Chapter 914 Sampson's Famous Name

Even when Sound arrived at a new school, she was not overcautious. The students around her gathered up the courage to talk to her, finding that she was a very easy-going person. Gradually, many people gathered around her and chatted with her.

Because the name Shi-Lu Sound was too long, everyone called her Sound directly. This name made her feel that her new classmates were accepting her.

"Sound, which school were you from before? Why did you suddenly transfer to another school? ", Reid asked curiously.

"I'm from Lexingport City. My brother is studying here. I came with him." Sound sat on the chair and looked up at them.

"Which school?"

"Medical University."

"Spring City Medical University?" Someone was shocked. Spring City Medical University was the second ranked medical universities in the country. Few students could get into such a good university.

Keyla's eyes lit up. "Medical University is my goal."

"You will achieve your goal." Sound said with a smile.

The others also echoed. The relationship between the classmates seemed to be very harmonious, at least for her now.

"Your brother is awesome." "Sampson is going to study medicine in the Medical University. Am I right, Sampson? ", Reid said.

He turned around and found that S ack of the classroom were almost empty, and only a few resident students were still studying hard. Sampson stood up, walked to Sound and knocked on her table, looking straight ahead.

"Come out."

This was the first sentence Sampson said to her. The boy was in the changing sound period and his voice was slightly low.

When Sound heard it, her hand, which was packing her schoolbag, stopped. She looked up and saw the boy's side face. The light just fell on his face, and the shadow of his eyelashes fell on his eyelids, like a lush grass.

As the words were conveyed, Sampson walked out. And Sound followed him in haste.

The boy was wearing a loose school uniform and his back was straight. He was nearly 1.8 meter tall, completely blocking Sound of only 1.6 meter behind him.

If there were not two shadows of different height in the corridor, it was difficult to find there were two people.

Sampson stopped at the corner of the stairs.

"Sampson." Sound walked up to him and smiled brightly as usual. "I'm your classmate now."

Against the light, Sampson's face was completely hidden in the shadow. As he approached, Sound was blocked the corner by him and he said coldly, "I want to tell you something. Don't let anyone know that we know each other."
