

Death Guns 991

991 Chapter 991

While Alex was busy checking his status, the empress, who was hiding somewhere observing the latter reaction, could not help but frown after seeing him standing there with a leisurely face; he was even smiling.

"What is he doing? Does he feel nothing being put under my illusion?" The empress questioned but quickly shook her head.

"There is no way that's true. Then he must have gained something, or he's doing something. Let's check what you're doing, little son-in-law. Hopefully, this body might be able to bypass your defense." The empress mumbled while preparing herself for a tough challenge when appraising Alex, but surprisingly, she faced none. What made her tilt her head?

"Huh?!"

Still, she attributed this to Alex being distracted as he was busy checking his status.

'What? What with those names? And above everything else, since when did he become so strong? His level has almost caught up to mine. And here I thought he still had a long way to go. No wonder Leo is praising him nonstop, warning us not to look down on him. I've finally understood how he could accomplish everything he has done. He's a real monster.' The empress swallowed hard. She knew Alex was strong but not to this extent; her shock was so intense that she unconsciously stared into his eyes to ensure he was not an old man with a youthful appearance.

However, this was a mistake; she shouldn't have done that because it was exactly what Alex wanted; for this reason, he purposely let his guard down. One should know that since the start of this little game of the empress, she never looked into his eyes as she heard that he had special eyes.

"Got you." Alex declared with his lips curling up to form a smile.

"Oh! Nooo!!" The empress cried out; she understood that she had made a mistake and immediately tried to correct it by switching location, by creating another illusion; unfortunately, it was already too late.

Wearing a nasty grin resembling someone on the verge of torturing a poor sheep, Alex shouted.

"Illusion World."

Immediately both his eyes shone, putting the empress's body on a momentary pause; she thought she was at the end of her surprise, but what happened next went beyond all of her expectations. The two lights, the red and blue, combined on Alex's forehead as if to give him a third before turning into illusionary purple eye and when this third eye opened, goosebumps rose all over the empress's body; she immediately understood that the roles got reversed, she was now the prey in the other territory. However, she would not go down so easily; she must uphold her dignity as an elder in the Illusion department.

"Let's see what you've got, Boy." She said with a provocative smile, but she soon regretted this action.

Alex got her good.

One question raced through Alex's mind when he acquired this ability which was what kind of world should he create to paralyze his opponent temporarily? A battlefield filled with corpses? No, this is too cliché; then what a dungeon with a tough boss? That's also a no.

Then Alex got a perfect idea, why not use some scary he experienced recently, which shocked anybody who heard about them? Yes! He would make an illusion world based on the secret weapon of the Chaos Organization. It would create a Demon in his Illusion World.

It was not easy, he almost spent more than half of his MP, but it was worth the trouble.

The empress appeared in what appeared to be a dungeon, where she was confronted with an intimidating beast of terror and darkness. Two enraged eyes stare at you with an eerie foreboding, and another crash surges from its foul mouth with a tremendous heat.

Magma-like skin adorns its withered head, which is devoid of expression. A plume of shadow escapes the creature's skewed nostrils within a withered nose.

Its withered head sits atop a thick, sinewy body. Chains are stuck within its flesh, but you don't wish to find out the probably horrifying specifics.

The creature strides toward you; its four legs elegantly carry its glowing body with composing energy.

Two narrow wings extend themselves fully. Skin-covered bones and ripped membranes stretch upward, and forcefully descend with a powerful gust. The creature's eyes were still affixed on the empress, making her swallow hard as fear, an emotion she had forgotten a long time ago, resurfaced.

"It's checkmate."

It was what the empress heard before her world turned dark.

"Tch! It is not the real empress; the real empress is stronger than this." Alex said with a sigh as he left the Illusion World.

993 Chapter 993

Back in the real world, the empress kneeled and coughed blood as soon as she returned. An intense pain assaulted both her fragile mind before traveling through all of her body, but it momentarily stopped.

However, soon enough, the pain flared once more, and every muscle in the clone's body tensed up. Straining to keep standing, they waited for the pain to subside again, as it had previously done; unfortunately, it didn't stop, and panic slowly took over as, for a moment, a way out of this pain began to seem more and more unrealistic. The empress's clone took a moment to gather her thoughts, but even this proved a hassle and a pain as conflicting thoughts corrupted her mind.

Fortunately, there were some calm moments, moments when the pain was easy to manage and even easy to ignore, but they didn't last. But it was all too much for her. It was clear nothing could be done, and nothing would get done as she didn't wield power the original hold. She was nothing but just a clone created using one tail.

She would have never thought, not even the empress would have expected Alex to possess something so scary, and the most frightening thing about all of this is that Alex had not completely grasped this ability yet.

She temporarily forgot about the frightening thing she had seen which dealt her heavy damage, and the empress was already thinking about how to polish this uncut gem. This is a god-sent opportunity; not only her first plan would perfectly work, but a new variable has appeared, and smart as she is, it would be a shame not to make use of this variable. She might not know the full extent of Alex's personality, but from what she heard and gathered so far, he would undoubtedly be grateful if she were to help him to improve further; no, she could help him reach a higher height by creating a new ability, she was capable of helping accomplish this. She didn't wish for anything excessive such as her son-in-law helping her conquer the world but just wanted to have him eternally grateful to her, and most importantly, this would ensure that her daughter would be put in a better position inside the harem. No matter where they would go in the future, he would never forget this generous mother-in-law who taught him when he was still in the middle realm.

The empress's lips could not help but curl up to form a smile, and right at that moment, Alex appeared.

"So where is the original?" That was the first Alex asked as soon as he reappeared.

"Sigh!" The clone of the empress sighed, displeased that Alex didn't seem concerned even after seeing the blood on the corner of her mouth. She wiped it away as she sat around a meeting time which magically appeared. Alex said nothing as he sat across from the clone.

"She at a meeting with the other rulers of the continent."

Alex understood that this meeting must be a special meeting only the rulers of the beastsmen continent would attend. The empress must have been impatient, thus sending her clone to meet Alex and play a little prank on him, but she would have never expected to be the one to suffer a loss. This clone, although not strong as the empress herself, she was still at the Saint Realm, and with the empress's specialty, she was sure to win even against a new Demigod but only when she put them into her illusion. However, not only was Alex more powerful than she had expected, he even had a similar ability as her, this caught her completely off guard, and she lost.

"That is a nice ability you have; there just needs a bit of polishing, and it will become more dangerous. I will teach you during your stay here." The empress proposed, and Alex's eyes widened; he didn't expect this. When he was thinking about how he should train this ability, such a tempting offer came; despite knowing that there was probably a motive behind this, he couldn't absolutely not say no as he didn't know when he would find someone known as the empress, there's Kuina, but her experience was abundant as her mother.

"Thank you, I will gladly accept this wonderful offer. Please take care of me, Teacher." Alex declared while bowing respectfully.

The corners of the empress's lips curled up to form a gentle smile as she said.

"Good boy!"

The corner of Alex's mouth twitched; he truly disliked when others, even though older than him, called like that, but he said nothing and was about to speak when the empress raised a question with a severe expression.

"Alex, what is the thing I saw in your Illusion World? You can't create something so scary, so sinister if you have never seen it once, no matter how incredible your imagination is. So, mind telling me what is that abomination?"

Alex sighed; he had expected questions like this the moment created the demon, and this could be perfect to spread the news all around the world. As he was sure that once the empress's clone learned this, she would immediately alert the other rulers at the meeting, and maybe a world meeting would shortly take place to inform everyone of this important piece of news.

Finally, he opened his mouth and told her everything he knew.

After taking everything in and digesting, the clone felt compelled to massage her forehead as a headache threatened to assault her.

"So, this thing is called a Demon. Unlike the demon, we know it's one of the Chaos Organization's trump cards in the incoming war. Is I got everything right?"

Alex nodded, and the empress immediately fired another question.

"Since when did you learn this information?"

"On my way here."

The empress nodded in understanding and asked another question.

"Have you -"

Before she could finish, Alex cut her off mid-sentence.

"I have personally seen one, and the girls fought one. I want you to relay this information to the others, and if possible, you can call out for an international meeting where you will share this information. After all, you have seen how fearsome that thing can be even if it was not the real thing." He suggested, and the empress went silent for a moment, but it was a short pause.

What Alex, her son-in-law, suggested was a good thing; this information was not something she should keep to herself; she must immediately share it.

Having decided to inform the others as soon as this meeting ended, the empress was happy, happy for the simple reason that Alex chose her to inform the others that her position as a new empress, the second one in the world where men dominate would be strengthened. Alex must have known this; he was indirectly helping her, which made the empress extremely happy.

"Thank you." She was not ungrateful, she immediately thanked him, but Alex only smiled in response before saying something to lighten the mood.

"You don't have to thank me, it's normal to help my mother-in-law; after all, we are all but one family."

The empress's gold eyes widened; he might have said this as half joke, but still, somewhere deep, he must have thought this way, which was enough to please the empress. Now than ever, she was sure that Alex was the son-in-law she had been waiting for; he was the perfect husband material for her special daughter.

"I see that since our last meeting, not only your strength has improved by leap and bound, but your tongue has progressed as well. I hope you won't go around chasing women with your sweet tongue?" The empress said with narrowed eyes, and Alex immediately felt a chill run down his spine. He couldn't meet her eyes.

"Of course not."

"It is good that you know." The empress said, pleased with Alex's sincere words. The corner of her mouth lifted into a smile. She extended her hands, clapped twice, and soon after, a maid drifted towards them, the empress only stared into the latter eyes, and she immediately understood what her master wanted. The maid with five fox tails disappeared and reappeared shortly with a platter containing tea and snacks.

,m After serving them, she disappeared like a puff of smoke. Alex almost couldn't detect her presence even when she was so close and was serving him.

'What terrific skill. She will make a perfect assassin. And to think someone like this is just a maid? How scary my mother-in-law force is?' Alex was curious about how powerful the force under this woman with a gentle smile was.

He felt like this woman should not be underestimated; if a new empress was this scary, then how scary Typhania, the elven empress, would be?

"When will you marry her?" She immediately brought this question which made Alex spit his tea as he didn't expect this question. Still, he answered.

"When everything will calm down. I will hold a great wedding, and everyone will be invited."

"I'm looking forward to that day." The empress said with a gentle smile. She was indeed looking forward to such a day.

994 Chapter 994

"When will you marry her?" She immediately brought this question which made Alex spit his tea as he didn't expect this question. This question was too sudden, so he was caught off guard still; he answered.

"When everything will calm down. I will hold a great wedding, and everyone will be invited."

"I'm looking forward to that day." The empress said with a gentle smile. She was indeed looking forward to such a day.

Alex was shocked beyond words; he had expected some rebuttal, but unexpectedly the empress didn't say anything; she quickly accepted his answer, which made Alex feel grateful.

"Please see my daughter as soon as you leave the palace; you must quickly improve your strength. Please lead them." The empress said, her tone suggesting that she wouldn't take no for an answer.

Naturally, Alex was not going to refuse her suggestion. Even without the empress's suggestion, he would have done the same thing after they came here for a purpose which is to strengthen themselves.

"Rest assured, mother-in-law, we will survive this calamity." Alex declared, his eyes full of confidence. If it were another youth, the empress would have dismissed this declaration as a mere boasting before his Mother-in-law, but coming from Alex's mouth, it holds another meaning. This youth is known for accomplishing the impossible. So the empress was confident in him.

"Please look after my daughter. I will see you as soon as I come back." The empress said before dismissing Alex.

At the same time in a private palace owned by Kuina.

"Reporting to the master, your order has been carried."

"The Supreme Army already has 10,000 listed candidates, and a second group is now being formed."

A female general had her hands clasped respectfully.

Inside the palace, Kuina, standing with her hands behind her back, was staring out of the curtained window. Her face was a mask of unfathomable depth and calmness, but it was difficult to hide her proud posture radiating from her flowing golden robes.

She was currently immersed in her thoughts, her beautiful, fairy-like features looking a bit dazed as the solemn words interrupted her daydream.

Kuina nodded.

"Very good. Go back and continue monitoring them? I want you to personally train a special elite team that could carry out a mission undetected and swiftly like the wind itself, understood?"

She gave her next order without looking back and that female general nodded before disappearing as she appeared.

Kuina stood still for a moment before vanishing; it was almost as if she had teleported; she immediately combined her pure speed and Illusion magic to create this illusion. She materialized inside a garden; she was surrounded by green scenery, flowers everywhere her eyes went; finally, she stopped on a daisy flower; she soon appeared lost in thought as Kuina mumbled.

"As a girl, I loved the daisy flowers for their daring simplicity, their tenacious spirit, growing where they weren't supposed to and yet bringing more beauty to our street. In the springtime, the daisies sprouted to the dismay of the gardeners, their perfect lawns looking more like the meadows they yearned to be. I never thought about the meaning of the daisy flower until I was a woman, too old to make chains in the late afternoon sun. The daisy is about loyalty to love and commitment, and I'm all about that. My garden is for the cornflowers, the poppies, buttercups, and, of course, the daisies. Grasslands are natural communities, not monocultures. That's why lawns are such hard work; they're going against the natural way."

"As a woman, I did what I have, and as his future woman, I'm doing what I think it's necessary; hopefully, my plans work as it will mean my efforts are not for naught. It's the time to go back; he must have left mother's place." Kuina declared as she inhaled some natural air. She vanished like an ethereal fairy soon after.

Unfortunately, Alex didn't come back that night; she could meet him the next day.

Next, under the Foxia empress's demand, a world meeting would be held somewhere.

The forest was gigantic, shadowy, and archaic. Its canopy was claimed by maple, spruce, and elm, and sparkling light dancing between the branches allowed for a diversity of plants to make use of the nut and seed-covered grounds below.

Swooping creepers suspended from the occasional tree, and a potpourri of flowers, which were seen occasionally, clashed with the otherwise monotonous forest grounds.

A variation of animal noises, which were caused by foraging beasts, resonated through the air and formed a chaotic orchestra with the trickling sounds of a gentle river stream.

On a lone Hill stood a Palace, and that Palace was high up on the hill overlooking the forest, its many pointed towers giving it the look of an eccentric crown. The walls were a white stone glistened in the summer sun, and the roof was grey slate. There are sculptures in front of the palace; these sculptures in front of the palace had been made long ago by masters of the craft; it seems to recount some kind of story, probably the second world war, the Bloody War, it was called.

The palace's interior was beautiful; all stair rails were ornate mahogany, carved and polished, so they shined. Furniture was all handmade by master artisans. Nothing ever got dirty; in the center of the palace stood a giant golden door, and behind these golden doors was a throne hall.

Slim braziers enclosing each of the six granite columns light up every part of the throne hall and engulf the throne hall in a brilliant glimmer. The paintings of angels and cherubs on the curved ceiling dance in the flickering light while stone effigies look down upon the obsidian floor of this opulent hall.

A crimson rug runs from the throne down through the center and splits into two paths leading out while swallow tail banners with gilded crowns swing gently from the walls. Between each banner hangs a lantern; they've all been lit and, in turn, illuminate the paintings of legendary creatures below them.

Massive, stained glass windows are edged by curtains colored the same crimson as the banners. The curtains have been adorned with impressive needlework and gilded linings.

In the middle of that room was a beautiful big black table; around this gigantic table were more than ten chairs, and sitting on most of these chairs were the big shot of the four continents.

Today, the world summit was about to begin, and the people sitting in this big room were here for this.

The women were sitting on the left side. Starting from the representative of the Elven empire, to the Foxia empress, to women with big status such as Freya and Elseria, the guild master of the Adventurer guild. Nobody questioned her being placed on this as her status was equal to an empress, and none of those present could say otherwise as they knew how powerful this woman with a gentle smile was. Even the newly crowned empress of the demon's race, Lilith, made an appearance.

Sitting on the right side across from the women were the empress and kings; naturally, the Drexia empire, which was considered the strongest empire, was their representative.

"Welcome, everyone. Let's not waste time and immediately start this meeting. All the big shots are rarely reunited in one room for a meeting; the last time it happened was more than two hundred years ago. I'm happy that our generation is the next one to initiate this meeting. Without further ado, let's begin the meeting. The Foxia empress is your turn to talk."

Kuina's mother nodded and looked at everyone's face. After making sure that she got everyone's attention, she flicked her finger, and immediately a big screen appeared before everyone; before most of them could ask what the fox empress was trying to do with this, a scene appeared on the screen, shocking them to the core, they felt like they got teleported directly to the scene where they witnessed something out of their dreams.

Just like the empress back then, they were confronted with an intimidating beast of terror and darkness. Two enraged eyes stare at you with an eerie foreboding, and another crash surges from its foul mouth with tremendous heat.

Magma-like skin adorns its withered head, which is devoid of expression. A plume of shadow escapes the creature's skewed nostrils within a withered nose.

Its withered head sits atop a thick, sinewy body. Chains are stuck within its flesh, but you don't wish to find out the probably horrifying specifics.

The creature strides toward them; its four legs elegantly carry its glowing body with composing energy.

Two narrow wings extend themselves fully. Skin-covered bones and ripped membranes stretch upward, and forcefully descend with a powerful gust. The creature's eyes were still affixed on everyone, making most of them swallow hard as fear, an emotion they had long since forgotten a long time ago, resurfaced.

"It is a demon the Chaos Organization is creating." The Foxia empress's voice reached them, bringing them back to reality.

995 Chapter 995

"It is a demon the Chaos Organization is creating." The Foxia empress's voice reached them, bringing them back to reality. Except for Lilith and Elseria who were already aware of the demon, the others were shocked and their faces was a sight to behold.

"Care to explain where do you get this information from, Foxia empress?" Julius asked with a dark face, the other rulers had the same face, this situation was dire.

"My son-in-law kindly shared this information with me. He was the one that suggested that I call for this meeting." The Foxia empress didn't hide anything and told everyone that it was thanks to Alex this meeting happened and that he was the one who acquired this piece of valuable information.

"Your son-in-law, stop playing around Em-?" The emperor of the Far East empire questioned. He was wondering since when this cunning woman had bestowed her only daughter to Alex.

"Do you wish to get beaten up again Ren?" The empress glared at the Far East emperor as he was about to call out her nickname only few know.

"Now, now, postpone your lovers quarrel for later." Julius intervened, stopping the two who seemed that they could jump on each other throat at any moment.

"Tch!" The Foxia empress clicked her tongue in annoyance and the Far East emperor just sighed, to think he would react so impulsively in front of a childhood crush after so many, many he hadn't gotten over his feeling after do many years after all.

"So, Alex is the one who shared this information with you?" Julius asked. He felt like this meeting would not progress if leave things as they are, so he decided to be in charge of the meeting from now on and nobody seemed to be against this arrangement as he was not only the strongest ruler, he was also skilled in this endeavor, so naturally nobody opposed him.

"Yes, he is the one that shared this valuable information with me. Although I don't know all the details, he said he came across this on his journey, not only this, the girls also faced a demon."

"You mean they fought one?" One of the rulers of the principalities, King Richard asked and the Foxia empress nodded.

"I see, we should ask them to share their experience with us later to prepare a countermeasures. Knowing more about the enemy we will help us in the future as it can prevent less casualties and less mistake." Julius said before looking at Elseria, wanting to hear her opinion, she might not be an empress but her status was equal to any of them present and in a term of strength Julius's intuition was telling him that he was not this woman match and his intuition had never failed him.

"I just received information on my way here. I believe that we should watch for middle and high rank dungeons as those are the places most used to raise our troops level." Elseria said as soon as she felt Julius's eyes on him.

"Okay let's do that. Let's each take out few men to form a special unit, the special Anti-Demon squad. That boy Alex will also participate as he knows better than us about this demon's thing and above everything else his status isn't less than any of us present here. What do you think?"

Facing the Drexia emperor's suggestion, there was no need to think to deeply about it, those present were all old foxes, they could see through each other intention and they all understood what Julius was trying to accomplish here and could not help but chuckle, this suggestion was like him, it's his way of doing things.

"Let's do that." Julius declared after seeing that nobody seemed to be against his suggestion.

Afterward the meeting continued and only talked about common problems, this continued for one hour and finally it was the time to put an end to this meeting.

At the end of the meeting, Elseria left with Lilith and the Kuina's mother.

"Ren follow me, let's spar. I'm itching to test how much you have progressed." Julius said to his long time friend, Saeko's father could only sigh, because he knows better than anybody that once Julius became like this the only thing to do is to accompany him until he was bored or else they wouldn't be an end to the amount of trouble that would follow, besides he also desired to know how much he had progressed, maybe he could win against his friend for once.

.....

Foxia capital, in one of the best inn in the capital. Alex rented a room and the reason for this was simple, he wanted a space for him where he would calmly think of his next plan. He got a new idea after acquiring that Illusion World ability and after talking with Kuina's mother. He had to talk to Silveria.

Silveria's world, she decided to meet Alex after he said he had something to talk about.

"So, what do want to talk about?" She asked him after serving him a tea. The intoxicating scent of the tea's leave wafted into his nose.

He didn't immediately answer her question, Alex first enjoyed the tea and once he was done he stood up and asked.

"Fight me, there is something I wished to confirm?"

"What?"

Naturally, Silveria was surprised but she didn't thought too much about it, she wanted something to vent her frustrations on and Alex just proposed to be this thing, so she could not say no to such generous offer.

"Okay." She accepted and they switched place, appearing in the middle of a silver plain, silver sand was everyone.

Alex looked at his surrounding and nodded. His heterochromia eyes stared directly into those beautiful yet dangerous silver eyes as he declared.

"Bring it and you better go all out if you wish to not lose that is."

"Oh?" Even if she knew it was nothing but a provocation, Silveria was still pissed, therefore she went all out and the result Alex's heart tightened and a chill went down his back as cold sweat covered his hands and feet; a feeling of unease clawed at his heart.

He still lost, in less than five seconds on top of that.

997 Chapter 997

"Bring it, and you better go all out if you wish not to lose, that is."

"Oh?" Even if she knew it was nothing but a provocation, Silveria was still pissed; therefore, she went all out, and as a result, Alex's heart tightened, and a chill went down his back as cold sweat covered his hands and feet; a feeling of unease clawed at his heart.

He still lost in less than five seconds on top of that.

"Huff! Huff! Ah! I knew I'd lose, but I managed to confirm what I wanted to confirm." Alex said, lying on his back, his clothes completely drenched.

Silveria sat beside him and observed him in silence for a moment before finally opening his mouth to ask.

"You did this with a goal in mind, right?"

"Yes, I wanted to confirm something."

"And were you able to confirm it?" Silveria asked, fully aware that Alex must have confirmed whatever he wanted to confirm, just that she was not sure what this thing was.

"Yes, but before you can ask what this thing is, follow me first," Alex said before leaving Silveria's world; from now on, he decided to call it the silver world or Nemesis's realm.

Although she did not know what her master was planning, she still followed him.

Alex returned to their mansion; he made eye contact with the girls, and as soon as Silveria walked, there was an explosion.

"Happy birthday!!" Shouted everyone.

Silveria became frozen on the spot, overwhelmed by what was happening.

"What the hell?" She said in disbelief.

"Happy birthday, Silveria. As the family head, I wish you the best. May you never lose your smile, and please continue to stay with us as you have done since the start." Alex took a step forward and said to the frozen Silveria. He secretly sent her a message.

[Sorry, to have surprised you like this. I chose today as it reminds me of the day you awakened, and this day holds some special meaning to you, I guess. Sorry for not celebrating your birthday until now, but I promise you that from now on, we will keep celebrating it. I'm counting on you to help me as Nyx did when it was her turn.]

Silveria's shock increased after hearing Alex's message. Something like a birthday; she hasn't had one. She could not remember how many years it had been. She had previously done something like this for her, so obviously, she would be overwhelmed. To think that even her sister would participate in this surprise birthday party. She was delighted, so different emotions kept pouring into her heart, surprise, sadness, longing, and joy.

Alex and the girls waited for her to calm down, and a few minutes later, Silveria had regained control of her emotions; her silver eyes scanned everyone present as if she wished to burn their faces inside her soul forever.

"Thank you, everyone. This is without the biggest gift I've received in a while. I'm truly grateful to every one of you. Thank you for doing something like this for someone like me. I have a lot of shortcomings, like any living thing, but I promise to do my best to live up to everyone's expectations to the best of my capability. Please look after me as I'll be doing the same thing." Silveria declared.

Alex and the others could feel her sincerity.

"No need to thank us as we are all one family. Isn't that right, girls?" Alex said, turning in the girls' direction.

"Yes, we are all family." They shouted in unison.

"Thank you." Silveria declared as she lowered her head. She felt grateful from the bottom of her heart; her day couldn't be any better. She approached everyone, looking at the beautiful birthday cake she had said.

"What a beautiful day. To me birthday it is a day to reflect on the year that was and what is ahead to strive for. I guess it is a sort of personal "New Year," one where resolutions can be made, promises to the self. For me, I plan to be bolder, to speak louder about the ideas I have for making a better world for all life in this universe. Perhaps that extra bit of bravery, that extra bit of willpower and resolve, is the real gift to myself from me. This time next year, I will be a better person, then make another resolution the year after and the one after that."

Alex nodded; he did share the same thought as Silveria.

The birthday cake was rainbows on rainbows. It was layered rainbow-hued cakes in rainbow-hued buttercream and rainbow sprinkles on top.

After another speech, the celebration begin, and during this celebration, Silveria declared.

"This birthday party s with the family, friends, and cake - it's simple, sweet, and destined to take its place in my album of good memories. Thank you all."

She raised her cup after that.

"Cheers!"

"Cheers!!!"

Kuin approached Alex, who was enjoying his glass of wine.

"Oh!: Kuina, how are you? Sorry, I have something to do so I'll see you later. You don't mind, right?"

"Of course not. However, to think you were all preparing for something like this. What a wonderful surprise. I hope you'll do the same when it is my turn."

"Don't worry, you will not be disappointed," Alex promised to Kuina's happiness.

"That will be nice then. It is just that..." She trailed off at the end of her sentence, which made Alex raise an eyebrow.

"It is just that what?"

Kuina stayed silent for a moment; however, during this time, she was subtly looking in Maria's direction, and after making sure that the latter attention was on her, the same for her ears, she said in not such a low voice.

"My favorite birthday party hasn't happened yet. It will be you and me, naked all day. A warm bed, warmer hugs, and all the things lovers love."

Puff!

Alex spat his wine. It couldn't be helped as what Kuina said was that shocking. She disappeared with a mischievous smile. She had successfully succeeded in today's mini-mission, pissing Maria off.

Indeed, Kuina had succeeded because Maria's face right now was a sight to behold; her glass exploded and turned into ice.

'This bitch. I will make sure to teach her a lesson in our next sparring session.'

Maria vowed.

After this little episode, the celebration continued until late at night. Everyone went to sleep, leaving only Alex and Silveria together. They disappeared and reappeared in her world.

"Thank you, Alex. That was a wonderful surprise. I love it. Even if my sister didn't come, she promised I would see my gift soon." Silveria said while looking at the constellation outside.

Made up of thirteen stars, the constellation called Prionailurus roughly resembles the shape of an antelope. It can be seen most prominently just above the Northeastern horizon in the middle of summer.

In ancient society, this constellation was seen as the representation of the god of the hunt, which is how it received the name still used today.

In astrology, this constellation bears the sign of balance; those born under it are believed to become explorers.

They're supposed to be a good match with those born under the constellations resembling a bison, cannonball, and shell. But they don't match well with those born under the hammer, heart, and dragon constellations.

"So, what do you want to ask me?" She cut right to the chase.

Alex chuckled and answered.

"Let's make a deal."

Silveria did not say anything; her silver eyes pierced through Alex's body, trying to see through him; however, it was impossible; what she was doing was to simply check his status and Alex let her do that.

"I'm listening; what kind of deal do you want to make with me?"

998 Chapter 998

After appraising Alex, Silveria confirmed what she wanted to confirm; therefore, she asked with the corner of her mouth lifted into a smile.

"I'm listening; what kind of deal do you want to make with me?"

"I want you to give me one of your eyes like Nyx did." Alex didn't play around and directly told Silveria what he wanted.

Silveria, who had expected this answer, was not surprised. However, there was only one thing she was curious about. Therefore while staring directly into those heterochromia eyes, she raised a question.

"And why do you want my eye so desperately? There must be a reason, and it is this reason I want to hear."

"It is because in our fight, you never created a bullet, you canceled most of my magic and skills using your eyes, so I want something like that. My enemy knows that I can erase magic with a single bullet; therefore, they must have prepared countermeasures; naturally, I ought to think differently and find a different solution and the solution I came up with is to ask you to give me one of your eyes. I know I'm asking for too much, but as long as you accept my request, I promise to fulfill one of your requests no matter what." Alex declared with a serious face.

Silveria frowned and went into deep contemplation, she seemed to be considering a lot of things, and Alex didn't disturb her. He calmly waited for her, and five minutes later, Silveria stared at him. This left Alex a little bit perplexed

"What you said is not wrong; a trump card that was identified can't be considered a trump card anymore, so you need another trump card, and possessing my silver eye can be the solution. I understand your deal, and I accepted it; as for what I will ask in exchange, I have not thought about it yet."

Alex frowned, but he was still happy. From Silveria's words, it meant she accepted his deal; it just that she wouldn't tell him what kind of condition she would be asking him later.

"However, before granting you your wish, let's fight one more time, and this time, you better go all out; if not, you won't get what you wanted?" Silveria warned, and Alex frowned; however, he still nodded. He had no idea what Silveria had in mind, but he would still accompany her; maybe there was something she wished to confirm first; nevertheless, he was no intention of losing unsightly as he previously did.

"Before we begin, do you know the source of magic?" Silveria stopped him and asked this sudden question. Alex was surprised, but he remembered something he had read in an old book at the Temple of Gods a few days after their reincarnations and when he was searching for a method to unlock his Gift, which was sealed at that time.

"Magic comes from a force within. All living beings possess magical energies within themselves, but only a select few can tap into these energies. These differences could easily create conflict, but so far, it has done the opposite by creating specialized jobs and teamwork.

Storing and spreading magic is at the forefront of magical research in order to utilize it better in difficult times." He said, and Silveria sneered because this answer was just a basic answer.

"Mana, I mean magic at the beginning of the universe, mana is what composed the universe; however, mana was not the only thing which existed back then, there existed many other sources as well. My power originated from one of them, same thing with my sister's power. The same could be said for our enemy, as we can use the oldest source, the chaos energy. Let's stop for here today, and let's fight." Silveria declared, forcing Alex, immersed in her explanation, to come back to his senses.

"Let's go." He said with the corner of his mouth lifted up to form a smile. This time he would make sure not embarrassed himself while at the same time showing how capable he was.

'I'm counting on you, Eterna.' Alex simply mumbled, and he felt the eternal chain moving inside his right arm as if to tell him not to worry; he got his back.

With the flick of her fingers, the duo appeared on above a forest.

The forest was colossal, impenetrable, and blooming. Its canopy was dominated by juniper, elm, and crab apple, which let through enough dancing beams of sunshine for a range of herbs to dominate the boulder covered grounds below.

Quiet vines dangled from a couple of trees, and a range of flowers, which claimed remnants of light, brightened up the otherwise colorless backdrop.

A mixture of beastly sounds, most of which were bird songs, added life to the forest, and were accompanied by the splashing of fish in a nearby lake.

"As I've previously said, you better go all out; if not, I won't accept your demand. Understood?" Silveria confirmed once more that Alex really got her message, and the latter nodded and immediately went into his serious mode.

"Asura's Form!" Alex shouted, and his body transformed into his Asura's form, and as if this was not enough, he added.

"Mana's body."

Boom!

The trees surrounding them were obliterated, and a huge mana whirlpool appeared behind Alex; and when Silveria saw this, she smiled; Alex's current stats were not bad; maybe he could last a couple of seconds more than usual.

"Tempus Infinitum" Using half of his mana to conjure his time domain as he appeared before Silveria, he sent a deadly punch forward.

Crack! Boom!

Space was broken apart as his punch appeared in front of Silveria, who was still calm; she extended her hand and stopped his punch without difficulty, almost as if his domain, even when it originated from Nyx, who used a different source from her she had no trouble dealing with it.

"Meteor bullet!" Alex immediately fired one of his strongest bullets as soon as Silveria calmly dealt with his punch.

[Dragon's mode]

Roarrrr!

Alex switched form in the middle of the fight and roared, and yet Silveria was still unfazed.

She activated her domain and punched the air; her gesture was simple as breathing; Alex still could not dodge even when using all his strength.

Bang! Boom!

Alex was sent flying ten kilometers straight, but this casual punch and he vomited a litter of blood; intense pain assaulted his body as he tried to stand up.

Every movement sent waves of throbbing pain through his chest and back. It was exhausting, and he felt sick, but there seemed to be nothing he could do about it. Surely this pain would stop soon. Indeed there's an end to this. Alex wasn't so sure and ready to give up because of it. He paused for a moment and took a deep breath. Perhaps if he could shift his focus away from the pain, it'd be easier to manage.

Alex gritted his teeth and let out a short grunt. He was determined to keep going, to swallow the pain and deal with it later simply. But he desperately kept himself busy with mindless tasks and chores, but nothing really helped to ignore the pain. Eventually, he felt like giving up and heading to bed; tomorrow would surely be a better day. However, he knew he couldn't do that; as he was wobbling on his feet, Silveria appeared behind him and wanted to deal the finishing blow; it was at that moment Alex, who had his head lowered, smiled; his bloody teeth were scary than a ghost face.

"Blitz!!!"

999 Chapter 999

Alex gritted his teeth and let out a short grunt. He was determined to keep going, to swallow the pain and deal with it later simply. But he desperately kept himself busy with mindless tasks and chores, but nothing really helped to ignore the pain. Eventually, he felt like giving up and heading to bed; tomorrow would surely be a better day. However, he knew he couldn't do that; as he was wobbling on his feet, Silveria appeared behind him and wanted to deal the finishing blow; it was at that moment Alex, who had his head lowered, smiled; his bloody teeth were scary than a ghost face.

"Blitz!!!"

Immediately upon shouting the skill name, Eterna responded and he swallowed huge amount of mana and the skill was materialized.

Many black holes appeared around them, stopping Silveria right on her tracks and from those black holes golden chains shot out.

Silveria although surprised she still calmly dealt with the incoming chains, however to her surprise while she did succeed in canceling the lightning imbued in the chains, she couldn't cancel the chains themselves and soon their sharp tips tried to pierce a whole through them.

Clank! Clank!!!

She deflected the chains with her barehand before kicking Alex flying, he couldn't completely the blow but he killed some of the after effects by pushing his body back before the Silveria's kick arrived.

Silveria who about to follow him with her next attack stopped because from the ground many black chains emerged and those in the sky vanished, she was caught off guard as those chains didn't emitted any many, making their presences furtive until they appeared and bound her.

Alex fired a crimson bullet from where he stood but instead of shooting at her, the bullet landed outside of her range thus making impossible to cancel it.

Kaboom!

The ground exploded and huge chunk of earth along some trees were uprooted, this explosion blocked Silveria's sight, Alex appeared in front of her and stopped time and sent a punch, just as he his punch touched her body, Silveria who should have been frozen vanished, her body vanished like it was a mirage.

"Fufufu! Two minutes, you managed to last two minutes, that's awesome." Silveria complimented as she put a gun against his head while her free arm was around his neck like iron vice.

Gulp!

Alex gulped and admitted defeat, he was happy to have lasted two minutes this time, it simply means that he was progressing.

"So where is my reward?" He asked after separating from Silveria.

"Impatient are we?" Silveria chuckled before closing one of her eyes and the next thing Alex knew was an intense assaulting his body as if a truck had run into him.

A sickening pain shot through his stomach and his arms wrapped tightly around it. It was all he could do to not collapse and wither in misery on the ground. His entire body told them to stop what he were doing, stop standing to roll on the ground to find relieve from this hellish feeling. Alex paused for a moment and contemplated every answer to this pain, weighing each option and trying to find the best one.

It became harder and harder to swallow the pain, to ignore the sensations and the voices telling them to stop. But there was no way he could give in to the pain, there was no way he woul ever give up. He could press forward and so he did, he pressed forward, every movement adding to the barrage if pain, but he kept going no matter what.

Silveria whose left eye was bleeding looked at her master and could not help but praise him for not rolling the ground.

"Well, it's just the beginning. Another round of pain will follow, his body must first adapt before the eye would be replaced." She mumbled before choosing a nice spot as resting place. While leaning against the tree's trunk her remaining eye never leave him.

Alex who was about to breath in a sigh of relief after the pain passed kneeled.

"Ugh!"

His head felt heavier and heavier as each pulse of throbbing pain pounded his senses over and over again. It was exhausting and the pain took its toll on his body who had undergo countless baptism to be comparable to a lesser dragon body. Tired, but unable to sleep and unable to stop it. Alex tried as best he could to block out the pain, to find some form of meditative trance in order to cope with the agonizing sensations.

And the solution he found was to take a deep breath, then another and then another. A state of calm returned to their mind for a moment. However, determined not to let the pain ruin this day he struggled onward. Perhaps not the best solution, but he had made up his mind. He would not fall onto the ground no matter what. As the pain continued to wreck havoc inside his body. He tried not to let out a single sound, his body was being changed from inside out, few strand of silver hair got mixed into his black hair.

Suddenly, the pain disappeared but Alex did not let his guard down as it was exactly what happened few minutes ago, just when he thought he passed the test, there wouldn't no more pain, a second wave arrived and now that this wave ended of course there will be a third wave.

Searching for a piece of hard wood to put into his mouth, Alex soon found one and put it between his teeth and the third wave arrived.

"Aahhhhhhhh!"

Even if he wanted to kept his mouth shut he could not more intense pain assaulted his left eye this time, he did his best not to roll on the ground already. The pain was so intense that it couldn't be described into words. He felt like someone was going his eye with a hot spoon and replaced it before gouging it again, it was a hellish torture Alex would not even his enemy to go through.

Just as he had become numb to the pain it stopped and a wave of fresh air washed over him as he fell onto the ground making a thud sound.

Silveria stood up and approached Alex who was breathing hardly, his clothes completely drenched in sweat.

"You did you best master, I'm really proud of you." She declared as she lowered her body and put him on her lap, she slowly caressed his smooth hair while wiping away his sweat.

"You should rest for a moment. Don't worry I'm here." She suggested and Alex nodded and closed his eyes, however, before he could fall asleep he received a notification.

[Two new abilities acquired.]

It was rare but this happened only when there's awesome skill or ability.

'I will check it once I wake up.' He mumbled before falling asleep.

Meanwhile, in the outside world.

The city of Riverburn was built at the edge of a mighty swamp and is truly a gorgeous marvel. Its uniqueness is matched by the backdrop of a gentle mountain which have helped shape the city to what it is today.

The materials these mountains brought were of great importance, but they were also influential when it came to architectural designs as the vast majority of buildings have been built with rocks from those very same mountains.

The skyline is spreading with stylish skyscrapers and they all seem to be in perfect unison despite being different. Education is superb in Riverburn and it has attracted a lot of attention. Countless cultures have left their mark not just on the city's history, but also upon the city's identity. What historically was a city of monotony has grown into a new culture of variety and it's this that unites the 3 millions people to this day. It was the second most populated city after Avalon

It's this multicultural identity that has truly left its mark. Hundreds of ethnic restaurants, cafés and theme restaurants offer a plethora of culinary choices and those who feel hungry for something else can enjoy city exploring, one of the many parks, clubs or one of the many other recreational venues.

In the most populated district of Riverburn stood a house. From the outside this house looks nice and traditional. It has been built with sandstone and has burgandy brick decorations. Tall, wide windows add to the overall style of the house and have been added to the house in a mostly asymmetric way.

The house was equipped with a huge kitchen and one small bathroom, it also has a huge living room, five bedrooms, a large dining area and a small garage.

The building was square shaped. The house is half surrounded by a garden path.

The second floor is bigger than the first, which creates several overhanging parts on one side of the house. This floor has roughly the same style as the floor below.

The roof was low and v-shaped and was covered with red ceramic tiles. Two small chimneys poke out the center of the roof. Two roof terraces let in plenty of light to the rooms below the roof.

The house itself was surrounded by paved ground, with various party spots, like a fancy barbeque and a firepit.

Pandora (Meera) was visiting one of her former party member's house, it was Alex who brought this house to compensate the lost family and support for two years.

1000 Chapter 1000

Pandora waited for the woman she came to visit to arrive; it was the swordsman's wife, Sebastian's wife.

Shortly later, a woman in her middle thirties arrived with a tea, offering one to Pandora; she took the second one and sat across from Pandora.

"Welcome, Sister Meera. It's good to see you. How is the leader doing?" The woman with gray hair asked; of course, the leader she was referring to was none other than Alex.

"He is doing fine. He asked me to visit you and say hi. He will visit you and the others soon." Pandora responded; she conveyed Alex's message, and upon hearing this, Sebastian's wife felt like crying but managed not to do it in the end.

"That is good to know. I and the children and the others mothers can't wait to meet our benefactor." Sebastian's wife said, mentioning the other wives and children Alex was taking care of. He didn't have to because the time they shared was not that long, just a couple of days, but Alex did not care about this; those men were people he valued and promised to form a permanent party with, an Adventurer group whose name would shake the whole world. Unfortunately, things did not go as planned, fate played a joke on them, and they died except for 3 party members, Alex, Gracier, and Meera, whom Alex rescued later.

Alex decided after that tragedy to support his former party members' families, he brought them to each house and made sure their children would go to the best schools, and he even promised to keep supporting them for two years. Nobody would have done what Alex was doing; he did this because he considered those dead as his comrades and brothers. So it's natural to look after your brother's family; it is what true brothers would do.

He was not doing this because he felt guilty. To begin with, what happened, in that tragedy had nothing to do with him; they happened to be at the wrong place at the wrong time. Even so, Alex didn't abandon their family. It was truly a good act, and a good act never stays unpaid as there is a thing called karma; he was building good karma, which undoubtedly would help him in the future. In a sense, he could be called Samaritan, a Samaritan to his friend's families.

"Let's me visit the children. I think they must be playing in the garden, right?" Pandora asked with a smile, and Sebastian's wife nodded.

"Please go ahead. I'll join you after cleaning." Sebastian's wife said, and Pandora (Meera) nodded before heading to the garden located at the back of the house.

Once alone, Sebastian's wife sighed, and with her eyes filled with longing, she stared into the sky; the blue sky was particularly beautiful today as the sunlight felt warm on her cheek.

"Dear, go in peace. Your friend is watching over us, and he is trying to make a better world for us, for everyone to live in. Please bless him and pray for his success." She said with her hands in the form of prayers.

Foxia capital, Maria's room.

She could not sleep and was forced to leave her bed; just as she was about to take some fresh air, she coincidentally met Kuina in her nightgown.

"Oh? I never thought you would also have a sleepless night." Kuina said while covering her mouth and quietly chuckling.

Maria sighed and mumbled. "A sleepless night is a chance to meditate, to feel the energy of the positive world sparking at my finger tips, asking to come in and let my dreams become their own night-time reality."

"So poetic that I'm moved. Follow me to my chamber; let's take this opportunity to talk." Kuina suggested before turning around and walking back to her room.

Maria stopped for a moment before deciding to go; this would be an excellent opportunity to talk with this fox. Kuina entered first, and Maria followed behind.

The bedroom was her sacred cocoon, her place of safety in poetic repose. Only those she acknowledged having the right to enter such a sacred place.

'You should feel grateful.' Kuina thought while sitting on her queen-sized bed, she invited Maria to sit next to her, but she declined and brought her chair and sat on it.

"You know I have been jealous of you since our first meeting." Kuina declared while offering Maria a glass full of wine. She accepted and took a sip while waiting for Kuina to continue.

"You know, Jealousy is easier to see than one might expect; it certainly has no cloak of invisibility. When I saw you that night during the banquet, you were shining more than anything; you were like a white mountain in the middle of frozen hell and someone who believed that I should shine more than anyone else; you were an obstacle, so I tried to provoke you, you're my natural enemy. I vowed to shine brighter than you, to take everything from you, but unfortunately, I couldn't, and now we are about to share the same man, which I believed was impossible. I don't like you."

"So do I," Maria responded while emptying her glass.

"I know while I don't like you, you're someone I greatly respect. It's a pain to admit it, but you're above me, I mean currently, as I plan to catch up to you soon. Let's have a proper match later to see who is better than the other."

Maria nodded at this challenge as she could not wait but put this girl in her place, she would put her under her, and she would shake in fear just by seeing her. Just imagining this future, Maria could not hide her excitement and smile.

'Fufufu! Do you think you'll win? Never, I would have awakened my ninth tail by then, and I'll show you the horror of true nine tails, Fox. Fufufu! I will be the one standing above you.' Kuina thought while smiling; the two women said nothing more; they just smiled; however, if someone were there, they would have shivered because of the two energy clashing, red and white. Even while doing nothing, their auras were fighting each other, a nine tails Fox at one side and an Ice phoenix on the other side.

Two mystical beasts were fighting without a clear winner.

Dawn brings a sunlight crown, smiling upward at the black heavens, feeling how the passing night welcomes her more with each minute and hour. The sunlight makes rainbow diamonds that dance upon the canvas that is the wall.

Sunlight caressed Alex's skin as if to tell him to wake up. Alex woke up, still in her world; he was using Silveria's lap as a pillow.

"Thank you, Silveria, because of you, I slept like a baby. One month of ice cream." He promised her, and she smiled; her eyes shone; one of them seemed duller than the other; it was probably because she gifted it to him. Alex understood, and he secretly vowed to make better use of this.

"Status!" He called out; he was too eager to check his status as awesome things must be awaiting him.

"I've acquired two new abilities: Nemesis's Eye and Nemesis's Domain. I'm happy with this, but why did my Steel body skill disappear? Does this have something to do with Def stat increasing, reaching 5000?" Alex wondered, and he decided to seek Silveria's opinion.
