

BACK FOR MY DAUGHTER

Chapter 2 - Little Ming

After entering the crack, he saw two paths, one lead above while the other below, signifying the Gods Realm and the Mortal World.

While most people of the Greater Heaven would have chosen the path leading to God's Realm, he didn't, without even thinking for another second as he walked towards the other path.

"Finally, I will meet you. Hope you know me and don't think I abandoned you." He thought.

While walking to the path leading to the Mortal World, he saw many galaxies surrounding the Milky Way Galaxy, where far away in the corner was our Solar System, though it looked smaller when compared to an ant in comparison to Planet Vaiora, he didn't have any thought about as he was from here as well.

Walking towards the Earth he saw a highly dense layer of spirit repulsion layer covering the Earth, he thought for a while before not understanding it and went towards the layer while walking towards it, he felt a huge pressure suppressing his powers not thinking for another while he tried to cross it. While crossing he felt a burning pain in his dantian where all his Spirit Energy was stored like the layer was not just suppressing his powers, but destroying it.

He felt tremendous pain in his soul as if it was being torn apart, somehow trying not to sense this burning and tearing pain he started to go towards the Earth's atmosphere where he found out that his cultivation was removed though not completely but compared to what he was before he was not even considered an ant.

He let go of the thought while he started seeing himself falling through clouds like a meteor, he used everything he could think of, although he was very powerful compared to the Earth mortal. but he couldn't fly thus might crash and though not be turned into meat paste he would die for sure.

He thought for a while and called for the Samsara Crown, now Ring and it expanded to his height and started spinning though it also couldn't use its full power due to suppression, so it could only cover him.

It started spinning and formed a halo sphere around him and his speed of falling decreased by more than half.

Though he now could survive, he might still suffer some minor injuries due to crashing.

Still, he tried to crash on a soft pile of mud and not rocks, but still, he had some deep cuts on his skin.

There was a deep crater of the 100-meter radius where he fell. With somewhat little consciousness he had he tried to walk toward the nearby village.

Walking towards a house he knocked a little when he heard someone come to open the door, while he fell on the ground losing his last bit of consciousness.

The last thing he saw was a blurry figure of a child calling for her father.

When he woke up there was a little girl about 4 years holding a wooden doll in her hand sitting near his head.

Staring at him with her big watery eyes, her brows raised up, she called her father and mother while walking towards the door.

"Sir, are you fine." They asked after entering the room and seeing that Ye Qian was awake.

"Yes, I am and thanks a lot. Where am I now and what year is it?" Ye Qian asked while thanking them.

They both looked at each other thinking 'It's fine to ask where you are but why do you ask what year it is.', while nodding the man said: "This is the Green River Village near Shijing District and the year is 2021."

"Sir where are you from?" He asked cautiously thinking of him being an alien to ask for the year.

Ye Qian understood his thoughts and thought of himself for being foolish, 'who in their right mind would ask for what year is going on? it's good enough if they are not thinking of me as an alien being.'

He smiled awkwardly and said, "I am from Star City, near Shenzhen."

The couple relaxed after listening to his answer and asked him questions like what was he doing and why did he ask them the year.

After thinking for a while he answered that he worked in a secret government base and stayed there and had no idea of time as he rarely went out.

His answer made them a little suspicious but they didn't ponder over it again.

While they were talking for a while the little girl came to them while greeting Ye Qian.

Ye Qian was delighted by her cute and adorable way of speaking and her habits.

He put his hand on her head and patted, while he lost most of his cultivation, none the less he was still the Heavenly Elixir Maker and a Divine Doctor in the Heavenly Realm he quickly found something peculiar and his brows furrowed, he turned his head toward her parents and asked if they knew that the girl had a problem with blood production.

They said "We went to the doctor near the village he told us that she is weak and will have a frequent fever while growing. Though he gave some medicines her skin always remains pale and sometimes she cries from severe headaches also we rarely allow her to play outside as she might get injured as her blood does not clot quickly."

"Hmm.." Ye Qian nodded.

Though he could cure her, the treatment was to be given at two months' intervals for a whole year, where he would have to clean her bones and she was to be given a proper diet within that time. If he was as powerful just as before, he could have cured her with just a tap on her head while allowing Spirit Energy to readjust her bone marrow and revitalize her bones. But now that he lost most of his cultivation he could only think of this method.

He looked at her and asked, "What is your name, Little Lady?"

The little loli smiled while playing with her doll and liked when Ye Qian placed his hand on her head as she felt a cool sensation all over her body as her skin started to turn rosy like a healthy child.

"My name is Ming." The Lili answered.

"Oh! Little Ming what a cute name for a lovely girl. Now tell big brother how do you feel?" Ye Qian asked.

"I feel good, my nose is not runny and the head does not hurt anymore." Ming said while sitting beside Ye Qian as he asked her to sit.

Her parent's eyes went wide and they kneeled on the ground while tears of joy falling from their eyes.

"We tried every doctor they said that Little Ming would only live for two to three years at most. Thanks a lot, Sir we will always be indebted to you for saving our Ming." the lady said while rubbing her tears.

"It's not over yet. It will take time for me to cure her but she will be like a normal child and can play around for time, the treatment will last for a year, every two months, I will come here and treat her later, all of her disease will be removed from the root, and she will have to suffer no more pain." He said while telling me to stand up.

He turned to Ming and said "Little Ming now that you are healthy, should you not take me outside and let me see your friends. There will be no more problem for you and you can play as you like."

Little Ming nodded and held Ye Qian's hand and started to pull him from the bed towards the door of the house.

Ming's parents watched in a daze as their daughter was cured just by placing a hand on her head. They thought Ye Qian was a God, what they didn't know was he preferred staying with his family than being a God and he even did it to fulfil his promise.

While Ming's parents were thinking of Ye Qian as a god, he was busy playing with Little Ming and her friends as she introduced everyone to him.

"This is Qing, this is Yin, this is Sen and this is Yufu." Little Ming said as she introduced two girls and two boys to him the girls were adorable like dolls while the boys were kind of cute, they all were about three to four years old.

"Ohh! they are good." Ye Qian said while moving his hands from their heads.

While there were no major diseases in them, they were mostly malnourished. He poured some of his energy into them for they can have a healthy body.

While looking at their conditions he turned his head around by looking at the village around while thinking of the conditions was not so bad but then too the children were suffering malnutrition there was a lot of farming land in the village and the soil appeared fertile and the production seemed a lot.

While he thought of so many things Little Ming and her friends started playing and talking with each other.

"Ming who is this uncle?" Little Qing asked while playing with the dollhouse with Little Ming and her doll.

"Oh, big brother is a doctor he was injured yesterday and knocked our house at night I and dad saved him and brought him in the house while I took care of him, he is good and he even cured my disease and now I can play with you guys." Little Ming said while a proud look on her face as he treated her with care.

"Wow, he is so wonderful can you ask him to see my mother she is in pain these few days and doesn't speak about it. Can you ask him to cure my mom?" Little Qing asked Little Ming with a pleasing look on her face.

Little Ming nodded while replying "I will ask him later let's play now."

"Yes, thanks Little Ming, I will give you a candy when my mom is cured." Little Qing replies.

"Ok now let my Little Ji help your Little Fie with cooking." Little Ming replied while picking a small mud gas stove and some small utensils made of wood. (These are the names that the girls have given to the dolls.)

"Hey let them prepare tea first, we will have Sen and Yufu as our guests today and then start preparations for lunch." Little Qing said while she placed the toys.

"Oh, I almost forgot." Little Ming said while rubbing her finger on her chin.

After playing for a while Little Ming looked at Ye Qian who was watching them playing with a gentle smile.

Little Ming said, "Let's go to Big Brother to talk about your mother."

"Yes, let's go." Little Qing and others replied.
