

Deeply 435

435 Uninvited guest (5)

Su Wanwan didn't have any resistance to his action of touching her head. Her sad mood was quickly calmed down and her head still clingily rubbed against his palm.

she was so easy to coax.

PEI Munian couldn't help but laugh. Although he didn't understand why Su Wanwan liked this action of his so much, this move worked every time.

Auntie Wu walked out of the bathroom and looked at the happy couple in front of her. Although she was a little sad for the young Madam, she was also very happy for the young master.

In the past, the young Madam and the young master were either at loggerheads or in a Cold War. The atmosphere at home was extremely oppressive every day, and neither of them was happy. Now, the young Madam was so dependent on the young master, and the young master no longer hid his true feelings in front of the young Madam. He could show them.

It wasn't entirely a bad thing that young Madam had become like this. Perhaps Wanwan had profited from this misfortune?

Auntie Wu knew that she was no longer needed here. She did not disturb them and left quietly.

After su Wanwan's mood calmed down, PEI Munian took her hand and returned to the bathroom again. He took off su Wanwan's nightgown, carried her into the bathtub, and helped her take a bath. He held his breath and focused all the way, trying his best to place his gaze above su Wan's neck, trying his best to ignore his hand and only focused on the bath.

It had only been a short ten minutes, but PEI Munian felt as if a few centuries had passed. She was even sweating.

The moment su Wanwan stood up from the bathtub, PEI Munian immediately wrapped su Wanwan tightly in the sleeping robe, not revealing a trace of spring. Then, she carried her out of the bathroom.

He put her on the bed, took the hair dryer, plugged it in, and dried su Wanwan's hair.

In order to prevent her from being unable to sit still and moving around, PEI Munian took the book he usually read to su Wanwan and put it on her knees for her to hold and read.

Su Wanwan might really be a little tired now, so she obediently held the book and flipped through it.

PEI Munian sat beside her and played with her hair gently.

Due to the surgery, she had shaved her head. The hair that had grown out was still very short. PEI Munian was afraid that the hot wind would blow onto her scalp and make her uncomfortable, so he blew it slowly, almost one strand at a time.

The hot wind buzzed in her ears. Su Wanwan's eyelids drooped down and her head also followed.

When PEI Munian saw this, a smile flashed in her eyes. He touched su Wanwan's hair. It was already dry. He then turned off the hairdryer and put it aside. Then, he held su Wan's shoulder and gently said, "Wanwan, if you're tired, then go to sleep, okay?"

PEI Munian lifted the blanket and lay down with su Wanwan in her arms. She wanted to take away the book in su Wanwan's arms, but she refused to let go.

PEI Munian stopped what she was doing and looked at her in confusion. what's wrong? "

Su Wanwan's hand patted the position next to her and pointed at the book with her finger.

PEI Munian finally understood that she wanted him to read to her.

PEI Munian laughed again, her finger gently scratching the tip of her nose as she teased, " "You're so sleepy that you can't even open your eyes, yet you still want to listen to me read?"

Su Wanwan looked at PEI Munian without blinking.

PEI Munian immediately surrendered. Alright, alright, whatever you say. You're my young miss.

PEI Munian also lay on the bed and leaned against the head of the bed. Then, he spread his arms and pulled su Wanwan over. After she found a comfortable position in his arms, he said softly, " Wanwan, you don't have to study today. I'll teach you something else.