

Divorced but Delighted By Millie Huffman Chapter 388

Divorced but Delighted By Millie Huffman Chapter 388

Chapter 388 Why Should I Be Blamed?

Belle's expression was a little stiff.

Ernest did not wait for her to refute and continued to look at her with sharp eyes.

"It's easy to settle the money. Let me ask you, how have you treated your mother and daughter in the past 20 years? How have we treated you? If Cici were born in our family, how should we treat her? Don't forget why Cici was lost in New York! Don't be too heartless and greedy."

Belle's mouth moved, and her face was completely pale.

She kept refuting in her heart.

Cierra got lost in New York because of an earthquake. What did it have to do with her? She didn't ask Sarah to visit her in New York!

She pretended to be kind and went to New York to support her. If it weren't for her, would she have married into New York far away?

So what if she went?

The man was unable to control himself when he met beautiful girls.

With the support of her parents' family, the marriage was over!

As for Cici, she had been unlucky in the past, but now she was the one to blame?

What could she do about these disasters?

However, Ernest insisted on settling the score in this way, and Belle could not refute him.

She was well aware that if she had spoken out all the thoughts in her mind just now, the contract in her hand would probably have changed.

No way!

No matter how dissatisfied she was, she swallowed it down and gritted her teeth.

“Dad, you’re right. I only care about this moment and have never thought about the past. But I have to warn you first. If there are too many things for her, I still have to work hard for Cherry!”

“What’s the use of being nice to me and Cherry? I’ve never seen them give us what they really make money. They just send them away and coax them to willingly give up what they really make!”

Just like when they separated from the family at this time, the purpose of talking about love in daily.

was to let her and her daughter give in to benefits.

life

She was not stupid!

Thinking of her quick-wittedness, she straightened her back a little.

Get Bout

He didn’t answer her. Perhaps he had already seen through the girl’s nature, so he wasn’t surprised at all.

He knocked on the table, unable to hide the exhaustion in his voice.

“The accounts will be divided like this. You can read the contract first. Of course, let me put it in front of you. We can't be equal. Therefore, what is written in the contract is the increase and decrease according to your own situation. If you are not satisfied with it, I won't do it.”

“As for the changes, you can discuss it amongst yourselves. Only when you are satisfied with each other will I agree to modify it. If it's one-sided, it's useless to make trouble.”

As soon as he finished speaking, all the people at the table quieted down.

Cierra pinched the corner of the contract and silently pursed his lips as he pondered over his words.

To be honest, she didn't want to take on this trouble.

It wasn't that she was afraid of Belle, nor was she afraid that her uncle and his family would think too much about it. She was just worried that she wouldn't be able to accept Ernest's kindness.

But Ernest's words had touched her a little.

If she hadn't been taken away by accident, would she have won the love of her grandparents like Cherry?

No matter how much money he had, he couldn't get more than ten years of familial ties.

However, the old man made up for it in his own way.

He should take it.

On the other side, Belle did not think so.

She glanced sideways at the old man, feeling indignant.

Didn't he just say that to her?

Who didn't like money?

If it was too little, she would definitely fight for it. But he had taken too much. Why should he be willing to negotiate with her? He should have thought about it!

Belle flipped through the contract with a long face. Not only did she curse Ernest but she also cursed Cierra.

She scolded Ernest for being biased and being tricked by lover who had just returned for less than three months. He even wanted to share the family property with her.

Get Bos

She scolded Cierra for being shameless. The family was rich enough, but she was still greedy for the Chester family's things!

In any case, he could scold anyone he thought of.

When he turned to the property division page, he finally couldn't sit still!

"Dad, why should we give the main store to Cierra? She's just an outsider. Are you going to give her the main business of the Chester family?"

Except for some differences in the names, the contents of these four contracts were basically the same.

The Chester family didn't open any other companies. They just opened a chain restaurant, and what they wanted was straightforward.

She

gave him dividends and a specialty store that was jointly owned by Sapidity Restaurant.

Sapidity Restaurant was a century-old brand, and it was also a cultural specialty for Los Angeles. Therefore, in accordance with the trend and the development trend, it designed some cultural innovation and seasonings from a century-old store.

There was only one in Los Angeles. Its business was quite good during the peak season.

If he handed it over to Sarah, he only needed to check the accounts.

Of course, if she wanted to expand her business further, she could hire a designer or do some other research. With her poor health, she might not have the energy to hire a husband or child.

Archer had six branches, as well as a set of real estate and some of the shares of a factory.

There were also a lot of things here. The dividends from the shares could ensure that a divorced girl would not be short of money outside, and she would not have to worry about spending the rest of her life.

The other two branches had learned cooking and management from Cherry for a few years. It could be regarded as an inheritance to her.

Of course, this was not the only thing that he gave to Belle. There were also a few properties in Los Angeles and a beauty salon.

In the early years, she got a divorce and came back from New York. She wanted to do business, so he gave her money to invest. She opened this beauty salon with the money. Later, she thought that she was too tired to take care of it and had no improvement, so she sold it.

What they didn't know was that they had sold it to their family.

The old lady was originally a female businessman, but she didn't do it in her old age. After buying this beauty salon, she changed the operation plan and made use of the later Internet marketing to revive it.

Now that they were on the right track, as long as there were no major changes, the annual profits would be considerable.

She had given the store to Belle as a token of her love for her youngest daughter.

As for what would happen to her in the future, that was not something for her to worry about.

As for the remaining assets, some shares, and this old villa, Ernest thought that they were not dead yet. He had to leave them some money for retirement, so he kept them for the time being.

As for how to divide the inheritance in a hundred years, he would write it in the lawyer's will.

It was clearly written in the contract that they were going to break up.

Divorced but Delighted By Millie Huffman Chapter 389

Divorced but Delighted By Millie Huffman Chapter 389

Chapter 389 Isn't It Beautiful?

Therefore, when she thought about it carefully, she found that the points were not small.

The one who got the least points should be Sarah.

Ernest did not lack money, but after all, she was the daughter. He had to give her some money as a token of their gratitude as parents.

Archer earned the most points, but it was also the most difficult for him.

Ever since he handed over the residence to Archer, he had been working alone. He had even put aside his pride to learn from his nephew so that the place could be on the right track again and not be left behind by the times.

If he continued to develop according to his old ideas, Sapidity Restaurant would probably go bankrupt one by one.

It was only right to give it to Archer. It was to keep the family business going.

As for the gift for Cierra, it was to make up for her.

He gave it to her in order to pass down his family business.

And yet, one of them had appeared out of nowhere.

Unwilling to give up, she threw the contract on the table. "Dad, I don't agree to hand over the main store to Cici. The main store is of great significance. If you give it to Archer, I have no objection, why do you give this store to her?"

Cherry also chimed in, "Grandpa, don't forget that Cici is a member of the L'Opera Restaurant. How can you transfer the head office of to her? Aren't you afraid that it will be renamed L'Opera Restaurant?"

L'Opera Restaurant.

When Yan Feng heard the questions of Belle and her mother, he raised his eyebrows slightly, but he was not very angry.

He bit the words "South Pavilion" with an enigmatic look.

All of a sudden, she chuckled.

"Wouldn't it be better to change it to L'Opera Restaurant?"

Belle's angry face froze.

Cierra was also slightly stunned. She look at Wilson in surprise.

She did not forget how Ernest and Freddy bickered that day at the food competition.

Get Boos

He seemed to be his enemy.

He was an opponent standing at the top of the pyramid.

They were also friends who appreciated each other.

She'd thought that even if a victory could be decided by the secular world, they would never think that they were inferior to each other.

Unexpectedly, Wilson said something like that.

"The reputation of L'Opera Restaurant is greater than that of Sapidity Restaurant. After so many years, opening a store also makes the taste spread all over the world. It has a good reputation."

He sat at the head of the table and analyzed the situation calmly. They would be able to sense a hint of emotion and envy in his tone.

This was a purely rational judgment without any personal grudges,

He didn't forget his family business. When it came to it, he couldn't hide his loneliness.

"On the other hand, because there are too many shops open, the prices of the shops varied. Some customers would rather take a detour to eat at the other branches than be nearby.

Although they may make more money than the Little South Pavilion, the Shaw family's hundred-year-old signboard is getting worse and worse year by year. If we can replace the signboard, it may not be a bad thing. I am afraid that he will not agree."

At the end of her words, there was a self-deprecating smile on her face.

But as soon as this laughter fell, it was endless loneliness and silence.

For a moment, no one at the table spoke.

The Chester family were feeling guilty.

They all knew how L'Opera Restaurant made its fortune.

The chefs they recruited were all those that no one wanted. On the contrary, amongst the carefully selected apprentices, the most important thing was that their culinary skills were in the hands of their own family. In this way, they couldn't compare with the other party, which was more or less heart-wrenching.

Cierra was deep in thought.

To be honest, she still didn't want to take over it.

It was not that she was not interested in cooking.

"

Get Bogus

All kinds of dishes tasted different, and even the way they were cooked was different.

If possible, she was willing to learn and want to know.

She had a taste of the Sapidity Restaurant. It was indeed comparable to L'Opera Restaurant.

If her uncle was willing to teach her cooking skills, she would learn it seriously and not leak it out.

But now, it was the century-old shop that was handed over to her.

It could even be said to be a form of responsibility and inheritance.

She was afraid of trouble.

He was also afraid that he couldn't do it well.

For the first time, Cierra hoped that Belle would make a scene so that Wilson would take back the contract in his hand.

Belle did not let her down. After a long period of loneliness, she snorted softly.

"The L'Opera Restaurant only runs one store, and the fine line is naturally different from ours. Dad, what you said is not very interesting. Brother has been running so many stores over the years and has made many contributions. I think ours is the best! It's better to hand over the main store to Brother. If you think Cici's craftsmanship is wasted, you can give her several branches."

Ridiculous!

Wilson's calm voice suddenly turned cold. He slammed the table and interrupted her.

It was also from the moment they talked about the separation of the family that he suddenly got angry.

“Have some fun. The Sapidity Restaurant is a century-old family business. Is it for fun?”

In an instant, Belle stopped talking and abruptly shut her mouth.

Clenching the document in her hand and looking at Ernest, she thought to herself, “I can’t let Ernest take away this.”

She just didn’t like her. If she took her beauty salon away, wouldn’t the loss outweigh the gain?

Belle felt a little regretful.

He didn’t want to talk to her. He looked away coldly and said in a tone that brooked no refusal.

The distribution of the stores has been settled. If you are not satisfied, you can discuss it yourself. My idea remains the same. Don’t say anything more.”

“Grandpa, if I don’t want to take over this store and transfer the head office to Uncle, it will be fine as long as Uncle agrees, right?”

In the end, Andy couldn’t help but look up at him.

“Don’t you want Grandpa’s gift?”

Ronald had expected such a thing to happen, so his tone was quite calm.

However, judging from the old man’s tone, it seemed that if Cierra didn’t accept it, it would mean that she looked down on him.

A sense of powerlessness arose from her heart.

If she accepted it, she would seem to be disrespecting him.

Cierra was in a dilemma.

She pursed her lips and thought for a moment, but still insisted on her original intention.

“Grandfather, you’ve also said that the Sapidity Restaurant is part of the family’s business and has been passed down for hundreds of years. It’s not for us juniors to play with. I haven’t had enough. fun and can do whatever I want. I’m afraid I won’t be able to bear the responsibility if you give it to me.”

Albert raised his eyebrows and looked at her. “Do you know what you’re talking about? They want the head office, but Grandpa doesn’t want to give it to them.”

“I know. It’s because it’s too valuable that I can’t take it. I may not be able to bear the responsibility if I take yours.”

Cierra did not avoid his gaze. He looked straight into his eyes and refused to take a single step back.

After a long time, the old man sighed softly and said with a smile, “You have the same temper as Clark. When I asked Clark to learn cooking, he said the same thing.”

She only knew how much it was worth. She only knew that it was a major industry in Los Angeles and she wanted it no matter how hard she tried,

But who would want to take the responsibility after taking it?

Divorced but Delighted By Millie Huffman Chapter 390

Divorced but Delighted By Millie Huffman Chapter 390

Chapter 390 Bang!

Get Bots

Cierra’s fingers tightened around the contract as he plucked up the courage to say, “Grandpa, since you didn’t force my cousin to choose another industry, why force me?”

She really didn't want to bear too much responsibility.

She didn't spend much time on L'Opera Restaurant, so how could she be interested in Sapidity Restaurant that she knew little about?

She didn't have much ambition. Even if she was talented in cooking, she just wanted to cook a few meals for her family. That was all.

As for the enormous amount of inheritances, they were simply too much for him to handle.

She thought that she was just an ordinary person and didn't have that much ability.

She was just lucky to be able to make it to this point.

Clark had a precedent of refusing to take responsibility for the family, and also because he was Archer's son.

In the secular world, it was better to hand over the headquarters to Clark than to her.

If Clark didn't want the time, she could.

"That's right, Dad. You've agreed Clark to go to any art. Now that Cici is unwilling, you have to respect her, don't you?"

Belle chimed in from the side.

This was the first time that Cierra felt that Belle's voice was so pleasant to the ear.

Unfortunately, Ernest didn't let them have their way.

"You'll only be satisfied if I respect Cici's thoughts and yours. I'll hand over the headquarters to you, won't I?"

Wilson snorted and glared at Belle.

Mary subconsciously wanted to nod, but when she looked up and met Ronald's disdainful gaze, she instantly felt embarrassed. "Dad, don't you know what I'm capable of? I can't afford it. It's better to give it to Archer."

Wilson looked away and said, "In that case, what does it have to do with you?"

Belle seemed to freeze.

Wilson didn't want to talk to her anymore. He propped himself up on the table and struggled to get up from the chair.

Get Bonus

"I'm getting old, so I can't interfere much in the affairs of this shop. The last decision this time may be a little inconsiderate, but I can't think of a better one. If you young people feel that it's inappropriate, you can discuss it yourself. When you've discussed it, you can come here to change the rules. I won't say much about the rest. Remember to eat breakfast. No matter how big the matter is, it's not as important as eating."

Ernest propped himself up on the table. After saying that, he swept his gaze over them before turning around with difficulty.

It seemed that he had aged a lot overnight.

Since they parted ways at the hospital yesterday, he was still a vigorous man.

As Cierra watched him slowly walk out of the dining room, he felt a little sad.

When the figure disappeared, she withdrew her gaze and looked at the contract in her hand with some hesitation.

"I'm sorry if I don't sign it."

If she signed it, she might not be able to do it well.

“Just follow your heart. If it’s really difficult and you don’t accept Grandpa’s kindness, he won’t blame you.”

Just as she was feeling conflicted, she suddenly heard her mother’s gentle voice.

She was slightly stunned and looked at Sarah hesitantly.

The latter was still smiling as usual. His smile was so gentle that it seemed to contain everything and had the magic power to soothe people’s hearts.

She scooped up a bowl of porridge for him and placed the shrimp dumpling on the plate in front of her.

“Let’s eat first. Your grandfather is right. No matter how big the matter is, it’s not as important as eating. Your brother bought it for you early in the morning. Don’t disappoint him. As for other things, you can seriously consider them after the meal, or discuss them with your brother and uncle. Don’t worry about it alone. There are many ways, understand?”

Cierra looked at the transparent shrimp dumpling in front of him and blinked.

She listened to her mother. She didn’t say anything important, but her heart was in a mess, as if it had disappeared.

Her heart was clear, and her mind was empty.

Get Borts

Just as Sarah had expected, she stopped thinking about those things and focused on eating.

The shrimp dumplings were no longer hot, but it didn’t matter.

What’s more, there was the porridge cooked by aunt, which was just right.

There weren’t many shrimp dumplings in the box, and since Jaquan had bought them for her alone, she didn’t share them.

After eating a few shrimp dumplings, Cierra was almost full.

As soon as she put down her fork, a mocking voice came from the other side.

“Some people are truly hypocritical. They are clearly extremely selfish. Yet, they insist on acting as if they don’t want anything. It is truly disgusting.”

“That’s right, Mom. Just like one of the female stars I’ve been scolding recently, she’s just a nobody. I haven’t seen any of her works.”

Cherry chimed in from the side. She cut the sandwich with a knife and fork, showing a sense of superiority.

“Let me tell you something, Mom. The female star used to have a bad reputation. After signing a new company, she quieted down a little, but recently, she came out to make trouble. Some time ago, there was a very popular TV series, so she posted the name of the book on her account and hinted that she wanted to be the female lead. But what happened? The crew didn’t let her interview at all. Do you think it’s disgusting? No one supported her when she wanted to film. After being scolded, she pretended to be innocent and said that she didn’t know there was such a drama at all. How could she not know about such a popular book? Like some people, she said that she couldn’t bear the responsibility of a profitable company, and she probably wanted to take all the money!”

Hearing this, Cierra stopped wiping his mouth with a tissue.

She raised his black eyes and glanced at her indifferently.

It had to be said that Cherry was bad at making oblique accusations.

It was almost a clear indication.

However, before Cierra could say anything, she glared at her. “What are you looking at? I’m not scolding you!”

Cierra snorted. “I didn’t say you were scolding me. Why are you so agitated?”

Maybe because her thoughts had been seen through, Cherry felt guilty for a moment.

She rolled her eyes and snorted like Cierra. "Then why are you looking at me?"

Cierra raised her eyebrows. "I'm a little interested in the story of that starlet you told."

Cherry said proudly, "It's a well-known fact. If you turn on your phone now, you can still see her being scolded. In my opinion, if this actor wants to be famous, she has to change her name first. Otherwise, no matter how hard she tries, she won't be able to become famous. Hey, do you know what the star's name is?"

Cierra looked at Cherry with a gloomy face and tapped her finger on the table impatiently.

Seeing her gloomy face, Cherry thought that she was indirectly scolding her for being involved by Cierra, and the smile on her face became even happier.

"That celebrity's name is Lydia. Don't you think it's funny? It's the first time I've heard of such a funny name! It's so funny. I can only say that he deserves to be called a villain. She can even curse herself with a name..."

Boom!

The sound of bowls and chopsticks smashing directly interrupted Cherry's sharp complaint.