

dear lawyer 361

Chapter 361 Action Now

At the first sight of Roe, she was very interested in this cute kid. After a few words, she felt surprised that this little kid was not common at all, as he was very popular among adults.

She intended to play with the little Roe, but her phone rang. Roe just stood beside her, and said nothing, which showed he was well brought up. And this enhanced her fondness in him.

When the phone was getting through, a deep male voice came out.

“Daisy, have you arrived at the hospital? Is there anything wrong with you on your way here? I am so worried about you.” Roe knew that this beautiful girl was Daisy. And the man who called her was Six-ears.

Daisy said in a sorry tone, “Sorry, I just arrived at the hospital, and saw a cute little kid. I just chatted with him for a while. Are you expecting me?”

Six-ears said with relief, “I am OK. I am just worried about you. Now, I feel better knowing that you are OK. By the way, what kind of kid makes you so interested? I also want to see him.”

Daisy smiled and said, “I have no idea whose kid he is. I am afraid that he will be in peril, because he was standing on the corridor alone. So I came over to check on him. After chatting with him, I found he was really a cute boy. He said his name was Roe. I know nothing else about him. I just had a happy time with him.”

Pausing for a while, Six-ears said, “What if he encounters some danger? Since he is alone in the hospital, you need to be with him, lest he be kidnapped by others. Fine, you come to see me later.”

Daisy’s eyes were filled with warmth, “I know you are kind-hearted, even though you look like a bad guy.”

Six-ears just smiled a little, then said, "Thank you for your kind words. Just play with Roe right now, and come to me after sending him back to his ward."

Daisy responded with an "OK" and put down the phone. Then she asked Roe, smiling, "Little Roe, where do you want to go and play? I can take you there."

Roe was just a child, so he let his defense loose very soon even though he did not trust Daisy at the very beginning. Seeing that Daisy was beautiful and mild, he said after thinking for a while, "I do not know where to go. My mom and dad went out to have lunch. They might come back after a long time. I just want to go out and play for a while."

He said with fears, because he was going to sneak out secretly. He had a sense of guilt in his mind.

Then Daisy said, "OK. Let me take you to the restaurant across the street, is it OK?"

Roe rubbed his hands together, not daring to look into Daisy's eyes. He said in a low voice, "But I have no money. I heard that boys should pay if he is going to eat with a girl. I will feel embarrassed if a girl is going to pay the bill for me."

Tapping her forehead again, Daisy was wondering from whom Roe learned these things. But looking at his serious face, he seemed to be cuter.

She held roe's hand, smiling, and said, "Roe is really a good boy. But you are still a kid, it should be my treat. When you grow up, you can treat me. Is it OK?"

Blinking his eyes, Roe said still in a low voice, "When I grow up, you will be old."

Daisy became speechless. She did not know how precocious this little boy was. So she just held Roe's hand and went to a western-style restaurant on the other side of the street.

In a ward on the fifth floor, Six-ears was staring at Daisy and Roe, who were standing at the door of LIKA Hospital. Fierceness flashed in his eyes, it seemed like he was thinking aloud, "For a very long time, I have not got a chance to carry out my plan. It turns out that I should have found William's son without any effort. This is what we say destiny. William, I want you to have a taste of the pain to lose your son."

He took up the phone, and dialed a number, "Send some people to the western restaurant opposite the hospital. Daisy was with a child right now. You do not need to do anything to Daisy, but kidnap that child to the deserted warehouse in the suburbs."

The person on the other side of the phone call was hesitating, "Boss, what if we injured Daisy by mistake? The Shen Family won't stand by and let us go. Should we find another chance to do it?"

Six-ears said with a snort, "Do not worry. I will explain it to Daniel. You just go on."

"OK, boss. We will go after some preparation."

The man hung up the phone.

Six-ears showed cruel slimmer of smile, and called Daniel again.

"Six-ears, it did not occur to me that you should be calling me. What? You found the supply of goods?"

Daniel asked, his smile not like a smile, making other people confused about his emotions.

Six-ears laughed coldly, "Daniel, I want to tell you something."

Silent for a while, Daniel asked, "What?"

"I just saw William's son, so I called someone to abduct him."

Six-ears's voice was peaceful, but the excitement from his deep heart could be clearly felt.

Daniel said lightly, "That is the conflict between you and William. It has nothing to do with me. You do not need to tell me this." Six-ears continued, "But Daisy was with that child."

Daniel paused, and his tone became extremely serious, "Six-ears, I do not care who you want to abduct. But if you dare to hurt my sister, you will not live a good life for the rest your life. Do not take it for granted that I will obey you only because you have promised to find my supply. You need to know who you are."

Daniel was gentle as usual, but he became stern all of a sudden. A tone of seriousness was within his voice. Six-ears felt a chill from his backbone.

In this city, it was very easy for Daniel to fight against someone. He had at least one hundred ways to make a person disappear without any scent and track, including Six-ears.

Six-ears exhaled, and he felt his heartbeat was accelerating. Enraging Daniel was obviously not a good experience. He soothed his mood for a while and said, "Mr. Shen, do not get angry. I promise I will not hurt Daisy. This is why I am calling you."

Daniel smiled coldly, and said, "It is best if you know what to do. But I do not quite agree that you are to abduct that kid when my sister is there."

"Mr. Shen, I promise that Miss. Shen will not be hurt. As long as you agree to abduct this kid this time, I will solve your problem of your supply of goods." Six-ears was very clear what Daniel wanted, so he showed his last shot.

Pausing for a while, Daniel said, "OK. But you'd better have your men watch out. If you get Daisy hurt, I will make your life a living hell."

Chapter 362 Cute Roe

Daisy was holding Roe's hands. She did not know why she liked this cute kid so much since the first sight of him. Roe followed her, like a small tail.

"What do you want to eat? My treat!" Daisy said with smile while she was sitting with Roe in front of a table.

Blinking his eyes and thinking for a long time, Roe said shyly, "Can I have a piece of cake?"

Because of Roe's heart problem, the doctor never permitted Roe to eat sweet food, afraid that it would burden his heart. But Roe was just a child; he had no resistance to sweet food.

Daisy did not know that Roe had heart problem, she slapped her fingers, and said with smile, "OK. I will buy desserts for you."

Roe slapped his hands with a huge smile on his face. He was thinking that maybe he could sneak out again in the dinner time, when his parents were eating outside. He just did not know whether he could meet this beautiful girl or not.

Daisy must be in the dark about what Roe was thinking about. As a girl, she had no resistance to sweet food, too. So she ordered the dessert very soon. She looked at Roe, her hands under her jaw, and she felt that Roe was really cute after seeing him as happy as a lark.

Feeling Daisy's eyesight on him, Roe lowered his head shyly, and said in a low voice, "Sister, do not look at me this way. I am feeling embarrassed. I am just a child."

Daisy was shocked, having no idea why this kid's thoughts were so mature. She became even more interested in Roe.

Roe smiled with blinking eyes. This was a joke he played with this beautiful sister he just got to know. He was William's son. He knew how to make girls happy. He inherited it from his father.

Seeing Roe's eyes, Daisy couldn't help thinking, "This kid is so young, but his is so thoughtful. As an adult, she was almost fooled by him to think that he is just too mature."

"What's the matter with you? You have to stay in hospital. Is it a very serious disease?" asked Daisy after a sipping of the juice.

Seeing that Roe was wearing a hospital uniform, Daisy was becoming just more interested in him.

Roe blinked his eyes, and said seriously, "The doctor said my heart has some problem, and I need to do a heart transplant surgery. But I have not done it, so I felt very fearful every day."

Roe's adult-like tone stunned Daisy. Although she was not a doctor, she knew some common sense about heart transplant. It was usually the congenital heart disease that needed to transplant a heart. She knew how serious that disease was.

It did not occur to her that such a cute child should have such a serious disease. A feeling of empathy arose in Daisy's heart.

She sighed silently, and the atmosphere became more imposing.

Noticing that Daisy stopped speaking, Roe comforted her with his eyes blinking, "Do not be so sad. I am fine now. And I am gonna be OK. My mom often tells me that I should be a tough boy."

Daisy lifted her hands subconsciously, touching Roe's forehead lovingly. She felt more sympathetic with Roe's mother. She knew that any mother would be delighted at having such a son. It was a pity that he got such a disease.

Congenital heart disease would not endanger his life temporarily. But if he could not find a suitable heart, his life would be in danger anytime. Although this was the first time she met Roe, she wanted to help him.

But it was not easy. Even though she was the daughter of the Shen Family, she could not find a suitable heart soon. Seeing the easiness on Roe's face, Daisy sighed again.

Maybe because this child was too young to know the seriousness of the heart disease, Daisy thought. The waiter brought the desserts to their table.

All of a sudden, it occurred to Daisy that desserts would increase burden to his heart, so she said to Roe with a tone of negotiation, "Desserts were not good for your health. Would you like to have something else rather than desserts?"

Roe showed an expression of grievance, looking at Daisy pitifully. He was about to cry, as if Daisy owed him a large amount of money.

Daisy felt guilty after seeing Roe's facial expression. Since she had invited Roe to have some desserts, how could she say 'no' to him now?

After some hesitation, she said, "Well, you can eat, but you can't eat too much. Just a little, OK?"

Roe nodded his head obediently. Daisy did not see a slice of cunning in his eyes.

Daisy shook her head, feeling a little helpless. This little boy was just difficult to persuade. His cute facial expression had already made her give in. It would be more difficult after he grew up.

Regardless of what Daisy was thinking about, Roe just wanted to eat the dessert. He was just a child and could not resist it.

However, even though he was eager to eat it, he still ate it like a gentleman.

Judging from the way he ate, Daisy concluded that Roe was born in a wealthy family and had received good education. Looking at Roe who had eaten a piece of cake, she asked, "Roe, could you tell me something about your family?"

Roe showed an sense of alert, and did not answer Daisy. He just looked at her with his innocent eyes.

Daisy shrugged her shoulders. Noticing that this little boy's alert, she smiled and said, "I like you very much, so I want to know more about you. Why do you look at me this way?" Blinking his black eyes, Roe said, "Mom told me that I should not tell other people anything about my family, so I cannot say anything to you."

Daisy also felt her abruptness. Who would ask a new friend so much about his family? After all, this was not a blind date.

Thinking about blind date, Daisy flushed. Roe was only a child, how could she think of a blind date with Roe? But her interest in Roe was true. She intended to see Six-ears today. It did not occur to her that she could know so cute a friend.

Daisy did not like to use her mind. From the conversation between her and Roe, she could feel that this little boy was just too bored to walk out of the hospital when his parents were out. She thought that she had to send Roe back after the dessert time.

When Roe finished the desserts, Daisy held his hand with smile, and said, "Well, now you have had your desserts, I should send you back to the hospital. Your parents should have come back. They would be worried if they did not see you there."

Roe curled his lips, and said, "My parents are having a quarrel. I do not like them to have a fight like that. If they could not find me, they would just stop quarreling and come to find me together."

Chapter 363 Hide Deep

There was a rapid screech of brake behind when Daisy held Roe's small hand and went across the street toward the hospital.

After the sound of quick footsteps, Daisy and Roe were surrounded by several men in black.

Daisy found something wrong, she stood in front of Roe protectively and looked at the men in black and asked loudly, "Who are you?"

One of the men said coldly, "Daisy, it's none of your business. We don't want to hurt you. Just give the child to us and pretend that nothing has happened."

Daisy got a shock and she didn't know why these people wanted to have Roe. However, before she could speak, the men in black had already come up to seize Roe.

Of course Daisy couldn't let them take away Roe like that, but a man covered her mouth before she could shout for help. Other men scooped up Roe who was extremely frightened and rushed into the car.

"Daisy, I am sorry."

The man in black saw his accomplices take away Roe successfully. He released Daisy, said sorry in a low voice, and got into the car quickly. The car drove fast and soon merged into the traffic.

The thing happened so fast that Daisy didn't even respond. She just stared at the direction where the car had disappeared. After a while, she finally reacted to it and called Daniel with her quivering hand.

"Daisy, call the police first. I will arrange people to find Roe at once. Don't worry, I will handle it."

After comforting Daisy, Daniel put down the phone and sat back to the sofa. His eyes became cold. Of course he knew where Roe was because it was his men who kidnapped Roe.

Six-ears's men were unreliable. In order not to hurt Daisy, Daniel decided to ask his men to do it. But no one could guarantee that in real action. He signed with relief after answering Daisy's phone.

Daniel smiled. In exchange of the action, Six-ears must provide him with source of goods.

He stood up complacently and said to Bob and Kevin who were standing beside him obediently. "Let's go to the warehouse in the suburb."

A luxury car drove out of Daniel's villa and headed for the suburb.

Soon they arrived and Six-ears and his men had already waited there. When seeing them, Six-ears came up to them warmly.

Daniel got off the car and said lightly, "I have already finished the thing you wanted, when do you plan to fulfill your commitment?"

Six-ears laughed and he could even imagine the way William looked when he knew the news. He was very pleased and smiled, "Daniel, don't worry. Later the person who offers us the source of goods will come and discuss the price with you. We cooperated for several times and he is trustworthy."

Daniel nodded without saying anything. He still doubted Six-ears's words. His family had done this kind of business for a long time but didn't know who could do this in the city. But under this circumstance, Six-ears won't cheat him. He was also not that bold. Maybe he really had good connections.

Daniel won't look down on Six-ears due to his poor background. Sometimes nobody could become somebody. He was just a little vigilant.

Six-ears didn't know what Daniel was thinking. He saw Daniel's reaction and thought Daniel didn't believe him, so he forced a smile on his face, "Daniel, I still want to cooperate with you later and I definitely won't cheat you, so you don't need to doubt me."

Daniel collected himself and smiled, "I don't doubt you. The person who cheated me had already been thrown into the ocean and became the food of sharks. I know you are a smart guy and you won't do such a stupid thing. What do you want to deal with William? Need my help? "

When William's name was mentioned, Six-ears's face became clouded. "It's just between me and William. You'd better not involved. I am going to settle it with William tonight."

Daniel nodded, "Well, I think you have waited for a long time and I just don't want to get involved. The kid was confined in the biggest warehouse. Later I will let my men go and let your men take charge of it."

Suddenly Six-ears laughed, "Daniel, if I want to do something more, will you help me?" Daniel frowned, "What do you mean? You want to deal with others besides William?"

Six-ears sneered, "Daniel, William is not only a lawyer. I think you know it clearly how great his background is. If I kill him, I must be in trouble. So I help you can help me. I don't want to get myself killed after revenge."

Daniel said calmly, "There is no such rule in our agreement. My family doesn't have such great power."

Six-ears smiled, "Daniel, you want to abandon me? If you help me, I'm sure you will gain lots of benefits."

Daniel said lightly, "I don't like too much trouble, but it doesn't mean I won't help you."

Six-ears smiled without saying anything, he knew that before helping him, Daniel must get the benefits first. Six-ears was very smart, he knew it was not hard for him to kill William by using Roe as bait. The real trouble was the power behind William. The only way he could protect himself was to get the Shen Family involved.

A luxury car approached and stopped not far away from them. Bob and Kevin stood in front of Daniel protectively, looking at the car vigilantly.

Daniel waved his hand, "Relax, the warehouse has already been controlled by us. It's just a car." Bob and Kevin stood back quickly as if Daniel's words were even more powerful than God's.

The car stopped and a fat middle-aged man got off with two guards following him closely.

Daniel frowned, he knew the man, Eric.

Eric is in the city but not in the same level as Daniel. The Shen Family had no interaction with him before. Why did he suddenly come here?

Six-ears came up to Eric quickly. They laughed and shook hands with each other, just like an old friend who he hadn't seen each other for many years.

"Six-ears, why didn't you come to me? Are you still regarding me as your buddy? Why do we meet in such a remote place?" Eric asked with a smile.

Six-ears smiled, "Eric, I need your help. I think there is no need to introduce Daniel to you. You must know each other."

Eric paused and then laughed, "Daniel, you hide yourself so deep."

Chapter 364 Parted in Discord

The light in Daniel's eyes flashed so fast that nobody could catch it, "You too, Eric." In his eyes, Eric had some influence, but he was far from the Shen Family.

As for the reason why six-ears asked him to come here, Daniel knew a little.

Eric rubbed his hands and already knew Daniel's attitude. There was a kind smile in his chubby face. He patted Six-ears's shoulders, "Six-ears, you are really good. I don't know you are a friend of Daniel."

Six-ears smiled but Daniel said nothing.

Daniel said, "Six-ears, I have already kept my promise. Now it's your turn, I'm waiting for you to keep your promise."

"Daniel, we haven't finished yet, why are you leaving?" Six-ears's expression changed a little and kept a beady eye on Daniel.

Six-ears's men looked at each other and then stood beside six-ears quickly, looking at Daniel.

It seemed the air was frozen.

Eric picked his eyebrow, stood aside, and didn't say anything.

Daniel said lightly, "I'm a businessman. Only if I am satisfied with first cooperation will there be next one. However, the thing you did makes me unpleasant."

"Daniel..."

'I didn't say I won't help, but I won't protect a useless jerk. William's Family is very powerful, if the Shen Family becomes their enemy...' Daniel smiled, with a serious face, "Six-ears, Why not let me know your value first? If you can deal with this successfully, certainly the Shen Family will protect you."

Six-ears looked at Daniel's emotionless eyes and constricted his pupils.

An old cunning fox!

At this moment, Six -ears knew he was overconfident.

However, it had already happened and he would not miss the chance to kill William.

“Well, we all heard what you said; hope you will keep your promise when I succeed.” Six-ears squinted his eyes and said angrily.

What responded to him was Daniel’s leaving figure.

Daniel’s calmness made the people who wanted to stop him give up. Daniel waved his hands and his men left with him together.

‘Ill leave some of my men for help. Hope I can see you tomorrow.’

Everyone heard Daniel’s words but Six-ears became vigilant.

Daniel did this to help him?

For supervising or destroying him?

Or to please William?

Six-ears changed his expression several times but didn’t ask Daniel’s men to leave.

Even if William came alone, his men still couldn’t beat him.

He knew it clearly.

“Hey, six-ears, what are you thinking about? Don’t you say that you have something important? What happened? Did Daniel look down on us?” Eric, who had been ignored before, smiled and patted Six-ears kindly.

There was a cunning light flashing in his eyes.

Six-ears waved his hand, "Eric, don't worry, it's definitely a big deal."

Eric pretended to listen humbly.

"Did you know the man, Daniel from the Shen Family." Six-ears said mysteriously, "You know what the Shen Family does in public. But it was just a little part. The really pivot business is...you know it. "

Eric smiled, "Well, I didn't know that."

"The Shen Family is very careful, but there is something wrong with their source of goods. Eric, it's our opportunity!" Six-ears smiled.

It was a win-win cooperation. Eric was very careful in City J and even the Shen Family didn't know his illegal business.

Eric said, "What do you mean?"

"If you can provide the goods for the Shen Family, you will have a powerful partner. I don't want too much; just a little will be fine.

Recently the Shen Family was worried about the source. As for the price, it's all up to you." Six-ears smiled.

It was not easy for him to introduce Eric to Daniel. He made great efforts to get information about Daniel's goods.

Financial matters should be settled clearly even between brothers. He thought it was normal for him to ask for some benefits.

Eric smiled, "You're right. Thank you for your support."

“But the business is very hard now. Six-ears, tell me how much percentage you want?” Eric whispered in his ear.

Six-ears winked and felt more pleased.

He was going to witness William’s failure. If he could do this without being hurt, he would get the Shen Family’s protection and Eric’s commission. What a wonderful life!

Covering the mouth with sleeves, Six-ears showed Eric a slang gesture.

Eric squinted his eyes and there was malevolence in his eyes.

After the silence, Eric rubbed his hand, “Buddy, that is too much.”

Eric didn’t finish his words. He was not satisfied with it.

If he gave six-ears so much, there was little for him.

Six-ears said coldly, “Eric, seize the opportunity. You will cooperate with Shen Family from now on and you will make a fortune.” It seemed Eric made up his mind and said, “All right, buddy, later we can make an agreement and I won’t treat you unfairly.” Six-ears looked at him up and down, it was obvious that Eric didn’t mean sincerely.

However, considering Daniel’s attitudes towards Eric, he looked down on Eric obviously. If without him, the business won’t be that easy.

Eric must pay the money.

Eric looked at Six-ears’s expression and said, “After all it’s not settled yet. Daniel is very cunning, if the price is Ok, we both earn money; if not, I can’t give you that much.”

“Well, we’re old buddies. I trust you.” Six-ears thought clearly and he thought Eric wouldn’t cheat him.

“You really are my buddy!” Eric patted Six-ears’s shoulders heavily.

Eric stood up and looked around, “You have something important to do, so I’m leaving now. I will treat you tomorrow and we can discuss it details and have some beers.”

“Well, let me walk you out.” Six-ears laughed and was pleased by Eric’s words.

Eric waved his hands and refused it.

Chapter 365 I forgot

After getting in the car, Eric’s face was darkened.

The desire of Six-ears had grown enormous after all those years.

Eric’s driver made a turn in a forest and the road became wider.

The driver frowned and said, “Mr. Eric, there is a car in the way.”

Frowning, Eric raised his eyelid and look toward the front. Eric’s eyes were glowing.

“Stop the car, quickly.” Eric said.

Fat Eric got out of the car from the back seat and modestly hurried to the black car stopping beside.

Eric knocked at the window of that car. Just in a few seconds, the window was rolled down. Eric saw the person in the car, then immediately squeezed his face with a big smile and said, “Mr. Daniel, sorry for keeping you waiting for so long.”

“It doesn’t matter. I would like to negotiate a deal with you. What do you think?” Daniel looked so cold and superior. He was nothing like in the shortage of ‘goods’.

Eric cursed Daniel in his mind, “You cunning old man.” He felt a bit sad for Six-ears. Eric said to Six-ears in his mind, “It is not that I try to betray you, but your competitor is just much stronger than you.”

Thinking about all that, Eric smiled with adulation and complacency, and said, “Certainly yes! Just tell me when you are available? Let’s have a dinner together, and be my guest!”

Daniel answered, “How about tonight?”

“All right! I will have my man make a reservation right away.” Eric can’t wait to have their business deal done before Six-ears came back.

Daniel rolled up his window without a word.

Eric didn’t mind. He asked his driver to drive ahead of Daniel’s car to lead the way.

Daniel’s loyal assistant asked carefully, “Mr. Daniel, Do we really decide not to engage ourselves in Six-ears’ plan?”

Daniel smiled lightly and said, “No, we will surely engage ourselves in Six-ears’ plan, and we will take charge of his plan. Getting Mr. William indebted to us is not easy.”

The assistant thought about his words and understood immediately. The admiration for his boss was filled with his heart.

William got powerful connection behind him. Others might not know that, but Daniel, as the power center of the Shen family, it is impossible for him not to know about that.

It would be stupid for him to be against William’s family apparently.

But if he did this fast and his support to Six-ears in his plan was made unknown, then Six-ears plan would have nothing to do with the Shen family.

On the contrary, if Daniel offered some clue about Six-ears' plan to William, William's family will be greatly indebted to the Shen family.

Daniel's assistant asked , "Then, how to deal with Six-ears and the people we left to him?"

Daniel waved his hand, "We still need Six-ears. Let our man secure his life and don't let William catch him. If this can't be done successfully, just kill Six-ears. Understand?"

As for whether Six-ears could take a heavy toll on William, that was not Daniel's concern.

The assistant answered, "Yes, sir." He admired his boss even more in his heart.

Daniel looked through the window for the gradually broader view outside with delight.

Towering building thrust into the cloud. That building belonged to the Shen family.

Daneil thought, 'The one who dared to threaten him has to be taught a lesson before he could behave.'

William said he would invite Vivian to dinner. Actually the two of them just went to a restaurant near the hospital. As patients, they are can't go too far away from their son in the hospital.

Considering that Vivian was the least injured among them, William didn't feel indebted to ask her to push the wheelchair for him.

Vivian walked back and said unwillingly, "You can roll your own wheelchair very fast, can't you?" She saw he did it very smoothly before.

William got a bit of teasing in his black eyes. "Could you just do me a favor for the dinner?"

Vivian's fingers paused slightly, and she almost couldn't resist the temptation to step ahead.

However, she replied with determination, "It is you who made the offer. I didn't force you."

"You love to eat pure porridge and side dishes and I am fine with that, but I wouldn't allow Roe to eat such cheap and unclean food." William said with sarcasm.

Vivian was angry, "What's wrong with porridge and side dishes? You ate a lot of when those food that I made!"

Vivian was good at cooking. She used to make pure porridge and side dishes for him considering the health condition of his stomach when he was busy.

William raised his eyebrows and said, "I have already forgotten what happened ages ago."

Vivian looked a bit sad. William never remembered that, did he?

William saw the look on Vivian's face, and a touch of helplessness crosses his mind.

If he hadn't known what Vivian went through, he would have misunderstood her expression.

But why was she so sentimental?

William rolled his wheelchair with his big hands and he was now in front of Vivian. "You could bring my memory back by making pure porridge and side fishes when you are free. But now the most important thing is to go get some food."

Vivian hesitated and went behind him to push his wheelchair, not letting him see her face.

"I am not giving in to your demand. You are just too slow. I need to go back fast to feed Roe." Vivian found an excuse for herself.

William's eyes were pale, as if he didn't hear her.

Vivian's feet were injured, so they didn't go fast. They went downstairs, got out of the hospital and made a right turn to a nice restaurant.

'Let's eat here.'

The waiter arranged a table near the window for them. From their seats, they can see the view outside while hiding themselves from other people in the greenery, a perfect location for privacy.

"sir, madam, this is our menu" A slim waitress greeted them politely while looking at William out of the corner of her eyes

If she was right, this man must be the well-known lawyer Mr. William in Jin'an city. She didn't expect Mr. William and his girlfriend would have lunch here.

"What do you want to eat?" William asked Vivian the same question again.

Vivian looked at the menu William passed to her. It astonished her that the price on the menu was so high.

"How about crab? The picture of crab on the menu looked good, which reminded him of John's shucking the crab for Vivian.

What a loving scene. William thought.

Vivian glanced at William with disdain, "Crab is a stimulating food."

"We are patient. We can't eat crabs." Vivian said.

"Okay, you will have porridge." William threw the menu on the table.

Then he said to the waitress, "I would like a Fillet, medium."

“Don’t listen to him. He is joking.” Vivian stopped the waitress from writing down William’s order.

Vivian turn to William, “Are you crazy? You really think you can eat beef? Where is your common sense?”

William raised his eyebrows and glanced at Vivian, which made Vivian suddenly speechless.

Chapter 366 Draw a Clear Boundary

Vivian groaned coldly and moved her hands away from the waitress’ pen and said, “Eat whatever you want. It has nothing to do with me.”

She can’t wait to draw a clear boundary between them.

William smiled lightly, looking at Vivian dotingly. But unfortunately, Vivian didn’t see the way William looked at her.

The waitress saw the public display affection, and the pink bubbles were popping in her heart.

But what was the most important thing now?

“Mr. William, what would you like to order?”

“Just get us something not so greasy for patients.”

Waitress left with frustrations.

Vivian was staring at her mobile phone again, pretending William didn’t exist. William said discontentedly, “What is so interesting in the phone?”

It was reasonable for her to pay her full attention to Roe when Roe was there, but now that Roe wasn't there, she still ignored him. She really knows how to annoy him.

Vivian glanced at him and said, "It is more comfortable than looking at you."

"Well, what a pity."

Vivian didn't understand, "What do you mean?"

Suddenly, William came closer to Vivian and snatched her phone with his long arm.

Vivian wasn't ready for this and her phone was snatched immediately. When she realized what happened, she glared at William.

She didn't know how cute she was to William. He couldn't help laughing.

She was so cute.

"William!" "You can look at me now. I will consider whether to give you the phone on condition that you behave well."

When William hid the phone below the table, he saw the screen blinking with a name on it, which made him blink his eyes for a second but William still acted normal on the face.

He shut off Vivian's phone when he accidentally raised his hand.

It was not easy to have an opportunity when the two of them could have their own time for lunch. It was better that there was no third person to ruin their time.

Vivian mumbled, "What a domineering person you are!" Then she stopped.

Then their meal was served. The food was all bland, healthy and nutritious food that wouldn't cause burden to their stomach.

The taste of the food was medium good, but this food looked clean, better than that of the hospital canteen. Vivian was hungry and ate a lot.

On the contrary, William, who suggested having lunch, stopped after eating a little.

Vivian slightly raised his eyes and looked at him for a moment: "Doesn't the food suit you?" "I am not hungry." William had no appetite, and he was not very hungry.

Vivian said, "You don't like the flavor of the food."

Why didn't she find out how picky he was?

"Yes. You are good at cooking, and eating in a restaurant is always unhealthy. "You will prepare the dinner tonight", William thoughtfully said, "There is a kitchen in my ward."

"William, I have to take care of Roe. I have no time to take care of you." Besides, she was still a patient.

William ignored her retort. "There is no conflict between these two things. If you don't mind, I can move to Roe's ward. I believe he is willing to get along with his father."

Vivian said firmly, "Sorry, I do mind!"

William wiped his hands and said, "I don't mind what you said." "You... rascal!" Vivian was astonished; she didn't expect William would say so.

"Let's eat; I would have someone take some fresh ingredients over." He settled the whole thing.

Vivian took a few mouthfuls of food and poked the chopsticks into the rice, and secretly made up her mind not to follow William's intention.

After they finished their meal, Vivian didn't wait for William's request and pushed William's wheelchair voluntarily in the light of their previous compromise.

Enjoying Vivian's service, William held a box of packed food in his hand.

The handsome man in high-end customized clothing, sitting in a wheelchair, and he had the same aura with him while he wasn't on wheelchair. The box of food in William's hand was totally unfit for the way he looked.

William had got much attention along the way, but he ignored other people's weird gaze. He went back the hospital like nothing happened.

"Mr. William, you should go back to your own room. I can take care of Roe myself!" In front of Roe's ward, Vivian stopped and took the food over from William and then went back to Roe's ward.

William couldn't help laughing and he didn't want to push Vivian too hard, so he rolled his wheelchair and went back to his ward.

Just as he got to the door of his ward, he heard a familiar but horrified sharp sound.

"What are you talking about?"

William was astounded. Frowning, he rolled the wheelchair to Roe's ward.

The door wasn't closed. He came into Roe's ward and saw the nurse was scared and weeping before Vivian.

William searched the ward for Roe.

He couldn't find Roe.

His heart beat very fast. The situation seemed to be a bad omen to him.

“I am truly sorry, Miss Vivian. I don’t know where Roe is. I found everywhere nearby, but I just couldn’t find him. I am sorry. I am so sorry for that” The nurse said.

The nurse knew Roe was not an ordinary kid. Roe was taken care of by Mr. John, and even Mr. William ordered them to take care of Roe. To watch over Roe was undoubtedly an honor for her. Now Roe was missing, which made her so anxious.

“No, Roe is a kid and sick. He couldn’t go anywhere far, could he?” “But...” Vivian was losing her mind suddenly.

William’s face was darkened and said to the nurse, “Call your director. I want him to have each of his people go and search this hospital thoroughly for Roe.”

The nurse was scared, and she understood William’s words.

“Yes. I will do it now.” The nurse left quickly.

“William, Roe is fine, isn’t he? Answer me! Roe is absolutely fine, right?” Vivian knelt down in front of William, hugging his legs and said imploringly. There was sadness in Vivian’s eyes.

William resisted the urge to hold her in his arms, and his anxiety was not less than Vivian’s.

But what did the look in her eyes mean?

William held Vivian’s shoulders with both of his hands and said, “Vivian, if I were to take Roe away from you, I would never use such a method. Don’t look at me like that. Roe is my son. I, too, would never want anything bad happen to him.”

“I know, I know.” Vivian was in a daze and said. This idea suddenly occurred to her when she saw William.

Could this be William’s strategy? Would he take away Roe for he hated her hiding Roe from him for years?

This was just a thought that suddenly appeared in her mind. She quickly denied it.

Chapter 367 I am Gonna Kill Her

But, who would it be if it was not William?

Vivian had lost her wits. Her face was pale, as if she did not have a backbone. Her eyes were as if covered by a veil of mist, could not see anything in front of her.

Roe was all she had.

William face was sullen, and his heart was filled with worries. His cold eyes were as dark as ink.

The staff of the hospital came very soon. Some were comforting both of them; some were trying to find other people to help. But it seemed like they made no difference.

“Lawyer William, we will definitely find Roe. The hospital was so big that Roe just got lost somewhere. Do not worry.” The director of the hospital wiped the sweat on his head.

Although the director said these words, he was just pretending to be calm.

Why did such a thing happen in his hospital? The great man who was cheering in the morning suddenly became a demon.

It was not hard to imagine: if Roe was really lost, they would suffer a lot because Vivian cared so much about Roe, and both William and John would launch revenge!

It was not clear whether the director was comforting himself or William and Vivian by those words.

The response he got from William was a glance from a pair of sharp eyes, as sharp as a sword.

“NO. I am going to look for Roe. He is so young that he must be scared. He has no friends here. I have to look for him.” Vivian came to herself and held William’s clothes to stand up, wanting to run out.

William clenched her so tight that she could not escape. Vivian's face was full of tears, "What are you doing?... Let go. Let me go!"

"Vivian, calm down. You will do no good to it. We need to know the whereabouts of Roe first!" William stood up unconsciously, and held Vivian's wrist tightly, with coldness on his calm face.

Vivian escaped from his wrist with all her strength, with pain and misery on her face, "William, how can you be so calm? How can you? That is your son. Even though you do not like him, can you not hurt him?"

"What the hell are you talking about?" William tried to take a deep breath, with fury mixed in his dark eyes.

Neither of them wanted to see their son in danger. But if he also lost his wit, who was going to look for Roe?

The hospital staff?

Vivian smiled coldly, "Isn't that true? William, dare you swear that this has nothing to do with you?"

Vivian's facial expression and her red eyes were so miserable that William could not speak any word out.

He dared not.

Because he himself was throwing some doubt on it.

Vivian's eyes were filled with disappointment.

She thought that he would put his mind to Roe, even though he has no feeling for her. After all, Roe was his son.

But the truth was that he was handling it with such an attitude, she cast doubt on it.

Was it to protect Angie?

Vivian curled her mouth and smiled with sarcasm, but her heart was totally broken.

“Give me your phone!” She took out her phone from his pocket hastily. After seeing the silent mode, she glared at him.

She turned on the phone, and found there were countless missed calls from a same person.

Vivian’s eyes were hurt.

She seemed to have felt the anxiety of the man who called.

William was calm like a surface of non-stirred water, and looked at her calling John and saw her emotions flooding after hearing John’s voice.

“John...” Vivian tried to sooth her emotions with one of her hands covering her mouth.

John was startled. His anxiety out of losing contact with her burst out.

He held his phone nervously, “Vivi, what’s the matter? What happened? Are you crying?”

“John...Something bad... Roe is missing. I cannot find Roe...” Vivian cried with decadence.

“I will come to you soon, do not worry. Maybe Roe is just playing somewhere outside. Do not cry. Wait for me. I will come to you in a moment!”

There seemed to be the sound of motor vehicles from the other side of the phone. John went outside fast with his phone in his hands.

After the phone call was hung up, blankness remained on Vivian's face.

William's feet moved so fast that the plaster on his foot cracked and fell off to the ground.

Vivian could not believe it, with her eyes wide open.

Thick fog emitted from William's eyes, and he was involved inside and not able to see the way ahead.

"Vivian, you are so dependent upon another man!" A voice of danger rang besides her, making her tremble a little.

William snorted coldly. Seeing that the director who went out came hastily, sweats rolling down from his forehead and his facial expression showing anxiety, William's heart became heavy and figured out something.

As expected, the director stood in front of them, his waist bending and his hands rubbing, "Mr. William, Miss Vivian, I am so sorry.

We have searched the entire hospital, but still failed to find Roe. We have asked someone to look into the monitors; I believe there will be clues very soon."

As he was saying, his waist was bending lower and lower.

He promised to find Roe, but he was just promising to offer some clues now.

It meant a worse result.

"The hospital is to be closed. Everyone should be examined. You'd better pray that Roe is fine." William's eyes were narrowed, a sign to indicate that something bad would happen.

The director trembled, nodding his head, "Yeah, we will try our best to cooperate."

"Why do you bother so much? William, now that you have time to warn the director, why don't you call Angie?" Vivian questioned.

This was the only clue she could get straight in her chaotic mind right now.

That woman hated her so much, and had hurt Roe so many times. Who else would kidnap Roe except Angie?

Out of this certainty, she thought everything William did was biased towards Angie.

To help Angie, he could let his son suffer.

“Stop this kind of conjectures if you have no evidence. Otherwise, you would miss some important clues and chances.” This was a conclusion he got after so many years of doing businesses.

Vivian took a deep breath. A fierce malice burst forth from the still-dried tears and wretched eyes. “William, you’d better guarantee it was not her. Otherwise, I will kill her immediately.”

William’s heart was choked, something in his heart could not be let out. Did she think that he did not care about his son at all? Did she think that he was just a man to be fooled by a beautiful woman?

He thought after Vivian left.

Chapter368 Life out of Tune

Joe was relaxing, holding his lover and wanting to bang with her. All of a sudden, his phone rang, which startled him and made him almost lose his manhood.

“Damn it... William?” Joe’s facial expression changed a little, and let go of the woman in his arms.

James was panting. After he came to herself, sweats were all over his red face, “Why did boss call you?” “I have no idea. I guess he is not sexually satisfied.” Joe joked.

James gave him an angry stare, and was about to get Joe’s phone. Suddenly, the call stopped ringing.

They looked into each other's eyes, thinking in silence, "Oh, no."

William was out of his patience, and was to burst into anger.

The next moment, James' phone started to ring.

James shrunk his neck, as if he had seen William intimidate him with his dark face and calm voice.

But if he did not answer it...he would die miserably.

"Boss!" After taking his phone out nervously, James started to say prudently.

His cowardly face made Joe look down upon him.

William had no time to blame him, but said in a deep voice, "Where is Joe?"

James threw his phone to Joe immediately, "He wants to talk to you."

It was none of his business.

Joe moved his eyebrows, with a flash of light passing through his eyes. One of his hands caught James, who was about to run away.

"Boss, you are not whispering sweet words with Vivian, but calling me at this time. Is it because she cannot satisfy you, or you two are out of tune?" Joe started to joke about William.

William clenched his teeth, "Firstly, investigate Six-ears right now. Secondly, find Roe. If you fail, I will make you sexually unsatisfied for the rest of your life."

Joe trembled, but gathered himself, "OK. I will come to you soon."

Putting down his phone, Joe was ready to go out immediately.

“What happened?”

James asked.

Boss’s son who just came back was missing. He doubted that it was Six-ears who kidnapped him. Joe’s facial expression was.

very serious.

James was stunned for a while, and then he said heartlessly, “You are done.”

After glancing at him slightly, Joe held his coat and called one of his underlings. He warned him, “If I am to be sent to Africa to be a miner, I will take you.”

James threw a pillow out, feeling kind of angry.

After several calls, Joe had made it clear where Six-ears was, and what exactly happened today.

He called William, and said seriously, “Roe was indeed taken by Six-ears.”

William’s jaw was tight. His dark eyes were covered with thick fog that could not be dismissed, indicating that something serious was about to happen.

He knew better than anyone else how much Six-ears hated him.

He also knew better than anyone else how cruel this man, who had been in jail for six years once was.

“Those were all his underlings?” William was trying to constrain his eager to kill someone. He felt that his self-control which he felt proud of for so many years had been collapsing.

That was his son, who was playing in front of him an hour ago.

Joe took a deep breath, "Daniel went there. Six-ears' underlings were not powerful. If I guessed it right, it should be the Shen Family who offered some help."

"Daniel!" William clenched his teeth.

"Calm down. Do not forget our responsibility. Daniel was always avoiding conflict with other people. But he is willing to come this time. He must be driven by some huge interests. This is our chance."

William had to be wise as a boss, because this was the mission given by the organization.

William gave out a heavy pant. The pause was driving Joe crazy and made him almost scream. Then William's clear but cold voice came to his ears.

"You go and arrange it. You have to guarantee Roe's safety." Joe sighed, and pretended to be relieved, "Do not worry, boss. Roe is half a son of me and James."

People who could become a weapon of the state were meant to live a dangerous life. They could not guarantee what they could bring to their spouse, happiness or disaster. They could not let themselves be influenced by personal relationships at a critical moment.

The boss may be different from the underlings. The identity of a member of William's Family had given him too many advantages, but he was also required to bear more.

The title of Invincibility was always won by blood.

Joe was not disappointed this time.

But just because of this, Joe felt that he had to protect Roe.

In the hospital, William hung up the phone, pausing for a while in front of the windows.

At least, Roe was safe right now.

The aim of Six-ears was always William. Before seeing William, Six-ears would not lay his hands on Roe. The only thing that he was worried about was Roe's heart.

He was fighting against the God of Death not long ago.

Thinking about this, he felt much pain in his heart.

Vivian was right. It was all his fault.

Were it not for him, Roe would not have been in this danger.

"Vivi?" John opened the door suddenly to find that there was only William in the room. His hair was wet due to the sweat out of running.

Pausing for a while, John asked, "Where is Vivi? What exactly happened?" William's face turned dark.

Saying nothing, William just rose up and left.

When they were passing around one another, John stopped William short, "William, I hope you can give me an answer. Why are you here in Roe's ward? Where is Vivi right now?"

William looked into John's eyes. William's eyes were as dark as ink, while John's eyes were crystal clear. But there were insistent that I would not surrender to you in both of their eyes.

William curled his lips up, seeming to laugh at John, "I do not need to tell you when I am in my son's ward. You do not need to care where my woman is either."

A slice of awkwardness flashed in John's face.

John tightened his jaw and answered, "Vivi is my fiancée. Roe is going to be my son. William, do not forget that Angie is your girlfriend. And it was her who caused Roe to stay in hospital."

"I think you forgot the phrase fiancée. No one has ever admitted it except you." William said with satire.

John's face turned pale.

After tidying his sleeves, William moved closer to John. With an expression showing he did not care about John at all, he said in a low voice, "Since you have looked after Vivi and Roe for so long, I will not argue with you. But I hope you can stay away from them from now on. "William knew that it was unfair for Vivian and Roe. He also felt sorry that they had to suffer so much due to his secret identity.

But he could not bear to see that his son call another man 'dad' and his woman marry that man. He could not do it.

Chapter 369 Wait for Me

After William's cruel words, he saw the woman running headlong down the corridor with a glimpse of intolerance in his eyes.

John rushed to her and caught her immediately.

"John, you are here, Roe...Roe is missing. I have searched every corner of the hospital, but I just can't find him. What should I do? What should I do?" Vivian's decadent face suddenly burst out a stream of hope the moment she saw John and grabbed his hand.

William looked at John in surprise. John hesitated for a second and asked without thinking, "Have you taken away Roe?" William smiled.

What a fool!

If he really wanted Roe, he had lots of methods to let them give up Roe, but not by this way.

“No, it’s not him, but Angie...” Vivian moved closer to Jahn and looked at William in defense.

Vivian’s behavior broke William’s heart.

A flicker of dim light passed over William’s eyes and quickly gathered in a quick speed.

“It’s not Angie.” William said this sentence word by word.

William stared at Vivian tightly.

Vivian gave an expression as if she already knew William would protect Angie. His rhetoric was just an excuse.

William walked towards Vivian and grabbed her shoulders, pulling her away from John.

Vivian stepped back subconsciously.

William immediately pulled harder to keep her from stepping back.

John winced and said, “William...”

“Roe will be alright! I’ll take him back now. You just stay there. Understand?”

William said in a calm voice as usual, which pacified Vivian and made her calm down.

Vivian looked into his firm eyes as if she could see her anxious expression in it.

Vivian’s face suddenly turned red and answered, “William, can you promise that Angie is not involved? Can you bring Roe back?”

“I promise.” But William couldn’t promise he would be safe by taking this risk.

After all, Six-ears must be certain that Roe meant a lot to him by taking Roe away. Even the Shen Family had promised him a large sum of money.

This time, Six-ears must be well-prepared.

Vivian tried to calm down and held her impulsion to cry out. She said, "Okay, I will trust you this time. But remember, this is the last time!"

"Okay. This is the last time." William's eyes blinked and kissed her on her head.

John popped his eyes and clenched his fist to beat William.

William twinkled and held John's fist immediately. He didn't move his eyes away from Vivian but kept saying in a deep voice, "Wait for me."

Vivian had a sixth sense. Although this was an ordinary sentence, she could feel an ultimate goodbye in it. It seemed that William was not going to save Roe, but to lead the troops into the battlefield with no return.

This thought perplexed Vivian once it grew in her mind.

She started worrying when William was still not far away.

This anxiety was both for Roe and the man who promised to bring Roe back.

Vivian was surprised at William's receding figure, which was straight and sturdy, as well as his elegant but hurried steps.

Vivian reached her hands for John and asked him, "John, do you know who William has offended? Or does he have any mortal enemies who hate each other to death?"

John was in a trance. He settled back from William's kissing and said, "Vivi, do you mean..." "I don't know. I have no idea..." Vivian rubbed her head as if she was going to cry.

This time, she wished she had been wrong. If someone wanted to make use of Roe, he would have spread a dragnet from which there was no escape.

Vivian didn't want to see William, but she didn't want him to die either.

John clasped Vivian, "It's going to be fine. Don't worry. Everything will be alright." Joe's car arrived when William walked out.

"Boss, get in." Joe pulled over with a perfect drift.

"What's going on?" William put on a wireless earphone. After a short time of noise, there was silence. Joe glanced at William and found he was alright.

"I have figured that Roe was taken away nearby. Six-ears brought him to a suburb warehouse. Roe will be alright. Besides, Daniel left but he sent a few people to keep watching. Except for that, I also find something else. But we will talk about it later."

"The Shen Family, well!" After William handled with Six-ears, his next target would be them.

Joe turned his eyes away from William. He knew that every time William showed such an expression, it meant he was really angry, and the person who made him angry would come to no good end.

William heard something from his eyephone. His eyes blinked and said, "Arrange more people around. We mustn't let him run away this time. Besides, we need to take away Daniel's men too."

"Yes sir!"

In the suburb warehouse, Six-ears heard the message his henchman sent him from the hospital. Six-ears was satisfied.

He almost laughed out loud when he knew William was anxious to search every corner of the hospital.

This boy was his weakness as expected.

“I will give you the money later. If anything happens, just tell me. You will get a large sum of money.” Six-ears hang off the phone.

The scar was much obvious and scary under his sneer.

A man with yellow hair came up to him after smoking, “When will we call William? It’s getting late.”

“Don’t hurry. We need to make him worry first. When it’s late, it’s easy for us to attack him. I don’t believe he can see clearly in the darkness.” He knew William was good at fighting.

Although there were many subordinates, William was still hard to deal with and might beat them up.

But if it was at night and William couldn’t see clearly, with so many people and weapons as guns, William couldn’t do anything but to be beaten by them.

“Alright, keep an eye on that little boy. If he dies, what we plot will be nothing. He has to survive tonight.” Six-ears suddenly remembered that this child had heart disease and commanded accordingly.

Yellow-hair promised, “Don’t worry. That child is still asleep at the moment, he will be fine.”

Chapter 370 Heart Attack

Couldn’t they handle a little boy who was not five years old? They were grown-ups with overwhelming strength.

Yellow-hair was confident, while Six-ears was worried and maintained sharp vigilance every time. His six sense told him something would happen tonight.

Why did he still feel unsettled when he had already cast an escape-proof net to let William pay his price? Six-ears averted his eyes, “Stay there and keep them alert. I’ll check that little boy.” “Yes!”

Roe cried was taken away crying, and when they got on the car, they covered Roe's mouth and nose with a handkerchief, so he passed out quickly.

At this moment, Roe had just woken up, and was curling up in the corner with his hands on his legs.

A continuing flow of conversation he didn't understand as they were all dirty talks came outside the room. He was alone in the abandoned warehouse.

Roe recalled the time when he was taken away on the street with a pretty girl.

Although Roe was a child, he knew he was kidnapped now.

Thinking of that, his eyes were filled with fear.

"Mom..."

Roe should listen to his mom. He should never leave the hospital without the company of his mother and father. And what about that pretty girl? How was she right now?

Roe was hungry and painful. But he had no energy at all. He missed his mother, his father, and uncle John.

He really missed them.

Roe's eyes were reddened, with tears running down his cheeks.

But he didn't dare to cry out loud. He didn't want to be found he was awakened by the people outside. Instead, he could only bury his head in the corner like an ostrich and sobbed in a slight voice.

Suddenly, the door opened with a series of harsh sound.

Roe looked up in panic and saw a fierce-looking man walking toward him.

With a shiver in his little body, Roe became even more afraid.

Six-ears didn't expect he woke up so quickly. He looked at Roe, stepped forward and asked him with a malicious smile, "Well, you're awake. Are you hungry? Do you need me to bring you some food?"

"No, I'm not." Roe shook his head quickly, and held his belly with his little hands obscurely, as if he didn't want the man to notice that his tummy was growling.

Six-ears sneered. No wonder he was the child of William. He was more mature compared with other kids.

"Okay. If you're not hungry, let's chat." Six-ears was interested in this child. He squatted down and lifted up Roe's face.

His hands were cold with great strength, which made Roe's jaw hurt so much.

Roe clenched his teeth to keep his tears from running down. But his red eyes had already told Six-ears what happened.

"Well, why are you crying? Did I hurt you?"

Roe quickly shook his head again and answered, "It doesn't matter. Roe is not hurt."

What a shame that he was William's son! If he were the son of somebody else, he must be successful when he grew up.

Six-ears smiled evilly and the scar on his face made him much scarier.

Roe could see his scary face clearly as Six-ears approached him closer and closer.

Roe trembled with a cold fear in his heart. He was dreadfully afraid.

"Do you think the scar on my face looks nice?" Six-ears got closer.

Roe stepped back subconsciously until he touched the wall behind him. He had no way to escape. Roe answered, half-crying, "Yes...it looks nice."

"Well, how about I make you a similar one?" Six-ears suddenly laughed.

Roe couldn't hold on any longer and cried out loud, tear flying from his face anymore.

"No...Roe doesn't want...please don't hurt me."

Six-ears was satisfied.

Seeing Roe's similar face with William and he begged him with tears, a sense of morbid accomplishment generated in his heart.

It was like William begging for him.

Six-ears released Roe and got up. He was in a commanding position and said sadly, "If you don't like it, then I won't make one for you. What a pity! But if you think the scar is pretty, how about making your dad a same one? How do you think?"

"No...Don't."

The tears in Roe's eyes were swirling. He didn't realize what this man meant. When he figured it out, he yelled in great fear.

This bad guy was going to hurt his dad.

Six-ears' face changed and continued, "Little bastard. You have no choice. Today I will let you see how your dad's skin is cut open and torn."

“Well, that’s must be a good show. His expression must be nice if you are present as an audience. I can’t wait to see it!” Six-ears’ expression was constantly changing with a cold sneer.

Roe’s teeth were chattering and his heart suddenly began to hurt.

The breath was slightly uneven with a familiar sensation that began to spread from his heart to his extremities.

Roe’s eyes blurred. He held his chest with his little hands, thinking about his mom and dad.

Mom, Roe hurt so badly! Roe was painful! Please save me, mom...

Six-ears frowned when he realized there was something wrong with Roe.

Roe couldn’t be dead. He was the bait to bring William here.

“Come here!” Six-ears shouted and walked outside.

Yellow-hair had sharp eyes and rushed with a flatter look, “What do you want me to do?”

“That child has a heart attack. Tell people to bring some first-aid medicine. You don’t have to bring the best medicine. We only need to keep him alive tonight.” Six-ears said coldly.

Yellow-hair averted his eyes and walked away.

Six-ears narrowed his eyes and thought, “No. This child was already on his way of dying after so many surgeries.”

He didn’t know whether the medicine would take effect. In case something unexpected happened, he needed to kill William as.

soon as possible.

Thinking of that, Six-ears told other guys to keep an eye on Roe and walked into the warehouse to call William.

Meanwhile, some henchmen went along with him.

Outside, the group of Daniel's people looked at each other and left. They continued to chat around, as if nothing had happened.