Death... and me

Chapter 1051: You Can't Answer

Rean heard Roan's comment through their Soul Connection and nodded. 'Indeed. I also felt their answers to be a bit fishy. I guess I'm starting to get this thing about lies that you have.'

Roan pondered over it a bit before saying, 'The only doubt is what part. Is it something about their Elemental Affinity or their race? In any case, we don't have the time to investigate this as we have already left the city.'

Roan then looked at the siblings and asked, "Now then, how about you tell us who the guys following us are?"

Fatax and Eminia were taken aback to hear that. "Is there someone following us?!"

Roan then pointed behind them. It was very hard for one to see it due to how far and how high it was. However, since Roan knew they were being followed, he eventually saw them. "Take a look there. Can you see that small spot in the distance? It had been following us ever since we left the city. Rean and I don't remember to have caused any troubles, so it must be something related to you."

Fatax shook his head after hearing that, replying, "We know nothing about it."

"Enough." Roan increased the tone of his voice as he could not help but say, "They have been watching the two of you even before we left the city, you know?"

Eminia looked at Roan with surprise as she asked him, "Then...why did you accept our offer?"

"Because it looked interesting," Rean answered. "The ones following you were part of the City Lord's mansion. It's weird that they waited for you to leave the city when they could simply capture you right there in the open."

"In...teresting?" Eminia found it hard to believe. "Are you part of their group?"

"If we were, we wouldn't have told you about the pursuers on our back, you know?" Rean said in response while shrugging his shoulders.

Fatax then gritted his teeth as he told them, "We can pay ten times more. Please, don't let them get close. Make sure we arrive in Giliga."

Roan shook his head after hearing that, telling them, "That will depend on your answer. If you tell us why you're being followed, we can consider leaving you here or continue to bring you with us."

Suddenly, Eminia's expression changed. Her young behavior seemed to transform as if she had become someone many, many times older. After that, she told the two, "At the moment, all I can tell you is that they want me. Or, to be more specific, my blood."

"Ancestor!" Fatax was taken aback by Eminia's move as he exclaimed.

"Ancestor?" Rean and Roan were confused. It didn't matter how they looked at Eminia. She was definitely younger than Fatax, so how could she be an ancestor?

Eminia then raised her hand as she looked at Fatax, telling him. "Enough." She then looked at the twins and asked, "So, how is it?"

Roan didn't like that. "They want your blood, right? Why would they wait until you leave the city? As the City Lord Mansion's members, they could have attacked you straight away."

Eminia shook her head in response. "They couldn't. First of all, no one was supposed to know that I was leaving."

Rean understood something as he said to Roan, "Hey, Roan. It seems like we aren't the only ones using a different appearance. Both of them aren't showing their real faces either."

Roan nodded in response. "I know. They were trying to leave the city unnoticed, but their plan was obviously busted." Roan pondered over it for a bit before continuing, "They're members of the City

Lord's mansion, but they couldn't attack you in the city. The first thing that comes to my head is a power struggle."

Eminia didn't confirm it, but the slight change in expression on her face was enough for Roan to know that he got it right. "So, it is a power struggle, huh? Things like the position of City Lord are usually defined by blood more than merit. Could it be something like that?"

Eminia shook her head after hearing that. "It's not wrong to say that it is a power struggle. Anyway, that's enough for now. As Fatax said, we are willing to pay you much more if you can bring us to Giliga City."

Rean then looked at Roan after that, telling him, "There might be some Elemental Transformation Realm enemies back there, you know?"

Eminia shook her head almost immediately, informing the two of them, "That is not possible. I can guarantee that no Elemental Transformation Realm pursuer is coming after us."

Those words were enough for Roan to deduce a few more things. "With you saying that, it means that your pursuers also can't raise too much alarm. Whatever powers are involved with this blood of yours, they can't dispatch high-level pursuers as it would attract the other side's attention. If that happens, it will put the plan in jeopardy. It's kind of funny. One side couldn't send anyone in the Elemental Transformation Realm or above after you because they didn't want to warn the enemy. As for the enemy, they couldn't do it because it would warn your side that they knew you left."

Eminia and Fatax were surprised by Roan's words. He was basically spot on! "That..."

Roan stopped them there. "Alright, we will accept this task."

"What?!" Eminia and Fatax were surprised that Roan accepted it that easily.

Rean, on the other hand, couldn't help but laugh after hearing that. "Hahaha! He's just bored. We have to travel nonstop for four months, so he wanted to do something while at it."

Of course, Eminia was more than satisfied with that. "The payment will definitely be given."

Roan then asked something else. "Fatax, or whatever his real name might be, called you ancestor. However, you look way too young to be an ancestor. How come?"

Eminia shook her head as she responded, "I can't talk about that either. I'm sorry."

"Then, what about your cultivation level? Shouldn't an ancestor be much stronger? Both you and Fatax are more or less in the same realm." Fatax was in the Late Stage of the Soul Transformation Realm, while Eminia was in the Middle Stage of the Soul Transformation Realm.

"That's also not something I can answer," Eminia replied.

Roan nodded. "Last but not least..." Roan smiled as he asked, "You aren't really part of the Graskin Race, right?"

Eminia narrowed her eyes in response. However, before she could answer, Roan stopped her. "Yeah, yeah...you can't answer. Let's leave it at that for now."

Death... and me

Chapter 1052: No Doubt

With that, Rean looked back at the pursuers and wondered as he said to Roan, "Do you think their flying demon beast is stronger than ours?"

Roan tried to check it from afar, but it was really hard to tell. They were just too far away. "I'm not sure."

However, Eminia immediately answered, "That's a Vask Eagle, a Demon Beast quite common in our territory. Most of them reach Stage Five or Six once they reach adulthood." Of course, they could cultivate further, but Stage Five or Six was more or less guaranteed. "Although it is very far, I can at least tell the color of its feathers more or less. It's definitely not a Stage Seven. The Vask Eagle's feathers change as their cultivation grow."

Rean nodded, quite satisfied with the answer. "That's enough for me." He then touched the Golden Rascol's back before using his skill.

'Life Style, First Form, Enhancement!'

Light Element gathered and burst into the Golden Rascol, quickly increasing its body strength by a lot. In the Realm of Gods, where flying wasn't possible before the Transition Realm, the bird's body strength meant everything in flight. Since Rean could increase it, then the result was pretty obvious.

*Creeeee!*

The Golden Rascol felt amazingly well as it followed Rean's command to increase its flight speed. Its speed increased by more than 50% in just a moment, and it could go even faster if Rean wished so. However, Rean didn't want to spend too much Divine Soul Power, so he kept the boost to this level.

"This..." Eminia and Fatax were taken aback. They could totally tell that the Golden Rascol was still a Late Stage Five Demon Beast. However, it was definitely flying as fast as a late or maybe even a Peak Stage Six Demon Bird! "What kind of skill is that?"

Rean smiled in response as he told them, "Don't misunderstand. It doesn't mean that the Rascol can fight at the Peak Stage Six Level. At most, it would only match one at Initial Stage Six with this skill of mine. However, since it's all about muscle strength when it comes to flight at our cultivation level, the result is much better."

Rean and Roan knew that Kentucky could use Rean's Enhancement skill to fly as fast as Stage Eight Demon Birds when it came to flight alone. With that, one could tell just how much those that lacked the ability of flight were lacking in terms of understanding those with the natural ability to fly. After all, the speed of flight depended on body strength, which was a huge advantage if one had something like Rean's Enhancement skill.

"Still, you haven't told me what kind of skill it is. I've seen body enhancement skills before, but yours far surpasses anything I've seen in my life." Obviously, Eminia and Fatax were still curious.

"Hahaha! Let's just say it's my little secret," Rean answered.

Far in the back, the pursuers had been following Rean's group and were waiting for the moment to catch up to them. There were three of them, all having cultivations at the Saint Realm. Two were in the Late Stage, while one was at the Peak Stage. They had only flown a little more than a hundred kilometers from the city, so they thought they were too close. They wanted to wait until they were further away. However...

"What?!" It was then that they saw their target's speed increase by a lot. "Wasn't that Golden Rascol just a Stage Five Demon Beast? How the hell is it flying that fast? Quick, make the Vask Eagle fly faster!"

*Creee!*

They immediately issued the order, and the eagle flapped its wings even faster. However, the most they could do was match the Golden Rascol's speed as it was a Stage Six Vask Eagle. It didn't have Rean's Enhancement skill to help either.

One of the pursuers then asked, "Raco, what about the others?"

"We positioned them before the demon beast territory, just in case. We can ask them to block Eminia's group," the person named Raco replied. "As for the rest, we can have them move into the demon beast territory ahead of time as well. If they avoid our group at the entrance, we can have the others look for them inside."

"Do it! I don't want to follow them into the forest."

Back on Rean's side, Fatax seemed quite nervous. "They're still following us. Can't you make the Golden Rascol go faster?"

Rean shrugged his shoulders in response. "Nah, this speed is fine." First of all, Rean could use his Light and Divine Sense bending skill to completely hide them. Since the pursuers were so far in the back, they wouldn't be able to tell where they were at all. The fact that he didn't do so was because Rean and Roan didn't want to. Just like the pursuers, they wanted to get further away from the city as well.

Eminia, of course, was a lot more composed. "Enough, Fatax. The fact we can keep our distance is already good enough. Once we enter the demon beast territory, we can use it to our advantage to escape."

"Escaped?" Rean looked at her with a smile. "Who says we're trying to escape?"

"You are not?" Fatax was even more surprised now.

"Hahaha!" Rean couldn't help but laugh out loud. "If I wanted to escape, we would have done so a long time ago. Escaping is extremely easy."

Roan shook his head. "No can do. I want to know more about our friends back there."

Eminia and Fatax didn't know how to react to the two of them. "This..." It was hard to tell whether they were telling the truth or not. However, Eminia quickly made up her mind. "If you help us escape right now, I'll increase the payment to 2000 Divine Stones."

Rean shrugged his shoulders as he told them, "It's fine, it's fine. Divine Stones are hard to come by, you know? You should save them when you can."

Even an idiot could tell that Rean and Roan didn't seem to care about Divine Stones at all. "Just what do you two want to do?"

Roan glanced at her for a moment before saying, "Find the truth. If you can't tell, I'm pretty sure they can tell you when I'm finished."

Even Eminia got a chill on her back. For some reason, she didn't doubt Roan's words.

Death... and me

Chapter 1053: Underestimation

The entrance of the demon beasts' territory? Unlike the pursuers, Rean and Roan had no intention of waiting that long. Once they were around 300 kilometers away from Kilas City, Rean ordered the Golden Rascol to land on the ground.

Of course, the pursuers simply thought that their Rascol had become tired after flying at that speed for so long. "Hahaha! So, you finally can't run anymore?"

The enemies quickly landed with their Vask Eagle, seeing that the twins' group wasn't moving.

Rean then looked at them and could finally feel their cultivations. 'Two Middle and one Late Stage Saint Realm cultivator.'

Roan nodded in satisfaction. 'That's more like it.'

Rean then looked at the guy with the Late Stage Saint Realm cultivation before asking, "Now then, how should I call you guys?"

The leader of the enemies, a cultivator by the name of Sutil, snorted in response. "There's no need for you to know our names as you will die here." The other two laughed in response when they heard that. Since Rean could feel their cultivations, then so could the enemy. They could tell that Rean's group didn't have a single Saint Realm cultivator among them. As for their Middle Stage Saint Realm cultivators, one of them was named Raco, while the other was called Tran.

Surprisingly, Rean and Roan were pretty calm even after their taunts. Although their numbers and their disparity in cultivation were obvious, it was as if they couldn't even see the enemy.

Fatax and Eminia weren't as calm, though. After some time, Eminia took a deep breath and then came forward. "You two are after me, right? Do you even know who you're dealing with? I might as well tell you that only death awaits you once you finish your job as your masters won't allow loose ends."

Sutil couldn't help but snort after hearing that. "Hmph! There's no need for you to worry about that. In fact, if we fail this mission, then we're dead for sure. Just surrender yourself nicely, and we can at least give your friends a quick and painless death. You should know that we can't kill you, after all."

Rean couldn't help but laugh out loud in response, saying, "Hahaha! Look at that! They think they're some hot shit."

Roan glanced at Rean with a dark expression, cursing, "Shut up. Can't you see they might say something important? Why must you stop the conversation between them?"

"Oh, right!" Rean then apologized. "Sorry, sorry. Go ahead and continue talking. We'll wait."

Sutil's group didn't feel like Rean and Roan were taking them seriously. That's not the behavior of someone when they meet someone with such a huge disparity in cultivation. However, they couldn't see anything out of order, which made the twins' confidence seem even more suspicious. Nevertheless, Sutil had his mission to accomplish, so he ignored Rean and Roan. "How will it be? Would lady come with us?"

Fatax then put himself in front of Eminia as he took out his sword. "If you want to take Eminia away, you'll have to pass over my dead body first."

"Eminia?" Sutil was puzzled by that name. "Oh, right! That's the name of the girl, huh? Whatever. Since she doesn't want to surrender, we might as well end this."

Sutil then looked at Raco and Tran, ordering them, "Get rid of the twins. I'll capture that 'Eminia' and get rid of her valiant guard."

Raco and Tran smiled in response before their cultivations burst out. Soon after, they shot in the twins' direction, trying to end this fast.

Rean and Roan, however, just smiled in response to seeing that. Their hair colors changed into a mix of black and white before they pointed their White and Black Stars against each other. Light and Dark Element gathered in huge quantities, aided by the Divine Soul Power of the twins.

'Death Style, Fifth Form, Mirage Assault!'

'Life Style, First Form, Enhancement!'

'Death World!'

'Death Style, First Movement Form, Shadow Steps!'

The twins activated all four skills together just when Raco and Tran entered their range. They weren't the only ones inside the range of Death World, though. Eminia and Fatax were also there, so they were dragged into Death World as well.

In an instant, the world lost its light as everything went dark around Tran and Raco. "What is this?!"

That wasn't all.

'Light and Divine Sense bending!'

A moment later, Rean and Roan disappeared from those two Divine Senses, including the four clones!

"Not good!" Sutil was underestimating the twins at first. However, the moment he saw the Death World take form, he understood that there was a lot more to those twins than their cultivation dictated. With that, he launched himself inside the Death World, expecting to give Raco and Tran his support.

*Arrrrgh!*

Unfortunately for him, he was already too late. Just as he was about to enter the range of Death World, he saw Raco's body fly past him out of the Death World. He wasn't alone, though. Rean and Roan had both of their swords in Raco's chest while they pushed forward!

"You dare!" Sutil immediately changed direction and attacked the twins. Lightning Element gathered around his hands as he assaulted the twins.

'Lightning Flash!'

'Wrath of the Thunder God!'

Surprisingly, Sutil didn't use a weapon but his body instead. His speed soared due to his movement technique as his fist landed on Rean and Roan's bodies. The attack blasted Rean and Roan away, separating them from Raco.

However, Raco had already been hit on his vital points, so he couldn't be saved anymore. As for Rean and Roan...they disappeared into specks of Light and Dark Element. Sure enough, those two were nothing more than clones!

The element of surprise! Rean and Roan could already fight Middle Stage Saint Realm cultivators if they went all out. But that was a limitation to when they were fighting alone. When they were together, they could go one step further!

Of course, being able to battle just a single stage further shouldn't have allowed them to defeat Raco this quickly. It was the element of surprise and the enemy group's total underestimation of their strength that allowed Rean and Roan to land those fatal attacks as soon as Raco entered their Death World.

Now... Rean and Roan were alone in the Death World with Tran!

Death... and me

Chapter 1054: I Hope You Don't Mind Me Using Them

Sutil then rushed back to the Death World, only to stop right in front of it. In the end, he saw just how easily Raco was killed, to the point that he didn't even have a chance to react. If he entered the twins' Death World, wouldn't he be sending himself to his death as well? Then again, it seemed like Tran was still holding on. With that in mind, were the twins really that strong, or was it Raco's mistake that he died that quickly?

Suddenly, Tran shouted from inside the Death World, "Fuck me! Sutil, where are you?! I can't hold on my own for much longer!"

Because the twins focused their firepower on Raco first, they indeed killed him very fast. However, Tran understood the disadvantageous position he was in and completely changed his mind before the twins began to focus on him. He was still a Middle Stage Saint Realm cultivator, after all.

Sutil gritted his teeth as he heard that and soon rushed inside. While keeping his Divine Sense spread out, he was finally able to find the twins every time they got too close. However, he didn't focus on the twins. Instead, he sent a Divine Sense Message to Tran, telling him, 'Get close to me, and let's leave this darkness.'

Tran nodded in response and immediately moved in Sutil's direction. At the same time, Sutil increased the power of his Wrath of the Thunder God, retaliating against all the attacks coming from the twins.

Eventually, Sutil and Tran got close to each other and dashed out of the Death World...or so they tried. Unfortunately for them, Death World had Roan as the conjurer. It would move wherever he went. With that being said, Roan only had to accompany Sutil and Tran as they tried to leave its range.

On the other hand, the ones who left the Death World were Eminia and Fatax. After all, they only received a message from Rean and Roan to not move when the battle started. "Wh-what happened?"

They looked ahead and could now see the huge dark area moving away from them quite quickly. However, what really caught their attention was the body of one of Saint Realm enemies on the ground. "This..."

They couldn't believe it. Rean and Roan were obviously an entire realm below the enemies at the very least, so how did they do that? No, that wasn't all. They also could tell that Rean and Roan were pursuing the two other guys. It was obvious that they held the advantage. "This kind of power..."

Eminia pondered over it a bit before saying to Fatax, "They're probably members of the Royal Family, or at the very least, one of the big sects or clans of our kingdom."

Fatax agreed with Eminia on that. "Indeed. They should be very high up on the strength ranking there. Perhaps they're legacy disciples or something like that."

Tran and Sutil were starting to feel desperate. It didn't matter how much they ran away as the dark environment didn't disappear. Besides, the twins kept up their assault from all sides.

'Three Claws of the Dragon!'

'Stellar Piercer!'

'Soaring Dragon!'

'Flame Emperor Slash!'

'Flaming Blade Arc!'

Seeing that, Sutil understood that he wouldn't be able to leave this place if he were to try and bring Tran with him. In fact, he was in doubt if he could go on his own. 'Tran, when I give you a signal, use your strongest attack against the enemies.'

Tran didn't know what Sutil was planning, so he could only follow his words. 'Alright!'

They continued to retreat for a few more meters until...

'Now!'

Tran immediately gathered Divine Energy and Water Element as fast as he could before releasing his attack.

'Water Vortex!'

As the name implied, a Water Vortex quickly appeared around Tran before expanding rapidly. Soon after, Tran pointed forward, commanding the attack to go in the direction indicated by Sutil.

*Shuaaaaaaa!*

Tran couldn't help but gasp for air after that, feeling the backlash of his attack. It hit a very big area, which was something hard to do in the Realm of Gods due to the restrictions. However, it was at this moment that his expression went dark. The moment he used his Water Vortex, Sutil ran away! 'Fuck! You fooled me!'

Sutil couldn't care less, though. 'Hmph! You should be grateful that I even entered this fucking dark thing to try and save you. Since it isn't possible, don't blame me for escaping on my own!'

With Sutil abandoning him, Tran decided to run away on his own. However, he was in the worst possible condition after that attack. Rean and Roan, obviously, didn't let the chance pass up.

'Death Style, Third Form, Three Claws of the Dragon!'

'Life Fire, Second Form, White Stellar Explosion!'

*Boom!*

*Arrrgh!*

Tran tried to raise a barrier while using his weapon to stop the twins. Unfortunately, it was way too frail to succeed. Roan's attack hit his vital organs while Rean's attack crashed his body against the ground. He was dead as dead could be!

Sutil heard the explosion and increased his Lightning movement technique to the max. After some time, he was able to see the light of the outside once again. From there, he would rush to his Vask Eagle and get away from this place. His forces could try to capture Eminia later when their group tried to enter the demon beasts' territory.

'Heading somewhere?'

Sutil felt a chill on his back when he escaped the Death World, though. Right in front of him, two twins with black and white hair were already waiting for him. "This... what about Tran?!"

Roan snorted after hearing Sutil's shocked response. "He's dead already. After you tricked him, ending his life was so easy that we didn't even need to intervene on our own." Rean and Roan's clones couldn't compare to the originals. However, they were more than enough for that weakened Saint Realm cultivator. In Tran's state before his death, even an Initial Stage Saint Realm cultivator could easily defeat him, let alone the twins.

Roan then pointed his White Star at Sutil and told him, "What was that exactly? Oh, right! If you surrender yourself nicely, I can at least give you a quick death. Weren't those your words? I hope you don't mind me using them."

Death... and me

Chapter 1055: Roan Loves Sincerity

Roan's Dark World then disappeared behind Sutil, revealing the two remaining clones. The twins usually controlled four. However, the Water Vortex hit two of them. As they cost a lot of Divine Soul Power to form, Rean and Roan create two more clones again.

Sutil, however, wouldn't give up so easily. 'I want to see how you'll hold me down without that darkness skill of yours,' he thought.

'Lightning Flash!'

Lightning Element gathered around him as Divine Energy burst out of Sutil's body. After that, he ran through the biggest opening in the twins' encirclement, trying to escape from there.

Unfortunately for him, all Sutil could do was hear Roan's words of disappointment through Divine Sense. 'Such a predictable action... if you had selected any other direction, it would have increased your chance by quite a lot. However, you couldn't even stop to think why there was such an opening in this place. Seriously, how many times have you fought others in your life? I wonder how you even reached the Late Stage of the Saint Realm as an idiot.'

*Grab!*

'Death Style, First Energy Form, Shadow Bind!'

Sutil gritted his teeth in response and immediately reacted.

'Thunder Burst!'

*Kabrummm!*

Lightning Element and Divine Energy discharged from Sutil's body, pulverizing Roan's Shadow Bind skill. However, he also understood that he had lost some precious time to do that. So, instead of running, he turned around.

'Lightning Wave!'

Sutil immediately used his defensive skill, which was the right decision this time.

*Bzzzzzz*

*Clang, clang, clang!*

He was able to defend against Rean and Roan's Three Claws of the Dragon, which were six blades attacking him at once. His Lightning Defense, which used his previous Thunder Burst's remaining Lightning Element, succeeded in stopping the twins' attack and even forced them back a little.

Of course, one must remember that the twins, when together, were even able to fight Late Saint Realm Cultivators head-on! With that being said, Sutil had to use a lot of his power to fend off against the twins' attacks. As for the twins' remaining two clones, they were even less of a help. After all, they were a lot weaker than the twins themselves. When the Thunder Burst exploded, they were already forced far away by Sutil's power.

Sutil then took the chance to run away once again. Unfortunately for him, the twins had Rean's Enhancement skill and Roan's Shadow Steps. Neither skill lost in speed to Sutil's Lightning Flash. Besides...

'Hey, how long will you keep running?' Rean asked with a Divine Sense message. 'You should know by now that we didn't kill you because we don't want to. You will only make things more painful for yourself.'

Sutil was enraged by Rean's words. "Shut up!" Of course, he wouldn't stop just because Rean said so. He still held onto that sliver of hope that he would find a way to escape.

'Death Style, First Form, Stellar Piercer!'

'Stellar Piercer!'

'Stellar Piercer!'

As the twins followed Sutil closely, they kept using their ranged attack. Piercing rays of Light and Dark Elements continued to come flying in Sutil's direction, forcing him to dodge or use even more Divine Energy each time.

Behind the twins, Eminia and Fatax used the Golden Rascol to follow them from behind. That was their only choice as the Rascol only obeyed Rean. Besides, they now understood that the enemy knew they were outside. After seeing the twins' power, they knew that their best chance at reaching Giliga was to rely on the twins. It was as simple as that.

The pursuit lasted up to twenty minutes. On the way, Sutil did encounter other cultivators. After all, this was still somewhat considered close to Kilas City. One must remember that even 'small' cities had hundreds of millions of people, so it made sense to find some people even after a few hundred kilometers from the city. Especially since they weren't inside the demon beasts' territory.

Unfortunately, none of them had a level of cultivation that Sutil could make use of. He did try to shout that he would pay thousands of Divine Stones if they helped him. However, seeing the level of the battle, none of the people dared to even get close. Let's not forget that it's still hard to find cultivators above the Nascent Soul Realm due to the issue of 'finding one's path.'

Sutil didn't try to use anyone as hostages either. Not that he didn't want to, but he knew that at the moment he changed his direction to try to capture someone, the twins would definitely catch up to him. Poor Sutil failed to realize that the twins could catch up to him at any time, but they wanted him to use all his Divine Energy first.

Eventually, the Divine Energy in Sutil's Dantian ran dry, even though he tried to recover it using his own Divine Stones along the way. In the end, he could only turn around and pledge. "Wait, wait! Let's make a deal! What do you want? Divine Stones? I can pay you a huge amount if you let me go! How about that?"

Sutil then took off his spatial ring and showed it to the twins as he pleaded, "There are 5000 Divine Stones in this spatial ring! However, if you attack me, I will break the ring. You should know that any item inside a spatial ring will be eternally lost if the spatial ring is destroyed, right?"

Rean and Roan, who stopped right in front of Sutil, looked back at Eminia and Fatax as Rean asked them, "Well, 5000 Divine Stones are a lot. What do you say, Eminia?"

Sutil's eyes lit up as he also looked at Eminia. If she didn't have the stones to surpass his offer, he would still have a chance!

Eminia was taken aback. "Wait! Didn't you say that you didn't care much about Divine Stones?"

"Don't care about Divine Stones?" Sutil had a bad premonition when he heard that.

*Swish!*

*Arrrgh!*

Rean then took the spatial ring from the fallen hand, nodding as he replied, "Indeed, we don't care too much. However, it's not like we will throw them away either."

Sutil immediately understood. They made him focus on Eminia for a moment and used that chance to take his spatial ring!

Roan completely ignored the spatial ring and stopped in front of Sutil, telling him, "It's time for the question and answer portion. I love how sincere I can make a person become during these times."

Death... and me

Chapter 1056: Langara

*Swish!*

"Nooooo!"

To make sure things wouldn't go out of control, Roan pierced through Sutil's dantian, completely crippling his cultivation. "What do you mean by no? You're just a hostage now. I can't give you the chance to run away, you know?" Soon after, Roan touched Sutil's shoulder.

'Life Style, Second Form, Instant Recovery!'

Sutil's injuries then closed completely. The higher the cultivation, the harder it was to heal. But now that he had no cultivation whatsoever, healing him was extremely simple.

Sutil then looked at Roan with hatred on his face. However, he knew that he was bound to be dead soon, so he pressed his teeth against each other, releasing a poison inside his body. "Hehe! You don't know what you're dipping your feet into. I'll see you in the next life."

*Cough! Cough!*

Sutil then vomited black blood and fell to the ground. From the looks of it, the poison was really potent. He would be dead in just a few seconds.

Eminia looked at that and didn't seem the least bit surprised. Obviously, they already predicted that such a thing would happen. However...

"Come on! We just met each other! I can't possibly let you go so soon, right?" Rean said with a smile as he touched Sutil's body. Soon after, his hair changed once more between black and white.

'Life Style, Fourth Form, Purification!'

Light and Dark Elements rushed into Sutil's body like a torrent. The Light Element made sure to keep Sutil's body intact while the Dark Element destroyed all traces of the poison Sutil had just swallowed.

Fatax couldn't help but exclaim, "Impossible! No one should be able to heal that poison without the antidote!"

Eminia narrowed her eyes as she watched the process happen. She didn't know how they did that, but they were able to get rid of the poison that even her own background and the antidote wouldn't succeed on so easily. After all, the poison acted so fast that even the antidote might not work in time. 'Just who are these guys?'

A few moments later, Sutil woke up again, just to see that he was completely fine. "Wh-what happened?" He then looked around and noticed Roan looking somewhere else.

To be more precise, Roan was looking at Eminia and Fatax. "Now then, will you tell me more about your situation, or should I ask him?"

Eminia shook her head in response, telling Roan, "I told you I can't. It goes much deeper than you think. Believe me, you better not know anything. Also, you'll only waste your time trying to interrogate this guy. Our background trains these types of cultivators so that they won't reveal anything. You saw it yourself. He even tried to kill himself with poison before you healed it somehow."

Rean couldn't help but ask, "Is that how you expect to get our help, not saying anything?"

Eminia shook her head. "That's why I told you that we will pay you many times more Divine Stones when we get to Giliga. That should be enough payment, no? Even if you don't care too much about them, you would do well with the amount. If Divine Stones isn't enough, I can give you something else as long as it isn't going overboard."

Roan shook his head in the end as he knew it was useless asking her. "Forget it. I'll simply ask this guy."

Sutil snorted when he looked at Roan. "Hmph! Do you think that simple pain can make me open my mouth? You can torture me for the next ten years, and you'll still get nothing, fucker!"

Rean looked at Sutil with pity in his eyes, telling him, "Brother, let alone ten years, I'll be impressed if you hold for ten minutes." With that being said, Rean walked away. He truly didn't like those moments. Besides, Roan was better at it anyway.

Roan glanced at Rean for a moment and told him, "Make sure Rascal is ready to leave. We don't know if these guys have anyone else close by."

Rean nodded in response before continuing to head to the Golden Rascol. At the same time, he put his arms around Fatax and Eminia's shoulders. "You two, come and help me. Our little Rascal likes company."

Fatax and Eminia didn't mind it as they were sure Roan wouldn't succeed. However, eight minutes later, Roan came back, much to Eminia and Fatax's surprise. They then looked at the place where Sutil was located and could only see the guy's dead body there. "You gave up much faster than I thought," Eminia said with an 'I told you so' expression.

Fatax shrugged his shoulders in response, obviously thinking the same thing as Eminia.

Roan glanced at those two and coldly smiled after hearing her words. "Well, well, well...it's nice to meet you, Matriarch Langara. No, this girl's body that you're using at the moment is really called Eminia, so I guess it's isn't completely wrong to use that name either."

Fatax and Eminia's expression immediately changed after hearing that. "Wh-what did you just say?"

Rean also smiled by the side while he treated the Golden Rascol. Obviously, he heard the entire confession through his Soul Connection with Roan.

Of course, he let Roan do the talking, telling the two, "Langara Talan, the Matriarch of the Talan Clan. She's also known for her ability Soul Succession, a very rare ability that her race possesses. As long as the bloodline of a descendant is pure enough, you can transfer your soul into their bodies and live their lives. Truly an interesting race, I have to admit."

Fatax and Emi...no, Langara, couldn't believe it. "How could the clan release such a weak hunter?! He shouldn't have opened his mouth!"

Rean patted Langara's shoulder and laughed as he said in response, "Hahaha! Don't worry. That hunter that was after you was truly remarkable. There's no living soul in this Realm of Gods who can keep secrets from Roan. For him to have resisted an entire eight minutes under Roan's hands is a testament to the strength of his will. I have to admit, your clan's training methods are impressive."

Roan didn't care about that as he told Langara, "Now then, to think I'm looking at a matriarch that's 32 generations old. However, the interesting part is what the opposition in your clan needs you for."

Death... and me

Chapter 1057: Analysis

Rean's interest was piqued as he asked Roan, "Oh, that part I didn't hear. What do they need her for?"

Roan smiled in response and was just about to talk when suddenly, Langara raised her hand, telling them, "Don't talk. Even though we look to be alone here, I don't wanna risk other people listening in our conversation."

Roan didn't mind as he looked at Rean. "How's the Golden Rascol?"

"Oh! Rascal's fine," Rean replied. "He could have flown for much longer. It's just that we decided to stop midway. Come on, jump on his back. We can talk some more on the way."

Rean's group then took off, once again flying in Giliga City's direction. On the way, Roan began to explain through Divine Sense. 'To be honest, the hunter didn't know too much about Langara. Only the general knowledge of the clan. He told me that the matriarch would jump from body to body, and the receptacle would get much stronger during the time she was there. They would also retain the cultivation gained by the matriarch. Simply put, the girl called Eminia would receive a huge boost in talent once the matriarch transfers into another body.'

Rean was surprised to hear that. 'That's definitely a very peculiar ability. Does that mean her entire clan can do things like that?'

'No,' Roan answered. 'The matriarch is basically the only member of her race remaining in this region. Of course, the Realm of Gods is ridiculously big, so chances are there are more members of the same race out there. It's just that the matriarch doesn't know where to find them.'

'Only member of her race?' Rean pondered over it a bit, only to mutter, 'Does that mean...'

Seeing that Rean figured it out, Langara could only nod in the end, telling them, 'That's correct. I had children with the Graskin Race so that I wouldn't be the last of my lineage. It's just that the ones who came after me had diluted blood. Rarely would a member of my clan appear that carries a pure bloodline. This girl called Eminia was one of them.'

Rean couldn't help but ask, 'Isn't that weird? If you can live their lives, you should be able to cultivate and live a very long time. How come you've already been through 32 generations?'

Roan shook his head as he told Rean, 'That much the hunter didn't know. In fact, he didn't even know what the race the matriarch came from was called. It seems like these kinds of information are a secret in the clan that only the top brass is aware of.' Roan then looked at Langara after that. 'Something tells me you won't speak either, right?'

Langara shrugged her shoulders as she replied, 'It's good that you know.'

Roan nodded before continuing, 'What comes next is purely my own speculation. 'First, she must jump from a body to another because the host's soul will start rejecting her soul. That clue was behind the previous information. The hunter said that the body's previous owner will obtain a huge boost in talent and retain the cultivation gained by the matriarch during that period.'

Rean immediately understood. 'I see...the matriarch shouldn't have a reason to leave that body. It means that this method relies on the existence of the other soul in the body. Although the matriarch's soul is the one controlling the body, the one that keeps it alive is the original soul. After all, that isn't the matriarch's body. They aren't compatible. That's why the soul, no, in fact, it's probably both the body and the original soul who began to reject the matriarch at some point.'

Roan nodded once again. 'Exactly. Secondly, the limitation of cultivation. I don't see why she would jump into the body of a young girl who's still in the Soul Transformation Realm. No, perhaps she jumped inside at an even earlier stage. If the cultivation is too high, the soul and body would be too strong for her to invade.'

Rean couldn't help but ask after that. 'What would be her use to the opposing side of her clan? Isn't it better to have her as the sole matriarch and let her jump into a body when someone with a pure bloodline appears? For the clan as a whole, it would be a very good thing to keep increasing the member's talents like that.'

Roan shrugged his shoulders as he replied, 'That's the problem. Did you hear what the hunters said when they caught up to us? They couldn't kill Langara as they needed her. I might be wrong. However, I believe the clan has reached a very big size now after so many generations. With that being said, although rare, members with pure bloodline still appear more often than before.'

'Oh! It began to turn into a struggle to see which body the matriarch should jump next. As it seems the Talan Clan is divided, both sides want the matriarch to possess their own pure bloodline members. I wonder how long this struggle has been ongoing in her clan.' Rean couldn't help but sigh after that.

Rean and Roan didn't even need to ask Langara if they were right or not. Just by looking at her shocked expression, it was obvious that they hit the bullseye. 'Just who are you two? Have you really never heard about my Talan Clan before?'

Roan shook his head as he told her, 'That would be too much of a coincidence, don't you think? We obviously aren't working on the side you support, or we would have said so a long time ago. Let alone your enemies. We've already dispatched three of them.'

Rean and Roan then saw the color of killing intent appearing around them for a moment. Obviously, Langara didn't like the fact they knew so much.

Roan snorted, though. 'Oh-ho! So, you want to kill us, huh? Well, I have to admit you have the power to do so.'

Rean looked at Roan with a hint of surprise as he asked him, 'She has? Isn't she only at the Middle Stage of the Soul Transformation Realm?'

Roan nodded, not looking worried at all. 'She is. However, she has already lived for 32 generations. She must have a few tricks under her sleeve, right?'

Rean had to admit it made sense. 'I see. Alright, show us your tricks then. Hahaha!'

Death... and me

Chapter 1058: Fairies?

Langara's killing intent ended up fading away after that, though. "Forget it. I'm not the ungrateful type. However, for your own good, you better keep your mouth shut about this issue. You simply don't understand what kind of trouble you would get into if others find out what race I'm a part of."

Rean and Roan nodded in response. "That's fine for us. At least we know what's going on."

Fatax, however, couldn't help but ask, "Why are you still willing to help us, then? From what the ancestor just said, you should know better to stay far away from us."

Rean then took a blue token from his robe and showed them. Immediately, Fatax and Langara's expressions changed as both of them exclaimed, " You're part of the Kamos Royal Family!"

Well, it wasn't as if they were really part of the Kamos Royal Family. However, Rean didn't try to correct their misunderstandings. "If it really comes to that, we can simply show this, and your clan will have to think twice on whether they should touch us or not. Simply put, don't worry about us. We're just having some fun during our travel."

"Some...fun." Somehow, neither Langara nor Fatax thought they were joking. "No wonder you don't have much interest in Divine Stones. Resources probably aren't a problem for you two."

After that, Rean contacted Sister Orb and asked her, 'Sister Orb, do you know what kind of race has this Soul Succession ability?'

[And I thought you would never ask. There are three races that come to mind. The first is the Ascesfe Race, the second is the Ogram Race, and the last one is the Loral Race. All three of them are extremely rare due to their special ability to pass their souls into their offspring's bodies.]

'Is there any difference between the three?' Roan asked soon after.

[There are. The Ascesfe Race, for example, needs to consume the host's soul to take over. Obviously, Langara isn't part of this race as the bodies' owners eventually take them back. The Ogram Race, on the other hand, swaps bodies. Simply put, they send the young soul away from the body and take the young body for themselves.]

Rean and Roan nodded, with Rean saying, 'Then, there is only one race left, the Loral Race.'

[Not exactly. What I'm saying is that I only know these three. How long has it been since Soul Gem left this half of the universe? How many races have appeared during this time? How many fell? It's impossible to tell. Anyways, the Loral Race was kind of obscure. Other than the fact they can pass their soul to their offspring, I don't know anything else. Perhaps Langara is part of the Loral Race. Perhaps she isn't. It's not like they went around announcing their abilities, after all.]

The twins nodded, satisfied with Sister Orb's words. 'That's enough for now.'

Roan then changed the topic to something he was more curious about. "There's one thing I don't understand. Aren't you the matriarch of the clan? The one who started it all? Shouldn't you be in control of everything? How come part of your clan is after you?"

Langara looked away, not willing to speak much about it.

Rean pondered over it a bit before saying, "Hmm...I guess we're forgetting something here, Roan."

Roan's interest was piqued as he looked at Rean, asking him, "What is it?"

"Unless you're some kind of hermaphrodite, you need a man and a woman to reproduce, don't you think?" Rean said in response.

Langara's eyes slightly twitched when she heard Rean's words, which was more than enough for Roan. "I see...half of the clan supports the matriarch. As for the other half, they support the husband she chose back then. I wonder if the guy is still alive."

Roan then glanced a moment at Langara before adding a few more words. "Or perhaps, I wonder why the matriarch would have to transfer her soul to the next generation if the husband is still alive. If she had cultivated normally, she shouldn't have such a-

"Shut up!" With those words, Langara finally exploded. "This has nothing to do with you! Don't touch on someone's feelings as if it's some kind of entertainment. If you say another word about this issue, then we might as well separate here. It's not like you really need the reward I could give you anyway!"

Rean and Roan looked at each other and nodded. Soon after, Rean smiled at Langara. "Oh well, it definitely has nothing to do with us. Whether we know about your past and what brought you to this situation matters little to us. In any case, we will accept the reward once we reach Giliga."

Rean then looked at Roan, asking him, "By the way, are there more enemies ahead?"

Roan nodded in response. "There are. Their main force was set before the demon beasts' territory and just after entering it. From what that guy confessed, there seems to be a total of 20 hunters sent by the opposition. Of course, three of them died in our hands, and those three were tasked with keeping track of Langara until she got to the demon beasts' territory. There, they would attack and capture her."

It was then that Fatax remembered something Rean had commented. "Oh, right! You did mention that if you wanted to, we would never have been found by the hunters of the Talan Clan, right? Was that true?"

Rean smiled at him. "Yep. Very true."

Fatax couldn't help but ask, "Can you do it now, then? If we can avoid the enemies until Giliga City, we would obviously be much safer."

Rean then asked back. "And where's the fun in that?"

"This..." Fatax felt like crying. "Don't you have somewhere else to go as well? Is it okay to delay it as you fight our battles?"

Rean had to admit he was right. "Oh, that's true. I almost forgot our main objective due to the recent events." Rean then looked at Roan. "What do you think?"

Roan also wanted to know what that fairy connected to them was about. "Indeed. We've already gotten our fair share of action against those guys a while ago. If everyone else is at the same level as Langara mentioned, then there's no point in fighting them. Let's go see the fairies."

Langara's eyes widened when she heard those words. "Did you just say...fairies?"

Death... and me

Chapter 1059: Catalyst

Rean looked at Langara in response to their shocked expressions, asking her, "Oh, you know about them?"

Langara immediately nodded as she replied, "Of course! In fact, we're heading to Giliga City because it's the next city on the way to Erqs Forest. Could it be that you also plan to go there?"

Rean and Roan couldn't help but be surprised by that. 'Is this some sort of plan from that fairy from before? The coincidences are piling up way too much. First, we got to join this duo in such a weird situation. Now we discover that they're also going to the same place. Since that fairy told us she can see our karma threads, perhaps it has something to do with it.'

Rean then looked at Roan, asking him, 'Should we bring them together?'

Roan pondered over it for a bit before looking back at Langara. "Do you want to come with us all the way as well?"

"This..." Fatax and Langara had to admit they haven't considered such a coincidence either.

Roan then continued, "We can do that, but you have to tell us why you want to see the fairies. First of all, do you have a method to see them? Since you know about the fairies, you definitely know that they can't be seen that easily."

Langara narrowed her eyes for a moment, considering if she should talk or just separate from the twins in Giliga. However, Fatax called her attention through Divine Sense. 'Ancestor, perhaps we should consider going all the way. Don't you think that these two were put in our way because of the fairies' luck-changing abilities? I know what you're thinking. It is too much of a coincidence, and they might be related to the old geezer. However, I don't think that's the case as they have a real Royal Family token. I can only think about the fairies as a reason. Besides, I don't think they're heading there without a method of seeing the fairies. This plays nicely in our hands.'

Langara looked at Fatax and let out a sigh. 'Although I know your concern is with your sister's body and not me, you're right.'

Langara then started to talk, telling the two of them, "We don't have a method to see them. Our initial plan was to ask for their help by offering something they wanted. That way, we could attract them out of their concealment. As for what I want from the fairies, it is obviously related to the future of my clan and the actual situation."

"The second answer isn't very clear," Roan said in response. "However, you have said more than you would usually do, so I guess I'll take that as an answer for the moment."

Rean immediately asked after that. "So, what do you intend to offer the fairies to attract them out of their natural concealment? Show, me, show me!"

Langara pondered in silence for a bit before nodding. Following that, she touched her spatial ring before something that looked like a white crystal appeared. "This is a Fallen Light Star Fragment. Fairies who wish to surpass the Saint Realm need this material for their breakthrough. There are other materials that can be used, but this Fallen Light Star Fragment is definitely their preference."

As soon as the item came out of the Spatial Ring, Rean felt the connection between his own Light Element and the fragment itself. Without a doubt, he was sure that he would need that thing. However, instead of asking for it, Rean had another question in his mind that he decided to ask Langara. "You said that the fairies need this to enter the Elemental Transformation Realm, right? Does that mean everyone needs something like this to do the same thing?"

Langara found it strange that the twins didn't know about this. After all, they had a real Royal Family token. Such information should be easily accessible for them. In any case, it wasn't her place to question that, so she replied, "That's correct. To enter the Elemental Transformation Realm, just Divine Energy isn't enough. You will need a catalyst to achieve the breakthrough. Well, this isn't something you two should care about at the moment as you two are still in the Soul Transformation Realm."

Rean then complained at Sister Orb after hearing that. 'You could have told us this much, don't you think?'

[For what? Will this information make any difference for your actual cultivation level? Come on...] Sister Orb didn't feel the least bit guilty as she replied.

'Of course, it does! Even if Roan and I can't enter the Elemental Transformation Realm right now, we can still gather the necessary materials for when the time comes.' Rean obviously had a reason to be angry.

[Oh... that's true. Tee-hee!]

Rean couldn't help but exclaim in anger, 'This useless piece of AI! I wonder what Soul Gem was thinking when he created you.'

"Ahem..." Rean then focused on Langara once again as he asked her, "You perhaps don't know where I can find more of this Fallen Light Star Fragment, right? As you probably noticed already, I have Light Element Affinity. This material of yours will be of a lot of help for me in the future."

Langara didn't find it strange that he wanted her fragment. "It seems like even the Royal Family would have difficulty gathering this kind of material. Well, that makes sense as Light Element is not part of the mainstream cultivation affinities. Besides, Fallen Light Star Fragments are indeed extremely rare."

Langara then pondered over it for a bit before saying, "Let's do like this. If you help me get the fairies to help me, I'll tell you where I found it. Even though it has been a long time since I got this thing, I'm pretty sure you can still find more there." Langara's expression changed after that as she warned him, "However! Be aware that the place where I got the Fallen Light Star Fragment is very dangerous. You would enter it at your own risk. If you die there, that's not my problem. Deal?"

Rean immediately nodded in response. "Deal!" He didn't want Langara's fragment. The reason was simple. He could tell that he would need a lot more than just that.

Of course, Roan was also concerned with his catalyst. 'Where the hell will I find Dark Element materials that could be used as a catalyst...?' He shook his head a moment later as he thought to himself, 'I can only rely on the Royal Family token to ask for information, then.'

Death... and me

Chapter 1060: Light Element Strikes Again

Rean then ordered Rascal to fly much higher and activated his Light and Divine Sense bending skill. That was the plan from the start anyway, so it wasn't as if it was a problem. Besides, Roan could use the same skills, so they could take turns in case Rean or Roan ran out of Divine Soul Power.

Around a day later, they entered the demon beasts' territory without anyone even noticing their presence. Rean and Roan didn't know if there were people from the Talan Clan watching the entrance, nor did they care. As long as it wasn't some expert at the Elemental Transformation Realm or higher, they weren't afraid of being found. Unless, of course, someone got too close to them, which was nearly impossible due to the altitude they were flying at.

As the Demon Beast Taming Guild's worker mentioned, he prepared the Golden Rascal to fly for about four days straight before it needed to rest. Surprisingly, that was what exactly happened. Rean noticed how strained Rascal began to feel by the end of the third day of flight and ordered it to land on the start of the fourth day. "Good boy!"

Rean then took the Demon Bird's food from the Soul Gem Dimensional Realm and let it gorge itself on it. Of course, they were still in the middle of the demon beasts' territory. However, due to the fact that Rascal was a Stage Five Demon Beast itself, other demon beasts didn't try to get close.

While Rascal rested, Rean went to talk with the others. "Rascal will need a few hours to rest before we can continue. So, how are you guys faring?"

Langara nodded, saying in response, "We're fine. Since we didn't need to care about more attacks, we are ready to fight at any time."

Roan liked her answer. "Good! Then, you can take care of this place while Rascal rests." Soon after, Roan looked at Rean, telling him, "We're quite deep into the demon beasts' territory at the moment. We should be able to find some Stage Six Demon Beasts for us to train."

Rean agreed with him. "That's true. Let's go, then."

"Wait, wait, wait!" Fatax couldn't help but stop them. "Are you going to leave us alone? What if we are attacked by the hunters of our clan?"

Rean shook his head as he said in response, "That shouldn't be possible. Do you have any idea how far we've already traveled? We also didn't show our presence for anyone to see at all. What are the chances of us being found in this exact place? That's ridiculous."

Hearing those words, Roan could not help but narrow his eyes. "Unless..." Roan then looked at Langara as he asked her, "Do you think they have a way to track you down?"

"I don't know. However, it's quite weird that Fatax and I were found in Kilas City. No one was supposed to know that we left the clan at all," Langara answered.

Rean obviously didn't like that. "Why didn't you say that before?"

"I wanted to test it out once we entered the demon beasts' territory. But as you can see, we were not attacked at all, so I might be overthinking. Still, I would rather have you two stay close to us just in case."

Roan had another theory, though. "Or...they somehow know that the pursuers who were after you died, so they didn't try to stop us. Since no one above the Saint Realm came after you, they might be afraid of us having someone like that."

Roan then looked at Rean as they nodded at each other. "Let's check it out."

The two of them approached Langara, prompting the latter to ask, "What do you want to do?"

"Don't worry," Rean said with a smile. "We just need to check your body for any tracker."

"I already did that," Langara replied. "There's nothing in me that could be used to track me down. I checked Fatax as well, and there's none either. As I said, it might be just me overthinking it."

Rean and Roan then touched her shoulders. "We will be the judge for that."

Langara glanced at them for a bit before nodding. Of course, she was also ready to act if they tried anything.

Rean then sent his Divine Soul Power and Light Element inside Langara's body first. If there was something tracking her, then the twins would use Roan's Dark Element to destroy it.

*Moan!*

Well, Langara never expected that Rean's burst of Light Element could feel that good. It was a completely unexpected feeling! To make sure he was checking everything, Rean used a lot of Light Element at once, so it only increased the old-young woman's burst of pleasure...to the point she came right there and then...

Fatax looked at Langara with open eyes, muttering after a bit of hesitation, "An-Ances..tor?"

"Yo-You!" Langara then recovered her senses and immediately jumped away from Rean's hands! "What the hell do you think you're doing?"

"Oh, my bad, my bad," Rean apologized. "Light Element stimulates the body as well. It's just that it has been a long time since I used a lot of it on someone else that I forgot this side effect. Don't worry. It has no other collateral effects. It just feels very good."

Langara felt humiliated. How long had it been since she last, well, came? She could even feel the wetness on a certain part of her body now.

Rean then approached again. "Alright, now you know what to expect. Let's continue."

Langara immediately took a few more steps back as she shouted, "Get away from me!"

Rean looked at Langara with surprise after that, asking her, "Could it be that you aren't confident in controlling yourself?"

Langara's mouth twitched in response. How could she be looked down on by such a brat like that? "Who the hell do you think I am?"

"Hahaha!" Rean couldn't help but laugh after that. "Then, it's fine, isn't it? Now you know what to expect, so let me finish the search, will you?"

Without much choice, Langara took in a deep breath and tried to calm her body down. However, when Rean touched her shoulder again, she couldn't help but tremble a little. Usually, when Rean healed someone, they couldn't feel pleasure as the pain was greater. That's why this kind of situation was rare. The same went when he used the Enhancement skill as it focused on the strengthening of the body, not its sensation. Langara had to do her best to not succumb to the pleasure once again.

Suddenly, Rean's eyes narrowed as he looked at Roan. "Roan, I think I know how she's being tracked."
