

Dangerous Desires Novel

Chapter 60

60 News Travel's Fast

Luke.

My feet could not carry me fast enough as I ran to the hospital's reception. I knew I heard people greet me, but I could not stop to answer. My heart was in my mouth. Many things were running through my mind, and the loudest fear was that Tia had somehow been poisoned at the Moon Mansion. I began to regret letting her go there to wait for me. "Alpha," The receptionist said, greeting me. I did not need to speak because she knew why I. was there.

"Your Wife is in the private ward, room six. She is okay, Sir," The receptionist said with a smile, and at that moment, I calmed down. "Who is attending to her?" I asked. "Doctor Genevieve Nelson," she said, and I was grateful they assigned her a female doctor. I moved to the private ward floor and rushed to room six. To my surprise, Tia was sitting in bed with a food tray in front of her. She had her mouth full, looked up at me and smiled. "I can't believe Gail called you," She said with a full mouth, and I walked to her and kissed her forehead, glad that she was alright.

"What did the doctor say?" I asked, and she shrugged her shoulders and swallowed her food.

"She is yet to return with the test result; you should try this Parfait. It is delicious," she said, and I smiled at her, glad she was alive and awake.

The Doctor walked in ten minutes later, smiling at both of us. "Good morning, Alpha," she said with respect. She wasn't greeting me as an heir but as the Alpha. I guess news had gone around about what happened during the battle.

"So, what is the matter with her?" I asked the Doctor nervously, and she smiled at me.

"Luna Tia is three weeks pregnant." She said, and I heard Tia scream. I looked at her, and I knew she was shocked. Obviously, she wasn't expecting it, and it wasn't up to twenty-four hours ago when she said she was ready. Little did we know that she was already pregnant by then.

"Why these symptoms?" I asked the Doctor, and she smiled. "Other than it being normal, stress is a contributing factor. She also did not eat, which added to it." The Doctor said, and I looked at Tia, who was still processing everything, and I was a bit worried that she might not be as ready as she thought. I linked the Doctor to excuse us, and she did.

I moved the food tray away from her lap and held her hand. Gazing into her confused eyes, I tried not to look worried when I asked her.

"Are you sure about this? You do not have to if.." I said, and she shook her head, tears streaming down her eyes.

"Are you crazy? I am overjoyed, Luke," she said, and my heart was filled with joy. I let go of her hands and used my thumb to wipe away her tears.

"Honestly, after my heat period and I didn't get pregnant. I was worried something might be wrong with me. I knew people do not necessarily get pregnant only during their heat, but if they have been trying on normal days and it did not happen, the heat period was a definite answer. I was troubled about it when it did not happen for me, Luke. I did not say anything because I did not want you to be worried. I am happy," she confessed. I was too happy that words could not express what I felt at that moment. I just crashed my lips on hers and kissed her hungrily and deeply. Finally, our family would be complete. I could not wait to welcome our pups into the world. Breaking the kiss, I sat by her on the bed and rested my forehead against hers. "We need to celebrate this," I said, and she smiled and nodded. Soon the Doctor returned. Seeing that we had settled the matter, she dared to speak

"So we will be seeing you every two weeks for your antenatal?" Genevieve asked, and Tia nodded, and she smiled.

"Congratulations," The Doctor said and told us we could leave.

I knew there was much to do, but I could only think about going home and spending the whole day with my wife. I carried her bridal style out of the room. As I walked, people clapped, cheered and congratulated us. This was a big deal for the pack and my family. My heart was filled with love and joy. When we got outside, I realised I had not come into my car and began to laugh.

"Alpha, need a lift?" A man leaving the hospital called out to me, and Tia began to laugh. It was apparent I did not come with my car. I nodded at the guy, carried Tia to his car, put her down, and she entered the back seat while I rode in front.

"What's your name?" I asked the kind man.

"Eric Brighton," he said, and I smiled at him. "I am grateful, Eric," I said, and he smiled at me. "Where to?" He asked.

"Prison," I said, and I knew he was stunned, but that was where my car was. I took out my phone and called Mike to have someone park my car at the gate, letting him know I would soon be there.

We finally got there, and Tia and I thanked him.

My car was parked outside, and Mike was waiting for me.

Tia said hello to Mike and entered the passenger's side of the car. "You left in a rush. Is everything alright?" Mike asked me, looking worried. "Yeah, everything is fine, Mike. I just had to go get Tia from the hospital," I said, and he frowned at me.

"She's fine?" he asked, and I nodded and smiled.

"Fuck Luke! that was fast," he said, realising she was pregnant. "Congrats. Tasha and I will come over tonight. If you are okay with that," he said, and I nodded. "Don't tell Caleb," I told him, and he nodded. "I hope he gets over her soon," Mike said, and I hoped so too "He is getting it," I said, and we shook I told him we would be expecting them tonight and went to the driver's side, got in and drove off. "Prison, Luke?" Tia asked, and I placed my hand on her thigh and squeezed gently. "Had to question those guys. I can't wait for us to get home," I confessed, and she adjusted herself on the seat. + "I can only take so many orgasms, Luke. I have been a good girl lately," she said, and I began to laugh. "Good girls get rewarded too," I said, taking a turn, and she grumbled, but I could smell her in the car. I couldn't wait to get home and make love to her. Tia's phone rang, and she answered it. "Mother," she said, and I realised that the news must have travelled. They did not let us spread the words ourselves. "Thank you, mommy, I know.. He is here. Okay... Love you too...Bye," she said, and I summed

"She says hello and congratulations, " Tia told me, and I smiled. Who would have thought it would happen this uickly. We made love so many ti mes that I could not tell which one did the trick.

"I will get you a dietician," I said to Tia, thinking of the best option for her. I wanted her and the baby to have the best diet. There was no way I was letting her do this alone. Pack matters have to take the back seat now. I have to spend as much time with my wife as possible.

"You should now work from home, Tia. I will ask Gail to forward your work to the house. You can have meetings via conference calls, but I want you at home resting at all times. This is a crucial moment for us, and we have to take care to ensure you carry the baby to term." I said and parked the car in front of our house. The Wilsons were around. Michelle welcomed us the moment we entered the house. 1 . "Thank goddess, you are alright, Alpha," Michelle said, referring to the fight, and I smiled at her.

"Michelle, I need you to get the best dietician for my wife." I said, and she looked at me, confused. The moment I lifted Tia up and decided to carry her up the stairs instead of letting her walk, the woman figured it out. "Congratulations!" she said with so much joy, and Tia and I began to laugh because we both knew we would be getting a lot of that.

I laid her down on the bed and undressed her until she was in her underwear. I did the same too, and I was about to jump in bed with her when I got a call from my father.

"Luke," he said, sounding overjoyed, and I knew someone had told him too. I guess Tia and I would not have privacy anymore. "Is it true? Is she pregnant?" he asked with eagerness, and I sighed.

"Yes," I told him.

"That's my boy!" he said with so much Joy, and I could understand his gratitude. The Moons were relatively small in number. It was just Caleb and me. Maybe Kimberly's and Lisa's children would add to the number, but they were not legitimate children. Although Caleb will have to marry Kimberly once it is proven that the baby is his. I needed Legitimate children as Alpha of the pack. This was a great addition to our family. A legitimate heir.

"I am so happy, Luke. When are you guys coming for us to celebrate?" he asked.

"Not anytime soon, Father. That place is toxic, and Tia needs all the rest and happiness she can get.": I said, and he sighed.

"Please, Luke. Both of you should come for dinner so we can celebrate. This is a huge blessing to this family." he said, and I laughed. "I thought you were all about Elisabeth's child father?" I asked just to poke him a bit.

"That is not true, Luke, and you know. I just would not want a moon to be out there. The child is illegitimate," he said, avoiding using the 'b-word', and I was shocked at my father. "I thought you said he was an heir," I argued, and he sighed. "Honestly, I was worried when Tia didn't conceive after her heat, and besides, I did not mean a Moon heir; I meant if the child had a key mark and it became active in future without you having to pass it to them, then there is nothing we can do about that. That was what I mea but Tia's children are the legitimate Moons and the ones to succeed you. Do not bring up past conversations, Luke. We need to look into the future. This is a big deal for our family, and I want to celebrate it over dinner. I know Tia will birth strong and intelligent pups fit to carry on the legacy of our family. Congratulations, Luke and I will be expecting you tomorrow in the evening." he said and hung up before I could answer him. He had just cornered me into accepting his invitation.

I turned toward Tia, who was on the phone with her father.

"Alright, I will tell him. Love you," she said and hung up.

I raised my eyebrow at her.

"They want us to come over for dinner tonight?" She said, and I sighed. Great, just when I thought we would be cooped up in the house and make love all day and night. We will have to go to Tia's place and then to the Mansion.

I took out my phone and called Mike to explain the situation; we agreed they visit us in three days. I hung up and looked at Tia.

"Who are we to refuse an invite from your parents?" I said, shrugging my shoulders and agreeing to go for dinner, and she laughed. I jumped into bed with her like a teenager and wrapped my arms around her.

Planting a kiss on her neck. She moaned sweetly, and I was ready to please her to the best of my ability. "My darling Tia, I hope you can take the reward I have for you," I whispered into her eyes, and she moaned sweetly."

"Luke..." She moaned, and I licked her earlobe. "I will do all the work, I promise.." I said, and she closed her eyes and tilted her head bright to grant me access.
