

dear lawyer 501

Chapter 501 What a Good Thought!

Hamilton looked at Vivian and said meaningfully, "The child who grows up next to his mother is only close to his mother after all." William's expression changed, and the eyes of several others flickered, with a bit of disbelief.

William pulled his lips, "Grandpa, you are worried too much. Roe is also very close to me as well."

After saying that, he picked up Roe and pulled Vivian away without looking back.

Hamilton had an ugly face, squinted behind him, staring at the back of the family of three, not knowing what he was thinking.

When he walked to the door to ensure he was not seen from behind, William put down Roe.

Turning his head, he saw Vivian's face calm, too calm, which made him terrified.

William frowned slightly and asked, "What's the matter?"

"William, I think we need to talk." Vivian chuckled.

A bad premonition flashed across his mind.

In Oven's villa, Roe had fallen asleep, and Oven went out to have fun with friends.

Vivian poured a cup of hot water and placed it in front of William.

"What do you want to talk to me?" William glanced at the smoking glass and leaned back.

According to a study, this attitude of opening and closing was an expression of the confidence of a successful person. Therefore, William was an extremely confident person.

Vivian took a deep breath and negotiating with a lawyer was always very stressful.

“William, can you tell me what you are thinking?” Vivian raised her eyebrows and asked softly.

William was confused, “What?”

“What are your thoughts on the future, and where do you plan to put me?” Vivian touched her nose and looked at him with strong eyes.

William raised his brows tightly, “Don’t you understand what I’m doing? Of course I made you my wife, Vivian, what are you thinking about all day long?”

His voice was faintly impatient.

He thought, by coming here obediently with him, she had acquiesced to the fact that they were about to get married; but obviously, there was a thorn in her heart all the time.

Vivian bit her lip slightly and smiled bitterly, “William, marriage is sacred, can you guarantee that you will be loyal to your marriage and be loyal to me forever?”

“What do you want to say?” He looked at her sharply.

Vivian endured the urge to say all the things she had made up, and said, “Angie.”

“What?” He suspected he had heard it wrong.

Vivian took a deep breath, “I know your feelings for Angie for so many years, and I can understand you can’t give up her ina short while, but if you want to find an obedient Mrs. William, then I think you have found the wrong person!”

“I won’t allow my marriage to be a pawn in the hands of others. William, you can see clearly that your grandfather doesn’t like me, and he won’t give up on principled questions even it is about Roe. Does that mean you should choose another one?” Vivian pursed her lips slightly.

William squinted and sneered, “I really admire your brain!”

“You mean, I proposed to you because I wanted to conceal Angie’s identity? Do you think I plan to meet someone else behind you? Do you think you and Roe are my shield against my grandfather?” William’s voice was louder.

Vivian’s face was ugly when asked.

She could not help but raise her voice, stroking her neck, “Is it right? You can rescue her desperately in the fire scene. After the Jing family’s fall, you got her out of the police station as soon as possible. William, you lied to others, but you can’t fool me. You cannot let her go. If it weren’t for the case of Alan, you would have brought her to see your grandfather, right? After all, you guys had already reached the point of getting engaged.”

William felt that his heart hurt because of anger, so he looked at Vivian with cold eyes.

Where did these messy thoughts of the woman come from? Or were all women like this?

“Since you have all thoughts about it, why do you come with me here in J City?” He gritted his teeth.

He just said that something was wrong with her these days. However, he could not tell what was wrong.

Vivian slightly pursed her lips, “I thought that the Lu family was just an ordinary family, so I could leave with Roe, but then I learned about the Lu family... It is impossible to prevent your family from knowing Roe’s existence in this life. Therefore, I want to see if coming to J City can allow me to fight for Roe’s custody.”

“Are you going to negotiate with my grandfather? Then take my son away?” William’s voice changed suddenly and said sharply, “Vivian, do you mean that? Are you crazy?”

Vivian bowed her head slightly and immediately raised it up, “Few people can control you. I can only rely on the people here.

Even if it fails, even if Roe will return to the Lu family in the future, I can at least guarantee that the Lu family accepts him, which is also a guarantee for him.”

“Ah, I underestimated your scheming, what a good thought! Have you ever thought that you being a real Mrs. Lu will give Roe a better life?” William sneered.

Vivian was silent. She naturally thought about it, but when she thought of William accepting such a marriage, seeing him dealing with all kinds of women in the future with her own eyes, she felt deeply hurt.

William leaned over and leaned close to her, “Vivian, I can tell you clearly, if you believe me, I will give you a loyal marriage and guarantee that you will become the young Madame of the Lu family, but the premise is that you are obedient. Fight against my grandfather with me, if you don’t believe me, huh!”

“Roe is my son. No matter what my family is, I will never give up on him. Angie cannot become Mrs. Lu, but there are so many celebrities in J City who wants to marry me. Those women are not like Angie. What they are best at is hiding the knives in their smiles and killing people without any hesitation. Guess, how many chances do you have to regret for yourself?” William threatened in a gloomy voice.

Vivian’s face was pale. A hint of pleasure flashed in his heart.

This woman was hateful, and the words she said make him want to punch someone. He must let her be nervous.

After a long while, Vivian smiled bitterly, “I seem to have no choice.”

“Of course there is. Your choice is to stand on my side unconditionally, prepare to be my wife, Mrs. Lu with a peace of mind, and don’t be a demon to me!” William said righteously.

Vivian lowered her eyes slightly and said nothing. But obviously, she agreed and acquiesced.

William was relieved with satisfaction. Immediately he stroked his forehead with a headache.

His grandfather said to prepare for the banquet, so quickly.

Two days after returning from his grandfather's compound, Vivian looked at the evening gown William handed her and realized that he did what he said.

Chapter 502 Red Roses and White Roses

"Isn't your grandfather... doesn't want to let me come forward?" Vivian's teeth trembled slightly.

She had already figured out what his grandfather meant.

He wanted her child Roe, but did not plan to let Roe recognize her as mother.

In other words, the tacit attitude did not intend to want her as the Lu family daughter-in-law at all.

Then this banquet was definitely a bad thing for her.

William sneered, "So you just give up? Are you planning to watch me marry a woman he arranges, and let Roe call that woman mother? Then you will have no right to ask on Roe's good and bad feelings?"

Vivian bowed her head slightly and silently took over the clothes in William's hand.

She would go. Not only must she go, she must also be the person who would attract the attention of the audiences.

After talking with William last time, she already understood. Now she was the only one who could help herself, and in this place of power, she could only listen to him.

Otherwise, it was very likely that there would be nothing for her in the end.

And she was not the only one who planned to attract the attention of the audiences.

In a hotel, a woman was dressing in a red tight-fitting long dress. Her figure was prominent, and her face painted with smoky makeup, with a suffocating temptation, as if she was a red rose with thorns, attracting people unceasingly at her feet.

“Ready?” The man had a sullen smile on his face.

Angie lifted her chin, raised her blood-red fingers lightly, raised his chin, and said lightly, “What do you say?” Daniel laughed, “That’s it, use your beauty to conquer William. I hope you can have a nice evening.”

Angie smiled contemptuously.

With a lofty expression, she walked out gracefully.

The door closed, and Daniel sneered.

The phone rang.

He scratched and looked at the picture above.

The woman wore a white long dress as usual, with her hair wrapped around her ears, a few pieces curled up, wearing delicate makeup. She was full of fairy spirit as before, as elegant and charming as a wealthy woman.

Red roses and white roses were the old love and the new love.

William, how would you choose? Daniel was looking forward to it!

The status of the Lu family was of course high in J city. In order to show the importance of Roe, the place chosen was a low-key, luxurious restaurant in J City only people in the circle knew.

This was a feast for the rich and powerful.

The place was not big, but many people were coming, one by one, male or female, all with noble aura, wearing high fashion, charming and beautiful.

Vivian was a little nervous, but thinking of Roe and William's words, in the end she gritted her teeth and made no mistake in her expression.

She had left a bad impression on his grandfather last time, and she must not make a mistake this time. Fortunately, William took good care of her and was always by her side.

She was wearing a white evening gown. The silk material was naturally hanging down, highlighting her curved figure, with a faint smile on her face. She looked like a fair lady, better than the other ladies present.

William, who was always by her side, was even more tall and handsome in black. The two with outstanding appearances and dresses instantly attracted the attention of everyone present.

William dragged Vivian to greet with the people around him, bumping into a wine glass from time to time, and ignored the chaotic gazes around him.

"William, it's been a long time since I saw you last time, you are finally back!" He didn't know how many young men had come over.

"Welcome." William tapped the glass with the guests and smiled at each other.

Vivian looked around. Although he said he had not returned to J City for many years, however, she knew he was still very important, at least since they had walked all the way, there were many of his childhood friends who came to say hello.

Maybe, this was the status of the grandson prince?

"Brother, Sister-in-law!" A man in a military uniform walked up, this dress was a bit strange, but people around seemed to get used to it.

William's eyes flashed with surprises.

After stepping up to give him a hug, he explained to Vivian who was also confused, "This is my second brother, Warren." "Hello." Vivian nodded with a slight smile.

The offspring of the Lu family had a great career. Hamilton had four sons and two daughters. There are also many grandchildren.

William was the eldest grandson. Owen was the third, as he was the son of the William's second aunt. Warren was the only child of the fourth son in the Lu family, who died young.

It was said that he was the person who followed his grandfather's instructions and took the initiative to find his grandfather to let him be a soldier after William left.

The offspring of Lu family's third child and two aunts, either working outside the country or studying abroad, did not come this time.

William received the news that they seemed to want to come back to join in the fun one by one, but was stopped by his grandpa Hamilton.

This seemed to remind her and William that even though Roe was very important, he was not a panacea.

Warren returned Vivian with a military salute. Immediately he said to William, "Brother, I want to tell you something."

William looked towards Vivian.

Vivian immediately raised her hand and smiled generously, "Go, I'll take a rest over there." William squinted his eyes, and finally went with Warren.

The women around looked at Vivian who was alone, but few came close.

These people were all smart asses, and today was to rectify Roe's name, not her granddaughter-in-law of the Lu family. They didn't have to come to fawn at this time.

As for whether she would sit in that position in the future, that was something for the future.

Vivian settled down leisurely and sat in the corner.

With her eyes down, she wondered if Warren asked William to have something to do with him, or was he temporarily instructed by his grandfather to do so?

She did not forget his grandfather's dissatisfaction with her.

Tugging at the corner of her mouth with a mockery, Vivian thought, maybe now at the place where his grandfather was in, he might have arranged a beauty for William.

William also had this doubts.

So after turning around a corner with Warren, he stopped, "If you have something to tell me, we can just talk about it here. I am worrying about your sister-in-law being outside alone."

Some strange expressions flashed across Warren's black face, and he gave a light cough, " Brother, it's not me looking for you, it is grandpa, but..."

William turned around and left.

"Brother!" Warren was shocked and stretched out his hand to hold William.

"Maybe there is something that grandpa cannot say in front of sister-in-law, brother, don't get me wrong." Warren explained in a panic.

But once explained, something just became more difficult to explain.

The more he said, the more he exposed it.

William turned his head and squinted coldly, "Do you know something? What does he want to do?"

"I... don't know." Warren didn't dare to meet his gaze, as he suppressed a wince.

Chapter 503 Mr. Hamilton's Arrangement

William sneered, "Warren, don't tell me you are unaware of what happened to Owen before. Do you think that I will be like him, watching my beloved leave this world covered in blood?"

Warren felt horrified and desperately shook his head, "No, brother, grandpa didn't mean it, and he deeply regretted it, so he has already known how to arrange Miss Vivianan."

"Arrange Vivian? It's ridiculous!" William sneered.

Upon seeing this, Warren could only sigh and confess, "Grandpa has taken a fancy to the daughter of a comrade-in-arms. He originally wants to announce later that today is the engagement banquet for you and that young lady. Besides, he will give Miss Vivian a remuneration and let her sign a contract that she will sever the relationship with Roe, not expecting that..."

William squinted his eyes and said, "Warren, stop being his microphone. I don't want to become an enemy of all the family members one day!"

Warren was greatly shocked. Was Vivian already so important to him?

William left angrily. Warren hesitated for a moment and went to report to his grandpa, Mr. Hamilton.

At this moment, Vivian received a call. She couldn't forget the voice of the man on the phone.

"Daniell" Vivian squeezed the phone tightly, a little nervous.

She naturally knew Daniel was now a major wanted criminal.

Besides, he was also the one William spent a long time and energy searching for but still couldn't find.

Vivian bit her lips slightly and said, "What's the matter with you?"

"I have nothing to do. I just want to tell you an interesting thing but I don't know if you are interested in it." Over the phone, Daniel said in a leisurely voice.

Vivian squinted her eyes and said in a low voice, "What do you want to say?"

'If 'm not mistaken, you should be at a very important banquet now. I wonder if you have met your old acquaintance, your best friend." Daniel kept her in suspense.

Daniel's words immediately created a flutter in Vivian's heart.

She thought of someone! Angie! After Daniel disappeared, Angie also disappeared.

Originally, she thought that Angie was well hidden by William, but William didn't even go to the office during this period and was always by her side.

That's why it made her feel that William might have such a genuine desire to marry her.

Moreover, since their last conversation, William had also promised that he could ensure her a loyal marriage.

If it weren't for this sentence, she would not rekindle her confidence, nor would she tacitly approve the marriage.

After all, although William was a bit scumbag, he did not deceive her much.

Now it seemed...

Did she believe him too much? Had Angie been taken to J City long ago by him?

Vivian felt a bit sad, but she didn't want to be a person who was bewitched by others at this time.

She took a deep breath and said, "Mr. Daniel, thank you for telling me this. I have something to do now. I will talk to you again when I have time."

Daniel's voice was playful, "You don't seem to believe my words very much."

Vivian bit her lips in silence. Of course, she didn't want to be a woman who could not distinguish between right and wrong in a few words, especially at this crucial moment.

A chuckle came from the other end of the phone.

Daniel said, "Vivian, the restaurant you are staying in now has a very beautiful view in the corridor garden. Why don't you go and take a look."

In the garden, William frowned and walked towards the front hall, passing by and seeing several women who knew or did not know about him. They were all seducing him.

William just ignored them and felt irritable.

Suddenly, a person dressed in red came into his view. In the beginning, he didn't care.

Until the woman exclaimed, "William!"

William frowned, turned his head, and felt surprised for a moment.

"Why are you here?" Angie said with an incredible expression on his face

"I should ask you this sentence. Why are you here?" William frowned and said.

Angie thought for a while, looking trance, and said, "Oh, by the way, today is a banquet for the great-grandson of the Lu family. It turned out to be..."

William cast a speculative look at Angie.

Before William could speak, Angie proactively said, "My father has a good relationship with an uncle in J City. My mother and I have fled here. He wants to help me introduce a person at the banquet today so..."

William nodded, thinking what she said was justifiable. But it was none of his business.

"Wish you have fun." William was about to leave after saying a few words.

"William, wait!" Angie didn't expect that he didn't even bother to look at her, even if she was well-dressed.

It was not easy for her to join this banquet, so she naturally couldn't fail, especially if there were other plans.

William became a little impatient.

He stood still and looked at Angie, "Anything else?"

Angie bit her lips, pretending to be very pitiful, with tears in her eyes and complex emotions on her face. If an ordinary man saw such a woman, he would be attracted.

"William, can you help me?" Angie whispered and stepped forward to grab his cuff.

Angie who was once invincible murmured at this moment, very pitiful.

William felt disgusted with her manner and promptly avoided her, "What's the matter?"

Angie seemed to be hurt by his actions. She lowered her head and whimpered, "Since my dad has been down, there have been few people offering timely help, but many people have hit us. My mom and I finally have settled in J City, but some people always come to look for trouble, such as splashing paint and scratching the doors and windows. The police are also perfunctory every time. William, I just want to live a good life now."

A hint of sarcasm flashed through William's eyes, "Can't your uncle help you with such trivial things? Angie, I thought you have changed, but I didn't expect that your ability to lie is still so poor."

After saying that, William was about to leave.

Angie suddenly sprang towards him and hugged his waist, crying, "William, it's not like that. I didn't lie to you. I really didn't lie to you. I don't know him well and auntie doesn't like me either. Of course, I can't always trouble them so I can only..."

William resisted the urge to throw her out and refused, "Sorry, I don't know you well, so you shouldn't bother me."

Angie looked painful and held him tightly, unwilling to let go, "William, don't we even count friends? Even if you have exploited me for so long, I haven't blamed you, right?"

William's body paused for a moment.

Vivian muttered in her heart that she really didn't doubt William but wanted to see the scenery.

It was really just that.

Chapter 504 Negotiate a Deal

It seemed that repeating it a few more times could make her less guilty.

But all the mental preparation collapsed after seeing the two people hugging each other in the hidden part of the corridor garden.

There was no rustling sound in her ears but only a slow red color remained in her mind.

The woman who was well-dressed hugged a man with a smug and satiny look.

The man's face was so dazzling that she couldn't see clearly, but she was greatly familiar with his figure. This scene made her heartache.

Vivian tried hard to raise her mouth but she still couldn't do it. Perhaps it was expected a long time ago. Perhaps she never regarded his proposal as genuine affection. So at this moment, there was no such suffocation in her heart.

Because she walked gracefully through everyone's eyes with a flawless smile, then leisurely got into the car and clearly stated where she lived.

There was no chaos in her mind.

The moment she left the door and the door closed, she seemed to hear the whispers behind her.

"She looks pretty good, no wonder she can hook up with the son of the Lu family."

'It's a pity that her status is too low. No matter how beautiful she looks, she can't conceal the earthy taste on her body.' "William is quite responsible. For the sake of a son, he can have a sexual relationship with such a woman."

Vivian thought she had grown up. Faced with such a voice, she could endure it and would not get hurt again.

What a good change!

Vivian raised her mouth slightly and laughed at herself. When she passed the downtown area, her cell phone rang. It was still Daniel.

"Mr. Daniel," Vivian said sadly, not knowing what to say.

Mr. Daniel chuckled and said, "You seem to be a little depressed. It seems that the scenery in the garden makes you heartbroken."

“You haven’t had a monitor installed on me, have you? You seem to know everything about me.” Vivian squinted slightly and sneered.

Daniel laughed and said, “Although I’m not a gentleman, I won’t do anything to spy on others’ privacy. It’s just that I can’t see a good woman like you being deceived.”

“Will you be so kind?” Vivian said skeptically.

“Of course, my enthusiasm will be worthy if I can use this to negotiate a deal with you.”

Vivian pursed her lips slightly. Without thinking about it, she naturally knew how dangerous it was to make a deal with a wanted criminal. But she didn’t know why the blood welled up in her mind at this moment.

She wanted to see him and wanted to know what the deal he was talking about, even if she clearly knew that it was dangerous for her to meet Daniel since he might kidnap her again.

When the Pandora’s box was opened at the most appropriate time, it would always arouse people’s desires.

Vivian let the car park in the largest downtown area in J City. She made an appointment with Daniel to meet here.

In the hidden restaurant, she still wore the fascinating clothes at the banquet, which caused a flash of surprise in the eyes of the man opposite.

“I have to say William’s taste is really good. If I could meet you at that age, I would probably not let you go.” Daniel admired.

Vivian felt that he was sarcastic. Can’t let go, not deeply fall in love! He was just saying that William was only greedy for her appearance.

Vivian didn’t want to discuss this issue with him at this time and said,

“Mr, Daniel, let’s talk about the deal.”

Daniel raised his eyebrows and a touch of evil was drawn at the corner of his mouth. He stretched out his hand to signal the waiter who came over to let him retreat first, “Since you are so anxious, then I will make it short.”

“You really want to enter the Lu family, right?”

Vivian raised her eyes slightly, glanced at him, and said lightly, “I don’t want to.”

Daniel was not surprised.

“You are a person with a tranquility of mind but whether you want to or not, you have to enter the Lu family, right?” Daniel sighed.

Perhaps Vivian was really a woman liked by many men. When she should be strong and tough, she was never weak. But she was more kind than ordinary people.

Vivian lowered her eyes.

Yes.

She had to enter the Lu family!

This was why she still agreed to come to J City with William even though she refused him and still went to the Lu family to please Mr. Hamilton and others.

Daniel seemed to see her potential meaning. He laughed and said, “I can help you get that position.”

“Mr. Daniel, I think you might be wrong. Although I want to become his wife for my son, William is already helping me. I don’t necessarily need your help.” Vivian pretended to be relaxed.

Daniel sneered, "You may forget what you saw tonight."

Vivian instantly looked gloomy.

"By the way, do you know Oven?" Daniel asked as if thinking of it suddenly.

Vivian listened carefully.

Daniel said with an evil look, "When Oven was in college, he had a girlfriend. In just one year, he wanted to marry her.

Unfortunately, that girl came from a poor rural village, so Mr. Hamilton did not agree."

"Oven wanted her to be accepted by Mr. Hamilton so he let people teach her all the things that noble women can do, but this was very painful for that girl. In the end, she died!" Daniel emphasized the last two words.

Vivian's heart beat fiercely. She stared at Daniel with surprise.

Daniel didn't seem to feel how shocking he was to say, "Mr. Hamilton arranged a blind date for him in just three months and arranged a wealthy banquet to make that woman deeply aware of her incompatibility, and finally, he forced Oven to join the engagement banquet."

"That woman committed suicide at Oven's engagement banquet. The blood all over the floor has become a taboo for the Lu family." Daniel sighed.

Vivian kept sighing and she was so shocked that her mouth was wide open.

Daniel continued, "Do you know why your child is favored by Mr. Hamilton?"

"When that woman died, she was found pregnant for two months. That was the first great-grandson of the Lu family." Daniel revealed another shocking news again.

“I said this not to make you think that a child can become a death-free gold medal, but to tell you that Mr. Hamilton can be more generous to you for the sake of the child so that the original tragedy will not repeat itself, but it is only that! He won’t take action against you, but he can start from another aspect, such as Angie!” Daniel said lightly.

Vivian said with a frown, “Do you mean Angie was brought by Mr. Hamilton?”

“What else do you expect? William has been depressed for her for several years. No matter how beautiful other women are, they can’t be compared with Angie.” His eyes flickered.

Vivian’s face turned pale, and the scene she had just seen in the garden flashed across her mind.

Chapter 505 Congratulations

Vivian was intimidated by his words, her lips trembling slightly. After a while, she asked in a slight note of hoarse voice, “What do you want me to do?”

A queer smile lifted a corner of Daniel’s lips, “Well, it’s simple, you just...”

Vivian hadn’t noticed Daniel leave.

Vivian slumped against her seat, rubbing her forehead, blanching a little.

The silence seemed to add a bit of mysterious beauty to the night, yet it couldn’t dispel the mist in her heart.

Walking out of the restaurant, her mobile phone rang, fitting the scene outside. She stared at it for a moment. It was William.

She didn’t know whether she should take the call or not.

Finally, she pressed the answer button.

Immediately, there was William's a little bit worried and displeased voice at the other end of the phone.

"Where are you now?"

Vivian looked around and her face was a little lost. She just came to J City, so she had no idea where she was now.

So, she just gave a general description of the coffee shop she was in now.

For a minute, William said nothing.

Vivian seemed to be able to imagine the way William frowned at this time.

"What are you doing there?" Soon, without waiting for Vivian to answer, he said in a deep voice with a little unpleasant in it, "Stay there, I'll be there in a minute."

Vivian stopped talking when she heard that.

William came fast, with Roe by his side too.

This made Vivian, who had originally wanted to say something, keep everything she wanted to say to herself.

But— "Why did Roe come here?" Today was about Roe, who was with Mr. Hamilton and Mr. Elton and Mrs. Lucia before.

William glanced at Vivian with a calm look, "You are his mother, if you are not here, what's the point of Roe being there at such a young age?"

Vivian was choked, silent as she lowered her head. Roe looked at her, up and down, took her hand, and said curiously, "Mom, why did you come out?"

Vivian lowered her head, looking at the little boy's worried gaze, gave him a smile, "I came out to get a breath of fresh air, but I lost my way. I'm sorry Roe for not accompanying you just now."

Roe wanted to her that he wasn't a three-year-old kid anymore. But who would be gonna buy such a story? William threw his long arm around Vivian, and was unaware that her face was rigid for a moment.

"Go now, let's go back first."

Vivian pursed her lips, and in his arms, she seemed to be able to smell another woman's perfume.

The car was driven straight to the villa where they lived before. When she was about to get home, Vivian suddenly realized that this was not proper.

"We came back so early. Would Mr. Hamilton and the others be unhappy?" After all, this party was prepared specially for Roe.

William glanced sideways at her, "Now you are worried?"

With her head down, Vivian did not answer him.

William snorted coldly. He just took them home straight.

After putting Roe to sleep, William went back to the bedroom. Owen was probably still at the party, and wasn't back yet.

"Tell me about it, why did you suddenly leave today?" William looked at her questioningly.

Vivian bit her lip, avoiding his eyes, and said in a tired and worried voice, "It was nothing, it was just that I was feeling sick." William frowned, "Is it not because you heard something harsh?"

Vivian looked up, he actually knew that too.

Thinking of what she heard at the party before, her heart sank suddenly.

It turned out to be plain and clear in the eyes of outsiders.

That she was not good enough for him.

William saw a distant look on her face, and suddenly reached out and touched her forehead, "Are you really not feeling well?"

Vivian turned her head, the worry in his eyes looked somewhat real, and so real that she almost forgot her heart, forgot what she had seen before, and was indulged in it.

"Mm, but I'm fine now. I just need to come out and get some air, I'm OK now." Vivian shook her head, avoiding his eyes, and grabbed her clothes and went to the bathroom.

William stood behind with frowned eyebrow and looked at her back, feeling a little unhappy in his heart.

However, what he actually felt in his heart was introspection.

It seemed that he must end things that happened here as soon as possible.

The scandals that have just begun already made her so desperate. He couldn't imagine how overwhelmed she would feel as time passed.

Despite him thinking so, William still took her to the hospital the next day, just in case.

Vivian had stated a hundred times that she was fine now, really. However, William still insisted that she should go to the hospital.

Vivian had no choice but to follow him to the hospital. However, she was surprised by the test results.

"Congratulations, Miss Vivian, you are pregnant." The doctor looked at Vivian and William, looking very pleased.

William raised his eyebrows and accepted the news calmly.

Vivian was dumbfounded.

William took her in his arms and bowed his head, "Too much pleasure?"

Vivian was an internal storm of contrasting emotions.

"How could it be? How could..." There was a distant look in Vivian's eyes, drifted out of focus.

A little unhappy look flitted in William's eyes, "Isn't it normal, I have been doing that so diligently." Hearing this, the doctor gave a slight cough and smiled. Soon, everyone in the Lu family knew the news.

However, Mr. Hamilton was so angry that he almost smashed an antique vase at home. Mrs. Lucia came to Oven's villa in person sooner and planned to take her away.

"Vivian, I know that young people don't like to live with the elders nowadays, but you are pregnant now, and your parents are not by your side. You need someone around to take care of you. So no matter what, you are coming home with me today. "Mrs.

Lucia suddenly said, she noticed that Vivian's expression was in a daze, and then realized they had been living with Oven for several days.

Vivian shook her head, forced a smile, and said, "No, auntie, you made a mistake about it."

"You are still calling me Auntie? Didn't you call me Mom already last time? Oh, please, call me Mom." said Mrs. Lucia, pretending to be unhappy.

Vivian subconsciously looked at William. William smiled lightly, "Just call Mom." Vivian could only do that obediently, "Mom." She said.

"Good, that's my girl! Alright! When I came, I had ask Auntie Anna prepare some soup. We could be able to catch up with the meal if we go back now. I can't let you eat outside, and your dad is waiting for you." Mrs. Lucia resolutely asked people pack up the stuff.

In fact, there was nothing to pack. After all, they had only been here for a few days. Besides, everything was just within William's expectation, so there was not much luggage at all.

Vivian didn't object. William was watching, and Roe looked at Vivian's belly in a strange manner, as if he could see the little baby inside.

When they packed up and walked to the door, they saw an extended black car parked outside the door.

This was a high-end villa area. People living here were either powerful or rich. The villas are far from each other, so it was impossible for neighbors to park their cars here by mistake.

When Mrs. Lucia saw this car, there were anxiety and doubts in her eyes.

William looked not surprised at all, he watched the car calmly.

Then, they saw Mr. Edward bending over to walk out of the car.

"Lady Lucia, Master William, Little Master Roe, Miss Vivian." Mr. Edward nodded slightly, and smiled at them.

Chapter 506 Moved In

Vivian looked at Mr. Edward in a somewhat cramped manner, and Mrs. Lucia stepped forward and said, "Does Hamilton want to talk to William?"

"Lady Lucia, Mr. Hamilton is very happy to know that Miss Vivian is pregnant. Mr. Hamilton considered that it might be inconvenient for Master William and his wife and son to live here, so he asked me to pick them up and help move to the Lu family's old manor. After all, both young master Roe and Miss Vivian need to be taken care of by professional medical staff now." Mr. Edward said with a faint smile.

Roe was getting better recently, and the imminent surgery was already in preparation. However, due to his trip to the J City, the plan was postponed. Mr. Hamilton naturally took this matter to his heart.

Vivian was pregnant now. She naturally needed medical staff to help her for the time being.

It just so happened that there was such a group of elite medical staff around Mr. Hamilton.

“That...” Mrs. Lucia glanced at William, seeking his opinion.

William took Vivian’s hand in one hand and carried Roe in the other, “Let’s go!”

Soon, he took his family of three into the car indifferently.

Upon seeing this, Mrs. Lucia smiled at Mr. Edward, “I happen to have some free time now, so I’d like to take this chance to visit Mr. Hamilton.”

Then, she calmly followed and got into the car.

The car brought to the Lu family’s old estate again, a big empty old house.

This time Mr. Hamilton didn’t take Vivian as an invisible person.

When he saw them, he glanced at Vivian and said indifferently, “Now that you are pregnant, just take good care of yourself. Both you and Roe move to the backyard.”

William raised his eyebrows, “Thank you, Grandpa. It just so happens that I don’t have much work recently, so I can accompany Vivian before the baby is due. I haven’t lived here for a long time. Grandpa, we should still have the Green Pine Chamber, right? How about I live here with Vivian and Roe?”

Mr. Hamilton glanced at him and said irritably, “You are talking nonsense. She will be pregnant for ten months, so you’re going to stay here for ten months without going out to work?”

“Why not!” William chuckled, “Grandpa, my business is mainly in Jin’an City, even if Vivian wasn’t pregnant, I don’t have much to do in J City, either; or are you willing to let my wife and son go back to Jin’an City with me?”

Mr. Hamilton panted a little faster.

Mrs. Lucia frowned, and stepped forward in a hurry to ease the tension, “Roe, are you hungry? My cute grandson, you haven’t eaten anything yet. You must be starving.”

Mr. Hamilton heard it, and he waved his hand to let people prepare the meal.

After dinner, Mr. Hamilton went to take a lunch break, and Mrs. Lucia accompanied William, Vivian and Roe to the Green Pine Chamber in the backyard.

Mrs. Lucia said in a low voice to William, "William, it seems Mr. Hamilton has not put down his plan to let you come back. What do you think?"

"Grandpa has his pursuit, but I have my choice!" William said immediately.

He was just good in Jin'an City, and he didn't think that the J city where power was mutual exclusion and suppression was.

superior to any other places.

Mrs. Lucia sighed, "Fine, your dad and I don't ask for anything anymore after all these years, but once you go back in the future, you and Vivian must take your kids to visit us every year. Don't be so headstrong like you used to be!"

William was somewhat guilty about that, so he agreed.

Although Mr. Hamilton seemed to be nice to them, it could be seen from how the servants addressed her; they still called her as Miss Vivian. Mr. Hamilton still had the intention to expel her after she gave birth to the baby. Therefore, William made up his mind and was patient to persuade him to admit her as his wife no matter how long it would take.

After moving into the Green Pine Chamber, William either played the role of a good father by holding Roe every day, reading some books about pregnancy and chatting with Vivian in the yard, etc.

Vivian was quite puzzled. His performance made her feel as if what happened between him and Angie that day was just an illusion. However, how could it be not real? The kinder he treated her, the worse she felt.

Maybe he was just using her to have a second baby, like fattening a pig to sell for money. But, could she still escape from him now?

Vivian touched her belly, she felt touched in her heart.

She couldn't give up either of them, Roe or the baby in her belly,.

So, how could she compete with him? Vivian was confused.

"Oven is here, I'll go and have a look. You can take a rest after dinner." William said and went out.

Vivian looked at his back. Recently, William was really acting like a good father and husband.

He was very nice to Vivian, and he even read books about pregnancy from time to time. He was more patience with Roe now, as he started reading bedtime stories for Roe, watching TV with Roe, chatting with him.

All this made her wonder if he was still the William she knew.

Vivian let her thoughts fly, and suddenly her phone rang.

Looking down, Vivian's eyes were slightly taken aback.

It was Daniel!

"Miss Vivian, how have you been in the past few days?" Daniel said with a nostalgic tone, as if they were very familiar with each other.

Vivian frowned, biting her lip, and said, "What do you want, Mr. Shen?"

She rejected his proposal last time, so this time she took it as his unwillingness to give up.

“Miss Vivian is still so defensive. I have made such an effort for you, while you just throw me away!” Daniel said. His words made Vivian feel upset.

“If Mr. Shen has nothing to do, I still have work to do, if you excuse me.” Vivian said.

“Miss Vivian, aren’t you curious why you became pregnant all of a sudden?”

Vivian’s mind froze, “You mean... I was actually not pregnant, the pregnancy was not true...” “Of course... It is true!” Daniel gasped.

“Well,” He laughed, “I have arranged a lot of manpower to help you and tried to show you my capabilities, but it seemed that Miss Vivian was much more fortunate than I expected. I never expected that you would be pregnant just in time. But Miss Vivian, I believe you should have felt my sincerity and capabilities now,” Daniel said in a malicious voice.

Vivian squinted her eyes, “Sorry, Mr. Shen, I am not very interested in how powerful you are.”

“Vivian, if my memory didn’t fool me, this is the second time you have rejected me. You really think your status in the Lu family now is pretty stable, don’t you?” Daniel squinted his eyes, his tone dismal.

Vivian gritted her teeth, “It doesn’t matter whether my status is stable or not, but I believe the status of Mr. Hamilton now is not for you to have an opinion and he is not easily be set up. I don’t trust you and will never betray them. You don’t have to spend your time and energy on me. ”

It seemed that Vivian’s decisive tone made the person at the other end of the phone lose his patience. Daniel finally gave a chuckle, which made her creepy.

“Okay, I think I understand what Miss Vivian means. However, Miss Vivian, I hope you will not regret what you said today!” Vivian took a deep breath, feeling chills in her heart.

She hung up the phone and felt extremely stressed.

She didn't think Daniel was lying. On the contrary, he probably had that all set and was ready to do so. But, everybody knew that the medical team around Mr. Hamilton was of the first class. Then if he did that, wasn't he afraid of her being caught in this lie?

Unless... There was an inside man around!

chapter 507 Knocking His Door

Hamilton was irritable, so every few days he asked his private medical team to check him up. Vivian and Roe also had medical examinations together with Hamilton. But Vivian somewhat rejected the medical examination, since she suspected that there might be traitors in this so-called professional team.

However, before she could find the traitor, Daniel had a countermeasure.

That day, because Vivian was alone here, or Hamilton's cynicism, Mrs. Lucia moved into the old house.

At noon that day, everyone gathered together in the front yard to eat together.

"Vivian, try this dish. This dish is good for your health." Mrs. Lucia took the dish for her and said diligently. Vivian smiled and thanked her.

William sitting next to her was taking care of Roe, serving him food from time to time.

In front of the harmonious family, Hamilton with a cold expression looked a little pitiful. Hamilton was upset, staring at them, and ate very little food.

Suddenly, Edward hurried in with a complicated expression.

Edward, who had accompanied Hamilton for most of his life, had experienced various difficulties, but there were very few things that would shock him. Hamilton frowned immediately.

Edward glanced at William. Before William could understand what it meant, Edward walked over and muttered to him.

Hamilton's face was uncertain, and his falcon-like eyes stared at William with a bit of chill.

William's expression gradually became angry, making people around confused.

"William, come out with me!" Hamilton said in a deep voice.

Vivian looked over worriedly. Mrs. Lucia patted her hand, indicating that everything would be fine.

William leaned over and kissed her affectionately, "Don't worry."

Hamilton gave William a deep look and then left unhappily, and William followed him suspiciously.

After they left, Vivian was in a bad mood with no appetite to continue eating.

She felt as if something bad was about to happen.

Mrs. Lucia patted her hand, "Don't worry. Men's behaviors are always mysterious, as if they are talking about national events that cannot be known to outsiders. There are so many secrets, so it may not be a bad thing. Do not worry."

Vivian raised the corner of her mouth, "Well, I see."

"Then continue your meal. You have only eaten a few bites. Help yourself." Mrs. Lucia almost piled the food in her bowl into a hill.

Vivian continued eating reluctantly. At the same time, William and Hamilton on the other side also arrived in the front hall.

Seeing the slightly plain-looking woman who used to wear expensive fashion, William's brows frowned.

Hamilton saw his expression changed, and snorted coldly, "What the hell is going on!"

Angie looked at Hamilton and William with a little gleam in her eyes, and moved up gently, "William..."

The address in a very coquettish tone made William get goose bumps.

William calmly said, "What are you doing here?"

Frightened by his attitude, Angie shrugged her shoulders before complaining, "William, I'm pregnant."

William's eyes were astonished for a moment, but it was only a moment before he said lightly, "Congratulations."

As soon as he said this, Hamilton couldn't help but look sideways.

"William, this is your child, how can you...how can you be so indifferent?" Angie curled his lips, "I know Vivian gave birth to Roe for you, but this child is also yours. William, you can't be so cruel to me. "

The anger in Hamilton's eyes seemed to overflow.

William with a terrible face looked at her strangely, "Angie, lies are always exposed. When did I have sex with you?" Angie, who seemed to be desperate, didn't argue, but looked at William in disbelief, as if looking at a guilty man.

Even Hamilton couldn't stand it anymore. He didn't believe in Angie, but he was messed up by these young people.

"William! If you fucking don't solve it well, get out of here. You are always causing trouble!" Hamilton left furiously, unwilling to look at him again.

William gritted his teeth and squinted at Angie angrily.

Angie was taken aback. She had never seen him look like this, and she even instantly reflected on whether she had done too much.

“William, I...” “Edward!” William raised his voice.

Edward who had been waiting at the door before he heard the call and walked in.

“Take her for a physical examination. She will not be allowed to leave here until the results come out.” William said coldly, and then he went out.

Angie’s face turned pale with her lips curled. She didn’t expect him to be so ruthless.

Angie stepped forward and slammed William’s arm. “William, don’t you care about our friendship for so many years?” William got rid of her hand, “Take her away!”

Angie, whose face turned black with anger, couldn’t resist him, and she was taken away by two middle-aged aunts who came with Edward. William went out with the same sullen face.

“Edward, who brought her here?” William asked coldly.

Edward hesitated and said, “According to Mr. Oven, Miss Angie has been inquiring about you all the time. I don’t know who introduced Miss Angie and finally found Mr. Oven, so...”

William’s expression had become very bad.

“Where is he?”

“He went to the dining room.”

William walked fast toward the dining room a bit.

In the dining room, Oven was having fun with Roe. There was nothing unusual about his hippie smile. Oven saw William come in with a sullen face, and he was shaking with fright.

Holding a chicken leg, Oven immediately stood up straight and said, "Brother, I didn't mean it, but that woman is really annoying.

She said if I didn't bring her to find you, she would commit suicide at my house. It doesn't matter how ordinary people die, but she keeps saying that she is pregnant with your child, so I am afraid that her death will affect the offspring of our family! "

William's expression changed, and he looked at Vivian and Roe subconsciously.

Sure enough, Vivian's expression could not be worse.

And Roe, who silently put down the spoon in his hand, looked at William innocently with a pair of large, dark, shining eyes.

Mrs. Lucia frowned, stepped forward and patted Oven, "What nonsense are you talking about? If any woman says that she is pregnant with someone else's child, if that's true, then our kids will have to line up to the foot of the mountain! "

Oven, who seemed to be hit hard, coughed and said bitterly, "That's why I took her to find my brother. If it's false news, we can teach her a little lesson, so she will not dare to make this kind of mistake next time. If it is true, we can also..."

Chapter 508 Do You Believe Me

"How could it be true? Your brother is not like that, is he?" Mrs. Lucia slapped him viciously on the back hard.

Oven understood the hint and said, "Auntie, you are right. How could my brother be such a bastard? I did something wrong, sorry. I'll take the woman away immediately."

Mrs. Lucia turned his head to look at Vivian, with a calm expression, "Vivian, it is just non-sense. It is probably a misunderstanding, so don't care!"

“William, explain to Vivian immediately!” Mrs. Lucia glared at William.

Flicking his brows, William wanted to explain, but he didn’t think it was necessary. As long as there was an expedited physical examination and laboratory tests, he would naturally be innocent in a day at most.

So he just said, “Do you believe me?” Vivian, who smiled suddenly, ignored him and turned to look at Oven.

“What’s that woman’s name?” William’s face sank.

Oven seemed to finally notice something was wrong, so his expression became a little serious, “Sister-in-law, this is just a misunderstanding. Miss Angie is probably a liar. My brother loves you so much, so he will definitely not cheat you. Don’t worry, she...”

“She seems to be called Annie or something similar?” Vivian interrupted him.

Seeing her serious expression, Oven glanced at William quietly with his small eyes, and finally turned his head and said, “Um...ah...it sounds like Angie...”

William rubbed his head with a headache, “Vivian, don’t think too much. I will give you an explanation soon!” “Heh!” Vivian sneered softly.

This unexplained sneer in the silent room seemed to be infinitely magnified in the minds of several people.

William finally lost his patience. “Vivian, you don’t believe me?” William narrowed his eyes.

Vivian looked down. Her voice was as soft as a floating cloud, “Do you think I should believe you?”

After proposing to her, he hugged Angie at the gate, he hugged the woman in the hotel garden, and he abandoned her at the moment of life and death. How could she believe him?

“Vivian, you...”

“Mom, I’m a little uncomfortable, so I’ll go back and rest first. Please continue enjoy your dinner.” Vivian stood up.

Roe also jumped out of the chair and pulled Vivian’s hem, “Mom, I’ll be with you.”

Vivian, when she saw the child’s pure eyes but worried about her, she felt a burst of emotion in her heart.

Taking a deep breath, she laughed at herself in her heart.

Such a young son actually had to worry about her, which really made her blame herself.

Indecisiveness leads to disaster! She should make a decision!

“Let’s go.”

William pursed his lips and watched Vivian and Roe leave without any intention of chasing them.

After they left, Mrs. Lucia said angrily, “William, what the hell is going on? How could that Angie be in J City?”

William rubbed his eyebrows, “I’ll take care of it, mom, don’t worry about it!”

“You... If you have always had this attitude, then you should be a bachelor for a lifetime!” Mrs. Lucia was furious, and hurriedly followed behind Vivian.

Oven touched his nose and said cautiously, “Brother, I’m sorry. I just planned to take her to make Hamilton upset. I didn’t expect you to really be with her...”

“Really?” William stared at him with dark eyes, a mist made it difficult to see the expression.

“It’s better if it’s just your prank.” William passed him after speaking.

Oven stood there for a while, scratching his head.

Angie did a physical examination and was indeed pregnant for less than two months.

Usually, it was impossible to do a paternity test, but Hamilton’s team naturally had other ways to test. It just couldn’t produce results immediately, but it would take at least two days.

William waited patiently, and paid closely attention to Angie.

At the same time, a team was carrying out a thorough investigation on all the trajectories of Angie’s actions after coming to J

City.

William always felt that there was something wrong with Angie’s arrival.

If such a lie that would be debunked at any time was exposed, there would be no good result. But she did it without hesitation, so what was her purpose? Was it just to make Vivian upset?

Thinking of Vivian, William had another headache. She seemed to be sure of the relationship between him and Angie, so she asked the servant to tell him that she was unwell, and they would not bother her in garden. So he could only find another room to sleep.

Vivian, who had been sleepless all night, lay in bed thinking. She was extremely depressed when she woke up in the morning.

“Miss Vivian, Hamilton invites you to come over.” Edward appeared suddenly and quietly, and said to Vivian who had just washed up. Vivian was taken aback, here it was!

She knew that this day would come sooner or later, but she thought at least he would wait after the baby was born. But now, the arrival of Angie gave Hamilton another idea.

After all, if there was only one grandson, then he was naturally loved by all. But if one grandson after another appeared, he might not be cherished.

Vivian thought about what Hamilton might say, and silently thought about how to deal with it.

Hamilton usually did not allow others to enter his quaint and clean study room. Vivian entered his study for the first time.

Sitting behind the table, wearing a pair of glasses, he was a bit less sharp, a bit more unusual kindness.

“Grandpa.” Vivian stepped forward. Hamilton waved his hand and motioned her to sit down.

Immediately, straight to the point, “Miss Vivian, what do you think of what happened yesterday?”

Vivian pursed his lips and looked straight at Hamilton, “What do you think?”

Hamilton glanced at her again and said in a deep voice, “She may be pregnant with the child of William.”

His attitude was clear. Just as she could live in an old house because of her pregnancy, Angie could also be like her.

“This is indeed William’s fault. But now it has happened, so I can’t leave it alone.” Hamilton leaned back, his aura was very powerful.

Vivian pursed her trembling lips, “What do you want, Grandpa?” Hamilton lowered his eyes, “To be honest, none of you are my ideal grand-daughter-in-law.”

She was of an average origin, and Angie's background was barely considered good, but Alan was imprisoned now, made it impossible for Hamilton to allow Angie to marry into the Lu family.

She understood immediately.

Chapter 509 Hard Choice

Vivian didn't say a word, and Hamilton said again, "Maybe I am getting older and want to enjoy the happiness of having a grandson. Roe is well raised. But that's all."

Vivian nodded slightly and her expression remained unchanged. Hamilton squinted his eyes, somewhat puzzled.

At this time, she didn't cry, didn't make any noise, and didn't offer any conditions, which surprised him a lot. However, no matter what she thought in her heart, he didn't care.

"The descendants of our family will not be allowed to live outside, but you already have Roe and you can make an exception,"

Hamilton meant something. Vivian suddenly chuckled, "You mean if I want, I can leave with my baby, but Roe must stay at the Lu family. Is that right?"

Hamilton remained silent for a moment, his eyes raised slightly, "Of course, you are still young and you have a long way to go in your life. If you consider the inconvenience of bringing the child, I would rather you leave him to the Lu family."

"Whether it's for the sake of your child or for your patience with William for so many years, the Lu family will not treat you bad." Hamilton leaned back slightly. Although his expression was very peaceful, the deep arrogance and disdain in his eyes could not be concealed.

Vivian slightly raised the corner of her mouth, and smiled ironically. This smile made Hamilton a little unhappy.

“William has a lot of scruples now. As you are all pregnant with his children, he may want to avoid seeing you. If you hesitate for one more day, you will only suffer one more day. If you make a decision soon, let someone tell me.” Hamilton has a little pity in his eyes. If not careful, one could hardly see it.

Vivian bit her lip slightly and nodded, “I see.” She got up slowly and felt her legs weak, maybe because she had been sitting for a long time that her.

She slanted and leaned on the bookshelf beside her, and piles of materials fell onto the ground. She was almost unable to stand firmly.

Hamilton frowned. Vivian stood up straight, and said, “Sorry. Mr. Hamilton.” Hamilton nodded, and said nothing with a serious expression.

As soon as Vivian went out, she saw William, who was anxiously on the second floor.

Facing each other, she seemed to be able to see the sweat on his face. She didn’t know what he did just now.

There were worries in his eyes, and he was relieved when he saw her coming out.

He took her hand, “Is there anything wrong?”

“No, why are you here?” Vivian said as she went down, then her lips compressed into a thin line.

William narrowed his eyes. He did not mention how anxious he was when he knew his grandfather called her and how nervous.

he was on the way from the backyard, and did not ask what his grandfather was talking about with her.

He held her hand and said, “Oven went to the farm with others and brought a lot of fruit. I took two watermelons for you and Roe.

Vivian squinted her eyes and nodded, ‘let’s go.’”

William was a little surprised. He thought she was still angry with him, and even made preparations for a long-term “war of resistance”. Unexpectedly, she suddenly talked to him.

This feeling was a bit strange. But it was undeniable that there was not much happiness in his heart.

Looking at Vivian’s calm face, William didn’t know why, but his heart tightened and he felt a little uneasy.

Oven came here to apologize. He brought a lot of food and drink. They were all rural products, pollution-free and green food. He specially came to please Vivian and Roe. She was served by William and sat at the chair like a queen, refused to put a cushion behind her.

“Sister-in-law, this watermelon is very sweet. Taste it. Roe was full of praise just now when he ate it.” Oven handed it to her in time, smiling happily.

Vivian’s eyes flashed. She took it and said with a smile, “Thank you.”

“Sister-in-law, you don’t have to be so polite to me. It is the least I can do.” When Oven finished speaking, he looked at William and wanted to say something nice for him.

Just when he made contact with William’s eyes, he shut up immediately.

Vivian’s eyes were shining, and she suddenly smiled. William was a little strange, but he didn’t say anything.

Roe looked like a hamster with cheeks bulged. He looked up at this and that, and finally decided to be an onlooker with his head down. The two of them ate quietly. The two brothers, Oven and William, looked at each other, not knowing what to say. Oven coughed, “By the way, sister-in-law, I heard in the front yard that Roe’s operation has been arranged, and it will be carried out after one week. When Roe recovers, you and my elder brother’s wedding will be put on the agenda. I’ll prepare whatever kind of wedding you like.”

Vivian looked dim, “Don’t worry. I’ll talk about it later.”

William's pupils shrunk, and Oven was afraid to speak.

"Vivian"

"Watermelon is too cold, I've had enough, help yourselves." Vivian got up and left slowly.

Before she left, she didn't forget to pull Roe, "Child can't eat too much cold food.."

Roe reluctantly put down the watermelon in his hand, wiped his mouth and followed Vivian.

William stepped up and thought for a while, then he gave up.

Oven said, "What should we do? It seems that my sister-in-law is really angry this time. She is not keen on marriage." "She has never been enthusiastic," William said coldly.

Oven choked, "Never?"

"Never!" William didn't explain much. He gave a cold snort and then left.

Oven was a little stunned. Was Vivian really so different from other women?

Oven's eyes flashed dim, and then with a sneer, holding the watermelon from the ground, he walked towards the front hall.

William went to the Courtyard and was turned away as usual.

In the room, Vivian sat in front of Roe with mixed feelings. Although Roe was young, he was different from other children. At this moment, he naturally noticed that something was wrong with Vivian.

With his small eyes wide opened, he looked towards Vivian, with a bit of cunning and cautiousness.

Vivian pressed her lips slightly and took a deep breath, "Roe, there is something I need to tell you, you..." "Mom..." Roe rubbed his hands nervously, "Are you leaving me?"

Vivian's tears surged out. She stepped forward and hugged Roe, tears streaming down her face.

At this moment, no matter how much preparation she had in mind, it was all gone now.

She could save herself by separating from William for her self-esteem and future life, but she couldn't really ignore Roe in order to make herself live better.

Chapter 510 Her Provocation

"Mom, don't cry..." Roe buried her in his chest, quietly comforting her.

Vivian laughed faintly, wiped her tears and her heart softened, then she kissed Roe on his cheek, "Mom will never leave you, no matter what happens, mom will always be with you. I will never leave Roe." The little guy with the same tight expression on his face as William finally heaved a sigh of relief. Vivian felt guilty.

Five minutes ago, the balance of her mind shifted to leave with the baby. She has been fed up with William's cheating and breaking his promise, and she hated this way of life.

Though the Lu family was an "unclimbable peak" and a desirable place in the eyes of outsiders, for her, nothing was more important than a peaceful life.

What's more, the status of the Lu family was the level she couldn't reach. Those gossips and sarcasm would eventually defeat her clear mind. She wanted to give up, and she wanted to leave.

But in the face of Roe, all her abandonment and retreat, all the so-called self-esteem and future ideals, disappeared. She was not alone. She had a child who was going to have surgery a week later. A child she would never give up.

At this moment, she was determined. She couldn't let Roe become an illegitimate child, and she couldn't just think about herself, so she must fight. Even if she had to encounter various difficulties and obstacles, she would be satisfied as long as she could raise Roe well.

After comforting Roe, Vivian calmed down. She heard that William was outside, so he wiped her face in the bathroom, cleaned up, and said to the person at the door that there was no need to stop him. William kept an eye on Vivian. He got the news immediately after the ban from Vivian was lifted.

"Vivian" When William arrived, Vivian was eating.

She hasn't eaten much since last night. Now that she had a good appetite, which made William feel relieved. "It's said that pregnant women's tastes may change a lot. If you want something in particular, I'll ask someone to buy it." William's eyes flashed. He went to the opposite of Vivian and sat down.

Vivian raised her head slightly, and there was a flash of cunning in her eyes, "Other husbands buy it themselves to show sincerity. What is the point of letting others buy it?"

"Then I'll go myself?" William was worried.

It was abnormal. Vivian sneered, "No, my taste is the same. When I was pregnant with Roe, he was not noisy."

William was silent and felt guilty. When she was pregnant with Roe, he was not by her side.

"Our daughter, I'll see her born." William's voice was hoarse.

Vivian raised her eyebrow, "You know it's a daughter now."

"Definitely," William said loudly and proudly.

It was not that he didn't like Roe, but he preferred to have both son and daughter. And when he didn't know the existence of Roe, he thought more than once how good it would be for them to have a tender and soft daughter who looked just like Vivian.

Vivian lowered her eyes slightly and said suddenly, "I have changed my mind."

"What?" William was unprepared.

Vivian said, "Your daughter wants to eat durian pastry."

"This kitchen can do..."

"The durian pastry made in the store near Oven's house is the best." Vivian smiled and looked at him.

"Okay, I will buy it for you now."

The command of the "queen" must be heard. William got up and left immediately.

Vivian's eyes were cold, and her smile narrowed.

"Miss Vivian, do you like your meal?" The servant was a little puzzled when she saw this.

She didn't eat much. Vivian nodded slightly, "I'll go out for a while, and I'll be back later."

There were many guards in the Lu family, and she didn't have much privacy. Vivian's every move was under the nose of Hamilton, and she had no scruples.

After inquiring about where Angie lived, in the peculiar look of the servant, she walked towards the guest room in the front yard.

Angie looked bored at the moment and was reading. It was rare that her lively character could calm down. This side of the guest room had a row of buildings, and there were some flowers and plants in the yard, so the environment was very good.

Swing rattan chair in a flower garden, it seemed particularly dreamy.

When Vivian came over, she saw that Angie wearing a skirt was reading a book, leisurely as if she was a fairy.

As she approached, she could not help laughing in her heart.

The perfume of her body covered the scent of flowers, with exquisite makeup and dressing, which made people almost forget that she was a pregnant woman.

“Oh, isn’t this William’s wife? Why do you come here when you have time? Are you here to laugh at me?” Angie smiled provocatively.

Vivian smiled slightly, with a relaxed expression, “I come here not to laugh at you. Anyhow, we were closed as sisters in the past.

To care about you means I haven’t forgotten our friendship.”

Angie sneered and didn’t move. Vivian didn’t mind, she just found a chair to sit on, with green vines climbing on both sides of the chair, it was really pretty.

“This chair is really nice. It seems that the people who designed here are really attentive.” Vivian boasted.

Angie looked at her suspiciously, with a hint of heaviness in her eyes, “There are a lot of precious things in your yard. Do you want to grab a chair from me?”

“People always pursue beautiful things. Besides, if I want them, then you can’t get them, right?” Vivian smiled with a slight provocation in her eyes.

There was a deep connotation in the words. Angie said through gritted teeth, “Vivian, what belongs to me is mine all my life. No one else can expect it. Otherwise, I would rather destroy it than let others succeed!”

‘I see!’ Vivian raised her head to show her understanding.

Angie looked at her indifferent appearance, and the anger in her heart couldn't help rising, but the thought of that person and everything she was about to face, she couldn't help but snort in her heart. Let her be complacent for a while. There would always be retribution.

As a result, she returned to indifference.

Her eyelids fell on the book again, "If you come here today just to ask for a chair, then you can go back now, because I won't give in."

'This child was Daniel's?' Vivian said suddenly. Angie's eyelids twitched and suddenly raised her eyes.

Seeing the joke in Vivian's eyes, she was relieved. But at that moment, the violent fluctuation of her eyes could be seen clearly by anyone.

Vivian grinned, "It seems that you really had sex with him."

Angie squinted her eyes, "Vivian, you will pay a price for casting wild aspersions at me!"