

88 Chapter 88

"Yeah, know your place, chink. You are a mere errand girl, while I'll be your new boss!" Erin sneered. 1

She patted Kate's shoulder and said, "Thanks for protecting me, Sis. Go scold that stupid Chinese errand girl. She should learn to know her place here."

Kate took a deep breath and pointed at the CEO's office with her chin, "Go and meet Henry now. He must've been waiting for you to arrive."

"Correct~ Let me see Mr. Grant now, I bet he will be excited to see me today," Erin said. She swayed her hips left and right as she walked towards the CEO's office door with a spring in her step.

Mai, who had been holding it for so long, finally snapped. She yelled at Erin, "He will kick you out, you racist whore!" 2

"Yeah, yeah, you're just a Chinese errand girl. Go scrub the toilet or whatever," Erin replied without looking back.

"I'm Japanese, you fucking idiot!" 2

"Whatever, you all look the same anyway," Erin replied. She stopped as she reached the door. She looked over her shoulder and taunted Mai with a grin, "When I walk back out of that door I will be your new boss, so you should kiss my feet after this or you'll lose your job, Chink."

And with that, Erin pushed the door open and entered the CEO's office to meet with Henry.

"That whore—" Mai wanted to curse at Erin with all the curse words in the dictionary. She was so pissed that she couldn't wait to jump at Erin and rip her breasts so she'd stop flaunting them like a whore! 2

Mai looked at Kate and complained, "Ma'am, can you believe that woman? Why would we accept a racist like her! Ugh, I'm so mad!"

Kate patted Mai's shoulder to comfort her, "I know, but you need to calm down, Mai. You will shoot yourself in the foot if you attack her now." 1

Kate was also angry at Erin. She never taught her to be racist, and their mother definitely never taught her so either. She didn't know where Erin picked up that habit, but she must punish Erin for what she said to Mai.

She stopped Mai from attacking Erin because Erin would be this office's new 'queen' for a while. She could do whatever she wanted, and if Mai actually attacked Erin, then Erin would have a reason to fire Mai.

Kate definitely didn't want to get Mai fired. She was a very good woman and assistant!

Mai could only lower her head as she tried to contain her fury, "I trust that you have something in mind to punish that woman, Ma'am." 1

"I do, trust me, Mai," Kate said. "You will be satisfied if you're patient." 1

Michael and Henry sat on the sofa when Mai entered the office and served them two cups of coffee.

Michael and Mai eyed each other for a split second, trying to find each other's intention and purpose in this office, and as Mai left, Michael couldn't help but ask.

"Why is that little secretary of yours eyeing me suspiciously? What's her name anyway?" 2

"That's Mai. Mai Ishikawa, 23. She's an employee hired by Kate and she is fiercely protective of her," Henry informed. "She's angry at me for taking Erin's side instead of Kate yesterday, so she's currently mad at me and definitely at you as well."

"Hmm, I see, maybe because she's young, that's why she can't control her facial expression," Michael said. "She looks like she's about to strangle us both." 5

Henry laughed, "You talk like an old man. She's only a year younger than me, and four years younger than you. Don't talk like you're in your mid forties." 3

"Can't help it when I had to babysit you since you were young," Michael said sarcastically, as he was in an argumentative mood right now.

"Yet, I graduated high school before you," Henry said, mentioning the fact that he skipped grades. 1

As they were bickering, they heard a commotion outside. Mai hadn't completely closed the door before so they could hear the voice of two women yelling at each other outside the CEO's office.

Michael frowned, "Should I go and check?"

"No," Henry shook his head. "Let's just stay here and do our part. I'm sure Kate has it under control."

"You put too much trust in that woman."

"As I should," Henry said.

Michael sighed.

They waited until the door was opened again, and this time, Erin came in.

She was wearing a super tight, thin white shirt that looked suffocating. She had two buttons undone, so half of her cleavage was out for everyone to see, and she didn't wear any bra because Henry and Michael could see her nipples through the thin fabric of her top. 1

She also wore tight leather pants that clearly outlined the shape of her butt. Erin was quite a beauty, but her vulgarity shocked Michael so much that he went pale instantly. 5

He knew Erin wasn't the most modest woman, but her brazenness to show that much skin in a formal setting was too much for Michael. He couldn't wait to get the hell out because this type of woman was the most annoying to deal with.

Henry smiled at Erin, who just walked in.

"Welcome, Miss Ross, I've been waiting for you for our second interview," Henry said.

"Really?" Erin was surprised that Mr. Grant would accept her easily. After what happened yesterday, she thought that he would be defensive, even going as far as rejecting her as soon as she walked in through the door.

So she had already planned a better way to seduce Mr. Grant more subtly than yesterday. 2

'Good thing I don't need to seduce him. Turns out he's also into me,' Erin thought. 'Maybe he was just too shy yesterday, that's why he rejected me. Hihi, I knew that he couldn't resist me in the end.'

"Yes, really," Henry said. "I was too nervous yesterday, that's why I told you to come back today for your second interview."

"Well, then I'll be honored to accept any kind of interview that you will give to me. I don't mind if it's hard... or long, hihi~," Erin giggled. She glanced at Michael, who was still staring at her with his jaw wide open in shock. That man must be fascinated by her as well! 3

"So, Mr. Grant, are we going to do the interview in front of your guest?"

