

Dear Chief 36

Chapter 36: An Unexpected Videotape

Gu Qiqi's eyebrow lifted as she looked towards the beds in astonishment.

She could distinctively see that Zhu Fen had hideous wounds on her back that looked badly mangled. It seemed as if countless glass fragments had pierced through her entire body and pulled out subsequently.

Zhu Fen's wounds were over 100 times more serious than those small cuts on her shoulders yesterday.

While Gu Xuexue, on the left, was even worse.

Her arms and legs were all attached with splints. They had most likely been fractured.

But the worst wound was on her forehead. To be honest, it wouldn't be a big deal if it had been sewn together with a cosmetic thread.

But she didn't know which incompetent doctor had sutured it—it was all crooked like a centipede.

Even if it healed in the future, she would still end up disfigured.

As Gu Qiqi studied the disastrous wounds on Gu Xuexue, she couldn't help curving her lips slightly and laughing silently.

Gu Xuexue abruptly raised her head and caught sight of that carefree smile on Gu Qiqi.

She was already infuriated in her heart, and the sight of Gu Qiqi further intensified her anger as she immediately bared her teeth and glared, "Gu..."

She had been about to swear at Gu Qiqi, you little b*tch! You caused my disfigurement! I'm not done with you!

But she had only articulated a word before the fruit basket in Gu Qiqi's hand smashed down ruthlessly on her head. Before she could even emit a muffled sound, she fainted onto the hospital bed.

Zhu Fen was lying face down with her head buried into the pillow, so she didn't see this scene. She only thought that Gu Xuexue's voice had become hoarse and she was struggling to speak.

She stated listlessly, "Xue Xue, I know that you want me to deliberately change that videotape to a fake one for Gu Qiqi, that b*tch. But you have no idea how cunning she is. If she finds out that it's fake, we'll be done for. Actually, I think that we don't have to do anything and just wait for her to receive the admission letter from the nursing school. By then, she can only envy us for studying in a medical university! Nothing would be more satisfying than this—knowing that her lowly fate means that she only deserves to become an inferior nurse for her whole life..."

Zhu Fen ranted.

As though she had already stomped Gu Qiqi beneath her feet in her mind.

But in the very next moment, her head received a powerful impact.

That strength was controlled very well. She had been hit to the point of dizziness but did not pass out.

“Who? —Omf!”

Zhu Fen shrieked in terror.

But her head was forced into the pillow abruptly so that she couldn't make a sound.

Zhu Fen struggled for a while. The wounds on her back started to bleed—it hurt like her organs were splitting into pieces.

Who exactly was this person? How ruthless!

“It's me, Gu Qiqi. Who only deserves to become an inferior nurse.”

Gu Qiqi laughed sarcastically, “Where's the videotape? Hand it over!”

With every word that Gu Qiqi said, she used the fruit basket to knock against Zhu Fen's head casually.

The force was neither light nor heavy.

But it was very frightening! And painful!

Hearing that it was Gu Qiqi, Zhu Fen grew even more terrified and stated honestly, “It's in... It's in my school bag.”

“If I find out that it's fake, you know what will happen to you!”

Gu Qiqi retrieved an old videotape from Zhu Fen's bag.

Luckily, Gu Qiqi had made her own preparations. She took a small video recorder out from the fruit basket and stuffed the tape into it straight away. Then, she pressed the play button.

She spent half an hour looking through the entire video. But...

There was no scene of her with that mysterious perverted man doing that kind of thing on the operating table at all.

“Did you edit it beforehand?” Gu Qiqi picked up the fruit basket and knocked it against Zhu Fen's head again.

Zhu Fen shouted loudly in pain, “No! Definitely not! This is the original videotape that I took from the CCTV room! Look at the timestamp, 10 minutes 20 seconds, there's a scene of you in the operating room...” surge Gu Qiqi replayed the tape.

Sure enough, she appeared in the operating room in that segment.

But she had only gone to the operating room to take disinfectant wipes and some simple powdered medicine for wounds!

That was because when she went to the hospice to visit her younger brother, Gu Xiaobei, the last time, she noticed that the working staff there were very negligent towards him.

There were times when her brother would injure himself in a fall, but those people would drag out the treatment for so long that his wounds became inflamed.

She had taken the leftover medicine from the operating room to give them to her younger brother for some simple nursing.

“That’s all?”

“That’s right. Xue Xue said that she wanted me to cut this part out and send it to my dad and yours! To pin a charge on you for the embezzlement of hospital property!

Embezzlement of hospital property.

Gu Qiqi could only laugh in sarcasm.

Setting aside the fact that she was the hospital director’s eldest daughter, these little bits of medicine were only worth a few dollars. Furthermore, they were unwanted leftovers from the surgery

Speaking of this Qing Cheng Hospital, it wasn’t even the Gu family’s property from the start!

Her biological mother had made the most investment in this hospital back then!

Mother Xu had told her before, that this hospital should not be named Gu!
