PEI Munian waited for su Wanwan to swallow the pill before he fed her another mouthful of water. Then, he carried her up and strode upstairs.

When she walked past Xi Zhiwei, PEI Munian did not even glance at her from the corner of her eyes. It was unknown if she did not see her or simply ignored her.

PEI Munian carried su Wanwan into the bedroom and placed her on the bed. He pulled the blanket over her and covered her carefully. He caressed her forehead and his voice became hoarse. Wanwan, do you feel better? ”

Su Wanwan opened her eyes and looked at PEI Munian. Because of the pain, tears appeared in her eyes. She pouted and weakly shouted, ” it hurts, Hanhan.

“It’s okay, it won’t hurt very soon.”

PEI Munian answered softly and continued to massage su Wanwan’s head with her fingers. His strength was gentle and on point. Su Wanwan’s tense nerves slowly relaxed and the pain between her eyebrows also dissipated a little.

Under the effect of the medicine, su Wanwan relaxed. Sleepiness hit her and she slowly closed her eyes and fell asleep.

PEI Munian only stopped pressing when su Wanwan’s breathing became slow and long. His hand gently caressed su Wanwan’s still-pale face, and his eyes sank little by little.

He leaned over and planted a kiss on su Wanwan’s forehead. Then, he tucked in the corner of the quilt and lowered the wall lamp. He got up and strode out of the bedroom.

In the living room downstairs.

Xi Zhiwei sat on the sofa with her hands on her knees, unconsciously twisted together. She seemed a little restless.

She didn’t regret coming here today, she also didn’t regret her words provoking su Wan. It was just that PEI Munian’s disregard for her just now made her heart extremely uneasy.

What she was worried about was how much PEI Munian’s guilt towards her could be compared to su Wanwan’s.

Xi Zhiwei heard footsteps and immediately stood up from the sofa. She saw PEI Munian coming down the stairs and walking towards her.

She had already prepared a draft just now, so before PEI Munian could speak, she apologized first, ” brother Munian, I’m sorry. I just wanted to visit sister Wanwan. I didn’t expect things to turn out this way. Is sister Wanwan alright? ”

PEI Munian walked past her and sat down on the sofa as if she did not hear her. Her handsome face was very calm, but it seemed like a storm was brewing.

Xi Zhiwei could not help but feel a chill down her spine when she saw him like this. She bit her lower lip and her voice trembled. brother Munian, aww.

PEI Munian opened her eyes and looked at her. He stared at her for a few seconds until cold sweat broke out on Xi Zhiwei's forehead. He then asked, " what did you say to Wanwan? "

Xi Zhiwei swallowed her saliva and tried to steady her voice as she replied, " no, nothing much. I just wanted to ask about her condition. I really didn't expect her health to be so bad. Brother mu Nian, I'm Qianqian.

"Greetings?" PEI Munian couldn't help but laugh. Weiwei, your relationship with Wanwan isn't at the level of greeting.

PEI Munian's merciless rebuttal made Xi Zhiwei's expression change.

PEI Munian leaned against the sofa and crossed his long legs elegantly. He looked at her with a smile on his lips. He was clearly smiling, but he gave off a strong sense of oppression that pressed down on her.
