Chapter 471 Preys That Could Not Escape

Sylvia's POV:

I was startled for a moment. Then, I grew angry.

Title of the document

I didn't know what kind of deal Geoffrey had made with the vampires. He had not only broken the law but also disregarded the lives of the werewolves by letting the vampires enter the pack.

Therefore, on this day, every month, was a feast for the vampires. They rampaged through the city and preyed on the werewolves. This was the rule Geoffrey had talked about earlier.

I jumped out of the sewer without hesitation.

At that moment, a she-wolf with tousled hair ran toward me, her face pale with dread. Thinking I was a werewolf outside the wall, she pulled me aside. "Run! Otherwise, you'll d*ie."

Chapter 474 Survival of The Fittest

Sylvia's POV:

"Werewolves outside the wall are born as prey. Our lives are destined to be traded to benefit the privileged. You asked me that night in the sewer why I didn't escape. Remember?" Felix looked up at me, tears streaming down his cheeks. "Do you understand it now? No one can escape. This is a cage, and countless invisible shackles bind us until the day we die."

Chapter 475 A Cruel Game

Sylvia’s POV:

“The harsh living environment outside the wall has made it a dangerous place that even criminals try their best to avoid. Felons would rather commit suicide in prison than live outside the wall. Although death was inevitable, anyone would choose a less painful way of dying. But Geoffrey won’t let those criminals get away with it. After all, their death in prison wouldn’t benefit anyone, so he uses them to feed the vampires.” Felix looked up at me. “To those werewolves living inside the wall, the world outside is a hell-hole. There is no denying it. This is indeed a hell-hole.”

Chapter 476 Exposed

Rufus’ POV:

As soon as I knew about the hunting from the vampire slave, I ordered her to M0@n with pleasure so that it wouldn’t garner suspicion. Although I had driven the guards who had brought the slave here, I knew Geoffrey might have other spies. We had to make them believe we were having s*x in the room.

The slave didn't dare to disobey my order. She squatted in the corner of the bed and began M0@ning. She couldn't speak, so she could only M0@n and gr0@n as if she were having a good time.

I didn't bother staying longer. I turned into a wolf and jumped down from the balcony. There were two guards at the front door of the villa. I avoided them and climbed over the wall to look for Flora.

The place Geoffrey had arranged for them was close by. I got there in a few minutes. To my surprise, I found Warren squatting outside Flora's room.

Chapter 477 Seeing Is Not Believing

Sylvia's POV:

As per my agreement with Felix, I couldn't get back inside the wall until I heard the bell ring at five o'clock, which indicated the end of the hunting.

So, I decided to use this time to save some werewolves, knocking several vampires out one after another.

I wanted to get to the point and K*ll these vampires, but in order not to cause Felix any trouble, I managed to restrain myself. It was just a few hours, but it felt as though an eternity passed.

I had no idea what sort of danger Sylvia faced outside the wall. While I wanted to go help her as soon as possible, the damned Geoffrey got in my way. The growing anxiety in my heart made me want to K*ll him on the spot.
