Chapter 501

Edward let out a snicker. "Are you scared now? I'm not just the facilities manager at Cinnamine Pharmaceuticals. I'm also buddies with all the big shots in Riverdale! You'll regret crossing me!"

Noticing the coldness in Yolanda's eyes, he bristled, "Sit down and drink quietly if you want to get your cousin into Cinnamine!"

Though he was not attracted to Yolanda, he did not want Winnie to leave so soon. She was far prettier than Stella and the others. He had been using the drinking as an excuse to get closer to her.

"That's unnecessary." After saying that, Yolanda turned to Winnie. "Begging him won't help getting you into Cinnamine. How could a facilities manager have any say in company hiring?"

"I..." Winnie knew Edward's team had nothing to do with HR, but he was still from the senior management. If she offended him and he badmouthed her to the HR team, it could affect the interviewer's impression of her.

"Is that so?" Winnie stiffened as she waited patiently for what Edward would say next.

"Your resume is pretty good and your major is considerably relevant, but you're too young. Our company wants to hire someone with more experience. Even if you are to come in, you'll probably have to start with being an intern.

"As long as I pull strings for you in our HR department, they will surely hire you!" Edward boasted smugly. "As long as I'm there, I can assure you that your application won't fall between the cracks!

"I can also tell you something that ordinary people don't know-Cinnamine Pharmaceuticals recently has had a very good trajectory. We're not only going to acquire Lyceo Cosmeceuticals, but we're also launching a new product soon.

"I've got news from insiders that once this new product is in the market, it'll become the next best-selling item in the season which will cause Cinnamine Pharmaceuticals' shares to increase at least two times! If you come into the company now, you will be entering at just the right time.

"If you wait till we acquire Lyceo Cosmeceuticals, the number of people who will want to work here would be bursting at the seams!"

Then, he picked up a bottle of alcohol, got up, and inched closer to Winnie. He wanted to pull Winnie to sit closer to him.

Winnie scooted backward, so Edward wasn't able to touch her.

"Of course! How else would she, a little lady who had just graduated and had no background, go on immediately to work at the CEO's office?" Edward boasted. He was a little drunk as he gave Winnie a once over like he was eyeing meat on his chopping board.

"Kelly is distantly related to me. Even though our families don't have a very close relationship, since they had asked me for a favor, it was still hard for me to reject them. Also, to me, she's intelligent and sensible, so I just brought it up to Ms. Lovell.

"Now, Jessie and all of you, you should know how important Kelly is to Ms. Lovell, right? Ms. Lovell basically hands over all the important jobs to her. She's very important to Ms Lovell."

"Yes, Kelly indeed has a glamorous position." Jessica and the rest nodded as their tone laced with envy.

"All of you, you don't have to be so anxious. There will be many chances in the future, and I'll be thinking about all of you when it comes." Edward was boasting smugly about how capable he was.

Those who might not have known the truth would think that he was the CEO of Cinnamine Pharmaceuticals.

Yolanda watched quietly as Edward blew his own horn. She didn't even have the interest to refute what he was saying anymore.

"Who are you?" Stella retorted, unwilling to back down. "How dare you look for trouble here?"

"Do you know who Mr. Edward is? Mr. Edward is very close with the big bosses at Riverdale!"

Edward glared at the bodyguards and yelled, "Just a few of you and you dare order me around and kick me out? Have you not heard of who I am? I'm Edward Bingham!"

Before he could finish, the bodyguard in front raised the rod in his hand and smashed it onto their table, breaking the alcohol bottles and glassware, and causing glass shards to fly everywhere.

"Who the heck is Edward Bingham? We've never heard of him! We're going to clear the venue now, so all of you, get the fuck out right now!"

"Scumbags!" Edward was enraged. "I think you're looking to die, huh?"

He whipped his phone out and was about to call for reinforcements when the bodyguard slapped him.

"With Mr. Knox around, who exactly do you think you are?"

Edward didn't dare to have any complaints even if he was severely beaten up.

"Get the fuck out, all of you," Knox raised his head slightly and ordered like he had declared that he was going to pardon them of their sins. Suddenly, he paused and his tone took a sudden turn.

"But you have to stay." He pointed at Winnie and said matter-of-factly. "Drink with me. If I'm happy, I won't come after your friends."

"Me?" Winnie's body stiffened and retracted a few steps subconsciously.

"It's your honor for Mr. Knox to value your worth."

Knox thought that Yolanda was calling for reinforcements, but he didn't expect her to put the call on speakerphone after the call went through.

"How may I help you, Ms. Henderson? Why have you called me at this hour?"

Knox recognized this voice immediately.

But, h-how was it possible?

How would his dad know this puny, ugly creature? Why did he address her so respectfully?

"I met a man bullying my cousin in a bar. He claims to be 'Mr. Knox'." I'd like to know if this person has any relation with you."

"Mr. Knox?" Vic's tone changed immediately. "Please allow me to talk to him, Ms. Henderson."

Yolanda didn't reply. Instead, she walked up a few steps so her phone was nearer to Knox.

"Dad...you know this person?" Knox asked, preparing for the worst.

Knox wasn't prepared for that at all. He yelped loudly in pain.

"Go to the hospital now to have the bone aligned and it won't have any lasting side effects. Know your place next time."

After Yolanda was done, she pulled Winnie with her and walked out.

"I admire you more and more, Yolanda!" Winnie whispered to Yolanda as she followed her out.

She had never thought that in the short span of three years, Yolanda would transform so much beyond her imagination.

"How did you do that? I was already so nervous that just seeing someone like Knox made me want to pass out."

"You don't have to worry about that. They're all going to leave Cinnamine Pharmaceuticals soon," said Yolanda.

"Huh? Why would they leave such a great job?"

Winnie was a little confused.

"Maybe they have found better benefits somewhere else."

Yolanda was worried that Winnie would feel more burdened if she were to tell

"She is more concerned with her reputation and her position in the Henderson family than me," Yolanda said to Winnie about Diana.

She had already seen through Diana's ingenuity, so no matter what she did, Yolanda didn't find it odd.

Winnie thought Diana wasn't as bad, but she didn't force Yolanda to accept her point of view.

"Don't worry, Yolanda. No matter if you're a Henderson or not, you're still my cousin."

Then, she wrapped Yolanda in a careful embrace since her hands were greasy from the fried chicken. "We're family forever!"

Yolanda was slightly taken aback, but she returned Winnie's hug.

It was a chilly night in early spring. There might not be a fire in the fireplace, but at least no one would be feeling cold that night.

When Yolanda walked into the classroom the next day, she found a lot of revision questions on her table.

Some of Yvonne's classmates showed their pity by patting her shoulders.

"She won't be able to be smug for long. I heard she had made a bet with the academy's board of directors. If she doesn't get first place in the Southdale Physics Competition, she'd have to get the fuck out of school.

"The Savages would never allow their daughter-in-law to have a blemished record."

"Thank you all! But, please, don't make things difficult for my sister. I think she was just acting rashly at that moment." Yvonne turned to glance at Yolanda as a smile crept up her face.

She would not stop until she saw Yolanda lose her reputation, dignity, and everything else she owned.

All of these should have belonged to her—all of Henderson's assets, the love of her parents, and the position of the Savage's daughter-in-law. All these should have been hers!
