

Dauntless 155

Dauntless God Of War

Chapter 155

"Oh yeah, I almost forgot that this is the first time you've been here. This is my dad, my mom, Mr. Zeller—you met him yesterday—and also my sister, Yvonne," Harold introduced his family to Loraine right away.

Even if Loraine and Megan were love rivals, everyone still gave Loraine a warm welcome due to her being Samuel's granddaughter.

"Hello, everyone!" she greeted cordially.

Due to Loraine's interference and help, Harold could finally escape from his house.

The difficult problem that had been plaguing him for so many years was finally resolved.

Glen could only go home in regret. He needed to discuss with his family if they should give up on this marriage.

"Loraine, thanks a lot. If you hadn't come over and saved me in time, it would have been over for me," Harold expressed his gratitude sincerely after running away from his house.

She turned around and asked cheekily, "Then how do you plan to thank me, Harold?"

"Well..." Harold was at a loss for words. Loraine was Samuel's granddaughter. With that status, it was obvious she wasn't lacking anything.

Hence, he truly didn't know what he could give her to show his thanks.

After some thought, Harold decided to let Loraine have a say. "How about this? Loraine, is there something you wish for? As long as you bring it up, I'll definitely fulfill it."

She stared at him for a while before her cheeks flushed as she gathered up her courage to ask softly, "Then... if I ask you to be my boyfriend for real, are you going to fulfill my request too?"

"What did you say?" Harold asked, pretending as if he hadn't heard her clearly.

Loraine was disappointed and embarrassed at the same time. He is the God of War. There's no way he didn't hear me. If there is a reason, then he must be faking it.

"N-Nothing. I'll note down your gratitude for now. Once I have a clue about what I want, then I'll let you know. If there's nothing else, I'm heading back first."

With that, Lorraine forced a smile and hopped into her car to leave.

Harold shook his head while smiling bitterly.

Naturally, he had heard her. However, he really didn't have any more space in his heart for other
