her back, she won't ever leave again."

Having already guessed the good news, Griffon played along and asked, "So, you didn't bring her home and she won't leave? How is that possible?"

2/6

Chapter 1679

When the topic was thrown back at him, Preston's smile became even more cheerful, "I mated her. We just got our mating certificate yesterday. Surprised?"

To his disappointment, Griffon didn't react at all. He didn't even look at him. Preston was puzzled.

"Don't you feel surprised at all?"

"Surprised."

....

"I knew it."

Suddenly, Griffon turned his head and looked at Preston.

“What’s that look on your face, Griffon? Are you looking down on me?”

Griffon didn’t say anything. He just withdrew his gaze and walked towards the elevator. Preston, feeling scorned, quickly caught up with him.

“I mated Harper. Shouldn’t you call me brother-in-law?”

This remark finally got a reaction from Griffon. He paused his steps.

Chapter 1679

He turned his tall and straight body, lowered his gaze, and stared at Preston.

3/6

“What did you just call me?”

“Brother-in-law. Did I say it wrong?”

In the face of Preston’s provocation, Griffon gave him a deep look.

“Do you want to die, or do you want to be removed from the Knight pack?”

“Can I choose neither?”

Griffon

tilted his head slightly, his eyes like stars, locked onto Preston in a strange and intimidating way.

“I take back what I just said. Pretend you didn’t hear anything.”

Preston, who could be flexible and adaptable, acted dumb and pressed the elevator button, then made a welcoming gesture with a smile.

“Griffon, didn’t you say we were going to have a meeting?

Come in.”

4/6

Only then did Griffon avert his gaze from staring at him, step into the elevator.

There was one more piece of news that Preston hadn’t told Griffon, and it was weighing on his mind.

He secretly glanced at the man standing in the elevator, resembling a sculpture made of ice.

Between being frozen to death and being suffocated by secrets, Preston chose the former without hesitation.

“Oh, by the way, Griffon, let me tell you another piece of good news. Harper is pregnant. I’m going to be a father!”

If the news of their mating was something Griffon had already anticipated, then the news of the pregnancy was a shock to him.

Griffon’s exquisite and ethereal face gradually turned grim.

Andrew, who got mated after him, would become a father before him.

Preston, who got mated after Andrew, would also become a father before him.

Would it be Zack's turn next?

Chapter 1679

5/6

When Griffon had a gloomy expression on his face, Preston, who was overly happy, nudged his arm with his elbow.

"If it weren't for you convincing my mom to apologize to Harper, I would still be tearing down the house right now. I wouldn't have known about the pup."

Griffon glanced at him and ignored him.

Preston didn't notice and continued talking to himself.

"Here's the thing, to show my gratitude to you, I'll let you choose the name for my pup."

Griffon rolled his eyes and said indifferently, "The pup hasn't been born yet, we don't even know the gender. How can we choose a name?"

Preston didn't mind at all, "Then let's choose one for a boy and one for a girl. That should be enough, right?"

Griffon, visibly annoyed, glanced at him, "Do you really want me to choose?"

“Of course!”

Without thinking, Griffon blurted out, “For a boy, Ken. For a girl, Barbie.”

Chapter 1679

Preston: ... That's too random of a name!

Chapter 1680

At this moment, the elevator doors opened and Griffon stepped forward towards the CEO's office. Preston, still standing in place, faintly heard a cold voice drifting in from outside the elevator.

1/5

“No changing the name!”

Such an unpleasant name, and he couldn't even change it? Preston regretted his decision and wished he hadn't opened his mouth.

Preston, fearing he would be beaten up by Harper if he went back, chased after Griffon like a madman.

“Griffon, this name is just too awful. Please, I beg you, change it.”

Griffon didn't even turn his head and replied with a resolute back.

The urgent matter Griffon discussed was to announce to everyone that he had reclaimed all the shares and redistributed them. 30% went to Preston, while the remaining four brothers each had 10%, and Taya had 30%.

Chapter 1680

2/5

Dominic Knight himself, including his soon-to-be-retired pups, only held management options. This distribution signaled that the power in the Knight pack was no longer solely in Griffon's hands, but shared among the brothers.

"Griffon, why did you give us all your shares?"

Preston, still immersed in the pain of naming, looked at the screen displaying the share distribution and couldn't comprehend it. The other brothers also wore bewildered expressions as they looked at Griffon.

Sitting in the main seat, Griffon slowly turned the pen in his hand with distinct knuckles.

"You have all made contributions to the company, and you deserve a share."

"But my brothers have contributed much more than I have, so why am I getting so much?"

Although the first four brothers wouldn't argue about this, Preston felt guilty himself.

"In the coming period, I will train you to take my position."

This puzzled Preston even more.

Chapter 1680

“If I take your position, then where will you go?”

Griffon didn't answer this question in front of them.

“I have my own plans.”

Christopher and Sebastian wanted to ask Griffon about his plans, but he raised his hand to stop them.

“If you have any doubts about this distribution, speak up.”

3/5

Naturally, they had doubts, but no one voiced them. Perhaps, for them, it didn't matter how Griffon distributed the shares.

They trusted him. It was because of this trust that Griffon spent a considerable amount of money to buy back all the shares and dissolve the board, handing them over to his brothers.

“Since you trust me, I trust you too. The shares I've given you don't require any payment. I only need you to do one thing for me,”

William, who was far away in Africa, responded through the screen.

“Griffon, tell us. Whatever you ask us to do, we will do it for you.”

Chapter 1680

4/5

Griffon's indifferent gaze shifted to the share distribution on the big screen.

"You all saw that I gave 30% of the shares to Taya."

"That's the shares you bought back with your own money, and you can give them to whoever you want."

Sebastian, as the Asia-Pacific region president, spoke up, and the other friends naturally agreed.

"Yeah, Griffon, you can distribute them however you want. We have no objections."

A faint smile appeared on Griffon's lips, but it was tinged with:

a hint of sadness.

"Although you have no objections, there are others in the Knight pack. I hope you will protect her in the future and not let her suffer any grievances in the Knight pack."

Protecting Taya was Griffon's responsibility, so why did he suddenly ask them to protect her? Preston and the other brothers exchanged glances and nervously asked Griffon.

"What's going on? It feels like you're leaving us with your last words. It's strange."

Griffon stared at him, his eyes filled with complex emotions.

5/5

Chapter 1680

"As long as you answer me, whether you agree or not."

His affairs had always been mysterious, and as younger brothers, they didn't dare to inquire too much.

“We will agree and do whatever you ask of us.

Hearing the assurances from his brothers, Griffon's heavy heart gradually eased. After the meeting, Preston followed Griffon to his office.
