

Cursed 631

Chapter 631 Strong-willed Women

Rufus' POV:

I was at a complete loss. I had grown to be independent and thus didn't know what to do now that someone actually cared about me.

Title of the document

I held my mother in my arms and clumsily patted her back to comfort her. "Mother, please don't blame yourself. It's no one's fault. Although it's true that I've suffered from this curse, it also led me to meet the love of my life."

say anything, but her body was trembling.

you to take care of yourself. The curse will be told her about how we had found a potential solution to remove the curse.

time. Then she gently pulled away from me, wiped her tears with a handkerchief, and took deep breaths to calm mother and I hadn't talked to each other like this in a very if you don't like this place, you don't have to keep fighting anymore. Go and do whatever you want. It's enough that I have to be trapped in this place, but you still have the royal family, whether touched and couldn't help but sob again. "Rufus, I'm sorry. I know I've pressured you a lot over add more stress to yourself. Excessive anxiety will worsen at me hesitantly. "Do you really think so, Mother." I smiled at Then she mentioned Sylvia. "After spending time with your mate today, I've found that she is indeed a nice girl. I won't interfere in

Chapter 632 A Press Conference

Sylvia's POV:

While I waited for Rufus, I sat in the lobby downstairs. The maid was just about to bring me my third cup of coffee when Rufus finally came.

Title of the document

I quickly stood up and trotted over to him. "How's your mother? Was she able to calm down?"

"She took her medicine and fell asleep. And yes, she calmed down a lot." Rufus took my hand and we headed out together.

heaved a sigh of

Let's see my because of the issue with the post on the Internet. The ministers standing in front of him all had their heads lowered in fear, and nobody dared to speak. When we came in, the ministers grabbed Rufus' hands as if they had met their talk to the lycan king. He wants to cut off and reset the network of the empire, which means erasing all traces on the Internet today. Not only is it a huge project, but it's also an invasion of the privacy of the public. It will inevitably cause adverse reactions." The one speaking was probably the director shoulder and said reassuringly, "You can all go now. I need to speak with the ministers filed out of the room. Soon, only Ethan, Rufus, and I were left. Ethan put down his glasses, asked us to sit down, and waved at his attendants punished Richard by grounding him. I offer my apologies on his behalf," Ethan said to

I don't want to care about Richard. Now I just want stressed, rubbing the spot between his eyebrows intermittently. "This matter is explosive. The only solution is to can't keep it a secret forever. It's better not to respond than to deny, but neither is it hand nervously and asked, that the

Chapter 633 The Live Broadcast

Richard's POV:

I paced back and forth in my palace and cursed countless times but was only ever met with cold silence. The more I thought about it, the angrier I got. I felt wronged. My whole body was about to explode from rage. Everyone thought I was the one who posted about the witch's curse on Rufus, but I was innocent.

Title of the document

Since Rufus couldn't have children, he couldn't inherit the throne. I gained nothing if I smeared his public image. In fact, doing so was stupid.

Besides, the lycan king had been keeping an eye on me. I couldn't play any tricks now.

Lucy's belly. Once the bastard was born, I let him know that it was a bastard for the time being, because the only reason why he was protecting me now was so that I could raise the child my survival depended on Rufus on the Internet again. Damn it! Who the an unknown pack—so, presumably, it Truth be told, it made me feel a little happy. Although Rufus, but it further down my phone and continued to pace back and forbidden anyone to serve me while I was put under head and patted the wall idly. There was no one from time to time. Now I didn't even have a place to vent my deliver some good news. As expected, an excited voice sounded from the other end of the

It will be broadcasted on the Empire News channel gossip, but I didn't expect that there would be a formal press conference. I turned on the TV and switched to the right channel. The

Chapter 634 A Mysterious Text

Richard's POV:

My first reaction was that of disbelief. Rufus had to be lying, right?

Title of the document

There was no way Noreen's curse could be solved so easily. Besides, the black witch had vanished years ago. How could Rufus have found her all of a sudden?

shared covered nearly the moon night the comments section went ballistic again. I got flustered as well as soon as I heard that. What was Rufus thinking? If he went berserk on camera for all of the empire injure or even K*ll someone. If that was the case, then Rufus wouldn't even be able to keep his status as eyes weren't deceiving me, there even seemed to be a slight smile at did anything without absolute certainty. Since he dared make such a bold announcement in front of the whole empire, it meant that he was probably curse, the lycan king would definitely treat him as the first heir to the throne again. By then, the child in Lucy's chance to take the throne. I had planned to seize power after Lucy's child was born and my father had d*ied. But now all my plans be once Rufus ascended to the throne. My brother would definitely kick me out of the imperial capital,

Chapter 635 Military Day

Sylvia's POV:

Although I knew what Rufus was planning, I couldn't help but gulp nervously when he made a promise to the whole empire.

Title of the document

It was only a week before the next full moon night. It had taken Blair a week to wake up, and it might take that long for Rufus to get rid of the curse as well. If something unexpected happened during the week, the consequences would be unimaginable.

I sat behind the camera, lost in my thoughts.

After Rufus concluded the broadcast, I dragged him back to his room angrily. "Stay here and don't you dare go anywhere in the next week."

and pulled me close.

blushing furiously. He was such a decent man in front and made me sit next to him on help but worry, Rufus..." I pursed my lips unhappily and my head and murmured, "Leave it to me. I have a him. "But in the next said, "I know, I know. I promise I'll behave in the following seven closer to give him a kiss.

let me go. As a result, we made passionate love the whole night and didn't stop to the army the following morning with dark circles under my eyes. Today was the annual military day, which Harry first. They were cramming a song and dance rehearsal for tonight. In honor of the military day, there would be a bonfire party had been stuck in the imperial palace these days, so the instructor let me go and didn't require

Harry had to play a ballerina prince whereas Flora played a princess who was turned into a a costume, Flora shouted was a rush of music. Harry stepped on the tiptoe, pirouetted in circles, and replied, "Oh! Moon Goddess,

Chapter 636 Locked in The Hall

Sylvia's POV:

I immediately became vigilant, thinking that someone was planning to K*ll me. But no one came to attack me, so I gradually calmed down. I was just locked up in a place where I could be found sooner or later.

Title of the document

After thinking for a while, I started to wonder. Was it just a prank?

for being so stupid. I reached for the doorknob with both hands and pulled as hard as I could, but the door didn't budge. The door was now locked from the outside and couldn't be opened couldn't send out any texts. There seemed to be a jammer installed nearby. Bored, I sat on the chair idly, waiting to be found. Half an hour

"That she-wolf looked like a decent officer, but she tricked you. God! She's really pissing me off!" Yana, who was also bored, began know that Rufus has a meeting today, so he won't find out that I'm in trouble until very eaten breakfast before I came here, so I wasn't going to starve to death. The minutes ticked by and it was soon noon. Everyone was probably taking as I was about to go crazy from boredom, there was a commotion outside the door. It sounded like someone cheered up and rushed to the

It was Rufus!

Without thinking too much, I rapped on approaching until somebody stopped right outside the door. Then there was the sounds of an iron chain being smashed. Rufus' violently for a while here in a hurry without even putting his coat on. With trembling hands placed on my shoulders, he looked me up and

Chapter 637 Destroy All Hope

Sylvia's POV:

Sure enough, by the time Rufus and I burst into his room, our worst fears were confirmed. The potted plant on the bedside table had been smashed, and the blooming flower had been trampled into pieces.

Title of the document

I held the remnants of the flower in my hands carefully and felt my heart shatter. Now that the flower was gone, the curse on Rufus couldn't be removed. My brain was a mess. I had no idea what to do.

her to us. It was the she-wolf who had deceived me earlier. I grabbed her by the shoulders and smiled complacently and said with disdain, "Rufus is a monster. He doesn't deserve to pushed me away and tried to K*ll herself, who's behind this." Rufus watched from aside and felt guilt and despair. If it weren't for me, Rufus wouldn't occupied my heart. I was so stupid! How could I have fallen for such a dumb trick? "Sylvia, find a clean pot and replant the flower. Maybe it can still sniffed and snapped back to reality. Following Yana's instructions, I found a clean pot, tid*ied up the soil and the flower, but the hands into the soil and tears welled up in my eyes. Our last glimmer of hope soil was nourished with Noreen's blood. Perhaps it has other uses." Yana refused to give up and asked me to dig the soil up

I found that the color of the soil had changed down my face uncontrollably. Rufus came back in after he instructed his people to deal with the she-wolf. He was startled when he heard me crying. He knelt down next to breath. I wiped my tears away with

Chapter 638 The Webcast

Richard's POV:

Today was the night of the full moon. I had been watching TV in my room since early in the morning while waiting for the webcast to start.

Title of the document

While I waited, a medium-rare steak and salad had been sent to me from the kitchen. But since they didn't bring me wine to match the steak, I was dissatisfied. The red wine was then sent to me upon request.

I had a hunch that today would be a delightful day.

I was in a good mood, so I composed a piece of piano music and named it "Temptation of Wolf." Then, I uploaded it to my social media account.

long after, I noticed people's comments. They were all criticizing me. Someone stated that my music style was too weird. Another one scolded me one in front of the other. I didn't care what they said. I didn't use my to compose such music was acknowledged by the chief musician of the empire. I actually had planned to be a composer back then, the bottle of wine, on Rufus was a potted plant, I called one of my confidants I had planted in the army a long time ago. She was not only gorgeous but capable at the same time. In order wasn't long until my plan succeeded. I heard they had a huge fight. Sylvia had a breakdown other until death did them part, but it turned out that their love wasn't that strong to begin with. Little did

I deliberately told our father and the queen to an end. Laura ended up hating Sylvia their significant other could only be proved if was grounded, I felt quite content because I could witness all these not allowed to be happy if I was. In fact, I hoped that he would and the webcast began just in webcast whereas Rufus was supposed to show the public his day. Now he was dealing with

Chapter 639 Doomed

Richard's POV:

Rufus was going insane! I rubbed my eyes and watched the TV unblinkingly, afraid that I would miss some wonderful moment.

Title of the document

The comments began to appear even more quickly. "The curse is coming! Rufus is about to go berserk!
Run, everyone!"

"It's the damned curse! Retreat! Retreat!"

frosty expression reminds happen? I'm ready. Come claim that the frightening. I'm out of here. You can tell up my phone and commented, "The curse on Rufus hasn't been removed at all. He to get out of hand, Rufus regained his composure in a flash. He chuckled

What? He said... he was... just joking? Damn it! was so cool and humorous, and they hadn't expected him to fool around like this. I rolled my eyes and flung my phone to Rufus were annoying. I was so enraged that I pulled at my hair and slammed my fist into the wall to vent out my rage. Even the red wine lost its taste at the that I was getting nervous. Rufus was looking very confident. Had he discovered a new way forcing myself to calm down. It wasn't night yet, which was when the curse usually attacked Rufus.

beam of moonlight streamed into the room, reminding me that it was almost looked alright on the live TV. During dinner, he even displayed the antique tableware he had collected in front of everyone. He looked serene and seemed

What had happened?

Chapter 640 What A Good Plan

Rufus' POV:

"Arrest Prince Richard." I ordered my men to capture Richard, who sat there numbly without betraying any emotion.

Title of the document

When my men got closer to him, he abruptly got to his feet and took two steps back. His clothes were wrinkled and stained with splashes of red wine. He looked as if he had just woken up from a drunken slumber.

"You! How can you arrest me?"

his current situation, I scoffed coldly and ordered my with the female officer who had deceived Sylvia and was now covered in blood. Richard looked even more taken aback. He was flustered officer knelt on the floor, her face drenched with tears. She her with disappointment.

everything. I've discovered all your hidden spies, both in the army and the to reality at that moment. He charged at me like an out-of-control hands on his shoulders to control him and replied with a smile, "What did I do to you? I just learned a and behaved so arrogantly. So, I changed my mind. Hidden dangers were just like a disaster that was waiting lying to me! I wondered how anyone could know your situation so precisely.

and frostily said, "The flower was real. It's just that my had felt the dull ache in my head cease suddenly, and even the cruelty buried in the depths of my body had completely disappeared. That was when I guessed that the curse had out about Richard's secret actions, so I pretended to play along and set a