

Death 1401

Death... and me

Chapter 1401: How About You Guys Come Out?

Back on Rean's side, he was happy to see Falangia with her daughter and couldn't help but think, 'I wonder how it would have been if Qia and I had started a family back in the Zasfin Planet.' Though, thinking of that just made him miss the girl even more. However, Rean's thoughts didn't travel for long.

That's because his Divine Sense immediately caught something abnormal with Falangia's daughter, which made his expression go dark in an instant. 'Falangia wasn't kidding when she said that even kids weren't spared.' His Divine Sense was able to check Falangia's daughter's entire body, and with his healing skills, Rean got very used to the general anatomy of most humanoid races, not only humans. 'She isn't a virgin anymore...'

Suddenly, Rean noticed a bunch of cultivators, females and males, making their way to the area where Falangia lived. Some of them would enter other houses while others would keep moving forward. Ultimately, a few of them stopped by Falangia's house while the rest continued forward.

Rean used his Divine Sense in the first few houses those people entered and soon found out that they seemed to be charging taxes. The people in the houses were very afraid and didn't dare to not pay whatever was asked of them. 'Are these guys part of the city guards or something like that? I thought this place didn't have such a thing.'

Falangia's concealing formation was a very simple one, capable of keeping out Divine Senses of at most Core and Soul Fusion Realm cultivators. The leaders of that group were all in the Nascent Soul Realm, so they were able to see through it and find Falangia inside.

The men and women then barged into Falangia's house without care, saying, "This is Big Boss Gaius' tax collection. One woman and one kid, the tax is half a Rank One Divine Stone."

Falangia was taken aback by that, asking in response, "What? Who the hell are you? What happened with Vincent?" At this moment, Falangia's daughter hid behind her, obviously afraid. It was easy to tell that it wasn't the first time such a thing had happened, judging by the kid's expression.

The guy in the front smiled in response. "We are Big Boss Gaius' subordinates. He has taken control of this Yulital District, and everyone has to pay if they want to continue living here. As for Vincent, he's already dead."

But even with that, Falangia shook her head. "Half a Rank One Divine Stone? Are you crazy? How many people do you even think would have it in a place like this?"

The man laughed in response, saying, "Hahaha! You would be surprised to see how many things half-dead people like you try to hide. In any case, you have two choices, pay or receive the consequences. However, there is naturally more than one way to pay, if you know what I mean." His expression was way too obvious for Falangia. Not that she wanted to comply, but not only were they in bigger numbers, the man speaking was in the Core and Soul Fusion Realm. She had absolutely no chance of resisting.

Falangia then sighed before she nodded, saying, "Fine, I just have to serve all of you, right? Then, so be it..."

She was just about to take her clothes when suddenly, the man shook his head as he replied, "You're very good, and you can definitely serve my friends here. However, I want the kid."

"What?!" Falangia was taken aback and immediately pulled her daughter behind as she cursed back, "Come and try to see if I don't kill you."

The man snorted in response and immediately moved. He was way too fast for Falangia due to the difference in cultivation. Nevertheless, she gritted her teeth and tried to counter-attack. As for the guy's subordinates, they just laughed, knowing that Falangia couldn't possibly do anything against him.

"Big Boss Gaius also likes kids, so he'll probably enjoy this one as well."

"She's done for."

"What an idiot."

Falangia's counter-attack missed before the man hit her chest, sending her flying against the wall.

*Bang!*

*Cough, cough...*

She immediately vomited blood and fell to the ground while looking at the man. The guy had already grabbed her daughter, who knew way too well what was going to happen. She had experienced it before, and that definitely wasn't a cheerful memory.

However, it was at this moment that a ball of light suddenly appeared in the middle of the room. Naturally, it caught everyone's attention.

"What is that?"

"Light Element?"

"Seems like it."

"Who is using Yang Energy to control Light Element?"

"I can't see anything with my Divine Sense..."

That small ball of light then began to change its form, ultimately transforming into a fairy. If Roan was here, he would have identified the fairy straight away. She was just an exact copy of Rana, obviously Rean and Roan's sister. Of course, it wasn't Rana, just Light Element shaped like her.

That wasn't all. Everyone in the room then noticed that they couldn't move their bodies. Out of nowhere, a strong Divine Energy pressure locked them from all sides. They couldn't even talk.

The fairy then made her way to Falangia's daughter and smiled, asking, "Hello, cute one. I'm called Rana. What's your name?"

Even Falangia didn't know what was happening. Of course, she did remember Rean's Light Element power, but didn't he leave already?

The little girl then noticed that the man had taken his hand off her and was now standing there, doing nothing. "I'm-I'm Rafatia."

"Oh! Not only are you very cute, but you have a very cute name as well. Your mommy has very good taste," the fairy said in response. "Alright, because you're very cute, your big sister Rana will help you today. Why don't you go to your mother's side? Leave the big bad men and women to me."

The fairy then touched Rafatia's forehead, sending some gentle Light Element inside. It wasn't enough to cause arousal like Rean usually did for fun. It was just enough to make Rafatia feel comfortable and calm. "A-Alright."

Rana then looked at the men and women in the room and said, "Now then. How about you guys come out?"

Death... and me

Chapter 1402: Find The Dead Guy

Without being able to control their bodies, the men and women walked outside of the house. Surprisingly, they weren't the only ones. Soon, they noticed that everyone who was part of the 'Big Boss Gaius' group was there as well. Even the leader of the entire group, a woman at the Peak Stage of the Nascent Soul Realm, was obediently standing in the middle of the road.

Falangia then asked her daughter to wait a bit in the room, planning to go out to see what was happening. However, before she could do that, someone knocked on her door. When she opened it, Rean was there with a smile on his face. "Hi, Falangia. Have you seen my fairy somewhere? She wandered out on her own, and I can't find her at all."

Falangia wanted to laugh after hearing that. Who was Rean trying to trick there? It was obvious that there was no such thing as a fairy. He was basically controlling his Light Element to make it take the shape of a fairy. It would be something extremely hard for Falangia to do, but definitely not in Rean's case.

Of course, she knew way too well why he did that. “Oh, so Rana’s your fairy? Why don’t you come in, then?”

Rean nodded in response and headed inside the house. As for the rest of the people, they were all confused. One moment ago, those people from Big Boss Gaius were extorting them, taking the little money they had. Now, they were all gathered in the middle of the room, doing basically nothing. Because of that, no one really noticed when Rean went to pay a visit to Falangia, as Gaius’ group had all their attention. Little did they know that this group wanted nothing more than to run away as fast as possible, but their bodies simply couldn’t move at all.

In Falangia’s house, she brought Rean where Rafatia was talking to Rana. “Rana! Why did you leave on your own?”

The ‘fake’ Rana looked at Rean and showed a ‘shocked’ expression, responding, “Rean! Sorry... it’s just that I found a very cute girl in this house. Look, can’t you see how cute Rafatia is?”

Rafatia was a little afraid of Rean, as she wasn’t used to cultivators treating her well other than her mother. She was especially afraid of men on top of that for obvious reasons.

Rean then showed a shocked expression as well. “Holy shit! She’s really cute! How did you find such a cute girl here?”

Rana then put her hand on her waist, replying, “Isn’t that obvious? Bad guys always try to do bad things to cute girls. I only had to follow them to find Rafatia.”

“I see... that makes a lot of sense.” Rean then extended his hand to Rafatia and said, “Hello, Rafatia, my name is Rean. I’m a friend of your mother.”

Rafatia looked suspiciously at Rean before looking at Falangia. However, Falangia just smiled at her and said, “It’s fine, baby. Rean... so that’s your name... anyway, he’s a very good friend of mommy.” Indeed, she didn’t know Rean’s name until a few seconds ago.

With that, Rafatia accepted Rean’s handshake, albeit with some doubts.

'Rana' then patted Rafatia's shoulder and told her, "There's no need to worry. Rean is my big brother. He is different from the bad guys outside. He would never do anything bad to such a cute girl like you."

Rean nodded in response, saying, "She's right. Here, I have something for you." Rean then accessed the Soul Gem Dimensional Realm and took some candies from inside. While he did that, Sister Orb couldn't help but complain. [I want to talk to her as well!]

'Shut up! No one knows you even exist. How will I explain the sudden appearance of a black and white orb to them, huh?' Rean said in response.

[What's the problem? People here are too low-leveled to be able to guess anything. They'll probably think I'm some kind of puppet or whatever.]

'Maybe some other time. It's too much for this girl to take at once. Let her calm down a bit. Remember, she was just about to be raped once again.'

[Fine...] Sister Orb couldn't go against that argument.

Rean and Roan never really forgot about the desserts their mother made for them back in Sunkan Planet, so they always kept similar things in the Dimensional Realm. They could even make those desserts and candies themselves.

With that, Rafatia took one and saw that her mother had allowed it. When she finally put it in her mouth, her eyes glistened like stars, showing that it was the first time she had tried something like that. Rean also put some in his mouth and threw a few to Falangia, telling her, "Take some as well. They're very good. My mother liked to make them back in my home."

Falangia could only do as Rean said and try it out. Sweets, desserts, and things like that wasn't exactly a priority in her life, so she hadn't tried them before either. "This is really good..."

"Why, of course! My mother's sweets were the best," Rean said as he laughed.

It was then that Rafatia asked an unexpected question. "Mommy, are you going to serve him? Should I go back to my room?"

Rean almost vomited blood after that. "Cough, cough, cough, cough..." He looked with a crying expression at Rafatia after that, telling her, "Ahem... don't worry, little girl. Your mother and I don't have this kind of relationship. We really are just friends. Friends don't need to... serve... each other to ask for help."

Falangia wouldn't get embarrassed if she had to have sex with others for some random reason. However, the fact that Rean wasn't someone who would ask for this kind of thing made her face go as red as a tomato after Rafatia's question. "Er... I hope you understand our life here isn't exactly... nice..."

Rean bitterly smiled and nodded in response. Soon after, he pressed his finger against Rafatia's belly. Well, that only made the little girl feel like peeing for some reason. However, it only lasted a second before a small ball of light came from down there and stopped in front of Rean's hands.

Falangia knew that Rean wasn't some pervert or anything like that, so she was puzzled at that action, asking, "What's that?"

Rean looked at Falangia, turning his back to Rafatia so that she wouldn't see his grim expression.. "The thing that I need to find the dead guy who forced his way into your daughter."

Death... and me

Chapter 1403: Halt!

Falangia was taken aback to hear that. When the event where her daughter was assaulted happened, she wasn't at home, trying to earn some income for their livelihood. On top of that, her daughter also didn't want to talk about it, be it because of fear or trauma. Naturally, she thought she would never be able to find the culprit. "Can you really do that?"

Rean nodded, saying, "A good thing about having Light Element Affinity is to be able to differentiate life forces of people's bodies. The remnants of the guy's... fluids... still has some traces of it." Although disgusting, Rean did focus on that to analyze the life force inside.

A moment later, Rean memorized that life force. As long as it was someone who lived in this city, he would definitely find him. Surprisingly, Rean didn't need to go out of the house and travel around the city, checking each person. The culprit just so happened to be much closer than he thought. "Oh-ho... now then, isn't that a coincidence."

Falangia couldn't help but ask, "Do you know who did it?"

Rean nodded in response, saying, "The same guy who just asked to have your daughter a moment ago."

"Him?!" Obviously, Falangia remembered the guy who attacked her when she refused to deliver her daughter to him. "I've never seen him around this area before."

"Mommy, are you okay?" Rafatia noticed Falangia's anger, asking that question.

However, Rana quickly pulled her by the hand and said, "Hey, Rafatia, let's go play in your room. I believe your mother won't mind, right?"

Falangia knew what was happening and immediately nodded with a smile. "Of course not! Go ahead, baby. Mommy has a few things to resolve, so you go and play with Rana for now, okay?"

Rafatia could only nod and follow the fake Rana to her room.

Rean was already walking outside the house, where he encountered the gathered people. Gaius' group had been unmoving all this while, so it obviously caught a lot of attention. Of course, some of them tried to get close to them. Unfortunately, there was also some kind of invisible barrier that didn't allow them to get close.

Rean leisurely walked in their direction, followed by Falangia. The invisible barrier obviously didn't stop them, as it was Rean who was keeping it up. Seeing Rean's approach obviously cast some dread on the people who were being held by him. One didn't need to be a genius to know that it was Rean, the one responsible for it.

Their leader, a female cultivator named Hisha, noticed that she could finally talk again, instantly pleading, "Si-Sir... I don't know how we offended you. However, I will do my best to compensate for it." She understood how bad the situation was. Even Gaius, the boss of their group, couldn't immobilize her that easily. The white-haired man in front of her was definitely much, much stronger than Gaius. Perhaps he was part of the new City Lord's group.

Rean shook his head and said, "From you, all I want to know is where I can find that Gaius guy."

Hisha didn't dare to waste time as she replied, "You can find Big Boss Gaius in the Lavela District. He lives in the mansion in the center. He rarely comes out, leaving all his business to his subordinates to take care of."

*Swish!*

As soon as Hisha finished her words, a flash of white light passed by her neck, cutting her head off. She wasn't the only one, though. The entire group had their heads sent flying, with a single exception. A man named Gustin. He just so happened to be the one who wanted to take Rafatia for himself.

After seeing how all his allies died in an instant, fear couldn't even describe a tenth of the dread he felt at the moment. "Si-Sir... did I offend you in some way? I'm sure we can reach some agreement."

Falangia, who was on Rean's side, looked at the guy with a murderous expression and asked, "Is it really him?"

Rean then raised his hand, and that small ball of light that had a bit of the guy's sperm inside appeared once again. Rean already confirmed through the life force that it was him, but he wanted to make sure. With that, he drew a few seals on the air with his Divine Soul Power, which interacted with the man's balls and the ball of light.

*Burst!*

*Arrrgh!*

Suddenly, Gustin's ball exploded, as the sperm inside immediately joined the sperm inside of the sphere of Light Element. "There's no doubt. I'm not sure if he was the first or the only person to rape your daughter, but I'm absolutely sure he was the last one."

Rean then looked at Gustin, who could barely endure the pain and said, "Now then, how about you tell me what's so funny in assaulting a kid? No. You know what? I don't need to know that. Instead, I'll let you know how fearsome such an experience can be by giving you an even more dreadful one."

Gustin's expression turned even worse after hearing that. How did they know it was him? What technique was that? "Si-Sir... you're mistaken! It wasn't me! It wasn't me!"

Rean snorted in response as he asked, "Do you know what DNA is?"

The man showed a blank expression after hearing that. How the hell would he know? It was the first time he heard about that.

Rean then explained, "There's no such thing as identical people in existence. Well, except for twins. Do you have a twin brother? I doubt so. Anyway, each living being's DNA is different from the other. That's why I know it was you. I found your DNA." Well, the fact was that Rean found the guy's life force signature. However, Rean had long since linked the difference in the feeling of life forces to DNA. He believed that just like DNA, there was no such thing as an identical life force. That perhaps it was the DNA of each person that molded their life force.

Rean then moved closer, ready to give the guy the experience of his life.

However, it was then that someone intervened.. "Halt! Stop your actions right now."

Death... and me

Chapter 1404: So Be It

Rean then looked in the direction of the voice's origin, quickly seeing a group of people running in his direction.

"It's the City Lord's guards."

“Get out of the way if you don’t want to die!”

“It’s Captain Oem! Run!”

In just a few seconds, all the crowd dispersed, not daring to stay in this place anymore. Oem was known for going berserk when dealing with situations and would usually kill a lot of people. That also included people who had nothing to do with whatever was happening. He was also known for being one of the trusted subordinates of the new City Lord... well, as far as trust could be believed in this kind of place.

Falangia immediately warned Rean through a Divine Sense message about Oem. However, Rean didn’t seem to care too much. “Is that so? It’s fine, it’s fine. Let’s see what he has to say.”

Gustin, of course, was delighted to see that. Regardless of how bad Oem’s reputation was, that at least meant he had a chance at living.

Falangia was somewhat worried about Oem, though. The stories about him were plenty, and none had a happy ending. She also wanted to leave this place straight away. However, Rean was here as well. Usually, she wouldn’t care about anyone, regardless of who it was. Still, for some reason, she finally felt like she could trust someone other than herself for once, so she gritted her teeth and stayed.

Oem saw how Rean didn’t seem the least bit worried after his group stopped nearby. Nevertheless, he asked, “What are you doing? Who said you could kill as you please in the middle of Dry Sky City?”

Rean snorted in response as he pointed at the corpses on the ground, asking, “How come these guys were killing anyone who didn’t follow their orders? Where were you when they were doing as they liked in this place?”

Oem didn’t seem to care, though. “I’m here now, am I not? How about we end things here, shall we? I’m sure none of us want to make things worse than they are.”

Oem’s words immediately shocked his subordinates and Falangia, let alone Gustin. Oem had never been the type to talk, after all. The normal Oem would have gone for Rean’s head already, as far as they knew. Where did all that talk for negotiation come from? They didn't even know that Oem could negotiate at all.

However, no one there was an idiot. It was obvious that Rean's cultivation was too high for even Oem to take him head-on. In fact, they were right. Oem had already used his Divine Sense, and he couldn't see Rean's cultivation at all. Oem was at the Late Stage of the Saint Realm. In this city, such cultivation could put one at the very top of the food chain. However, Oem could tell that such cultivation was nothing in front of the white-haired man in front of him. Deep inside, Oem was already regretting stopping Rean's actions.

'Fuck! When I told him to stop, I was too far away to feel his cultivation. If I knew, I would have never intervened! Gaius, this agreement of ours isn't worth it at all!' Oem thought. Unfortunately, he had a reputation to maintain, so he couldn't simply back away anymore.

Rean smiled in response as he said, "Unfortunately, this guy is a child rapist, so I can't let him go. Especially when he attacked my dear friend's daughter. Can you imagine how she felt when he appeared while my friend was out trying to earn a living for them? Or could it be that you have a better idea? Can you offer something that can make up for what he did?"

Oem looked at Gustin with a dark expression before sending him a Divine Sense message. 'Why the hell did you attack this guy's friends? Do you know how strong he is? I might as well tell you that I can't even feel his cultivation. He's definitely at the same level as the City Lord, the Elemental Transformation Realm. There's even a chance that he's already at the Transition Realm.'

Gustin's happiness immediately disappeared after that. Elemental Transformation? That was a dream for anyone in Dry Sky City. How many Elemental Transformation Realm cultivators existed here? Four? Maybe five? Even his boss, Gaius, could only bow his head and do whatever someone at that level asked him to do. 'I... I didn't know. How would I guess that a kid in the middle of this trash place was related to an Elemental Transformation Realm cultivator? Even if you had given me a hundred times more guts, I wouldn't get even close to her.'

Gustin was feeling immense despair already. Would the City Lord buy a fight against someone with similar cultivation because of him? Of course not! If he was the City Lord, he wouldn't either!

Oem had the same doubt in his mind as Gustin. Why was some piece of trash from a place like this involved with someone like Rean? "Ahem... I'm one of the trusted subordinates of City Lord Zostemou. If you let him go, you would be putting up a good display of friendship with our City Lord. I'm sure it would be beneficial for you."

Rean shook his head as he replied, "I don't need anything from your City Lord." Rean then looked at Falangia and asked, "Should I deal with this guy, or do you want to do it yourself?"

Falangia was taken aback for a moment. "But... is it really okay to ignore the City Lord like this?"

Rean understood what Falangia was worried about, saying, "Oh, don't worry. I can guarantee that you won't suffer anything even after I leave this city."

Falangia sighed in relief after hearing that. "Th-Then I shall rely on your words." Even Falangia herself didn't believe she believed someone other than herself or her daughter. Nevertheless, she did just that.

Rean could make the guy suffer more than he could ever think was possible with Roan's Dark Element, and he planned on doing that. However, he decided that Rafatia's mother had to be the one to do that. He wasn't the type who liked to torture others either.

Falangia then put her hand on Gustin's head before Wind Element gathered. Gustin's cultivation was completely sealed by Rean's power, so he couldn't do anything but just watch. After some time, Falangia conjured several wind blades that began to cut through Gustin's head little by little. The worst thing was that he couldn't even scream due to Rean's power pinning him down.

Only after a few minutes did Gustin stop convulsing as his body fell to the ground. Falangia had killed many people in the past, and she didn't feel anything about it. After all, it was a norm in a place like this. However, she really enjoyed this one.

Oem's subordinates saw how Oem didn't do anything, proving that the white-haired man in front of them was definitely much stronger. With that being said, since Oem didn't make a move, they didn't even dare to speak.

Oem then sighed and shook his head, muttering inwardly, 'Gaius, I did what I could. This guy is your problem now.'

Oem then looked at Rean and shrugged his shoulders after that. "Well, since there's no way around it, I can only say it was Gustin's bad luck. Until some other day, friend."

Rean didn't stop Oem as his group left, though.. 'So be it.'

Death... and me

Chapter 1405: Monsters

Rean then looked back at Falangia and told her, "Your daughter isn't the only kid who has already lost their virginity. At least 20 to 25% of the kids I can see with my Divine Sense that are also below ten years old experienced the same thing. I can't say much about the boys, but there's a good chance they aren't that much well off. Just how the hell did things turn out like this? There should be a limit as to how terrible things can become."

Falangia shook her head as she replied, "The limit is within everyone's minds. I told you, didn't I? I'm not any more innocent than this trash I just killed. Without a doubt, I killed plenty of innocents just so I could earn something. Of course, I believe I killed even more trash as well."

Rean sighed in response after hearing that. "At the very least, you do that for your family."

"And can you say that these people we just killed, including this Gustin, aren't in this business for their family as well?" Falangia asked in response.

Rean had to admit she was right. "Maybe. However, chances aren't very big."

Falangia was confused. "Why?"

Rean then explained, "Your Divine Sense is very small. You can't see more than a couple of meters with it. However, my Divine Sense can reach up to eight kilometers. The majority of the Anti-Divine Sense Formations here are quite bad, so I can pierce through most of them. Tell me, how many of the living kids in this city do you believe have a mother or a father to rely on? I'll tell you. For every one hundred kids moving around, just twenty or thirty have someone to take care of them."

However, Falangia immediately shook her head as she corrected him. "I indeed don't have a large Divine Sense. However, the numbers are definitely a lot higher than what you can see with your Divine Sense."

Rean's interest was instantly piqued. "Oh! Is that so?"

Falangia nodded before explaining, "It's very common for fathers to abandon the women they impregnated. After all, it mostly happens through force. The reason you can only see around 10% of them with a parent is that most of these kids' parents are also out, trying to earn a living somehow. Their parents, obviously mothers, for the most part, can't leave them to be taken care of by someone else as no one really wants to do that. Just wait until nighttime arrives. You'll see that more than half of the kids alone in the streets will meet up with their mothers, while the very lucky ones will perhaps meet up with their very rare fathers."

She continued, "If you stay here for an entire week, you'll also see the mothers and the few fathers who went out of the city come back as well. Do you remember me? I went out to earn some profit and was expecting to stay out for two weeks. I basically left enough food for Rafatia and told her not to go out if possible. That's the only thing I could do. The same goes for the others. If I were to guess, I believe that around 70% of the kids you can see with your Divine Sense do at least have a mother."

Rean wasn't disappointed to hear that, of course. "That's great! It seems I jumped to conclusions way too fast. Now that I think about it... if so many kids had been abandoned, how did they grow up to those ages where they could move around? They should have starved to death a long time ago."

But then he noticed something. "Wait, following this logic, how come around 30% of them are parentless?"

However, Rean only had to look at Falangia's helpless expression to understand. "They did have parents, most likely the mothers. However, in the middle of their growth, their parents died, leaving them alone. It's just that since they're old enough, they can at least struggle to survive on their own."

Falangia nodded, saying, "You have to understand one thing, Rean. Most of the women who are mothers in this place chose to give birth. They wanted to have those children, even if it was a fruit of an assault. Try to pay attention to this huge Divine Sense of yours. If a woman doesn't want to have a child, she'll terminate her pregnancy once the kid inside gets big enough for her to notice their presence."

Rean couldn't help but smile a bit after hearing that. "It seems like this place isn't completely helpless yet. At least there are a few people who understand the importance of life and want to give it a chance, just like you."

Falangia couldn't help but become somewhat red after hearing that. It was the first time someone praised her for her choice to give birth to Rafatia in the end. Especially since she made that decision when she was still eleven. Being complimented like that was quite embarrassing. Though, at the same time, something like that deeply improved her mood. "Th-Thank you..."

Rean nodded before he patted Falangia's head. Rean was already over sixty, so he really saw Falangia as nothing more than a child. As for Falangia... she didn't dislike it. Nevertheless, she quickly recovered and jumped back, saying, "Do-Don't treat me like a kid."

"Hahaha!" Rean couldn't help but laugh in response. "In my eyes, you're just a kid. Do you know how old I am? I'm 64 years old already. It's just that my cultivation makes me look like I'm in my teens."

"64?!" Falangia was shocked to hear that. When she heard that Rean could possibly be as strong as the City Lord, she thought he was at least a few hundred years old! Were there really such geniuses in the world? "You're kidding, right?"

Rean shook his head, saying once more, "I'm really 64." He then thought, 'Well, 64 in the Realm of Gods' time. If I was on Earth, I would probably be close to my 90s...'

"You and your brother are monsters..." Falangia blurted without holding back.

"Hey, that hurts, you know?" Rean didn't really take it to heart, though.

Death... and me

Chapter 1406: Mixing of Bloodlines

After that, Rean noticed something. "Wait, if what you said is true, then I might really have killed some parents here..."

It was then that a voice came from the back. "So what? Once you decide to oppress and kill people, you have to be ready to be oppressed and killed. Since they didn't care about the others' lives, so shouldn't you."

Rean didn't even need to turn around to know that it was Roan who responded to him. "What are you doing here? Aren't you doing something to relax somewhere else?"

Rean then looked at Roan and was surprised by what he saw. "Wait, where did you get this kid?"

Roan just so happened to be carrying the kid with the good sensory abilities he found during his stroll. "He kept following me, so I caught him."

"Following you?" Rean knew very well what it meant to be able to follow Roan. "Were you letting him follow you on purpose? There's no way you would be followed if you didn't want to."

Roan agreed with Rean, saying, "Indeed, if I simply used the cultivation difference to speed away, he obviously wouldn't be able to follow me. However, I did truly hide my presence in other ways. I used your Light and Divine Sense bending skill, I covered my tracks, and I didn't let my smell waft in his direction. The only thing I didn't do was use my speed to let him lag behind. Believe it or not, he was able to follow me with perfect precision. He always knew where I was."

Rean, obviously, was shocked to hear such a thing. "Hey, kid. Did you put a tracker on Roan?" Rean had to go to Roan's back to ask it. That's because Roan was carrying the kid as if he was a big sack of grains.

The kid felt helpless at this point. It didn't matter what he did. He couldn't get free from Roan. "I... I was just curious. He helped me against the bad guys, so I followed him to see what he was doing."

Rean looked in surprise at Roan after hearing that. "You? Helping the people in need? I just hope the world doesn't end tomorrow."

Falangia didn't want to intervene, but it did look like they had forgotten her existence. "Ahem... Rean and... Roan, right? Did you two really stay in Dry Sky City to rest?"

Roan looked at Falangia and then at the ball of Light Element with Rana's shape inside Falangia's house. However, he didn't care about that much, so he didn't ask anything. "We did indeed decide to take a respite in this city."

It was then that Falangia noticed that the people began to gather around once again. Obviously, they were looking at Rean's group and all the bodies on the ground. "Er... can you come to my house first? We can talk some more there."

Rean, who was quite curious about the kid Roan was carrying, nodded in response. "Oh, right! Yeah, let's go there. You three can go ahead first. I can't let the street be dirtied like this. Otherwise, some disease might spread."

Falangia nodded and guided Roan inside her rundown house. As for Rean, he raised his hand as Fire Element gathered around him. Sure enough, Rean was very good at controlling the Fire Element. Thanks to his perfect Yang Energy manipulation, he was almost as good as a real Fire Element Affinity cultivator.

*Shuaaaaaa!*

Suddenly, fire spread across the bodies on the ground, casting an infernal heat in the surroundings. The people were even forced to retreat several meters because of that, for the heat was too high for them to resist. It only lasted a few seconds, though. The fire then disappeared in a flash, and there wasn't even smoke to tell the tale. If not for the remnant ash on the ground, one would hardly believe that there was a fire in this place a moment ago. The bodies had completely disappeared to the point that there were almost no ashes in the end. "Well, that should take care of the issue."

Rean then turned around and entered Falangia's house once again. As for the people, they all rushed to the area where the bodies were a moment ago. The reason? That's because Rean spared the spatial rings of those people, so they all wanted to take them.

Back inside Falangia's house, the fake 'Rana' brought Rafatia back to the living room. Well, the house only had two rooms to start with, the bedroom and the living room, which was connected through a small kitchen.

"Mommy!" Rafatia immediately hugged Falangia's legs, afraid of the black-haired guy who appeared. The fact he was carrying a kid like a sack of grains didn't help either.

Roan narrowed his eyes, staring at her until Rean entered the room to complain. "Stop starrng at the little girl. Can't you see that your face can even summon the devil himself when you narrow your eyes? She's becoming scared."

Roan's mouth twitched in response. "How about I be the devil that will punish you? Would you like that?"

Rean shrugged his shoulders, saying, "You complain of me when it's you who scare the kids. So small, oh so small..."

"Hmph!" Roan then put the boy down and looked at Rean. "Anyways, I brought the boy here to see if you can find anything different about him. I don't know which race he's from and if it is his race's abilities that can track others."

"I don't think it'll be easy to guess his race," Falangia said as she looked at the boy. The boy's skin was slightly blue-silver in color, not that he was sick, of course. That was just his natural color. Still, that was hard to notice as one had to pay very close attention to see that small difference in the skin color compared to a human. In his eyes, there were three pupils, all three also being blue-silver to different extents. And last but not least, his hair. His hair was still a mix of blue-silver, but the color was very apparent compared to the other parts of his body.

Rean and Roan then looked at Falangia after that, asking, "Why?"

Falangia sighed before pointing at herself, then Rafatia, and finally at the boy. "We're all fruits of unwanted pregnancies. Unless a race is too different from the other, the rapings that happen only increase the mixing of bloodlines. Even I don't know which race I'm from. My mother didn't know either, and she has passed away already. This boy is definitely in the same boat."

The twins had to admit Falangia was right. "Well, his sensory abilities might be the result of such mixing...."

Death... and me

Chapter 1407: A bath

Roan didn't discard that possibility. "True. However, it's more likely that he has a bloodline from a race with good sensory abilities. Obviously, it has something to do with his eyes as well."

Rean patted the boy's head before asking, "How old are you, little man?"

"I-I don't know," the boy answered truthfully.

Rean didn't mind and touched his shoulder before sending his Divine Sense and Light Element inside. After checking his bones for a few seconds, Rean reached a conclusion, saying, "He is around six years and two months old. Then again, even I can't give the precise day of his birth as there are small changes during one's growth. Well, let's just say you're six years and two months old for the sake of the matter."

Roan then mentioned, "I thought he was older than that."

Rean understood why. "Indeed. He does look older than he really is. But that's probably because of how dirty he is. Look at him. He's fully covered in sand rags."

Falangia was surprised to hear that. "Only six years? He's already in the Late Stage of the Foundation Establishment Realm. He's doing pretty well, no?"

Rean and Roan looked at each other after hearing that. Back in Lanqueas and Huring, this kind of cultivation at this age wasn't anything impressive. However, in this Treavin Continent, where Divine Energy was only a fifth of the amount, it could indeed be said to be very good. Especially since he obviously didn't have anyone providing him the resources to cultivate. "Oh, aren't you quite a strong boy?"

Rean then asked him, "What's your name?"

"I-I'm Luan," the boy answered.

"Luan? Luan what? What's your family name?"

Luan shook his head after that. "I don't think I have one."

Falangia nodded in response, saying, "That's very common here. I also don't have a family name, nor did I give one to my daughter. There isn't much of a point in doing such things in this place. It's not like we can go after our family and ask for help or anything like that. A lot of them just give themselves names if they didn't get one."

Rean nodded and patted Luan's head again. "That's a nice name nonetheless. Now then..." Rean looked at Roan, who understood what he wanted.

Roan then flicked his finger, and Luan's clothes were completely ripped apart. Soon after, Roan used his Yin Energy to gather the Water Element in the surroundings, creating a ball of water that floated in the middle of the room. Surprisingly, he even made it slightly warm. "Sure enough, Water Element is very scarce as well. It took me several seconds just to summon this water ball."

Falangia was shocked to see that, though. Even if she concentrated for several hours in a row, she might not be able to gather even a small jar of water. Of course, she didn't have Water Element, so it made things even more difficult. Due to the environment, Water Element Affinity cultivators were very, very rare.

Roan then used his Divine Soul Power to grab Luan and throw him into the water ball. Roan could have used his Divine Soul Power to simply detach the dirt from Luan's body, but even he had to admit that a bath felt much, much better. It was mostly psychological, but using Divine Soul Power to take away the dirt of the body simply didn't make one feel as clean as a shower or a bath.

Surprisingly, Rean also had some bath products to wash Luan's body through and through, making him look a completely different person by the time he was done. "Oh! After a bath, you now like a kid around six or seven years of age," Rean said with a smile.

Luan didn't know what to say. For a moment, he thought Roan was trying to drown him in the water. However, he began to feel very good, as he had never taken a warm bath before in his life. Now that it was over, he even felt like he wanted to go back into the water ball. "T-Thank you."

*Ahem...*

Falangia then pointed at the boy's little friend and asked, "Shouldn't you put some clothes on him?"

Rean nodded, saying, "That's true. Let me see what I have..." Rean then looked into the Dimensional Realm and found some of Malaka's old clothes from the time when she was still a kid. Malaka had always been a boyish girl, so her clothes weren't directed at any specific gender. "Here you go." With that, Rean used his Divine Soul Power to quickly put Luan into the clothes.

After that, Roan nodded, satisfied. Even he, who usually didn't care about appearances, had to admit that Luan was a lot more pleasing to the eyes. "That's much better."

Suddenly, Rafatia looked at the fake Rana before asking, "Rana, can you ask him to let me do that as well?" Sure enough, seeing another kid feel very good in the bath made her jealous.

Rana nodded, not minding it at all. Of course, that was actually Rean controlling the light fairy. "Of course!"

Rean laughed as well. "Hahaha! Well, I guess a bath isn't something easy to get in this place."

Roan already helped the boy, so he might as well go through it. Without Falangia being able to say anything, he had already summoned another ball of clean water and pulled Rafatia over with his Divine Soul Power. Once again, another kid was given a full bath, with all the perks included.

Rean then looked at Falangia as Roan finished her daughter, asking, "Do you have clean clothes, or do you want me to use some of my little sister's? It's just some clothes, so it isn't anything impressive or expensive."

Falangia looked at her naked daughter floating in the water ball, having the time of her life. She didn't look the least bit embarrassed, what embarrassed Falangia instead was something else. "Sigh... just give her a few clothes then..."

Not too long after, the boy and the girl were now smelling very nice as they looked quite satisfied.. "Well, kids are quite easy to please in a place like this," Rean said with a smile.

Death... and me

Chapter 1408: Luan's Eye Abilities

Well, Falangia would be lying if she said she wasn't interested in taking a bath as well. After all, it's not like she could head to the Oasis and jump inside. With that, she did her best to hide her emotions so that Rean and Roan wouldn't notice that she was also jealous of the two kids.

Then again... hiding something from Rean and especially Roan wasn't very easy in the first place.

Suddenly, that floating ball of water shot in Falangia's direction, not giving her time to react.

*Shua!*

*Splash!*

"What are you doing?!" Falangia contorted in the water ball, trying to get free. However, if even a Peak Stage Nascent Soul Realm cultivator couldn't escape the twins' Divine Soul Power pressure, then let alone a cultivator at the Middle Stage of the Core Formation Realm.

Rean shrugged his shoulders and said, "Just enjoy it while you can."

Rafatia and Luan couldn't help but laugh, seeing the big naked woman trying to escape from the water ball. It was just too funny for the kids. "Hahaha! Mommy, you look like a worm contorting out of the ground like that."

Falangia wanted to cry after hearing that. They ripped her clothes off and threw her into the water ball as if they weren't doing anything wrong. At the same time, her own daughter was laughing at the scene with a new friend, it seemed? "Shut up, you two!" Her words only made them laugh even harder, though.

Falangia then looked at the ice-cold expression of Roan, who seemed to simply not care about any of that. As for Rean, he was laughing with the kids as well. "Hahaha! Come on! Stop struggling. Your own bath will only take longer like that." He then threw a few of the bath products inside, which allowed the teenager to be cleaner than ever before. One must remember Falangia was still nineteen. Well, in Rean and Roan's eyes, she was nothing more than another kid trying to escape the bath.

"Are you two perverts?! How can you do this to a woman?! Is it normal to rip off the clothes of women back in your home?!" Falangia felt like crying and was extremely embarrassed at the same time.

Roan couldn't help but find it weird, though. "You got yourself completely naked in front of us when we were traveling to Dry Sky City. Back then, you didn't seem the least bit concerned. How come you're feeling embarrassed now?" Roan wasn't teasing the girl. He was truly curious why she was like that since the situations were the same... or so he thought.

Falangia turned redder in response as the water ball washed every nook and cranny of her body. "Th- This is not the same, though?!"

Rean laughed even harder after that, and so did the kids. Rafatia and Luan were already crying due to laughing way too much. It was truly a comical sight.

Roan, of course, became even more confused. "Not the same, how?"

"Because you obviously don't want to do anything to me as a woman!" Falangia answered. "That makes everything different! I'm basically floating naked for no reason!"

Roan found that reason very strange but nodded in the end. "It doesn't make much sense. Oh well, whatever."

*Splash!*

Eventually, the water ball fell to the ground, turning the entire room wet before Roan dropped Falangia on the floor too. "Here, take these clothes." He then threw a set of clothes from Malaka once again, but from the time she was already an adult. The Dimensional Realm was just too big when it came to storing things, so the twins never really threw anything away. That's how Malaka's clothes stayed there all this time. If not for the current situation, they probably wouldn't even remember they existed.

Falangia quickly put the clothes on and looked at the twins with an angry expression. "You're despicable!"

Rean then patted Falangia's head and said, "Hahaha! Alright, alright, it's our bad. Don't be angry, okay? Kids should enjoy things as much as they can. Wasn't the bath very nice?"

"I'm not a kid!" Being treated as a child didn't help with Falangia's mood, though. Though, deep down, she felt relieved. The twins simply didn't see her as something for sex at all, and that was quite a rare thing in a place like this.

Rean then looked at the two small kids and the big one after that, saying, "Very good, you three look nice. Now, go to your bed because it's sleep time."

Falangia's mouth twitched in response. Rean still treated her as a kid to the very end. "Fuck you! What sleep time?! It's the middle of the day!"

Roan didn't really care about their antics before asking Rean, "So, did you figure out anything about Luan's sensory abilities?"

Rean nodded, replying, "Well, I believe it's pretty obvious, but everything is in his eyes' three pupils. If you could see the world as he sees, you would be quite surprised."

Luan was taken aback to hear that. That's because he had never told anyone about what the world around him looked like. All he knew was that he saw it in a different manner from others. "Can you see it too, big brother?"

Rean shook his head, saying, "I can't, but I used my Light Element and Divine Sense to check your eyes. Those three blue-silver pupils aren't just for show. One pupil is responsible for seeing the world as we all see it. The other two create two additional layers to that normal world, but they form a different spectrum. I'm pretty sure the second pupil allows you to see the elements of the world, while the third one gives you a vision of the energies of the world, like Divine Energy."

Rean looked at Roan, continuing, "That's why even though you hid behind walls and things like that, he could easily see you. He could see the Light Element you manipulated to use my Light and Divine Sense bending skill. He definitely hasn't seen many people using Light Element before, so it made it very easy for him to follow you. As for the second, each person's dantians have a concentration of Divine Energy inside. He could see that as well. In the end, you looked like a giant torch of Light Element and Divine Energy. After all, how many Peak Stage Elemental Transformation Realm cultivators do you think he has seen in this place?"

Roan was truly surprised to hear that.. "That's quite an amazing ability."

Death... and me

Chapter 1409: Monsters

Luan was truly shocked by what Rean said, especially since he himself didn't know his abilities that well. "So that white light around big brother was Light Element, huh? Also, my third vision made him look like a big ball of golden light."

Rean smiled in response, saying, "The big sphere of golden light was most likely his Divine Energy. In fact, you can see that Roan and I look the same in that aspect, right?"

Luan nodded, replying, "Yes, big brothers have the biggest golden ba- spheres... inside your bodies."

Rean laughed in response once he heard that. "Hahaha! If you want to use the word balls, just use it. There's no need to use the same words as me."

Luan was happy that Rean wasn't angry. "Everyone has golden balls inside their bodies."

That made sense. Kids below the age of five wouldn't have started to cultivate yet but they already had their dantians. After all, in the Realm of Gods, no one was below the Foundation Establishment Realm, as that is the cultivation everyone was born with.

"Nevertheless, what an amazing eye ability," Rean said in awe. "It might be better than my own life force detection." Rean could detect others' presence even if his Soul Power Scan, Divine Sense, or Divine Sense bending skill didn't catch their presence. He only had to feel the surroundings' life forces for that. Of course, he used that ability several times in the past.

Roan nodded in agreement. "Your life force sense gets better the higher your cultivation becomes. Back when you were in the Energy Gathering Realm, you couldn't feel others' life forces from more than a couple of meters away. Luan's different, though. He was able to clearly see me over a hundred meters away and probably even farther than that. Not to mention he was very precise."

Rean agreed with Roan on that point. "Nowadays, I can feel life force several hundred meters away, but I'm already in the Peak Stage of the Elemental Transformation Realm."

It was then that Luan's face became pale as he took several steps back, asking, "Are you going to take my eyes out?"

Falangia narrowed her eyes in response. Indeed, she found that very possible. Who knew what kind of abilities the twins have, especially Rean and his Light Element Affinity. Matters of the body seem like something he could easily deal with. Wouldn't transplanting organs also be an easy thing for him? "Should Rafatia and I leave the room?"

Rean's mouth twitched after hearing that. "Fuck all of you! Do I look like some monster?!"

Falangia, Rafatia, and Luan nodded in unison. In their eyes, someone with the twins' power did indeed look like a monster.

"Go to hell! That's not the kind of monster I talked about! Just so you know, I would never harm an innocent kid. Even if you kill me, I won't do that!" Rean said with an angry expression.

Roan didn't say anything, but he also had his limits.

Rean then added, "First of all, do you think simply taking someone's eyes and transplanting them away would work? Do you know what compatibility means? We're obviously from different races. What about blood types? People have blood types too, and in the Realm of Gods, where countless humanoid races exist, blood types are even more aplenty. Last but not least, the bloodline. His eyes are definitely a bloodline ability. Even if I could transplant his eyes, which is almost impossible, it would be useless without his bloodline power. Simply put, you guys are thinking into it way too much."

Roan pondered in silence for a bit before saying, "The only way for it to work would not be a transplant, but a swap of souls. That way, we would take his entire body, and his bloodline would be part of it."

Luan felt even more scared now as Rean's mouth twitched once more. "Stop scaring the kid! Do you even know how to swap souls? First of all, there's no way we would throw our bodies away!" Indeed, the twins' bodies were perfect due to the Soul Gem System. No soul swap would ever be worth the change, regardless of what advantages the other body might have. Not to mention that something like a soul swap would come with its own downsides.

Rean then patted Luan's head after that, telling him, "Don't worry, we will never do something like that to you."

"Really?" Luan asked with a hint of doubt.

Rean shrugged his shoulders, replying, "Can't you see how strong Roan and I are? If we wanted to do something like that, we would have done it already. However, Roan and I love our own bodies the way they are. We won't change them ever. In fact, if someone appears and says that he wants to rob your body, I would definitely not let them do it."

Luan couldn't help but tear up a little after that. "Bi-Big brother... if so, then why are you treating me so well?"

"This..." Sure enough, that was to be expected from Luan. In this kind of place, almost no one made a move without some ulterior motive. In fact, Luan was doing the right thing to stay suspicious.

Rean then looked at Roan after that. It was Roan who brought the boy over, so he didn't really know what Roan wanted. "Roan, why did you bring him over anyway?"

Roan shook his head in response. "I told you already. I was just curious about his sensory abilities. If I could find out what kind of ability he used to follow me, then I could improve my concealment skills. It was that simple. Well, after finding out what kind of eye abilities he has, I guess it's pretty much impossible to try and hide from him."

Rean knew Roan's personality. He had his concealment skills exposed so easily, so he definitely had to find out why. "I see... well, if the mixing of bloodlines was what developed this kid's eye abilities, then I guess we're pretty much fine. Unless there are more people like him."

Falangia looked at Luan's eyes and shook her head. "Well, I've lived in Dry Sky City my entire life and have never seen anyone else with eyes like his."

Roan nodded after that. "That's fine. I've already memorized Luan's traits.. If I find something similar, at least I'll know how to act if necessary."

Death... and me

Chapter 1410: I must take more care from now on

Of course, Luan didn't understand what Roan meant as he was just too young. Though, he understood that nothing would happen to him, at least. "Th-Then... can I go back?"

Roan looked at him with a confused expression. "You can if you want to. But if that's the case, why did you follow me in the first place? Was it really just because you were curious?"

Luan nodded, saying, "I want to know more about big brother. You saved me for no reason."

"I see..." Roan understood after that. "I saved you because I was bored. In fact, I saved quite a few other people, and you were just one of them. You can go back to where you came if you want."

Rean couldn't help but ask, "Luan, do you have parents to whom you should come back?"

Luan shook his head in response. "My dad left around 4 months ago and didn't come back anymore."

Rean couldn't even feel surprised by that anymore. "Well... that sucks..."

Falangia was the same as Rean. "That's how things work here. His dad is probably gone already. I myself had quite a few encounters where I almost passed away, which would leave my daughter alone as well."

Rean closed his eyes to think a little when Roan intervened. "I hope you're not thinking about bringing this guy together. Do you think we have the time to take care of others while we're already having difficulty taking care of ourselves? If that's the case, then what about all the other kids in this city, or in all other cities we passed by or that we will pass through? Are you going to take them in as well?"

Rean scratched the back of his head, saying, "Alright, alright... but I'm still on my time off, so I'm going to help him and the others in any way I can."

Falangia couldn't help but ask, "You said that you stopped to rest. Don't get me wrong. I'm extremely grateful for the help you gave me. However, can it really be considered rest if you spend your time helping everyone around?"

Rean nodded without thinking twice. "Of course! It makes me feel better, even if the situation itself won't change much. Compared to the constant life and death situation that we have been through, this time in Dry Sky City is really relaxing."

Roan had to admit Rean was right. "Only if you compare it to our normal situation, of course."

Falangia couldn't even imagine it. Just what kind of life were the twins living for them to almost always be in life and death situations? They were two Peak Stage Elemental Transformation Realm cultivators. Their cultivation was as strong as the City Lord. Is there really something that can put them in danger? She had a hard time thinking about something that could be dangerous for these two.

Rean then patted Luan's head before saying, "Alright, you heard Roan. You can go back to where you came from now."

He then made his way outside the house, which caught Falangia's attention. "Where are you going?"

Rean shrugged his shoulders, saying, "Where else? I'm going to pay a visit to that guy called Gaius. He obviously doesn't mind the abuse his subordinates do in the districts around his mansion. Even rapists seem to be welcome. With that being said, I can't possibly let him escape the blame."

Of course, Roan didn't try to stop Rean. There was simply no one in this city that could possibly put the twins in danger. The city lord was most likely an average Elemental Transformation Realm Cultivator, and the twins could even fight geniuses one entire realm above themselves. Let alone at the same realm. A hundred of them probably wouldn't be of any concern to the twins.

"Wait!" Falangia stopped Rean before he left, though.

Rean looked back at her, confused. "What is it?"

Falangia then asked, "You said something about we don't have to worry about the repercussions of what happened here. But if you leave, what will happen to us? The city lord's people will eventually come after us if you just leave like that. Don't get me wrong. I have sustained my daughter on my own until now, and I'm not afraid of being left behind with her again. However, that would be in the case that nothing like this happened. If you hadn't intervened when Gustin came in, at most, we would be forced to have sex with those guys, but we would survive to see another day after they got bored of us. Now, it definitely won't be as simple."

Rean nodded in response. "Oh, that? Don't worry. I was simply going to bring you two to the cities close to the center of the Treavin Continent. I don't know if life there is easier, but it should definitely be more developed than Dry Sky City. It shouldn't be a problem since the only person you care about in this Realm of Gods is your daughter."

Falangia was taken aback. "But... wouldn't it be extremely expensive to have us teleport as well?"

Roan, who was also making his way outside, snorted in response. "Do you think anyone in the Formation Guild will dare charge two Peak Stage Elemental Transformation Realm cultivators?"

Only then did things make sense to Falangia. "So that's why you are so carefree. Other than the extra time, you won't lose anything else."

Roan nodded in response. "That's basically it."

Suddenly, a big black and white Demon Bird appeared in the middle of the street. Obviously, that was Kentucky. "Eh? What is it? I was sleeping, you know?"

Rean patted Kentucky. "You can keep sleeping here. Just make sure to protect Falangia and her daughter, will you?"

Kentucky immediately recognized Falangia. "Oh! The girl who was feeling too hot..."

Falangia's face became bright red once more. 'Do you need to remember me because of that?!'

Kentucky then sniffed her a bit before saying, "You're smelling quite well now, and you look a lot more beautiful. Alright, you can leave this baby for the great Kentucky to take care of. I believe that one is her daughter. Very cute as well. There's absolutely no problem!"

Falangia felt like crying. Didn't that mean she smelled horrible before Roan forcefully gave her a bath? In doubt, Falangia tried to smell the clothes that Roan had ripped off earlier, and her expression went dark. 'Holy shit! I smelled terrible!' She just didn't notice before because she was always like that.. 'Damn, I hate this desert.'