Chapter 91 The Two Contracts

Ran Xueyi held the contracts in her hands and pulled the rest from the bunch she was interested in. Only two contracts were left and the rest were put on the coffee table.

She was impressed by the contracts that Song Yu Han handed over to her. It was all the legendary contracts that many top actors and actresses were vying for, hoping that they could even get a minor role in the movie, even if they ended up doing a cameo, they would do it. This was the type of contract that her husband gave her.

Ran Xueyi looked down at the first contract and her eyes lingered on the title <<A Thousand Lotus>>. It was another historical drama centered around a young girl named Jiao Yu, who lived in a small village. As it was her birthday, she was extremely excited not only because it was the day she was born, it was also because her father, whom she hadn't seen for a year, will finally return. However, things turned out for the worse when she found out that the entire village was using her as a sacrifice; to be a ghost bride.

Jiao Yu, growing up in the woods as a hunter, quickly realized that something was wrong. With her sharp senses, she was able to sense danger around her and avoid being buried alive to become a ghost bride to the benefactor of the village's son, who has been dead for years now.

After running away, and thwarting the plans of the village and her father, Jiao Yu jumped from a cliff, falling down a fifty meters waterfall. Of course, the main character's life wouldn't end there, she was scooped up by a Duke, who lost his daughter. Thinking it was his daughter who returned back to life, the Duke adopted Jiao Yu and turned her into his daughter.

Living a double life, Jiao Yu grew up into a beautiful woman, but she must never show her face to anyone who could recognize her as an assassin and the noble lady from the Duke's family.

Ran Xueyi only read the first half of the script and smiled. The script of <<A Thousand Lotus>> was really good. The character of the female lead was a strong woman in an era filled with chauvinistic views and where women must stay at home, look pretty, and wait for a man to marry her.

Not only that, Jiao Yu, the main character, was an assassin who vowed to protect her loved ones.

Ran Xueyi licked her lips as though she was holding a delicious piece of meat, and couldn't wait to gobble it.

After looking through the first part of the script, Ran Xueyi turned to the second contract where the script was attached to it. It was a short web drama about a spy retiring and looking forward to leading a normal life. Yifei, the name of the main character, met the male lead's nephew and let him stay at her house for a day after she found out that he ran away.

As a merciless assassin, Yifei didn't feel anything towards the little boy. She was just a stranger who found a lost boy and would soon return the little boy to his parents, there was no need to attach any lingering feelings on her part. However, when she found out that the boy's aunt and uncle was mistreating him and abuse him, her guilt and conscience took over her, telling that if she continued being ruthless and merciless; letting these monsters take the little boy, she would be scarred for life and wouldn't be able to live a normal life, just as how she wanted to to be.

As a former spy, Yifei killed both the boy's aunt and uncle before taking with her the boy whom she had just rescued from his abusive relatives. But what she didn't expect was that the boy turned out to be a bigshot in the mafia's nephew. It was the male lead of the web drama.

Ran Xueyi scratched her chin. The two contracts were too appealing for her to choose between them. If only she could do it, she would have taken the two!

Unfortunately, the filming date for the two were too close. It was impossible for her to shuffle between them while she was filming the other.

After an agonizing hour of choosing her contract, Ran Xueyi's phone suddenly rang. She quickly grabbed her phone, expecting that it was Song Yu Han, but it actually turned out to be Liu Ran.

"Hello?" she said as soon as she picked it up.

Liu Ran laughed, "Why do you sound so disappointed? Are you waiting for somebody to call you? Is it Yang Baihua... Oh... is it your husband?"

Ran Xueyi rolled her eyes and smiled, "Is it fun to tease me, Liu Ran?"

"Absolutely! I'll never get tired of annoying you." Liu Ran chuckled. "Speaking of your husband...Did Yang Baihua know you're already married?"

Ran Xueyi looked up at the ceiling and sighed, "No... I haven't even thought of how I would announce my marriage to everyone."

"Gurl, why are you hesitating?" Liu Ran put down the documents in his hand and said, "Doesn't the world already know that you're getting married to someone? Why not use this opportunity to announce you're already married instead?"

"It's more complicated than that, Liu Ran." Ran Xueyi twirled a strand of her hair with her finger. "The world also knows that I'm currently engaged to Yang Baihua. If I announced I'm already married, what would people think? They will assume it was me who cheated on him, abandoned him, and married another guy. It will paint me in a bad color. Yang Baihua and Song Qian will clap in glee and live happily ever after if I do that."

Liu Ran turned silent. It was his mistake. He didn't think that things could be so complicated. Ran Xueyi was right, it was useless if Yang Baihua and Song Qian got what they wanted.

"So, what are you going to do?" Liu Ran questioned her. "It's not only just Yang Baihua and that bitch Song Qian that needed to pay for what they did... Your parents and sister also knew about this and even participated in controlling your life. Don't tell me you've gotten softhearted and decided to forgive them?"

Ran Xueyi giggled as she sat comfortably, "Did you really believe I would forgive anyone who crossed me?"

Liu Ran thought about it for a second. He shook his head and grinned. "Of course not! You're not Ran Xueyi if you're merciful and lenient! I still get shivers whenever I remember what you did to Xiulan."

Ran Xueyi paused and also remembered who Xiulan was. She was a classmate from the university. Ran Xueyi wanted to lay low for a while after her break from the industry, and didn't want to be disturbed as she finished university. However, Xiulan thought it would be fun to use Ran Xueyi to boost her fame on campus.

While in the campus, Xiulan would follow her like a tail would, asking her questions about her life as an actress and how it felt falling from her throne as the Queen of Primetime Movies. At that time, Ran Xueyi ignored the nosy little racoon, and thought that Xiulan would soon grow bored and leave her alone if she continued avoiding and ignoring her.

But who knew what possessed Xiulan to tear up all the notes and assignments that Ran Xueyi did the night before while laughing. It was also the day of the presentation and sending their assignments to their professors. Without her notes and assignment, Ran Xueyi saw red and a tumultuous wave starting to submerge the stagnant water.

It wasn't only because Xiulan ruined her stuff, early that day, she found out that Yang Baihua was meeting someone, but she didn't find out who that woman was. So, her mood became too irritating.

Now, with Xiulan courting death sooner than she wanted, Ran Xueyi, who would usually ignore her, suddenly pulled her to an empty alley. The next thing Xiulan knew was Ran Xueyi pulling her by her hair and smashing her pretty face against the wall.

Wickedly smiling like a little demon, Ran Xueyi coldly said to Xiulan at that time: "Who's laughing now?"

Ran Xueyi grabbed her bag and poured it all in the trash can next to where Xiulan was crouching in pain. Pulling out a lighter, she let the fire engulf the bag and stuff she threw in the trash can. Xiulan watched her expensive bag and makeup products burn in front of her eyes.

Since then, Xiulan never showed up in front of Ran Xueyi, fearing that the little demon she faced in the alley would come out and haunt her down.

But...

"How did you know about what happened between me and Xiulan?" Ran Xueyi remembered that when she pulled Xiulan to the dark, empty alley, there should be nobody else around.

Liu Ran coughed. "Well, I was following you because Professor Long wanted me to give you your papers. But I saw you pulling Xiulan by the hair... I was curious at that time and hid behind the wall. Besides, the whole class knew how bad your personality could get when you're angry. We're terrified whenever you're in a bad mood."

Chapter 92 Meeting Her Sister Again At The Audition (1)

Liu Ran came out clean and washed his hands before Ran Xueyi. There was no need for him to hide this matter from her.

The whole class never thought that Ran Xueyi, who was widely known for being a famous actress who suddenly announced her break from the limelight, could show a fierce and unruly personality: completely different from the top actress who flashed a beautiful smile and waved her hand at the cameras and her fans.

However, Ran Xueyi rarely showed this side of her when she really couldn't hide it anymore, and usually, it was all because of Yang Baihua's indifference towards her.

Ran Xueyi was enlightened at once. No longer caring about this matter, she veered the topic away and talked about the weather and gossip going around the city.

There wasn't really much that went on in the wealthy families in City A. Aside from the losses that the Yang family faced during these past weeks, nothing seemed too significant of her notice.

Finally, Liu Ran talked about the building she bought from the auction. He opened a file in his computer and said, "The interior designer I hired called me earlier and sent me a few designs for every floor of the building. You might want to look at them before deciding what you'd want to use in your company."

He paused, dragging the cursor to the file that the interior designer sent to him before emailing it to her. "There, I sent it in your email."

Ran Xueyi opened her mail and saw that he really did send it to her. Pressing it to open, Ran Xueyi raised an eyebrow as several pictures of designs that went along her style and taste.

A minute later, Ran Xueyi closed the pictures and said to the phone: "I like it! The design is in line with what I have envisioned of what my company will look like." Not only that, the designs had the personality and chic atmosphere that she really wanted her company to possess.

Liu Ran was relieved after hearing her say that. "Then, I'll tell Alicia that you liked her designs and will proceed in refurbishing the whole company and changing the wall paints."

"Alright."

After the two hung up, Ran Xueyi continued reading the script she had chosen. A smile couldn't be wiped out from her lips as she thought of starting her own entertainment company.

Early the next morning, Ran Xueyi took the script with her to Dream TV

Dream TV was a satellite TV platform that was developed over the years. From being a small entertainment company to one of the largest in the country, Dream TV produced several dramas and variety shows that overtook the field in terms of ratings.

Ran Xueyi was reading the script in the passenger seat. Her long, black hair cascaded on her back and the side of her face.

"Don't read your script while the car is running," Song Yu Han reached out to close the script.

Ran Xueyi was quick to evade his hand and glared at him: "If I don't read this right now, I might forget my lines when I'm in front of the directors!"

Song Yu Han found her pouting lips to be so attractive; he just wanted to bite it. Unfortunately, a certain kitten was baring her claws now. He also didn't want to disturb her while she's being so serious reading her script.

"One of the directors of the drama is a friend... When I asked for the contract and script of the drama, he must have guessed that I'm sending someone to join the drama," he held her hand with his other hand. "Don't worry about anything, I don't think they'll refuse you even if you forget your lines in front of everybody."

Ran Xueyi was intrigued about the friend that Song Yu Han was talking about, but she still said, "Even if that's the case, I don't want to join a drama or movie without showing my talent in acting and let everyone think that I got the role by stealing resources."

What happened to Qin Ling, it happened to many other actors and actresses. They used their own backing and entered a movie or drama through a backdoor. And though Ran Xueyi was doing the same since Song Yu Han gave her the opportunity by acquiring the contracts he gave to her last night, it doesn't mean that she would rely on his influence and money.

She still was the woman and actress who received the top award; The Best Actress of the Century in the country, she wouldn't let her husband's effort go to waste by showing a mediocre acting in front of the directors.

When the car finally stopped in front of the skyscraper building of Dream TV, Ran Xueyi turned to her husband and said, "I'll do my best and get the role!"

Song Yu Han patted her head while showing a doting expression on his face, "Go... I'll wait for you at home for your good news."

The word 'home' tickled Ran Xueyi and she giggled. She stepped out of the car and closed it, raising her head confidently as she looked at the tall building.

Not long after she entered the building and was greeted by a staff member, Ran Xueyi entered the audition site.

The waiting room outside the site has a large space to accommodate the number of auditionees who came to audition for the supporting roles. Ran Xueyi was guided by the staff to the smaller room; the VIP room where the specially invited actors were waiting.

Once inside she found that there were only a few actresses and actors who were waiting inside. Like Ran Xueyi, they got the script and contract beforehand. Just in case that they got chosen for the main roles, they were given the same items and would only officially sign their contracts once they got their roles.

After the staff dropped her off at the VIP waiting room, Ran Xueyi was on her own...

After giving a brief and friendly greeting to the other auditionees, Ran Xueyi sat down next to another actress named Yang Ruolan. The woman was beautiful; her short chestnut hair stopped right below her chin, her Phoenix eyes crinkled as she smiled, and the small, but sharp nose looked adorable.

Ran Xueyi knew long before that there were others who would audition for the lead roles.

So, she wasn't that surprised or nervous when she saw these young actresses and actors inside the waiting room. Instead, she greeted them one by one with a polite smile before heading towards her seat. She didn't need to act overly close to these people.

After all, inside the waiting room; they were all rivals.

After sharing a few words with each other, the room fell into deep silence. Not just a minute later, there were already some people who looked at their phones, scan through their scripts, and read out their lines.

Unlike the previous audition for the movie << The Great Empress' Love >>, this was far more professional and peaceful. Nobody gossiped with one another, nobody tried to insinuate a fight, or try to get connected to get more favors... Everyone was just too serious to actually start something.

When the staff called out for the auditionees to get ready for the audition, the door to the VIP room opened again. A young woman in a short white dress strolled in; her hair was long and straight; her waist thin and figure was dainty. She had the Oriental faces common for Asian people. If she smiled even a little bit, it would make everyone who laid their eyes on her feel comfortable and try to befriend her.

The newcomer strolled in the waiting room, and with an indifferent glance, she walked to an empty seat just right next to the door. However, just as she took her seat, she suddenly froze and whipped her head toward the other side. Her eyes widened; so large that it looked like saucers.

Ran Xueyi was similarly shocked and her eyebrows twitched slightly. Well, well...Now, look at this. Isn't this her younger sister, Ran Yue?

"You!" Ran Yue shouted abruptly, making everyone who was inside the room lose their focus and was startled by her voice. They all simultaneously frowned.

They all turned around and gave Ran Yue a glare, wondering what was wrong with her? Doesn't she know that inside the VIP room, one must remember to keep about their own business without disturbing other people?

Being stared at by everybody, Ran Yue flushed in shame. She felt that she lost a lot of face because of her exclamation.

Sending a glare at Ran Xueyi, Ran Yue gnashed her teeth. It was all because of her!

Quickly approaching her older sister, Ran Yue hissed: "What are you doing here?"

Ran Xueyi smiled and answered in a matter-of-factly tone, "The same reason why you are here."

"That can't be! You can't be here!" Ran Yue couldn't believe that this was really happening. "You already retired and quit the entertainment industry, you don't even have a place to return.."

"But I have, my dearest sister. And right now... it's here in this waiting room." Ran Xueyi flashed a bright, fake smile at her sister.

"But you said you're not planning to make a comeback! You said it to me last time when we talked," Ran Yue turned livid. She knew her sister's talent so she's terrified. "Besides, does mother and Yang Baihua know about this matter?"

Ran Xueyi almost wanted to laugh out loud at her sister's foolish thoughts. Did she actually think that she needed her mother and ex-fiance's permission to go back to the entertainment industry?

"Ran Yue... for the last time, I'm going to treat you nicely and act as your older sister..." Ran Xueyi leaned forward and reached her hand out. Her eyes were filled with venom and coldness that Ran Yue could never recognize. "Don't ever get in my way again. I will tolerate that lunchbox fiasco you pulled last time... But if you dare do that or anything that will make me disappointed with you again, I'll destroy the thing you love the most and let you experience the hell I've been through all these years."

Ran Yue swallowed hard. Her knees almost buckled forward when she met those cruel eyes that gaze into her own as if it could see through the darkest and deepest part of her soul.

She never knew her older sister could ever make such a terrifying expression. Ran Xueyi always showed her angelic, kind, and compassionate side to the family, just like how she would appear before the camera or in front of the fans; always smiling, never showing a flaw to anyone.

Maybe that was the reason why Ran Yue would always think that her older sister was always so easy to control and manipulate. With just one word from their parents or from Yang Baihua, she would bend over them and do what they ordered her to do without question.

But this was different... Ran Xueyi looked like an angel who had just plucked out her white wings and grew a pair of black wings of knives and daggers while burning flames surrounded it. The last trace of the good angel Ran Xueyi vanished into thin air.

By the time Ran Yue recovered from her shock, the staff member was already standing in front of her, and waiting for her while holding a box in her hands.

What happened? What did she miss? Ran Yue glanced at the people who were sending odd gazes in her direction.

"Miss Ran, please get a number from the box please." The staff member showed a frown. She has been standing in front of Ran Yue for a minute now.

In her confusion, she asked, "What number?" She refused to put her hand inside the box while knowing nothing about what it was for.

"Didn't you listen when we announced the new rules for the audition?" the staff member questioned and when she saw the confused look on the face of the young actress, she no longer needed an answer to the question.

The staff member sighed. "Director Yang thought it would be better to change the audition routine and put some challenge in it. The number you will get from the box will be based on what scene you will act inside the audition room."

Ran Yue finally understood, but she was still reluctant to put her hand inside the box. Looking at the other actors and actresses who already got their numbers, she felt a sense of danger.

Finally, under the urges of the staff member, Ran Yue got her number and her world started to crumble down on her.

[Scene #6]

Staring at the number written on the paper in her hands, she knew that she no longer had a chance to get the lead role. The scene she got was the most difficult one to play and act in the drama...

It was the scene where the main protagonist must fight against several assassins.

Chapter 94 Rivals? (1)

Ran Yue wanted to grab the staff member who already turned around, but the other was already several steps away from her.

Yang Ruolan glanced at Ran Yue but didn't ask what she got. Everyone already got their number and what scene corresponded to the number that they got; there was no need to ask since all of them were rivals.

However, this audition was really strange and surprising. Usually, when the audition started, they only needed to wait for their names to be called and then, they would enter the audition room where the director and producers waited and watch the actress or actor perform the scene they picked for them to act.

Though it was still the same thing with just an added twist of suspense and thrill for they have to grab a number and scene inside a box, the actors and actresses inside the VIP waiting room still felt tense and nervous for only one reason.

Before coming here, they already received the script and contract from their companies. Along with it were, of course, the scenes that the directors would ask the actors and actresses to play in front of them. Thus, giving these artists time to practice and hone their acting skills, and perfect the scene and role they will be acting at the audition.

However, this was really unexpected. Because, this time, some scenes that were not included from the scenes they practiced were now part of the scenes they must act out. But of course, the most unfortunate ones were the only people who got these scenes.

For example... Ran Yue, who had the most difficult scene to act out.

The audition scene Ran Yue got was the action scene where the protagonist, Jiao Yu, will be fighting against some assassins.

Because the protagonist sensed that something happened with her adopted father, she came rushing through the wilderness like an arrow and saw her father being beheaded in front of her. As an assassin who was widely known in Jianghu for her skills and talent in both fighting and killing, she quickly fought and killed the assassins surrounding her father.

This part of the novel was one of the few scenes that catapulted the protagonist to embrace the darkness within her and started to shut the whole world away.

The director and producers expected that when the viewers watched this episode, they would be riding in a rollercoaster of emotions and the ratings would certainly increase.

However, there was a problem... This would only be possible if the actress playing out this scene was an outstanding actress who could bring out all the emotions that the protagonist possessed and poured into her fight.

This was one of the most important scenes in the drama. If Ran Yue didn't do well in the audition, it was better for her to leave now and forget about auditioning for the protagonist role forever.

When Ran Yue realized this... she was cursing and screaming inwardly. She really wanted to leave. But she couldn't. Not when this TV drama was a high-budgeted one with numerous investors and sponsors involved who are in it. If she successfully gets the protagonist role, her success in the industry will be secured.

Besides that... the fans who will be attracted to her and follow her will increase tremendously.

Moreover, there will be an award ceremony and the TV drama should have the potential to get an award.

Ran Yue couldn't give up. She wouldn't do it even if somebody were to offer her a good amount of money. What was money compared to what benefit she'll get from playing a role in the drama?

But the problem is...

Ran Yue glanced at Ran Xueyi who was sitting on her chair with her legs crossed; looking very cozy and comfortable as if she was inside her own living room rather than a stifling and suffocating waiting room.

Casually turning the page of the script she was holding in her hands, Ran Xueyi read out the lines and imagined the scenes playing out in her mind. The audition scene she got from the drama was the scene between the protagonist and the male lead.

Because the protagonist was widely known for hiding her face with a veil, no one really knew what she looked like. However, a chance encounter in the middle of the night, and in the middle of a dangerous mission, revealed the protagonist's beautiful face to the male lead who was coincidentally lurking in that forest where the protagonist was waiting for her enemies to arrive.

It was a simple meeting between the main characters. However, it still became the connection for the both to develop their feelings for each other. From strangers to enemies to lovers. Their bittersweet love story will definitely capture the hearts of both the young and adult viewers who will watch it.

Ran Xueyi turned the page again when a shadow of a person fell on the page she was currently, covering some part of it in a darker shade.

Knowing who it was, Ran Xueyi didn't raise her head up and continued reading the lines.

"Sister... are you really going to ignore me? Won't you at least help me understand my scene?" Ran Yue spoke a bit louder than her normal voice, making the ears of some people twitch and turn their heads to look at them.

Ran Xueyi also sensed that the other people inside the waiting room were watching them. However, she didn't really want to create a drama for these hyenas to prey on and watch on live.

But Ran Yue didn't give up.

Using her face, she showed a forlorn expression and made her voice squeak as she spoke; making others think that she was crying, "Sister, I know that you want to enter the industry again, but aren't you a bit too arrogant? I'm only asking you to help me understand my scene because you're much more talented and skillful in acting than all of us...But you're ignoring me. Is it because when I debuted, you also believed that I stole your spotlight?"

Chapter 95 Rivals? (2)

The actresses and actors who heard what Ran Yue said showed displeasure in their faces. They knew even before that Ran Xueyi, a veteran actress, was the older sister of the new actress, Ran Yue, who first became a member of a pop idol group before entering the acting industry.

When Ran Yue entered the industry, many of Ran Xueyi's fans bashed her because they thought that Ran Yue stole her older sister's limelight and role in that movie. However, Ran Xueyi soon explained that it wasn't the case and the reason why she pulled back from the movie was because she wanted to take a break and was planning to get married.

At that time, Ran Yue's journey in the industry wasn't as good as in the present. Living in the shadows of her extremely famous and talented older sister, many people from the acting industry felt pity towards her. After all, it was really difficult to make your own brand and image in the industry when your older sister's name would be mentioned every time you achieved something through your own effort.

The waiting room was silent. They wanted to see how Ran Xueyi responded to Ran Yue's words. If Ran Xueyi denied that she was ignoring Ran Yue, people would accuse her of being a liar. And if she admitted to it, she would be painted as a bad sister.

Furthermore, Ran Yue's words will become a confirmation that Ran Xueyi was being arrogant, and was thinking that she was much better than everyone inside the waiting room, and that anyone wasn't worthy of her attention only because she was an important and famous figure in the acting industry five years ago.

Ran Xueyi's face was blank and showed an indifferent expression. Ran Yue, this little sister of hers, really overdid herself. Setting a few traps for her older sister... What a great little sister!

However, instead of being afraid and intimidated by the atmosphere that was slowly and gradually dropping, Ran Xueyi slowly raised her head to meet Ran Yue's gaze and then, showed her the conventional 35-degree smile.

"Ran Yue, before I answer your questions... Let me ask you one question," Ran Xueyi said.

Ran Yue smiled mockingly and replied, "Older sister, are you doing this because you can't answer my questions?"

,m Ran Xueyi pulled back and looked as if she heard something offending or unbelievable. Then, while shaking her head, she answered, "Of course not... I am merely curious about something. But if you don't want to answer it. Then, forget it."

Ran Yue frowned. But she soon smiled confidently, her confidence was due to the fact that she knew that Ran Xueyi won't be able to escape from her traps so easily because either way was a road to a path of no return.

"No, you can ask me anything," Ran Yue smiled brightly as if she was not pitting her older sister to a dangerous ending. Her face looked exactly like an adorable little kid; pampered, kind, and innocent.

Ran Xueyi returned the smile beautifully, almost dazzling the entire room. "Then, let me ask you... When did you debut as an actress?"

Was that even a question? Ran Yue almost wanted to roll her eyes. But for the sake of her plan, she answered honestly, "5 years ago..." she paused then added, "Did you already forget sister? I debuted soon after you announced your break."

Of course, Ran Yue thought carefully about her words... She only added the last line to touch the heart of the staff members and artists inside the room. With her words, they would be reminded that she lived in her sister's shadows.

But Ran Xueyi was calm the whole time and even gave a smile.

Creeped out by that fake smile, Ran Yue couldn't help but ask, "What are you smiling about?"

"I'm smiling because my dear sister forgot about something," Ran Xueyi replied while standing up. She clapped her hands together once before she continued, "You're asking why I'm ignoring you when you asked for help for your scene?"

Ran Yue stepped back.

Ran Xueyi narrowed her eyes as she continued to smile. "Ran Yue... have you forgotten that we're inside the waiting room for an audition? Everyone here is one's rival, isn't it?" She turned her attention to the other people inside the room. Some of them nodded while some remained silent; too idle watching the show. "It's only natural that I would ignore your request for help. After all... sisters or not, we both want the same role and are considered rivals."

Ran Yue was stomped for words. She couldn't deny what Ran Xueyi said. Since when did the world of acting become so peaceful and friendly that rivals who auditioned for the same role would suddenly brainstorm and help out one another? Wouldn't that be too stupid and an unbelievable thing to happen?

Ran Yue really wanted to go back in time and stop herself from asking that question.

However, there was no need to cry over a spilt milk. She could only blame herself for provoking Ran Xueyi.

And Ran Xueyi won't let go of this opportunity. Once she takes a bite, there was no way she would let go of the prey she wanted to eat. Ran Yue only has herself to blame for not taking heed to her warning.

"As for stealing anyone's spotlight... I think we both know what really happened back then," Ran Xueyi came too close to Ran Yue and whispered, "Do you want me to tell everyone in this room the truth? Or should I call the press and tell them on live what you guys have done to me and planned for me all these years?"

Ran Yue stared at her, bewildered and in disbelief. She never expected that Ran Xueyi would even mention this while there are still some people around them who could hear everything!

Seeing the fear and anxiousness in her eyes, Ran Xueyi giggled and clapped again. "Why are you so scared? I didn't even start anything yet, dear sister."
