Chapter 1901 A Preacher's Daughter: 26

"Good morning!"

"M...Mrs. Adkins!" Sheri gasped when they entered the studio to find her sitting on the edge of the bed.

"So you know who I am?" Celia said, getting to her feet, towering over the diminutive girl.

"Everyone knows who you are," Sheri said.

"Sometimes I wonder just how good a thing that is," Celia said, then smiled. "Your brother is

"Things like that," Celia said softly when the video ended over an hour later, looking sideways at an ashen Amy, her face flushed, her forehead damp, her blonde curls plastered to her face. "You were quite something, as was your husband. I believe this is when you met; am I right?"

"Yes," Amy managed to reply, shocked like she had never been shocked

This continued for several months and everyone was happy, especially when Reginald was suddenly promoted very early over many far more senior people to be a Church Elder. Amy enjoyed basking in the glow of Celia's prestige almost as much as she enjoyed sex with her. She felt reborn but also conflicted because of her children, in front of whom she still had to be the mom that they knew, which she no longer in truth was anymore. At times the act was unbearable to maintain.

Then one day Celia filled them in on her plan and explained that she had heard of and seen Charles' work and that she thought that he would be perfect for the innocent front of the operation. Amy and Reginald were very reticent about either of their children getting anywhere near knowing about any of their activities, but Celia convinced them that Charles would be the innocent part of things, that it would enable everything else, and that she would make sure that he was sponsored for any type of program that he was interested in to further his interest in photography and videography.

Everything had worked just as Celia had planned. Charles got offered a scholarship, was given a studio and all of the equipment necessary to succeed, and Celia had compromised him by making him her sexual slave, slowly and carefully grooming him to be the total sexual toy that he now was, as well as being a truly gifted photographer.

There were murmurs from the audience when the man pulled his cock from Gloria's pussy and turned towards an open-mouthed Fred, cum shooting from his cock onto Fred's extended tongue and into his mouth before he could close his lips on it, his cheeks hollowing as he sucked, his throat bobbing as he gulped down the man's cum, until finally he leaned

"My sofa is my fold-out bed," Zach replied.

"I see," Krista said. "Good thing I'm small, then."
