Chapter 0010

"Eva. I told you to leave. Do not make me command you." Ethan says coming between me and Eva and I got to my feet, wondering what was about to happen.

"You wouldn't command me, baby. Would you?" Eva asked, stroking her hand down the side of Ethan's face and that forced me to let out an involuntary growl from my chest.

Ethan looked at me over his shoulder and he grabbed Eva's hand and pushed her away.

"Get out Eva." Ethan says.

"You can seriously be happy with her and not with me." Eva says.

"Eva. I demand that you leave." Ethan says, exuding his Alpha aura out. I could feel the aura but it didn't affect me because I came from Alpha blood. But Eva looked like she was in a lot of pain. She was holding on to the doorframe and she was trying to stay upright as little beads of sweat started to form on her face and she nodded her head and turned towards the door.

Ethan released the command and she was able to leave without it hurting her anymore.

Ethan turned and looked at me with a lot of sorrow and guilt in his face. Now he looked like he was scared that I was going to reject him.

"Summer. I am really sorry. I thought that she obviously would have gotten the message when she heard that I had a mate. I called her myself and everything. I told her myself. But I guess she decided to ignore it." Ethan says.

"It's not your fault that she's a little obsessed." I said, sitting back down on the couch.

"Really? That's it? You're not angry?" He asked.

"No. Why would I be angry?" I asked.

"Because a woman just came in here that I obviously have history with." He says.

"Ethan. I'm not an idiot. I know that you would have a history. I'm sure that there's a lot of girls out there in the pack that are going to hate me because I'm your mate. It comes with the territory. It's fine."

"Wow, are you sure that you're only 18?"

"I'm an old 18. Besides, I can't really say anything after what happened the day that you saved me. You had to bring me all the way back to the pack smelling of another wolf."

"That was completely different. You were forced and unconscious. That wasn't your fault." Ethan assured me, sitting next to me on the couch.

"I said that it was fine. I was expecting it. I'm surprised it took this long for one of them to show up." I admitted.

Ethan pulled his head back and looked at me with raised eyebrows when I said that and I chuckled a little at the expression on his face.

"There aren't that many girls in the pack that I've dated or been with. So, you don't have to worry about them holding secret meetings or anything like that." He says.

"If you say so." I say turning back to keep watching the movie.

When the movie was over I decided now would be the best time to talk to Ethan.

"Listen, you know that my dad never let me train in the pack. He didn't want me to know how to protect myself while I was in human form...I was hoping that someone here could train me. I really want to know how to fight because I know that my father will be back. I know that he'll try and find some way to get me back." I explained.

"Yeah. I think that's a good idea. Especially if he has a steady supply of wolfsbane on hand. You're gonna need to be able to defend yourself because he is definitely going to suppress your wolf." Ethan says.

"So, who do we talk to about training me?" I asked.

"Well, there's always the head trainer but honestly, you're my mate. I would like to train you myself. I don't want some other guy with his hands all over you." He says.

"It would only be training and nothing more." I say.

"Yeah. I know. But that doesn't change the fact that he would have his hands all over you." He says.
