

D. School 79

Chapter 79 - Media gathering

“Yo! The court car! Two cars at one time!” In the parking lot of Beijing Normal University, the sharp-eyed students found the two vehicles printed with court court at once. “What’s wrong with our school?”

“It should be a good thing. The two of you seem to be from the technology channel and one from the news channel! It must be the department of our school that has produced great results!”, The student next to him said firmly.

“There are also the People’s Daily and the Youth Daily! Could it be that the winner of this year’s highest science and technology award was announced?” Another student joined the discussion.

“No? This year’s winners are academician Liu and academician Wang. They are from Mizuki and one is from the Southwest United University. They are not our Peking Normal University!” This obviously pays more attention to the news.

“Hey, it was taken by the people of Shuimu University last year. There is no our school again this year. Depressed!” The competition between Shuimu University and Peking University is ubiquitous.

“What’s the matter? Wasn’t the two winners both of us the previous year? Besides, Academician Liu is also an adjunct professor in our school!” Some people said disapprovingly.

“Come on, haven’t you seen the youth newspaper’s car over there? Think about the people you said aren’t they old? If they do, will the youth newspaper come?”, The speaker said to this group of people The ability to observe and judge greatly despised it and said in an envious tone, “It is estimated which doctor’s achievement caused a sensation!”

At the time when these young students speculated, many reporters had also arrived in the school’s conference room. The head of the school’s publicity department greeted them one by one. The principal of Beijing Normal University enjoyed deputy ministerial treatment and the court platform. The length is about the same, so the reserved sitting inside did not greet him, and Professor Zhang was also called by him to accompany him at this time.

The two were looking at a magazine together. Professor Zhang pointed to Lü Qiuqian's thesis and whispered to the headmaster the position of Poincaré's conjecture in mathematics and the significance of Lü Qiuqian's thesis.

The principal looked at the paper while listening to Professor Zhang's commentary. It is indeed “”. Look at this paper. Look at this ink. How come these English words of Beijing Normal University are so eye-catching! Looks comfortable in my heart! This kid is really good, even if he has made grades abroad, he has not forgotten his alma mater! When he comes back, be sure to praise him! The headmaster gave Lu Qiu 32 praises in his heart.

“Principals, the reporters are here, do you think we will start now?”, The director of the propaganda department smiled and asked for advice. This time it is a good opportunity for his department to show its strength!

Looking at the familiar microphones on the microphones in the hands of the reporters below, the principal nodded with satisfaction, reluctantly put down the magazine, and put on the whole dress and said, “Then start!”

“Friends of the media, thank you for taking the time to come to Peking University in your busy schedule. I am here to express my gratitude to you on behalf of Peking University!”, Minister Zhang bowed his thanks. Under the gold signboard of Peking University, these uncrowned kings They also took away the arrogance of the past and applauded while guessing what was happening at Peking University.

Fortunately, it didn't take long, after a series of mandarin, Minister Zhang announced the reason for calling them this time, “This time I invite you to come to have a great event to announce to you, the following is to ask our headmaster to come on stage and announce!”

It's still up to the principal to get the limelight! The following reporters secretly laughed, but it is worthwhile for a deputy ministerial cadre to announce this personally. This news is probably not small. They immediately regained their spirits and opened the small notebook while preparing to record.

“Under the leadership of XXX and under the guidance of XXXX thought, Beijing Normal University has made progress in the development of science and technology in recent years ...”, which is still the beginning of a series of official languages. Of course, it is an educational institution and principal. It only took five minutes to enter the text, “Lv Qiuqian, a junior in the mathematics department of our school, recently completed the solution of the Poincaré conjecture, one of the seven major mathematical problems in the 21st century, which shocked the entire mathematical community. Beijing Normal University and even the entire Chinese scientific community have added honor ... “

In the speech room, Minister Zhang had already sent out the copied magazines one by one, because he was afraid that there would be some English in the reporter, but Guan also deliberately turned to the page where Lu Qiujiang 's thesis is located,

Journalists who can be invited by Minister Zhang have some understanding of science and technology and understand the status of “” in the scientific community, but Poincaré's conjecture seems to be a bit professional. After the president announced it, the reporters at the court station could not wait to stand up. , “May I ask the principal, can you explain the significance of solving this problem?”

“Professional questions are best to be answered by professional people. Now I would like to ask Professor Zhang, the head of the Department of Mathematics of Beijing Normal University, to explain to us!” The principal smiled and gave the lecture table to Professor Zhang.

“Everyone knows what Mr. Chen Jingrun and Goldbach conjecture?” Professor Zhang didn't directly tell about Poincaré's conjecture. Instead, he told the story of another number of scholars according to the manuscript given by Assistant Liu.

These words really played a good role, depending on the propaganda that year, Chen Jingrun is probably one of the most well-known mathematicians in China. The Goldbach conjecture has become the most well-known math problem. Until now, the Department of Mathematics of Beijing Normal University You will often receive letters from private scientists claiming to have broken Goldbach 's conjecture.

The reporters from the audience immediately started their spirits. They already vaguely understood the status and significance of this achievement. The reporter from Chaoting Station stood up again and asked, “You mean that the results of classmate Lu are now done. Comparable with Mr. Chen Jingrun's results that year? “

“I'm afraid it's still different Professor Zhang shook his head and said,” First of all, just a few months ago, the scientific advisory committee of the Clay Mathematics Institute selected seven ‘millennium award questions’, including nP Complete problem, Hodge conjecture, Poincaré conjecture, Riemann conjecture, Jan Mills theory, Navier-Stoker equation, BsD conjecture! These seven questions represent the most important and most urgent research directions in the mathematics community. Among them, the Riemann conjecture and the Goldbach conjecture belong to the category of number theory. Why are there Riemann conjectures and no Goldbach conjecture in these problems? ? This is because, on the one hand, the mathematical knowledge involved in the Riemann conjecture is broader than the Goldbach conjecture. On the other hand, assuming that the generalized Riemann conjecture is established, the weak Goldbach conjecture is correct for sufficiently large odd numbers. “

Professor Zhang paused and waited for the reporters to digest his own words and then said, “So in a sense, it can be said that the Riemann conjecture is more important than the Goldbach conjecture, then it can also be said that the Poincaré conjecture at the same level as the Riemann conjecture. It is also more important than the Goldbach conjecture; then Mr. Chen did not completely solve the Goldbach conjecture, and Lu Qiujian completely solved the Poincaré conjecture. “

Finally, Professor Zhang looked at the reporters with a smile, and took a deep breath and said, “So we can think that the achievements made by Lu Qiujian are more influential than those of Mr. Chen!”