911 Chapter 911

"It is now or never," He thought. For the last five minutes, their group has felt life turning into hell.

"Die!"

Pandora would defeat them and slice their bodies apart. Before they could die, she would then heal them to their initial condition.

This was the third round, and none of them wished to experience a near-death state.

The man threw a punch. His punch twisted the air with sparks flowing in all directions. He has bet everything on this strike.

"Don't worry the others will follow soon," Pandora said with such a nonchalance that enraged the man when he recalled everything they went through since this devil appeared. Rumor has it that Elves dislike fights, but this one was the opposite of that; she was the devil's incarnate, and she was more fit for their organization than any of those present.

The furious man shouted while his fist smashed onto Pandora's fist.

Terrifying energy waves radiated out from the point of contact. The entire warehouse was filled with intense rumbling sounds, and dust clouds as the floor wrecked open and the walls shattered.

The others were pushed back. They waited for the settle down and saw what happened as the two clashed.

They didn't expect Pandora to be killed as it would be absurd; if it were this easy, they would have killed her already; the only thing they wanted was she would at least be injured enough for them to escape.

For years they have undertaken arduous training to fight enemies but never before have they been taught on how to face someone like Pandora.

She was like a devil; she would batter them till they almost die and then heal them to their previous state. All the while, she would taunt them with words.

They have seen the smirk she would have on her face when she slices apart their bodies. There was hatred in her eyes, but yet, not for a moment; they felt that she didn't take joy in their suffering.

Swoosh~!

The smoke cloud ripped apart, and the two figures were revealed. One was lying down with his limbs spread while another one was standing without least bit of injury.

The survivors fell into despair.

It happened at that moment. Pandora mumbled under her breath.

"Spirit of the Earth strengthen my body." An invisible earthen glow covered her body ,most importantly her feet. She stepped forward right after.

CRUNCH!

"AHHHHHHH!"

The man on the ground released a blood-wrenching scream with his body releasing a bone-fracturing sound. He felt as if a mountain had struck him.

"Ehh!" Pandora said with a smirk, "Sorry, I forgot you were in front of me."

LIAR!

The man tried to curse but alas, all he could do was spray out a mouthful of blood. He was furious beyond words.

The others looked at Pandora with terror-filled eyes.

They felt they weren't wrong!

She truly took pleasure in toying with them!

p "She is a sadist!" One of them concluded with his voice containing dread.

"Sigh! Let's play one more time."

They felt the world spinning before them. Surely she must be joking, right? They had this faint hope, but it vanished after seeing the smirk on Pandora's face.

"Don't worry, this time will be the last." She promised, but the others weren't in the mood to believe her.

Each of them of them felt their hearts becoming empty with fear.

They didn't fear death, but they dreaded the physical torture. No amount of training from virtual simulations could prepare them for this.

"Ahhhhhhhh!"

The torture restarted again.

After what seemed to be an eternity, she stopped and wiped the blood on her hand. She still had that sweet smile on her face.

"Aren't you satisfied after torturing us so much?"

Horace asked with his voice containing anger.

"Satisfied?" Pandora's smile faded. Her eyes turned cold.

"Not even killing you for thousand times could satisfy me after the crimes you have committed."

"We have done no crime!" One of them shouted.

"We have only done what is necessary to save the world!"

"Stop your useless preaching. I'm not interested. You have your reasons for doing what you're doing, just like I've my reasons for doing what I'm doing. I take joy in crushing you bug from the Chaos organization." Pandora interrupted them as she was not interested in anything they would say. They were brainwashed already.

"Did you just think we are brainwashed?" Horace asked as his intuition told him it was what Pandora was thinking.

Pandora shook her head and thought Ignorance was actually a kind of happiness, just like how some people believed that they weren't brainwashed. Still, in fact, they were always accepting the intelligence of the brainwashing. Some people believed that they were the ones who controlled their fate, but weren't aware that everything they did was predetermined in their lives.

She wouldn't argue with them on this subject. It's like a drunkard; he would never say he was drunk even when he was drunk.

"Let's continue." Pandora declared, and immediately some even fainted, scared of the pain they would feel. They were fed up already.

Pandora didn't care about their feelings; she continued to torture them. She didn't know how often she had begged the scientists to stop their experiences, but they never listened to her pleas. They kept doing it again and again. Until she became twisted beyond repair, her original personality wasn't like this, but after undergoing inhumane experiments, she changed. Not even her parents could recognize her if not for her face.

She had turned into something twisted. Before she completely lost her sanity, Alex saved her; even if it was not his original goal, she was still grateful for his help. He accepted her without judging her; this made Pandora fully accept who she had become.

As she said, she enjoyed torturing bugs from the Chaos organization; this gave her a sense of fulfillment she would find nowhere else. She would torture them to her heart's content.

The poor group could only suffer again until they died under the devil's hands. Pandora was truly ruthless, and she enjoyed every torture session like a child in a candy store.

Sakuya checked her status after killing a few monsters and leveling up; she didn't waste time and spent her bonus skill on her agility stat, finally reaching the two thousand mark. Afterward, she spent her skill points on the QuickDraw and Two-handed skills.

"Now, let's go down." She mumbled while her left hand rested on her second katana.

From atop the mountain, she observed the forest down. Her eyes glittered as she observed the beautiful forest beneath the mountain.

The forest was full of excessively tall and lush vegetation, with deep emerald green color flooding the entire region. Some trees were so towering that their crowns blotted in the sky.

"Hah!" Sakuya sighed before jumping from hundred meters; she observed the forest while her body was free-falling and the wind caressing her skin.

Suddenly, she witnessed a fight that made her chuckle.

A giant black tiger was fighting against another giant monster, a giant eagle-like monster.

The giant bird eagle was flapping its wing ferociously as it looked at the tiger with hatred.

The tiger leaped out from the branch while spitting a stream of red-hot flames like a flamethrower. The giant eagle's body flashed, and a terrifying radiance of green rose from its wings that shot towards the tiger.

Swoosh!

BOOM

The branches shattered as two oppressive forces collided and formed into a mushroom cloud, destroying everything around them; the wind blades shot by the giant eagle seemed to have fueled the tiger's making more violent.

The giant eagle backed away from the increasing flame, but then it saw the tiger rushing through the flame. Before the bird could react, the tiger grabbed its head with its claws and dived toward the ground.

Crack!

The tiger broke the eagle's neck as its fangs penetrated deeper into its neck; the tiger dug into the dead eagle's core and swallowed it before swallowing the flame. Everything happened too fast, and normally the tiger should have left, but once the monster felt Sakuya's presence, the tiger wished to kill.

Roar!

The tiger roared while glaring at Sakuya, who was now a few meters above its head. Before the monster could open its mouth and spew flame again, Sakuya attacked.

Shing!

THUD!

Sakuya landed on the ground right behind the tiger, and shortly after, the latter body fell on the ground and was cleanly cut into two. Just before the monster could attack, she executed a QuickDraw; she moved her katana at the speed of light, cleaving the monster into and unsheathed the blade even before landing. It was so cool that she was excited; she didn't regret spending four skill points to max out this skill (laidō).

"Let's kill more monsters. I must not fall behind." She mumbled while thinking about the others.

The group had initially thought they'd be together, but it only happened on the lower floors; starting from the seventh floor, they got separated. Although Sakuya didn't know where the others were, she was sure that they must be using every opportunity to increase their level. It's a competition, so naturally, she wouldn't want to fall behind; besides, she must work harder as the gap between her and Alex widens. She was not too happy because of this. She must be powerful enough to provide some assistance if the need arises, not stay still and be protected forever; she is not a weak weapon. A strong relationship is about the exchange; you protect me, I protect you; it's what she believed.

Sakuya was not completely sure about Alex's other women but especially her; her desire to catch up to him was really strong, and she didn't want to lose.

"Fufufu! This is going to be fun. This forest is really dangerous." She could feel danger lurking everywhere here, and it was exactly what she needed.

Sakuya dashed through the forest, solely relying on her speed which had increased. Her figure blurred into a series of afterimages, and the next moment, she was standing in front of what appeared to be a river stream.

Her lips immediately curled up as six tall level 80 gray wolves pounced on her the moment she arrived. It was almost as if they had been waiting for her.

Sakuya was calm as the wolf's claws sliced through the air like a saw. She put her hands on her katanas and lowered her head.

"Nitooru!"

"Sakura's dance!"

In the next instant, it was as if sakura had blossomed; Sakuya moved at such a speed that it was hard to follow. Two blades danced amidst five wolves, killing them in an instant.

The leader of this pack had sensed immense threat right after initiating the attack, so the leader delayed its attack to escape.

"Hum? Where do you think you're going, my precious XP?" Sakuya appeared before the level 90 gray wolf and asked.

The wolf almost stopped by, still attacking with its claw; however, Sakuya chuckled.

"There is something I wished to try, and you will do fine as a guinea pig." She said before clenching her fist tightly and punching it out. Sakuya's fist glowed in dark green light.

The wolf felt a deep sense of crisis but was in no condition to dodge after coming so close. Before its claw could strike the opponent, the wolf sensed intense vibration transmitting to its body.

The punch hasn't struck the wolf, but somehow the dark green light infiltrated its body and cascaded in its body as vibrations!

CRACK

The destructive energy rampaged throughout its body, shattering all organs and smashing its backbone instantly.

The wolf leader was sent flying backward while its mouth fell open, and it vomited blood. It crashed on a giant boulder, and the destructive vibrations from the wolf's body transferred to the boulder.

BOOM

The boulder instantly exploded into dust while the wolf's body followed, exploding into a gory mist.

Sakuya's eyes widened as she was beyond surprised by this outcome. She went silent for a moment before laughing.

"Fufufu! I'm a genius."

914 Chapter 914

The wolf leader was sent flying backward while its mouth fell open, and it vomited blood. It crashed on a giant boulder, and the destructive vibrations from the wolf's body transferred to the boulder.

BOOM;

The boulder instantly exploded into dust while the wolf's body followed, exploding into a gory mist.

Sakuya's eyes widened as she was beyond surprised by this outcome. She went silent for a moment before laughing.

"Fufufu! I'm a genius." She was elated to have created a new skill. She decided to name this skill dimensional punch temporarily. She combined the Wind and Space elements to create this skill; she teleported wind using the space element into the wolf's body. This sounds pretty simple, but in reality it was really hard to execute; she used her ingenuity to do it.

Sakuya's real goal for creating this skill was not just a punch; she wished for some defensive skill using the space elements. Just imagine if you could transfer your enemy attack to another dimension just as they are about to touch you? Maybe you could transfer them back to them? Would it be cool, right? Yes, it will. And this is what she was trying to create. She had a lot of ideas and would make sure to create the deadliest skill she could create using her brain just by imagining this.

A chill crawled up her spine as she realized how awesome this skill would be if she were to succeed.

The corners of Sakuya's lips couldn't help but tilt upward.

"Let's get started." She mumbled before heading deeper into the forest, searching for more guinea pigs.

Unbeknownst to her, she had just gained a new skill, and it was not even level one; it went past the first level to level 3. [Dimensional Art Level 3]

Demon's continent, inside the abyss forest, also known as the Desolate forest or the Black land. It is thousands of kilometers long forest acting as a natural frontier between the demon's continent and the human continent.

The Desolate Forest was shrouded by darkness. The light from the stars was almost non-existent at this late in the night.

In the forest, the night was far more dangerous than the day.

Dangerous monsters lurked in every corner, looking for prey. Their super-enhanced vision didn't hinder them in the slightest as they proceeded on their hunt. However, a few hours ago, those monsters who sat on top of the food chain were getting slaughtered like cattle, and the one responsible for this was a single human female.

"H-human.... just...why..?" The two-headed mutated ogre mumbled with difficulty as the white-haired girl punched a large hole inside its chest.

The white-haired girl did not answer; she turned heel and departed, not giving the last overlord of this region a level 140 monster. The two-headed mutated ogre could only sigh before its body fell to the ground, and it breathed its last breath, and its eyes were filled with unwillingness. She was damn too strong and a real slaughter queen.

The white-haired girl was none other than Alice; after helping Lilith in her revenge, she left to train and increased her strength. She is her master's weapon, and a good weapon must be sharp and useful; this is only possible when she is strong.

Slowly but surely, she started learning to think by herself and became more and more like a human. She could now feel different emotions, anger, joy, and fear. She didn't wish to be discarded; this started when she reported to her master that she had successfully finished the assigned mission; however, what Alex said made her brain stop working. He said, 'do what you want from now on.'

At first, she felt troubled, but soon this turned into anxiety, then fear. She was someone who had always followed someone else's order; to her, following orders was her raison d'être; she was created to carry orders, this was her only way of living, and even after switching owners, this didn't change. Everything she had done before Alex said that was to follow someone's orders.

So, one could imagine her confusion when she was told to do whatever she wanted from now on? What could she do on her own? Nothing she thought, Alice tried to appeal to her master, but unfortunately, he did not allow her to do so. He immediately cut off the communication, and since then, he has been unreachable. Scared Alice, who was thinking she would be discarded, sought Sera, but she didn't help her as she wished even after she told her of her fears. The only thing Sera said was.

"There is a saying: The wise let fear school them yet never fool them, for then they are ever free to learn, to make better choices, to become heroes. You should learn."

She left after saying those words. Alice meditated on this quote and thought back about everything that happened and finally understood that knowing her master; he must have a goal in mind; it was probably why he did that. There was no way Alex would discard such a valuable piece he would be using forever.

For the first time, Alice used her brain and concluded that her master wished for her to learn, to be able to decide on her own. To learn, desire, and feel emotions because she was more than a tool to him.

From that point onward, Alice learned to make a choice, to decide of her own volition, and her first wish was to increase her strength to be a valuable tool for her master. It was not perfect, but she's learning, which is precisely Alex's intention from the beginning.

It had been almost one day since she started fighting monsters to increase her level. The number of monsters she killed in twenty hours has reached a staggering amount of thousand. She slaughtered monsters as if it was not hard, and there was something she learned besides leveling up, which is she enjoyed this.

Unconsciously the corners of Alice's mouth lifted into a smile, but this smile soon vanished when she felt her presence.

915 Chapter 915

Unconsciously the corners of Alice's mouth lifted into a smile, but this smile soon vanished when she felt her presence. She wanted to meet her again. She had wanted to meet her again, especially after what happened last time; the humiliation she suffered that day was still vivid in her mind as if it happened yesterday.

Without hesitation, Alice spent all of her skill points she had been keeping until now as she didn't wish to lose miserably like last time. And after killing thousands of monsters, she had leveled up once, bringing her closer to the Demigod realm, thus increasing her skill points.

With such stats, she was more than ready; however, just as Alice was about to face her again, her presence vanished as if it had been an illusion all along.

Her disappearance was replaced by something else.

Awoooo!

Suddenly, seemingly out of nowhere, the sound of wolves howling reverberated inside the forest. Some distance away from Alice, a pack of Level 80 mutated wolves scuttled out of bushes with a timely jump.

Their eyes were filled with bloodlust as they rushed towards Alice from all directions. They leaped up in the air and opened their ghastly mouths after closing into her.

The entire pack has sealed off all points of retreat, their claws striking down with the sound of air slicing apart.

"What a timely appearance," Incursio's lips curved in a smile, "It is exactly what I needed."

"Dark Golden Wave!" She mumbled; this skill is a mix between the darkness element and lightning element.

A golden destructive force surged out of her body like a tidal wave. The force concentrated into small threads as it shot into the wolves.

HOWL! Awooooo!

The wolves wrathfully roared as the destructive force coursed into their bodies. The annihilative force of two elements engulfed their entire bodies, and they could only scream helplessly as they were torn into pieces.

Alice licked her lips, relishing in the afterglow of leveling; never like before the sound of leveling up had felt so sweet. She was now Level 141, a quasi Demi-God. Maybe she could step into that realm tonight if she could kill her.

Talking of her, she reappeared after Alice killed the pack of wolves.

"Wow! You have become stronger since the last time we met, my little sister." A small girl coming from nowhere said and stood not too far from Alice. There was a striking resemblance between them which is there were the same hair color, white and red eyes.

Alice glared at her, something Incursio had expected but what followed next was something she hadn't expected.

"You could have appeared immediately without sending your goons, or was it because you're scared?" Alice asked with her head tilted to the side.

Incursio was totally caught off guard and froze for a moment before bursting into laughter.

"Pft! Hahahaha! What was that? Are you trying to be funny?" She inquired but seeing Alice still have the same expression as she said those words, Incursio chuckled. This indeed confirmed what she felt when she came; this little girl was changing.

"Well, well, not only you become stronger, you're becoming cocky as well. It's how you reward your big sister who sent you a gift to level?" Incursio asked while her expression was changing slowly, becoming cold. For some unknown reason, she felt pissed when she saw that smug expression on Alice's face. She wanted to smash that face against the ground to erase such expression from her face. Normally, it was her who should be making such an expression.

It took Incursio a lot of control not immediately smash Alice's face against the ground because if she were to do that without accomplishing her goal, it would have been meaningless the reason for her presence here tonight. Even so, she must teach this junior how to behave before an elder.

"You know you've started to piss me off, and you need a little lesson. You should respect your elder sister." Incursio declared with a smile. She might have lost most of her power, but with her current level, it was more than enough to teach a little kid a lesson.

Alice's face contorted when she saw the smug expression on Incursio's face. It's here again, that expression of superiority, she acted as if she was some kind of superior being, she was more complete than her, it was something that really made Alice angry, she felt like a fake in the presence of this girl, like a copy before the original. While it's true that Incursio is a successful experiment, the first ones, the unique ones, and the others were created after them, using their genes, meaning they are copies of the two originals. This does not mean that it should behave in this way. It was insulting, and Incursio could feel her junior hatred, not that she was doing it consciously.

"I can feel your hatred but fret not. I didn't come today to kill you but because I have something to talk about. You don't have to be that on guard with me." Incursio tried to show Alice that she didn't come in hostility, but the way she talked irked Alice more than anything. She could still feel that air of superiority from her. To her, that was trying to prove herself, to live up to her master's expectations; she didn't want to lose her place. She couldn't tolerate it; she couldn't be weak before Incursio.

Alice had no idea that the feeling she was feeling now was jealousy and inferiority complex. To her, she doesn't want to lose.

"Shut up, you bitch." Alice said a word that was completely outside of Incursio's expectations.

916 Chapter 916

Alice had no idea that the feeling she was feeling now was jealousy and inferiority complex. To her, she doesn't want to lose.

"Shut up, you bitch." Alice said a word that was completely outside of Incursio's expectations. So much that for a moment, she thought she had misheard why the following question.

"I didn't hear you well. Please can you repeat what you just said?" Incursio asked with a smile. However, while she appeared calm on the outside, on the inside, it was not the case; she was really furious. So furious that she almost released her killing intent, something she was sure it wouldn't do anything good if she were to do it, she would kill her on the spot resulting in Alex's wrath, something she couldn't let it happen. Hopefully, this little girl would know how to behave and not commit another mistake. Incursio had hoped, but unfortunately, reality sometimes differs from what one hoped.

"I said shut up, you bitch and bring it. You talk too much are you a grandma?" Alice repeated what she had previously said while adding a bit of spice. It was unknown where she learned these words, but she felt refreshed after saying them.

There were two reasons why she was being this brazen; the first one was because she felt that the current Incursio was weaker than she used to be, extremely weak, maybe there were at the same level, and the second reason was because she was trying to anger her, not because she thought she would act recklessly once angered but just because Alice was trying to show Incursio that she was not so perfect as she wished to portray. To put it simply, the second reason was because of jealousy. Do you think you're perfect? Then I shall drag you down from your golden throne. It was what Alice was thinking. Without a doubt, it was a childish thought, but she was still a child.

"I see. Good, really good. I was planning only to teach you a lesson, but now I've changed my mind. I will break your arms and legs. Like this the next time you will know how to talk to your elder properly." Incursio said as her expression turned cold as the coldest ice. She immediately added.

"While it is true that I've fallen in level and you and I have the same level currently. It doesn't mean you should have smug because I'm still above you. And it's because I don't wish to return to that realm without completing a mission." The last part of her sentence was said rather inaudibly, so Alice didn't pay too much attention to it; rather than that, she was more focused on Incursio's status, which she voluntarily displayed to her to see.

'What the hell?' Alice almost shouted this. She wouldn't have believed what she was seeing if she had not seen it. What with these broken stats? Isn't too unfair? Life has never been fair but what with this unfairness? And it was not her real strength; Alice could feel it. This left her wondering how much absurd Incursio's real stats would be? She was curious, and despite the difference between them, she was not afraid she was excited. She would surpass; she would consume her. This dangerous and absurd thought suddenly appeared inside Alice's mind, and she couldn't discard it. Something deep sleeping within seemed to have awakened, and she had this desire to consume the girl before her.

Unconsciously, Alice's eyes began to shine ominously, something Incursio noticed; it was exactly as she feared; this is why she was here when she could have gone into hiding to recover her strength. She must take care of this time, boob.

While it was true Alex had successfully made Alice his servant; there was something he was not aware of. Maddog created Alice and others using dragon's blood, human and other species' parts. To put it simply, there are like chimeras but in better shape. The dragon's blood naturally contained chaos energy from the chaos seed, extremely berserk energy. Maddog's goal was to create beings like Zero and Incursio capable of using the purgatory form without consequences, without turning mad or turning into ash after repeatedly using it.

There was a hidden mechanism inside the chaos side, the gluttony state. If not controlled properly, you will turn into a mindless puppet that only knows how to kill and devour everything; it doesn't matter if it's humans or monsters; literally, she would do everything. Alice also has this gluttony state inside her, berserk state. The reason Incursio came here was to help her control it and not cause trouble for them later because if it's not controlled, the Chaos organization would come after her as she was the closest to the first originals: Zero and Incursio, also known as Adam and Eve (Incursio disliked this name.)

'Time to take care of this before more troubles arise.' Incursio said before vanishing. She swung her sword aiming at Alice's neck.

Alice vanished, turning into a puff of smoke; Incursio had hit empty air. She was not surprised.

Alice, who reappeared behind her, raised both arms toward Incursio's back and shouted.

"Wrath of the Flames!"

A vortex of flames started to shoot out from her hands like a Gatling gun. The flame was extremely violent and burnt the air and surrounding trees instantly. If Gracier had been here, she would have been shocked because this flame, although it looked normal, was extremely dangerous.

However, Incursio showed why she was called a monster; without turning around, she fired ice balls toward the flames.

Kabooooom!

A powerful explosion rang out, engulfing the two; Alice immediately went on the defensive guarding her back; however, Incursio appeared before her.

"Sorry, but I like attacking from the front. From the start, you stood no chance: this is not a fight but a beating. Alice vs. Incursio 3 should wait until you're strong enough. You should sleep and enjoy your big sister's gift." Incursio declared and pierced Alice's heart with her sword; the latter couldn't do anything as the cold blade pierced her heart, and she lost consciousness right after.

"Good, let's wait," Incursio said while letting Alice's body sleep on the ground.

917 Chapter 917

The dark clouds that covered the sky retreated, and sunlight shone down on the Desolate forest.

Yawn!

Alice stretched after waking up. She felt refreshed as if she had just taken an extremely long nap; not only that, she felt stronger than me, which brought a smile to her face until she remembered what happened before she lost consciousness. She immediately lowered her head to check her chest, only to find out that it was perfectly fine apart from a bloody hole left being by Incursio's sword.

"Oh? Finally, the sleeping princess woke up." Incursio's voice rang out next to her, forcing Alice to look in her direction. There she sat leisurely with her back against the tree. She still had that annoying smile on her face.

For a moment, Alice was overwhelmed by emotions and shouted.

"Why didn't you kill me? Are you perhaps looking down on me?"

Incursio's expression instantly turned cold, and she remained silent for a while. Even Alice stayed silent as an awkward silence filled the air, leaving only the sound of swaying leaves.

At last, Incursio opened her mouth and asked,

"Are you an idiot?"

The unexpected question caught Alice completely off guard so it took her a little time to return to her sense.

"Ugh! I'm not an idiot." She responded, finally calm.

"No, you are; if you weren't, you would have understood after waking up and feeling the change inside your body that I did what I did because of something, and after that, you should have asked the question, what did you do to me instead of that dumb question." Incursio rebuked Alice before explaining to her.

"Ugh!" Alice felt ashamed and lowered her head. Incursio wasn't wrong; normally, after waking up and feeling that something was different, she should have done a more in-depth check-up before asking for an explanation from the one responsible for this because this happened after Incursio's sword pierced her heart, giving her the illusion that she was dying.

Rationality was one thing, while her emotions were something else. Overwhelmed by emotions, she couldn't properly think, so she ended up saying something she shouldn't have said.

"Forget it; just check your status before we continue," Incursio said, helping the troubled Alice. She understood that when you're overwhelmed by emotions, you could do something normally you wouldn't do. Besides, one tends to forget that while Alice has a teenage body, her mind is still that of a child; she is still learning.

Alice slowly nodded before immediately checking her status, and she got pleasantly surprised by her new status.

Finally, she became a Demi-God, just like her master. She became one of the most robust existence in the world. Not only was she now one of the strongest existences, a demigod, but her mana's reservoir had also increased, and few of her stats experienced a drastic increase as well, making her stronger than normal early Demigod.

Although Alice was happy, she pushed this happiness aside to ask questions.

"What did you do to me? Why did I become so strong suddenly?" Alice's eyes were sharp as she asked these questions. There was a hint of coldness mixed within.

However, Incursio was unfazed; she even put one leg above the other and relax before responding.

"Wow! You are more level-headed than I thought." She praised Alice before finally deciding to answer her questions for real.

"I know you must feel a certain urge to destroy things the more you use your strength. The urge to swallow things."

Alice was shocked because, for a while, she kept having this feeling of wanting to swallow everything. It began right after leaving Exodus. She hadn't told her master just because she thought it was a temporary thing; however, it wasn't, and one night, as she was on a mission, she woke up early in the morning to see bloodied hands and blood around her mouth. She was scared, but no matter how much she tried, she couldn't recall anything, and she dropped the matter soon. But she remembered that morning she felt satiated like never, almost as if she had eaten herself until she was full. It was a disturbing feeling she wished not ever to remember.

Seeing Alice's emotions through her eyes, Incursio knew she must have experienced the same thing as the other subjects.

"It's called the gluttony state," Incursio said before explaining what this meant. It is a state that resulted from the after-effects of the chaos seed (A/N: Maddog did this.) that made you go berserk, turning you into a beast capable of swallowing anything and everything to satiate your overwhelming hunger. Incursio explained that she took care of the problem, converting the side effect into XP and letting Alice's body consume it.

The gluttony state was located in the chaos seed, which was located deep inside the heart, and to be able to reach it, she could only pierce her heart, and she must do this when the chaos seed was less expecting it if not it would have defended itself, moving the gluttony state away. Although it was called chaos seed, it was more like a parasite that leached off its host while corrupting its host mind while at the same time providing immense strength; however, there is a catch, the more you rely on it, the more corrupted you'd become, only exceptional beings like Incursio and some others were not corrupted. As a reward, they could use the real strength of the chaos seed, namely the purgatory form and the complete form of the purgatory skill.

Alice was not like Incursio, but she still managed half to subdue the chaos seed with her master's effort however, the tide was changing because of the gluttony state. It would have worsened if Incursio hadn't intervened.

Alice was grateful for Incursio's help, but there was a question she was burning to ask, and Incursio could feel it.

"Go ahead and ask." She said.

Alice nodded and immediately asked.

"I'm grateful for your help, but why did you help me?"

"It's because we are sisters, and I want your master to be my sugar daddy." Incursio calmly answered; she even put a smile on top of it.

"Huh?"

918 Chapter 918

Alice was grateful for Incursio's help, but there was a question she was burning to ask, and Incursio could feel it.

"Go ahead and ask." She said.

Alice nodded and immediately asked.

"I'm grateful for your help, but why did you help me?"

"It's because we are sisters, and I want your master to be my sugar daddy." Incursio calmly answered; she even put a smile on top of it.

"Huh?" Alice tilted her head to the side, confused.

While she could understand the first sentence because her master had updated her on the recent events, she was left confused by the second sentence. What did she mean when she said she wanted her master to become her sugar daddy?

Despite not knowing what the sugar daddy meant, Alice felt some unpleasant feelings, and once again, she was overwhelmed by her emotions and shouted.

"Hell, no!"

It was Incursio's turn to be overwhelmed by emotions as she rebuked.

"What do you mean no?"

"No, it is no." Alice stubbornly refused and repeated her previous sentence. She wouldn't agree to her master becoming sugar daddy or whatever dangerous fantasy this Loli was having.

Incursio could feel that Alice was being serious and she felt compelled to massage her forehead.

"Listen, you punk. Children shouldn't stick their noses into adults' business. You're too young to understand. I have decided to make him my sugar daddy, and there's nothing you can do about it." The small white-haired girl declared, and she seemed pretty serious as she said those words, but even so, Alice wouldn't give in.

"I refuse. I'm a child, but you're a Loli. Master doesn't need a loli." The angry Alice shouted. She used a word she often heard from Sakuya when teasing Gracier.

"Ah? What did you call me? A Loli?" Incursio asked while standing. Her eyes were glowing. It was her first time hearing this word, but she felt like it was not something good; she felt insulted.

"Heek!"

A chill crawled up Alice's spine as she realized what would happen to her if she were to stay and explain to Incursio what the word Loli meant. She would undoubtedly die, she might have become a demigod, but she was not arrogant to believe that she was Incursio's match. She wasn't, and she had the feeling that she could never be her match; she was like the Himalayas mountains that kept growing.

Alice ran away and refused to answer Incursio's question.

"Stay still, you punk. Youngest nowadays are disrespectful toward their elders. Ehh! Stay still, didn't you hear me?" Incursio shouted, but Alice had already run two hundred meters.

Incursio shook her head before giving chase.

The two began running around as if they were playing. They were both smiling like sisters.

Unknowingly they have gotten closer. Today marked the beginning of their relationship as sisters sharing the same gene.

Once again, Incursio was reminded that she had made the right choice; joining Alex's side was the best decision ever because exciting things kept happening around him. She had heard a new word and was hell-bent on making him her sugar daddy. She wondered what kind of reaction he would have if she told him? She couldn't help but look forward to it.

Meanwhile, back in the Ice land, the named dungeon.

Alex resumed training while Artemia was looking after the still unconscious Maria.

He was inside the same forest as last time, and he was facing two men as well. The names Mark and Marcus were above their heads. They were around level 125.

Initially, they were a group, but he killed them only the two strongest. Alex was using them as his guinea pigs to test his abilities. This forest was like Silveria's illusionary battlefield.

Today Alex had decided to challenge her, the strongest existence he knew. He was fully aware that he couldn't win with his current strength, but he was sure that he could last longer than usual, and who knows, maybe he could force her to use her real strength.

Seeing Alex so distracted before them, the two men were enraged. They don't know how many years they have been here, but when they saw someone new, they thought finally the opportunity they had been waiting for in this frozen world had arrived; however, reality would always be different from fantasy. What they thought easy prey had turned into a dangerous beast that slaughtered them as if they were a joke.

However, this dangerous beast was distracted, almost as if mocking them. Saying they weren't even worthy.

"Your mother, stop looking down on us. Fuck that bitch." Marcus swore as he tried to attack the distracted Alex.

However, Alex, who should have been distracted, glared at Marcus before disappearing.

He appeared right before Marcus and slammed a fist into his face.

Marcus didn't even get time to notice the attack as his jaw bones and teeth instantly shattered into pieces. He flew out like an arrow and collided with a tree trunk.

Meanwhile, Marc backed away, but then he felt an ominous presence behind. Before he could turn, a fierce kick landed on his back.

"AHHHH!"

Marc cried out in pain, his stomach carved out, and his spine was torn apart like frail glass. His face turned deathly pale, and he fell to the ground.

Alex crushed the man's skull before appearing above Marcus, who was wriggling his body in pain.

"What did you say, you asshole?" Alex was furious that someone dared insulted his mother; it's taboo to talk dirty of his parents.

"Ple...please spare me!" Marcus begged. The pain had wiped out his arrogance, replacing it with the sensation of approaching death.

"And why would I do such a thing?"

Alex asked as he slowly approached her like the grim reaper. He first broke Marcus's leg's then his arms before crushing his family's jewel.

"!!!!!!!!!"

In the end, Marcus died of pain.

Nyx appeared right after, and Alex suggested.

"Let's start."

She slowly nodded. The fight resulted in Alex's defeat as expected; even with his level increasing, he couldn't win. He didn't even last two seconds, even in his Asura's Form.

"Why not use that form you're unconsciously pushing away?" Nyx had suddenly made this suggestion.

919 Chapter 919

Nyx appeared right after, and Alex suggested.

"Let's start."

She slowly nodded. The fight resulted in Alex's defeat as expected; even with his level increasing, he couldn't win. He didn't even last two seconds, even in his Asura's Form.

"Why not use that form you're unconsciously pushing away?" Nyx had suddenly made this suggestion.

"Hum? What are you talking about?" Alex asked, confused.

However, instead of directly explaining to him. Nyx began with a question.

"What happened when you made that contract with your sister?"

"Our blood became mixed. So what?" Alex responded but was still confused.

Nyx looked at him as if he was an idiot.

"Idiot!" She insulted him.

"What?" Alex was shocked, not because he was called an idiot but because of the emotion on Nyx's face when she called him an idiot. She was annoyed.

Alex stayed silent and began to contemplate; soon, he understood, and he couldn't help but smile.

"I understand. After the contract, she gained a part of my blood while I did the same. One of the benefits is that her race changed because I'm a high human. I've also acquired something from her, her dragon bloodline, perhaps?"

Nyx slowly nodded, and Alex's chest started beating loudly. It would be a lie if he said that he had never envied his sister's dragon form because it's cool and really powerful.

However, while he was happy to hear he had a dragon's blood mixed in him, there was still something he did not understand.

"If I really have a dragon's blood in me, why it's not shown on my status?" He asked while summoning his status.

As expected, there was nothing on his status that showed that he had dragon blood. There was a new change in the synchronization rates, but he didn't have the time for that right now.

"You already have two top tiers of bloodlines. The other one is hidden, and if I hadn't told you, maybe you couldn't have awakened it. Did you see dragon's race in your sister's status?"

To this question, Alex shook his head. Nyx continued with her explanation.

"And yet she could use. This is because of her contract. Ignia especially did this, and you indirectly benefitted from it."

"I see. It must have been because of this my physical strength increased. I thought it was because of my second bloodline from the Asura's race, but now I'm sure it was not completely of that." Alex was finally able to understand why his physics had changed so much.

"I understood you, and thanks for telling me this, but can you tell me how can I awaken it and use the dragon's form?" Alex asked, filled with anticipation.

"Now that you are aware of this. Previously your Asura's bloodline is trying to suppress; however, it will let you have access to it. Just feel it and connect with it." Nyx explained how he should do it, but he was more curious about something else.

"So my Asura's bloodline is trying to suppress the dragon's bloodline. Is-"

Before he could finish, Nyx corrected him.

"Your Asura's bloodline is trying to suppress not only your dragon's bloodline but also your High human's bloodline."

"What?" Alex was alarmed. He didn't want that because he didn't know what to turn into if he only had Asura's bloodline.

"Don't worry, it won't happen because we will have found a solution by then," Nyx said, reassuring him.

"Ok." Alex nodded before closing his eyes, trying to reach the dragon's bloodline deep inside his body through his consciousness.

A miniature Alex traveled inside his body to the deepest part of his body where there was blood and behind this door was what he was after. The miniature Alex entered and observed his surrounding.

Firstly, he felt a familiar bloodline, his original bloodline; the second bloodline was crimson and had an air of ancientness to it, and lastly, there was the bloodline smaller than the others; this bloodline was emitting heat. Without a doubt, this was what he had been searching for.

The miniature Alex tried to go toward the third bloodline; then it was, a tentacle shot out from the second bloodline, trying to smack him to the side; however, a pair of ice-blue eyes appeared, frightening the second bloodline, and it became obedient.

The miniature Alex nodded at the ice-blue, feeling grateful for its assistance. She didn't talk too much, but she was always reliable more than Silveria. The miniature Alex vowed to bring her out often, to go on a date with her. He wanted to be closer to Nyx.

Shaking his head to focus on the task, the miniature Alex finally arrived before the third bloodline and touched it.

Immediately, he was swallowed by a flame and disappeared; he reappeared in a world full of flame, and standing there was a beautiful lady in red.

920 Chapter 920

Immediately, he was swallowed by a flame and disappeared; he reappeared in a world full of flame, and standing there was a beautiful lady in red.

Even though nobody had told him the identity of this woman, Alex instantly knew it. The dragon goddess of fire, Ignia.

"Welcome, I had been waiting for this. Nice to meet you. I'm Ignia, as you might have probably guessed." The lady in red introduced herself, and as expected, it was really her.

"Nice to meet you too," Alex said before bowing.

"Thank you for giving my sister a chance. Please look after her for me." He added.

Ignia was shocked as she wasn't expecting something like this. Still, it makes sense knowing how much Alex loved his sister. He was doing this for his sister's benefit.

Ignia laughed and promised.

"Don't worry. I will. She's my daughter, after all. Besides, I don't want to lose to those two." The last part was said almost like a whisper, but Alex still heard them.

"What do you mean?" He inquired, but Ignia didn't answer. She only chuckled, and Alex decided to drop the matter as unimportant.

"Come closer," Ignia ordered, and Alex nodded before closing the distance between them.

Even standing in the middle of hot lava, he didn't feel the heat. He understood that it must be Ignia doing.

The two were now face to face; her golden eyes were gorgeous; he wished he could admire them, but he couldn't because an enormous pressure was pressed down on him every time he stared into her eyes.

"I won't do that if I were you if you don't want to be crushed, that is," Ignia warned before touching Alex's forehead. A warm sensation immediately filled his body before he started vanishing.

The last thing he saw was Ignia giving him a warm smile, the smile of a mother to his son.

"Make sure not to die." She said. Those were the only words she said to him. Alex wished to reply, but before he could, he disappeared; however, he didn't forget her words. He had never planned to die anyway. He must live on no matter how hard it would be in the future because many people depend on him, so he would do his best to survive.

*****

Back in Nyx's world, Alex's conscientiousness reappeared inside his body, and he shouted.

"Dragon's Form!"

BOOM!

His body was immediately surrounded by golden flame before vanishing.

Alex stood there in a new form. His height didn't change; however, everything else changed. He got a single horn on his forehead, a black dragon tail; his hair had elongated and was now crimson like a flame. His left eye was golden.

Loki switched form into a long coat with an open chest and black pants. It gave him a bad boy vibe. The air around Alex was twisting, and the temperature had risen alarmingly.

Nyx nodded, satisfied. It was worth the trouble.

"Wow! I feel incredible. I feel like I can crush a mountain barehanded." Alex was like a child that got a new toy. He was overjoyed. As soon he activated this form, he felt two things, firstly, he could use a powerful offensive ability with his gun, and secondly, he could use a defensive ability with the Eternal chain.

He immediately summoned Silveria.

Nyx teleported him into the middle of a mountain range and decided to observe from above.

Alex, in his dragon form, aimed the silver gun at the mountain a few kilometers from his location. Golden patterns appeared on the silver gun.

『Huh?』 Silveria exclaimed as she felt a strange sensation; she felt powerful suddenly.

Meanwhile, Alex immediately pulled the trigger.

[Meteor Bullet]

Bang!

A gunshot rang out, and a crimson bullet was shot. Even with his enhanced sights, he couldn't follow the bullet, it was too fast, and something shocking happened.

Kabooooom!

That mountain he selected as his target was erased; there was a big hole that even reached another mountain behind. The big hole was emitting heat.

"Wow! What destructive bullet." Alex was impressed even when he felt a huge chunk of his mana disappearing after using this bullet. He checked his status.
