

The Desires of the King

19 ~ Prince Started Feeling for Princess

Rajvardhan POV

Standing beside the King as the Prince of Mahabaleshgarh, I was watching her bowing at everyone when Maa Saheb was introducing her to the Gems of our Kingdom. so many people help in running the politics and Empire smoothly. Especially, Yodha Singh Ji Who was our Army chief and well versed with the fighting techniques, From my childhood, he taught me fighting and Maan Singh Ji Who was the gem which could kill the enemies just with his brain. His brain was clever than foxes. I was trained by the best teachers of India, well versed in their respective fields, which helped me gain a lot of advantages at an early age. I was nothing without their support and teachings.

She was looking Beautiful in yellow attire like sunflowers but my favourite was the last night's one, Red for Roses. I still remember that she was not getting afraid of me anyhow even when I undid the knot of her blouse. She was too much to ignore and forget. Especially the way she shows and says that 'SHE IS A PRINCESS'.

I didn't know why I felt the perfect sleep of my life for the second time yesternight. I didn't know the perfume I didn't like anyone to use, Roses and sandalwood smell so different on her and it fills the nostrils of me like hitting my brain directly.

She was the one who started dancing over my head.

I saw her moving towards that Lizard Suryadev with Maa Saheb. And I was feeling as if he was going pass his poison in her but more than that I was curious as I wanted her reaction and from inside, Somehow I wanted her to be the victim, not the player because if she was proven the Player then No one on the Earth could save her from my hatred and brutal punishments.

Each moment was like a year for me, I didn't know why I wanted her to be a pawn, Why I wanted her to be clean. But, waiting for the moment and her reaction I was standing still.

She moved to him and bowed and then Maa saheb narrated his name. She looked at him and he was looking at her breast, I moved my fingers in a fist to kill that bastard. But, controlling my anger I was waiting for her reaction. She took a step back and I felt something twisted in my stomach.

He was continuously staring at her and I was feeling hell mad, How the hell he sees women? I felt disgusted by him standing against her.

His words rushed my anger to the nerves of my head by catching my attention " You are way more beautiful than your brother said" I could sense his flirtatious tone behind that words and that made my feet walk toward him and kill that bastard.

But before I could interrupt I saw her lifting her right hand and landing a straight right to the right cheek echoing the hall and grabbing attention that made everyone stand in shock.

Ouch...I couldn't hide my smile which I was trying by eating my inside cheeks. Tigress...

I felt happy from inside that somehow I was trying to hide. The slap was loud and hard and I was so proud that she gave it to him on time. And it proved what I wanted. That she never saw him before and she was not the one involved in the condition of Gulaab.

His face turned angry all of sudden and I had to move between them because anything could happen. He took a step forward to her but I came in between. I looked into his eyes and he was glaring death at me.

"You have to pay for this, You fucking whore" That was enough for me to kill that bastard right away. My fist swung in the air and landed right to his cheek that made him take a few steps back.

"Mind your language, Prince" I roared back in a deadly voice echoing the halls of court.

"Mind my language, My foot!!!" He said caressing his cheeks in an angry tone.

"She is My fiance, You took my fiance, I will kill you Rajvardhan," He said while taking his sword out and in no time everyone in the hall took their ones out filling the hall with the chiselling sound of swords.

I looked into his eyes and went a little closer saying "Why not? But not here, You are our guest now, Go back home and then think of a fight. We don't kill our guests." I said in a calm but daring voice.

"I will come back Rajvardhan and I swear after killing you, I will make this lady roam naked in the whole kingdom," He said pointing towards her and I closed my eyes to control my anger. Our Empire was best known for our ethics and I didn't want to bring that reputation down. But I will kill that bastard with my hands and serve to hungry and wild dogs.

Fisting my hands I looked at him, I could feel the sweat buds on my forehead as I roared. "GET THE HELL OF HERE"

He looked at me and her too and moved while saying " I swear I will make Mahabaleshgarh cry with bloody tears."

Walking away he disappeared and I try to calm my breath. I didn't know what was going to happen next but I felt a kind of relief with that slap of Princess but his words made me hell mad.

Turning, I looked at her and she was looking stunned by his words but Maa saheb patted her shoulder and then suddenly a manly voice grabbed my attention.

"Princess Abhishree," I looked at the Head Priest of our Empire, Who was looking angry. He was best known for his optimistic suggestions in political decisions. His words are considered last because nothing here was considered more than the Righteous things or Dharma.

I moved to him a little as I felt her moving forward to him too.

"Do you know, What you did?" he asked with an angry tone. (Aapko Andaza bhi hai aapne kya kiya hai)

"Yes, Priest" She replied calmly looking at the ground and I simply loved her response. (Ji pandit ji)

"In front of the King, the Queen, the Prince, you dared to slap a Prince, Do you even imagine what kind of consequences it could bring to the whole Empire," He said opening his hands in the air and I felt like, What the hell? She did the correct thing and He deserves more slaps than that.

But her voice caught my attention "I didn't want to disrespect anyone, Head Priest. But, I had to protect my self-respect." She replied softly. (Hamara irada kisi ki izzat ke saath khilwad karne ka nahi tha Pandit ji, lekin Hume apne aatm samman ko bachana tha)

"There are so many people present in the court. King, Prince, Army Chief, You didn't have to take such a step and it doesn't suit a wedded Princess to show such violent behaviour out of anger in front of such respectable persons. You are going to be The Queen for God's sake" He said with an offended tone.

"Sorry, I beg your Pardon Priest, But what could be Wedded Princess or The Queen if she can't even protect herself. He said the most disrespectful words in front of the King, the Queen and The Prince and I am the Princess. From my childhood, I learnt to protect myself and I don't scare in killing people when it comes to my self-respect" She finished while looking at me and I felt somehow the words were aligned to me.

"It means you don't trust your Kingdom," The head priest asked and somehow it started irritating me that how he was questioning her in front of all. I was not liking anyone interacting with her and she had to reply in front of all but I was feeling happy as she was impressing the hell out of me with her answer. Somehow I was enjoying the cold word war. (Iska matlab hai aapko hum logo par vishwas nahi)

I was looking at her and she was looking at me thinking of the answer priest asked. She had to tell that she accepted her fate or not? She had to tell us that she trust us or not? She had to tell, She was with me or still there a scope of her marriage with someone else.

Taking her time and looking into my eyes she replied "I do trust your Kingdom" and turn her eyes to Priest "But," I was a little taken away with that 'but'. Why there was 'but' in between?

"But respected Priest, I am a Satrap. I learned to move the sword with my hands. The King needs the Queen in the backend and what would be a Queen if she doesn't even protect herself. How she will protect her Empire when she was reliable on others for her safety and the thing is not about safety. He disrespects the Wedded Princess of your Empire and I taught him a lesson of disrespecting a Women and I will continue teaching if needed."She said looking at the ground and her words made everyone silent in the hall and I smiled. Tigress... Roarrrrrr

"Impressive," The priest said.

"So, daughter Abhishree. I was wondering why Prince married you in such a hurry. I even asked The King but he didn't have an answer but now I think I have an answer." He said while looking at me with a smile. (To Beti Abhishree, Hum ye janne ko utsuk the ki Rajkumar ko aapme esa kya dikha jo itni jaldi me shaadi ki, Humne Maharaj se bhi poocha lekin unke pass Jawab nahi tha parantu ab hamare pass hai)

"I think, you won our Prince's Heart with your beauty and fearlessness. And I feel so proud of you for being our Wedded Princess. You said it correct. The King and the Queen are two most important persons of the Kingdom and if they both are equally powerful, capable and intelligent then no one can stop the Kingdom from reaching heights." He said while finishing his words with "Please hail the name of Princess" He said loudly. What the hell? I don't have any heart, she didn't win anything.

"Live long Princess Abhishree," Everyone said loudly making her name echoed in the Mahabaleshgarh and I felt she won everyone's heart so quickly.

Sitting down she touched the feet of Priest and I joined her out of respect. He blessed her with something that made me smile.

"God bless you with the Son" She looked shocked a little, but covering up she moved to The King and from a metre long she touched the ground as if touching his feet out of respect and I Followed too, She did the same with maa saheb and I felt like she won the heart of everyone and gave me a sarcastic look that I didn't understand.

She left after that I stayed back for some meetings in the court. Everyone was alerted with the Suryadev's Warning that he gave. The discussion was made that we could expect a war soon. We had to get ready for it but I was getting curious about meeting her.

I wanted to meet her. I had a few questions but the meetings last too late afternoon and as always I had to eat lunch with the Royal peoples.

After saying goodbyes to the political and Prince's work. I moved to her chamber. I was not walking fast, angry but calm and had a few questions in mind.

I showed my palm to the announcer to not announce my presence.

I moved inside her chamber without making any noise and stopped a far away when I heard a familiar voice.

Chandramukhi, What the hell was she doing here?

"Don't you know Abhishree, Your Prince charming might be your Husband but his love is all mine? He doesn't even look at any girl but me." I heard chandramukhi saying from afar that made my eyebrow in a thin line.

"I don't care whom he looks or not" She spat back to her. Waohh... A fight going on.

"Ohh Really, Then what made you marrying him instead of that Old lizard," She said in her lustrous tone. "I know you wanted to marry my Prince, but keep a thing in you Brain that you will never get a chance of close to him," Chandramukhi said. What the hell was happening here? I couldn't decode anything and why the hell she was here in her chamber?

I walked a further and Abhishree looked at me. She walked towards me and meanwhile, Chandramukhi also noticed my presence.

She came in front of me and standing straight, by meeting my eyes with that fierce look she said that made something hurt in me. "I am not interested in Your Prince, his touch and his presence" She sounds really angry but her next move made me a shock more.

She bowed in front of me a little and said. " I beg your leave, Prince. I think you need Privacy" She said while glaring anger in my eyes and started walking away from me.

I looked at Chandramukhi who was smiling and taking her steps towards me. She stands in front of me seductively snaked her arm around my neck. First, I was shocked by her words and then this girl was really pissing me off.

"Get Out" I ordered calmly and with a flat tone. She looked shocked with my words but obeying me and bowing in front, she left the Chamber.

Looking at the empty room, I also moved towards out, My eyes were raking to the beautiful Chamber that righteously belonged to her. The way she behaved in the Court was expected somehow, but the words she said a few minutes ago was unexpected and shocking. I didn't know what chandramukhi said to her but somehow I didn't want her to know about me and Chandramukhi.

The way she slapped him in front of all, gave respect to everyone was making me feel something different. I did the mistake of marrying her forcibly out of anger but I hope she could understand why I got angry. I didn't know how much she knows about his brother and Suryadev but if I gonna tell her then she wouldn't believe me at all. She hates me. So, there was no way of telling her that.

Moving out, my sight fell on her lying in the garden attached to her chamber. She was calm and sitting alone and looking upset around the rabbits. Unknowingly I steps moved towards her but reminding her words that she uttered a few minutes ago made me move away from her.

I moved to her chamber and sat on the couch. I couldn't stop thinking of her. Lying on the bed and missing the last night's sleep, I was moving from here to there as I thought of passing my time.

I went out to dinner and came back to my chamber. Lying on the bed I was missing my last night's sleep but the words she uttered of not seeing my presence was stopping me to go to her chamber. How could she say that to me? I was the Prince for God's Sake. No one ever dared to talk to me like that.

I lied on the bed removing my upper and closed my eyes to sleep. I couldn't sleep, the images of whatever happened in the last month was too much to ignore and I was feeling a little bad for her. She loved his brother and he tried to sell her. She trusted him but he dared to sell her to that Suryadev. I wondered what could have happened if he married her.

Out of somewhere a Vision of Suryadev slamming his naked body into her came. He fucking her brutally made my heartbeat raced. I sat up instantly feeling a little not good. I grabbed the jar of water and filled my mouth by drinking it and some of it passed on my bare chest. And then Suddenly a beautiful girly voice caught my attention.

"Prince"