Chapter 1681 A Scheming Person

At this point, Vincent stopped shooting the scene.

He then gave Jessie some instructions, saying, "You'll be swept away by Hazel's whip.

Julian is worried that you'll get hurt, so he'll save you using a secret technique.

After that, he'll spit out a mouthful of blood.

Although he doesn't love you now, he still tries to protect you instinctively."

Jessie listened to him attentively and looked forward to shooting the next scene.

After the scene where Jessie had been swept away, she watched Julian act on the side.

Since there wasn't any help he could use, his acting skills were put to test.

He had done a great job of portraying how dejected the Demon Lord felt while exhibiting an unrivaled power.

In the end, he fell to his knees and spat blood.

Hazel rushed over and supported his weight.

"Cut!" shouted Vincent, and they were done with this scene.

Meanwhile, Hazel wasn't willing to let go of Julian's arm.

Noticing Julian's displeasure, his assistant came over and told her to release him as Julian needed to reapply his makeup.

There was another shoot at night.

The scene was about the young celestial servant—portrayed by Jessie—and Julian heading to an inn.

Chapter 1682 Fabian Walters

Although Julian was a seasoned actor, he still found the scene challenging, especially since Jessie was watching him from the side.

Therefore, he was told to reshoot the scene repeatedly, which was unlike him.

Soon, Vincent realized it was because Jessie was at the scene, so he told his assistant to ask her to leave the place.

After Jessie was gone, Julian successfully wrapped up his part.

“Let’s call it a day, Vincent.

All of us are exhausted.” After Julian was done shooting the scene, he asked Vincent to let everyone get off work.

“Alright.

Fabian will be here tomorrow.

We still have more than ten scenes to shoot here.” Everyone returned to their room to get some rest.

After a tiring day, they were elated that they finally got off work.

Jessie returned to her hotel room and took off the wig.

Once she was done showering, she directly slumbered off.

What she wasn’t aware of was that she had forgotten to have the supper that a certain man had prepared for her.

Lexie told her about it the next morning, and Jessie regretted falling asleep so soon the night before.

“Julian takes good care of you, Jessie.

He basically buys you three meals a day now, which makes my job easier.”

"Alright, stay right there." Julian's chest heaved visibly.

Beneath the water, Jessie's knees pressed against his abdomen gently.

The warm water seemed to be causing his desire to rise within him.

His Adam's apple could be seen bobbing through the lens.

After they were done with the scene, Jessie was helped out of the bathtub.

On the other hand, the man was stiff as it wasn't appropriate for him to get up now.

Realizing something, Vincent stifled his laughter and ordered, "Alright, all of you, please leave this place first."

Jessie changed into a new set of clothes, and a staff member blow-dried her hair.

She would be shooting the next scene with the supporting actor, Fabian.

As a War God from the mythical world, Fabian came from a prestigious background.

On the other hand, Jessie's character lived a tragic life, and her parents were no longer with her in the movie.

Since she had lost all of her spirituality, she didn't even have a place in the mythical world.

It was the War God who took her in and let her be a young celestial servant in his palace.

"I'm willing to die with my master!" Even though Jessie was terrified, she was determined to stay by her master's side.

Death wasn't something she was afraid of.

"How foolish you are!" the actor sneered.

Although Jessie had lost all of her spirituality, she could still use some spells, secretly performing a hand seal by waving her hand.

The next instant, the actor's face was replaced by horror.

He was tangled up in cables, to begin with, and he was forcefully pulled backward.

It was as though he had been swept away by an immense force in the scene.

Jessie was still holding Fabian in her arms.

At this moment, the lens focused on her face.

She lifted her head and turned to look at the person from the mythical world who had been cast away.

Disbelief was written all over her face.

Then, she looked at her hand and fell into a dazed state.

"Alright, it's great.

There's one thing I'd like to point out, Jessie.

You have to hold Fabian tighter." Vincent was someone who strived for perfection.

However, the moment he finished speaking, Julian, who was watching from the side, suddenly let out a cough.

Chapter 1685 Displeasure

After opening the door, Jessie lifted her hefty hem and got into the car.

At this moment, she was still clad in period costumes, so she looked like a young woman who had traveled through time.

It was aesthetically pleasing.

Meanwhile, Julian was also swathed in historical costumes as he was languidly seated on a chair with his eyes closed.

With his tall build wrapped in black clothes, he truly looked like a powerful monarch from ancient times.

Jessie observed his face and couldn’t help but think that this man was still deathly attractive even when he was asleep.

“What are you doing here?” Although the man never opened his eyes, he knew she was there.

“I’ve brought you some fruits.

Do you want some?” Jessie asked with a smile as she held out the fruits.

“No.” The man turned her down with his eyes still closed.

“Are you tired? Can I get some rest in your car?” Jessie batted her eyes.

“I’d like to be alone.” The man spoke in a dispassionate voice and still never bothered to open his eyes.

Jessie was a tactful person, so she never pushed her luck upon hearing that.

She put on a smile and replied, “Alright, I’ll stop bothering you.

I’ll ask Fabian whether I can get some rest in his car.”

One was a Demon Lord, and the other was the War God.

Alioth crushed all forces, giving Atlas, the War God, a hard time.

As a young celestial servant, Estelle immediately stood in front of her master when he coughed out a mouthful of blood, leading Alioth to withdraw his energy and command icily, "Come here."

"I will never leave my master!" Jessie recited her line.

Meanwhile, an eerie sensation exuded from Julian even though he was basking under the sun, and the surrounding crew sensed it too.

It was as though Julian was genuinely pissed and not just acting.

Following, Fabian recited his line, commanding as he panted, "You're my celestial servant.

You're not allowed to go anywhere but stay by my side!"

"Don't worry, Master.

I won't leave you." Jessie stared firmly at him while he held her hand.

Julian knew they were all just acting, yet he couldn't help narrowing his icy gaze as he looked at how

"Sorry I ruined your rep." "And what wrong do you have? The ones at fault are those ill-intentioned."

Julian corrected her, then sat down across from her.

Seeing that she was dejected, he tried to comfort her.

"Don't worry about it.

The company will sort it out.

It won't damage your reputation."

"Did a crew leak it? I know people can make money out of them," Jessie asked, curious.

"Cooper's looking into it.

No matter who it is, they won't be spared," declared Julian as a hint of rage flashed across his eyes.

This guy is targeting Jessie's reputation.

Nobody dared snub it any longer, and they hurriedly gathered together to fish out all the footage from this behind-the-scenes clip as well as find the possible crew member who had released the recording.

Finally, an eagle-eyed young woman watching the footage exclaimed, “Guys, look.

She’s recording with a phone.

It might be her.”

“She’s Miss Hazel’s assistant.

She's probably just recording Miss Hazel." "We'll know for sure after we have her come over to Director Cooper's, won't we?"

Hazel's assistant happened to have gone out to buy Hazel some fruits, and she was called to a conference room as soon as she arrived at the lobby.

"Bailey, were you the one who uploaded the behind-the-scenes clip online?" Vincent and a few higher-ups fixed their gaze on her.

"No, it wasn't me."

"Really? I've already verified it with the media, and it is you! Come clean, and I can spare you, but if you insist on being obstinate, you can say hi to prison."

Bailey's face blanched at once, and the fruits in her hands dropped to the floor.

“Leave first thing tomorrow morning,” Vincent ordered impassively.

“And you can forget about joining my production.”

As soon as Vincent left, Hazel immediately grabbed onto Timmy, the assistant director.

“Timmy, you have to help me out here! I've only made a mistake out of whim.

Why can't Director Cooper give me a break?!”

“It's not that he doesn't want to, but do you not realize whom you've messed with? Young Master Julian, of all people! And have you no clue who Jessie is to Young Master Julian?!”

“What do you mean?” Hazel asked apprehensively.

“He led her into showbiz himself.

She's his.

Whoever dares mess with her is just as good as messing with him! You've shot yourself in the foot this time.”

“Wait, Timmy, are you saying Young Master Julian is pursuing Silverstein?”

At that, Timmy leaned closer to Hazel and whispered, “Who's to say if she'll become the second young mistress of the Gilmore Family?! Good luck out there!”

Hazel's face blanched in response, finally realizing whom she had screwed with.

The newbie she had despised so much might possibly be the future Second Young Mistress of the Gilmore Family?! Chapter 1690 Guess Who's the Supporting Actress

Hazel had garnered a level of fame since entering showbiz but never had she expected her one wrong move would ruin her career.

Her legs were weak when she returned to her room, and she was devastated, unsure how to salvage the mistake.

At the same time, she was beside herself with anger at how unlucky she was this time.

Nothing happened when she bullied other newbies in the past, but this time, to think the newbie popped out of nowhere was Julian's girl.

Hazel started making calls as she sat on the couch, hoping to use whatever connection she could to save herself.

But alas, no one in showbiz wanted—and in fact, dared not—help her after learning she had crossed Julian.

One should know that the Gilmores controlled half of the showbiz in the country; no other company had the power to go against them.

The fact that Louie Gilmore, the CEO of Stardom Corporation, held the industry's best resources aside, Julian's status alone in showbiz was one none dared oppose.

Hazel sat dazedly in her room for a long while before ultimately heading to Vincent's room.

She decided to ask Vincent to intercede for her no matter what tonight.

However, there was nothing Vincent could do to save her either this time.

He looked at Hazel, who stood piteously in front of his door, and said, "Just leave the set and don't take up any work for now.

Best that you lay low for a while; wait until Young Master Julian's no longer pissed."
