Su Wanwan was stunned for a while before she slowly regained her senses. Her voice carried the lingering charm of panic. Yingluo, are you okay? ”

As she spoke, she turned her head, wanting to see her ‘Savior’, but before she could see his face, he suddenly let go of her. Without even taking the umbrella he had brought, he turned around and strode into the rain.

Su Wanwan was surprised again and quickly looked in the direction that person left. Hello, ran ran.

The rain was too heavy and that person walked quickly. Su Wanwan could only vaguely see a tall figure staggering away. She couldn’t help but call out again, ” hey, Sir, are you injured? ”

Unfortunately, that person didn’t even turn his head back and walked further and further away.

After the motorcycle owner stopped the car, he walked over and looked at su Wan with an apologetic and worried face. miss, I’m sorry. I didn’t mean to. The rain was too heavy and I didn’t see you. Are you okay? ”

Only then did su Wanwan’s gaze move back to the motorcycle owner. She gently shook her head. I’m fine, but I don’t know if that gentleman Wanwan is fine.

The motorcyclist also looked at the man’s back as he left, and his brows furrowed even more. I did an emergency brake just now, but the car still hit his back. He should be injured. How could he leave just like that? we need to go to the hospital.

“You ran into his back?”

Su Wanwan suddenly remembered the muffled groan that entered her ears just now. It was painful. He was injured and still walking in such a heavy rain?

Su Wanwan didn’t have time to say anything to the motorcycle owner. She picked up the umbrella that the person left behind and raised her feet to chase in the direction he left.

Su Wanwan thought that if he was injured, he shouldn’t have gone far. He was injured in order to save her. She should send him to the hospital and also thank him.

Su Wan quickly chased forward and tried her best to open her eyes wide, looking for that tall figure in the rain. Finally, far away, she saw the figure crossing the road in front of her. She quickly shouted in that direction, ” Sir, Sir, Sir, Sir, Sir, please wait!

The figure seemed to have stopped for a moment, but it also seemed like he didn’t. He continued to walk forward.

Su Wanwan bit her lip. Did he not hear it?

She continued to shout and then quickened her pace, walking towards the intersection. When she walked over, that person had already walked to the opposite side. Su Wan wanted to follow, but a few cars suddenly drove over and temporarily isolated su Wan's line of sight. When the cars drove away, there was no trace of that figure.

Su Wanwan was stunned. After she crossed the road, she looked left and right but still didn't see anything. It was as if the figure she saw just now was just her illusion.

Su Wanwan frowned strangely. She clearly saw him walking over. How could he have disappeared in a few seconds? It was just that her memory was not good. Could it be that even her eyesight was not good now?

Su Wanwan didn't give up and raised her eyes to look around again. Suddenly, she saw a figure behind a big tree in front of her. It seemed that there was a figure shaking very quickly. She couldn't help but walk forward. That person couldn't be unable to walk and was leaning against the tree, right? Or was he taking shelter from the rain there?

Su Wanwan walked over step by step and approached him step by step.
