

Deeply 67

Chapter 67 She just doesn't love me (9)

He married her only because he wanted to get close to her, but he always lost control and hurt her, then pushed her further and further away.

PEI Munian slammed on the brakes and the car stopped by the side of the road. He leaned back, his eyes filled with powerlessness and defeat!

In the past three years, he had been thinking from time to time that if only he didn't get close to su Wanwan at the beginning. This way, he wouldn't be foolishly trapped in her love scam despite knowing that matter. He wouldn't like her uncontrollably and even fall in love with her.

At that time, he hoped that perhaps su Wanwan could have a part of her heart. As long as she treated him with a part of her heart, he could ignore everything. Even if she had done such a thing, even if he lost his conscience, he would still be firmly together with her.

That night, she was drunk and ran over to look for him. She fell into his arms and opened her misty eyes. Her pink cheeks and long eyelashes fluttered. They gently stirred his heart and he could not help but kiss her.

Her lips were so sweet and soft. He hugged her and kissed her deeply. She didn't resist. She even stood on her tiptoes and wrapped her arms around his neck, responding to him passionately.

Her response seemed to have ignited a fire in his body. His entire body suddenly heated up, and he couldn't help but pick her up and put her on the bed.

For the first time, he knew how wonderful the love between a man and a woman could be. He kissed her, caressed her, and was extremely gentle and lingering. At The Last Kiss, he suppressed his impulse and propped himself up. He asked her if she was willing to give her to him.

Even though he really wanted her at that time, perhaps he couldn't stop himself, he still wanted to respect her. If she didn't want to, he wouldn't force her.

Then, he saw her gently nod her head.

At that moment, it was as if beautiful flowers had bloomed in front of his eyes. His heart was filled with a deep sense of happiness.

He thought that she loved him, that she was sincere, and that was why she was willing to give her body to him. She gave him her first time. When he entered her body, he was so careful and cherished it so much. After it ended, even though he was still not satisfied and his body was tempted to do it a second time, he saw her tightly furrowed brows and forced himself to hold it in. He only held her tightly until the first ray of light appeared in the sky. He gently put her down and covered her with the blanket. He kissed her on the lips, put on his clothes haphazardly, and ran out.

The moment he possessed her, he had already made up his mind. He wanted to be responsible for su Wanwan. He wanted to marry her. He wanted to be with her for the rest of his life.

He was going to propose to her when she woke up!

When he ran out, he forgot that it was still early and the shops were not open yet. He ran like a fool through the empty streets. He ran one street after another and finally saw a ring Shop that was open. He rushed in, bought the most expensive ring, and swiped his card without even blinking.

Although he was the PEI family's Crown Prince, he could not use his family's money before he took over the company. Therefore, the money he used to buy the ring was the money he had earned from his own investments over the years. This ring had cost him almost all of his savings, but he still swiped his card without even blinking.