The Cute Baby by Yanxizi chapter 5

Looking at the grievance on Nina's face, Harrison said: "What？Are you wronged？Or was it not enough to lose face？Now that everyone else knows it, how can I be so shameless！Shame on you！Shame on me！"

Harrison scolded angrily, his heavy breath heaving.

It seemed that what happened this time had made him extremely angry.

Susan raised her eyes slightly and saw Nina beside her. She raised the corners of her mouth weirdly, with a gloating and disdainful smile on her face.

"Susan, we were together last night. It's our birthday. The photo is not real. Please explain to Dad."

Nina looked at Susan, expecting her to explain what happened last night.

"Sister, we had a birthday together, but didn't you leave later？I also prepared a birthday surprise for you. You left before attending, and then I left too. I didn't expect you to do that."

Susan frowned and replied, pretending to be innocent.

"Susan, how could you say that？"

Nina asked Susan in shock.

"Sister, I'm sorry. I can't lie to father. I can only tell the truth."

Susan squinted at her father and felt more and more complacent.

"Father, please forgive my sister. She did it on impulse."

Susan raised her eyes to look at her father, Harrison and pretended to apologize to Nina.

"Susan, why did you do this to me?"

Nina glared at Susan who was sitting on the sofa and asked her why she did this to her.

"Sister, what are you talking about? What did I do to you? I just told the truth to my father."

Susan looked at Nina innocently.

Because no one at home believed her.

"Sister, why don't you go home all night? Why do you blame me?"

Susan pouted and approached her mother, Holy, with an aggrieved look on her face.

"Nina, you are my sister. You did something wrong and framed Susan. Shame on you!"

At this time, her mother Holy said. She glanced at Nina.

"Susan is a good girl."

Holy comforted Susan while stroking the hair on her forehead.

Nina looked at Susan with a red face and hated her to the core.

"Susan, you…"

Nina was stopped by her father before he could finish his words.

"Stop!"

Harrison roared angrily.

"Don't get your sister involved in your own fault."

Nina looked at her so-called father angrily and blushed.

"Dad, why? Am I not your biological daughter? Every time, no matter what it is, it's all my fault. No matter in school or life, as long as anything is not as good as you think, you blame me. I never care about myself even if I'm injured. Susan and I are both your daughters. Why didn't you say anything about her when she did something wrong?"

Harrison's eyes widened as if he didn't expect Nina to refute him like this.

"You unfilial daughter! How dare you talk to me like that!"

Then another slap came.

The slap fell in the air.

Nina glared at them and said nothing.

"Go back to my room. Stay in my room these days. Wait for the visa and go abroad!"

Harrison roared angrily.

Then she left angrily.

Then, Susan and her mother Holy also stood up and went back to their room.

The moment she went upstairs, Susan looked back at Nina.

Humph! Did you want to fight with me? You are too young!

Then, a complacent eye glanced at her.

The Butler walked to Nina and looked at her expressionlessly.

"Let's go back to the room."

He said to her indifferently.

Then Nina went back to her room consciously.

Nina sat on the edge of the bed, lost in thought about their attude towards him just now.

In this family, they were both born by the same father and mother, but one lived like a princess, and the other was a servant who was worse than serving the princess with tea and water.

Suddenly, the door was pushed open and Susan came in.

"What are you doing here?"

Nina raised her head and saw Susan coming in. She looked at her coldly.

"Of course I'm here to see how my dear sister is doing."

Susan crossed her arms over her chest and smiled complacently and sarcastically.

"Susan, you've gone too far! Why did you frame me?"

Nina could no longer control her emotions and roared at her.

"What do you think? It must feel good to be beaten by my father, right?"

Susan walked all the way to the front of Nina, with a mocking smile on her face.

"Susan!"

Nina raised her hand and wanted to slap Susan, but she didn't want to catch her.

Susan held her hand tightly and stared at her.

She shook off Nina's hand hard, and Nina fell to the ground.

"Nina, get out of my house if you are sensible. You do not belong here!"

With that, Susan turned around and walked out of the room without looking back.

……

Three days later.

Nina came out of the Ning family with a big suitcase.

Standing in front of the gate of the Ning family, she looked up at the sky, tears streaming back.

This must be the last time she cried for this family.

Maybe it was time to leave here

Then she sat on the back seat.

As soon as Nina got in the car, a black Cadillac slowly drove into the Ning mansion.

The sun shone on the man's delicate face through the window, and his features were carved and incomparably handsome.

The two people paed by each other through the window.

The tears that had not yet disappeared from the corner of Nina's eyes gradually faded away.

In a car.

Gabriel looked at the newspaper in his hand expressionlessly and said to Charles in a flat tone.

"Go downstairs and check if it's the woman in room 6106 last night."

Jacob nodded and said, "OK."

Then she got out of the car quickly and entered the Ning family.

At the international airport.

Looking at everything here, Nina said goodbye in her heart!

The plane flew into the sky and left the city which could not keep Nina.