

Death 2461

Death... and me

Chapter 2461: No Need

In the next second, Rean and all 983 people appeared above the System Sect in the Dimensional Realm. This was the first time Rean was bringing them here, so they were obviously surprised to see this place. That was especially true for those with vast knowledge about space, like astronomers. In their minds, there wasn't supposed to be a place like this. "This..."

Rean smiled. "I mentioned before that cultivation energies are capable of wonders, didn't I? This is what we cultivators call a Dimensional Realm. It is a Dimension separated from the Real world, but at the same time, a place that follows us everywhere we go. They exist within us, and at the same time, they don't. Well, this Dimensional Realm is pretty bigger than most Dimensional Realms out there, so you will have a lot of space to work."

Sister Orb arrived right after, scaring everyone. She was just an orb and didn't seem to have any kind of propulsion keeping her in the skies. But then again, Rean was doing exactly the same thing with them all.

[Well, well, well... So you are the experts of the Planet Earth, yeah? You can call me Boss Orb! I have already prepared all your residences, so you will come with me. Oh, and one more thing. I'm completely connected to this space. That means absolutely everything that happens here, regardless of what method you use to try to hide it, I can see.]

[Don't worry, though. I'm not a person, nor have I ever been. You don't need to feel embarrassed when you go to the toilet, thinking I'm looking at your vaginas, penises or whatever. For me, who has never had a flesh body to start with, your bodies are completely meaningless.]

Rean shrugged his shoulders. "Soon, you will receive a method that should allow you to cultivate. That also means you should be able to use Divine Sense. Once that happens, clothes will lose all their meaning other than providing protection against the elements and things like that."

The people couldn't help but still feel a little awkward, especially the women. The idea that any body would be in full view once Divine Sense became available still put them a little off. Well... men are men... so you could say quite a few felt excited about the proposition.

Rean just smiled, already imagining what they were thinking. "You guys are thinking too much about it. Do you know why you feel like seeing naked bodies is embarrassing? That's because you grew up on a planet that made such a thing look embarrassing and wrong. The notion of seeing the other part's everything is something that makes you excited while making you feel ashamed the other way around."

"However, I can guarantee to all of you that this is just during the initial months at best. Soon, this new view of the world will become the norm. Everyone will be naked inside your Divine Senses, regardless of where you go. At some point, you simply will cease to care about it. Oh, another vagina, oh, another penis, who cares? If anything, you should just try your best to already get used to this idea."

Rean then looked at Sister Orb. "Alright, Sister Orb, you can take them away. I need to go back to Kafan."

[On it!] Sister Orb controlled the space in the Soul Gem Dimensional Realm. In the next second, everyone teleported away, appearing in a residential district made especially for them. [Each one of you already has your own house, and they have your names on the doors. As I mentioned, I can see everything, and naturally, I can hear everything, too. If you have any questions or requests, all you need to do is call me normally with your voice. I can talk to all of you at once while having individual conversations.]

Sister Orb then once again teleported the people, each to the front of their own house. [You will have 24 hours to settle down. From tomorrow onwards, you will take part in the classes that I run in this Dimensional Realm. At the moment, your bodies are too weak, so I'm blocking the Divine Energy from reaching your body since it would be harmful. Since you can't cultivate, I'll use most of your time to put as much knowledge about the world of cultivators as possible into your heads.]

Outside, Rean joined Kentucky, Essefy, and Anfrou. "Thanks for waiting. Anfrou, send us back to the Universal Transition Organization."

"Very well," Anfrou nodded. Right after, a new Death Door appeared, and Rean's group disappeared inside. As for what happened on Earth after Rean left all that information behind, no one knows.

"You are back already?" Kafan looked at Rean and Roan's group. He thought they would spend a lot more time exploring this side of the Universe. "Well, after the cultivation energies disappeared, this side ceased to give birth to any materials of interest anyway."

Roan agreed with him. "Indeed. Exploring other planets or even the underworld or heavens of this side would be meaningless. Anyway, that's basically all we had to do. We want to return to the other side of the Universe now."

Kafan didn't mind. "No problem. However, I already closed off that Pseudo-Temporal Path that brought you guys here after the Vruves left. Instead, I'll use my power to send you somewhere near the Realm of Gods directly. You will just have to find your way from there after this."

Everyone was obviously happy to hear that. "That's great!" Rean said. "What about our companions that came with us?"

"I don't really care. They are not part of this side of the Universe, so you can bring them with you, or I can get rid of them here, too. It's up to you," Kafan explained.

Rean quickly denied the idea before Roan could consider it. "Ahem... there is no need. Just help me cover for the return, and I'll bring them all with us."

Death... and me

Chapter 2462: Back

Later that day, Rean was brought with Kentucky and Essefy to see Nalui's group. Even after these days, they found no way to escape this place as the Divinity Realm Death Spirits kept watching them very closely. But then again, they were not treated badly. They could cultivate or do anything they wanted as long as they stayed in the designated area.

Seeing Rean's group appear again, Nalui and the others quickly came to receive him. "How was it? Did you succeed?"

Rean smiled as he nodded. "Yes. However, as part of the deal, we will not be able to stay here anymore. We will be sent straight back to the Realm of Gods, and we won't be able to return. From what they told me, they have already closed the Pseudo-Temporal Path we used to come."

Nalui was taken aback. "They... closed it? Is such a thing possible?" He knew more about Pseudo-Temporal Paths than most as he investigated many of them. Even Divinity Realm experts shouldn't be able to do it, as a Temporal Path isn't exactly a physical existence.

Rean shook his head. "I'm not sure, but I'm definitely not complaining. I just hope they fulfill their part of the deal. Not that we have much of a choice. As to how they will send us back, I have no idea."

Anfrou, who was there with them, wasn't in the mood to wait for much longer. "Are you done already? Stop wasting time, and let's go." Right after, he opened a Death Door, connecting to the area near the split of the Universe.

Nolui and the other looked at each other but decided to enter it anyway. It was like Rean mentioned. They didn't have a choice as the experts here are much stronger than them are. Rean, naturally, followed right behind with Kentucky and Essefy.

Kafan was already waiting at the exit of the Death Door opened by Anfrou. He wasn't in his human form, though. He was back to his Death Spirit appearance. "You are lucky we didn't have much of a choice other than relying on your formations' knowledge. Otherwise, we would have wiped your group out of existence already. Now, just get out of here."

Of course, Kafan was just playing the part since that was the excuse Rean gave Nolui and the others at first. Without wasting time, he used his power, causing the whole area over thousands of kilometers to tremble. Although he could open a passage to the other side, it wasn't an easy task.

Nolui, Klinbei, Kanglia, and the others were terrified by that display. It far surpassed what they had seen from Divinity Realm experts so far. Nonetheless, none of them said anything and just watched.

Not long after, a gigantic Spatial Gate opened, from which a huge burst of Divine Energy came. Because this side of the Universe was empty of cultivation energy, it acted as a vacuum machine, trying to take as much Divine Energy from the other side as possible. Of course, for this Divine Energy to fill this side of the Universe, Kafan would need to create several millions of these Spatial Gates and keep them open for a very long time. He was already suffering to keep one open, let alone millions of them.

"Fast! Go inside before I run out of energy. It will close in a few seconds. If you don't go, don't blame me for keeping you here forever," said Kafan with an urgent tone.

Rean's group was the first one to immediately jump inside. There wasn't any reason for them to doubt. Nolui and the others saw that and gritted their teeth, following Rean right behind. Sure enough, a few seconds later, the Spatial Gate closed, leaving only Kafan and Anfrou behind. "Sigh... I hope it all goes okay," Kafan murmured before turning around and leaving the place with Anfrou.

In the middle of the void, several hundreds of thousands of kilometers away from the Realm of Gods, a small Spatial Gate suddenly appeared. It was very unstable, seeming to be able to collapse at any moment. A second later, several figures shot out of it like cannonballs, only managing to stop their momentum several hundreds of meters away from the exit.

That group was none other than Rean and everyone else. They all had bloodied bodies, having suffered quite a lot during the transfer to this side. Kinblei and the other Space-Time Realm experts even had to use their power to help Bacia and those at the Elemental Space Realm. Otherwise, they would probably have died. Kafan wasn't joking. Using a passage like his own was quite dangerous.

Everyone then felt the presence of Divine Energy in the surroundings as far as their Divine Senses could go. This time, obviously, their Divine Senses were severely restricted by the Divine Energy of the Universe as it had always been in the area of the Realm of Gods. They weren't sad because of that, though. That was the proof they needed to know they were really back.

Nolui, now reinstated as the leader of the group, quickly gave his orders. "Everyone, focus on recovering your injuries. There doesn't seem to be anyone around, so we first need to heal before we decide where to go."

Kentucky then pointed in a certain direction. "Hey, look! It's the Realm of Gods!"

They all followed his directions, and sure enough, they could see the never-ending land of the Realm of Gods in the distance. Even if they were hundreds of thousands of kilometers away, with the Realm of Gods... or better, with Hyeonmu's size, it was very easy to spot it. "I wonder which part of the Realm of Gods we are close to," Kanglia couldn't help but mention.

"Doesn't matter," Nolui answered. "As long as we didn't fall inside the Devil's territory, we can definitely make our way back to the army. Now, focus on healing yourselves. We will leave as soon as we stabilize ourselves."

Everyone nodded, and Rean even helped them all to heal. Finally, Nolui opened a Spatial Gate, and they went back to the Realm of Gods.

Death... and me

Chapter 2463: I Still Don't Care

Turns out the place they landed after returning to the Realm of Gods was the Spirit Races' Territory. With Kinblei being a Peak Stage Space-Time Realm cultivator, using Spatial Gates made it an easy task to return to the humanoid territory. Even Kanglia and Nolui would be the same even though they are one and two stages below.

Yet, Kinblei didn't let every depart straight away. Instead, he stopped everyone as soon as they arrived in the Realm of Gods. In fact, Nolui wouldn't have left either. Instead, they looked at Rean, Kentucky, and Essefy before Kinblei began to talk. "Alright, enough with the bullshit. Tell me, what did you do? And don't come at me saying that you exchange your knowledge of formations for our freedom."

Nolui nodded, although he didn't look as threatening as Kinblei. "He is right, Goku, Kenny, and Essefy. If your knowledge about formations were really that important, they would never have let you leave that place. Tell me the truth. What did you do to convince those Death Spirits to send us back? Not only that, but you even convinced an expert like that last Death Spirit to open a passage to this side of the Universe.

Nolui continued. "Even the Peak Divinity Realm experts can't open a passage in the region where the Universe was split. If they could, we would have sent many expeditions to the other side already. Yet, that Death Spirit, on the other side, did just that. I truly can't see why they would let us go."

Rean sighed as he began to speak. "Indeed. Knowledge about formations wasn't really something they needed from me. However, it is true that that was the first time I had ever been to that place or seen any of those Death Spirits."

"As expected," Kinglei was satisfied to hear that. "So, what exactly could you give them that would convince such an expert to send us back? If it was me, I would take whatever it was from you and then keep you on the other side. If anything, I might have even killed you and everyone else to hide the fact I acquired whatever you gave me. That brings me to a conclusion... you gave nothing to them."

Nolui, Kanglia, and the others were surprised to hear Kinglei's words. If Rean's group gave nothing to the Death Spirits, then why would they go through the trouble of sending everyone back to this side of the Universe? Unless... Suddenly, they all had the same idea.

Rean shrugged his shoulders. "Seems like you understood. Yes, it was the first time I had seen them. It was the first time I had ever been to that place. However, I did know about them, and they did know about me. We do have a connection."

"What kind of connection?" Kinglei asked straight away, as curious as everyone else.

"That I can't answer," Rean spoke. "But it has a lot to do with my higher strength compared to others at my level." That part wasn't a lie. It was because Kafan sent Roan with him to this side of the Universe that Rean had Roan to help with everything they achieved so far. Through the System, and no less because of Roan's training, his group was now this strong. It was the combination of both Roan and the System that their level got this high. Of course, Rean himself helped a lot, too, but Roan definitely had a bigger hand in this regard.

Such an answer immediately caught everyone's attention. After all, they have all seen Rean, Roan, and Kentucky's power. They were truly far above others at their level. Even Kinblei, who was already considered much stronger than those at his level, wasn't as ridiculous as Rean, Roan, and Kentucky. There was also Celis, but they still didn't know about Celis's existence.

Kinblei then pointed his weapon at Rean. "Do you think I will simply accept such an answer? Since you can get this strong, then I definitely can, too. You better speak it now if you don't want to die."

Rean shook his head, though. "Let's be honest here. If you kill me, that means you couldn't get what you want either. Besides, it's not that I'm looking down on you, senior Kinblei. However, if I wish to leave, I will leave, and even a Divinity Realm expert would be able to stop me."

"You..." Kinblei's expression turned dark.

Rean could really leave if he wanted since he could use the Circuitry Teleport Formation. Even if Kinblei messed up the Space Laws around the Soul Gem Dimensions Realm, that only meant Rean would teleport to some random place in the Universe. By now, with his Body cultivation, he could definitely resist such a teleport in a messed space environment. Of course, there was still a chance of teleporting somewhere bad, like inside a black hole or somewhere that dangerous in some of the Realms. Still, the chances were pretty small and worth the risk.

Rean didn't stop there, though. he looked at Nolui and continued to talk. "Senior Nolui. We were all on this previous mission, and I didn't expect us to end on the other side. By all means, Kenny and I completed all that was asked of us and are still part of the army. Isn't this kind of treatment a little over the board?"

Nolui closed his eyes for a moment before talking. "You did indeed get us out of there and back to the Realm of Gods. But there is a problem. The Vruves also went to the other side. Yet, none of them were brought to join us, which tells me the Vruves knew the Death Spirits. If you also know the Death Spirits, doesn't that mean you are allied to the Vruves?"

Rean shook his head. "The answer to that should be pretty obvious. I got them to send us all back. Instead, I could have totally asked them to kill you all and only send me back. Yet, here we are. Does that seem like something the Vruves would do? Besides, your conjecture that the Vruves and Death Spirits are allied is just that, a conjecture. You have no proof of such a thing."

"Last but not least," Rean smiled. "I don't see how allowing you all to come back to the Realm of Gods would be of benefit to the Vruves, who seemed to be interested in allying with the Devils instead. Such a piece of information would be of extreme importance to the Realm of Gods' experts after all."

Nolui narrowed his eyes for a moment but decided to leave it at that. "Alright, we will decide what to do with you once we return to the army."

However, Kinglei just laughed. "Hahaha! You might accept that, but I still don't care. Goku, right? Last chance, give me whatever secrets you have, and I might consider letting you live."

Death... and me

Chapter 2464: Change in Situation

Rean shrugged his shoulders as he looked at Nolui. "Well, it's up to you now."

Nolui scratched the back of his head, knowing that Kinblei wasn't a character easy to deal with. In the end, he positioned himself in front of Kinblei, blocking him from reaching Rean. "Kinblei, I already said that the things related to this trip to the other side of the Universe would be discussed once we are back. I'm still this group's leader, remember?"

Kinblei then thrust his spear, forcing Nolui to dodge at the last moment. Even Nolui didn't expect him to do that. "Are you crazy?"

Kinblei couldn't care less. "I have never been someone rational to start with. If you get in my way once again, I'll take you down with him."

Nolui's cultivation then began to circulate as his expression turned serious. Kinblei might be stronger, but he is only a single stage higher in cultivation than Nolui. That wasn't enough to scare Nolui at all. "Then this is my last warning, too. Attacking Goku is the same as attacking a member of the Realm of Gods' Army. You better think it through. Not only will you not be able to get a single job anymore from the army during this war, but you will definitely be hunted by both senior Fosleve and Flinyu, two Divinity Realm experts who are waiting for our report."

Nolui noticed a change in Kinblei's eyes and smiled. "You said you are not rational, right? I wonder if you are truly crazy enough to buy a feud against the two powers controlled by those two seniors. Will you even have a chance to ever show your face in the Realm of Gods again? Even I can't tell. Besides... that also means the huge reward that had been promised for this mission will be gone. You won't get a single merit point."

Kinblei tightened his grip on the spear as his fury boiled up. If possible, he would simply eliminate everyone in this place and extract everything he could from Rean. However, Nolui is a Space-Time Realm cultivator like him. Even if he could somehow hold Nolui down, could he hold Kanglia as well, who was also a Space-Time Realm cultivator? Let alone the fact that Rean and Kentucky were obviously as strong as an Initial Stage Space-Time Realm cultivator on his own. Last but not least, there were also the Elemental Space Realm cultivators here too. Simply put, it was impossible for him to get rid of everyone while still keeping Rean alive.

Well, Rean was at least as strong as a Middle Stage Space-Time Realm average cultivator. It's just that he hasn't shown his full power yet. If anything, as long as Nolui joined hands with him, Kentucky, and Roan, the one who would be forced to flee in the end would be Kinblei instead. It's just that Rean would rather not do it.

Finally, Kinblei took his spear back and sent it into his Pocket Dimensional Realm. "Hmph! So be it. However, Goku, this doesn't mean I gave up. I'll keep an eye on you. Sooner or later, I'll find a chance to take what I want."

Right after, he looked at Nolui. "We are back to the Realm of Gods, so the mission is over. Make sure to transfer my payment to my communication badge." Following his words, Kinblei had no intention of traveling together. He simply opened a Spatial Gate for himself and left.

Nolui's cultivation then calmed down as he sighed in relief. "I understand that the power of someone like him is necessary, but still..." He couldn't help but comment.

Kanglia, who was also nervous about the previous situation, agreed with Nolui. "We can only keep our group together while we go back to the army. We hired Kinblei, but we must not forget he is an Evil Cultivator who was already being hunted by several powers. It's just that he never dared to mess with Divinity Realm powers before, and he definitely didn't want to do it now, either."

Nolui nodded. "In any case, we have no need to stay in this place anymore. I already know which direction to go, so just follow me." Finally, Nolui opened a Spatial Gate, and everyone followed him inside.

With Nolui's cultivation, it only took a few days for their group to reach a Spirit City where they could use a Long-Distance Teleport Formation. Nolui quickly paid the fee, and the group once again left. They teleported to another three cities to finally get a teleport formation that sent them back into the war zone.

Yet, as soon as they arrived at the first spot, Rean and the others noticed that the air was very heavy. "Weird..." Nolui commented. "There are too many cultivators, demon beasts, and spirits here. Most of this army was supposed to be far into the Devils' territory, conquering more land. Why are they back here?"

Kanglia noticed that, too. "When we were about to teleport here, I also saw that the spirits and people in the cities we passed seemed to be quite constrained. It's just that we were in a hurry, so I didn't stop to ask anyone what was happening. But now..."

A few moments later, Nolui's communication badge turned on. He quickly took it out and read the message. "Senior Flinyu and Folesve are already waiting for us."

From inside the Soul Gem Dimensional Realm, Roan warned Rean. 'There is a good chance they will also not let us leave that easy.'

Rean agreed. 'Nothing can be done about that. I still need those serene golden filaments. Besides, we can definitely resist a teleport in a messed space now, so running away isn't that big of a problem... although I would rather not rely on such a roulette.'

'I'll keep the Circuitry Teleport Formation ready for use,' Roan answered, already expecting the worst.

Their group arrived at a big building in that city. However, Nolui didn't let everyone follow them. He simply sent everyone a Divine Sense message: 'You can all return to your armies. Remember, this last mission was a secret, and if you let it leak outside, don't blame senior Folesve and Flinyu for holding a grudge.'

Right after, he looked at Rean, Kentucky, and Essefy. 'As for you three, follow me.'

Death... and me

Chapter 2465: A Message

Nolui and Rean's group arrived in front of a big hall, which was quickly opened. "Enter," said a voice from inside. There were many seats, although none was being used. At the center of the hall, two men stood. Rean immediately recognized one. It was the furred humanoid, also known as Folesve. As for the other, it wasn't hard to guess he was Flinyu.

Nolui approached them and then kneeled in front of Flinyu. "Master, I have completed my mission."

Flinyu nodded with a satisfied expression. "You did well. Now, you can share everything that happened during your trip into the Pseudo-Temporal Path." Truth be told, Flinyu already heard the entire report through the communication system. As soon as Nolui got a signal of the communication towers, the first thing he did was to call Flinyu and tell him everything. This was nothing more than a formality.

"Yes, master," Nolui nodded. "It turned out that the Pseudo-Temporal Path was connecting to the other half of the Universe that had been separated from side side during countless years. It seems like the Death Spirit Race has taken full control of that place, and your subordinate wasn't able to find a single other race of beings with cultivation."

Folesve wasn't surprised. "We already knew about that. The other side doesn't have cultivation energies, so after so many years, the races there now evolved to live without it."

"You already knew about it, master?" Nalui asked Flinyu instead.

Flinyu nodded. "One of the Death Spirits on the other side is one of the Semi-Celestials."

'Semi-Celestials?' That was the first time Rean and Kentucky heard about it.

However, Essefy, as the Huban's disciple, already knew about that term, so he explained it to Rean and Kentucky. 'Semi-Celestials is the name given to the experts like my Master or senior Kafan. Do you remember that they have the ability to change the celestial laws of the Universe to their own use? It was due to this ability that the name Semi-Celestials came from. They can mess with the Celestial Laws, like using it to communicate with other Semi-Celestials as senior Kafan and my Master, senior Huban, did. But they always have to pay a price.'

Rean understood. 'That's why Semi in the name, uh? Because they can't do it freely.'

'Exactly,' Essefy nodded. Of course, he used Divine Sense since no one there other than Rean, and Kentucky knew he was a member of the Essence Race and knew Huban.

"I see..." As a close confidant to Flinyu, Nalui was also aware of the Semi-Celestials, although he had never seen one before. However, he quickly remembered that Death Spirit who sent them back to this side of the Universe. His power was definitely much higher than even Flinyu, and Nalui had seen Flinyu going all out before. "Master, I believe the Death Spirit I met last was this Semi-Celestial Death Spirit you mentioned."

Flinyu already expected that. "Only someone like that could possibly open a gate to this side of the Universe. And according to my Master, it is only possible to be done from the other side. Even Semi-Celestials can't open a passage from this side to the other half."

"Master's master!" Nalui took a deep breath. He had never seen the person before, but he had heard about him from Flinyu. "Senior Gragatou said something?"

Flinyu narrowed his eyes as he looked at Nolui. "Is my Master's name something you can say with this mouth of yours?" It was obvious to everyone just how much respect Flinyu held for this so-called Gragatou.

Nolui quickly dropped his head down. "I have misspoken, Master. Please punish me."

Flinyu's expression eased a little bit. "Just be more careful in the future."

Folesve continued from there. "What we want to know is what the Vruves wanted on the other side. They seemed dead set on not allowing anyone to enter the Pseudo-Temporal Path and monopolizing it. What did you find?"

Nolui then told what he knew. "We fought the Vruves and managed to emerge victorious. However, this subordinate believes the Vruves are having some kind of deal with the Devils, considering that no Devils intervened during the battle. After our victory, we immediately set for the Temporal Path and traversed it because we believed the Vruves wouldn't come alone next time."

Nolui continued his tale of how they arrived at the other side and got separated. They couldn't find the exit of the Pseudo-Temporal Path anymore, either. He then traveled through that other half of the Universe, and the only race with cultivation he found were the Death Spirits. Yet, trying to capture one of them was a mistake. They left through the Death Doors, and even Nolui couldn't prevent it. Not long after, Divinity Realm Death Spirits appeared, and Nolui was easily captured by them instead.

Kanglia and everyone else, including Kinblei, suffered pretty much the same fate. Finally, he reached the point where Rean appeared and had some deal with the Death Spirits. Naturally, he also told how it was a lie and how Rean's group mentioned after they returned that his group actually knew the Death Spirits before, although Rean also mentioned that was the first time he saw the Death Spirits. Well, first time only if you don't count Roan, that is...

Finally, Nolui told them about 'Goku' and 'Kenny's' strength, which far surpassed anyone he had ever seen at their level. From what he heard from Rean, the Death Spirits seemed to be involved with it.

Folesve and Flinyu nodded, finally turning their attention to Rean and Kentucky. There was also Essefy, but they at least knew Essefy only joined their group much later. They had nothing to do with Essefy before. "It doesn't matter how I see it... you guys are definitely deeply involved with the Death Spirits.

However, that matters little to us. What matters the most is what the Vruves are trying to do there. The other side doesn't have any cultivation resources, so what could the Vruves possibly be interested in?"

Folesve continued. "Your abnormal strength definitely caught our attention, but it is not what we are interested in at the moment. Thorough history, geniuses that could show such ridiculous power for their cultivation always appear once in a while. They are rare but not myths. For us, the Vruve Organization objectives are of much higher priority, especially after hearing they might be allying with the Devils. Since you dared to return to the army and even meet us face to face with our cultivation difference, there must be something you want to tell me and Flinyu."

Rean shook his head, though. "In fact, I have nothing to tell you, seniors." Before Flinyu and Folesve could complain, Rean continued. "The one who has something to say is Senior Kafan instead." Right after, Rean took out a Jade Slip that seemed to have some kind of seal on it. Even Rean couldn't undo it since it wasn't a formation. It seemed to have something to do with Kafan's Semi-Celestial powers.

Finally, Rean passed it to Flinyu before saying, "Senior Kafan told me to give it to you. You would know what to do after that." It wasn't a lie. He did receive it from Kafan... Well, Roan did. But since Roan wasn't the one doing the conversation here, Rean took over the job of passing the message over.

Death... and me

Chapter 2466: Exactly

Flinyu took a deep breath and took the jade slip. Something sent by a Semi-Celestial was destined to be not simple. Flinyu quickly noticed the seal on the message, narrowing his eyes. Right after, he tried to use his own cultivation to break the seal. Yet, the seal didn't even budge, much to his surprise.

Folesve, seeing that, immediately understood. "Let me give it a try."

Flinyu nodded and passed the jade slip to Folesve. After giving it a try, Folesve confirmed his suspicions. "This has the power of a Semi-Celestial in it. There is no way people like us will be able to break this seal."

Flinyu then took it back and made a decision. "I'm going to bring this Jade Slip to my master. He probably can open it... Or, to be better, I'm pretty sure this Jade Slip was meant for him."

Folesve had no complaints. "Go then. I'll keep these guys company. Try to be fast."

Flinyu then opened a Spatial Gate and left, leaving only Folesve, Nolui, and Rean's group. Folesve took the chance to look at Rean's group. "What do you know about the Vruves?"

Rean and Kentucky looked at each other before returning their attention to Folesve. "We know they aren't any weaker than the other three powers of this side of the Universe. If anything, they are probably stronger than just the Realm of Gods, for example. However, it seems like no one really knows what they want as they barely interfere with anything."

Folesve sighed. "That's partially true. It's not that they barely intervene, but that we are always with our eyes open. The Divinity Experts of the Realm of Gods aren't exactly good friends. Well, that much you probably already knew about. Still, when it comes to the Vruves, we are all of one mind. We must not give them a single inch. Otherwise, they might indeed conquer the entire Realm of Gods on their own."

Rean couldn't help but ask. "As I mentioned, I know they are strong, probably even stronger than the Realm of Gods' powers joined together. However, even I find it hard to believe. I mean, look at how big the Realm of Gods is and how many experts we have in total. Could a single organization like the Vruves truly topple such a ridiculously big entity that is the Realm of Gods?"

"They could," Folesve didn't even think twice before answering that. "Not only can they do it, they would have done it already if not for a certain creature."

"Certain creature?" Rean asked back. "Are you talking about the Semi-Celestials we have in the Realm of Gods? Or is it senior Hyeoumu?"

"So you know about Hyeoumu," Folesve nodded. "It's because of Hyeoumu, indeed. We do have Semi-Celestials like senior Gragatou. However, it is believed the Vruve Organization has more Semi-Celestials than we do. Well, as far as I'm aware, our Realm of Gods only has four of five of them, and I'm not even sure. The only one I know to be alive is Gragatou. I have no idea about the others."

Rean also knew about Huban, so that makes two of them. Of course, he wouldn't tell Folesve that. He asked something else instead. "What about the Heavens and the Underworld?" Rean was curious.

"Should be more or less the same," Folesve answered. "But since I don't even know about our Realm of Gods' total number, you can already imagine how hard it is to get information about Semi-Celestials from those other two Realms."

"I see..." Rean pondered a bit. One thing was weird, though. "If the Semi-Celestials could talk to each other by manipulating the laws, shouldn't they all know exactly how many of them there are in the Universe?" Even Kafan, on the other side, could talk to Huban here, after all.

However, Folesve shook his head. "That's not the case. They can indeed talk to each other, but that is only if they make themselves visible to those who want to talk to them. You just need to think about it a little bit. If they can manipulate the laws to talk with other Semi-Celestials, what stops them from doing the same thing to hide themselves?"

Rean had to admit that Folesve's words made sense. "Then how are you so sure the Vruves have more Semi-Celestials?"

However, Folesve shook his head. "That's because, according to senior Gragatou, the Vruves always keep four of their Semi-Celestials visible, and they have been visible for countless years, always holding the fort in the Temporal Path. After so long, no one truly believes the Vruves don't have more of them, even if such existences are ridiculously hard to appear."

Rean thought about it and had an idea. Back in the facility underground on Earth's surface, Rean found out his Father was researching a method to surpass the Divinity Realm. It seemed like such a method did exist outside this Universe. 'Hum... We also found out that the Vruves had contact with the people of the Lingan Universe back in the Ruins of the Stars...'

Indeed. Back in the Ruins of the Stars, the Vruves brought a 'person' who seemed to be a member of the real crew of the Ruins of the Stars before it was sabotaged. After hearing Folesve's words, it wasn't hard for Rean to imagine that, perhaps, the Vruves have their hands on information regarding how to surpass the Divinity Realm. They might not have succeeded yet, but that would at least give birth to quite a few Semi-Celestials.

Roan, knowing what Rean was thinking, also commented. 'Alright, we have Hyeoumu to prevent the Vruves from taking the Realm of Gods. But what about the Underworld and the Heavens? Do they have some existence at Hyeoumu's level?'

Rean was also curious, so he asked Folesve directly.

Hearing the question, Folesve shook his head. "Unfortunately, we have no idea. There might be countless factors as to why they aren't a target either. But if I am to guess, I would say that the three Higher Realms had always been wary of the Vruves. Perhaps the Vruves were afraid that we would all join forces if they tried to conquer one of the Realms. In that case, then we are likely stronger."

Rean nodded. "No wonder the possibility of the Vruves allying with the Devils is such a dangerous topic."

Folesve agreed. "Exactly."

Death... and me

Chapter 2467: Time To Buy

Crazk!

Suddenly, space opened in the middle of the hall. It was another spatial gate. A second later, Flinyu stepped out and closed it. He had finally returned from his meeting with his master.

Folesve looked at him, curious. "How was it?"

Flinyu narrowed his eyes before looking at Rean, Kentucky, and Essefy. "You can go back to your army and continue doing whatever you signed for."

"What?!" Folesve and Nalui were taken aback. "But what about their connection to the other side?"

Flinyu shook his head. "Don't worry, they are not involved with the Vruves... Or at least, that's what my master guaranteed me. He was indeed able to lift the seal on the Jade Slip and read the contents. It's just he didn't tell me what was the message inside."

"That simple?" Folesve found it hard to believe.

Flinyu was also finding it difficult to swallow. Goku's group seemed to have more secrets. Yet, he couldn't go against Gragatou's words. "Since my master said they are safe, then we can just believe. In fact, my master seemed quite surprised by the message in that jade slip. He gave me the order to release Goku and his group immediately and even said to give our support if they needed it in the future as long as it wouldn't affect our objectives."

"This..." Folesve looked at Rean, Kentucky, and Essefy. How could they get the favor from a Semi-Celestial that easily?

Well, Rean's group was as confused as Folesve himself. They knew Kafan's jade slip would help them avoid trouble with the Realm of Gods' powers. But they didn't expect it would also allow them to ask for help. Well, the twins' group had no intention of having a Divinity Realm expert following each of their steps. Nonetheless, this could come in handy in the future.

"Well, thank you," said Rean. However, now that the mission was over, Rean didn't really have a reason to continue helping with the war. After all, he only needed one kilogram of Serene Gold Filament, which was 1000 Merit Points for each 100 grams. This mission had a reward of ten 10000 Merit Points! And it was 10000 for each participant! Kentucky and Rean would get 20000 in total, which would allow Rean to buy way more of the Filament than he needed.

Besides, even Essefy said that he didn't mind giving his Merit Points to them after their meeting with Huban. It's just that Rean had no need for his Merit Points anymore. "However, after this last mission, we are pulling out of the war. If anything, we have helped a lot already, preventing quite a few crises. What we want you to help me is to let Kenny and I leave the war without any issues with the army. It shouldn't be hard for you two to do it, right?"

Flinyu nodded. "That is indeed an easy task. Are you sure that is all you want? You shouldn't lose this opportunity now that my master decided to give you support."

Rean shook his head, though. "There is nothing we need at the moment. But there might be in the future, so I would like to have senior Flinyu and senior Folesve communication badge numbers. Of course, you can also use our badges' numbers to contact us if necessary."

"I would give you our numbers even if you hadn't mentioned it. My master told me to keep in contact with you anyway," Flinyu said as he passed Rean and Kentucky his and Folesve's number.

Folesve sighed in the end, feeling like they were allowing something good to escape. "You can also contact me if you need to."

Finally, Flinyu waved his hand. "Alright, you can go now. Nolui, you stay behind. Folesve and I have a few things we need you to do after this."

"Yes, master," Nolui quickly nodded.

Exiting the building, Rean couldn't help but ask Roan. 'Do you really don't know what your master said in that jade slip?'

Unfortunately, Roan was also oblivious. 'No.'

Kentucky found it weird, though. 'Why would he send a Jade Slip if they can communicate with the Celestial Laws?'

'Most likely because of the price,' Roan answered. 'Don't forget that they need to forget the laws they comprehended and relearn them, which takes a long time. My master knew that we would go through this investigation on this side, so he found it better to simply use a jade slip. As for what he used to bargain with that guy called Gragatou, that I don't know.'

'Oh well, whatever,' Rean didn't dwell on it. 'The important thing is that we got this chance to ask for help if needed in the future. Above all, they will not try to pry too much into our information.'

'That matters little,' Roan added. 'If we truly did get on their bad side, we could simply use the Circuitry Teleport Formation and change our appearances again. It would be annoying but nothing too hard to pull off.'

'That's true,' Rean and Kentucky agreed with him.

Rean then looked at Essefy. "So, we basically finished our work here. What do you plan to do? By the way, I will not need your Merit Points anymore, so you can spend it as you see fit."

Essefy pondered a bit. He followed Rean's group until now because they were considered to be from the same army. There was also the part where Rean and Roan's group met with his master. Yet, it wasn't like they were that close or anything like that. "Hum... There are more things I want to acquire with the Merit Points, so I will return to the army."

"Still?" Rean was surprised. After all, 10000 Merit Points was indeed a huge number to spend on the reward list.

Essefy nodded. "Yes. In any case, I feel like you guys always attract some weird shit, so I guess it will be safer if we depart now."

"Hahaha!" Rean couldn't help but laugh. "Indeed, I can't deny that."

Rean, Kentucky, and Essefy talked for a while longer before Essefy finally bid farewell. "If you need me, you have my badge number. Until another day, friends."

Rean and Kentucky watched as Essefy left before Rean turned in another direction. "Hehe! Time to buy those filaments."

Death... and me

Chapter 2468: Something Happened

The city also had a trading center where you could exchange your merit points. Rean and Kentucky went there, arriving at the center of the city where a giant building was located. Thousands of cultivators, demon beasts, and a few spirits could be seen exchanging their own Merit Points for things they wanted.

Kentucky then transferred his Merit Points to Rean, which now gave Rean a total of 20000 Merit Points to spend. Rean needed 10000 Merits to buy enough for him and Roan, but he had 20000 with Kentucky's amount. Thanks to that, he decided to spend all 20000 Merit Points in Serene Gold Filaments.

He got to the counter, passing his badge to the worker there. "I would like to exchange all my Merit Points for Serene Gold Filament."

The worker looked at Rean's... or Goku's information and immediately changed into a respectful expression. Elemental Space Realm was still a very high realm, after all. "Yes, sir. Please, wait a minute."

He then checked Rean's Merit Points and was even more shocked. People at Rean's level were rare, but he had seen a few during the duration of the war. Yet, most of them didn't have more than a few hundred points to exchange. Yet, Rean had 20000! The worker even wondered if it was a mistake.

After confirming it wasn't wrong, the worker quickly left to exchange the Merit Points. Yet, he returned a few minutes later with an apologetic expression. "Sorry, Senior Goku. Serene Gold Filament is quite rare, and we don't have the necessary amount to exchange all your Merit Points. I can order the other exchange centers around the Devils' Territory to send their stock of Serene Gold Filament here, but it might take a day or two."

Rean didn't really mind. "No problem. For now, let me have whatever you have in hand. Just make sure you have the rest brought here."

"Understood," the worker said. "Here is the Serene Gold Filament we have in this trading center, a total of 300 grams. I have debted 3000 Merit Points from your account now."

"Thank you," Rean nodded with a smile and then left with Kentucky.

Outside, Rean and Kentucky didn't leave the city. Instead, they rented a room in one of the temporary hotels and activated the formations that prevented others from seeing inside with their Divine Senses. Right after, Kentucky and Rean went back to the Soul Gem Dimensional Realm.

Kentucky looked at the Serene Gold Filament in Rean's hand and couldn't help but ask. "Do you really need all 20000 Merit Points to be spent in these filaments? You only needed a single kilogram before, no?"

Rean did really say that before. "Yes, one kilogram was enough for me and Roan. However, that was considering no mistakes would be made during the forging process. Until now, I only managed to make an arm, which doesn't work well without the rest of the armor. With two kilograms, I'll be able to try a few different things and have some spare filaments in case the crafting goes wrong."

"Besides," Rean continued. "I also want to make one for Luan and give it to him when he is back. Luan is truly getting very strong, even without the system's support. He will be of great help in the future, especially if he also has my circuitry formation armor."

Kentucky still couldn't take his eyes from the filaments in Rean's hand, though. "Ahem... if there is some remaining, would you mind giving it to me?"

"For you?" Rean was puzzled. "What would you need Serene Gold Filaments for? They are very rare and hard to work with, you know?"

"Well..." Kentucky didn't have any intention of crafting anything. "They seem very delicious..."

Only then did Rean remember that Kentucky also increased his strength by eating rare metals. And as far as rare metals go, Serene Gold Filament is definitely ranked close to the top. The higher Kentucky's cultivation gets, the rarer the metal needs to be for it to have any effect on Kentucky's body. Recently, pretty much all ores they have in the Soul Gem Dimensional Realm, including some relatively rare ones, have already lost their effect on Kentucky's body.

The ones that could still help Kentucky had a very small effect. Considering their quantity, both Rean and Kentucky preferred to leave those metals there to be used in forging later than wasting them in exchange for almost no power.

Rean looked at the filaments in his hand and how Kentucky looked very interested in them. "Would these filaments make any relevant difference in your body?"

Kentucky immediately nodded. "Yes! I can feel the metal resonating with my Minokawa Bloodline. It should help strengthen my bloodline quite a bit. It's just..." Kentucky's expression turned a little sad.

Rean understood why. "It can make a difference, but you would need a lot of it." Since young, Kentucky always had to eat a lot of rare metals for them to make any difference. Growing up and getting higher cultivation only increased that demand. "How much would you need to make a tangible difference?"

"Some thirty kilograms... more or less?" Kentucky answered with an embarrassed tone.

"Go to hell!" Rean immediately put the filaments in his hand away. "Thirty Kilograms? I might as well tell you this. Even if we gather all the Serene Gold Filaments available for exchange during this war, it definitely won't amount to 30 kilograms. Didn't you see the expression of that worker? He had to ask for several other trading centers to send their filaments before they didn't have enough to make up the two kilograms I asked for."

Rean continued. "No, that isn't even the main problem. The main problem is the price! We would need 300000 Merit Points to be able to buy 30 kilograms. Do you really think there is any mission in this war where you could amass this kind of reward? Keep dreaming!"

Kentucky sighed in response. "Then... Give me just a few hundred grams, two or three hundred. I also helped to gather these points, didn't I? I want to feel the difference."

Rean glanced at him but nodded in the end. "Fine, that much I can do. But you will need to wait until the trading center brings the rest. I'll use these filaments here to start forging the new armor."

Suddenly, Roan appeared where Rean and Kentucky were talking. "Meanwhile, I'm going out."

Rean could guess what he wanted to do. "Are things that bad?"

"Probably," Roan answered. "The army is completely gathered here. That doesn't make sense. I want to see why everyone is so apprehensive. Something must have happened while we were out."

Death... and me

Chapter 2469: Standby

Roan then left the Soul Gem Dimensional Realm with a different appearance while Rean stayed behind to work on the new armor.

"Now that I think about it, you all rejected the first name I gave to my armor. Do you have any good idea?" Rean asked Kentucky, who was just about to return to his nest on Celis.

"Eh? Me?" Kentucky was taken aback. "Errr... Didn't you call it Circuitry Formation Armor? You could simply keep it."

"That's boring," Rean answered. "That's not a name; it is just a type of forging method. How about Super Coolant Spreading Armor! It is not a glue, but it does attach directly to the body."

Kentucky's expression was one of disgust.

"Err...." Seeing that, Rean gave up that idea, too. "Forget what I said."

Kentucky then had an idea. "Well, we have thousands of cultivators living in the Soul Gem Dimensional Realm. Why don't you give them a little explanation of how this new armor works and ask them to come up with a name. You can even offer a reward for the best idea."

"Oh!" Rean's eyes lit up. "Great! I'll do that straight away."

Sure enough, Rean used his Divine Sense and told all living beings in the Soul Gem Dimensional Realm about his new equipment, including the intelligent Demon Beasts. Above all, he even had the experts from Earth, who had just recently started cultivating.

Seeing the people's progress, Rean couldn't help but smile.

Before Rean left the other side of the Universe with Kafan's help, he got from him those alternative methods of cultivation for races that had never been cultivated before. He then passed all the knowledge to those people and let them test it themselves. After all, there was no way he could tell which was good or bad.

Some worked, others only partially, and some had no effect whatsoever. Nonetheless, Kafan seemed to have worked quite a lot on each of those methods... out of boredom. None of them proved to be harmful. There were even a few that cultivated the body, but they were not body cultivation techniques. Instead, they used the body to store the cultivation energies instead of Dantians. It was different from the body cultivation techniques Rean and Roan used since Kafan's techniques still allowed one to go through the cultivation realms normally.

In the end, the people from Earth found seven techniques within those from Kafan's repertory that worked best for them. Four of them were normal ones, which relied on creating a fake core similar to a

Dantian in the body. The other three were the alternative ones that used the body as if it were the Dantian instead.

The only problem with those body-type cultivations was that they were quite painful. Still, although they didn't have a result as good as real body cultivation techniques, they still strengthened the body on top of allowing the user to cultivate realms. If one could cope with it, the gains would be a lot more substantial. Rean did not intervene with the people's decision and allowed them to use whichever they wanted.

In the end, as good as any of these seven techniques looked like, these people were not born to live in a cultivation world. The results they got from cultivating with them were far below what a normal person from the cultivation world could achieve with a run-of-the-mill technique.

Fortunately for them, Divine Energy was not a problem in the Soul Gem Dimensional Realm. The concentration inside was always several times higher than outside, as the system gathered the Divine Energy over large distances around Rean and Roan and compressed it all inside. Well, that ability only existed because of Celis's saplings, of course.

Once these people got to a high enough level, Sister Orb would be able to lift the restriction that kept most of the Divine Energy away from their bodies. That would allow them to cultivate much faster than they would be able to outside the Soul Gem Dimensional Realm.

Anyway, everyone in the Soul Gem Dimensional Realm successfully entered the first realm of cultivation, the Body Transformation Realm. As long as they got to the Energy Gathering Realm, Sister Orb could increase the concentration of Divine Energy reaching their bodies. At the Foundation Establishment, such restrictions would not be necessary anymore.

By now, none of the people thought they were inside any kind of trick back on Earth. Their gains and the things they are able to do here are simply impossible to explain with Earth's laws. Cultivation truly exists, and they were all excited to be able to increase their power. Above all, they were all researchers or people who worked in similar fields. If these cultivation techniques were not as good as real ones for real cultivators, they could simply work on new types to bridge the gap.

Suddenly, Rean's voice echoed in everyone's mind. Rean explained his terrible sense for names and asked everyone to take his question as some fun entertainment. He even promised a reward for the best name for his armor. Of course, Rean knew that all of this didn't really have any importance. It wasn't like his new type of armor really needed a name or anything like that. He just liked to have some fun, too.

Following that, Rean used the system's time-manipulating formation and increased the time in the Soul Gem Dimensional Realm by ten times. With all the Divine origin Energy cores they obtained back in the Facility on Earth's underground, they could once again use a few of those cores for time acceleration. Besides, only ten times acceleration didn't spend that much energy, so it could be kept for quite a while.

Outside, Roan used his Divine Sense, which spread and mixed with the Divine Senses of the countless cultivators there. He ignored it and focused on the conversations the cultivators were having. Not long after, he found out the reason the army had been called back to the city. It wasn't only this army. Instead, all armies now seemed to be on standby.

Death... and me

Chapter 2470: A New Soul Devil

"That thing already destroyed another five cities, and it is getting stronger as it moves," one of the voices Roan was hearing said.

"I heard that it was created by the devils to change the course of the war," said another cultivator somewhere else.

A demon beast in another place seemed pretty concerned. "What if it keeps absorbing more souls?"

As Roan heard all the stories, he managed to piece all the clues together to get a full picture of the situation. With that, he returned to the hotel room and entered the Soul Gem Dimensional Realm before telling Rean and the others about it. 'From the looks of it, a soul devil has appeared in the Realm of Gods, and it is going on a rampage.'

'Soul Devil?' Rean, who was working on the armor, asked back. 'Is it Beelzebub?'

'No,' Roan answered. 'It seems like this is a completely new Soul Devil that has just been born. Also, this Soul Devil is not taking Dead Souls. Instead, it seems to be quite similar to the Devils themselves, only absorbing Living Souls instead.'

'That's weird,' Celis entered the conversation. 'Soul Devils that have no intelligence. They only act on instinct, and it takes a very long time until they have a chance to acquire sentience. The cultivators of our Realm of Gods should have eliminated this thing fairly easily. What's the problem?'

'That's the point,' Roan commented. 'This Soul Devil is very intelligent, already having sentience from the moment it appeared. Not only that, it seems to have some kind of sensorial ability that detects the presence of anything alive that can threaten its existence. Once a cultivator way too strong appears, it immediately flees before the other part even manages to get close enough to detect the Soul Devil with its Divine Sense.'

[That's even more weird,] Sister Orb still found the story hard to swallow. [That would only be an issue if you couldn't teleport straight to the city that is being attacked. However, if you teleport straight there and use your Divine Sense as soon as you arrive, even this Soul Devil wouldn't be able to see it coming. The same could be said if you use a Spatial Gate to arrive as well.]

Roan shook his head, though. 'I wasn't able to check that much. However, the truth is that this Soul Devil seems to be able to escape even under the situation Sister Orb mentioned.'

'How come we haven't heard about this thing before?' Rean couldn't help but ask.

'Because it wasn't a big problem at first,' Roan answered. 'This Soul Devil appeared quite a while ago. But because it was too weak and the damage it caused was too small, the powers of the Realm of Gods simply ignored its existence. After all, the war was more important. But when the Soul Devil began to grow strong enough to wipe out cities, that's when the Realm of Gods moved.'

'Yet, the Soul Devil is escaping every single time. Not to mention, its power is increasing nonstop, already being close to the Divinity Realm,' Roan explained. 'Of course, the people I heard it from can't be completely trusted. It's not official information. Yet, this Soul Devil's appearance was enough to force the armies to stop moving forward. That said, I do believe it has grown quite strong enough to be a problem even for our Divinity Realm experts.'

'I see...' Rean understood. 'The Divinity Realm experts of the army probably decided to join forces to capture or kill it. However, leaving their armies without Divinity Realm experts to defend the fort would be an invitation for the Devils to wipe them out. Without another choice, they were forced to call all the armies back from the frontlines and join them together in waiting.'

'Exactly.' Roan nodded. 'It is not only a single army we have around this city. We have more than five armies here at the moment, and there is only Folesve and Flinyu to protect them. In fact, it was supposed to be Folesve alone, but you know why Flinyu came here.'

[Still, if this Soul Devil was born recently, for it to have sentience and already be strong enough to flee from Divinity Realm Experts is quite ridiculous. I can bet whatever you want that this Soul Devil has a huge flaw.]

'Why?' Kentucky asked.

[The laws of the Universe are not fair, but they aren't absolutely ridiculous either. The Universe would never allow the birth of something that can get strong this fast without some huge drawback. If I were to guess, I would probably say that this Soul Devil's existence is on the line. It must continue absorbing Living Souls nonstop, or it will probably suffer something very bad. Otherwise, do you think it is an intelligent move to keep appearing and destroying so many cities?]

Roan agreed with Sister Orb. 'She is right. If it truly has intelligence, it definitely knows that doing such a thing would catch the attention of the Divinity Realm experts on our side. Yet, it continues playing with fire. Most likely, it has no other choice but to continue doing it.'

In the end, Kentucky shrugged his shoulders. 'Well, so what? This has nothing to do with us. A Soul Devil that can give problems to our Divinity Realm experts? I'm sorry to say this, but... that's not something we can mess with.'

Roan knew that. 'Kentucky is right. Nonetheless, we needed to at least know what was happening, and now we do. Let's try to avoid any places where this monster might appear in the future.'

'The Realm of Gods is too big! There is no way we would bump on such a thing,' Kentucky added.

Rean and Roan weren't as confident, though. After all, they have their beloved destiny attraction feature from the system. Roan even wondered if it was a good idea to go out to search and learn about that thing.