

Dauntless 26

Dauntless God Of War

Chapter 26

Upon seeing Brittany move, the colleagues in the office showed interest in the drama.

As for slapping Harold in front of so many people, this wouldn't be the first time Brittany had done such a thing.

Every time it happened, Harold would not fight back, let alone blame her.

He would even try to coax and please Brittany with a smile on his face in the end.

As such, Harold was known to be the legendary simp.

Seeing that Brittany was still as willful as before, Harold no longer wanted to tolerate her. He reached out to grab her by the wrist to stop her advances.

"You..." Brittany seethed in anger upon seeing that Harold dared to rebel against her.

Her right foot reflexively kicked at Harold's nether regions as she let out a small breath. "Ha!"

Harold's eyes flashed a cold look when he saw Brittany trying to kick him in his private parts.

He pushed her back lightly, and Brittany took a few short steps backward. However, her stance was unstable, and she fell directly onto the floor on her butt.

The usually soft-spoken Gary was immediately surprised. He quickly rushed over to help Brittany get up as his face was full of concern, and he asked anxiously, "Are you all right, my love?"

Harold humiliated her in front of so many people once again. Brittany was so angry that her face turned red and ugly. She yelled hysterically at Gary, "Gary, get the finance department to deduct his pay for the previous month. Let him beg for food on the streets!"

Harold retorted coldly, "I'm sorry as he may have to disappoint you. As a supervisor, he doesn't have the right to fire me or deduct my salary!"

Gary said coldly, "Hmph! I may not have the right, but the manager does. Here's your dismissal notice, signed by the manager. Get out of the company, or I'll get security to kick you out."

He went back into his office to retrieve Harold's dismissal notice. Then, he threw the notice letter at him.

Harold asked, "Is that so? Then I'd like to know who was the manager that has a screw loose."

With that, Harold picked up the notice and took a glance at it. Then, he walked toward the conference room with the letter in hand.

He saw the manager enter the conference room earlier when he stepped into the office.

Gary panicked as soon as he saw that Harold was going to look for the manager. He quickly tried to stop Harold and scolded, "Stop right there! Mr. White and the manager is having an important meeting with the other company executives. How dare you try to disturb them. Are you tired of living?"

He was trying his utmost to slander Harold's reputation in front of the manager yesterday, which convinced the manager to sign the notice letter.

If this incident were to get blown out of proportion, his lies yesterday could be easily exposed.

However, it was impossible to stop Harold with his small frame.