Chapter 41

Chapter 41 Anya did not know what she was doing at all.

if she did, there was no way on earth she would have the guts to hug the man. She even had the audacity to cling onto him like a koala bear as she said, “C—can you kiss me... please?”

Her words sounded simply beguiling. Evan’s eyes turned dark as he looked at her deeply Anya touched Evan with her soft hands. Even though Evan had a lot of self—restraint, he felt aroused. He looked at her even more deeply as though his eyes were about to suck her in. He held her wrist tightly as he forced the words out of his mouth. “Stupid woman.”

“Do you know what you are doing?” Anya shook her head innocently. How could she know? She was terribly giddy and felt sick.

“C-can you help me?” Anya bit her lip as she looked at Evan in a daze. She stood on tiptoes and caught. Evan by surprise as she kissed him squarely on the lips.

Evan felt electrified by her kiss. His eyes instantly turned completely dark. This woman's kiss tasted absolutely delectable.

After she kissed Evan tenderly, he could not resist her teasing and his usual restraint instantly collapsed. Their roles reversed and he took the Initiative to kiss her. He kissed her uncontrollably and could not stop.

Evan suddenly snapped out of his daze. This woman once schemed to get into his bed. How could he lust for her kiss?

Evan instantly shoved her aside. He quickly bent over to carry her while she was giddy and strode over to the bathroom and kicked its intricate wooden door. The door opened with a bang.

Evan carried Anya straight to the bathtub while she was in a daze. He pulled out one hand to retrieve the shower tap hanging on the wall and turned it on.

In an instant, warm water came gushing out of the shower tap like rain and came raining down on Anya. Evan finally turned off the shower tap when Anya calmed down and fell into a deep sleep.

He picked her up and carried her to the bed. He pressed the bell for housekeeping as he walked past the bedside cabinet. He called housekeeper to come over and change Anya.

After Evan was done making the call, he glanced at the woman lying in the bed before striding out without a thought.

Something was very wrong with him tonight. She was just another one of those women who plotted to get close to him. How could he have lost control and kissed her?

This was bad. Why did he not hate her? Evan narrowed his eyes as he pondered deeply over his actions.

Perhaps it was a pure one-off he lost control and kissed her tonight? Shortly after Evan left, a housekeeper came over with a fresh bathrobe to help change Anya. After the housekeeper was done changing Anya, her phone rang. Jake was calling her.

He had waited at the private room downstairs for a long time, but she had yet to return, so he was starting to get worried.

Even though it was against the rules for the housekeeper to answer a guest's phone, Jake called five or six times in a row, so she had no choice

The moment she opened her eyes, she caught sight of the unfamiliar posh ceiling.

Despite Anya's headache, she frantically shot up.

What on earth happened last night? Why could she not remember a single thing?"

Anya did her best to recall the events last night.

Jake had already taken care of her last night. He swiped the room key card and entered the room. "Are you up?"

He wanted to stay in the presidential suite to take care of her last night. Since she was a young woman, it was inappropriate for him to stay. So, he checked into the room next door after taking care of her for a while.

He only came in to check on her when he woke up in the morning.

"Mr. Hanson?" Anya opened her eyes wide as Jake walked in with the room's key card.

"Why do you have ve her room keycard?"

What happened last night?

Anya was dressed in the hotel bathrobe without any clothes on beneath it. She had forgotten everything and was on the brink of tears. "Don't worry. I booked a room next door," explained Jake when he noticed Anya's worried expression. He figured she must have thought her spent the night in the room with her.

Oh, Mr. Hanson did not spend the night in the room with her. But something was wrong here. How did she end up here? Anya clutched the blanket tightly as she asked, "Mr. Hanson, how did I end up here last night? | can't remember anything."

"Ms. MacMillan, sorry about last night," apologized Jake instantly when she brought up the subject. Jake asked her to come along to entertain guests so that he could spend more time with her. However, his guests harbored evil thoughts for her and one of them even almost forced himself on her. Jake felt terribly guilty. She felt her breasts enlarged as they were filled with milk.

Everything happened in a blur yesterday, so she did not have time to pump milk, so now her breasts were engorged and she was in a great deal

She hurriedly said, "Mr. Hanson, can you give me half a day off? | want to go home and check on my family." Jake naturally did not mind letting her come into work a little later since he was feeling guilty about last night. From now on, he needed to be more vigilant and refrain from taking her out to entertain clients. "Sure thing. Be my guest" sorry about last night."

Anya cleaned up and got changed Inside the presidential suite before she hurried back to Ellie's apartment.

Ellie called her many times last night. Since she had passed out, she did not answer a single time. Ellie must be worried sick. Anya quickly arrived at the apartment entrance and took out the keys to open the door.

Ellie was inside the living room playing with the children when she heard someone opening the door and promptly guessed it was Anya. She stood up to wait for Anya to come in.

The door opened. Sure enough, it was Anya.

Ellie looked excited to see Anya. She pulled Anya's hand worriedly to check on her. After Ellie was certain Anya was perfectly fine, she finally asked in relief. "Anya, where did you go last night? | called you so many times but you did not answer. | was worried sick.”

If Anya did not come back today, she might call the cops.

“I’m so sorry. | had to entertain some clients last night... | was busy discussing the project with them until very late at night.” Anya rarely lied to Ellie unless she had no choice.

Just like the current situation she was in. She could only tell Ellie a white lie, “My boss banned us from making personal calls, so | couldn’t pick up.

Anya explained guiltily. Since Ellie trusted her entirely, she did not suspect anything as she said, “I see. Since you did not sleep a wink last night, you should get some rest.”

“Oh yes, Does this i s mean you don’t have to go to the office today?” “| do, but | have half a day off and only have to go in the afternoon.” Anya nodded and headed to the living room with Ellie.

Her children were sitting on the living room floor playing with wooden blocks. The moment Anya walked over, her children stood up and tottered over to their mother. They swayed Anya’s arm as they hugged her with their chubby little arms and shouted sweetly, “Mama! Mama!”

“Kids... | am so sorry for not spending the night with you.” Anya squatted down and carried Nathaniel and Eudora in each arm as she apologized.

Nathaniel and Eudora could tell their mother was sorry, but they were not at the age where they could speak well. They could only hug Anya tightly and babbled unintelligibly.

Their mother was the best person on earth, so even if she came back late, they would not get angry about it since they loved her. “Anya, are you doing overtime again tonight?” asked Ellie as she sat down with Anya.

“Probably not” She reckoned that Jake would not take her out to entertain clients tonight.

“Good” Ellie smiled

“Let me

Chapter 44

Chapter 44 Fortunately, Evan had no intention of talking to her.

Evan's face even looked solemn as he felt he should ignore the woman. The woman was gradually making him lose control of himself,

After losing control and kissing the woman yesterday, he was left restless all night. He had almost never reacted this way before. He pondered restlessly, making him feel as though the night would never end.

She kissed him in the presidential suite. She tasted delectable. He lay in bed as he kept thinking about the taste of the woman’s lips when she

However, it did not change the fact that she was a scheming woman. How could he want to have anything to do with a woman like her? Evan stood in the lift in complete silence.

The lift door opened when it arrived on the 10th floor at JK Couture.

Anya hurriedly clutched her purse and ran out of the lift. She took off as quickly as a bunny and was terrified Evan would lose his temper. She ran all the way to the reception before she punched in and stopped to catch her breath,

The receptionist gave Anya a parcel while she was still catching her breath. "Ms. MacMillan, there is a package for a designer. Can you bring it over to your department?"

Anya immediately took the parcel and went over to Carol's office without giving it a second thought. Carol was a fully-fledged designer and a senior employee, so she had an office.

Anya knocked on the door, but no one answered. At this hour of the day, most of the employees ought to be back in the office from lunch. Why was Carol's office empty?

Anya

reckoned Carol must have stepped out for business.

Anya placed the package at her desk with the intention of handing it to Carol later when she got back.

However, she forgot how mean Carol was to her.

20 minutes into work after she placed the package at her desk, Carol came back to see Anya working diligently at her desk. She looked at Anya sinisterly out of jealousy. She walked up to the reception and deliberately checked for her package.

Since the receptionist and Carol were friends, she looked at the designers walking around as she said, "I have already placed it in your office."

Carol acknowledged her before heading to the office and pretended to look for the parcel.

After she failed to find the package at her desk, she shouted to her colleagues, "Have any of you seen my package? The items inside are very expensive. It contains crystal accessories worth over $1500 that my client needs urgently."

"Huh? Is your package missing?" asked someone in concern. "Did it get stolen? After all, those are very expensive accessories we are talking about." "Do you really think someone stole them?"

Everyone talked about it one after another. The moment Anya heard about the discussion from her corner, she glanced at the package at her desk before she finally realized she was being accused of theft.

1/2 Chapter 44 Anya was too careless,

Ever since Carol attempted to get Anya in trouble, she ought to have raised her guard. If she did not step forward with Carol's package now, there was no way she could explain why the package was with her.

Anya contemplated as she stepped forward and said, "I have your package, I sent it to your office earlier, but you were not in. I was worried it might get stolen, so I kept it on my desk waiting for you to come back."

The moment Anya finished talking, the designers who were speaking in hushed tones turned to look at her in shock.

It felt as though they did not believe her.

Who would place someone else's package at their desk?

"Did you take my package? Sure enough, Carol started to accuse Anya, "umysttavestoten it, right? Deydu now that the accessories in there are priceless?" The content is on Read the latest chapter there!

"I did nothing of the sort. If you don't believe me, you can ask the receptionist," replied Anya confidently.

“You thief Carol Immediately accused Anya and scolded her with Donna’s help, “JK Couture values its reputation. We only hire honest people here. How dare you ruin our reputation?”

“Thieves like you are not welcome in JK Couture,” scolded Carol smugly with resentment. She made it sound as though Anya was genuinely a thief. However, Anya did not do it at all.

Anya was not about to let them have their way. After all the things that happened to her a year ago at home, she had learned that she had to remain confident if she did not want to get pushed around.

Otherwise, they would just keep coming after her.

could not let that happen now.

“I will pass the package to you on my way into the office,” said Anya calmly.

“I did not take it. I don’t know why Donna is lying. She clearly told me to pass

Anya was not nervous at all.

Anyone could tell she was not the thief judging from the way she spoke confidently.

If she were genuinely the thief, she would have packed up and resigned when she was caught. How could she have the audacity to insist on her innocence when she was caught?

Donna could not help feeling awkward when Anya defended herself confidently.

“Y-you are lying... I did not pass you Carol’s package at all.” Donna was around the same age as Anya and were both interns fresh out of college.

However, since she did not suffer the same life experience as Anya, she was not as mentally strong as Anya. The moment Anya spoke with great composure, Donna got worried. Donna kept looking at Carol hoping she would defend her.

Carol detected Donna looking at her and said calmly, “You were caught red-handed. What more do you have to say for yourself?”

Anya instantly laughed coldly in her heart. She just knew it was impossible to clear her name. She pursed her lips as she said. "I did not lie and the surveillance footage can prove it."

"The surveillance?" Carol smiled. "How can you have the cheek to talk about the surveillance? You know fully well that it isn't working today and it."

She paused before she continued, "Oh. I forgot you weren't here this morning." Was the surveillance not working?

Anya was stunned. She did not see this coming.

Chapter 45

She thought the surveillance was working all along.

"How are you going to deny now?" Carol smiled. She said to the HR manager who was watching this go down, "Rina, she is a dishonest employee. Shouldn't she get fired based on company policy?"

Rina was a lot more sensible. She could tell Anya was not the type to steal. After all, no thief in the right mind would blatantly place stolen objects on the table after the deed was done.

It was simply stupid.

Rina glanced at Anya who remained confident and said, "Let's see what Mr. Hanson has to say after I report it to him." "Rina, are you taking her side?" Carol did not want to wait for Jake to hear of this.

After all, Anya was very good at seducing men.

What if Mr. Hanson changed his mind after listening to her denial?

How could she get rid of a slut like Anya?

"Why would I take her side?" Rina was speechless. Her actions were completely within company policy! The content is on Read the latest chapter there!
