Chapter 2131 Defying The Heavens And Changing Fate (1/86)

A small town general of a novice village with 300,000 blood... at one point, Lotus Sun felt that this wasn't real.

She was very surprised.

And Wang Ling himself was also very surprised.

He hadn't expected that he would only have 300,000 drops of the heart sutra he was constantly reading.

Sigh..

In the end, he was speaking too slowly.

But this thing couldn't be faster. After all, the scriptures he was reading required the system to recognize them, so if he read them too quickly, the system wouldn't be able to recognize them.

Wang Ling didn't know if this was considered forcing a debuff on him, but after all, he was only in the novice village.

He didn't know how much 300,000 Blood King Ling was, but it should be enough, right?

Unfortunately, his character level was still not high enough. That was because he had been "Lucky" to trigger the hidden mission from the beginning to the end, and there was no experience reward for the hidden mission, except for his rare identity, equipment, and a special inheritance, his character level was still only level 1.

And this was what made Lotus Sun feel that this was the most ridiculous part.

A Level 1 general... had 300,000 hp! This was outrageous!

But now was also very clear to Lotus Sun that this wasn't the time to complain.

The demon caves around floating cloud town were about to attack this place, and this level one general walked out with 300,000 drops of blood on his head.

What a righteous and considerate leader.

Even though this was just an NPC in the game world, in that instant, Lotus Sun suddenly felt that this mysterious floating cloud town general in a mask looked very much like a real person; everything was too real.

"General, Wait for me!"

Seeing Wang Ling gradually walk further and further away, Lotus Sun hurriedly followed him with her heavy armor on. She ran very slowly, and by the time she caught up with Wang Ling, the faint sounds of demon spirits causing trouble could already be heard from the south of the town.

These shrill howls with a ghastly and terrifying aura were like the wails of ghosts, and the sound of them getting closer and closer became stronger and stronger. This was a kind of strategic deterrent, and from the sound to the feeling, it was incomparably real.

Wang Ling half-squatted and touched the ground, sensing the distance between the five hundred demon spirits and the distance between them. Fighting against five hundred demon spirits alone wasn't realistic, and it would be a waste of time.

Thus, Wang Ling's battle plan was very clear from the start. To catch a thief, one must first catch the leader; among these demon spirits, there must be a commander of the demon caves.

Five hundred demon spirits was at least the combined demon power of the ten demon caves around Floating Cloud Town, and what Wang Ling needed to do now was to be the leader of these ten caves.

Lotus Sun was completely dumbfounded; she had never expected this general to be so brave and fearless. Her eyes couldn't help overlapping with the image of the young man in her mind.

That was impossible..

She must have been seeing things, but the general's back view as he walked past her had repeatedly overlapped with Wang Ling's.

What if this person really was Wang Ling..

For a moment, Lotus Sun was a little distracted and her imagination ran wild, but she didn't dare dwell on it for fear that she might have made a mistake this time.

If classmate Wang Ling really came out later, wouldn't she be very embarrassed.

Rumble!

The five hundred demon spirits approached, and their appearances were all different. Most of them were walking beasts, and their appearances were ferocious. Wang Ling stared fearlessly at the largest monster as it walked over. This monster was clearly different from the other demon spirits, it was three to four feet tall, and its body was covered in thick scales, making it look like a pangolin.

Its eyes were scarlet with a hint of fierceness, as if it hadn't expected this level one person to take the initiative to approach it. It was stunned for a moment, then used its eyes to signal the small demons around it not to immediately attack.

This is a development.

According to the current plot of the game, players needed to kill the ten cave leaders within a limited time so that the surrounding goblins would not make a move. If the quest was not completed within a limited time, not only would the leaders resurrect with full health, and all the monsters in the vicinity will suddenly riot.

This is the leader of the ten holes, Lotus Sun looked at the leader's health from afar, ten thousand drops of blood!

It took a lot of effort for players to team up to challenge the boss, even if it was an early stage boss in the novice village. But what Lotus Sun didn't expect was that this NPC general had gone up on his own.

So did she need to help?

Or was it because she had joined the general's residence that this NPC general was here to help her clear the dungeon?

Lotus Sun felt that her luck was a little good.

But the general of floating cloud town was only level one after all. No matter how much health he had, how long would it take to grind down ten thousand drops of blood? !

Lotus Sun had serious doubts about this.

But it turned out that in the end, it was Lotus Sun who had been thinking too much.

Wang Ling walked over casually.

At the same time, Wang Ling's strength value continued to soar, and a faint golden spirit light began to surround his body. This was a sign that huge spirit energy was rushing out of his body.

In addition to stacking up his health through the passive layers of heavenly God descending to Earth, wang Ling also memorized the chant to feel out the operation of the cultivation method, while at the same time looking for other cultivation methods that could be used in conjunction with Heavenly God descending to Earth.

It was at this moment that the "Defying the heavens and changing fate" that he had comprehended earlier at the general's mansion played a crucial role.

This was a cultivation method with a relatively simple passive ability that could create miracles.

"Skill name: defying the heavens and changing fate."

"Grade: God level."

“Description: 1 whenever the current enemy’s level is higher than yours, the passive ability of this skill will be triggered. For every level higher, you will automatically receive 5 attribute points, which will be evenly added to each attribute point. When you are surrounded by many people, the highest level will be the one with the highest level

“2. You will receive an additional passive ability, which will be based on your current health status. If your level is lower than the enemy’s, but you are stronger than the enemy in a certain attribute (including health and Spirit Energy) , this attribute will be automatically compared to the current enemy, and the difference will be regarded as your current temporary strength value.”

In other words, Wang Ling’s current level was indeed very low, but this was also the result of Wang Ling deliberately suppressing his level.

His level was now lower than that of the ten-hole demon spirit leader, but his HP was 290,000 higher than the other party’s.

This also meant that he currently had a total of 290,000 temporary strength points!

Thus, he casually walked over. In the face of a monster with such a huge difference in size and level, his expression under the mask hadn’t changed from beginning to end.

“Goodbye.”

Wang Ling sighed softly.

He jabbed a finger at the big toe of the ten-hole demon spirit leader.

Then, a jaw-dropping scene happened. After being jabbed by Wang Ling’s finger, the ten-hole demon spirit leader directly flew up on the spot and flew backward

With a boom, its mountain-sized body directly shifted backward and plowed a ravine on the ground. Huge spirit energy burned on its body, and the defensive power of its scales couldn’t stop it at all, it vaporized the leader of the ten cave demon spirits in front of everyone, not even a single scale was left..

Chapter 2132 2,128: Wang Ling's Identity + 1(1/86)

At the same time, Mr. Hidden Fox, who had already confirmed with the team leader that they were clearing the area, vaguely heard a huge tremor in the distance as they traveled.

There was a rumbling sound that lasted for a long time before he immediately asked the bald team leader, "Where is that sound coming from?"

The captain pondered for a moment, then determined the direction and replied, "It seems to be in the direction of floating cloud town."

Floating Cloud Town and yellow dragon town were actually quite far away. Without the help of a flying-type magical artifact, it would take a few days of travelling by carriage to reach them. It would take about five days for the carriage to travel back and forth at a normal speed.

However, the noise was too loud. It was as if a bomb had exploded. Mr. Hidden Fox could not help but be surprised that it was transmitted from such a far distance.

He was one of the few people who knew about the wall-breaker operation, but Mr. Hidden Fox actually had a premonition that the authorities would definitely arrange for other people to secretly help him with such an absolutely confidential matter, at most, it would be impossible for more than two figures to know.

So it really wasn't easy for Mr. Hidden Fox to determine whether it was the other people who knew about the wall-breaker operation, this was because before entering the game, Wang Ming had told him that he would meet other normal huaxiu players in the game.

The Loose Immortal Child Dharma Ring was a closed beta system that didn't delete files, so there would be many Huaxiu players in this game world, and most of them had already left the novice village, it was just that he wouldn't be able to meet them at this stage.

The biggest advantage of letting other normal players participate was that it could be used to cover the operation. It would make people think that this was just an ordinary game.

As for the real plan to break the wall, they would need to walk out of the novice village and then gather their strength to break the invisible continental wall that surrounded the world of the loose immortal child's Dharma Ring and another continent, and this wall was the wall of spiritual sense in the real world.

However, it was useless to break this wall alone. They had to let the cultivators from other countries who were bewitched by the wall of spiritual sense to break it themselves. Only in this way could they ensure that the wall of spiritual sense was completely destroyed.

Looking in the direction of floating cloud town, Mr. Hidden Fox was deep in thought. A normal NPC would definitely not be able to make such a move.

In other words, the person who created such a big ruckus was either a normal gamer or a secret wall breaker who participated in the operation with him.

The most likely outcome was still a normal gamer. He did not understand games, but he understood young people too well... many young people nowadays did not like to leave the novice village when playing games.

He thought of the long-lasting round-based game “Fantasy journey to the West”, which had maintained its popularity from the past until now. There was a legendary gamer who had played the sea turtle in the novice village for more than ten years..

How should he put it? To put it nicely, this was perseverance. To put it bluntly, it was really scary when people were bored.

Mr. Hidden Fox sighed silently.

To ensure the final success of the wall-breaker plan, they had to first ensure that they could develop steadily. This way, they could meet foreign players and cultivators who were suspected to have been brainwashed by the wall of spiritual sense during the game, only then would they have the capital to rope them in. Then, they could start a sect, gather their strength, and finally command them to complete the wall-breaker operation..

This was the legendary unity and unity of all forces!

It had to be said that Mr. Hidden Fox’s wish was very beautiful, but there was still some difficulty in implementing it.

On the other side, Wang Ling had poked the ten-hole demon lord with one finger, and Lotus Sun's face was so shocked that it was twisted. She couldn't speak or understand, but she was greatly shocked.

In addition, she saw her experience bar rapidly rise to level ten.

As for the general over there..

His character's level remained at level one.

Sure enough, he was an NPC; only an NPC's level wouldn't move.

But she still couldn't figure out how a level one novice village general could have 300,000 health points and even crush ten-cave demon lord with one finger.

Seeing that the demon lord had been destroyed, Wang Ling felt a myriad of emotions in his heart; he had locked his level, he had expected that Lotus Sun would be able to tell that he wasn't an NPC directly from his level... just thinking about it made him feel that it would be very awkward if he met her directly, so he decided to go all out and lock his level directly.

In the game world of the loose immortal child's Dharma Ring, locking levels was usually done when the main mission and the map had reached a certain stage, in order to accumulate experience for future promotions and job changes.

No one would directly lock their level in the novice village, so this was one of the reasons Lotus Sun didn't suspect him.

So now she almost completely believed that this general of floating cloud town was an NPC without a doubt... it was just that this NPC was a little ridiculous, like a cheat that Wang Ming had specially arranged for him.

Watching her instantly rise and finally stop at level 25, Lotus Sun didn't know whether to laugh or cry.

On the other hand, if Wang Ling opened the level lock, his level would instantly rise to level 15, but he didn't do that.

Not leveling up meant that he wouldn't be able to add new attribute points and obtain talent points for skill distribution, but these were all harmless to Wang Ling.

He had two god-level cultivation techniques with him, and they needed to be at a different level, so level wasn't the key to him.

Mm..

Of course, apart from level, Wang Ling hadn't gained nothing. After this ten-cave demon lord had been killed, in addition to experience, he had also discovered that there was an additional waist token in his inventory.

This was an item belonging to the ten-cave demon lord, which symbolized its identity.

With this token, he could directly control and command these ten-cave demon spirits for his own use and obey his commands.

So... it couldn't be..

At this moment, under the Tiger Mask, the corners of Wang Ling's mouth twitched.

Sure enough, as soon as this ten cave demon lord token appeared in his character identity tab, a brand new identity followed.

He.

Wang Ling..

An ordinary, ordinary high school student from a cultivation academy with very ordinary academic results..

In the world of the loose immortal child's Dharma Ring, he had multiple identities.

At that moment, his new identity tags were: [trash] , [jailer] , [general Chen of floating cloud town] , [demon lord of the ten caves] ..

He was clearly a human cultivator, but he had become the demon lord of the ten caves.

This made Wang Ling feel a little complicated for a moment.

But with these demon spirits, he could also turn them into his labor force!

Five hundred demon spirits wasn't a lot..

However, Wang Ling felt that it might be a good choice to invest a part of it in mining resources and let the other part lead him to destroy the other demon caves.

Because demon spirits didn't need to eat, they were pure natural labor and didn't need to worry about food consumption.

Chapter 2133 2,129 -- Wang Ling Was Discovered? (1/86)

What kind of experience was it to have multiple jobs? This was something that Wang Ling had never experienced before. He seriously suspected that if he continued to develop according to the game's plot, he would very likely develop into a "Full-time expert"..

Although it seemed troublesome to have multiple jobs, in the end, everything he was doing was just to lay the groundwork for Mr. Hidden Fox.

The real protagonist of the wall breaker operation was Mr. Hidden Fox, and he was just an ordinary high school student immortal king. What did he know about games? What did he know about immortal kings

After destroying this ten-cave demon lord, Wang Ling was now the new Lord. Although there was a limit to the number of ten-cave demon spirits he could control, they didn't need to consume resources and were natural labor movers, so it was best if he was in charge of resource extraction.

At the same time, the hidden identity of the demon lord had yet to be obtained by players in the in-game beta segment. In the hearts of many righteous players, from the perspective of modern human cultivators, it was extremely wrong to collude with the demon spirit.

Therefore, their method of controlling the demon spirit wasn't to become the demon lord to rule them, but to achieve "Enslavement" through level suppression. Thus, it was completely different from how Wang Ling currently controlled the demon spirit.

Because of his status as the ten-cave demon lord, Wang Ling had complete control over them. The demon spirits were very loyal and wouldn't easily rebel.

But in the game world of the Loose Immortal Child's Dharmic ring, they wanted to "Enslave" the demon spirits through level suppression.

Although the demon spirits wouldn't consume ingredients, they would lose patience. In other words, once their patience collapsed, some of the demon spirits would directly start a rebellion, they would even cause the surrounding demon spirits and normal human cultivators to die together.

This was a bit of a loss.

But Wang Ling himself didn't dislike the identity of demon lord that much. After all, the demon world was now friendly with humans in the real world, and it was Wang Ling who had subdued the entire demon world back then.

Although there were still some human cultivators on earth who insisted that the demon world could never coexist peacefully with human cultivators, that was still only a small number of people.

It was impossible to change everyone's mind, and even if Wang Ling could do it, he didn't want to do it. An existence who could control the minds and wills of humans was very terrifying.

And this was the fundamental purpose of their plan to break the wall this time.

Huaxiu civilization had remained unchanged since ancient times. It had experienced prosperity and decline, and had never invaded the outside world. The only thing it held in mind was world peace and Universal Harmony.

But there was no shortage of rumors and slanders directed at Huaxiu and Huaxiu cultivators in the cultivation world right now, and it was indeed time for the cultivators of the world to see the truth..

Wang Ling had arranged for 499 demon spirits to be in charge of gathering materials, and this action had actually reduced the happiness of the residents of floating cloud town by 10%

Humans and demons were different paths; npcs in the game still had a natural sense of loathing and repulsion toward demons, and this probability was actually about the same as in the real world.

Wang Ling sighed in his heart.

Bai Qiao's investigation on this detail was indeed very rigorous and completely in line with the law.

The Happiness Index of a town was very important, and this was also the key to affecting the quality of the "Wolong" that could be recruited in the future.

But Wang Ling knew that this decline was only temporary. As long as the town was built well, it would only be temporary if there was a portion of the demon spirit working as a labor force.

He didn't think about it anymore. Instead, he used the last little demon spirit he had left to lead the way and begin to explore the surrounding areas.

"Hey... General, wait for me!" Lotus Sun chased after him from behind.

To be honest, she had no idea how to help the town develop. Apart from using the system interface to coordinate command and deployment from afar, the only thing she could do was to follow behind this general of Floating Cloud Town... to gain experience?

This was completely different from the way she had imagined the game to be played!

She had thought that she and Wang Ling would have a wonderful encounter, and after that, they would support each other and grow together. She had even thought of everything, and had even stacked her defense points to the highest, she had planned to work with Wang Ling as a meat shield and a wet nurse.

In the end, she had been able to gain experience all the way up.

And this was also within Wang Ling's calculations.

After all, he was already at level 1 now, but there were a lot of inconveniences about being locked at level 1. For example, he wouldn't be able to accept missions if he was only at level 1 in the higher-level maps, in that case, he could only form a team with Lotus Sun and let her take on missions, while he would only be responsible for completing them.

So of course, bringing Lotus Sun along to increase her experience was also part of Wang Ling's plan.

Mm... to put it simply, he needed Lotus Sun, and now Lotus Sun needed him as well.

After all, only the current Wang Ling could instantly kill a boss.

But Wang Ling felt that the level gap was a game BUG... After all, he couldn't rule out the possibility that some people might have a small chance of farming the same type of god-grade cultivation method in the novice village.

Although the probability of farming such a god-grade cultivation method was one in ten million, it was just as Wang Ling had said. Since there were people who spent more than ten years fighting monsters in the novice map, it couldn't be ruled out that there were people who spent more than ten years fighting monsters on a beginner's map..

"General? Where Are We Going?"

Lotus Sun asked from behind, but this NPC general had clearly once again used his closed-door nature and hadn't replied to her.

However, Lotus Sun could still vaguely make out some thoughts from Wang Ling's actions.

She saw from the system operation panel that 499 demon spirits had joined the gathering team, but this general in front of her had left one to lead them somewhere.

Lotus Sun immediately thought that this general of floating cloud town was very likely using this demon spirit to lead the way and take over the other demon caves!

So that was the plan..

But the problem was that this was what npcs should think..

But this NPC in front of her really looked like an NPC!

For a moment, Lotus Sun's heart was conflicted and wavering. As she looked at Wang Ling's back, she felt that familiar feeling come back to her again.

Led by that little demon, she and Wang Ling finally arrived at the entrance to the Hundred Caves area. The map showed that there were a total of one hundred demon cave demon spirits here, and the total number of demons there exceeded five thousand, and each level was higher than the current one.

The most important thing was that this hundred cave demon lord wasn't an ordinary person; he was an order of magnitude stronger than the Ten Cave Demon Lord, and was at least level 30.

He had 100,000 hp!

Lotus Sun's mind wasn't on this hundred cave demon lord; she had only stared at the back of this general of floating cloud town for a while.

Then, out of the blue, she shouted, "Crispy noodle snacks! There's crispy noodle snacks!"

At this moment, the figure walking in front of him actually hesitated slightly after hearing this shout..

Chapter 2134 2,130: The Hundred-Cave Demon Lord Was Waking Up (1/86)

It could only be said that this was Wang Ling's old problem, and it seemed to always work on him, and it worked every time.

He sighed in his heart and thought to himself that Lotus Sun didn't care about martial virtue, but his performance wasn't that obvious either, because he was wearing a mask, and only hesitated for a moment.

This didn't allow Lotus Sun to make a more accurate judgment. After all, they were being led by a small demon spirit and were now in the range of the hundred-cave demon lord.

The hesitation was very vague, and it was just a pause, which could also be explained as... vigilance.

So it wasn't a real strike.

But this still made Wang Ling, who was under the mask, sweat profusely. He thought to himself that a girl's sixth sense was really terrifying.

At that moment, he fixed his gaze in a certain direction and waved his hand. A huge demon spirit lurking on a tree fell to the ground, and the tree, which was as thick as five people's waists, was directly cut in half by Wang Ling, it fell to the ground and turned into [Wood] .

"This is... the sentry around the Hundred Caves Area?" Lotus Sun was a little surprised. She hadn't expected this to be the reason for floating cloud town's hesitation earlier?

She looked at the huge demon spirit that had been shot down. On its back were two demon flags for patrolling the mountain. This was the symbol of the demon race's sentry, and the key point was that this sentry wasn't low-level, it was much more powerful than the ten-cave lesser demon she had encountered before, and was on a different level in terms of physique.

In the end, it had been instantly killed by this NPC general in one move.

Lotus sun sighed, and a look of disappointment couldn't help appearing in her eyes. She had hoped very much that the person in front of her was Wang Ling... but she hadn't expected that the other party was really just an NPC..

Although the other party had been a little hesitant when she had shouted just now, when this demon sentry from the hundred-hole zone had been shot down, Lotus Sun instantly felt relieved.

In the end, she had made a mistake and thought too much..

It wasn't that Lotus Sun didn't have a clear understanding of the Sun family's ability to imagine things, but after all, the Sun family was a family of merchants, and they had to deal with people and do business. There were as many traps in the business world as there were hairs on a cow's back., so from a young age, Lotus Sun had been taught by grandfather Sun to think a few steps backwards in everything.

Only in this way could she remain calm in the face of trouble, and firmly hold the initiative in her hands.

Lotus Sun had been well aware of this since she was young.

It could be said that part of the Sun family's ability to imagine things was innate, and part of it was purely developed. This old tradition had lasted for a long time, and could be said to have continued since the generation of Mrs. Lotus Sun, great-great-great-grandfather.

At the same time, the Hundred Caves District issued an invasion warning at the same time. When Wang Ling suddenly attacked a sentry, tens of thousands of birds in the jungle flew up and circled in the air, forming a large black vortex, the sharp whistles were incessant, and the entire sky was instantly covered in dark clouds, giving off a strong sense of oppression.

Wang Ling's heart was calm the whole time. The sound effects of this game were too powerful, but after all, he was already used to big scenes. He had seen the scene of a planet exploding, and this little bit of environmental rendering had created a terrifying visual effect, wang Ling didn't take it seriously at all.

In fact, whenever Wang Ling saw these exploding scenes in the game, he still felt a little proud of Bai Qiao. Other People's sword spirit only had one sword body + scabbard spirit body, but he himself had two.

Moreover, the two spirit bodies (Jingke + Bai Qiao) had completely different personalities. Jingke could fight and act cute, Bai Qiao could fight and play games... They were both geniuses who were good at both literature and martial arts!

"Who is it that disturbed my rest..."

Very soon, the sound of a horn like that of the Hong Meng was heard from within the Hundred Cave area.

It was a terrifying sound that came from deep within. The moment it reverberated in the air, the five thousand demon spirits in the entire hundred cave area instantly boiled, making Wang Ling and Lotus Sun feel as if they were surrounded.

At the same time, the surrounding environment also began to change. The leaves rapidly withered, and in their place were countless crystal-like substances that crawled into every gap in the forest. The ground, tree trunks, flowers, grass, and other things.., were all covered in these crystals.

The Ten Thousand Demon Crystal Flower..

This was an environmental phenomenon triggered by the appearance of a powerful demon race. When the powerful demon Qi combined with the spirit energy in the air, this substance called the ten thousand demon Crystal Flower appeared, it would instantly crawl over every natural object like a reptile, and simultaneously emit demon Qi to intimidate them.

This proved that the demon lord of Hundred Caves district was probably even stronger than Wang Ling had imagined.

But regardless of his HP and level, with the way Wang Ling was currently playing the game, what he wanted was a difference in level, and the greater the gap between the two levels, the better.

..

This riot also alarmed Mr. Hidden Fox, who was collecting precious spirit plants in the distance. He had already collected a lot of spirit mushrooms that could be used to refine medicine, and these spirit plants could be quickly refined into pills with a constant market value, moreover, they were qi and blood type pills that sold well.

At that moment, he raised his head again and sensed the riot in the hundred caves region in the distance. He had already heard the commotion there earlier, but he hadn't expected it to be even greater than before.

He heard the shrieks of countless birds. Such a spiritual beast tide usually indicated that a map boss was being activated.

Sure enough, in the next second, in the system channel, a notice that could be seen by all the players floated past.

[system notification: Hundred Caves region near floating cloud town, hundred caves demon lord is awakening...]

Was someone really going to pick up this boss?

Mr. Hidden Fox was suspicious.

Although the hundred-hole region was still in the territory near the novice village, normal players would only be able to level up by killing the demon spirits in the hundred-hole region. These demon spirits would automatically replenish themselves after a few days, and they would never be completely wiped out.

However, if they were to directly challenge the hundred-hole demon lord, it would be different. Once the demon lord died, the hundred-hole demon spirits would be in a leaderless state. At that time, the number of demon spirits in that region would drop by one after another, it would no longer be automatically generated, indicating that the hundred-hole region had been occupied by players.

This was the game's setting.

Therefore, to many players, the hundred-hole region was a place to gain experience. No one would directly challenge the hundred-hole region's boss during the novice stage because they could not defeat it.

After the level was high, they could return to fight. However, this was a laborious and unrewarding job. Not only would they gain very little experience, but the benefits they obtained would not match their current level.

It was like a level 40 boss killing a level 20 hidden boss in a novice village. It took him some effort, but the equipment he obtained was still level 20, since the benefits were not proportional, no one dared to touch the hundred-cave demon master.

Therefore, after eliminating all the purposes mentioned above.

There were only two things that Mr. Hidden Fox could think of. The player who dared to challenge the hundred-cave demon master was either purely courting death, or he wanted to directly kill the demon master to gain control of the demon spirits in the hundred-cave area, he wanted to make these demon spirits his labor force..

And those who had such thoughts were definitely not just npcs.

The other party should be a city lord of a certain city, or a general..

Chapter 2135 2,131: Wang Ling's New Identity + 5(1/86)

This was just Mr. Hidden Fox's personal guess. In the game world of the itinerant fairy child dharma ring, there were very few people who would directly seize power as a general or city lord in a place like novice village.

After all, this was only a small town, and the overall rating of all novice villages was the same. They were all at the lowest grade, grade D, and were divided into the upper, middle, and lower grades according to the resources around the town.

However, in reality, this division was not very meaningful. After all, under the situation of limited military strength, mining resources was slow, and it was easy to cause the town to lack defensive power. Once it was invaded by external enemies, it would be a matter of minutes.

Even if one became the master of the novice village, the final result would be a failure.

However, if it was combined with other plans, it might be possible.

This plan was to control the surrounding demon spirit's cave abode and let the demon spirits become their labor force for resource extraction. The demon spirits did not need to consume food and resources, which could be said to be a loophole in the current game setting.

By using the demon spirits to collect resources, replacing the original military force of the town for resource extraction, and letting the real human cultivators and soldiers return to the city to set up defenses, it would be the best of both worlds.

No..

It could be said that it was the best of both worlds.

This was because even if the “Novice village” were to be invaded by other foreign enemies, the demon spirits that were allocated to excavate the resources would be able to return to defend in a short period of time.

Most importantly, one would never know how much control the demon spirits had in the hands of the town’s city lord or the general who actually controlled the town.

This was because the number of demon spirits was not shown in the game.

To ensure fairness, when players chose to attack a city, they would only see the estimated military strength of the other party’s city the day before and decide whether to launch an attack.

The reason why there was no real-time update of the data was also to make players think twice before attacking a city. Some cities seemed to have very little military strength and were deliberately kept at a very low number, then, after receiving the news that they might be attacked, they urgently asked for help to borrow the strength of their allies from the surrounding cities.

This directly created a natural trap. When the players really attacked, they realized that the number of people was completely different from what the system showed. There was a big difference!

When they were close to the city gate, they realized that the enemy’s strength and their own strength were actually eight to one!

It would be a miracle if they could win!

In the inner segment, many players had allied with each other and cheated many people in this way.

But floating cloud town, which Wang Ling was in charge of, was only a novice village... a novice village with no foundation or foundation to speak of..

Who would have thought that the general of this novice village would have such shrewdness and boldness?

So floating cloud town now looked like an ordinary novice village, and it was very likely a hidden trap with “Crouching Tigers and hidden dragons.”.

It would be interesting if there were some hotheads who attacked at all costs.

Unfortunately..

While Mr. Hidden Fox was collecting the mushrooms in his hand, he was also thinking of his own little plan.

He had already chosen a new town map and planned to develop in a higher-level town. He was going to bid farewell to Yellow Dragon Town and the distance between him and floating cloud town would be further increased. Otherwise, with his good temper of wanting to join in the fun., he would really go and watch the show.

But now that he had already spent the money to hire the motorcade, the route couldn't be changed at will.

However, the game had only just begun.

Mr. Hidden Fox had finally memorized floating cloud town.

..

The Sentry was killed by Wang Ling, and a terrifying demon beast tide whistled through the hundred-cave area. The hundred-cave demon lord woke up and directly triggered a sinister vision -- the ten thousand demon Crystal Flower.

In an instant, the entire forest seemed to fall into an illusory space, turning into a world of crystals. purple-blue crystals covered the forest, completely covering the hundred-cave demon lord with a layer of warning.

Blue plants and animals were very rare in the natural world, and those with blue colors often signified warning, danger, and lethal poison. Such terrifying natural phenomena were rarely seen in real life, after all, the human and demon worlds were currently developing peacefully without any aggression against each other.

But after seeing it with her own eyes, it was hard to describe with words the feeling of shock. Although Lotus Sun had killed an old God and gone to an alien planet, the ancestors of the Sun family had once had a history of fierce battles with the demon world, but as a descendant of the Sun family, she didn't have a complete understanding of the demon race; she had only heard about it from loopy toad.

After all, when Wang Lingping had been a demon, he hadn't been that close to Lotus Sun back then.

In the huge mountain, a single-horned human-shaped creature appeared. Its horns were glazed and gave off a dazzling light. From Afar, it gave off a faint sense of majesty; this was the hundred-cave demon lord.

It was very rare to see demon spirits and Demon Beasts in human form. Clearly, this hundred-cave demon lord wasn't an easy boss to deal with. At least for many people in the novice village, it was a monster that they shouldn't provoke in the early stages.

No one would directly meet this monster whose level and attributes were far inferior in the novice stage. He was wearing glass armor, which wasn't made out of armor, but was naturally formed, it was something that was already on his body.

From this, Wang Ling deduced that the original form of this hundred-cave demon lord was probably a demon beast covered in thick glass scales.

Unfortunately, he didn't know much about demon beasts. There were thousands and thousands of races in the demon world, and Wang Ling wouldn't remember many useless things... he only remembered loopy toad, Demon Saint, and Shen Wuyue. As for the rest..., whether it was a regional demon god or a local demon king, Wang Ling felt that there was no need to memorize all this information.

Because these creatures couldn't beat him at all, Wang Ling felt that there was no need to memorize it

Lotus Sun didn't dare move at all. She could intuitively feel that this hundred-cave demon lord was a question mark boss, and no matter how close floating cloud town was, it shouldn't be possible..

But as soon as she finished speaking, she saw Wang Ling slowly walk forward again, just like last time.

“General?”

Lotus Sun’s mouth instantly fell open; she couldn’t believe in her heart that this scene would actually happen again.

Under the mask, Wang Ling said coldly in a changed voice, “Health Bar emptying spell.”

The next moment, he raised his hand, and a beam of light shot out from his fingertip, turning into a terrifying ray of light that directly pierced through the glazed demon’s head..

And then!

Boom!

This hundred-cave demon lord, who had over a hundred thousand drops of health, fell to the ground.

Lotus Sun watched as the hundred-cave demon lord directly turned into dust and dissipated, leaving behind equipment on the ground. At the same time, dark clouds opened up, and when the light of the sun shone down again from the Blue Sky., the glazed equipment on the ground also shone brilliantly..

Wang Ling wasn’t the least bit interested in the equipment on the ground.

He had deliberately left it for Lotus Sun.

He was only a little interested in his new identity.

Now that he opened his character Pane, a series of identity information was immediately displayed.

Right now, Wang Ling's identity was [trash] , [Warden] , [General Chen of floating cloud town] , [ten-cave demon lord of Floating Cloud Town] , and [hundred-cave demon lord of floating cloud town] ..

Chapter 2136 2,132, The First Outsider Player (1/86)

With the fall of Hundred Cave Demon Master, Wang Ling directly obtained the new identity of Hundred Cave Demon Master in the surrounding area of floating cloud town, as well as a total of 5,000 demon soldiers.

Mm..

This was Wang Ling's round-up of the data, and he directly rounded it up. After all, he had accidentally killed a few of them in the process of attacking hundred cave district, and it would be too troublesome if he counted them as small change.

With the death of the hundred-cave demon lord, there was no longer any possibility of these demons respawning. As many as there were, Wang Ling would hold back as much as possible and kill the hundred-cave demon lord in an instant.

This was to avoid any new variables, which would cause more damage to this area, and thus cause more small demons, whom Wang Ling regarded as his labor force, to die.

Thus, Wang Ling decisively and instantly killed them to avoid a large-scale battle. Although he still lost some of his energy in the process, it was still within his control.

And this move Wang Ling had used to deal with the boss was even more amazing.

It wasn't a simple "Health bar emptying spell"; it was just a short name for Wang Ling.

His real name was: regionalized dynamic health bar emptying spell..

The precision and instant kill of this move allowed Wang Ling to stop the damage to the greatest extent possible, but it was a pity that such precision... was very difficult to achieve in the real world.

After all, Wang Ling was currently in the game world. Although he had been forced into the concept of a debuff, because of his powerful god-level cultivation method, he was now in a passive position, it was the same as being invincible.

And because of the game world, he could precisely control this invincible power.

This feeling of being able to control power made Wang Ling feel even more amazed. He didn't know how long it would be before Wang Ming and Shouchong's joint research and development team could decipher the black stone and develop the latest version of the talisman.

But he had an intuition that this day might not be too far away.

Inside the Karma base.

Wang Ming looked at Wang Ling's actions on the monitor, which had already been deduced from the game's feedback data, and used his brain to make a backup of the human cloud, his fingers also continuously entered various codes on his keyboard to deduce and record.

It could be said that this time, Wang Ming's consideration was in the atmosphere.

It was one thing to let Wang Ling enter the game to assist Mr. Hidden Fox, but the most crucial point was that Wang Ming himself wanted to use Wang Ling's game data to provide experimental references for the new talisman seal.

The world of the loose immortal child's Dharma Ring was based on the modern cultivation theory system. Although it was just a world constructed from countless codes, it was precisely because it strictly followed the scientific cultivation theory system, that was why it had an important reference value in terms of data.

Wang Ming and Shouchong were staring at the screen intently, and Zhai Yin didn't dare easily interrupt their thoughts when she saw this.

A man who worked hard was always the most handsome.

This was exactly what Zhai Yin liked about Wang Ming. When she saw how engrossed Wang Ming was, she felt extremely proud and especially calm.

How to use the talisman to accurately control Wang Ling's strength to the correct level was something that Wang Ming was pursuing at this stage. It was very difficult... but it wasn't completely impossible.

After recording the data for the first stage, Wang Ming and Shouchong each put on wireless helmets and exchanged the data they had recorded.

This process was an exchange and deduction. The two of them exchanged and communicated with the data they had just recorded at the level of their minds and wills, thus making it possible to check for flaws and errors.

Shouchong wasn't as talented as Wang Ming in this regard, but he was older and more experienced than Wang Ming. Apart from that, Shouchong also had a lot of strange thoughts, it could be said that Wang Ming felt that Shouchong was the person who was closest to his mental characteristics below him.

It was like the relationship between the main brain and the sub-brain.

After dealing with the hundred-cave demon lord, Wang Ling's current labor force had just reached a sufficient level. He had originally wanted to push it further and challenge the thousand-cave demon lord and the ten thousand-cave demon lord.

However, if he did that, he would be further and further away from floating cloud town. Without him, the demon spirit labor force that he had gathered with great difficulty would very likely suffer a devastating blow in his absence, furthermore, other players would call him a devil.

In the world of the loose immortal child's Dharmic ring, it was intolerable to associate oneself with demons. For example, right now, he had just absorbed a new wave of demon labor force, and floating cloud town's happiness index had dropped again.

Once the happiness index dropped to an extreme, there was the risk of rebellion at any time.

So Wang Ling's next plan was to first return to the city to maintain it, raise the population base, upgrade the town to a higher level, and use the demon labor force in his hands to expand the buildings in floating cloud town and absorb talents, he would raise the happiness index first.

“General... These equipment...” Lotus Sun followed behind Wang Ling and picked up a pile of purple equipment and materials.

Floating Cloud Town’s hundred-cave demon lord’s glazed demon armor (purple) , glazed demon shards (purple) , glazed demon claws (purple) , glazed demon horns (purple) ..

These purple equipment could be exchanged for a large sum of money for Lotus Sun, and could even be used to forge a new batch of purple equipment, which was a very rare material.

After killing this hundred-cave demon lord, Lotus Sun’s character level instantly rose to level 35.

A level 35 character in a novice village map... it was a little hard to imagine..

“This is for you.” Wang Ling didn’t say much, but under the Tiger Mask, he was still concise and comprehensive.

Just as he was about to take Lotus Sun back to the city, he suddenly heard the sound of a sharp arrow piercing through the wind by his ear..

Wang Ling’s reaction was very quick. He dodged to the side and conveniently caught the arrow.

It was clearly a level 1 NPC..

It was very obvious that the archer in the distance was also very surprised by Wang Ling’s sudden attack. He was also wearing a rare smiling mask.

“Orange equipment?” Lotus Sun was surprised. This mask was emitting a faint golden light, and had a special effect that symbolized the quality of the equipment this player was wearing. It was an orange equipment! It was even more advanced than the Tiger Mask on Wang Ling’s face!

At the same time, she was also astonished. She had never thought that she would actually meet a very high-level player in the field map of the novice village!

Mm..

Although it wasn't as high as the level 35 she had been able to obtain, level 33... was still very scary in the world of the itinerant fairy child's magical ring.

She had obtained the experience, but this player had clearly relied on his own hard work to cultivate.

The player wore a smiling mask that emitted the glow of the orange equipment's special effect. He leaped toward them from the treetops in the distance, and the cloak on his back spread out like a glider, like a lightning bird, against the blue sky, he looked more like an angel that emitted light.

This cloak was also an orange equipment..

Lotus Sun was shocked. This was definitely a closed beta player, or else he wouldn't have so many rare equipment on him.

"Interesting."

After landing, the man looked at Lotus Sun, then took off his mask and revealed a gentle smile. He looked to be in his early thirties.

"A Level 35 newbie village with a level 1 NPC general?" The man rubbed his chin and looked at Lotus Sun. The traditional bow on his back was shining brightly. As he sized up Lotus Sun., he was also thinking about what main storyline Mission Lotus Sun had triggered that had actually directly triggered a level 1 NPC general to help her.

He had been observing from a distance for a long time, and hadn't decided to come and take a look until he saw Wang Ling Kill Hundred Cave Demon Lord in one move.

That arrow just now had only been a test.

"It looks like this is your first time meeting other players?"

"Yes..."

Looking at Lotus Sun's shocked expression, the man holding the traditional bow laughed. "The world of the itinerant fairy child's dharma ring is too big. There are as many novice villages as there are hairs on a cow, and there are all kinds of storylines that can be triggered. It's normal for a village to only have one or two players, and they can't even recognize each other as real players."

The man shrugged and said. He showed a helpless expression and spread his hands. Then he took the initiative to say to Lotus Sun, "Let's get to know each other. My surname is Huang. You can call me old Huang."

After he announced his family name, an extremely clear character nickname appeared above the man's head. This was the character ID he had set up since the beginning of the game.

And announcing his family name was also a direct way for players to recognize each other's identities. It was a sign of sincerity.

As long as you told the player you wanted to know your name, they would be able to see the ID tag above your head forever.

"Hello, you can call me Sun Yiyuan."

Lotus Sun also smiled and shook Huang's hand back.

It was rare for her to meet an old player who was willing to introduce himself, and he looked very experienced.

"Oh right, Old Huang, what's Your Class?"

"Me? I'm a reincarnator."

Old Huang smiled and showed off the traditional bow that he was passionate about. "So, I don't have any equipment restrictions. As long as I have a thorough understanding of the character's attributes, I can use any equipment."

Chapter 2137 2,133, Old Yellow (1/86)

Finally, it was no longer an NPC talking to her. Lotus Sun took off her helmet, and her eyes turned red on the spot. She was purely touched.

Old Yellow was a little surprised to see that the person hiding under the heavy armor was actually a girl. He spoke in a very demonic Manchurian language, which was very amusing. “I didn’t expect it to be a little girl.”

In his impression, very few girls would choose the ancient heavy armor cultivator profession. Their mobility was too poor, they were very heavy, they were not gentle enough, and they were not beautiful enough. These were the taboos of female players.

Many girls would choose the Sword Immortal, star-gazing Daoist, mechanic, and other professions that looked more handsome. In the evaluation of many female players, the heavy armor cultivator was like a walking ugart.

“You’re so excited...”as a player, Old Huang was already an old player in the inner circle of the itinerant fairy’s Dharma Circle world, but in the face of such an excited girl, his otaku attribute was instantly exposed, he almost instantly became shy.

Excited?

That was for sure.

Because to Lotus Sun, all the developments in the current plot could be described as baffling! An open online game had been completed by her in an unmatched single-player game..

It was unknown which choice had gone wrong.

But Lotus Sun didn’t remember that she had too many ridiculous controls!

Wasn’t it just an opening mission to hide her gender?

She had already successfully completed it... In the end, she had been following this level one general of floating cloud town to grind experience until now..

Old Huang was puzzled as well. He sized Wang Ling up from head to toe and asked Lotus Sun for advice on game experience.

“So that’s how it is. The mission you’ve received now is to help this general take care of the city?” Old Huang clicked his tongue and instantly felt that he had indeed underestimated this game.

At least among the closed beta players, no one had ever encountered this mission in the novice village, which meant that the mission Lotus Sun had encountered now had no strategy at all.

No one knew exactly why they had encountered such a level 1 NPC general who could be considered a cheat who had forcefully pushed the map.

At that moment, Wang Ling was walking back to the city. He tried his best to maintain a steady pace as he listened to the conversation between Old Huang and Lotus Sun behind him.

It was expected that he would run into players, but Wang Ling hadn’t expected to run into them at this time, which was a little inappropriate.

But he still wanted to hide his identity as much as possible.

“Generally speaking, even if you have an NPC to help you fight monsters,. You shouldn’t get that much experience. You’ve already reached level 35 after this... Do you know how many people who have reached level 20 in the closed beta are so desperate?”

Old Huang grumbled.

Like many other games of the same category, the survival difficulty of the itinerant fairy child’s magic ring in the map was very high, and there was a possibility of hitting a wall everywhere. If you weren’t careful, you would directly die and start from the rebirth point.

Their level wouldn’t drop, but they would randomly lose two pieces of equipment, 50% of the exp they had accumulated from their current level, and 35% of their wealth.

This wasn’t worth it.

As a result, many veteran players were treading on thin ice, afraid that they would die if they weren't careful. They would store all the equipment they could store in the wild, and they wouldn't bring any money with them.

It could be said that old Huang was a unique existence.

Lotus Sun was also very curious: "Old Huang, how long have you been playing? Orange equipment now?"

In the Loose Immortal's magic ring, it was already very scary to be able to collect a set of purple equipment before level 35. Old Huang's orange equipment could be said to be a dazzling existence.

"I was there during the first and second beta tests. In the first beta, I deleted my file. In the second beta, I didn't delete my file, but my file was deleted," Old Huang said.

"Deleted?"

"Yeah, it was very sudden. It was deleted all of a sudden."

Old Huang Sighed. "I made a lot of good friends at that time, and I didn't even have time to say goodbye to them... We had an appointment during Beta 2. We were so rushed that we didn't even leave our contact details in real life, and then it was all gone."

"Could it be because of that bug incident?" Lotus Sun remembered.

The only bug that had appeared in the inner part of the Loose Immortal Child's magic ring was a two-minute black screen that suddenly appeared on all the players'screens.

Although the bug was quickly restored, it also caused a very small number of players to drop out of the game and lose their saved files, unable to be restored.

Obviously, Old Huang was one of them.

But Bai Qiao had handled this matter quite well. Because there were very few players who had their accounts directly deleted, it was only a single digit number, so it was very convenient to compensate them.

“It’s this matter. Although I can’t contact my good friends from before... If we’re fated, we’ll meet again eventually,” old yellow said with a nod.

“What did the official side give you in compensation?”

“Hahaha, it’s four pieces of orange equipment! But they’re functional equipment with no attributes -- an orange smiley mask and an orange flying cloak! You saw them just now! As for the other two, I’ll keep you in suspense!”

Old Yellow said excitedly. As he spoke, he first showed lotus sun the two pieces of equipment he had mentioned.

[mask of eternal faith (Orange)] : an orange accessory that doesn’t add any additional attributes. can be stacked with a mask-type equipment and has two special skills.

Special Skill 1 illusion balance: can resist the effects of an illusion, but at the same time (while wearing the mask) the illusion you cast will be ineffective against others.

Special Skill 2 manipulation: the mask is permanently bound, and will not drop due to death or other factors.

..

[cloak of eternal faith (orange)] : this cloak will help you gain more freedom in the world of the Wandering Immortal’s magical ring, with three special skills

Special Skill 1 light flying: you gain the ability to fly, the distance of flight will depend on the character’s agility. The higher the agility, the farther the flying distance, and flying does not consume spiritual power. Your flying speed will remain constant, which is equivalent to your normal running speed. However, the good thing is that you can already rely on your cape to cross the map.

Special Skill 2: Airdrop holy treasure: when wearing this cape, you can sacrifice 300 weight-bearing spaces to carry one person with you while flying at high altitude. You can only carry two people at most.

Special Skill 3 pinch: this mask is permanently bound. It will not drop due to death or other factors.

..

“So powerful...”

Lotus Sun was completely dumbfounded when she saw the introduction of the two orange equipment.

No wonder old yellow wasn't afraid of wandering around the wild map... all the equipment that he compensated with the special skill [pinch] wouldn't drop even if he died in the wild map!

Although it didn't add any additional attributes, it was clear that these functions could provide a lot of help during the game.

Normal players didn't know how to get such equipment, but Huang could get four at once!

“Are you envious?”Huang asked.

“A little.”Lotus sun nodded.

“I traded all of them for my friends...”Huang covered his face, not knowing whether to laugh or cry.

Then he immediately became serious.

Looking at Lotus Sun, he said with a straight face, “But it's fine now. I have new friends now.”

Chapter 2138 2,134, Wolong Recruitment Envoy (1/86)

Although they had only known old Huang for a short time, Wang Ling and Zhai Yin could clearly sense that old Huang was a bit of a socialite, and he was also a cheerful and optimistic person.

The world of the itinerant fairy child's Dharmic band was too big, and so many of his friends didn't have time to get in touch with the real world before they lost their accounts, without the in-game world's sects and unions, which were the dominant territories for players to connect, it was really difficult to meet again.

Lotus Sun asked Old Huang. He and many of his friends had met while adventuring and were itinerant cultivators. They hadn't established a sect or union yet, and had planned to set up one together, but his account had been bugged.

In such a big world, Old Huang had cultivated to level 33 by the time he got his account back, but he hadn't been able to find his friends or the player sects or unions he had set up.

"It's okay, Old Huang. If we're fated, we'll meet eventually," Lotus Sun comforted him.

She knew very well how it felt to be left alone, because she had also lost her father and mother when she was very young. But fortunately, as her grandfather, Sun Yiyuan had given her enough care to make up for her parental love, it had allowed her to grow up healthy and safe.

But a regret was still a regret. Lotus Sun knew that there was no way to make up for that missing part.

The right way was to turn this regret into a driving force for her to continue moving forward.

Even if the two elders were no longer around to witness her future as the heir of Huaguo Water Curtain Group, she would still work hard to run her own business better and not embarrass her parents, so that she could become a qualified successor and promoter.

It could be said that this was the goal Lotus Sun had been pursuing all along. In the past, she had thought that she had done very well, and with great confidence, wherever she went, she would be a shining little sun.

It was only when she had met Wang Ling that she had learned what it meant to be a mountain beyond a mountain. It was only then that she had learned that sometimes it was a good idea to quietly make a fortune.

Human growth required a process, and Lotus Sun felt that she had learned a lot from Wang Ling.

But the question was, where exactly was Wang Ling Now?

“From the looks of it, you seem to have lost a friend as well?” During their conversation, Old Huang had figured out Lotus Sun’s meaning.

“That’s right, we entered the game world together...” Lotus Sun said.

“Hahahaha!” Old Huang immediately burst into laughter. “I have so many friends, but I haven’t met them all over again. Although you and your friend played the game together, do you know how big the game world of the itinerant fairy child Fa Huan is. The probability of being assigned to the same map is very small

“And since you’ve been leeching off experience to get to such a high level, if your friend can’t keep up, I’m afraid it’ll be very difficult to meet him in the future.”

“So I really want to ask what the hell this level 1 general is... It feels like a Bug!”

“Mm! I think so too!”

Looking at Wang Ling, who had been leading the way ahead, Lotus Sun once again revealed a suspicious look.

Wang Ling’s Pace had always maintained a uniform speed. He had to admit that as he walked, he felt as if the back of his head had been pierced by Lotus Sun.

“I’ve never heard of this newbie plot of yours. It feels like a new road that can be quickly upgraded. How about this, your mission now is to help the general develop the town? I Can Help!”

“Mm.”

Lotus sun nodded, and then directly opened the system interface in front of old Huang for visual sharing. “Look, this is the current controllable military force.”

Old Huang looked at the sand table of the town that Lotus Sun showed him, and was completely shocked when he saw the deployment of the military strength.

“F * ck! 2,000 soldiers are all stationed in the city, and nearly 5,500 demon spirits are working outside? Interesting...”

Old Huang was stunned.

It wasn't that he hadn't heard of this method of mapping. When he was hanging out with his friends, he had discussed the future development of a town after he had gained control of it.

One of them had mentioned the concept of using demon spirits as labor. The main idea was that this method could minimize the loss of food in the city, which was equivalent to buying demon spirits for nothing.

Moreover, demon spirits would not be counted as physical exhaustion.

However, the drawback was that if the level of the town itself had a certain level, the degree of exclusion of the demon race would be higher. To develop a medium-sized city., at least 20,000 to 30,000 laborers would have to be distributed outside to collect resources every day.

If these 20,000 to 30,000 were all demon spirits, it would greatly reduce the happiness index of the residents of the medium-sized town, causing the city to fall into chaos.

Therefore, the best place to experiment with this plan was in the novice village town.

There were not that many residents in the novice town. Even if there were people who had objections, the number would not be that large. Moreover, the residents' familiarity with the demon race could be cultivated.

The mindset of a medium-sized town was fixed. It could not be changed so easily. However, in the process of upgrading the city, the demon race would be involved in helping to build it. There was a high probability that it would change the residents' view of the demon race.

To put it bluntly, the residents had to get used to this kind of life where humans and demon beasts coexisted harmoniously from the beginning.

However, just as Mr. Hidden Fox had analyzed previously, how could a novice village town, a normal novice player, have the ability to directly exterminate ten and hundred cave demon lords in the novice village..

And now, this wild and unrealistic idea of his was actually met by him. Old Huang felt that all of this was too interesting.

So he decided to stay and help.

“How about this, you recruit me and let me become the first crouching dragon in your town! This will also help with the town’s rating, right?” So, Old Huang volunteered.

“Eh? is that okay, Old Huang? If you become the crouching dragon here, then you’re bound to this town!”

Lotus Sun was surprised at Old Huang’s decision.

To become a crouching dragon, of course, one had to wait for a high-level town to become a crouching dragon. Only then would there be benefits.

No one would choose to become a crouching dragon in a novice village.

And no one could guarantee that this novice village would develop.

“Yes! And this addition of mine can, to a certain extent, counterbalance the town’s happiness index. At the very least, it can make those residents who are afraid of the monster race feel a little more at ease.”

Old Huang said.

With a high-level player who was far above the level of the novice village map joining, and whose combat strength score was no less than 100,000 points, this natural sense of security was really hard to describe.

“What are you waiting for? Recruit!” Old Huang said.

“Hey... I’m just playing this game... I don’t know how to do it...” Lotus Sun stared at the complicated system sandbox in front of her and fell into deep thought.

“You have to do this first, then this, then that...” Old Huang guided Lotus Sun step by step according to the shared sandbox screen. He was very patient and relied on the experience of an old Daoist to guide her.

Lotus Sun learned it after reading it once. The seemingly complicated control interface was in fact far less complicated than she had imagined after Old Huang’s analysis.

In the end, under Old Huang’s guidance, Lotus Sun completed the recruitment of Old Huang according to Old Huang’s instructions.

At almost the same time, Wang Ling saw that he had actually unlocked another hidden achievement identity.

When the reward for this hidden achievement identity popped up in front of Wang Ling, he was stunned for a moment.

[system: Congratulations on recruiting a superior class B Wolong player.]

[system: you have unlocked the Charm City Lord Achievement (successfully recruited a Wolong player above level 30) and unlocked a hidden identity.]

[system: Congratulations on obtaining a hidden achievement identity: Crouching Dragon Recruitment Envoy (this identity comes with a special skill bonus)]

[crouching dragon recruitment envoy]

[special skill: when you recruit a crouching dragon, all expenses will be reduced by 50% . At the same time, your town will be able to recruit a crouching dragon that is one level higher than the town level (that is, if your town is a D rank city, it will be considered as a crouching dragon that can be recruited with a C rank city quality) , and the probability of recruiting a high rank crouching dragon will be increased by 3%]

Chapter 2139 2,135: Lotus Sun's Ability To Draw Inferences From One's Actions (1/86)

Now let's count the multiple identities that Wang Ling had obtained: [trash], [jailer], [general Chen of floating cloud town], [ten-cave demon lord of Floating Cloud Town], [hundred-cave demon lord of Floating Cloud Town], and [recruitment envoy of Wolong]

Even without the initial professional identity of [trash], Wang Ling had already obtained a total of five identities just by relying on various fortuitous encounters and hidden missions.

Even Wang Ling himself didn't know how the game had developed to this point.

But now that old Huang had joined in, there was finally an old player who could come out and play along with him on some of the things he didn't understand about the game.

Although it seemed that old Huang was very doubtful whether his identity as an NPC was real or not, Wang Ling knew that he couldn't hide this for long; he was just an ordinary high school student, he wasn't born in an acting class.

So he could only hide this situation for a while. When the time was right, Wang Ling would choose to reveal his cards on his own, or when the time was right, he would reveal a flaw so that old Huang and Lotus Sun would discover his true identity on their own initiative..

For Wang Ling, hiding his identity at the moment was of great strategic significance.

He and Lotus Sun didn't know Old Huang before, but Old Huang's natural familiarity didn't bother them too much. In fact, Wang Ling even felt that he was a mature and advanced version of Super Chen.

Super Chen also had a natural familiarity, but old Huang clearly had a good grasp of the "Natural familiarity" attribute, which didn't seem out of place at all.

To put it bluntly, Old Huang felt like old Wang Ling was like Old Wang Ling at first sight.

He had four pieces of functional equipment that had been given to him because of the BUG, and so far he had only displayed two of them: a mask and a cape, which were indestructible and had no durability, so they were permanently bound to his body, and they wouldn't drop under the effects of death.

Just these few attributes alone would make most players cry with envy.

As an experienced player, Old Huang knew a little about everything. He guided Lotus Sun through the sand table operation of the city's transformation, and Lotus Sun learned quickly.

In addition to making more reasonable adjustments to the distribution of floating cloud town's forces, Lotus Sun also made use of the surrounding resources gathered by the 5,500 demon spirits she had sent out to begin the construction and modification of floating cloud town.

"Miss Sun, why did you choose this place to expand the city?"

"The eastern gate of the city is a complex terrain, easy to defend but hard to attack. Choosing this place is a guarantee of safety," Lotus Sun replied.

Old Huang nodded, feeling that this young man was worth teaching. In fact, he hadn't taught Lotus Sun much.

After barely saying a few words, Lotus Sun began to use her family's mental model to learn on her own. He really hadn't helped her much; he had only given her a few pointers..

In the end, Old Huang realized that this girl's ability to draw inferences from one thing and another was really strong, almost to the point of absurdity.

Based on Old Huang's experience, he felt that even in reality, this Miss Sun wouldn't be a simple character.

And then there was this name..

Sun Yiyuan..

It sounded so familiar!

He seemed to have heard it somewhere before!

“By the way, Old Huang, if we hire local residents to work on the city’s construction, is that okay too?” At that moment, Lotus Sun suddenly had a bold idea.

The only thing that city residents needed to consider was the consumption of food ingredients, as long as they could fill their stomachs.

Now, the demon spirits’ job was to collect information on city construction, reclaim fertile land, and fill granaries, ensuring the logistics of the entire floating cloud town.

In terms of defense, it was the soldiers’ job.

But apart from defense, soldiers could also participate in city construction. In addition to ensuring food, they also had to pay an employment fee. This was a huge expense, and Lotus Sun felt that it wasn’t worth it.

It would be best if the residents could participate. They could save on the employment fees as long as the food could keep up.

Moreover, by allowing the residents to participate in the construction, it could actually increase the happiness of some cities. After all, if the cities and towns developed well, the people who would ultimately benefit would still be the residents.

And the food problem was just a logistical problem that needed to be solved as the person in charge of the city.

Lotus Sun’s train of thought was also very clear on this point.

“To let the residents participate in the construction, food is crucial. “So when the time comes, we need to gather the residents involved in the construction in one area, and then raise the welfare level of that area, so that more residents can participate on their own.”

Lotus Sun said, “The demi-humans only solved part of the logistical problem by reclaiming fertile fields and replenishing granaries. They also needed someone to move the grain to the homes of the residents who had participated in the construction. Otherwise, if the grain wasn’t distributed properly, the food would only be left there to rot.”

“If the food rotted, there was a high chance that some speculators would be born, and when these speculators saw that there was profit to be made, they would privately open the granaries and sell the grain they had to the residents at a high price. At the same time, they will hinder the transportation work and deliberately spoil the good grain

“So for these people, it’s best not to sell the grain individually; they can’t wait for the residents to come together and buy it in groups...”

..

Another round of meticulous reasoning and brilliant inferences stunned Wang Ling, and even Old Huang was dumbfounded on the spot.

Old Huang had thought of the need for someone to move the food, but he hadn’t thought of what Lotus Sun had said later.

After all, in the world of the loose immortal child’s Dharmic ring, every NPC had their own consciousness and was controlled by an AI. They had their own learning abilities and would continue to grow, they would also determine their own behavior patterns based on the characters randomly assigned to them by the system.

So it was possible that what Lotus Sun had said could really happen, and she wasn’t being alarmist.

In the virtual game world, this series of reasoning sounded very magical, but how could the real world not be magical at times?

“What do you want to Do?” At this moment, Wang Ling, who had been sitting firmly in the general’s seat, finally spoke.

He realized that he hadn’t spoken in a long time, which was an abnormal phenomenon for npcs, so if he took the initiative to speak now, it might actually dispel some of Lotus Sun and Old Huang’s doubts about him.

Lotus Sun obviously hadn’t expected this taciturn general to suddenly ask her a question. She thought it was just a question of a mission, and after careful consideration, she decided to tell the truth, “If we want to save money, we need the residents to complete the construction themselves. And we need a perfect mechanism to ensure that the food supply chain, which is the speed of logistics, absolutely can not be shut down.”

Old Huang: “So?”

Lotus Sun looked at Old Huang, finally, she looked at Wang Ling and said, “So I suggest that the general’s mansion should take the lead in the next step and prioritize the construction of an express delivery center that is responsible for transporting supplies and food! In my opinion, let’s call it Jingfeng Mansion! It’s as fast as thunder and as fast as the wind!”

Chapter 2140 2,136: Wang Ming’s Major Discovery (1/86)

With Old Huang’s help and Lotus Sun, the future heir to Huaguo Water Curtain Group, helping him, Wang Ling’s development in floating cloud town could be described as smooth as flowing water. A novice village town with a ding rating had suddenly leveled up, and when the announcement was made in the game world.

Almost all the players’ attention was focused on this place.

Floating Cloud Town again..

Many people watched the world announcement as the doubts in their hearts continued to pile up.

There were three conditions for triggering the system’s world announcement.

One was to kill a world-class boss, such as the hundred-cave demon lord, which could also be considered a world-class boss.

Two was to level up the city under the players’ control. Normally, there would be an announcement when they leveled up for the first time and when they reached class-a.

Third, they could use tools to consume and shout freely.

In the world of the loose immortals’ magical rings, there was a magical treasure called the “Heavenly Daofang Bell”. By consuming the heavenly Daofang Bell, they could shout freely within 150 words.

Of course, in order to build a harmonious and civilized world, swearing was not allowed. If they swore, the system would automatically change it to “*”.

However, even if one could shout freely, obtaining the Heavenly Daofang Bell was extremely difficult. It was equivalent to casting materials for a pseudo-world-defying divine artifact. Unless one was a veteran player, it was impossible for one to have the materials to forge the heavenly Daofang Bell.

In a place that could be called a novice village, the hundred-cave demon lords around it were directly wiped out. Following which, the level of the town was raised from the lowest grade, D, to C, although it was only below C at the moment., however, the fact that a beginner village could develop to such an extent was still quite unbelievable.

On the other side, Mr. Hidden Fox, who was refining medicine in the wild, also paid attention to this system news that shocked the world.

Under normal circumstances, no one would choose to directly expand their territory in a secondary beginner village. Firstly, the characters' levels were not high enough. There was a high probability that they would not be able to directly control the authority of the beginner village.

Secondly, the resources around the novice village were generally limited. Other than the monsters that filled the mountains and plains, they were the most common and most primitive basic materials.

Unlike him, in order to collect precious spirit mushrooms that could be used to refine medicine, he did not hesitate to hire a convoy to go deep into the forest, constantly taking the risk of being attacked by Spirit Beasts.

However, Mr. Hidden Fox was very calm. He was not afraid of being attacked by Spirit Beasts, but he was afraid that Spirit Beasts would not attack him.

This was because he himself did not have any combat ability. The caravan he hired also had a time limit. If he could tame one or more spirit beasts for his own use, he would be able to change his current condition.

When that time came, he could walk the path of the Summoner faction. This faction was considered an unpopular faction in the game world of the wandering immortal children's magical ring. This was because spirit beasts were not so easy to capture. Moreover, all the big spirit beasts lived in groups.

Once one was killed, the aggro would be stacked. This would directly cause the difficulty to be greatly increased in the future even if the level was raised because of the existence of the aggro.

Therefore, it was crucial for Summoner players not to actively hunt spirit beasts and Demon Beasts. However, in this way, Summoner players would lose a lot of direct benefits compared to other players.

For example, high-grade inner cores, fur, nails, and the like that could be obtained from spirit beasts and demon beasts... These things could be used to forge immortal tools for weapons and defense, there were even some precious alchemy ingredients.

Humans in the wild didn't have specialized alchemy equipment.

The heavenly materials and earthly treasures that they collected needed to be refined into finished medicinal pills to have a higher value. If they were sold directly, they would lose some of the freshness of the heavenly materials and earthly treasures along the way, which would depreciate their value.

Therefore, Mr. Hidden Fox's goal was very clear from the beginning. He planned to directly refine pills in the wild.

And the refining method was more primitive.

It was also the legendary... Iron Pot refining method!

As long as there was a pot.

The caravan had a pot, and Mr. Hidden Fox could borrow it.

This method of refining pills was similar to boiling a hotpot. If the heavenly materials and earthly treasures were thrown in according to the ratio, what was left was to kill time and patience.

After refining the qualified medicinal powder, you could rub the medicinal powder into balls and preserve them.

This process was very boring and complicated. Without a certain degree of patience, it was impossible to do it.

But Mr. Hidden Fox was obviously experienced.

He cut the spiritual mushrooms he had collected into pieces and placed them on the banana leaves according to the ratio. He wrapped them up one by one and directly divided them into hundreds of portions.

These hundreds of portions needed to be brewed one by one. The probability of failure was about 90% , but as long as he could refine two packets, he would be able to recoup his losses.

Mr. Hidden Fox took a deep breath and then decided to carry out the operation.

..

It could only be said that Mr. Hidden Fox was indeed Mr. Hidden Fox. Wang Ming, Shouchong, and Zhai Yin were watching everything from outside and could feel this person's deep knowledge reserves through the screen.

“Directly refining pills in the wild is convenient for obtaining materials. Although the failure rate is high, because of the value of the pills themselves, as long as you refine them, you can recoup the cost and also make a huge profit.”

Zhai Yin was full of praise. “This teacher hidden Fox still has something, and he probably wants to attract spirit beasts with the medicinal smell that is emitted when refining pills. He is a spirit beast expert himself, and has experience in how to Tame Spirit Beasts. “If he can really tame one or two, then even if the convoy leaves, he can rely on Spirit Beasts to continue moving forward.”

“That's right.” Wang Ming nodded.

What Zhai Yin said was exactly what Wang Ming had predicted in his mind early on.

It could be said that Mr. Hidden Fox, Wang Ling, and Lotus Sun were all developing very smoothly at the novice stage.

But Wang Ming still felt that something wasn't quite right.

As part of the wall-breaker operation.

They had participated in the wall-breaker operation in order to break the wall of spirit consciousness that Mi Xiu had set up.

With the help of the Cosmic God, Tiandao Yun, everything seemed to be smooth sailing with a bright future ahead of them.

But for some reason, Wang Ming still felt a little uneasy.

Was it because the deadlock in the forbidden sea area hadn't ended yet?

Or was Qiao Yanyuan too honest and hadn't noticed their wall-breaker's actions all along?

With Qiao Yanyuan's strength, was it really possible for him to deceive him?

Zhai Yin: "What are you thinking about?"

Zhai Yin was now very sensitive to Wang Ming's micro-expressions.

After obtaining the divine brain, even if Wang Ming was overloaded with thoughts, the temperature of his head wouldn't rise again, which made her lose the pleasure of frying a steak on her forehead... so she began to analyze Wang Ming's various micro-expressions.

Psychology was originally a part of special forces cultivation.

Zhai Yin felt that most of it could be seen through her analysis.

The corners of Wang Ming's lips curled up.

He felt that his silly wife was too nave.

He could even predict the probability of his future using a brain-making technique, so it wasn't easy for him to control his micro expressions... It was just that he had deliberately revealed a flaw to see Zhai Yin's cute reaction.

"Shouchong, I suddenly thought of a possibility."

At that moment, Wang Ming suddenly said as he looked at shouchong, who was seriously observing him

Shouchong: "What did Mr. Ming think of this time?"

Wang Ming frowned. "I'm thinking about whether there's a possibility. We're actually also wrapped in the wall of spirit consciousness."

Shouchong: "?"
