Chapter 141

"You're digging a grave for Megs if you marry her off to the Campbell family. I've decided. I agree to break off the engagement if Jacob can get us into the Southvale project," Glen's wife said in a tone that suggested she had made the decision for the good of the Zeller family.

She further pressured Glen, using the Zeller family's development as the excuse.

"I second that!" Myron expressed his agreement.

At that moment, the members of the Zeller family joined forces, demanding Glen to make the decision.

This made him somewhat angry. He turned to his daughter, Megan. "What do you think, Megan?"

"I shall abide by whatever benefits the Zeller family, Dad!" Megan lowered her head in embarrassment as she replied with a soft voice.

Glen sighed at her response.

"All right, then. If Mr. Simmons can really help the Zeller family enter the project in Southvale, I'll break off the engagement with the Campbell family. I'm sure Louis would understand..." Glen said with a shred of discomfort.

Everyone secretly cheered when Glen finally gave in.

"Thank you for trusting me, Mr. Zeller. I'll call my dad now!" Jacob got up excitedly to call Elias, so that the latter could inform the Zeller family.

The Simmons family was in charge of the project in Southvale.

Glen's phone rang not long after Jacob made the call.

It was from an unknown number. Glen's heart started to beat rapidly.

His expression shifted the moment he answered the phone.

"What's the matter, Dad?" the Zeller siblings asked nervously when they saw the look on Glen's face.

"It's from the department in charge of the Southvale urban renewal project. They asked me to attend the banquet at eight o'clock tomorrow night." Glen was stunned as he spoke.

He never knew that the Simmons family was that powerful. Not only had they settled the matter involving Thiago and Paradise Hotel, but they also managed to deal with the Southvale project in mere minutes.

Megan's marriage to the Campbell family surely had to be called off.

Harold did not return home once he left the Zeller residence. Instead, he went to Samuel's place to accompany Isabella, who was still unconscious.

Some time later, Lorraine barged in.

"What is it?" Harold asked flatly when he saw that Lorraine seemed to be hesitating.

"There's a banquet for an urban renewal project at Norham. Grandpa wanted me to attend the banquet on his behalf, but I don't have a partner. Can I borrow Mr. God of War for a night?" Lorraine asked, her heart beating fast.
