Dauntless 113

Dauntless God Of War

Chapter 113

"Ahh! Dad, save me!" Dominic screamed yet again, asking for his father to rescue him.

"The one thing I hate most is people threatening me! And I have sent those who threatened me to their maker! If it weren't for my peace-loving wife, every single one of you would be turned into corpses! I will spare your life, but I will not spare you from your punishment. Now, I want you to spend the rest of your life in a wheelchair!"

After his declaration, Harold broke Dominic's legs in front of everyone.

Instantly, Dominic fainted from the pain.

Next, in one continuous motion, Harold pushed Dominic to Declan.

As Harold dusted his hands, it seemed he had done something not worth mentioning.

His expression remained completely unchanged.

As Declan looked at his crippled son, he felt his heart burst with anger. "Go get him! Tear him to pieces! If he dies, I'll deal with it!" yelled Declan at the henchmen of the Wood family while pointing at Harold.

Immediately, the henchmen of the Wood family pounced on Harold and attempted to tear him into pieces as ordered.

Alas, before anyone could react, the henchmen became punching bags as they were sent flying backward and landed behind the crowd.

They howled in pain.

"What in the world..."

At that moment, the Neptune Chamber of Commerce's four bosses changed their expressions.

"Quick, call the guards of Paradise Hotel! I don't think he has the guts to lay a finger on those guards!"

At first, everyone was shocked when they witnessed Harold's skill in defeating ten men in one go. However, after listening to Declan's words, everyone started expressing sympathy for Harold.

It was known that if one dared to cause trouble in any one of the branches of Paradise Hotel, no matter in which city the offense was done in or what identity the troublemaker had, only a tragic ending awaited them.

Their fate would definitely be worse than Dominic's, who had all his limbs broken.

This was a known fact by everyone in the world.

In no time, the two security guards that were guarding the entrance were led in by Declan's men. Immediately, the two shouted from outside the crowd, "Who's causing trouble here? Come out!"

The branch hotel had only been open for a month, but there were already people causing problems on their turf. This is completely unacceptable! Are they trying to taint our perfect track record?

When the crowd heard the guards' shouts, they once again made way for them to pass.
