

Cursed 1061

Chapter 1061 Rufus Was Injured

Crystal's POV:

The vampire moved swiftly and I followed closely behind him. His body slithered as quickly as a black shadow. He briskly entered a forest, rushing into the dense woods.

Title of the document was dropping. The vampire ran through the trees, and soon disappeared under the cover of covered in a thick layer of miasma, and the branches of the trees were connected to each other. They looked as if they had eyes, scrutinizing the people passing by the misty miasma. I felt as if I was going to lose all sense of me. As I got closer, I realized they were several corpses that were strewn about on the fallen leaves. I crouched down and turned over one body that had been face-down, wanting to get a look at his face. I spotted two huge bloody holes in ground heavily. Blair was right. The vampires had managed to sneak into the imperial city. I of uneasiness intensified. Although Rufus had brought a huge platoon of soldiers with him and they were stronger than the spearhead army, I was still eager to locate become. Once darkness fell, the vampires' walked farther into the forest, heart clenched painfully, and I picked up my pace.

was fighting a group of vampires with his men. I could only see that a fierce battle was underway from the distance, but they kept moving around,

Chapter 1062 Falling Off The Cliff

Crystal's POV:

In just a short amount of time, the situation became increasingly grave. Rufus' mobility was severely hampered, while the two vampires who were attacking him were only marginally injured. They not only had extraordinary strength, but also displayed excellent teamwork, as if they had received extended training to fight against Rufus.

Title of the document

around his chest was now stained with blood. The two vampires seemed to mockingly said, "I didn't expect the strongest werewolf leader to experience such a wretched day. I think I'll give you a decent death and transform you. What do you think? It will be interesting to turn the lycan king into a vampire." With a thunderous expression, Rufus remained silent and extended to get closer to Rufus. They synchronized their movements efficiently. It was clear that they wanted to force was falling rapidly. The wound on Rufus' chest had probably popped open again from the vigorous movement, and blood gushed out, rushed to the trees closest to Rufus, racking my brain for a solution. I couldn't go any closer to him. If I did, my scent would reach him and he would discover I was around, which was the situation I couldn't very well explain my anxiety so high that beads of sweat popped up on my forehead. Rufus was in a very bad state and wouldn't be able to hold on much longer. The vampires were unrestrained and of them, so I had to conceal myself behind the tree and secretly mobilize my black witch their movements. However, Rufus noticed this as well. He spun around and shouted in the direction I was hiding, "Who is reaction aided in saving me from being discovered, but he kept in the forest shrouded my figure at this point. The battle between the vampires and werewolves had created various stench

Chapter 1063 Treatment

Crystal's POV:

I looked down the moment I jumped off the cliff and felt somehow relieved. Fortunately, a lake was waiting for us down there. I didn't know how deep it was, but I figured it was better than literally falling into pieces.

Title of the document

I reached out, hoping to grab the corner of Rufus' clothes, but he fell so fast before I even got to prepare myself. I wasn't ready to take the leap. Rufus came into contact with the water with a loud splash and immediately passed out. He was unconscious as he sank.

I took a deep breath. It was now or never. I then landed into the lake as well and felt the water around me move away in a huge splash before engulfing me once again.

couldn't help

for Rufus' sinking body. When I spotted him, I swam toward him and tugged him by The blood that gushed from his chest wound was immediately diluted by the lake water,

I panicked right now. I tightly took a grip of Rufus' clothes, pressed the weeds. I was now anchored to the bottom with an unconscious Rufus. I struggled

I scored the lowest in that department. Still, that was then and this was head against the water, held my last breath, and pulled myself down to free my feet from the clutch of the weeds. It was not until I felt dizzy that I managed to successfully break free. Pushing myself to survival, I jumped out of the water with Rufus just in time before I expended the remaining bits of my oxygen supply. I wheezed, while dragging Rufus that, his breathing waste, I carried him that would ensure our safety. The buzz the forest created one after another resonated. It was as if the source of those hums hurt that his body couldn't handle violent jolts. We were both wet from the fall, and if I didn't tend to him right away, his condition might worsen. I needed to quickly find a place to after walking about a mile, I happy that the fatigue that was taking its toll on me dissipated. I took Rufus

Chapter 1064 Crazy In The Cave

Crystal's POV:

After licking, Rufus' wounds showed signs of faster healing; the lesions stopped bleeding and were eventually closing. I rose to get some water, but Rufus, despite being unconscious, managed to slink his hand to my wrist, pulling me back. He muttered something under his breath, and then reached for the back of my head, yanking me for a kiss on the lips.

Title of the document

I was wide-eyed, stunned by what he did. I wondered what was going on.

Rufus' kiss was becoming wilder. His kisses were beginning to asphyxiate me, and I was becoming numb. But he was unyielding.

I groaned and tried to push Rufus away, but he was undeniably much stronger than me. He turned over, and now he was on top of me, pressing me on the ground as he intended to continue kissing me. To my horror, I found that his eyes were open, sternly fixed on me.

a moment, I froze. I fumbled for a down and relieved he seemed to be was slowly dawning on me. I totally forgot about how the saliva of a werewolf could prompt their mate's arms around Rufus' waist. Since I couldn't escape just yet, my coat and bound Rufus' eyes with it, and then hugged him actions amidst the stupor he was in. Eventually, he stripped off his clothes and held me against his body. He moaned, and all the way up until it reached the vertex between my legs.

together as I grabbed Rufus' wrist to remind me of the disparity in our strengths, he didn't break a sweat in shoving my hand away. Persistent, his slender fingers skillfully slid into my opening. While reacted, arching and aching to feel the warmth from his manhood. Delicate gasps came flowing out of my mouth. Rufus' fingers were like pistons in my honeypot against the lube my canal had produced. Hearing the rhythmic waited not a second longer for me to recover my strength. I took a deep breath as courage took charge of my spinning mind. I turned us over, and it was now my turn pinning him on the ground. I crashed my lips against his, kissing him fervently. I positioned myself, leveling his crotch his monstrosity, I felt myself cum. As I teased myself, I realized something. Never before had I felt emptier his glands. Shifting my buttocks, I let myself get into a comfortable position as my at the back of my head. That contact alone sent me for a trip to a sinfully heavenly paradise. It had been so long since I had last done this, so I found the first invasion uncomfortable. Although my cunt was dripping wet from my previous release, it did little in helping me accommodate all of Rufus. His thing was

Chapter 1065 He Was Blindfolded

Crystal's POV:

Rufus was blindfolded. Although he was only driven by instincts, he still continued filling me to the brim. At this moment, he appeared to be oblivious to the wound on his chest. He grabbed my waist and pinned it firmly, thrusting into my core so wildly.

Title of the document

The intense passion and desire eroded and burned us.

Rufus then gently pressed me under his body, knelt on his knee on the cold ground, and shrugged his buttocks as he moved in and out of my body slowly. His slow speed couldn't satisfy the void in between my legs. I was itching for more and hoped that he would ravage me as much as he could.

"Faster... Ah, it feels so good!"

wrapped my arms around his

He then bent his head and and the crisp sound of our flesh rubbing against each other.

my buttocks so that he could insert more so intense that I hooked my legs tightly around his waist, slipped into my mouth, entangling with mine. It was like he was down my legs, Rufus thrust earlobe and neck. With his arms wrapped around me so tight, he sprinted madly, letting felt tears well up at the corners of my eyes. My entire body ached from excitement. Even when I desperately tried to hold on to Rufus, I was only couldn't help big... hmmm... so deep!" I moaned so loud, not afraid to let him know that I liked what he was doing to me. Seconds later, I at the coast, the pleasure washed over me and made me want to stay face up forever. I fact that he was damp from his leaned against him and tried to touch his handsome face with the tip of my tongue. The salty sweat mixed with our lust

Chapter 1066 A High Fever

Crystal's POV:

When the s*x was over, Rufus embraced me and fell back asleep. I reached out and gently felt his forehead. It wasn't as hot as before. It looked like licking was quite helpful. How fortunate that we hadn't dissolved our bond as mates yet. Even if I wanted to, I couldn't just sever it without Rufus' consent. And I knew that he would never agree to do so, especially not under the circumstances.

Title of the document

helped him lie back and covered his body with his coat. I spent a few moments staring at his beautiful face, and before I knew it, I was kissing him. I poured you again, my love, after five long years," I murmured as I pressed my everything would get back to its proper track. I would have to continue pretending that I didn't sat up. My body felt sore all over, but I endured the discomfort as I put on my clothes.

the cave, blanketing the immediate surroundings. I couldn't even see the top of the mountain through the mist. It was a good thing that Rufus and I had fallen the current, which led to a smooth path downstream. On the other side of the water was a dense forest. Without a moment's hesitation, I took off my shoes and swam across the exotic plants. Some of them, I had never seen before.

a handful of them, and gathered a few fruits as well. On my way back, I stumbled across a patch of edible wild stones, and then proceeded to mash the herbs into a paste. This was generously applied to Rufus' wounds. I didn't have any bandages with remaining strips of cloth and soaked them in the small lake just beside the relieved at this small semblance of normalcy. But then I remembered the black thorns. After making sure that Rufus was still fast asleep,

Chapter 1067 Done For

Crystal's POV:

Rufus was still deep in slumber by the time his temperature returned to normal. Then he began to talk in his sleep. I drew even closer to him, but I couldn't make out the words clearly. I thought I heard him say, "Who are you?"

Title of the document

I touched his forehead to make sure that he wasn't incurring another fever.

Rufus dreaming of you?" Yana asked dreams of me, it would back. There were several more scars I hadn't seen before. What the hell had his back and gently traced them with for Rufus and our children to always be healthy and safe. But now, it seemed that Rufus' position as the supreme leader of the werewolf race didn't tried to calm myself and got up to prepare something to eat. Since Rufus still hadn't fully recovered yet, I left my clothes on his body. No one and found an ideal piece of stone. With a bit of witchcraft, I smoothed its surface and created a deep pit at the center. Now I had a stone then fetched some water and set it on the pot. I put the fish in first, and then added the mushrooms. The mountain spring water was cool and sweet, adding cave was filled with the aroma of food. I sneaked another bout of magic and made myself a wooden spoon to then followed it up with a few of the sweet wind outside howled louder as I finished my meager meal. I collected the dry straw scattered at the entrance

I sat next to him and dozed off. The next thing

Chapter 1068 Rescue Team

Crystal's POV:

I froze in place, terrified that Rufus had finally woken up. A few seconds passed. I slowly turned around, only to find him still unconscious. Rufus had simply been talking in his sleep.

Title of the document

I breathed a sigh of relief, though I did not dare to stay in the cave for a moment longer. I yanked my hand free from Rufus' grip, and then sprinted away as fast as I could.

I didn't even chance a backward glance. Rufus had a keen sense of his surroundings. I needed to put some distance between us, or he would immediately track me down using my scent.

my naked body and felt my face known this would happen, I would have left at least my undershirt on.

I heard the sound of voices and footsteps coming from the woods. I quickly turned into my wolf form and hid in the thickets to see who it was. They were soldiers, a lot of them, presumably here to search for

Now that Rufus' men were here to rescue him, I could be at ease. However, the cave was still a ways to go, and there were stepped on the leaves, deliberately making noise to soldiers looked around, been a squirrel," his comrade replied. "Come on, we must hurry track leading to the cave, and the vicinity was pretty remote even inside the forest, so none of the soldiers who I presumed to be the head of the troops. He was wearing a gray and blue uniform, which was unique and different from the others'. The man picked up the branch and looked in my direction. I revealed my tail, pretending to be a forest critter, before disappearing back my utter dismay, no one came to the spot where I had left them, they were bunch howl, and then used witchcraft to

Chapter 1069 The Situation In The City

Crystal's POV:

After guiding the soldiers to the cave where Rufus was, I returned to the Cherry Bay Pack. I slipped into a hunter's house in the suburbs and stole some clothes. After I put them on, I made my way to the city to check the current situation.

Title of the document

Two more guards were stationed at the city gate. They treated me more strictly than when I'd come here during the day. They wanted to see something that could prove my identity.

my ID card in my

the guard an awkward smile and said, "Sorry, walked away, heading in the direction of the back entrance of the city. There was a crack on the wall I

The city was still brightly lit, and the streets were filled with patrolling phone booth me. How is the situation now? Where is Rufus? I received information that the Alpha back to the imperial capital shortly," I reported concisely to Laura. She exclaimed in anguish when she heard that her son was injured. "Where did Rufus get he was already doing poorly. Fortunately, as his mate, I could at least help heal his wounds, ensuring his condition didn't decline. However, his exact state is yet to be determined. He will hurt my son! I more, the annoying vampires were responsible for this attack. Laura was so enraged that she yelled about making Hubson pay for this. She ranted on the phone for ten minutes, and finally disconnected

Chapter 1070 Adela Saved Him

Crystal's POV:

I remained among the crowd, awaiting word for Rufus'. If Rufus was returning to the imperial capital, as everyone had said, he would have to travel through here.

Title of the document

It was around dawn when I caught a glimpse of a convoy of cars making their way towards the city walls. It was Rufus' convoy.

Roughly twenty or thirty military vehicles led the way, covering and shielding the three black off-road vehicles in the center. I squeezed through the crowd and made my way to the front. Immediately, I spotted Rufus' car. There seemed to be someone else in it with him. I frowned and wished I could get a better look, but the car had already driven off.

The person must be one of Rufus' subordinates. I rubbed my head and tried not to think too much into it. Then I tailed the convoy and headed back to the imperial capital.

quickly out of sight. But to my luck, I spotted a beat-up motorcycle on the side of the road and rode it all the way back. When I my way to the lycan king's palace but didn't

"How is the king?"

is fine. The doctor said that he would recover after a period of good of relief and bid goodbye

I could even turn around, he stopped me and asked enthusiastically, "Alpha, you're leaving already? Don't you need me to go inside and to inform Laura and the others. There was no need for me to see them unless it was absolutely necessary. To be honest, I wasn't even sure whether Rufus had noticed me when he scratched his head in confusion. "So you just came here to if I didn't care. Meanwhile, my eyes kept wandering to the door of the palace. Even though I knew really difficult to talking enthusiastically. They spoke of a she- as excitement. I was terrified that Rufus would find out it was me. But at the same time, I didn't want him to know anything, I still couldn't help but expect him to Rufus, I had always felt like a wretched creature hiding in the dark,