

Dear Chief 15

Chapter 15: His Strength Was Astonishing

For the first time in his life, Gong Jue was being scolded by a woman.

What surprised him was that, in that moment, he didn't actually get angry. Instead...

"Only this much and you call me a scoundrel? Looks like you don't have much worldly experience. I don't mind helping you increase your knowledge!"

While speaking, Gong Jue used one hand to suppress Gu Qiqi's wrist and another to hold onto her waist. He easily flipped her over.

1

This man's wrist was hard as steel.

His strength was astonishing!

Because of how petite she was, she was just like a bunny which was being arbitrarily man-handled by a big bad wolf in his hands.

Gu Qiqi's small face was immediately buried into the seat.

"Hmp—"

Following the shaking motions of the car, Gong Jue's arm bumped against her back.

"You horrible man! You're losing the face of every man in the Empire! You are like those d*mned nerds who only know how to tap on keyboards and write coding sequences! Thinking that because you became a small manager—who did a bit of research or invention in a small company—you would act so arrogantly! You stupid man!" Gu Qiqi railed at Gong Jue with a nasally tone.

1

Special Assistant Lu, who was driving the car in the front row, felt like his heart had skipped a beat just from listening.

Young Lady Qiqi, don't you know who you're cursing at?

If he stomped his feet, waves of aftershocks would wash over the empire's important conglomerates.

If he raised his hand, he could cause the entire science and technology sector to regress by 10 years.

You said that he is a small and d*mned nerdy manager? Heh heh. But all the major conglomerates in the empire take him as their guide and they follow his words blindly. The high-tech merchandise and techniques that he has under his control are most sought after by the world!

1

Have you heard of a tyrannical chairman possessing state-of-the-art technologies?

This master is the one.

Young Lady Qiqi, I have a premonition that—if you talk randomly like this—you will end up quite miserable later. Hmm, perhaps you will die without an intact corpse...

But Gu Qiqi did not feel the impending danger

On the contrary, there was a tiny voice in her brain appearing faintly: Please, please curse him a little more viciously. It'd be best if you could make him lose his rationality, so that he'll eat you up straight away... Tsk tsk. This man's pheromones are so strong! His vitality is so great! The way he looks while pressing against you is so handsome!

3

What the h*ll?

Gu Qiqi shook her head. Ever since she was reborn, she discovered that some strange thoughts would emerge from her mind from time to time. They didn't belong to her at all but were like thoughts from another soul.

Some of those thoughts even made her shy to articulate them out loud.

Until Gong Jue's cold voice exploded in her ears:

"Why aren't you cursing anymore? I still want to hear about how I lost the face of the entire empire's men. Tonight, I won't mind making this feedback become a reality! But when I do so, I won't be happy having someone eavesdropping on us!"

As he spoke, he freed one of his hands and dismantled the battery from Gu Qiqi's cell phone before throwing it out.

Gu Qiqi's body stiffened.

The reason she was so brave in provoking him was that she had turned on the recording software on her phone before she got into the car.

This software could upload the recording straight onto the web.

Initially, she had thought of recording this tyrannical yet flaccid man's every word and action to use them as a bargaining chip to get out of this situation.

After all, no matter how small a manager he was, he would still want his reputation. She didn't believe that this tyrannical yet flaccid man wasn't afraid of her uploading the recording onto the internet.

But how many minutes had it been?

She had actually been read like a book by this erectile dysfunctional man!

Were his eyes capable of X-Ray vision? How could they be so sharp!

Having lost her advantage in this situation, Gu Qiqi grew calm.

She couldn't continue arguing with this man; Xiao Ning was still in school and in the middle of stealing the application form that she was waiting to fill in herself. Her time was very precious!

Gu Qiqi wriggled her body and adjusted her emotions before she replied in a collected tone of voice, "It's not necessary to go to that much trouble anymore. Since you want to change the two words 'erectile dysfunction' on the medical report, I'll just switch them back for you."

The woman's sudden acquiescence caused Gong Jue to feel dissatisfied.

He wasn't willing to let her go just like this.

Actually, he felt somewhat comfortable pressing against her like this now.