

Deeply 485

485 Suspicion (5)

Su Wanwan's words had just fallen when PEI Munian's tall body pressed down on her. He grabbed her hands and pressed them on both sides of her cheeks. His red eyes stared at su Wanwan, his hot breath spilling on su Wan's face.

Su Wanwan had never seen him like this before. Even just now, his eyes were gentle. She was afraid and the way she looked at PEI Munian was filled with fear.

PEI Munian's breathing became heavier, and the veins on her forehead protruded. Hot sweat dripped down drop by drop.

He really wanted to continue pressing su Wanwan down without a care. The fire she built up should naturally be extinguished by her.

She didn't know what kind of waves her unintentional act would cause to him.

However, when he met su Wanwan's timid eyes and blank eyes, it was like a basin of cold water that poured straight down from his head and chilled him to the core.

PEI Munian's heart struggled a little, but in the end, pity prevailed. He closed his eyes and forcefully pulled su Wanwan into his arms. His strength was so great that it was as if he wanted to merge su Wanwan's entire body into his.

Su Wanwan was uncomfortable from being hugged and couldn't help but struggle.

don't move, Wanwan, be good. Don't move, just let me hug you for a while, just a while.

PEI Munian spat out these words in her ear with difficulty. He exerted more force in his arms and buried his head deep in her neck. He sniffed the faint fragrance on her body to relieve his wild desires.

This torturous little demon was going to torture him until he went crazy one day.

Su Wanwan belatedly felt that PEI Munian seemed to be uncomfortable and it was because of her. Although she didn't know why for the time being, her heart ached and she couldn't care about her anger. She stopped struggling and obediently lay down without moving.

PEI Munian hugged her quietly for a while. When he finally caught his breath, he let go of her and told her to sleep first. Then, without looking at her, he quickly walked into the bathroom.

Su Wanwan also got up. Looking at PEI Munian's slightly staggering footsteps, su Wanwan carefully recalled what happened just now and finally realized that something was wrong!

Su Wanwan quickly grabbed her mobile phone and opened the APP that could answer questions. She thought about it and entered a question.

Although it was a little late, there were many night owls on the internet. Soon, someone replied to su Wanwan. Su Wanwan looked at the netizens' replies and her small face was full of shock. After the shock, she couldn't help but blush.

When PEI Munian came out of the bathroom, su Wanwan was already lying on the bed and sleeping quietly.

PEI Munian could not help but heave a sigh of relief. If she still wanted to grab that thing, his little life would really be in her hands.

PEI Munian walked to the side of the bed and looked at the little figure curled up in the middle of the bed with her back facing him. His lips curled up and a touch of gentleness appeared in his eyes.

He lifted the quilt, laid on the bed, and carefully took su Wanwan into his arms. He kissed her eyebrows and said softly, "Wanwan, good night.

My baby, I hope you have a good dream.

His hand slowly touched su Wanwan's flat abdomen. A trace of pain flashed past his eyes, but more of it was the prospect of the future.

He hoped that their second baby would come soon.

—

PEI Munian had originally set aside half a month's time to accompany su Wanwan on a holiday, but the company had an emergency and he had to go on a business trip for a week. The two of them came back early.