

Crazy Love 61

Chapter 61

“This time, Storm Group is outsourcing the external affairs for the project. There are quite some calculations needed, but it doesn’t require too much highly skilled technique

At the meeting. Timothy analyzed, “In other words, any company can take over the spot. If we want to win this project, we can’t go down the traditional path. That way, it’ll be difficult for us to compete with established companies. Here, | think we can change the algorithm to calculate the amount...”

The long meeting was over, and the general plan was drafted out.

If Susan was here, Timothy would have handed over the task, and she would have led the team well.

But the remaining project handlers were not skillful enough, and Timothy even had to study the new algorithmn himself. He was just about to head back to his office and continue his work.

As soon as he opened the office door, he saw Yana holding a thermos and waiting for him.

When Yana spotted him, she immediately showed a sweet smile. “Timothy, | made you chicken soup. Have a taste.” Timothy was guilty of hiding from Yana lately, so he agreed.

Yana quickly gave him a serving of the chicken soup and watched him drink it.

lately? Why aren’t you

“Timothy.” Yana blinked. “What have you been up to lately? Why aren’t you coming home?”

“I’ve been busy bidding for a project of Storm Group...” Timothy said casually.

“Storm Group?”

Yana’s tone suddenly sharpened.

“Hm?” Timothy gave her a strange look.

With her fists clenched, she forced a grin onto her face. “Timothy! Ben is against us, so why are you still looking to work with Storm Group?”

Timothy replied, “Ben Landor draws a line between his business and private affairs. Since Storm Group is opening a spot for bidding, they will decide fairly.”

“But...” Yana began to feel anxious.

Yana had overheard that Susan had also gone to work at Storm Group.

Although, she must have gone through the back door, because she could not possibly have any capability to work there. However, if Timothy wanted to work with Storm Group, he would have a chance to run into Susan!

Recently, Timothy’s attitude towards Yana had been lukewarm and unsteady. Yana had been panicking because of that. She knew very well that everything she had was stolen from someone else.

If Timothy came into contact with Susan... If he realized any clues...

If he found out that Susan was the...

No, Yana could not let Timothy keep seeing her!

At the thought of this, Yana instantly dropped her gentle appearance as she said flatly, “I disagree! We’re doing fine now. We don’t need the project from Storm Group.”

Timothy looked at her somewhat inexplicably and replied, "The recent development of the company has reached a bottleneck. If we can get the project from Storm Group, we may be able to enter the next stage of development."

Although a little selfishness was involved, even if he was not selfish, he would still definitely take on this project.

"Can't we live without this project?" However, Yana was no longer as kind and virtuous as before. She added, "I will never allow you to work with Storm Group."

Timothy frowned and put down the spoon. "Take the chicken soup away. I'll try my best to win the cooperation." "Timothy, you..." Yana panicked.

"There will be no changes to the decision, ended Timothy with indifference.

Yana stared at Timothy in disbelief.

At the same time, she was in indescribable fear.

She had tried her best not to expose herself.

But Timothy's attitude towards her was still getting colder!

If he were to see Susan again and find out about the truth...

The consequences were unimaginable!

Yana gritted her teeth, but she did not dare to say anything anymore.

She left the office with her face terribly pale and ashen.

Susan Miller!

Why was that woman haunting her everywhere she went?

Did Susan have to destroy everything she had worked so hard to get?

No way Yana would allow that!

Over the next period of time, Timothy focused on the new algorithm and did not return home at all. Meanwhile, Yana's heart and patience were waning as she waited day by day.

Timothy was the only trump card in her hand.

She could not lose this card.

"Susan Miller.

"You're forcing me into a corner.

"Also, Timothy

"Don't blame me. I don't need you to shine. You just need to maintain your position and stay by my side." Yana turned on her computer and began to edit something with a gloomy expression.

In the Storm Group.

The list of companies participating in the bidding showed up in front of Ben.

This project was not of a large scale, and Ben himself did not pay much attention to it. The documents were with him, and most of them just needed his signature.

Ben was about to sign his name, but then he saw the name of a company.

“Shining Tech?” Ben raised his eyebrows slightly.

That name sounded familiar.

“Mr. Landor, that’s Timothy Leen’s company,” the secretary hurriedly said.

The secretary knew that Ben had publicly sued Yana, and that Yana was Timothy’s fiancée. Therefore, the secretary added right away, “If you aren’t satisfied, you can remove his name.”

“Remove?” Ben smiled. “That’s not necessary. When it comes to fair competition, it should be fair and square. If he is capable of it, so what if he gets the project?”

Though Ben despised Yana, he was fine with Timothy.

After all, in his eyes, Timothy was just a fool who was being toyed around. So, Ben casually signed his name.

god

The secretary was about to go downstairs with the documents.

Ben asked, “The bid will be tomorrow, right? Who's going to host it?”

The secretary answered, "The candidates will be arranged by Luke. It may even be Mrs. Landor. After all, Mrs. Landor's working ability is outstanding."

The secretary did not forget to flatter Susan.

Ben was happy with the answer. "And remember who Mrs. Landor's husband is. You should tell me more of this kind of truth in the future."

The secretary expressed, "Yes..."

When the secretary left, Ben cracked a grin.

In the past few days, he and Susan had been progressing well.

There was no chance for him to be unhappy.

Most importantly, Susan's birthday was coming up

According to the Love Magic Code, a woman's birthday should never be sloppy

Ben had prepared a huge gift for Susan, and he had also planned to hold a grand birthday party for her. He wanted to make up for all her birthdays that were ignored all those years ago.

Ben thought about the surprised look Susan might put on at that time, then he felt even more excited. The next day.

The bidding meeting would be held in the conference room of the Programming Department.

"Susan, you can go ahead," Luke passed on the task to Susan straightaway.

“Me?” Susan was taken aback. “I’ve only been in the company for about a month.”

All of a sudden, she was to handle the bidding conference?

“Our company only depends on ability, not seniority or experience. Luke said you’re just a strait tender. With your ability, it should be a small fry.”

She was to host the bidding meeting, and the post-project cooperation would also be followed up by her. This project, although it was relatively medium-scaled, was prestigious.

Luke also hoped that Susan could take on a project on her own as soon as possible.

“Yes, Susan, it’s a piece of cake for you.”

“More than that, you’re a bit overqualified.”

The crowd in the Programming Department did not have any other reason. Instead, they all smiled to encourage her.

Susan felt a little warm in her heart. “So, I’ll go?”

In the conference room of the Programming Department.

The leaders of the five companies that participated in the bidding and the representatives who were anxiously waiting.

Ben would not be bothered to show up for such a project.

So, it was most likely that a boss from the Programming Department would show up for the bidding.

Perhaps, Luke?

Or maybe, one of the few big shots in the Programming Department?

In short, they must be cautious of treating whoever shows up.

Finally, the door of the conference room opened.

Under the eager gazes of the crowd, Susan calmly entered the room

Chapter 62

Who was this?

It was not

It was not Luke!

And she was not even one of those bigwigs in Storm Group.

The heads of several companies were a little confused.

Timothy raised his eyes and saw Susan. His expression was a little complicated.

No one knew better than him what kind of ability she had.

Once, she hid behind the scenes and worked hard for him.

At that time, he didn't cherish it.

Now, what she did was no longer for him.

All of a sudden, the feeling was complicated.

Timothy looked a little different, and the people around him immediately asked in a low voice.

"Mr. Leen, do you know this person?"

Timothy pursed his lips and said calmly, "I have been to Mr. Landor's wedding. This is Mrs. Landor." Mrs. Landor?

The people who heard this instantly lowered their vigilance, thinking that Susan was just a vase with only a beautiful appearance.

Timothy certainly did not think so, but the more people despised Susan, the more favorable it was for him, and of course, he would not point it out.

"Submit the proposal." Susan walked in without a word of nonsense and said it directly.

The representatives of all the companies handed in their business plans.

Susan also saw Timothy in it, but she didn't have any extra expression at all. She just assumed Timothy was an ordinary customer.

Susan lowered her eyes and read the proposal.

She read it for a while.

A person who couldn't wait, couldn't help but say, "Mrs. Landor, if you can't understand, find someone to help you. After all, our time is precious,"

Susan raised her eyes and couldn't wait, you can go out."

The man's face instantly darkened.

How could vases nowadays be so arrogant? But her husband was Ben Landor

He could only endure it.

Susan ignored him again. She read all the proposals at her own pace, and then glanced at Timothy, "Mr. Leen, congratulations." Among these proposals, be it cost, innovation, or feasibility, Timothy's was the best.

Aside from personal feelings, there was no doubt that Timothy had won the bid.

Timothy smiled faintly. "Thank you."

The others exploded.

"Mrs. Landor, do you really understand the proposal? Are you sure you didn't choose it based on the appearance of its owner?"

Among a group of middle-aged men, Timothy's appearance was indeed outstanding.

HARVEST INC.?"

Susan glanced at the speaker and asked, "Are you the representative of HARVEST

The man straightened his chest, "It's me."

Susan said calmly, "According to your proposal, more than 100 manpower will be needed for this project, and it will take nearly a quarter."

"The data calculation for the project is very complex and time-consuming. It is normal." The man said.

"However, Mr. Leen's planning book has fewer than fifty people on hand, and it takes only a month. At the same price, I have no reason not to choose him." Susan explained it based on the facts.

"I have no reason not to choose him."

Timothy knew that Susan was talking about business, but inexplicably, he felt a trace of joy in his heart.

"Fifty people for a month?" Everyone looked at Timothy with hostility.

Someone even more directly said, "It's impossible!"

"You can do it just by applying a new algorithm. Susan said.

"A new algorithm?" The man sneered, "Mrs. Landor, you're not being cheated, are you? It's not that simple to come up with a new algorithm."

“Yeah, some people may just be well-written. In fact, they are all castles in the air, and it is impossible to achieve.” Everyone started talking.

In fact, if it was an established company, everyone would not be so angry.

But on the other hand, Shining Tech had surged in just a few years, and its market value had grown at an appalling rate.

In this way, it was easy to attract jealousy and hostility.

“Just because you can’t do it doesn’t mean they can’t.” Susan frowned.

In the proposal, Timothy wrote the direction of optimization. After Susan’s assessment, she thought it was feasible, and then she chose him.

“Anyway, I’m not convinced. Let me believe it. Unless he makes the algorithm public and lets everyone see it together.” Someone said.

Timothy raised his eyebrows and said, “Do you want me to reveal this kind of trade secret? Never!”

“Haha, you don’t dare to make it public, so you can only use some fancy things to deceive some outsiders.” People were inquiring.

They were questioning Timothy as well as Susan.

le to givean

They didn’t even think that Susan would be evaluation.

“Yes, it must be made public. Otherwise, we won't accept it.” The others also raised their voices.

Susan frowned. These people were being unreasonable.

She stood up straight away and slapped the table hard, "I said, the bidding result had been finalized. If there's nothing else, you can leave now!"

Susan had no intention of changing her mind at all, and everyone's faces were darkened.

"Didn't you hear me?" Susan said.

"Mrs. Landor, does Mr. Landor know you're so autocratic?" Someone gritted his teeth and asked. "Don't bother." Susan didn't change her expression.

The crowd looked at each other for a while and could only leave indignantly.

Timothy stayed.

"Susan..." Timothy's expression was gentle, "Thank you for choosing me." That sounded a bit weird.

Susan frowned and said, "I'm just talking about the facts. Mr. esi please bmitacdbibiled algorithm within as days. I'll keep following up on this project."

"Okay." Timothy responded, but his eyes become gentler. Susan was speechless.

What was Timothy doing with his eyes? Was he crazy?

"If there's nothing else, you can leave now." Susan reminded. Timothy did not move.

He looked at her with a very complicated expression, "Susan, if you are still there, we will work together and the algorithm will be better."

"It's a pity that I had resigned." Susan said blankly.

Timothy's expression became more complicated, "After you realized that you had done some things in the company, Susan, you should have told me earlier."

Timothy's eyes were full of guilt.

When Susan was there, the whole company developed rapidly.

With Susan gone, the company's business was at a standstill for a while.

He originally thought that the company could take off and rely on him to run it from the outside.

But when Susan left, he realized that Susan was as important to Shining Tech as he was.

She obviously started the business with him, but she didn't ask for anything, and he didn't give anything. Timothy often stayed at the company these days, so he felt sorry for Susan even more.

Susan could also see that Timothy's apology was sincere.

But did she need it?

Susan just smiled faintly, "Mr. Leen, you're exaggerating."

Her expression was too light and cold.

For some reason, Timothy felt a sharp pain.

He pursed his lips and said directly, "If you are unhappy with Storm Group, welcome back. Susan... I'll always be waiting for you."

"No, I'm fine. It's impossible for me to go back. Susan frowned, and her voice became colder.

"What's wrong?" Timothy hurriedly said, "Is Ben Landor too domineering to allow you to ojsngtentiar@dise? Susan, Nxew you don't like people like Ben Landor at all. You're so capable, you shouldn't have wronged yourself in such a marriage."

Chapter 63

"When did I ever feel wronged? Sorry, my life at the Landor residence is a hundred times better than mine at the Miller residence. Moreover, Ben is quite good. Why do you say I don't like him at all?" Susan frowned.

I Timothy didn't believe it at all. He said with a compassionate face, "Susan, why do you say that? Actually, I know who you like." Susan narrowed her eyes at him. Initially, Timothy didn't intend to talk about this matter.

But now, an inexplicable urge surged in his chest, and he couldn't help but say, "The person you like is me, right? Susan, you don't need to deny it. If it wasn't because you like me, you obviously didn't like computers, how could you apply to the computer science department? If it wasn't because you like me, you hated socializing, how could you follow me around to get investment in the early stages of a business? Susan, you've changed a lot for me. I saw it all, and I'm grateful. I know that Yana and I are together, and it must be a big blow to you. But no matter how hard it is, you can't marry a person like Ben Landor hastily."

As he spoke, Timothy sighed and said sincerely, "Susan, I'm sorry. The person I like is Yana, and I can't respond to your feelings. But, I also hope that you can live a good life. You are still so young. Don't stick around here. Leave Ben Landor, and start again."

Timothy finished speaking such a long speech in one breath.

After the speech, he felt good about himself and that he was simply too romantic.

Then he raised his eyes and saw how shocked Susan looked.

Timothy's heart moved slightly. She must be very touched, right?

Timothy couldn't help but say softly, "Susan, if you want to cry, just cry."

He stood up and actually stepped forward and hugged her.

Susan was completely shocked by his action.

She quickly broke free, raised her hand, and gave him a vicious slap.

Slap!

Susan slapped him with full strength.

Timothy was directly stunned.

He looked at her in disbelief. "Susan, you..."

Susan's face darkened and said, "Timothy, people are blind sometimes. I used to be blind and fell in love with a piece of shit like you. Ben Landor, he is thousands and millions of times better than you!"

At that moment, Susan really felt that she was blind.

In the beginning, she liked Timothy

But Timothy didn't like her.

Both of them were right about this.

But now, Timothy actually said that he had known long ago that she liked him

Susan felt a little nauseous.

He knew she liked him, but he didn't hesitate to use her affection to make her fight for him. This was not wrong too.

But it was really disgusting.

He didn't even tell her about it after he was with Yana. Instead, he continued to use his ambiguous attitude to hook her up and encouraged her to work hard for him.

"Timothy, why didn't you tell me clearly as soon as possible, and cut me off?"

"Then I wouldn't have been unable to let go for so many years.

"And now, just see how disgusting you are, and how dare you think Ben is not good and still persuade me to leave Ben?"

"How dare you! You don't deserve it." Susan thought all this in her mind.

Timothy was stunned for a moment, but he couldn't understand her at all, and said with an understanding face, "Susan, I get it. You have your difficulties. I just want to tell you that I will always be behind you and support you."

Unable to bear it, she raised her hand and gave him another slap. Timothy was even more confused.

“Timothy Leen.” Susan said viciously, “Please, live a good life with your Yana. Don’t ever come and disgust me! Next time, if you say these inexplicable words again, I’ll slap you once | see you

After that, she turned around angrily and left.

Timothy clutched his aching face.

A little puzzled.

He was a little confused.

“Susan... Why are you suddenly so angry?”

“I didn’t say anything wrong!”

Timothy thought, pursed his lips and walked out of the conference room.

Not far from the conference room, Timothy saw an employee of his company at a glance. Timothy f frowned, “What are you doing here? Where are the others? Didn't | tell you to wait outside?”

The employee’s eyes flashed, and he hurriedly said, “Mr. Leen, the representatives of other companies have already come out. You haven't come out, and everyone’s worried about what's going on here, so they sent me to take a look. Mr. Leen, what happened? | saw a girl walking out in anger just now.”

Timothy glanced at him, “Nothing, let's go.”

“Okay.” The employee didn’t ask any more questions.

Turning his back to Timothy, the employee’s eyes flashed with amazing light.

He

e was going to be rich!

He was going to be a rich man soon.

When no one noticed, the employee secretly turned on his phone.

Inside, there was a video.

Just now, he had seen and heard everything that had happened between Timothy and Susan. He even filmed it. He didn’t expect that Mr. Leen and the wife of Mr. Landor would have such a story. Tsk tsk tsk. Rich people really had no morality.

But it was none of his business!

It was right and do things.

Moreover, it was going to be a huge sum of money.

Without hesitation, the employee clipped a part of ee and sént it t Yanan he Bart h got was very exciting.

It was the moment when Timothy hugged Susan. Without cause or effect, this part seemed quite ambiguous. “Anything else?” Yana watched it and almost went crazy, so she immediately urged.

"Of course." The employee replied, "But Madam, I have been keeping an eye on Mr. Leen fgyo@and sR" recardedistich Svideo. can no longer stay at Shining Tech. You promised me the payment, didn't you..."

Yana was silent for a while and wanted to haggle.

The employee said, "Madam, you only have three se As tacthink' | video directly."

Yana gritted her teeth.

She was a little reluctant to commit that large sum of money.

However, the thought of Timothy hooking up with Susan behind her made her even more uncomfortable. With a sullen face, Yana transferred the money to the designated account.

"I got it. Thank you, Madam." The employee was happy.

"The rest of the video!" Yana said immediately.

The staff sent the whole video over.

Yana couldn't wait to watch the full version of the video.

After watching it, she felt bad.

Just by looking at the short video sent over, she felt that the two were hooking up.

But after watching the full version...

Yana became even angrier.

Looking at the full video, the whole process was driven by Timothy! Susan even slapped him twice! Timothy seemed not to be angry at all.

After the anger, a strong sense of panic surged up.

Would it be that Timothy still had feelings for Susan...

No, no, she would never allow that to happen.

As she watched the video, Yana's gaze darkened.

Chapter 64

Although Timothy was a bit disgusting, it was not proper for Susan to change people based on personal preference.

As a result, they inevitably had some intersection.

Fortunately, when the work was in progress, Timothy didn't say those inexplicable words again, so Susan followed. up on the project accordingly.

This day was the day to check the progress.

Timothy was not in a hurry to leave.

He took out a delicate box from his pocket and said, "Susan, today is your birthday. Here is a gift for you."

Susan glanced at the box and didn't even want to open it.

"Thank you, but there's no need for that."

Her birthday had never been a day worth waiting for.

Every year for their birthday, her sister, Yana, would get all the attention and gifts.

But not for her, she wouldn't have anything.

Occasionally, someone gave her something, and Yana would make excuses to take it away.

Over the years, she hadn't been interested in birthdays.

"I've already bought it. If you don't want it, just throw it in the trash." Timothy said.

Susan raised her eyebrows.

Then, she picked up the box.

Timothy smiled faintly.

Susan threw the box directly into the trash can,

Timothy's smile froze

Susan glanced at him and said, "As you wish."

Then, she stood up, turned around and left without looking at Timothy.

Timothy looked at the box in the trash can, his eyes changed slightly.

He hesitated for a moment and finally picked up the box from the trash can.

He bought this gift especially for Susan,

Now, she was inexplicably angry with him,

When she calmed down, he still wanted to give it to her.

In the office.

Ben looked at the gift he had carefully prepared, a satisfied smile appeared on his face.

Today was Susan's birthday.

He was preparing for this day a week ago.

He knew that she didn't like lively parties.

Therefore, he booked a good restaurant, and there would only be two of them.

This restaurant had huge floor-to-ceiling windows.

The windows leaned against the river, the lights flashing at night, and the scenery was breathtaking.

Ben had tasted all the dishes in this restaurant, and then carefully selected the ones that best suited Susan's tastes.

He also hired an internationally renowned band to perform for them.

The most important thing was....

Ben looked at the ring in the box and chuckled.

He planned to propose today.

Although, they were already husband and wife.

But the Code says that a marriage without a proposal is incomplete.

He wanted to give Susan the best.

So, the proposal must be made up.

To ensure the effect at night, Ben asked the secretary to confirm the details again and again.

When he was sure that girls would be delighted by such a romantic move then only he relaxed.

The next step was to wait the night to fall.

Ben, for the first time in his life, looked forward to the night so much.

To surprise her.

Ben didn't say anything about the birthday in advance.

As usual, he waited until after work to look for Susan

Susan didn't care about her birthday, she just regarded it as an ordinary day

When they got into the car, she found that the car was not driving in the direction of Ben's house.

She asked curiously, "Where are we going?"

Ben said calmly, "I found a nice restaurant. Let's go and try it."

Susan's eyes lit up instantly, "You said it's good, that must be very good."

"You'll like it." Ben tried to speak in an ordinary tone.

Susan couldn't help but look forward to it.

Today, Ben purposely didn't ask for a driver. After arriving at the destination, he asked Susan to get out of the car and wait at the entrance for a while. He went to park the car then came over.

Standing at the entrance of the restaurant, she was filled with anticipation as she thought about the food that was delicious.

Just then, Susan's phone rang

Susan answered the phone casually.

"Hello?" Susan answered.

On the other end, there was silence.

Huh?

She glanced at the screen in surprise.

Then, she froze for a moment. It turned out to be Yana's call.

"Susan, do you know where I am now?" Yana chuckled, and her voice was a little weird.

Susan could still hear the sound of the wind faintly.

She frowned. "Where are you?"

"It doesn't matter where I am. The important thing is I'm leaving." Yana's voice tone became ethereal, "Dear sister, now that I have lost everything, I lost my reputation, our parents blamed me, Timothy being engaged with me, but never getting home every day. I have nothing left. Are you... happy?"

Yana's tone was calm but strange.

Susan felt something was amiss, she couldn't help but speak urgently. "What on earth do you want?"

“What do I want?” Yana’s voice suddenly became sharp, “Susan, don’t you understand? I have nothing left! And all of this happened because of you! You’ve pushed me to this state, you have Ben to protect you, I can’t even take revenge. Remember, Susan, it’s you who forced me into this desperate situation.”

Desperate situation?

Susan’s eyelids fluttered, “Yana, please have a good talk with me. Where are you now?”

She didn’t like Yana, but after all, she was her sister, so she couldn’t watch her die.

“Where am I?” Yana chuckled, “I’m right next to Fience River, I’m about to jump. If I do, will you feel guilty? Will you have nightmares?”

Yana’s voice tone was getting weirder and weirder.

Susan’s heart skipped a beat.

Fienee River!

Wasn’t Susan just around here?

Ben hadn’t come back yet.

But, Yana’s life was at stake.

She couldn’t wait for him.

Holding her phone, Susan didn’t dare to hang up. As she ran towards Fienee River, she frantically said, “Yana, where the hell are you? What’s next to you? Can you see the tower?”

“It’s none of your business.” Yana’s voice was cold, but she gave a small hint: “I’ll watch the ship for a while, and I’ll have to go to another world.”

A ship!

That was the port.

As she continued to talk to her, she tried desperately to catch up with her.

In a nearby hotel.

Yana sat comfortably on the recliner, holding the binoculars and watching Susan’s movements.

When Yana saw Susan really went to the place she had set for her, a smug light flashed in her eyes, and she thought.

“Susan, your life today is all because of Ben.

“Today, I’ll make you completely lose your support!

“By the way, this is also a warning to Timothy!”

While Yana was perfunctorily replying to Susan on the phone, she changed a mobile phone and asked Timothy to go to the port as soon as possible.

Timothy was supposed to work overtime today.

But Yana said today was her birthday, and she was very gentle and considerate. Timothy felt guilty towards her, so he finally agreed.

Now, Timothy was almost reached.

Soon, he and Susan would meet!

Then, the most important thing was the witness.

With binoculars in Yana's hands, she looked at the restaurant entrance again.

Ben had parked the car and came back.

can was

But Susan was not there.

Chapter 65

At first, Ben didn't worry too much.

He thought she might go to the bathroom or something.

But when he made several phone calls in a row, it was all replied with busy tones. Ben's face couldn't help but change slightly.

In an instant, many terrible guesses flashed through his mind.

Thinking about it, he even felt that if something happened to Susan, he didn't want to live anymore.

He waited for ten minutes.

In the past ten minutes, Ben had thought about everything that might have happened, and he felt like he was going crazy

But Susan's phone was still engaged on the line.

Ben couldn't wait any longer. He made a prompt decision and was about to mobilize his men.

Right at that moment, someone stopped him.

Ben raised his eyes which were flashing with hostility: "Yana, move aside!"

Yana stood still and said, "Mr. Landor, don't you want to know where Susan is?"

He stared at her coldly. "You know that?"

Ben's eyes were too terrifying, Yana was startled, not daring to keep it a secret anymore, and hurriedly showed a sad and indignant look, "Of course I know!"

"Say it." Ben squeezed the words out of his teeth.

His patience was almost at his limit..

As Yana understood this, she gritted her teeth, "There is one thing, Mr. Landor, you may not know. My sister has loved someone very much since high school. Because of him, she chose a major subject that she was not good at, she was with him from nothing to wealthy. She's obsessed with this person."

Ben's eyes gradually cooled down, when he looked at Yana as if he was going to kill someone.

Ben said word by word, "Do you think I will believe what you say?"

Yana laughed bitterly, "Mr. Landor, I also hope that everything I said is fake! You should be able to guess. The person my sister likes is Timothy! My fiance."

Ben glanced at her coldly and left straight away, "I don't have time to listen to your nonsense!"

He was going to find Susan, and he was going to do it right away!

As for Yana's nonsense, he didn't believe a word of it.

athy now!"

Susan got anxious and shouted directly, "My sister is meeting Timothy

Ben's footsteps didn't stop.

Yana added, "After Timothy engaged with me, he still has feelings for Susan, and I feel aggrieved. We...

Yana hadn't finished yet.

Ben suddenly turned around and grabbed her throat.

A hint of horror flashed across Yana's eyes.

Ben grabbed her so hard that she couldn't breathe for a while.

This lunatic, he wanted to kill her!

She could hardly take out her phone and played a video, "If you don't believe me, take a look at this!"

The video was played.

A familiar voice was heard.

Ben frowned and took the phone directly.

Ben's hand loosened, and Yana quickly took a few deep breaths.

She only had one feeling now.

Next time, she dared not to provoke this madman again.

However, after Ben abandoned Susan, she had no reason to provoke him anymore.

The video started with Timothy's affectionate face.

He said, "Leave Ben and we can start over again."

He said, "I know you like me."

Then, it was Susan's shocked expression.

Then, he said, "If you want to cry, just cry."

He stepped forward and gave her a hug, and the video stopped abruptly!

Ben's hand gripped the phone tightly.

He didn't believe it.

But it seemed that the video was true!

Timothy said that the person that Susan liked was him.

Susan did not deny it.

Did she feel touched because of this?

Was that why Susan hugged him?

Looking at the venue in this video, it was clearly the conference room of the Programming Department.

It should be the day of the bidding.

After the bidding day, in fact, those companies that lost the election once spread some rumors angrily.

They said that Susan gave the project to Timothy's company because she liked him.

The rumor spread that Susan didn't know anything at all.

Ben knew what Susan was capable of, so he naturally wouldn't believe these rumors. The others in the company also regarded these as a mouthful of sour grapes and ignored them.

But with this video...

Ben couldn't help but think!

There was no doubt about Susan's abilities.

But did she really have no personal agenda when she chose Timothy's company?

Watching the scene where both of them were embracing each other.

Ben's eyes turned red.

Yana said, "Mr. Landor, I'm not afraid of your derision. My fiance and Susan have known each other for more than ten years, and they are very close. Even if she marries you, he still can't let go of her. Therefore, once they were alone, both of them couldn't help but... couldn't help but do something out of the ordinary. I'm wrong because I can't control my own man, but my sister, she already has you, how can she..."

As she spoke, Yana wiped away her tears excitedly.

Ben raised his eyes and glanced at her.

Yana was startled, and his face instantly turned pale.

What a pair of eyes.

His eyes were as red as hell

“Is she meeting Timothy now?” Ben said slowly, as if a monster was suppressed in his voice.

“Yes.” Yana hurriedly said, “Today is my sister’s and my birthday Timothy and I also have a dinner date nearby. When I went to the bathroom and came back, I happened to hear Timothy and my sister on the phone. He’s meeting my sister at the port! He said he wanted to give her a gift. I thought it was Timothy who was obsessed, but I didn’t expect that Susan would leave you behind and go without any hesitation.”

Yana said with a sad look, “If they really love each other so much, I... I want to just let them be.”

Let them be?

A bloody smile appeared at Ben’s mouth.

No, if it was true, he wouldn’t let them be.

He would take Susan to hell with him forever.

After he found out the location, Ben didn’t talk further with Yana anymore, he walked straight towards the port with no expression on his face.

Yana’s eyes moved and she hurriedly chased after him.

Next, she just needed to make sure that Ben could see Timothy and Susan together.

Then Susan would have nothing to explain!

Yana would let Susan tell her existence because it was up to Ben to decide whether he believed it!

Yana thought that Ben might not believe what Susan said but trusted the scene that she was with Timothy and made a plan to lie to him!

When the time comes....

Yana's eyes were getting cold.

Ben was not someone who would tolerate being cuckolded.

"Susan, you're done!" Yana thought this on her mind.

Susan quickly ran all the way to the port.

As soon as she arrived at the port, Yana hung up the phone.

However, she became even more anxious. Worried that Yana might have done something stupid she searched the port all the way

Suddenly, she looked up and bumped into Timothy, and he also seemed to be looking for someone!

Chapter 66

Timothy was stunned and slightly surprised, "Susan?"

Susan was not in the mood to greet him. She said anxiously, "Are you here to stop Yana too? | can't find her!" "Stop Yana?" Timothy was confused, "Stop her from what?"

“You don’t know?” Susan said anxiously, “She said she had nothing left to live for. She is going to jump Fienee River!” Timothy's eyes suddenly changed, “impossible! She asked me out today to have a date here!” Susan gritted her teeth, “She might want to see you the last time!”

Timothy also began panicking when he heard what Susan said.

Yana was indeed strangely gentle today.

Could it be that she really wanted to do something stupid?

Timothy's heart was suddenly filled with endless regret.

He shouldn't have done it.

He shouldn't have deliberately ignored Yana just she wasn't what he thought she was.

Off the

People will eventually change at times.

But after all, she once gave him the only light in his life.

‘Let's go find her.’ Timothy gritted his teeth.

When they found Yana, he would apologize to her and treat her well!

After all, she had helped him to that state!

Timothy and Susan walked along the port, asking and searching all the way.

Timothy remembered that Yana said that she could see ships. The two of them specifically went to places with lots of ships and searched for Yana

When they arrived at the dock, they saw a girl standing on the riverside as if she was about to jump.
“Yana!”

Susan and Timothy shouted at the same time. Both of them ran over together.

They ran over and grabbed the woman.

The woman turned around. She looked at them confusingly, “What are you guys doing?” Timothy and Susan were surprised,

This person wasn't Yana!

Where was Yana then?

They searched everywhere at the port and didn't see Yana at all.

Timothy and Susan looked at each other, both feeling a little puzzled.

“I'm sorry.” Susan hurriedly apologized and let go of the woman's hand.

The woman didn't say anything and just walked away.

“Where is Yana?” Timothy didn't understand.

"I don't know either." Susan was panicking. She took out her phone and made a call. However, Yana's phone was shut down.

Timothy and Susan looked at each other.

Just as the two of them were confused, they heard a disappointed voice.

"Timothy! You really went behind my back to see my sister! How could you do this to me?" Timothy and Susan turned their heads together. One of them looked at Yana while the other looked at Ben. Yana was looking at them madly as if they had done something unforgivable.

While Ben lowered his eyes. His expression was uncertain.

At that split second!

Susan knew something!

Yana didn't want to commit suicide. Today was a trap set by her!

"Yana, what are you talking about?" Timothy said, "You asked me to come here!"

"Yes, I did ask you to come here! But I didn't let you see Susan!" Yana's expression was almost crazy, "Timothy, if you really like my sister, why didn't you be with her in the beginning? Why did you pursue me? Why did you get engaged to me? Timothy, you messed with me but then betrayed me. Is this your reason?" Timothy was dumbfounded.

Although, he did have some unspeakable thoughts about Susan.

But this time, he really didn't meet up with Susan.

“Don’t act dumb! You thought I didn’t know.” Yana’s voice became high-pitched, “Today is me and my sister’s birthday! Did you prepare my gift? No! But I know that you specially prepared a gift for my sister a few days earlier.”

slightly guilty about the gift, but he and Susan did not do anything when it came to the affair.

Timothy

Timothy was slightly

Timothy denied it, “Stop talking nonsense!”

“I’m talking nonsense?” Yana rushed over like crazy and started searching Timothy,

Timothy wanted to resist at first.

But the crazy look on Yana’s face was too scary. He was just distracted for one second, and she took away a box from him.

Yana took the box and handed it to Ben immediately, “Mr. Landor, look! This is a necklace with my engraved on the gem!” “How did you know?” Timothy said subconsciously.

The next moment, his face couldn’t help but turn pale.

Yana, she sent someone to monitor him!

Timothy’s sister’s name

She intentionally tricked him gently into coming here. She didn't want to have a date, she wanted to set up a trap! Ben opened the box with a poker face.

Inside, a sapphire necklace was shining brightly under the sunlight. He picked up the gem and aimed it at the sunlight. Inside, the word "Susan" was loomin

"Now, what else do you have to say? You asked to meet my sister on purpose, and then you wanted to give her a gift, didn't you?" Yana snarled and looked at Susan, "Susan! | know you've always liked Timothy, but you're already married. Where do you put Ben in the position if you act like this? Are you worthy of his protection for you?"

Yana's voice was hoarse. It was as if she wanted to rely on her voice to declare Susan guilty. Susan ignored her and looked at Ben, "Ben."

Ben was also looking at her, his face was abnormally calm, "Yes."

"Do you believe me?" Susan asked him.

Ben looked at her delicate face. His heart was burning with pain. He said slowly, "I want to believe you."

He didn't say that he believed her.

He said that he wanted to believe her.

That was a whole new level of difference just between a word. Susan's face couldn't help but turn slightly pale.

Ben suspected her!

Just because of what Yana said, he suspected her!

“Do you like Timothy?” Ben asked.

Susan pursed her lips. She didn't want to lie. So she said, “I did like him before.” She really did like him before.

But it was also true that she didn't like him anymore.

The word “before” said everything.

Timothy couldn't help but glance at Susan. For some reason, his he was slightly pained,

Susan really did let him go completely.

Ben handed over a phone, “Look at this video.” Susan took the phone.

The video that was edited began to play. Susan's pupils suddenly shrank.

The situation at that time was certainly not like this. But a ten, mM editing iigeemediat there was a lot of chemistry between Timothy and her.

Susan tightened her grip on the phone and said anxiously, “Ya it's not a video that was edited.”

“It was edited. But you can't make something out of nothing.” Ben said slowly.

It must be true that they hugged each other and poured their hearts out.

Ben was even admired by himself that he could maintain such calmness on the surface. He used up all of his courage to bet again.

To bet that Susan was going to be his happiness.

But he seemed to... lost the bet once again.

From then on, he was a complete loss.

Chapter 67

Timothy couldn't help but frown when he saw that the situation was not right.

Although, he had some vague thoughts about Susan.

However, as a man, he had his fundamental principles.

He would have nothing to say if Susan really had something with him.

But the two of them were clearly innocent.

Timothy couldn't help but say, "Mr. Landor! Don't get me wrong. The gift was my one side wanting to give to her. Susan already rejected me this morning. That video also cut off the most important part, I just wanted to comfort Susan, but she pushed me away the next moment. The two of us are indeed innocent and do not have an affair."

Timothy was serious.

Susan couldn't help but look at him.

She didn't expect that Timothy would explain it to her at this time.

Susan was actually relieved,

It seemed that she hadn't been blind in the past.

Initially, Yana just set a trap.

Now that Timothy was so sincere in helping Susan explain, Yana's face became upset.

She sneered and said, "Why are you in such a hurry to help my sister to explain? You guys really didn't have an affair!"

Yana's tone was indescribably sarcastic.

Timothy was slightly annoyed.

He glared at Yana, "Yana, you had seen the original video yourself. You should be the one who knows the truth clearly! I'm asking you, do you dare to show the original video?"

"..." Yana was slightly guilty.

"You dare not!" Timothy's voice was cold, "Because all of this is just an illusion of what you have edited out!"

"Illusion? Do you dare to say that Susan didn't like you before? Do you dare to say that you didn't hug her?" Yana was furious.

The couple happened to just fight over each other.

Ben ignored them. He just looked at Susan quietly.

Timothy's words spark a trace of anticipation in his heart.

He was waiting for her to explain it to him herself.

As long as Susan was willing to explain, as long as it was reasonable.

Then he would believe it!

As for who Susan liked before, he was unwilling to argue about it, nor did he want to argue!

But Susan just stood there and said nothing.

“TIMOTHY!” Yana screamed in a high-pitched voice, ‘Fine, let’s not talk about the video. Then tell me, why did you two meet here today? Don’t tell me it was just a coincidence!”

Timothy frowned, “Susan said that you were going to commit suicide. She was worried about you, so she came the port and looked for you! The two of us did meet by chance.”

“I was going to commit suicide?” Yana showed an incredulous look, “Why would I commit suicide? How can you believe such nonsense she made up? Or is it that the both of you are lying to me!”

Timothy frowned.

Yana didn’t try to kill herself?

Then why did Susan appear here?

Could it be that she really... wanted to run into him by chance?

Although he knew he shouldn’t, Timothy’s heart still beat violently.

Susan... Did she really...

“With that look on your face, how dare you say that you two have nothing together?” Yana was going crazy when.

she saw it.

“What look? Don’t be unreasonable. Timothy said coldly.

Yana sneered, “I’m being unreasonable? Timothy Leen, you went behind my back and met your ex, but in the end, you said it was me who was being unreasonable?”

Timothy looked at Yana’s shrewish appearance and couldn’t stand it.

Was this really the girl that had a kind heart and was gentle as a ray of light as he remembered?

Yana!

Was she really that person?

He was starting to suspect this even more!

Timothy took a deep breath and said slowly, “Susan said that you called her and said you would kill yourself! So the two of you must have a call history. Let’s see if there is a call history, and we’ll know who’s lying.”

Yana had already thought of an excuse. She said confidently, “I did call her. But it was because I found out that you were preparing a gift for her. So I called her specifically and told her to stop hooking up with my fiance! Maybe she came and hooked up with you purposely because of this phone call.”

“You...”

Ben and Susan just listened quietly to their quarrel.

Seeing that they were going to continue to quarrel.

Ben said calmly. "Shall we go?"

Susan pursed her lips and nodded calmly.

Then, the two of them left quietly all the way.

Behind them, Timothy and Susan were still fighting until they walked away and disappeared.

"Are you hungry? Let's go and eat." Ben said with no emotion.

It was as if nothing had happened just now.

But both Ben and Susan knew that some things were different after all.

Ben booked the whole restaurant. It was quiet. There were only the two of them.

"Serve." Ben's expression couldn't be distinguish between joy and anger.

Susan pursed her lips and didn't say anything.

Each dish was served quickly.

Every dish was exquisite and delicious.

Every dish was tasted by Ben himself to confirm that it would suit Susan's taste..

The table full of dishes was delicious.

But none of them moved.

"Music." Ben said.

An internationally renowned band started to play a melodious tune,

Ben looked out of the window coldly.

Outside, the sunset dyed half of the river and sky red. The scenery was beautiful.

Initially, after eating the food, he would take out the ring and propose to Susan in such a setting and music.

But now, this romantic tune and beautiful scenery seemed to be mocking and taunting him, saying he overestimated himself

Susan lowered her eyes.

Today was her birthday.

Ben never brought it up.

She thought he didn't know, so she didn't mention it specifically.

But looking at the situation in front of her, she understood it now.

Ben didn't forget. He prepared a birthday surprise for her.

But this surprise had now turned into a mockery.

Susan took a deep breath and said, "What do you want to ask?"

Ben looked at her.

She was extremely calm.

Ben's heart suddenly hurt.

Could she be this calm was because she didn't care at all?

Therefore, she could give him the cold shoulder without any hesitation in the past. She could avoid him for more than a month.

Struggling, distressed, upsetting...

He was the only one who was experiencing these situations.

While Susan, she always looked so calm.

But being such a calm person, she would do so many things for Timothy.

She loved Timothy

There was no doubt about it.

He knew that if he asked about it, he might humiliate himself.

But he still asked, "Did you study computers for Timothy?"

Susan tightened her lips, "Yes."

"You accompanied him to start a business because you liked him?"

Susan lowered her eyes, "Yes."

Chapter 68

Ben's heart was in so much pain that he felt like it wasn't his anymore.

Before he asked, he had been thinking that if she denied it, he would believe her.

Even if he knew that she was lying to him, he was willing to believe it.

But she was so honest.

She was so honest that he was going crazy.

He asked the last question slowly, "How long have you liked him?"

Susan closed her eyes.

She knew the result of answering the question.

There will be no hope between her and Ben from now on.

But she still said it, "Ten years."

She had liked Timothy for ten years.

Ben's heart suddenly hurt.

Ten years!

She had liked him from the age of 16 to 26 years old.

The most beautiful youth in her belonged to a man called Timothy Leen.

What about him? What was he supposed to be?

A stranger that she had known for less than half a year.

One that she knew for a decade.

One that she knew in less than half a year.

It was clear from the beginning.

“I used to like him so much that I lost myself in it.” Susan said slowly, her voice slightly hoarse, “But after being married to you, I had left it all behind. After we got married, I had no affair with him at all! Today, Yana indeed lied to me.”

“I know,” Ben nodded.

“You know?” Susan’s pupils shrank slightly.

Ben’s expression was calm, “Vana’s plan was full of mistakes. I would be a fool if I couldn’t even see this type of mistake.”

He believed in Susan’s characteristics.

As long as she was still Mrs. Landor, she would never do anything out of order.

But...

What he wanted was Susan’s heart.

He wanted her to belong to him wholeheartedly.

But she still relished the person in the past when she was with him.

What was the point of all this?

“Do you still love him now?” Ben asked.

Susan shook her head, "I said it. I had already left it behind."

Ben asked and she answered.

Susan knew that everything she had answered was genuine, and there was no concealment.

She treated Ben with sincerity. But she didn't know if Ben believed her or not.

Ben looked at Susan.

How could one leave a ten-year feeling behind that quickly?

She had liked Timothy for so long. There should be many memories between the two of them.

He was going crazy with jealousy when he saw the hug in the edited video.

But before he knew her, she and Timothy probably had countless hugs.

Ben was going to drive himself crazy just by thinking about it.

Susan bit her lip, "I will not lie that I had liked Timothy before. Things can't be changed. If you think that I don't deserve to be Mrs. Landor, I...

It was hard for Susan to say it word by word.

"Eat." Ben interrupted Susan directly.

Susan stopped talking and ate the food calmly.

Although she couldn't taste anything.

But Ben didn't say stop, so she kept on eating.

Finally, Ben said, "Let's go."

Susan then stopped her chopsticks like a robot obeying orders.

The two of them went home in silence.

"Do you want me to go to the guest room?" Susan asked.

Ben looked at her, his pupils contracting slightly.

It was always like this.

She wanted to escape again.

But he didn't want to let her go.

Ben's voice was cold, "No need."

"Okay." Susan nodded obediently.

She was always this calm. It made the volcano in Ben's heart erupt in that instance.

He suddenly went forward and forced Susan into a corner.

Then, he bent down and bit her lips without warning.

As Ben wished, Susan's mask of calmness was finally torn off.

She widened her eyes. A little frightened, innocent, and confused.

But she didn't push him away.

Ben could taste the blood faintly in his mouth.

Ben let go of Susan and looked at the blood beads on her lips with an eerie expression.

He seemed to be losing his mind.

He wanted to lick Susan's blood. He even wanted to devour her.

Or maybe he was a lunatic the whole time.

It was just that he had gone entirely mad now.

"You..." Susan pursed her lips and looked at Ben with a complicated expression.

Ben stretched out his hand and tapped the blood on her lips. He then said slowly, "Susan. It was you who married

1. me. It was you who promised that you would try to be a real couple with me."

"Adults have to pay the price for any decisions they more, nyn were throbbing ferociously like a ghost.

H

Yes.” Susan said after a long time.

I

Ben raised her chin gently, “What if I say I want to have sex with you right now?”

Susan’s eyelashes quivered slightly

Then, she closed her eyes.

The moonlight shone on her milky white face, making it colder.

She just closed her eyes and raised her head.

It seemed to mean that she let Ben do whatever he wanted.

Ben’s heart was warmed slightly,

Then, he kissed her again.

He picked her up and threw her into the bed, getting on top of her.

Susan was still closing her eyes.

But her trembling eyelashes proved that she was not as calm as she appeared to be.

Ben raised his hand and put it on the buttons of her clothes.

Susan's body suddenly shook violently.

Ben went silent.

She... was scared.

She was afraid of him.

Would she still be afraid if it was Timothy?

Without a second thought, Ben asked, "Have Timothy ever undressed you?"

Susan suddenly opened her eyes.

Ben saw the rage in her eyes.

She raised her hand and slapped Ben hard across the face.

Ben didn't dodge. He didn't even have an expression at all.

"Get out." Susan said in tremble.

Ben then turned around and left the room without hesitation

Susan looked at his figure. She covered her face and cried.

In the study room.

Ben sat alone

He kept recalling the angry look in Susan's eyes.

She was angry.

Was she guilt-ridden or simply angry?

He took the Love Magic Code and started reading it carefully.

But after reading the whole book, he still couldn't find the answer.

He had done so many questions and read so many books. But in the end, he still couldn't understand a woman.

He didn't know if what Susan said about letting go was true or not.

But he thought, "Even if she was lying to me.

"Since she is willing to lie to me. It means that I am different to her after all, right?

"As long as Susan is willing to lie to me for the rest of her life, it can be real.

"Even if Susan chose to be with him for something else. But as long as he remains powerful and wealthy, he will still be able to keep her by his side for the rest of her life, right?"

At that moment, Ben's phone vibrated.

He could tell that it was an email.

He opened it. There was a text file inside.

It was from Yana.

"Mr. Landor! Did my sister tell you that she never liked Timothy before? She lied! If you don't believe me, look at these diaries! If you still don't believe me, I still have the original diary here. I can send it to you!" Yana said.

Judging people in her way, she felt that Susan would not admit it. If Ben saw these diaries, he would know that Susan had been lying to him!

Ben narrowed his eyes. He placed his finger gently on the document.

Should he open it?

Chapter 69

A voice said to him, "Open it, just open it and see, it's nothing."

Another voice said to him, "Don't open it. Since you had already decided not to care about Susan's past, looking at it would only create troubles for yourself,"

Slap!

Ben turned off his phone with slight annoyance.

Ten minutes later.

Ben looked at the document seriously.

He told himself that he didn't insist on investigating Susan's past.

He just wanted to get to know her.

Yeah, simply get to know her.

The document that Yana sent was Susan's diary.

The diary's period was prolonged. It started when Susan was in high school and it ended last year.

Obviously, she had always had a habit of keeping a diary.

Yana had put in a lot of effort.

She typed it into the document bit by bit with such a long diary.

Who knew how much she hated Susan.

"September 1. Sunny.

"Today was the first day of school. I saw a very good-looking boy. He was wearing a white shirt and I felt like he was glowing. The most fortunate thing was that he was my classmate. He sits in front of me!"

Ben's face darkened.

Good-looking!

White shirt!

Excuse him, what was the use of boys looking good?

What was the point of a white shirt?

Although Susan had never commented on his appearance.

But in fact, she was a person who looked at appearance?

Ben touched the blemished scar on his face and suddenly hesitated.

If he didn't have these scars, he probably would have been good-looking too?

Maybe this woman, Susan, would fall in love with him?

Ben took a deep breath, suppressed this urge. He continued to read it.

“October 3rd. He talked to me. He had such a pleasant voice. Moreover, his grades were good. He was in first place in the monthly exam. He was 30 points ahead of second-place! This is probably the so-called genius!”

Ben was speechless.

How was this genius!

He had never been anything aside from first place when he was in school!

He usually was ahead with 100 points, no, 500 points!

Susan was really girlish at that time.

Nine of the ten diaries were related to Timothy.

Timothy didn't look well today."

"Timothy suddenly changed into a green shirt today."

"Timothy got a five point demerit in the math exam. He was upset that he didn't speak for a period of class."

So many things.

Timothy had almost become everything in her life.

Ben's jealousy in his heart was ultimately overturned.

He wanted to grab Susan by the clothes and shake the water out of her head!

What was there to like about such a slutty bag in a white shirt, huh?

Only people like him who wore black and gray clothes were mature, stable and reliable!

Ben was jealous but still continued to read it.

At first, he was purely jealous. He wanted to destroy Timothy inhumanely.

But as he kept on looking at it....

He was inexplicably a little upset.

Susan... She really liked Timothy very much.

Because Timothy liked to wear white shirts, she secretly wore a white skirt. She then secretly giggled, thinking they were wearing a couple's clothing.

Because Timothy was good at science, she tried hard to work in science. Finally, once again, she was lucky enough to get a score higher than Timothy in math. That time, Timothy looked at her for the first time. She was happy for three days.

Because Timothy used to drink milk between classes, she brought a bottle of milk every day. It was as if they had a common interest then.

So many things that were related.

Timothy utterly took over all the joys and sorrows of her youth.

Ben's heart was filled with jealousy. But he could imagine a young Susan based on the diary.

After that, he was inexplicably distressed again.

Loving someone but not getting a response back was the hardest in a relationship.

He liked Susan, but she didn't like him. He was going to go crazy in just a few days of this experience.

But Susan had been like this for ten years.

When she finally gave up everything, Timothy still chose Yana.

How disappointed could she have been?

The light flickered. Ben went silent, flipping through the pages one by one.

Ten years of diary combined together, and it was a medium-length novel.

Ben read it carefully, almost word by word.

Finally, he finished reading the entire document.

Ben's expression was a little complicated.

He felt that he was a masochist!

Why did he look so seriously at Susan's affection and enthusiasm for another man?

Was he out of his mind?

The most frightening thing was,

After reading it, he couldn't even get angry.

He was even worried about her.

Damn it, he was so useless.

Ben's expression changed for a while.

Soon, the sun started to rise.

Can't be blamed for this. After all, I showed Ben said to himself, "Forget it. Susan innocent and pure girl back then, that's why Timothy will inevitably deceive her."

up too late. Susan

was such an

But now, when Susan met him, she must have already known how blind she used to be.

Even if Susan couldn't completely let go on short notice,

Timothy and Susan would never have a future again.

He still had a lot of things he could do with Susan slowly but surely.

In that case, what was he afraid of?

Heh. What was so good about that white shirt, faint bangs and sunshine smell?

What was there to like about this absurd look?

He, Ben Landor, would not be dressed like this even if he died.

“Mr. Landor, Mr. Landor saw that the lights in your study were still on and urged you to go and rest quickly.” A servant entered cautiously.

Ben raised his eyebrows, “No need. I’ll go directly to the company later.”

He suddenly said to the servant.

“Get me a white shirt.”

The servant was speechless.

“Is there a problem?” Ben frowned.

The servant said hurriedly, “But Mr. Landor, there has never been a white shirt in your

Not only a white shirt but there also wasn’t anything with a hint of white here.

Ben’s wardrobe was either black or gray. It was all in a gloomy hue.

“Go and buy it.” Ben said.

closet.”

Although the servant didn’t know why Mr. Landor wanted to wear a white shirt all of the sudden, the servant still complied.

The servant was about to leave when Ben suddenly called out, "Wait a minute."

The servant hurriedly stopped.

Ben said, "Go and find a hairstylist. I want those who know how to cut bangs."

The servant asked quickly, "Is it for Mrs. Landor? I'll go right away."

Ben glanced at the servant and said, "It's for me."

The servant was lost for words.

Mr. Landor... wanted to change his hairstyle....

The hairstyle might even have bangs....

The servant felt as her steps were floating.

Chapter 70

For the whole night, Susan tossed and turned, unable to sleep soundly.

It was summer, and the air conditioner in the room wasn't on, but it was strange that she felt cold all over.

She saw a figure as warm as the scorching sun peering at her with a smile.

She involuntarily wanted to get close to him.

Later, however, the figure kicked her into the ice water.

Before she was drowned in the water, Susan heard the figure say, "Susan Miller, you don't deserve it."

Susan abruptly woke from her dream with a start.

She sat on the bed, still in a daze.

After a long while, she let out a bitter laugh.

She thought to herself, "That's right. I don't deserve it.

It's only natural for Ben to be angry about something like that.

But I used to have a crush on Timothy for ten years. No one can change this fact, including me, although it was all in the past

Who can say that Ben shouldn't if he does care?

After all, few men can accept that their wives have had feelings for another man for so long, not to mention that he is the powerful Ben."

Susan was lost in thought for a long time before she slowly got washed up and went downstairs.

In the living room, Ben pretended to read the newspaper in her hands.

He had specially changed into a white shirt and a white sports suit and had even changed his hairstyle into a handsome one with bangs.

Susan had mentioned in her diary that she loved Timothy with such a look the most.

Ben thought, "Heh, what a naive girl!"

But what can I do?

I have to dote on her no matter how awful her taste is."

Ben pricked up his ears for the sounds on the stairs as he read the newspaper.

Suddenly, he heard some noise from the stairs.

Ben curved his lips into a smile and turned around with his perfect look..

However, all he saw was Charlie's shocked face.

"Oh, it's Grandpa."

Ben thought as he turned his head back, expressionless.

Old Mr. Landor strode over with astonishment and asked, "You..."

Ben replied calmly, "I changed my look. What's wrong?"

Looking at the bangs that hung over Ben's forehead, Old Mr. Landor had an impulse to laugh.

He could only close his lips tightly, forcing himself to hold back his laughter.

Ben was baffled by Charlie's twitching body.

While Charlie was snickering, he saw Ben's confused eyes.

Charlie covered his stomach at once, trying to gloss it over. 'Nothing. I just suddenly had a stomachache.' With that, he walked away.

Ben didn't know what to say and only thought, "Is it necessary to act like this?"

He lowered his head and continued reading the newspaper.

After a while, he heard footsteps again.

Ben didn't smile charmingly this time. He remembered that it had been written in the diary that Timothy was quite distant.

Therefore, Ben turned around expressionlessly.

Penelope Landor was caught off guard by Ben's stunning appearance.

"What... what the hell?" Penelope couldn't help but exclaim.

It was still not Susan.

Ben looked away in boredom..

Ben's abnormal look today struck Penelope as odd.

She trotted over to Charlie and sat down beside him..

"Dad, Ben..."

Charlie coughed twice and said with a calm face, "He just changed his look. Stop fussing."

words will be more convincing.

A few minutes later, footsteps sounded again.

Ben thought it must be Susan this time.

Ben smiled and turned around calmly.

He thought he must have scared Susan when he lost his temper last night.

As a proud man, he felt a little embarrassed to apologize to Susan directly.

He felt Susan should know he wanted to make peace with her when she saw his outfit.

After all, he had decked himself out in the way that Susan loved the most.

This time, it was indeed Susan who came downstairs.

Susan looked at Ben.

Ben also looked at Susan.

Their eyes met.

Susan didn't look away for a long time.

Seeing this, Ben was complacent.

He spoke to himself inwardly, "Sure enough, Susan likes this style.

Even though I have a scar on my face now, Susan still stares at me with blinking eyes.

Timothy Leen had an advantage just because he met Susan earlier."

Ben straightened his back and swore that he would win Susan's heart with his striking appearance.

Susan was indeed dumbfounded.

She remembered a meme that a proud llama stood upright with its chin slightly raised and a strand of bangs.

There was usually text on the meme that went: King's disdain.

She felt Ben looked exactly like this meme.

Initially, Susan didn't know how to face Ben.

However, she had completely forgotten about such uneasiness when she was face to face with Ben.

She quickly lowered her head and quivered like Charlie.

Ben was speechless.

He thought, "It's the first time that I know my family is in such poor health.

Their bodies twitch like this. I should probably find a physician to treat them!"

Ben took a deep breath and asked coldly, "Breakfast?"

After shivering for a long while, Susan finally realized that Ben was talking to her, so she could only restrain herself and nodded in reply.

The atmosphere at the dining table was very strange.

In addition to the friction sounds of flatware, there would be a few suppressed giggles from time to time.

Ben was perplexed.

He wondered, "What's wrong?"

I just changed my clothes and hairstyle.

Come on.

What's so funny?"

In the car, Ben couldn't help but ask Susan, "How do you feel about my new look?"

Hearing Ben's question, Susan could barely hold back her laughter.

She tried her best to keep a straight face and replied slowly, "It makes you look more lively."

Susan sat upright and seemed to be very nervous.

Ben immediately understood.

He thought Susan was bashful.

Therefore, he considered the modification in his look to be very effective.

Ben curved his lips into a faint smile and continued to ask, "What else?"

Susan refrained from laughing and continued, "You look even more handsome!"

Ben felt extremely pleased with her reply. "Continue."

Susan racked her brains and said, "This hairstyle is wild but neat, and rebellious but elegant at the same time. It's perfect for you, Mr. Landor."

"Oh?" Ben smiled. "Then take a look at this white shirt."

Susan looked at Ben's white outfit and responded with a serious face, "With your white clothes, you are like an angel, Prince Charming. No one in this whole world can be more handsome than you."

An angel and Prince Charming.

Ben blushed at Susan's flattery.

He glanced at his reflection in the interior mirror of the car and couldn't help sighing.

In truth, he was not accustomed to this new look.

However, Susan liked it, so he could only indulge her.

Thus, Ben uttered unhurriedly, "I'll keep this look from today on."

He felt this was a big sacrifice he had made for Susan.

He hoped that Susan could understand the thought of him making peace.

Susan was speechless.

She questioned in her heart, "What have I done wrong? Why is Ben torturing me like this?"
