1051 Chapter 1051

Although pretty shocked Alex didn't question the man's decision but directly asked.

"What are the skills you're talking about?"

The man did not immediately answer this question, he stayed silent for a moment as though he was analyzing something and it was not until he finished that he opened his mouth and said.

"Link; Accel; Drifter will be converted to skill points for the Illusionary Steps."

Alex's jaw was almost hitting the floor, to say he was not shocked would be an understatement as it was his first time hearing something so absurd, convert skills into skill points for another skill, what kind of absurd ability is this?

To the shocked Alex, the man on the throne simply smiled as though he had expected such a reaction.

"The universe is endless with many worlds, so naturally, there is bound to be many people with unusual ability. This is my unique ability, converge the same type of skills into skill points to strengthen one skill in particular."

Alex's eyes shone and the shameless had already started planning, his eyes full of hope but this hope was shattered by the man the following sentence.

"And before you will go thinking maybe you can snatch this skill I can only say I'm sorry, it's impossible because a unique ability can't be snatched, it won't be a Unique ability otherwise. It can only be inherited but unfortunately, I'm not sure that the current me can pass it down as I'm only conscious of its dying breath."

Upon hearing those words Alex became crestfallen, he was already imagining a bright future where he would rely on this skill to strengthen his skills, while this unique ability has its limitations, it was still a pretty good and useful ability as the skill points one would get by sacrificing others skills must be different and will have a unique property.

As if to confirm this the man said.

"The skill points acquired with my unique ability are different, there is no limitation. For example, you can use only one skill to increase your skill level, even past level 5 and once you reach a higher level you have a small chance to get an evolved skill."

Alex's breathing stopped and his eyes shone with unconcealed greed, more than ever he wanted this ability, he had already forgotten about the reason for his presence here, only this unique ability interested him at the moment.

No one could blame him as the things this man's unique ability can do was this tempting. One should know that not many skills upon reaching a higher level, meaning the max level can evolve again, reaching a new height, and just imagine that there was an ability capable of making this happen. Won't you want it? The answer was obviously Yes because no matter how slim the chance for the maxed skill using this unique ability to be upgraded to a higher level was, the thing there was a possibility for this to happen and just this was enough, so Alex decided to acquire this skill no matter what.

"Can I inherit this ability, senior? Pretty please." Alex shamelessly asked, ready to throw most of his dignity out of the window. As it could go eat shit, there were only two people here, and in front of a useful ability, he couldn't think of keeping his dignity. He would be a fool not to take this opportunity and while he playing the shameless card, Alex was sneering inside at how cunning this man was, he deliberately flaunted his unique ability in front of him to bait him, so naturally, there must be a way to inherit it if not there would not be any meaning to all those tricks he played since his arrival. He must have wanted Alex to do something and Alex would play along, as long it let him get something useful, he would be used but at least he would be getting a useful ability. They were both acting in their interest.

Not wanting to drag things on for a long time Alex directly said with a serious face.

"I will owe you a favor, whatever you want me to do for you in the outside world I'll do it if it doesn't go against my principles or harm my loved ones. So, give your ability."

The man on the throne stayed silent for one second before laughing, laughing with a maniacal cackle.

Alex soon found himself laughing along with the man, they both laughed until they were satisfied but during that time they understood each other and came to appreciate each other.

"You are good, I like you."

"Same here but I will appreciate it if we get down to our side business before the real deal," Alex responded to the man's appreciation.

The corner of the man's mouth twitched and he felt somehow insulted as if Alex was insinuating that his unique ability was not important as his bloodline awakening, not that Alex would be right if he were to ever think that because of the boons he would receive after awakening his Asura's bloodline would surpass this unique ability by a far margin.

Therefore in the end the man could only swallow the bitterness he felt and carry out his original duty, he was glad that aside from doing this he got himself a deal as he was not sure that he would ever get one, he thought the owner of the Asura's bloodline would be arrogant not putting his unique ability in his eyes because as a half inheritor of that bloodline he was arrogant which in the end did not end for him.

But contrary to his expectation Alex was not arrogant and he immediately accepted even before he said anything, the man who seemed simple at the beginning had become a complicated person the more he talked to and observed him.

'Of course an inheritor of the Asura's bloodline, a complete inheritor would never be simple, I'm glad I've found someone to carry my lifelong regret. I should start.' The man said in his mind before opening his mouth outside.

"Okay, it's a deal. But first, let's start." He declared.

Of course an inheritor of the Asura's bloodline, a complete inheritor would never be simple, I'm glad I've found someone to carry my lifelong regret. I should start.' The man said in his mind before opening his mouth outside.

"Okay, it's a deal. But first, let's start." He declared, his words bringing a smile to Alex's face.

"What do you know about the Asura's race from which our bloodline originated?" The man asked while guiding Alex somewhere.

His words confirmed something Alex thought.

"Nothing much, just that this is a powerful race. I've got the feeling that this race must be specialized in battle, a race born for battle." Alex explained, adding things he read back on Earth about the Asura's race.

The man nodded and added.

"Not bad, the Asura's race is indeed a race born for battle as most of their abilities are specialized for battle from example what I'm about to show you."

The man said before they vanished and reappeared in an entirely different place, in front of them was something that made Alex's scalp tingle. Standing before him was an army, an army of a hundred thousand men.

Alex had hard processing the purpose of their presence here and just as he was about to question the man that brought him here, they moved.

The ground trembles as an army of 110,000 marches onward. With a continuous noise of thousands of feet trampling the ground beneath it, even the most ignorant of souls will know there's an army marching onwards.

Up close it's the sound of leather, chainmail, and armor clashing together which overpowers all other sounds. The creaking of wood and metal of the siege engines can be heard only faintly and the groans of the foot soldiers are all but drowned out completely.

The soldiers are chatting away, noise or no noise the soldier needs to take their minds off of what's ahead, and talking is the best way to do so. The army is a mismatch of isolated groups, but they'll work together as they share the same goal: Destroy the enemy and make it back home.

The front is led by eager charge cavalry armed with bows and swords. They're followed by foot soldiers armed with two swords, who in turn are followed by elite spearmen on horseback.

The ranks are filled with many other regiments, including mercenaries and allied soldiers, including stealth units, units of war animals, various charging units, and artillery units.

"What are they?" After finally calming down Alex raised this question and the man smiled, proud of himself he declared.

"This is my army, my Asura's shadows."

This declaration was like a bolt of lightning ringing in his mind, Alex wondered what level of strength one would need to reach to have this many men even horses in their shadow.

As for the Asura's shadow thing, it must be an ability the man acquired after successfully awakening his bloodline Alex inferred and the man's following sentence confirmed this.

"After awakening my Asura's bloodline I've acquired this Asura's shadow which I've nurtured until I got this army, while they look, like humans, humans they are not, they can fight as long I've mana and stamina. I don't know which ability you will get after awakening but it will be a pretty useful ability, tailored for battle."

Alex nodded already looking forward to what ability he would get but first he was curious about something, thus he asked.

"It is possible to acquire multiple abilities after awakening?"

Alex looked at the man with expectant eyes and the latter nodded before further explaining.

"During my research on the Asura's race I've come to learn many, for example, this race existed before the original world was said to be the 1st world the primogens ever created after being birthed from the primal chaos. I have concluded that this race was a part of the primogens, the first beings we all originated from as for why they didn't exist in the original world I don't know and you will have to find out."

Alex nodded and continued to listen to the man's explanation, the information he was sharing with him would be useful as it would help him know more about the universe.

The man nodded pleased to see Alex listening.

"My point is that from what I have gathered, a true heir of this bloodline can awaken multiple abilities so you will have to try your best, it will be extremely painful."

The man warned at the end of his sentence which made Alex frown thinking, pain again?

'Well, no pain no gain.' He prepared himself to go through hell again.

"Do you went on a battlefield before?" The man suddenly asked and Alex shook his head, he was born in a peaceful time and was blessed to live in a country where there was no war. So naturally, he never went on the battlefield before, the final battle would be his first battle.

"It is that so? Ok, it's necessary to be on a battlefield before to understand the essence of an Asura." The man said before flicking his fingers and they disappeared from his Asura's shadow realm.

The duo arrived before a village and this village seemed to have been ravaged by war.

The village is littered with suits, blood, and wounded fighters. Red, black and blue is the new colors of what was once a tranquil, small village, which has now become the stage of a tragic civil war.

The air which would normally be rich in the scents and sounds of hard work is now deafening loud, the sound of explosions drowns any other sound in the area, a sight of pure nightmares.

Two parties fight each other for a reason Alex didn't know, but it's yet to be determined which side's on the winning hand. The wounded on one side lay in large groups across the village and the faces of the fighters were hopeful with hope in their hearts and their muscles tense and anxious, they carry out their orders in a tough fight.

With the possibility of death shaking their knees the other side ferociously battles their enemies. Some have succumbed to fatigue and are giving in to whatever fate this battle has in store for them, while others fight on in the hopes to survive this terror.

The toll on both nature and humanity is heavy. It'll likely take decades before this village will have recovered. Its clear debris, explosion holes, and metal have taken the place of market stalls, market stalls, and roads.

Alex watched everything from the sky and soon felt the urge to puke, severed heads, and limbs, sons fighting their fathers, children being torn apart, and women getting raped. He could not keep his face straight any longer. He might have experienced many things, many battles, and killed monsters and humans alike but there is still things he couldn't stomach, battlefield was not a joke, something inside him seemed to have been broken, and he felt a certain urge to go down on rampage, to fight, not because being of some sense of chivalry, not because he wanted to save the ones getting massacred but simply because he wished to partake in the fight, to kill, kill, to fight till exhaustion claim his body, his desire to fight started to slowly cloud his reason after that thing was broken and the man felt it, he smiled before flicking his fingers again and they appeared on another battlefield.

This time they appeared on a beach and Alex whose face was lowered lifted it and the scene of the battlefield flashed through his eyes which were slowly turning crimson.

The beach is littered with shells, bodies, and carnage. Red, khaki, and silver are the new colors of what was once a peaceful beach, which has now become the stage of a terrible battle.

The air which would normally carry the sounds of birds, rivers, and wildlife is now heavy and thick with the scent of smoke, hell has descended upon this area.

Two trained armies fight each other without knowing the true reason, but it's clear who will win. The dead and wounded of the losing side are scattered across the beach and the faces of the fighters are grim with exhaustion and the certainty of death, but they force themselves to fight nonetheless.

With a certainty of victory, the winning side fights with a sense of relief knowing all will be over soon. Some have succumbed to terror and are barely able to force their bodies in motion, while others just wish all this was over.

The toll on both nature and humanity is immense. It'll likely take years before this beach will have recovered. Its clear bodies lost bombs, and rubble has taken the place of shrubs, trees, and grass.

Once again Alex lowered his head as if in deep through but in fact, he was trying to suppress the thing threatening to burst out, if previously he had succeeded in suppressing it, this time he failed, he stopped struggling and lifted his head and everything came to standstill, even the man who accompanied him here gulped when he saw some faintly forming on Alex's forehead.

"Don't tell?" He had yet to confirm this but if it was what he was thinking it is then it would be great.

1053 Chapter 1053

The man was shocked as he felt that Alex's potential was way higher than what he had previously expected. As he continued to imagine what would this mean if his assumption was right the beeps of prompt messages rang in his head, and a faint smile surfaced on the man's face.

Meanwhile, Alex who let go of all his restraints was fighting on the battlefield with his specialized knives.

Suddenly, one of the attackers flew all over as the sword and machete clashed intensely. The difference in strength broke the man's wrist, and he dislocated his ankle while trying to withstand the force of Alex's swing. He was flung out of the way and landed face-down on the ground. His sword was broken, and he felt a burning pain from the bloodied hand gripping the hilt. Before he could stand up, a part of his broken sword flew over, piercing his brain, thus sending him into an eternal sleep.

From then on Alex's moved around on the battlefield going on a rampage, he was like the reincarnation of a battle god. Although he was unable to have access to his guns, this didn't hinder him in the slightest as he used what was available, while still unable to properly use other weapons except for his guns or customized knives, he could use other weapons by kicking them like javelins towards the enemy or by breaking them into pieces which would later serve as a flying weapon. Quickly Alex became covered in blood as he dominated the battlefield, an Asura was in the process of awakening.

A faint line started drawing in the middle of Alex's forehead, although not complete the man watching everything was sure that undoubtedly an eye and for an Asura to have an eye in the middle of his eyes, it could only be one thing, that eye, the famous eye recorded in history and he desperately wanted to awaken during his awakening but to ultimately fail.

And now seeing Alex in the process of awakening that ultimate eye, he was envious but this envy was short-lived because he felt grateful to the witnesses of a such historical moment, while it was undeniable that acquiring this eye was due to Alex's efforts and talent, there was no denying that the man had something to do it, even if his help was at the negligible level, it didn't make less valuable, he was like his teacher this enough made the man feel extreme joy and he could now pass on but after perfectly completing his mission and after passing down his legacy and final wish.

The man chuckled imagining the kind of reaction Alex would have once knowing what he would be asking him after letting him inherit his unique skill. For now, it's time to move on to something more interesting. With the flick of the man's fingers, they disappeared from the battle and reappeared somewhere, on a vast plain, and when the blood-soaked Alex's lifted his head and saw what was in front of him, a bit of sanity entered his brain, and could not help but suck in a mouthful of air.

Standing before Alex was a dragon, Yes, a fucking dragon.

Angry sapphire eyes sit gracefully within the creature's rounded, long skull, which gives the creature a disciplined-looking appearance.

Two small horns sit atop its head, just above its thin, warped ears. Small fan-like skin and bone structures run down the sides of each of its jaw lines.

Its nose is large and has two large, warped nostrils and there's a small crystal growth on its chin. Several huge teeth poke out from the side of its mouth and reveal only a fraction of the terror hiding inside.

A long neck runs down from its head and into a muscular body. The top is covered in smooth skin and a row of fan-like growths runs down its spine.

Its bottom is covered in narrow scales and is colored lighter than the rest of its body. Six thick limbs carry its body and allow the creature to stand towering and poised. Each limb has 6 digits, each of which ends in thorny talons seemingly made of crystal.

Enormous wings grew to start from its shoulders and end at the end of its shoulder blades. The wings are rounded, the inside is almost entirely see-through, especially when viewed from a distance and long tendril-like growths grow from many parts of the bottom sides of each wing.

Its graceful tail ends in a curled tip and is covered in the same smooth skin as its body.

While Alex was tightening the grip of his knives, ready to face this beast fully aware that his chance of winning was small because he didn't have access to his true firepower, still this should not be used as an excuse, he would fight regardless of the end result because this could serve as fighting experience against a dragon later on.

[It is finally the time it seems Slaughter King.] The dragon opened his eyes and said to the man that brought Alex here.

Alex was surprised that the man had a such domineering title, he wondered how many must have killed to get such a title.

The man, the Slaughter King nodded and said to the dragon.

"Yes, it's the time for both of us to forever leave this world. He is the true heir so better go all out. He also has a dragon's bloodline, no need to elaborate. In one sentence he is pretty solid." The man said with a nasty grin on his face.

Alex felt a chill run down his spine being stared at by those angry sapphire eyes.

[You're right this child indeed has a dragon bloodline, a pretty high level, to the extent that I'm ashamed to face him. Still gotta do gotta do. A human with three powerful bloodlines? It's unheard of, even with all my years in the Higher world, his potential is limitless if he survives the wolves over there and breaks free from his established fate. A child doesn't worry, it will be hard but not impossible. Somehow I've got the feeling that you can do it.]

Alex said nothing as he was processing what the dragon's said, from what the dragon said they were both from the Higher world which ruled out his previous theory that the man may be from the original world before it was broken into many realms nowadays.

Just as he was immersed in his thought Alex felt a sudden chill followed by a gigantic tail cutting through the air with one aim, to screw.

Swoosh!

Alex gathered wind under his feet, propelling himself in the air, the dragon's tail missed him with an air breath.

"Lightning Degree"

Alex launched all his knives at the most vulnerable part of the dragon, its eyes but the beast disappeared and Alex felt an immense crisis, he could not dodge this one, so he decided to use him.

Meanwhile, in the man and the dragon's eyes, they already saw Alex's death. The man lamented as he hoped Alex would last a little longer. Because by doing so he would rip a lot of benefits. Unfortunately, he was about to die, his first death in this world because he underestimated his enemy, high level dragons are capable of spatial movement and couldn't be restrained easily.

Time seemed to have stopped when the dragon disappeared and moved behind Alex.

And as soon as time resumed the dragon's claw ripped Alex's chest open and blood splashed out, in disbelief he mumbled.

"It hurts! It hurts so much! Please, make it stop, it hurts so much! I... I can't make it stop! There's too much blood and it hurts so much, please make it stop.

I should lie down, why am I still standing? I'm so tired, yet somehow I'm still standing. It makes no sense. Body, please, I want to rest. Lay down already, it's okay

How did I end up like this? When did I take a wrong turn? I can't remember, why can't I remember? I'm fading, I know it. I can't think straight anymore, somebody help me, please. I need somebody, anybody.

I'm tired, so tired. But I cannot give in, I cannot sleep. To sleep means to die, I must stay strong. But my body can't take it anymore, perhaps I should just lie down for a while, save my strength until help arrives. Yes, yes that would be best. Save my strength. Help will be here soon.

I'm going to die. Oh god, I'm going to die! I can feel it, I'm going to die! Nobody has found me yet. No, please, I don't want to die all alone. Somebody, please find me. I'm so alone. I don't want to die.

I'm exhausted, I need to sleep. It may be my last, but I need to sleep. I'll just take a quick nap, after that we'll see what happens. I just really need to sleep. Fuck you!"

[What a pity that this human is so weak and died so quickly I thought I would have a bit of fun fighting] The dragon lamented and the Slaughter King wanted to nod but his eyes widened, turning round after he noticed unexpected and it didn't take long to the dragon's to feel the unusualness.

"Who said I've died?"

A voice reached the dragon's ears following a terrific impact.

KABOOOOOM!

Let's rewind time to a few seconds. It happened after Alex felt that he couldn't dodge the dragon's next attack, not because he underestimated the latter but because the traps he laid beforehand didn't work as he didn't know he would spend more energy if he wanted to lock the other party space power and the result was he felt into a predicament, he was about to die while it was sure that he would be revived until he reached satisfactory result for some reason Alex was unwilling, therefore he summoned Ego, he let him die in his stead while he used this opportunity to escape.

[What a pity that this human is so weak and died so quickly I thought I would have a bit of fun fighting] The dragon lamented and the Slaughter King wanted to nod but his eyes widened, turning round after he noticed unexpected and it didn't take long to the dragon's to feel the unusualness.

"Who said I've died?"

A voice reached the dragon's ears and it quickly turned its head.

But it was too late.

BANG!

By then, Alex who had switched into his dragon's form hammered his fists brutally onto its skull.

Its skull caved in, and its back arched out while its body flew down like a meteor before violently slamming into the ground. What generated a terrific impact?

KABOOOOOM!

Because his power got amplified in his dragon's form the double punch on the dragon's skull dealt a lot of damage because Alex's dragon bloodline was superior.

The man who thought that Alex died and was disappointed quickly changed his opinion and became looking forward to this fight.

Even though the dragon was caught off guard by Alex's trick and suffered an attack it quickly regained its calm and immediately launched an attack. The dragon opened its mouth, blowing out a black beam of light.

Alex leaped high in the air to dodge the beam of light.

Crash.

The beam fell on a rock some distance away. The beam disintegrated into black particles and merged with the air and soil.

"What the fuck?" Alex gave a glance behind and could not help and sucked in a breath of fresh air

The entire region suddenly turned deathly silent. The grass and trees rapidly aged while the small beasts fell on the ground, decomposing. Alex felt his scalp tingle in fear, what dangerous breath that was. If he was late by a millisecond he would have been disintegrated in an instant.

Since the beginning Alex was unable to properly use the sisters' abilities, he could not control time nor he could summon Nemesis's domain, which left him quite frustrated. Still, he decided to rely on his basic skills and try to survive as long as possible.

The two exchanged a couple of attacks as if they were trying to probe each other, this continued for seven minutes before the dragon decided to get serious.

The dragon was enormous with its tail as thick as two tree trunks. Yet its speed was so fast that it left a trail of afterimages as it swept past.

In just a moment, the tail fiercely smashed into Alex's chest.

BANG

The Black Prince was sent flying before he forcefully stopped in midair. He raised his hand and wiped his lips. A drop of blood was visible on the back of his hand.

"You are really getting on my nerves," His eyes narrowed and his aura turned stronger. He felt like this monster was not taking him seriously, and although he was unable to appraise the latter, he knew the dragon's level should be around Level 190, while the monster was undoubtedly stronger than the current him Alex didn't think that the gap between them was unreachable. Therefore he decided to fight to his heart's content, using whichever skills available to him.

Resolved to do anything to win Alex gripped his hand into a fist and vanished from sight.

"Teleportation?" The dragon was startled. It quickly turned around as the air behind twisted and churned.

But as the dragon turned, its eyes flickered with surprise as there was nothing but plain air. Behind its back, a terrifying tide of energy surged out and landed on its head.

The dark scales ripped apart to expose green flesh. The serpent was alarmed and it backed away, looking at Alex in amazement as he did not expect that he would combine three elements in one and with such ease that it was remarkable. He combined Space/Lightning and Wind to obtain a obtain a dreadful technique.

This technique was so dangerous that it bypassed the dragon's defense, resulting in an injury.

The dark scales on the dragon's back were ripped apart to expose green flesh. The dragon was alarmed and it backed away, looking at Alex in amazement. The dragon was forced to reassess Alex.

[Let's get serious.] The dragon declared before its body rapidly shrunk inside, turning into a human form.

Alex felt a suffocating pressure on his whole body and before he could move the humanoid dragon appeared before him and tapped on his forehead.

[Let's what your deepest trauma is. Will you get eaten by it or you will blossom into an Asura before that.] He immediately cast an illusion on him, the type of illusion neither Alex nor Kuina's mother could do anything about it.

Alex experienced his worst trauma, everyone has something they are guilty about or regretted and doesn't want to remember or touch, Alex was not an exception, for him it was the accident of his parents, it happened because he was throwing a tantrum on their way home and this would always haunt him, so relieving this trauma wasn't something he wanted and never would.

Making Alex remember this trauma was like stepping on his tail and the result was dangerous.

Instantly, his eyes turned bloodshot.

The world of darkness that he experienced again and again after his parent's accident faded and everything came back into sight.

BANG

The ground caved into a crater while the surrounding around him blasted into fine pieces because of the enormous pressure coming from his body.

Both the dragon and the Slaughter King were startled and quickly turned around. They were shocked by what they saw.

Alex's expression has twisted into that of a demon. There was bloodthirst in his eyes and even the air around him has turned crimson.

"Has it finally begun?" The Slaughter King wondered.

Meanwhile, Alex moved and a murderous voice asked from behind.

"You shouldn't have touched that."

The humanoid dragon felt a chill down his spine.

How could someone come so close to him without him detecting despite his current strength?

"There are some things you better never touch like Pandora's box because you can bear the consequences once released "

Before the humanoid could turn around or respond to the strange voice, he felt a hand clutching his neck. The next moment, his head was slammed into the solid ground.

Rock fragments penetrated his face from the impact and he shouted in pain and agony.

Everything happened so quickly that the humanoid dragon could not comprehend anything. He tried to free himself from the grip but felt helpless.

Perhaps his actions offended Alex more, and the next moment, a boot stomped on his back. He was in a strange form currently, a mix of dragon and Asura's form.

"AHHHH!"

The humanoid dragon felt his bones shattering into pieces.

In his entire life, he has only felt such helplessness in the presence of the Slaughter King.

Could this boy have reached the same level? No, absolutely impossible, how could he have his dignity trampled like this? No way in hell he would be letting himself get trampled.

BOOM!

A powerful aura burst out of the humanoid dragon's body, sending Alex flying but he controlled his body and forced the blood coming out down. He glared at the monster in front of him, the latter strength had increased and he might be mad because the dragon had touched one of his reverse scales but he was not a reckless idiot unable to judge the current situation and his current situation was that he would lose regardless of his momentary power boost, therefore, Alex made a reckless move.

Lifting his right hand he timely plunged it into his chest, directly aiming at his heart which he crushed.

Puff!

He vomited blood and his eyes started losing focus. This move caught the other two completely off guard.

"What?"

They were unable to understand what Alex's purpose was in doing what he did.

Meanwhile, Alex who crushed his own heart was in immense pain, a pain he had never felt before but he ground his teeth and endured as it was the only way he found to get hold of that power, and indeed he reached the crimson world where he found it, stretching his hands he approached it while enduring atrocious pain that could make even high-level ranker faint and possibly died.

Outside time seemed to have stopped, the Slaughter King wondered what Alex was trying to achieve and finally, he arrived at one dreadful conclusion and he immediately warned the dragon.

"Fall back!"

[What?]

Unfortunately, it was already too late, Alex had opened his eyes, and silver and blue eyes flared up but another eye appeared in Alex's forehead, a third eye, crimson in color.

And like an absolute monarch Alex declared.

"Asura's Devil's Eye!"

And the world turned upside down.

1055 Chapter 1055

"Fall back!"

[What?]

Unfortunately, it was already too late, Alex had opened his eyes, and silver and blue eyes flared up but another eye appeared in Alex's forehead, a third eye, crimson in color.

And like an absolute monarch Alex declared.

"Asura's Devil's Eye!"

And the world turned upside down.

The world surrounding them turned into a pure darkness and from this darkness, countless pairs of eyes emerged and every one of them was locked on the dragon forcing him to a standstill. Fear, as he had never felt before, engulfed his being and reached his dissipating soul, the powerful dragon shuddered and immediately admitted defeat.

"I admit defeat."

Alex who heard this nodded before canceling the Asura's Devil's Eye, he immediately went on his knees because of exhaustion, drowsiness engulfed his body forcing him into sleep, and gracefully embraced it and soon he fell asleep.

The humanoid dragon and The Slaughter King stood face to face and neither said a word for a moment as silence reigned in. This lasted for ten before the Slaughter King created two chairs inviting the latter to take a seat across from him and which he did.

[He really awakened the Asura's Devil's Eye, that race's ultimate eyes. I knew he was talented when you brought him in and when I saw how you were looking at him, like you have found a rare gem. No wonder, to think at the eve of our death we would find someone this talented. It's a shame it didn't happen sooner as we could have had enough time to train him. Well, maybe with his arrival on the other side things would change and that world and the other ones could be saved.]

"You are right but even so, I'm glad to have found a successor." The Slaughter King said and his words made the dragon's eyebrows rise.

[You want to give him that?] He questioned and the Slaughter King nodded.

The humanoid dragon chuckled and softly mumbled.

[You can't forget that grudge can you?]

The Slaughter King said nothing and the humanoid dragon carry on.

[How many years it had been? Thousand? Two thousand? Five thousand? Just let go, beside who knows if by now she didn't turncoat and joined the other side as many of our acquaintances have done. Let it go and move on.] The dragon advised and as expected his former enemy who later on became his friend, refused.

"Sorry, I can. I will let my successor carry that burden and achieve what I couldn't."

The dragon watched his friend for a moment and sighed heavily when he saw that nothing he ever said could change this man's decision.

[Do as you want I'll condense what is left of my soul into energy which will nourish the boy and earn him a few levels. Because he has a dragon bloodline, the process will be smooth sailing. I bid you farewell my friend and eternal rival, may we meet in the afterlife.] The humanoid dragon said before turning into a big mass of golden light, this light hovered in the air in front of the Slaughter King who nodded before the ball of golden light flew toward Alex who happened to be waking up at that moment.

"What the" He was unable to finish this sentence before the ball of golden light slammed onto his chest and penetrated it, at first he felt a warm current spreading across his body, it was pretty soothing energy capable of making anyone intoxicated and wanting more, it was an addictive sensation and just as Alex was about to feel this energy some more it happened.

The world seemed to spin around him and a sharp, throbbing pain took hold of Alex's, so much so that all the Black Prince wanted to do was vomit and hope the pain would come out with it. He tried but unfortunately, it didn't seem to work.

What if there was no end to this pain? What if it got worse? These thoughts alone were enough to get Alex's heart racing faster, never mind the pain itself. For a moment he thought about everything he might lose if he give in to the pain and everything that would come of it.

Rapidly, Alex took a deep breath, then another, and then another. A state of calm returned to his mind for a moment. But he managed to block out some of the pain by keeping his mind occupied with other tasks such as flexing and walking around. It wasn't ideal, but by the time he was done the pain will hopefully have subsided again. So he thought but fortunately, this was soon proven to have been the right method to use as the pain slowly lessened and the soothing energy washed over his entire cells and he felt tremendous strength coursing through his muscles, somehow his levels have increased and impatient to see the result, Alex summoned his status's window.

Upon seeing it, Alex couldn't help but feel a little amused as the corners of his mouth perked up. He understood that the dragon must have sacrificed himself for him to get so many levels, from Lv166 to 170 in one go, he couldn't be more grateful.

As for the change on his Asura's form (A/N: From Asura's Form to Asura's Forms, meaning there are many forms now); Alex decided to check them later during a fight. He was more interested in his new ability, the devil's eye but decided to check it later because he could feel the Slaughter King approaching, it must be time to inherit the latter Unique ability, Alex wondered what the condition would be, hopefully not something annoying.

And just as these thoughts flashed through Alex's mind, the Slaughter King arrived and said.

"He is gone and finally, it's my turn. Let's begin but first, let me tell you what I want you to do to me after inheriting my unique ability."

Alex indicated to the man to carry on and he did.

"There is a woman in the Higher world." While saying this the Slaughter King touched Alex's forehead with his finger, sharing information on this woman and what she looks like Alex must admit that this woman is beautiful, extremely so, among all women he had met thus far, this one topped them all in a matter of mature's charm. She was like a veteran succubus. If weren't because he had met many women, one more beautiful than the other thus he built a certain resistance to beautiful women Alex would have been smitten and foolishly declared that he would pursue this woman, he would and must get her, fortunately, he remained sane as he proceeded to ask the man what he wanted him to do by sharing information on the woman.

Pleased with his reaction, the Slaughter King felt that with Alex's temperament he should be able to carry the mission, and thus he declared the condition.

"Beat her, make her fall in love with you."

"I beg you pardon, can you please repeat what you just said?"

Rank 16 start from Level 190 to above Level 200.

A/N: More content will be added as the story progress. This template is only for Mysthia's World, the system on the other side, the Higher World is a little different and can be said to be the real one. Don't worry soon you'll see. Any suggestion is welcome on our discord server and if you want some characters to be created, we can also talk about over there. Should I creating a characters pool? Those that wish to see this channel created please step forward in the comment's session. Thank you all. Enjoy

1058 Chapter 1058

While Alex was in another realm, the realm of the soul to awaken and inherit the Slaughter King's Unique ability, in the outside world something was happening.

Artemia woke up and saw Alex in a deep sleep, she went to the bathroom and came back shortly later.

"He looks so cute when sleeping. Yawn! I'm sleepy again."

She unconsciously yawned, her eyelids drooped, and her body slowly slumped onto the bed as he gradually fell asleep.

Ashy sky, brown ground, and a hint of grey mist spreading everywhere.

Depression, despair, desolation.

This was the first thing Artemia saw upon waking up.

"It's the same nightmare again..."

She felt completely helpless.

"Wake up! Wake up! Wake up! Wake up..."

She tugged violently at her arms and face skin, trying to wake herself up from the nightmare, but to no avail.

Unless a certain time was reached, she would remain in the nightmare.

Ugh~ Ugh~ Ugh~

A strange sound came to her ears as if someone was choking, accompanied by a rustling and dragging sound.

"Here it comes..."

A wail went through her head.

Very quickly, the grey mist not far on her right dispersed, and a tall, stiff humanoid figure appeared right in front of her.

The humanoid figure's complexion was pale, the eye sockets were sunken, and there were no eyeballs, only a pair of empty holes.

There was a long slit on the face, which allowed him to clearly see the greyish-white facial bones as well as the dark flesh and blood.

The humanoid figure was stiff and sluggish, wearing a uniform similar to the defense team's uniform, but it was very filthy, covered in dirt.

Nearly identical to the zombies in movies that often appear in movies on Earth, if Alex was here or other Earthlings, they would have identified this thing as a zombie, however, to Artemia, to the princess this zombie was more than a zombie, it was a comrade she went through a lot with. So naturally, she felt pained to face her former comrade who had turned into this, recently she kept having this nightmare, the same nightmare where she would her former comrade turned into Zombie.

As this became repetitive, she was getting annoyed because of this, being forced to repeatedly kill her former comrades with whom she shared a lot of years with wasn't without consequences. In recent days her mood had become quite forlorn and she appeared to be a bit distant.

Although Alex thought that she was distant these days because he had been neglecting her, this assumption was wrong as she was distant because of nightmares she kept having.

She continued walking forward, the more she went forward the more zombies she killed, she felt pained but because of what happened before she slept she wasn't that depressed anymore, she killed them. She knew this place, the destination was ahead, a city which upon a time was the most beautiful city in the world.

During that apocalyptic war, it was destroyed. The black fog became thicker the deeper she went.

Finally, she arrived at her destination. She looked in the direction in front of her.

The grey fog dispersed like flowing water, and the outline of a ruined yet magnificent structure slowly appeared in her field of vision.

"Finally... I'm here..."

The legendary city of the proud dwarven race: Babylon.

Right at the moment despair and oppression weighed heavily on her heart like a boulder.

Artemia moved quickly, but her steps were light. She wanted to quit but unfortunately, until she reached the end she would not wake up.

The closer she got to the massive city, the more zombies there were wandering in the grey fog, and as the number increased, the strength of the zombies also continued to increase.

Although she appeared closer to the majestic city in fact it took her twenty minutes to reach the city.

One could imagine just how big the scale of the city was.

Artemia finally arrived at the foot of the massive city. This magnificent city was displayed right in front of her.

It was hard to describe just how big this city was.

The entire city was surrounded by towering city walls reaching the towering height of fifty, right now these walls were broken.

It's difficult to imagine any force in the world breaking through such an impenetrable line of defense.

But she knew what was responsible for this and when she saw these broken walls, memories from the past come crashing down like a flood.

"In the first year of the apocalyptic war, the ground fractured and a large number of monsters emerged from it in the northern part of the continent, the alliance was quickly overwhelmed, they were forced to relocate but on their way to retreat the southern part of the majestic city of Babylon was breached and started the massacre, thousands died in a day, ten thousand in the second day by the seven days million was dying...."

Buzz!

As she recalled those memories, Artemia's brain seemed to be struck by a heavy hammer, and the buzzing was incessant. She had a terrible headache.

As if this served as a waking up she was forced out of those painful memories. She performed a set of breathing exercises to help her calm down.

While those nightmares did resemble each other, there were some differences like tonight, she had never reached this city.

Maybe if she entered this city and reached the end, she would stop having those nightmares, Artemia had this feeling and the only thing left was to check whether this feeling was spot on or it would be proven wrong.

Artemia walked into the city with light steps and as soon she entered, everything around her darkened almost as if she got swallowed in the mouth of a giant beast.

On the outside she appeared to be calm like the surface of a lake but not on the inside, she was quite anxious wondering where she would appear and finally appeared before him.

"Finally, you arrived I was tired of waiting." The dragon said while looking down at her. Artemia shuddered and unconsciously took a step back.

'Why out of everything she had to meet him?'

The situation seemed hopeless.

1060 Chapter 1060

Artemia walked into the city with light steps and as soon she entered, everything around her darkened almost as if she got swallowed in the mouth of a giant beast.

On the outside she appeared to be calm like the surface of a lake but not on the inside, she was quite anxious wondering where she would appear and finally appeared before him.

"Finally, you arrived I was tired of waiting." The dragon said while looking down at her. Artemia shuddered and unconsciously took a step back.

'Why out of everything she had to meet him?'

The situation seemed hopeless.

"What are you doing here Bahamut?"

Artemia asked while cautiously stepping back. Out of everything she was expecting to see, facing this dragon was none of them. He was the one responsible for the apocalypse w although it was because they opened the world door, there was no denying that this beast was responsible for the tragedy.

"I was waiting for you I have a proposal for you." Bahamut's shadow ignored her question but instead focused on his goal.

"I'm not interested." Artemia flatly refused, she did not want to hear anything from Bahamut as no matter what the other party would say it would be poisonous.

"Oh?" Bahamut's shadow said before attacking.

Swoosh!

And even though Artemia was on guard, fearing something like this to happen and yet despite all her preparations she still got stuck in the chest as she flew across the hall before her body violently slammed onto the wall at the other end of the big hall.

A burning sensation radiated from the princess's chest. A fist clamped onto her skin, nails digging deep into the flesh in search of relief from this agony. Surely this pain would stop soon. Surely there's an end to this. She wasn't so sure and ready to give up because of it. Several voices echoed through her head. Some tell her everything will be fine, others tell her it won't be.

She took a deep breath, then another, and then another. A state of calm returned to Artemia's mind for a moment. But she desperately kept her mind busy with mindless tasks, but nothing helped to ignore the pain.

"Tell me how did you remove your curse? Is this the boy doing?"

"Cough! Cough! Don't ask questions to which you already have the answer to. You are nothing but a shadow of the real thing so stop acting as if you're a big deal."

While saying those words Artemia stood up and wiped away the blood coming out of her mouth, she was afraid thinking about what she would do if this was the real deal but fortunately for her and unfortunately for the shadow of Bahamut, he was not the real Bahamut, probably a shadow born from the curse previously on her soul, he must have escaped somehow when Alex was curing her and he was now here to do a last ditch effort, to accomplish something before disappearing like a dying amber.

She confirmed this after she got attacked, under the real Bahamut's attack, her soul would have been crushed. She knew this better than anybody. But after confirming that this thing was not strong as the real thing she was furious at herself more than anything, furious that she got easily scared and now she wanted to vent and there it happened to be something she wanted to test.

The ground started freezing as she got up from the hole the impact of her body crashing into the wall generated.

"Status!"

[New Unique ability acquired: Frozen World]

Immediately upon seeing the name of this unique ability, Artemia felt like it was an ability she had a long time ago, she instinctively understand how to use it and the shadow of Bahamut happened to have launched an attack that moment, a more powerful and devastating attack, however, everything, even the dream world came to standstill when Artemia called out the name of her unique ability.

"Frozen World!"

He was annihilated and Artemia was forcibly brought back to reality, too exhausted because of this ability, she immediately fell into a deep slumber.

.....

Back to Alex's location.

He was still processing what the Slaughter King had said, his condition was a bit unusual if he must say but when the other party confirmed this again and again, he could only acknowledge the man's condition.

"Good let's start, I don't have much time left." The Slaughter King beamed after getting Alex's promise, his left hand moved like a whip before suddenly piercing his chest.

Alex could feel something being forcibly transferred from the other party inside his body, it was an extremely painful process, so painful that it cost him his vision.

Alex's vision went blurry as tears filled his eyes. Biting the pain was barely an option as agonizing cramps seemed to crush his insides from within. Every part of the Black Prince's being ached for an answer to this feeling of misery and any answer that could bring relief was one worth considering. For a second he considered listening to his body which was telling him to stop, to just give up and drop to the floor.

He let out a moaning yelp, part desperation, and part determination. He had two options: fight or give up. But he was no longer able or perhaps simply unwilling to deal with the pain right now. Ready to block out both the pain and the world he closed his eyes and patiently waited.

Buzzz!

Finally, after what seemed to be an eternity Alex was forced to open his eyes z the pain subsided and he heard a buzzing sound, following a notification sound.

[New ability acquired: Unique ability (Enhanced) inherited from xxxxxxxxx Nickname The Slaughter King.]

"That's good, have a nice journey and don't forget your promise." The Slaughter King said before his body started to slowly fade away. It was a shame they his time had arrived and he could not stay behind and watch over this interesting boy. Still, he didn't regret it as he was able to meet someone this outstanding in his final hours.

'Be blessed.' He played, he who didn't believe in any God. He hoped for a less hellish road for Alex, may he reach his final destination without changing too much.

"And one last thing, once in the Higher World never tell anyone that you have 3 different bloodlines, especially the Asura's and the Dragon's bloodline, you will be hunted down." The Slaughter King left behind this last message, a warning which was engraved deeper in Alex's soul.

With this Alex was forced out, he didn't meet the girls (Silveria and Nyx) before waking up in the real world.

Alex got up from the bed and went to freshen up and after he was done, sitting on the edge of the bed he summoned his status window. It was time for some experiments.
