Chapter 921

Chapter 921

After they signed, the priest instructed the couple to exchange rings. The exchange took place in the presence of the priest, the Knight pack, Harper, and Stella.

Wearing a white suit, Griffon took the diamond ring handed to him by the ring bearer, knelt down on one knee, and took Taya's hand.

As the ring, which was as big as a pigeon egg, was slipped onto her ring finger, Taya's eyes began to well up with tears.

After Griffon put on the ring, he lowered his head slightly and passionately kissed the back of the hand wearing the white glove.

After kissing, the man lifted his gaze and looked at the woman in front of him, dressed in a pure white mating ceremony dress, so beautiful that it took his breath away.

"Taya, I love you."

"I love you too—"

Taya thought that after the champagne was poured in rows, the mating ceremony ceremony would come to an end.

She didn't expect Griffon to walk towards the side stage and sit down in front of an old and expensive piano.

He lifted his fingers and placed them on the black and white piano keys. He glanced over at Preston, who was sitting on the other side.

The aperture of the light shone on the two individuals, making them appear as if they were ancient nobles from the Western world.

“Taya, this is my brother. He personally composed a piano piece for you, and he will be playing the main melody while I accompany him.”

“Also, my sister Edith, who is the lead dancer of the Flower Language Team, will be performing a dance to accompany this melody.”

Chapter 922

Wearing a black suit, Preston snapped his fingers and a warm yellow light circle shifted onto Taya.

She stood in place, holding a bouquet of flowers in her hands, feeling a bit nervous as she gazed from afar at the man sitting in front of the piano.

His suit jacket had already been taken off, leaving him in only a white dress shirt. The shirt was made of silk and satin, smooth and delicate, without a single wrinkle.

A clean and noble man, with an air of aloofness, as if he were an angel who had descended from heaven. He is so handsome that he seems almost otherworldly, with not a speck of dust on his entire body.

His fingertips, gently gliding over the black and white piano keys, neither fast nor slow, as if dancing for the gods, incredibly moving.

Taya thought that Griffon had reached the pinnacle of his looks and demeanor, and that there could not possibly be a more stunning moment, but she was wrong...

At this moment, Griffon playing the piano was like stars falling into the world, gradually entering her heart, making her unable to resist being attracted to him.

On the other side, Preston, who has been proficient in music since he was young, was playing skillfully along with Griffon's rhythm.

On the champagne-colored carpet, Edith gracefully danced with only a small spotlight, quietly swaying to the music without stealing the show.

They were among the outstanding descendants of the Knight pack, but at this moment, they were willing to be the supporting cast at the mating ceremony, just to win a smile from the bride on the stage.

Stella and Harper, upon seeing this surprising scene, exchanged a glance and their faces showed an envy that they had never felt before.

Harper nudged Stella with her elbow and said, "If you're envious, go back and have Henry plan a mating ceremony like this for you too..."

Stella sensibly said, "For Alpha, spending ten billion is just a drop in the bucket, but for Henry, it would still be a significant drain on his savings. Let's forget about it..."

Harper smiled, her lips curling up. "You're already thinking about him even before getting mated. Have you fallen in love with him?"

Stella's eyelashes trembled slightly, and she quickly changed the subject, "Preston plays the piano very well."

Harper, whose attention was diverted, nodded in agreement and said, "He does indeed have a talent for this."

During the few years they were together, Preston often played the piano to make her happy after they had finished being intimate.

At that time, Harper would lie on the bed and watch the noble man, who looked like a prince, play the piano for her with a complex expression on her face.

"Excuse me, what is your relationship with Preston?"

Harper's thoughts were interrupted by the soft voice of the woman sitting behind her.

Chapter 923

Harper and Stella both turned around to look at the woman who was asking them.

She had fair and delicate features, giving off an impression of fragility that easily triggered a man's protective instincts.

Stella didn't know her, but Harper recognized her at first glance. She was Preston's first love who he was hugging in the social media photo.

Harper was taken aback when Preston brought his first love to the mating ceremony. It seemed like he was acknowledging her identity and introducing her to his pack.

Her gaze shifted towards the man sitting on the stage. The corners of her lips, which had been drooping, slowly lifted, and a sense of relief appeared on her face, accompanied by a smile.

led to be saying: This is also good, at least he has put aside his playful thoughts and started dating with the purpose of mating.

Although the person he wanted to mate, the person he wanted to take as his she-wolf, is not her Harper didn't respond, and Stella spoke up, "We're friends of the bride. Preston is just someone we happen to know as a groomsman."

The girl, upon hearing this, finally let her guard down and looked at the two of them with a friendly smile. "I'm Preston's girlfriend, Elsie."

Stella was stunned for a few seconds and instinctively glanced at Harper beside her. However, she calmly nodded toward Elsie without showing any expression on her face, "Elsie, nice to meet you."

She greeted them and then turned her head, occasionally glancing at Harper from the corner of her eye.

When she saw that there was no significant emotional change on her face with delicate makeup, she breathed a sigh of relief.

Preston and Harper's relationship should be in the past tense by now. After the mating ceremony is over, Harper will also have to choose a partner at the dance.

The mating ceremony in the castle was coming to an end after several Irish priests sincerely gave their blessings.

Taya was holding a bouquet of flowers, standing on the lawn with unmated men and women behind her. She threw the bouquet behind her.

Chapter 924

Before throwing, she took a glance at Harper and Stella's positions. So without much thought, she threw directly towards the two of them.

Originally, Harper was holding the bouquet, but unexpectedly Elsie pushed her hand and the bouquet flew to the side, right in the direction of Edith.

Edith quickly glanced at Elsie, who was holding a beautiful bouquet of flowers, and immediately jumped up to throw the bouquet toward Harper once again.

Quick-witted Stella blocked Elsie who was trying to grab the bouquet again –

With Stella's block, the bouquet of flowers fell into Harper's hands.

Harper, who was holding the bouquet, felt a bit embarra*sed and handed the flowers to Elsie, saying, "Here you go, I don't really need them..."

Before Elsie could say anything, Edith walked over and said, "She just handed me the bouquet, trying to please me. Ms. Duke, you don't have to pay attention to her..."

Elsie, who was caught by Edith's probing, blushed and explained in a soft voice with her head down, "That's not what I meant, I just thought..."

The conversation wasn't finished yet, but Edith turned around and walked away. The other members of the Knight pack who were planning to grab the bouquet also looked down on her and gave her a disdainful glance.

Elsie's face became even more unpleasant, but she still maintained a smile in front of Harper and Stella. "Sorry, it wasn't intentional."

She finished speaking, turned around, and ran towards the direction where Preston was, with small steps.

Harper saw Elsie holding onto his arm, acting a bit coquettish, and then Preston walked towards her.

Preston, who exuded an air of nobility from head to toe, stood in front of her and suddenly reached out his hand towards her.

"Ms. Duke, can you provide me with a bouquet of flowers for my girlfriend to hold?"

Upon hearing this sentence, Harper looked at Elsie in surprise.

She just refused her, but now she's asking Preston to come and collect it. What does she mean by this?

Chapter 925

Harper was still confused, while Elsie, who had caught up with them, was holding onto Preston's arm and speaking softly and sweetly,

"Forget it. It's just a bouquet of flowers. Don't make a big deal out of it with Ms. Duke."

Harper understood that Elsie was upset after being mistreated by Edith and had nowhere to vent her frustration, so she took it out on Harper.

Because she caused Elsie to fail to please Edith and also caused Elsie to be humiliated by the other party.

If she had tactfully avoided Edith's attempt to hand her the flowers again just now, Elsie wouldn't have asked Preston to act out this scene.

She didn't expect that Preston, a manly man, would stoop so low as to come to her and shamelessly ask for the bouquet of flowers that she rightfully won, all for the sake of his girlfriend who was full of schemes.

If earlier she was admiring him while he was playing the piano, now...

Harper smiled and didn't say anything, handing him the flowers she was holding.

Preston kept his eyes lowered and fixed on the bouquet of flowers.

Perhaps he also felt a bit stingy doing so, so he didn't rush to pick it up.

"Mr. Knight, don't you want it? Why aren't you taking it?"

Harper offered the flowers to him, but he didn't take them or respond. So she simply extended them closer to him.

"A bouquet of flowers, that's all. It doesn't matter to me."

Flowers didn't matter, and neither did people. Those who had experienced failed mating didn't ask for much.

Harper appeared indifferent, which caused Preston to furrow his eyebrows and show a hint of anger in his eyes.

"Harper is a few years older than me, and she is indeed more mature and generous," Elsie joked.

Harper smiled and lifted her hair that was blocking her view, then tucked it behind her ear. She glanced briefly at Elsie, who was watching the commotion.

"If I act immaturely, your girlfriend will get angry. It's better for me to be more generous. Otherwise, if I start a fight, both you and your girlfriend won't be able to handle it."

Her every move exuded a graceful and mature temperament, but the words she spoke were dominant and commanding.

If you caught a glimpse of her eyes, they seemed firm and almost as if they were warning the two of them to stop making a scene, or else she will roll up her sleeves and fight them.

Upon seeing Harper in this manner, Stella felt that if it weren't for being at Taya's mating ceremony, Harper would have likely slapped Elsie in the face already.

In Harper's own words, she was not a refined lady, so if someone bothered her, she just hit them.

During Harper's unmate case with her ex-husband, her ex-husband and his mistress twisted the truth in court.

After leaving the court, Harper's first action was to gather a few people to catch the mistress and the jerk and beat them up.

For Harper, actions speak louder than words, so she tried to use her hands as much as possible to avoid wasting her breath.

Chapter 926

“Do you want it or not?”

Harper’s impatient tone clearly made Preston’s expression even more unpleasant. He gritted his teeth, reached out, and snatched the bouquet of flowers from her hands, then turned to face Harper and presented the flowers to Elsie.

“Sweetheart, holding a bouquet of flowers symbolizes the arrival of a good mating fate. It should mean that our mating is approaching soon.”

Elsie happily took the bouquet of flowers and then stood on her tiptoes to give Preston a strong kiss on the cheek.

“You’re still the same as before. Whenever I want something, you always manage to get it for me. I’m so touched.”

When Elsie said this, she glanced intentionally or unintentionally at Harper.

The atmosphere between this woman who was several years older than Preston was somewhat like that of a quarreling young couple.

When she was studying abroad, she heard that Preston was dating an older woman who had been unmated.

Is the old woman in the legend the one in front of her? She thought.

Elsie’s expression darkened slightly, but she still maintained a gentle smile on her face as she looked at Harper with a soft smile.

“Harper, I didn’t really want this bouquet of flowers, but I want to mate Preston. So, I asked him to come to you and get them for me. I hope you’re not mad at Preston. Let me make it up to you by treating you to a meal another day.”

Angry?

Which eye did Elsie use to see that she was angry with Preston? Harper thought.

Harper used to think Khloe was annoying enough, but it turns out she’s met someone even more irritating.

Harper glanced at Taya and Griffon, who were surrounded by the elders of the Knight pack in the distance. She realized that it was Taya’s mating ceremony and decided to control her anger to avoid causing a scene.

Harper took a deep breath and ignored the two people. She wanted to take Stella and leave, but

Preston sneered.

“She will not be angry with me unless the moon turned blue.”

“Preston, why do you say that?”

Elsie innocently asked, receiving a fond pat on the head from Preston.

“Her heart is made of stone, a cold and icy stone. How could she possibly get angry?”

Even if he were to get mated right now, Harper wouldn't have any emotional reaction whatsoever.

Chapter 927

Harper's face darkened.

Her ex-husband had also said she was like a stone, like wood, and she didn't expect Preston to say the same.

Was it because she didn't work hard enough in bed for those few years, or was she just naturally meant to be degraded and bullied by men?

“Don't say that about Harper. Although she's a little older than you, she's still a girl. Ladies first!”

Elsie held onto Preston's arm, looking graceful and generous, showing that she had a broad mind.

Stella felt that her appearance and eloquence, and her affected manner, were very much like a woman with a lot of scheming.

“Elsie, did I get your name right? You look quite old, or mature. Why are you talking nonsense with Preston?”

Elsie didn't expect Harper's friend to launch a personal attack on her. She was so angry that her face turned pale and then red.

eyebrows and eyes drooping, trying to sway Preston's arm and tell him about her grievances.

But Stella didn't give her the chance. She opened her handbag and took out a gold-plated business card, smiling as she handed it to Elsie.

“Ms. Watkins, I run a hospital, and we happen to have a plastic surgery department.”

“If you have time, come to my hospital for a facelift or some hyaluronic acid injections. You'll look younger.”

“Although we've only just met, you're a potential customer. I'll give you a 20% discount.”

Elsie had just put on a pitiful face, but suddenly froze when she heard Stella's words. She looked at Stella in disbelief.

Elsie was younger than all of them, and it was obvious, yet

Stella was still suggesting that Elsie get hyaluronic acid injections and a facelift?

Elsie was so angry that her face trembled, but she still clenched her teeth and looked down at the business card with resentment.

When she saw the name of the hospital, she was stunned.

It was the most famous and luxurious private hospital in Arcadia...

It was said to be very expensive, and ordinary people couldn't afford to make an appointment there.

She didn't expect that such an expensive hospital was owned by this old woman who was spouting nonsense.

Elsie clenched her fists tightly, but didn't show it, nor did she throw a tantrum on the spot. Instead, she reached out and took the business card that had humiliated her.

Chapter 928

"Thank you, Sister Stella."

The business card had Stella's name on it, and Elsie quickly used it to strike back.

"Preston, let's go."

After saying that, Elsie took Preston's arm and resumed her gentle expression, looking at Harper and Stella.

"Sorry, we're going to the Irish town. We'll talk to you two next time."

"Oh, and..."

She raised the bunch of lychee roses and waved them at Harper with a smile.

"Thanks to Harper for giving me the flowers."

As she said this, she raised her eyebrows, as if to say: Thank you for giving me Preston.

She happily walked away with Preston, but when he turned around, he looked at Harper, who had remained silent the whole time.

For some reason, when he saw the expression in her eyes, Preston felt uneasy.

It seemed like something was about to be lost, making him restless, but he didn't know why.

As Preston and Elsie turned to leave, a cold and merciless voice came from behind.

"If you dare to take those flowers, I'll chop off your hand."

Griffon, who had just finished talking to the elders of the Knight pack, walked over with Taya.

The man's eyes were as cold as snow, and he glanced at Preston, who had turned around, before turning his cold gaze to Elsie.

"I didn't invite you."

After those cold words, the man's gaze passed over Elsie and he nodded at the staff standing nearby.

"Please ask this young lady to leave."

Elsie turned pale and couldn't believe it. She looked at Griffon, but when she felt the coldness in his eyes, she trembled with fear.

She quickly lowered her head, clenching Preston's arm, and whispered, "I'm scared."

Preston took a deep breath and pleaded with Griffon, "Brother, she's my girlfriend now. Please don't treat her like this..."

Griffon was emotionless and said coldly, "Only the person recognized by the Knight pack is your girlfriend."

He added, "Before I get rough, give the flowers back to Ms. Duke."

Harper wanted to say that it wasn't worth ruining the relationship between the two brothers over a bunch of flowers, but Taya stopped her.

She signaled for Harper not to speak and walked up to Elsie, looking her up and down.

At the moment when Elsie met her gaze, she quickly put on a pitiful expression, shrinking her neck and leaning behind

Preston.

She looked so scared and pitiful that it seemed like Taya would eat her alive.

Chapter 929

Taya didn't confront Elsie directly, instead she looked at Preston and told the truth.

"Earlier when I threw the bouquet, Harper caught it first. However, your girlfriend pushed the bouquet out of Harper's hands to please your sister. If you don't believe me, you can ask your sister."

Taya wanted to come and clarify the truth of the matter to prevent Preston from only hearing one side of the story. However, she was delayed by the elders of the Knight pack who surrounded her.

After she finished speaking, she smiled and added, "Also, when your sister returned the bouquet to Harper, she immediately gave it to your girlfriend, who didn't want it for some reason. I don't know why she refused to take it, but she insisted on you asking for it back."

When Preston heard this sentence, his face turned dark. When he turned to look at Elsie, there was a hint of indifference in his eyes.

Did she not say that she lowered her face and disregarded her dignity to ask Harper for a bouquet of flowers, but Harper refused to give it to her and even said she didn't deserve it?

Elsie's face drooped when she caught his gaze, and she pouted, saying, "I misunderstood Harper's meaning. I thought unwilling to give it to me."

After Elsie finished speaking, she lifted her teary eyes looked at Preston.

and

"A month ago, I broke one of my ears trying to save you. I probably didn't hear clearly, which caused a misunderstanding."

Upon hearing this, Preston furrowed his brow but ultimately remained silent, not uttering a single word.

He was not speaking, which meant he was hesitating.

Elsie knew Preston's personality well, so she didn't need to explain further.

Sometimes it was better to stop talking after making your point, as saying too much can actually make people more suspicious.

Elsie, who had captured Preston's attention, smiled inwardly but remained composed as she apologized to Taya and the others with a bow.

"I'm sorry, it's my hearing that's not good, which caused a misunderstanding for everyone. But I really didn't mean to."

"Ms. Watkins, the ear, nose, and throat specialist at my hospital is internationally renowned.

Remember to come for a check-up."

Stella learned from Elsie's example, smiling gently but using the most piercing words to expose her lies.

angry, and by the bride who was going to expose her lies. She was gripping the bouquet tightly with her hands.

Chapter 930

Elsie wanted to control her temper as much as possible.

The man standing behind the bride, with his sharp eyes, stared coldly at her.

“Return the flowers to Ms. Duke.”

Griffon didn't get involved in women's quarrels. However, he won't let anyone easily get away with bullying his she-wolf's friends.

Elsie was so angry that her whole body was trembling.

Unfortunately, Preston, who had been helping her, didn't even look at her after hearing what the bride said. His eyes were fixed on the old woman opposite him, motionless.

At first, she had some doubts, but now she is 100% sure that the old woman is the one who had a few-year relationship with

Preston.

Women who have been with Preston usually only last for up to six months, but this older woman who is several years older than Preston has actually been in a relationship with him for few years.

Elsie was very dissatisfied, but even more dissatisfied was the person in charge of the Knight pack in front of her...

He knew very well that she was his younger brother's girlfriend, yet he showed her no mercy.

Elsie clenched her fists and secretly glared at Griffon, as well as Preston's parents and other members of the Knight pack.

If it weren't for them not allowing her to mate Preston, she would have been Preston's she-wolf a long time ago.

These self-righteous tycoons look down on her pack background, education, and appearance!

But it's okay, she has now won back Preston's heart with her life-saving grace, and sooner or later she will mate into the Knight pack.

On the day she mates into the Knight pack, she will definitely seek revenge for being rejected by them in the past.

Elsie thought about it and decided to hold back her feelings. She put on a gracious face and returned the flowers to Harper.

"Harper, I'm sorry, I shouldn't have asked for this bouquet of flowers. I apologize..."

The more she behaved humbly, the more Harper appeared ignorant.

In such a comparison, she didn't believe that Preston would still be staring at this old woman.

Who knew Harper didn't refuse, but instead took the bouquet of flowers and even added a comment:

"I didn't know your character before, so I thought it was just a bouquet of flowers and gave it to you."

"But from our brief conversation just now, I feel that giving you this bouquet of lychee roses, which has witnessed the love between the bride and groom, would tarnish the pure meaning of the lychee rose as a symbol of first love, and it would also tarnish the bride and groom."

After Harper finished speaking, she didn't even glance at Elsie or Preston and walked away.

Looking at the carefree figure walking away, Preston suddenly found himself inexplicably smiling.

When she was silent, he became restless. She retaliated, which actually made him somewhat happy.

She still had some emotional response towards him, at least.

Chapter 931

After Harper left, Griffon' cold gaze swept over the nearby staff.

"Get her out of here," he repeated.

The staff immediately understood and gestured for Elsie to leave.

"Miss, you are not welcome here. Please leave immediately."

Elsie couldn't believe that the Alpha of the Knight pack really wanted to kick her out!

She was so angry that she almost lost her temper, but she restrained herself in front of Preston.

No matter what, she couldn't ruin her good image in Preston's heart.

Only by maintaining this good image of her first love, she had a chance to mate Preston.

Thinking of this, Elsie lowered her head and pretended to be humble, saying to Preston,

"Preston, I'll leave first."

When Harper left, Preston nodded absentmindedly. "Yeah, you go ahead."

Elsie thought that by saying this, he would hold her hand and leave with her, but he actually let her go first.

Elsie looked incredulously at Preston, who was still looking in the direction of the old woman leaving, and her pretty face twisted in anger.

She was furious, but she clenched her fists and left without showing any emotion.

Just wait and see, she would find a way to make that old woman back down.

After Elsie left, the mating ceremony reception was still going on. The Knight pack members, Griffon' friends, and others were still in the dining area, drinking wine and chatting.

As the bride and groom, they had to wait a little longer before the guests left. Griffon was a little impatient, but he forced himself to endure it.

Seeing many people raising their gla*ses to Griffon, Taya pulled Stella to find Harper.

Chapter 932

Harper was sitting on the lawn, eating snacks. Her face didn't show much emotion, but Taya, who knew her well, knew that she was not feeling well.

She lifted her mating ceremony dress and sat down next to Harper, saying, "Don't take what Preston said to heart. He's just being foolish."

Stella also sat down and patted Harper's shoulder to comfort her. "Yes, Preston is playful and has bad taste. Don't lower yourself to his level."

Harper felt warm inside when she saw her two friends worrying about her. "I'm fine. I'm just thinking, why are all the men I meet like this? Can't I find a good one?"

Stella smiled and said, "When I go back to my country, I'll immediately hold a ball. There will be ten good men for you to choose from!"

This made Harper feel much better, and her eyes lit up. "Can I have many men at the same time?"

Stella teased her, "Why? Do you want a lot of them?"

Harper nodded without embarrassment. "Yes, I aspire to have many men."

Taya, who was confused, asked, "What ball?"

Stella briefly explained, and Taya said regretfully, "Too bad, I'm going on my honeymoon, otherwise I could join you guys."

This scared Stella, who waved her hands and said, "Even if you're not on your honeymoon, I wouldn't dare invite you to the ball. Don't say such things in front of me again, it's scary!"

Taya wanted to say that Stella was exaggerating, but Neil and George, who arrived late, rushed over to her.

"Sorry, we were robbed on the way here and delayed..."

George, who was out of breath, pointed at Neil and complained, "It's all his fault. He insisted on taking the ferry and we were kidnapped by a group of strange people..."

Chapter 933

Neil felt upset upon hearing this and even though he was out of breath from exhaustion, he retorted to George, "It's true that I suggested taking the ferry, but you didn't refuse and if it weren't for you flirting on the ferry, would we have fallen into the trap?"

George was so angry that his lips were trembling, "You, you... didn't you also go to strike up a conversation?"

Neil firmly corrected, "Let me say it again, I didn't approach her, she approached me!"

George gritted his teeth and said, "What's the difference? It's just because you didn't take the plane and insisted on taking the ferry, which caused trouble!"

As the two were about to argue, Taya stepped forward and pulled George back, saying, "If you follow Neil out, be prepared to be robbed."

George saw that she seemed experienced like she had found someone to confide in. She looked sad and said:

Being robbed is bad enough, but he only took ten thousand dollars with him when he left. The robber only asked for nine thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine dollars, but he insisted on getting one dollar back from the robber, which resulted in me getting beaten up as well.

"Harper, I finally unders stingy."

Harper looked at Neil and said, "Did you finally get it?"

Stella nodded repeatedly, "Yes."

Neil didn't want to argue with them, so he asked Taya, "Taya, has the mating ceremony started yet?"

Chapter 934

Taya pointed to the setting sun, "The sun is almost setting, do you think we should start?"

Neil responded with a "What a pity, I missed it..."

The regret in his eyes flashed briefly, but immediately returned. to a bright and shining expression.

"Since I missed the mating ceremony, does that mean I didn't attend and don't need to give you a gift?"

"Whether you participate or not doesn't matter, but your gift must be sent over, Mr. Sherwood. You wouldn't want to skimp on even this small amount of money, would you?"

Before Taya could speak, Harper ruthlessly dismantled Neil's argument.

Neil gritted his teeth and glared at Harper, then looked at Taya and awkwardly smiled.

"Sorry, my cash gift was stolen and now I don't even have money for my return ticket. I might need your sponsorship."

Stella chuckled again, Mr. Sherwood seems quite amusing.

Stella smiled, making Neil even more embarrassed, George, who was standing next to them, was also in the same awkward situation.

"Sorry... Me too."

After George finished speaking, he patted his chest and confidently declared, "I will definitely make up for this gift when I go back!"

Taya didn't need this gift, she smiled and waved at the two, "No need, as long as you both are safe and sound."

George, who had always been honest, insisted, "I feel like I have to give. What do you think, Mr. Sherwood?"

Neil glanced at George, as if to say, "If you want to give, go ahead, why do you have to drag me into it? Do I look rich to you?"

On the surface, Neil nodded frequently and said, "Dr. George is absolutely right. We must make up for this mating ceremony gift!"

After Neil gritted his teeth and finished speaking, he sat down next to them and started munching on snacks and sipping drinks.

George sat down too and after taking a sip of red wine, he caught his breath and began to recount the embarrassing incidents that happened along the way.

A group of people sitting together showed sympathy toward George. When they heard about Neil's bizarre deeds, they couldn't help but laughing.

Especially Harper, was laughing so hard while patting Neil's shoulder that she was bending forward and backward.

The bright smile irritated Preston to no end when it fell into his eyes.

Neil seemed to have a good relationship with her. She laughed at everything he said, which was ridiculous. What was so funny about what he said?

Chapter 935

On top of the castle, Rebecca held Dominic's hand and asked, "Grandpa, do you want to meet your daughter-in-law?"

Dominic, who was leaning on his dragon-headed cane, looked away and snorted coldly. "She has no qualifications to make me meet her."

Hearing him talk tough, Rebecca called his bluff. "If you didn't want to meet her, you wouldn't have come to their mating ceremony."

Although Dominic had been hiding somewhere and hadn't shown his face, he still rushed over because of Taya's text message.

Dominic sneered and still talked tough, "If she hadn't gotten pregnant, she wouldn't have been able to mate into our Knight pack at all."

Rebecca smirked. "Grandpa, you've forgotten that the Knight pack is now controlled by Griffon, and you have no say in it."

Dominic gritted his teeth and glared at Rebecca. "Do you want to piss me off?"

Rebecca waved her hand. "How could I dare to do that? I respect you so much."

Dominic shook off her hand and snorted. "Don't tell them I've come."

With that, the old man who valued his dignity a lot left after saying this.

Rebecca watched the back of her stubborn grandpa and shook her head lightly.

She thought to herself, "Grandpa, if Taya brought a baby back after their honeymoon, you would have a slap in the face."

As dusk fell and the mating ceremony banquet ended, the guests dispersed, and Taya and Griffon boarded the cruise ship.

Griffon had postponed his schedule for a month for this honeymoon trip and had even bought a giant cruise ship.

He wanted to take Taya on a trip around the world, but as the Alpha of the Knight pack, he didn't have much time, so they could only travel for a month.

Chapter 936

Before the cruise ship set sail, Harper, Stella, and Grace gave Taya and Griffon their mating ceremony gifts.

Harper and Grace's gifts were two small suitcases, while Stella's was a large red suitcase.

Stella repeatedly reminded Taya not to open it until after Taya's bath at night.

Taya wondered what was inside, and she felt strange because of Stella's mysterious reminder.

Just when Taya wanted to ask Stella what it was, Harper gave Taya two more large suitcases.

"This big suitcase is full of bank cards with money from the Knight pack. Each card has a name and password written on it. There's probably a lot of money on them. You can check them slowly when you get back. And inside this big suitcase are your own clothes and the mating ceremony gifts you prepared for yourself before. Remember to bring them all with you."

Taya thought for a moment and pushed the suitcase with the money back to Harper. "Please take this back to the country for me. It's not safe to bring it on the trip, and..."

Taya took a deep breath and continued, "The gift from Silas is too precious. When you go back, please return all the transfer

TO

Taya already owed Silas too much in this life, and she couldn't accept anything more from him.

Even though she knew he did that out of care and kindness, she wasn't qualified to accept it.

Harper knew that Taya wouldn't accept it, and she nodded understandingly. "Don't worry, I'll go to the capital as soon as I get back."

After talking with them, Taya looked at Grace, who was sleeping soundly in George's arms, and said, "Please take care of the pup! Thank you!"

She had intended to take Grace with her, but George, Harper, and Stella all disagreed, and Grace herself didn't want to go, either. The little girl was sensible and knew that she couldn't be a third wheel on her aunt and uncle's honeymoon.

Harper told her to rest assured and said that Griffon had sent hundreds of professional bodyguards to protect them and that they would be fine.

Taya waved goodbye to them and turned around, lifting her mating ceremony dress and walking towards the man who was waiting for her while looking at the sunset.

Chapter 937

The afterglow of the setting sun shone on him, casting a layer of faint golden light on his body, making him look gentle and incredibly eye-catching.

Meanwhile, the diamonds on Taya's mating ceremony dress, gradually emitted a light blue glow as the warm sunlight shone on her.

The people on the dock finally understood why this mating ceremony dress was called a masterpiece when they saw this scene. It turned out that at night, it'd emit a color like a sea's. The light blue glow made it incredibly beautiful.

As Taya stared at her mating ceremony dress in a daze, Griffon couldn't wait any longer and quickly dragged her towards the top floor of the cruise.

"What's the rush?" Taya asked.

The man who was dragging her looked down and swept his gaze over her fair neck and her cleavage.

"What do you think?"

"To watch the sunset?"

"To watch you."

When Taya was about to ask what he meant, he picked her up along with the heavy mating ceremony dress and carried her to the fourth floor with ease. He then kicked open the tightly closed door and quickly walked in.

Before Taya could glance around the room, Griffon had already placed her on the round bed.

Griffon leaned over and fixed his eyes on her heaving chest. After a few seconds, he suddenly went crazy.

As he lowered his head to kiss her, Taya pushed him away with both hands. "I haven't removed my makeup or showered yet. Be patient!"

It was their mating ceremony night, and she wanted it to be romantic and leave a beautiful impression. She didn't want to do that casually as soon as he wanted as usual. But the impatient man pushed her hands away and held both of her wrists with one hand, putting them above her head. He then lowered his head again and passionately kissed her on the lips, as if he had been thirsty for a long time and had finally found some water.

Chapter 938

God knows how many times he had wanted to press her down when he saw her exposed skin at the mating ceremony.

If he hadn't wanted to give her a perfect ceremony, he would have taken her away long ago. But it wasn't too late now. He could have S** with her for a month.

His passionate kiss made Taya feel like they would spend their entire honeymoon in bed.

When she fell into despair, Griffon's long fingers had already slipped into her mating ceremony dress.

It seemed that he wanted to untie the dress, but he found that there was another strap after he undid one.

The man furrowed his thick eyebrows and patiently continued to untie it, but then he found that there was still many more inside.

Taya saw him frown and cover her mouth, smirking. "Greyson, does this seem familiar to you?"

When he had bullied her with a mask on, she had intentionally worn many layers of clothes, like a Russian doll, and made him take them off one by one.

Griffon glanced at her coldly. "What did you call me?"

"Greyson." Taya tilted her head and looked at him.

Griffon let go of the tangled straps and slowly slid his fingers down to her thigh, lifting the mating ceremony dress and slipping his hand inside.

He lowered his head slightly and brushed his thin lips against her earlobe. "Honey, I'll give you another chance. What should you call me now?"

His flirting skills were already at a master's level after he spent a lot of days with her. Even a light touch made Taya feel unbearable titillation. She wanted to avoid his touch, but he grabbed her chin with the other hand to stop her. "What should you call me? Huh?"

Now that they were mated, of course, she should call him honey. But for some reason, Taya felt too shy to call him like that.

Seeing her remain silent for a long while, Griffon moved his fingers and kissed her earlobe gently. "Good girl, call me honey!"

Chapter 939

Taya blushed, her lips parted as she tried to speak but couldn't get the words out.

"Well, I can't do it," she said, covering her face with her hand to hide her embarrassment.

"What? You can't?" Griffon asked, biting her earlobe and causing her to shiver.

Taya flinched and tried to avoid him, but he kept breathing on her and preventing her from escaping. "I'll make you do it in a while."

Griffon effortlessly untied the complicated mating ceremony dress that several dressmakers had helped Taya put on. He threw it aside and looked at the woman wearing only pasties with lust in his eyes.

He seemed to have never seen such stuff before, and his eyebrows furrowed slightly. "What is this?" he asked.

Seeing that he was confused, Taya fooled him with a red face. "It's an anti-pe rvert stuff."

Griffon looked at her and understood that she was mocking him from her smile.

He gave a loving smile and touched her most sensitive spot.

"Honey, you're naughty. You need to be punished."

His low, husky, and pleasant voice was like a spell, making Taya unable to move and her breathing quicken. She stared at the man on top of her, noticing that his hair and suit were still neat and tidy, while she was always the one who lost her cool first.

Not to be outdone, she reached out and wrapped her arms around the man's neck and pressed him down with all her might.

Griffon was always in control in these situations, but this time, Taya suddenly pinned him down and sat on him.

Griffon was surprised and delighted. "Honey, would you like to move?"

Taya boldly flirted with him and lowered her head to rub against his earlobe as he did.

"Together, okay?"

Her hot and fragrant breath was like a warm current, making Griffon feel hot in his lower abdomen.

He reached out to grab her wrist, wanting to take back control, but Taya grabbed his tie and said shyly, "Wait! Let me do it."

"Hmm?" Griffon raised his eyebrows.

"Well, I can't do it," she said, covering her face with her hand to hide her embarra*sment.

"What? You can't?" Griffon asked, biting her carlobe and causing her to shiver.

Taya flinched and tried to avoid him, but he kept breathing on her and preventing her from escaping. "I'll make you do it in a while."

Chapter 940

Taya untied the black tie and covered his eyes with it, then tied it on the back of his head.

In the darkness, Griffon smiled faintly. "So you like this trick."

Taya whispered in his ear, "Do you know what my zodiac sign is?"

Griffon tilted his head slightly. "Scorpio."

After he spoke, he grabbed her waist. "Honey, you're really vindictive."

He had covered her eyes with a tie before, and now, years later, she was getting her revenge. But he was happy to let her do that.

Taya poked his strong chest with her sharp nails. "Glad that you realize it. Behave yourself from now on."

Griffon smiled and said, "I'll listen to you no matter whether we're in bed from now on, okay?"

Taya replied, "Good." She wanted to get up, but Griffon grabbed her with one hand.

"The condition is, you have to satisfy me tonight."

"Let's take a shower first."

"All right. Let's go to the bathroom."

"No way! You have a wound on your back."

"It's no big deal at all."

In the bathroom, Griffon was blindfolded and completely soaked. For the first time, he was forced into a corner by her in

S**.

The woman who had turned him in still stood on her tiptoes and whispered in his ear, "Alphat, you look weak."

Griffon couldn't stand it anymore and quickly took off the tie covering his eyes.

Taya thought he would throw it away, but he used it to tie her wrists.

He quickly tied a knot and pressed her against the wall of the bathtub. "Honey, enough is enough. It's time to get down to business."

In order to prove that he wasn't weak, he pressed Taya so hard that she hardly bear it. She grabbed his shoulders and sobbed, "No! Let go!"

Griffon held her waist and coaxed her, "Call me honey, and I'll let you go."

Taya was so shy that she blushed. In order to break free, she whispered, "Iloney."
